The great apostle said, "To me to live is Christ, and to die is gain."—And that life-inspiring motto shone like a Pharos in his path, because Christ had brought life and immortality to light, and was the "Author of eternal salvation to all them that obey him." Hence, while he assures us that "the sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law," he triumphantly thanks "God which giveth us the victory (over both) through our Lord Jesus Christ." To a "life hid with Christ in God" the grave is without a victory, and death without a sting. This is not the oracle of blind Paganism, nor the logic of Grecian philosophy, nor the outcroppings of disappointment and discontent, but the sober speech of one who had seen Jesus, and had realized in his own deeply conscious experience the grand and momentous truth, that, "if any man be in Christ Jesus, he is a new creature, old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." Herein is the open secret of a Christian life, the philosophy of the mystery of godliness. This utterance and the testimony of irrefutable consciousness co-ordinate with the witness of the Holy Spirit. To experience this fact, to live this life, to defend this gospel, to die this death, was the sum total of his illustrious career as an apostle of Christ. He swept the Zodiac of a Christ-like mission as a flaming luminary, and vanished into the growing lustre of a still sublimer life where it was "far better!"

Brethren, these great fundamental truths address us to-day with rare and peculiar emphasis. We are dealing with the solemnities of two worlds. A great event has transpired. A sinner saved by grace has been translated to "the house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." His shining footprints are on the mountains of God. His life, like that of St. Paul, was lived in, for, and through Christ. And I have dwelt the longer on that life because it was the key to the life of our departed brother, and reflected the same principles, doctrines, and vital experience. The last had been impossible but for the possibility of the first; and both inconceivable, out of Christ.

Of our deceased brother I may say he was a venerable patriarch, an apostolic preacher of the gospel of Christ, a wise counselor, a public-spirited citizen, an enlightened patriot, a generous friend. He was a husband and parent of rare excellence, and was loved and honored in his family as few only are loved. He was a man of sterling intelligence and, withal, a spotless Christian. He lived only to be useful and attain the end of being—"the eternal life," "the unspeakable gift of God." He was neither a saint by nature, nor born to a spiritual fortune; but divine grace made him a son of God. "For, if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ;" and, "He that overcometh shall inherit all things: and I will be his God, and he shall be my son." Thus was he made rich with the wealth of God. But, while he lived a heavenly life, he was not above the liability of errors of judgment or human infirmities, and the possibility of mistakes, and, so, of possible misapprehension, and, hence, of criticism and misinterpretation. Marsden, the poet, said of the venerable Adam Clarke:

"Clarke had his spots:
And spots are in the sun."

But his work is finished, and few have done so well. When an honest laborer has rounded out his allotted period of work and received his promised reward; when a courageous soldier has fought the campaign from enlistment to discharge, and heard his employer and commander say, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord," does it become us to demur? When an estate is inherited, and the heir put in possession, it is a cause of much joy in all the household. To-day the heir is in possession. Let us rejoice. The occasion is one of joyous solemnity.

An old soldier, scarred with the conflicts of many a well-fought field, has laid down his unrusted sword and burnished shield, and furled the flag which was the cynosure of his unwavering soldierhood for sixty-four years, and been crowned a victor. Why should we lament? He could chant the Pauline anthem with a vision of the prize: "I am now ready to be offered up, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give to me."

Now, then, we may raise our cheerful voices and sing, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, for they rest from their labors and their works do follow them;" and our doxology shall be, "Thanks be unto God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Our deceased and honored brother died on the soil and not far from the family homestead where he was born. He grew up on the plantation, and received the education available at that early period. But the foundation once laid, his vigorous intellect and love of knowledge soon reared the fabric to superior proportions, and made him in many spheres of learning a master.

He entered the ministry in the full vigor of ripe young manhood, and became a pioneer in the wild forests and thinly settled frontiers in the days and surroundings that tried men's souls, when it required the fibre of steel for nerves, and the faith of a martyr for missions. They were days of huge circuits, long and weary journeys, meager accommodations, churchless churches, when the glad tidings were delivered to slender assemblies in shops, cotton gins, under the grateful shade of the sheltering oak, or in the open air. They were also days of fearful impiety and lawlessness; but they were also days of stalwart faith and exemplary godliness.

There were giants in those days—men of great intellects and greater hearts. And in their hands those days proved to be "the days of the Son of man"—days of the power of God. The cross was lifted up, Christ revealed, and the forest rang with anthems of holy gladness. The Lord's day was established; schools were opened, the interests of education cared for; the slave was not neglected, but to

Continued on Page Five.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1888.

WORKERS TOGETHER WITH GOD.

BY REV. NORMAN PLASS.

Workers together with God!
What should we doubt or fear?
We can no failure forbode,
With our heavenly Counselor near.

Workers together with God!
His presence inspires our hearts;
When we falter upon the road
His aid new courage imparts.

Workers together with God!
What though our triumph delay?
In the way of his choice we'll plod
Till the dawn of victory's day.

(Vincent and Holway's Lesson Commentary, Phillips & Hunt, New York.)

Sunday-School Lesson.—Oct. 28.

THE FALL OF JERICHO.

Joshua vi, 1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT.—By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days.—Heb. xi, 30.

TIME.—B. C. 1451, in April, a few weeks after the last lesson.

PLACE.—Gilgal, Jericho.

CONNECTING LINKS.—The first Passover in Palestine; the circumcision of the people; the cessation of the manna; the people eating corn and unleavened bread for the first time; the terror of the Canaanitish kings; the encounter of Joshua with the captain of the host of Jehovah.

1, 2. Now Jericho—This verse is parenthetical. It explains why the captain of the Lord's host appeared unto Joshua. Was straitly shut up—The original expression is peculiar and emphatic, and was doubtless designed to imply the extreme care and vigilance with which the gates had been closed and were watched, not only by night, as when the spies came, but also by day. None went out, etc.—That is, so firmly shut that no one could go out or in. And the Lord said—That is, after Joshua had loosed his shoes from off his feet, as commanded. (Chapter v, 15.) He who was before called the "captain of the Lord's host" is here called "Lord," or "Jehovah," thus clearly proving that it was a divine personage; for who else could promise and perform what follows? I have given into thine hand Jericho ... king—Joshua had been wondering how he was to take the city, walled as it was and stoutly shut up, and had, perhaps, been devising some plan of his own, when he was thus informed that God himself would interfere miraculously, and that neither stratagem nor force would be required. Mighty men—The proper rendering is, "I have given into thy hand Jericho and the king thereof (who are, or, although they are), mighty men of valor"—that is, experienced and powerful warriors, men with whom, if you were to contend on ordinary terms, you would be unable to cope, but whom, through my assistance, you shall utterly overthrow.

3. Compass the city ... once. Thus shalt thou do six days—Make a complete circuit of its walls daily for six days. The design of this whole proceeding was obviously to impress the Canaanites with a sense of divine omnipotence; to teach the Israelites a memorable lesson of faith and confidence in God's promises, and to inspire sentiments of respect and reverence for the ark as the symbol of his presence. But why this delay? The six days' operations, so far as can be seen, contributed nothing to the result, which might as well have been accomplished the first day. So men judge. In the present case the time seems to have been lengthened out to afford opportunity for a continual exercise of the faith and patience of the people, and also to impress the more deeply upon both the besieged and the besiegers the supernatural power by which the result was to be accomplished. The delay also allowed time for the news of this extraordinary proceeding to spread through all the country around.

4. Seven priests—Observe the significance here of the number: seven priests, seven horns, seven days of compassing the walls, seven repetitions of it on the seventh day. Among the Hebrews seven days were appointed as the length of the feast of the Passover and Tabernacles, seven days for the ceremonies of the consecration of priests, seven victims were to be offered on any special occasion, and at the ratification of a treaty the notion of seven was embodied in the very term signifying to swear, literally meaning to do seven times. (Genesis xxi, 28.) The number "seven" was thus impressed with the seal of sanctity as the symbol of all things connected with the Deity, with the subordinate notions of perfection or completeness. Shall bear before the ark—The ark of God with the tables of stone from Sinai hidden within was the genius. I had almost said the general, of that mysterious march; it was plain by every token that God, not man, was at work. Seven trumpets of rams' horns—Rather, trumpets of soundings, or, of jubilee. Not the long, straight trumpets generally used, but the same kind that were to be employed on the first day of the seventh month, and to announce the year of jubilee. This instrument was curved, and would be more accurately rendered cornet. Seventh day—Seven days together they walk this round; they made this, therefore, their Sabbath day's journey; and who knows whether the last and longest walk, which brought victory to Israel, was not on this day? Not long before an Israelite is stoned to death for his gathering a few sticks that day; now all the host of Israel must walk about the walls of a large and populous city, and yet do not violate the day. God's precept is the rule of the justice and holiness of our actions. Compass the city seven times—If we suppose that Jericho had a compass of an hour's journey, then a formal procession like this, which moved slowly, would require, at least, one hour and a half to accomplish it. This would give for the seven circuits ten and a half hours. But to this we must add the absolute necessary rests of, at least, a quarter of an hour each; and if we assume one after the first, second and third circuits, and so on to the end, the six will amount to an hour and a half. This added to the ten and a half makes twelve hours. The fall of the wall, accordingly, must have taken place near evening. The Sabbath would then be about over, and the work of destruction might begin.

5. When they make a long blast. All the people shall shout—This was to take place during the seventh circuit, at a concerted signal. Previous to that signal they were prohibited from uttering a word; the twelve circumambulations were to be in perfect silence, save the sound of the trumpets. The wall of the city shall fall down flat—Literally, underneath it—that is, the walls were to give way from their very foundations. Not absolutely all the wall in the whole extent of its compass, since that would have involved the house of Rahab in the destruction, which, it is plain, was not intended, nor did it happen. People shall ascend up, every man straight before him—Over the prostrate walls the Israelites were to advance into Jericho, and "each one straight forward," so that, as far as possible, their order should be preserved. Compare the march of the locusts, as described by Joel ii, 7: "Like men of war they climb a wall, and every one marches on his way."

6, 7. Joshua ... called the priests ... Take up the ark—The promptness of his unquestioning obedience to a command so unexpected, and so little in accordance with human reason, attests Joshua's unfaltering faith in his great Captain, with whom he had just been in council. He said unto the people—The plural is to be explained on the ground that Joshua did not make the proclamation to the people himself, but through the medium of the shoterim, who were appointed to issue his commands. In this proclamation the more minute instructions concerning the order of march, which had been omitted in verses 3-5, are given. Let him that is armed pass on before the ark—The reference is collectively to the armed host of forty thousand from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and eastern Manasseh. These, according to chapter iv, 13, marched before the ark of the Lord.

8-10. Before the Lord—Before the ark, called "the ark of the covenant," for it contained the tables on which the covenant was inscribed. The rearward came after the ark—The hinder part. The original comes from asaph, to collect, to gather up, and is equivalent to our military phrase, "bringing up the rear," and not improperly rendered in the margin, "gathering host." A rereward, therefore, is that portion of an army which, moving behind the main body, gathers up all the stragglers, takes care of any that may faint and fall by the way, sees that neither cattle nor baggage are missing, and protects or covers the rear of the host from the assault of enemies. Shall not shout, nor make any noise with your voice—These instructions demanded the exercise of the utmost self-control, and the exercise also of signal trust in him who had appointed such a mysterious method for the capture of the city. The injunction of silence was necessary that they might distinctly hear the signal for the shout in concert. Moreover, the very silence of a vast army marching in stillness around the city would either lull the inhabitants into a feeling of security, or fill their minds with fearful forebodings of approaching doom.

11-14. So the ark of the Lord compassed the city—The procession undoubtedly moved at a sufficient distance to be out of the reach of the enemy's arrows, and out of the hearing of their scoffs. Doubtless these inhabitants of Jericho made themselves merry with this sight. When they had stood six days on their walls, and beheld nothing but a walking enemy, "What," say they, "could Israel find no walk to breathe them with, but about our walls? Have they not traveled enough in their forty years' pilgrimage, but they must stretch their limbs in this circle? We see they are good footmen, but when shall we try their hands? Do these valu men think Jericho will be won by looking at? Or do they only come to count how many paces it is about our city? If this be their manner of siege, we shall have no great cause to fear the sword of Israel." Wicked men think God injest when he is preparing for their judgment. Came into the camp—On the evening of the first day and the six succeeding days they returned to their encampment at Gilgal to spend the night. Joshua rose early in the morning—The second day's procession seems to have taken place in the morning. In all other respects, down even to the smallest details, the arrangements of the first day continued to be the rule followed on the other six.

15, 16. On the seventh day, ... rose early—On account of the seven circuits they had to make that day. It is evident, however, that the militia only of the Israelites had been called to the march; for it is inconceivable that two millions of people could have gone so frequently round the city in a day. Shout; for the Lord hath given you the city—Up to this moment it is probable that the soldiers knew nothing of the mode by which the city was to be taken, yet they obeyed with alacrity orders which must have been totally dark with mystery. Verily this is worthy of enrollment among the signal victories of faith. "By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days." Toward the close of the seventh circuit, the signal was given by Joshua, and on the Israelites raising their loud war-cry, the walls fell down, doubtless burying multitudes of the inhabitants in the ruins; while the besiegers, rushing in, consigned everything animate and inanimate to indiscriminate destruction. Jewish writers mention it as an immemorial tradition that the city fell on the Sabbath. It should be remembered that the Canaanites were incorrigible idolators, addicted to the most horrible vices, and that the righteous judgment of God might sweep them away by the sword, as well as by famine or pestilence. There was mercy mingled with judgment in employing the sword as the instrument of punishing the guilty Canaanites; for while it was directed against one place, time was afforded others to repent.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

The enemies of Christ would not be so audacious, they would tremble with fear and hide themselves, had the followers of Christ more faith in God.

"Primitive Christianity saw the citadel of paganism fall before it. Allpowerful Rome fell prostrate when the gospel trumpet sent forth its sonorous voice into the midst of a down-trodden and decaying world. Thus, also, in a later time did the fortress of Roman superstition crumble into ruin before Luther's hymn, which embodies the whole spirit of the Reformation."—Pressense.

Biographical.

W. H. FOSTER, ESQ.

William Harrison Foster was born on Long Island, May 29, 1813, and was the son of Capt. Justus Foster, a native of New York, of English blood, a captain in the war of 1812-15. Mr. Foster's mother was a Halsey - Susannah Halsey; born October 5, 1774, on Long Island, at Oneck, in the township of Southampton, the daughter of Cornelius Halsey, of England blood. She was an excellent, pious Presbyterian, believing in the doctrines of the Presbyterian Church, and holding them in high estimation. She trained up all her children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord by weekly teachings of the catechisms and the Bible, and had the pleasure before she died of seeing nearly all the fourteen children members of the church, and occupying respectable positions in the world. She was as highly esteemed as any woman in the whole region. Her home was a place of resort for the young people.

Mr. Foster was reared on the old homestead, working the farm, gathering a little education in the winter at the district school, until his sixteenth year, when he determined to be a merchant. He went to New York, and engaged as a clerk in a retail dry-goods store, where he remained until twenty-one years of age. Having for two or three years previously felt a strong desire for an education, and seeing the necessity for one, he gave up commercial pursuits, and resolved to obtain an education.

He entered the academy of his native town (Southampton), where he prepared for college; and in 1837 entered Wesleyan University, Middleton, Conn., under the presidency of the Rev. Wilbur Fisk, D. D. He taught school several winters during his academic and collegiate course to raise funds to meet his college expenses. In 1838, after several earnest requests, he accepted a position to take charge of a class of boys in Mississippi, and lived in the family of Hon. Edward McGhee, near Woodville, Wilkinson county. In 1842 he moved to Louisiana, and turned his attention and devotion entirely to the study of law in the town of Clinton, under the instruction of Hon. Edwin T. Merrick. He was admitted to the bar in April, 1845, by the Supreme Court of Louisiana, and has practiced in New Orleans ever since. In 1847 he formed a partnership with George W. Race, and continued associated with him in the practice of law up to the late war, after which ex-Chief Justice Merrick was admitted into the firm. In 1881 Col. Race died, and the partnership with Judge Merrick was dissolved at the close of 1886. In January, 1887, Mr. Foster associated with himself Mr. A. H. Wilson, and together they continued their practice until Mr. Foster's death.

Mr. Foster became an Odd Fellow in 1846, in New Orleans, and passed all the chairs of the Lodge and of the Encampment, and has represented the Grand Lodge of the State in the Grand Lodge of the United States; and, as a Grand Representative, voted to elect his friend and associate, George W. Race, Grand Sire of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in the United States.

Mr. Foster was raised a Presbyterian, but when he went to live in New York he became acquainted with the Methodist Church, and fell in love with their simple form of worship, their earnest and faithful preaching, and their hearty, spirited singing, and gradually he became a constant attendant at Methodist meetings. In his seventeenth year he had the misfortune to lose his mother; an event which God made a blessing to him in leading him to seek the salvation of his soul. He was converted at the altar of the Forsyth Street Church, New York, October, 1830, and immediately joined the church under the ministry of Dr. Samuel Lucky.

In his nineteenth year he became a laborer, as teacher, in the Sabbath-school, in which labor, either as teacher or superintendent, he acted from that time to the close of his life. For thirty-six years he was superintendent of Sunday-schools in New Orleans. He was steward, trustee, class leader, Conference and General Conference delegate. At one time he was trustee of five different Methodist Churches in New Orleans.

In 1870 he was lay delegate to the General Conference at Memphis; in 1874 he was elected to the Louisville General Conference, but was not able to attend. In 1878 he attended, as delegate, the General Conference at Atlanta, and in June, 1882, was elected and attended as lay delegate the General Conference at Nashville. In 1881 the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South unanimously appointed him delegate to the Ecumenical Conference of Methodism at London; but his professional engagements prevented his acceptance. To have attained the honor of these distinguished positions from his start as a poor boy among strangers, is a record to which his descendants must point with a just pride, and which must be a perpetual incentive to them to follow his example.

In 1850 he assisted in organizing the Southwestern Bible Society, of New Orleans, auxiliary to the American Bible Society of New York, and was actively engaged in the Bible work several years before that, from 1842. Upon the decease of the first president of the Southwestern Bible Society, Hon. James A. Maybin, Mr. Foster was unanimously elected his successor as president of the society, and has acted in that capacity ever since.

In 1870 he projected the enterprise of an annual camp meeting for the city of New Orleans, which resulted in 1871 in the purchase of a camp ground of 100 acres, eligibly situated on the coast, midway from New Orleans to Mobile, near to and fronting upon the Gulf of Mexico, the finest location for a camp ground in all the South. This is the famous "Seashore Camp Ground."

Mr. Foster first married in the parish of West Feliciana, October 12, 1852, Miss Mary Jeanette Brewer, daughter of Rev. Calvin Brewer, of Wilbraham, Mass. She was a devoted Christian woman, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of a superior order of intellect, cultivated, intelligent. She died in New Orleans in 1858. Mr. Foster's next marriage, which occurred in Warren county, Miss., May 26, 1859, was with Miss Virginia Victoria Pettit, a native of that county, and the daughter of Rev. Absalom Pettit, of English blood, and of a Maryland family. Her mother was originally Rachel Frances Knight, of an Ohio family. She was a good wife and a devoted mother, and much devoted to the interests of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. She died on March 4, 1888. By this marriage Mr. Foster had seven children.

Mr. Foster was a working man, and was universally known to be so. He made it a point from early boyhood, when he left home, to do nothing that he thought his mother would not be pleased with. When he was converted and joined the church, he gave his heart to God. His next point was to endeavor to do his duty toward God, toward himself, and those around him. His success in life has been, under the guidance of Providence, attributable to his living with a conscience void of offense toward God and man. Persevering industry, added to good, natural abilities, is the undoubted secret of his success.

The Conversion of the Church.

"What, isn't the church converted?"

"Well, listen to me: A great deal is said and published about the conversion of the world and the conversion of sinners. It is read about in every religious journal, and is found the staple thought of many books, and dwells on the lips of Christians. It is true; we can not do too much for so grand and glorious a consummation. But there is another conversion that ought to be sought after with persistent zeal; and that is, the conversion of the church with her ministry. While the conversion of the world is made prominent, the conversion of the church ought to be made dominant. Every truly converted layman and preacher ought to pray and work for the conversion of the church. I mean not only conversion to Christ, but conversion to the Holy Spirit. This conversion is absolutely needed before we can expect the conversion of the world. The divine Master made it not only prominent, but dominant in his teachings; when he taught his disciples: 'Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of Heaven.' There is not enough meekness and gentleness and the simplicity and docility of little children about the laymen and ministry of the church. Where are the indications in these days of little children in the church? There actually seems to be more of the 'old man' than 'little children.' Little children are generally humble, confiding and loving, 'and thinketh no evil;' because simplicity is one of their chief characteristics, while they are free from suspicions and jealousies. Mary, who sat at Jesus' feet and heard his word with gladness, with artless simplicity never questioned the why and the wherefore of his teachings."

Now, reader, you see and feel the force of the thought: the actual need of the conversion of the church and her ministry. We must be brought back to the pure principles of humility, simplicity and love. The conversion of the world goes on slowly because the conversion of the church goes on slowly. Not many sinners are converted because no more Christians are converted.

The question is so often asked, What are you doing for foreign missions and the conversion of the world? But the question of all questions, the problem of all problems, ought to be: What are you doing for the conversion of the church and the ministry? Don't forget the world; but, above all things else, remember Zion, and the imperative need of her conversion to Christ and the Holy Spirit. The conversion to the Holy Spirit is just as necessary as our conversion to Christ in order to work with untiring zeal for the conversion of the world.

J. W. H.

From the Work.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

MR. EDITOR: The year's work is rapidly drawing to a close, and the pages of its history are being stored for future inspection and judgment. Some of them recount facts full of promise, while others tell of sorrows the Master will explain. The death of the Rev. John G. Jones is to many of us a personal bereavement; yet the sorrow is all ours, while it is his to experience a fullness of joy every way commensurate with his long state of preparation for an abundant entrance into the presence of his Lord. For three years I have been close to him in sweet Christian fellowship, and found him the most perfectly rounded character I ever knew. Touch him on any point of history, of doctrine, or of religious experience, and at once you were made to feel you were in the presence of a master in Israel. As I have heard him talk of his love for the Lord Jesus, and seen the holy fire kindled in his heart by the Holy Spirit flashing through every expression of his countenance, and then heard him talk of the long list of the saints in glory whom he had known on earth, I have caught myself almost wishing I could see him enter glory and the circle of loved ones gone before.

"Shall we know each other there?" Yes, Doctor; and shall remember and talk of the trials and victories of this life that will make heaven all the brighter and happier because we have had them. And, until we shall meet in the bright forever, we lay the sprig of acacia upon the new-made grave, the type of the fadeless life of our brother; and the tear-drop that sparkles in the sunlight shall tell of a sorrow that only heaven can heal.

The brethren of the Conference will be rejoiced to know that William Gibson Forsythe, the son of our dear brother, J. L. Forsythe, of precious memory, has been licensed to preach, and recommended to the Conference for admission on trial. May the mantle of the godly consecrated father fall upon the son! Also that Hicks Mences Ellis, son of our brother, J. A. Ellis, has been licensed and recommended to the Conference for admission. There will be five or six applicants for admission from this district this year.

We have had a revival in most of the charges in the district this year, and I think the accessions to the church will reach very nearly one thousand. In addition to this, the Bowerton and Gallman charges have each purchased a parsonage; Scotland has built one, and furnished it at a cost of $1,400, and Adams is building one equally as good.

J. M. WEEMS, P. E.

MANSFIELD, LA.

MR. EDITOR: Mansfield Female College opened with a brilliant outlook over a week ago. Our people here are taking hold of the institution with a new grip, and all are deeply concerned in its success. The local patronage numbered fifty the first day, and is increasing. The foreign patronage is weekly being augmented by the addition of three or four new girls, and we expect soon will rival our town attendance.

We commenced, under the most favorable auspices, a protracted service in the Methodist Church about ten days since. God has thus far owned and blessed our labors greatly. The church has been materially strengthened by the reception of some and the reclaiming of others. The meeting still continues to spread, widen, and deepen. Quite a number have already turned from the error of their way, been adopted into the family of Christ, and have sought the fellowship of the people of God "to increase their faith, confirm their hopes, and perfect them in love."

Our presiding elder and Bro. White are with us, fighting valiantly for the Lord. We want to take the whole town for Christ, and thus fit the people for life, and prepare them for death. To this end we earnestly solicit the prayers of all Christian people.

Yours, etc.,

A. D. M'VOY, JR.,
Pastor.

HAYNESVILLE, LA.

MR. EDITOR: The Lord has blessed the people of Haynesville circuit. Fifty-three accessions and eighty-two conversions up to date. The entire membership moved to be better Christians and do more and better work for Christ. Many have promised to hold family worship. Services at each church every Sabbath.

At Mt. Zion Camp Meeting we were assisted by Bros. T. B. White, J. A. Miller and Bro. Gold, of the Arkansas Conference. They all did good work, and souls were converted. At the other four churches I had did very effective work (laymen includes women on this work)—singing, praying, talking to penitents. Many of them were o that number that went out an helped the sinners to com
Twenty-six of the eighty-tw converts are sons and daughter of families belonging to the Mi sionary Baptist Church. So yo see, while we labor for the salva tion of sinners, the Lord blesse all alike. We are trying to ge our people to feel a deeper inter est in the salvation of sinners home and abroad.

Your review of the missionar report reveals some sad facts
One is, that we pay thirty-thre cents per member to foreig missions, while China pays $1 0 per member; and especially whe we read so much about profess ing sanctification, holiness un perfect love. The pulsation o our Christ-life is not only know by profession, but by what w give to have the heathen con verted to Christ; in other words we give as we love souls. If w love much, we give much. Oh how I long to see our churc reach that high spiritual stat that will cause them to give t missions for the love they hav for perishing souls! We tal and write much about liberalit among our members; that wil come when we, as a church, re ceive some of the sensations an realizations that Jesus Christ fel in the Garden of Gethsemane when he said: "My soul is ex ceedingly sorrowful, even unt death." We need to go in th
Garden with Christ and learn th true value of souls, and receiv
our part of that burden that mad his sweat as drops of blood
Then will the money pour in, an the messengers of Life will go like the morning light, to al nations, telling of the power o
Jesus to save.

F. G. HOCUTT.

MT. CARMEL CIRCUIT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: Protracted meetings have been held at the six appointments upon this work. At Good Hope, one accession; Mt. Zion, none; Santee, two; Williamsburg, four; Bethel, twelve; Mt. Moriah, eleven. The membership much revived; many pledged themselves to begin family prayer. As to the number of conversions, I did not try to enumerate—prefer to learn about that from their future godly life; many professed to be blessed.

Valuable assistance was rendered by Revs. T. S. West, P. E.; Paul Jones, George W. Brown, J. W. Welborn and William Linfield. Bros. Brown and Welborn are local brethren—old itinerants, and they did noble service. Through the efforts of Bro. Linfield a Woman's Missionary Society was organized at Mt. Moriah, of twenty-three members.

Bro. Linfield has been in charge of Providence circuit since June; and if his work at Mt. Moriah Church is an indication of his capacity and devotion, that circuit will be greatly advanced every way by his pastorate.

So far this year I have secured twenty-one new subscribers and fourteen renewals to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Rev. C. R. Dudley, of Crystal Springs, Miss., gave a ten-days' meeting to "Slago" Presbyterian Church, three miles east of Mt. Carmel, that netted fifty-three members.

One of our most excellent physicians, Dr. Robert Magee, of Mt. Carmel, suffered a stroke of paralysis, and died September 30, after a few hours' illness. He was a member of Slago Church.

A Baptist sister attended one of our meetings, having never heard a Methodist preacher. A local brother was filling the hour. She was heard to exclaim: "Well, I declare; that was real gospel preaching!" A Baptist brother was converted at one of our meetings, and went straight home and set up a family altar. Dr. Talmage may well say, "Bless God for the Methodist Church."

ROBT. B. DOWNER, P. C.

God, as Creator and Ruler of all things, moves in mystery. He maketh darkness his secret place; clouds and darkness are about him, and he directs us to be still and know that he is God. We must wait until we stand before him, redeemed, sanctified, immortal, for the full solution of what is often so mysterious here; for a lifting of the darkness which so often hides him from our feeble vision. And yet, this side the river, there come to us times when we think we see and understand dealings that were once dark and mysterious. A patient and prayerful waiting may make all things plain.—Evangelist.

The Public Schools.

That our thousands of readers may know exactly how the Roman Catholics stand on this question, we give below an editorial which appeared in the Morning Star, the Catholic organ in this city. It appeared in the issue of October 6:

Much can be said on this subject. Heart and soul, on principle, we oppose the public school system.

In a country of infidels, it would be a proper system. Among a people indifferent to all particular forms of Christianity, would be an admirable system. But here, as existing in our midst, we denounce the system as unjust, no matter what or how many so-called laws may be urged in its defense; as immoral in its tendencies, no matter what sophisms, mis-named arguments, may be advanced in its favor; as irreligious in its character and consequence, no matter how loudly its advocates may boast of its apparent benefit; as injurious to the well-being of society, no matter how it may be lauded as one of the main means of social progress; as one of the supreme humbugs of the day, which, because it is a humbug, has such a deep hold on shallow-minded people.

And first it is an unjust system. All are taxed for educational purposes; to all, directly or indirectly, in greater degree or in less, should flow the benefit of the tax. The tax is general; in the enforcing of it there is no religious discrimination made. But in the using of the tax there is religious discrimination, and that discrimination is not accidental—it is intentional:

Often the text books used, the rules and regulations, the details of the system, are anti-Catholic. Thus the Catholics of this country are forced to pay taxes in behalf of schools where their religion and conscience forbid them to send their children.

That system is immoral in its tendencies; for the simple reason that, just when the young minds need most of religion to mold their thoughts, they receive no religion at all, or if any, that style itself is sectarian. The system boasts of being liberal to all forms of religion. Liberality to all is in difference to each, bears a strong family resemblance to infidelity. They look like brothers. The system rejects religious influence, or, at least, employs such influence as sparingly as a miser uses his money. And yet the system pretends to educate—to educate the whole man—and, at the same time banishes just what man needs the most, the most essential element of true education—religion. It fills the head with smatterings of this, that and the other thing, but it leaves the heart void of religion. A heart void of religion will soon be filled—we need not say with what.

That the system is injurious to the well-being of society, because its education is false—false because it gives no place at all to religion.

And for the very same reason, we term it one of the many humbugs of this age.

This from Zion's Herald, of October 3, is interesting reading on the same subject, but on the other side:

The Burning Question.

It must, we are sure, be obvious to even the most casual observer, that this opposition at present being manifested by Romanists to our public school system, must tend to confirm the worst fears awakened by alarmists as to the ulterior designs of the Romish Church upon our cherished republican institutions; and to awaken withal well-grounded apprehensions and suspicions on the part of the American people generally, hitherto well disposed toward the hierarchy, concerning the influence and schemings relative to our politics, of the Pope of Rome.

The age in which we now live, happily, is pre-eminently "an age of good feeling." On every side sects and tribes are coming together. Things are apparently more and more working for peace, harmony, union, true catholicity. That good time coming, so long and so fondly dreamed of and patiently waited for by earnest men and women, that glad millennial day

"When hateful rivalries of creed,
No more shall make their rivals bleed," seems to be about to dawn. In the field there is to be heard but one discordant note—the brazen note now being sounded by this Romish Church. This church is still on the war-path. Its Ishmaelitish hand is still, as of yore, against every other body's hand. It seems to be a pestilently foreign element in our midst, and insanely bent on not becoming assimilated to the spirit and institutions of the republic.

This implacable disposition, on the part of the Church of Rome, toward our American institutions, can not but tend to perpetuate and to intensify the ancient, hereditary prejudice, on the part of our people, against Catholics, as well as their bitter hatred of Catholicism. To the same extent it must, of course, prove a perpetual source of bitter contention, and of social and of political unrest in the country.

This movement, besides, it seems to us, at once greatly wrongs the rank and file of the Catholic Church, depriving them of invaluable means of education for their children free of cost, and to the same extent naturally disqualifying them for intelligent and loyal citizenship; and belies them, also, for there is reason to believe that the great majority of our Roman Catholic citizens are entirely satisfied with our public schools as they are, and abandon them, if at all, only at the stern behests of the priesthood, and through fear of excommunication in case of disobedience. What a pitiable spectacle! Meantime, favored with the benefits of popular education for a few more generations, we most confidently believe that an arbitrary, despotic priesthood would no longer thus be able to play on the ignorant, superstitious fears of this long-suffering people, and, by holding this threat of purgatory in terrorem over them, to hustle them thus like "dumb driven cattle" into their ecclesiastical shambles. And precisely the fear of this result it is, doubtless, that inspires the present uprising against the public schools. The Catholic commonalty must be kept in ignorance, in subjection to the wiles of priestcraft—a great un-American mob, an imperium in imperio, an element of utter weakness and of deadly peril in the bosom of the body politic.

Meantime, if Catholics are honest in their pretended belief that our public school system is so pernicious in its influence, why do they not make haste at once to get out of it utterly? Surely, under the circumstances, the least they can do is to resign their places on school committees, and to cease to strive to control the system itself. The very fact of their exerting themselves, as they are doing, so ardently to occupy and to hold these places of authority and power, shows either that they are not sincere in their denunciations of the system, or that they hope, getting control of it, to work its ultimate overthrow, or to pervert it to their own private sectarian use.

Woman's Work.

The Ruth Neblett Memorial Missionary Society held its second annual meeting on August 15, 1888, in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Iuka, Miss. It was attended with success and interest. The money collected was $33 85, five dollars of which was donated by the president, Miss Mary Adams, and appropriated to the fund for "special work," to aid in building a home for Miss Lochie Rankin, in Kading.

Let all the members who have not yet paid their annual fee of fifty cents remit at once to the treasurer, Miss Ines Alexander. Be it understood that the society will meet annually on Wednesday, about the middle of August. All communications concerning the society may be addressed to Mrs. Blanche Hodges Hughes, corresponding secretary, Meridian, Texas, or, Miss Alice Hyatt, assistant corresponding secretary, Iuka, Miss.

Romance of Literary Discovery.

To the merest accident have we been indebted for the preservation of volumes which are justly considered to rank among the most precious relics of literature, and not less remarkable than the discoveries themselves is the fact that they have often been made at a time when further delay would have made them impossible. This has been particularly noticeable in regard to the remains of classical literature. In a dungeon in the Monastery of St. Gall, Poggio found, corroded with damp and covered with filth, the great work of Quintillian. In Westphalia, a monk stumbled accidently upon the only manuscript of Tacitus, and to that accident we owe the writings of a historian who has more influence, perhaps, upon modern prose literature than any ancient writer, with the solitary exception of Cicero. The poems of Propertius, one of the most vigorous and original of the Roman poets, were found under the casks in a wine cellar. In a few months the manuscript would have crumbled to pieces and became illegible. Parts of Homer have come to light in the most extraordinary way. A considerable portion of the Iliad, for instance, was found in the hand of a mummy. The best of the Greek romances, the Ethiopics of Heliodorus, which was such a favorite with Mr. Browning, was rescued by a common soldier, who found it kicking about the streets of a town in Hungary. To turn, however, to more modern times, everyone knows how Sir Robert Colton rescued the original manuscript of the Magna Charta from the hands of a common tailor, who was cutting it up into measures. The valuable Thurloe State papers were brought to light by the tumbling in of a ceiling of some chambers in Lincoln's Inn. The charming letters of Lady Mary Montague, which have long taken their place among English classics, were found in the false bottom of an old trunk; and in the secret drawer of a chest the curious manuscripts of Dr. Dee lurked unsuspected for years. One of the most singular discoveries of this kind was the recovery of that delightful volume, Luther's Table Talk. A gentleman, in 1626, had occasion to build upon the foundation of a house. When the workmen were engaged in digging they found "lying in a deep, obscure hole, wrapped in strong linen cloth, which was waxed all over with beeswax, withia and without," this interesting work, which had lain concealed ever since its suppression by Pope Gregory XIII. We are told that one of the cantos of Dante's Paradiso, which had long been mislaid, was drawn from its lurking place (it had slipped beneath a window sill), in consequence of an intimation received in a dream. One of the most interesting of Milton's prose works—the essay on the Doctrines of Christianity—was unearthed from the midst of a bundle of dispatches by a Mr. Lemon, deputy keeper of the state papers, in 1823. As years roll on and curiosity is more and more awakened, such discoveries must become rarer; but probably many precious documents are still lurking in unsuspected corners, and not a few literary discoveries remain even now to be made which will, when made, immortalize the fortunate discoverer.—The Spectator.

History furnishes no parallel to the popularity of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. 25 cents.

Johnny has stumped his toe; poor fellow! Quick—buy a bottle of Salvation Oil.

TEMPERANCE FABLE.—The rats once assembled in a large cellar, to devise some method of safely getting the bait from a steel trap which lay near, having seen numbers of their friends and relatives snatched from them by its merciless jaws. After many long speeches, and a proposal of many elaborate, but fruitless plans, a happy wit, standing erect, said: "It is my opinion that, if with one paw we can keep down the spring, we can safely take food from the trap with the other." All the rats loudly squealed assent. Then they were startled by a faint voice, and a poor rat, with only three legs, limping into the ring, stood up to speak:

"My friends, I have tried the method you proposed, and you see the result. Now, let me suggest a plan to escape the trap. Do not touch it."

Dyspepsia

Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind, and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia. Read the following:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." G. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

N. B. Be sure to get only

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

MISCELLANEOUS.

If You Have

no appetite, Indigestion, Flatulence, Sick Headache, "all run down," or losing flesh, you will find the remedy you need. They tone up the weak stomach, build up the flagging energies as no other medicine will, and

Tutt's Pills

CURE CONSTIPATION.

To enjoy health one should have regular evacuations every twenty four hours. The evils, mental and physical, resulting from are many and serious. For the cure of this common trouble, Tutt's Liver Pills have gained a popularity unparalleled.

HABITUAL CONSTIPATION

A TORPID LIVER

deranges the whole system and produces

Sick Headache,

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Sallow Skin and Piles.

There is no better remedy for these frequent diseases than Tutt's Pills, as a trial will prove. They should be found in every household. They are perfectly harmless, reliable, and can be taken without restraint of diet or occupation. Plain or sugar-coated. Sold everywhere. Price, 25c.

Office, 44 Murray Street, N. Y.

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age.

Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. HUET'S FIGH,

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mole by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure. W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS J. BUCKLEY,
471 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 17, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchilis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

HENRY V. MIELLY,
With Rice, Horn & Co., 57 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.

Microbes Cause All Diseases

WM. RADAMS'

Microbe Killer

Cures All Diseases.

This indisputable assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

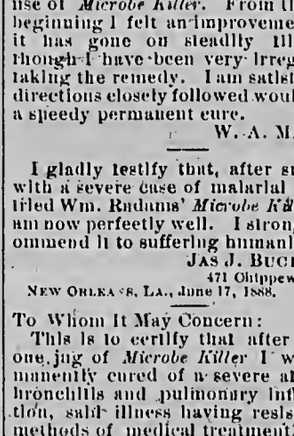
Call or write for testimonials of cures made

M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,
149 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

RICHARDSON & BOYNTON CO.'S

"PERFECT"

HOT-WATER HEATER.



J. H. AITKEN & CO., 110 Camp street, Sole Southern Agents.

"PERFECT" HOT-WATER HEATER.

(The Most Powerful Water Heater ever Constructed.)

Has 2½ times more Square Feet of Hot-Water Fire Surface; hence capable of Heating more Square Feet of Radiation than any Heater ever made.

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER,

274 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans AND Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,
CHATTANOOGA,
CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.

	No. 2, Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian	9:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington	4:10 p. m.	3:43 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.

	No. 1, Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati	7:66 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City	11:45 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla	9:49 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham	11:45 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis	[illegible]	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian	4:[illegible]	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans	11:[illegible]	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, [illegible]

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1, Fast Mail, 9:00 a. m.	No. 2, Fast Mail, 5:00 p. m.
No. 3, Express, 6:25 p. m.	No. 4, Express, 8:00 a. m.
No. 5, Bat. Rouge accodation, 10:00 a. m.	No. 6, Bat. Rouge accodation, 3:45 p. m.

Nobile daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville, Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans at 8 a. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harrisbon for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. P. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Con'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Texas and California Ex- press	Leaves.	Arrives.
	8:35 A. M.	7:00 P. M.
Baton Rouge Local	3:50 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

This train has also Pullman Sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Trav'g Passenger Agent.
R. W. McCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
No. 1.....9:00 am	No. 2.....5:00 pm
No. 3.....6:25 pm	No. 4.....8:00 am
No. 5.....10:00 am	No. 6.....3:45 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:55 am	No. 4 F'st Ex....7:00 am
No. 1 F'st Ex....7:20 pm	No. 6 Coast....3:40 pm
No. 5 Coast....9:05 am	No. 2 Lim. Ex..3:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r. 11:00 pm	No. 2 Passen'r. 3:15 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim....7:30 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 53 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:35 am
B. Rouge, local, 10:30am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 3:25 pm	No. 18 Local....7:30 pm
No. 17 Local....6:55 am	No. 20 Califor..11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.
(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 1, Lim'd ..11:00 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....3:35 pm
No. 3, Fast Line. 6:30am	No. 6, Fast Line. 3:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 6:30am	No. 6, Fast Line. 3:00 pm

P. AND F. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am	Leave.....4:00 pm

Sunday Schedule.

Arrive.....7:25 pm	Leave.....7:30 am

IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE.

3 Daily Trains 3

—FROM—

TEXAS and the SOUTHWEST

—TO—

ST. LOUIS and the NORTH.

Equipped with PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS and Free RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

New Line via MEMPHIS EXTENSION,

Equipped with PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS, —BETWEEN—

LITTLE ROCK and MEMPHIS.

H. C. TOWNSEND,
Gen'l Passenger and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

JENKINS' HOUSE,

NOW OPEN

For the reception of Permanent and Transient Boarders.

COR. ST. CHARLES AND POYDRAS STS.

Entrance, 151 Poydras Street.

$1.50 per DAY.

GOOD BOARD. COMFORTABLE ROOMS.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849. Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,000

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Desirable Fire Business.

W. R. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICK, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

G. WOLF,

—MANUFACTURER OF—

GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES

(Formerly of 130 Common Street)

54 ST. CHARLES STREET,

Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Orders promptly attended to.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing (a saving of from $3.00 to $4.00) by subscribing for

THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

—AND—

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR

—FOR—

$3.25 (THREE TWENTY-FIVE).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC, SCIENTIFIC, AND HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon order entitling the holder to the selection of any pattern illustrated in the fashion department in that number, and in any of the sizes manufactured, making patterns during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the best TWO Dollar Family Magazine Issued. 188 will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so extensively as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8¼ x11½ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York,

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Christian Advocate at $3.25 Per Year

60 YEARS IN USE.

A Physician says, a sovereign remedy for worms.

Having used the original "B. A. Fahnestock" Vermifuge in my practice for many years, I have no hesitancy in recommending it as a remedy which is safe, reliable and efficient in all cases where a Vermifuge is needed.

THOS. H. HANDY, M. D., Cambridge, Md.

Observe particularly that the initials are B. A. thus avoiding imitations.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:

REV. T. A. S. ADAMS, D. D. REV. J. T. SAWYER.
REV. W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1888.

The annual meeting of the Publishing Committee of this paper will be held in the office, 112 Camp street, Wednesday, October 31.

C. W. CARTER,
Chair'n Committee

An Educated Ministry.

This subject is becoming one of first importance, not only among Methodists, but also among churches which have hitherto boasted somewhat of being ahead of us on this line. The last General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church: North, appointed a special committee to take into consideration the whole subject of education for the ministry, and to prepare a circular on the subject, and send it forth to all the churelies. It also appointed the first Sunday in October as the time when the subject should be considered. We suppose this meant that the preachers should preach about it and the congregations pray over it. It is evident from this action of the Assembly that a lively sense of the magnitude of this interest was felt by it; and this proceeding was had in order to develop in the churches a sense of obligation with respect to the matter.

In several of our exchanges we have seen the circular sent forth by the committee. The financial exhibit for the past year shows but slight advance upon the contributions of last year, while the number of candidates increased from 696 to 739. A largo proportion of churches made no contributions for the education of the ministry. Upon this showing, the significant question is asked: "Is it not vital to the success of this agency that the aggregate of gifts to its treasury should keep pace with the aggregate of worthy applications for such aid?" Most assuredly, or else both candidates and churches must suffer loss. The circular, however, does not consider money the chief point. It says: "The problem to be solved is one not of money, but of men. To this deeper problem of men properly trained for the ministry and sufficient in numbers to meet the constantly enlarging need of the church we specially solicit the thoughtful consideration of all who are interested in her welfare." Here are two points we ask our people to think over: "The constantly enlarging need of the church," and, "Men trained properly for the ministry." Our great country is enlarging the borders of her civilization in every direction, especially westward; and everywhere doors are opening for the entrance of the gospel. But these modern "borders of civilization" are very different in character from what they were fifty years ago. The ignorant backwoodsmen and their ignorant families are nearly all gone. Those places now calling for the gospel have been settled, in the main, by men and women from the very centers of refinement and culture; and they have no more use for an uneducated ministry than Philadelphia or Baltimore!

The circular gives some statistics which, to our mind, show that our Presbyterian brethren have cause for alarm. It says:

During the last five years the net increase in the number of our churches was, at least, 570—an average of 114 annaally—while the net increase in our ministry was but 448—an annual average of nearly 90. The disparity between churches and ministers in 1883 was 632, but in 1888 this disparity rose to 754—a relative diminution of 122; in other words, the roll of ministers has failed to this extent to keep parallel with the ever-enlarging roll of churches. But the most remarkable fact in the case is that of the increase of our ministers during this period; no less than 277 (or more than sixty per cent.) have come in from other denominations. The gross additions from such foreign sources have amounted to 82 annually, and the net annual increase has exceeded 55. Apart from these accessions from abroad, the increase in our ministry would have amounted to little more than the decrease—110 annually—caused by death. If we should now close the door to these foreign additions, our church would at once become utterly incompetent to maintain its present rate of development; a net decrease of fifty-five ministers annually would involve not merely a large arrest of growth, but in the end nothing less than denominational weaknoss and decay.

A church that receives sixty per cent. of its ministers from other denominations may well call its membership and ministry to "a thoughtful consideration" of the subject. Such a church can not be in a healthy condition, nor can such "foreign" additions to her ministry do her work as well as men trained at her own altars and in her own methods. David could not go in Saul's armor; and Saul going out against the giant with David's sling would have lost his head! What overy church needs is an "indigenous ministry"—men raised and developed and educated and trained upon her own soil, and by her own firesides—men who have taken in the denominational spirit with their mother's milk, and have grown strong and hardy feeding upon denominational traditions and usages and doctrines.

The circular concludes in these strong words:

Speaking for the church and for her Master, we may properly summon each and all to a higher appreciation of the vital need we have described, and to greater diligence and zeal in providing for it; for without a ministry adequately trained according to our denominational standards, and sufficient in numbers, what is to become of home missions, of foreign missions, and of all the other departments of our denominational work? We regard this need as central and controlling—a living, active, sufficient and efficient ministry is the indispensable condition of success at every other point. To produce such a ministry must be the primal mission and function of the church.

And so we say in regard to our own church. Whatever we have done in the past—and we have done something in this country for God and humanity—our special need for the future, our only hope of success, is a trained ministry to lead the hosts of God.

St. Louis Notes.

BY REV. S. H. WERLEIN.

The forty-first session of the St. Louis Conference was held at Bonne Terre, a little mining town about sixty miles south of St. Louis. The place is appropriately named, as the earth there abounds with mineral, especially lead; and it is thought the supply will last for centuries. The daily output is 80,000 pounds, and sells for about three cents per pound, making an immense revenue.

Bishop Hendrix presided. His thorough acquaintance with the entiro State pre-eminently qualifies him to man the important places in this rapidly growing commonwealth. The Conference makes a fine appearance. A large number of the men are transfers. Their reception was kind and generous. The aversion of some Conferences to transfers does not seem to have invaded the bosoms of these Missouri preachers. They would never think of passing resolutions declaring the inexpediency of drawing on other Conferences for re-enforcements. They realize the connectionalism of the church; and, in this respect, a few other Conferences might not unprofitably take a lesson. We are advisedly informed that a few more transfers are being watched for. The itinerant wheel took eight men out of and placed seven new men in the Conference. This is the record for 1888.

THE WAY IN ST. LOUIS.

The church in St. Louis is on a boom. A remarkable quadrennium has just passed. Two brand-new churches, beautiful for situation and delightful to behold, have gone up. Nothing more handsome can be found in the whole connection.

A consecrated layman, Bro. R. M. Scruggs, saw the need of a church in the neighborhood of Cook avenue, and undertook its construction. The building is valued at between sixty and seventy thousand dollars, the most of which he himself subscribed. Two or three years ago it was dedicated. Dr. F. R. Hill assumed charge of it two years ago, and found a nucleus of about 136 members ready to welcome him. To-day it has a membership of 355, and is constantly increasing. It bids fair to be abreast with the strongest of our churches in another year. There is an enthusiasm in such a work. Verily, God shows his acceptance of the gift by the gracious manifestations of his presence among that devoted and zealous people.

South St. Louis (one of the grand divisions of the city) had two Episcopal Churchos, one large Presbyterian, two Congregational, a Baptist Church, besides Romau Catholic and Jewish organizations; but, with the exception of two small congregations, no representative Southern Methodist Church. Valued members of our church, residing too far for regular attendance at their own churches, were being enticed into other folds. It was patent to all interested that we must enter the field. A lot had already been secured, but no edifice had yet graced it. An appeal was made by the presiding elder, Rev. Dr. T. M. Finney, to all the churches. Leading laymen, at his request, were present at specially called meetings in the different churches, and spoke of the urgent needs of the neglected field—a field as attractive and promising as any in St. Louis. One by one, the churches responded. St. John's headed the list with a subscription of about $20,000, much the larger part of this amount being donated by a single layman—Bro. Samuel Cupples, whose well-timed liberality secured the new structure. Then the other churches made cheerful response, until the whole amount—over $42,000—had been pledged. On April 8, of this year, that church (now known as Lafayette Park Church) was dedicated by Bishop Hendrix.

There was a church, complete in every detail, paid for, and without a single member. Its pastor had arrived, but sheep had he none. The doors were thrown open, and the public invited. At the first service about one hundred and twenty-five persons applied for membership. The majority of them brought letters, but about fiftoen for the first time expressed a desire to accept Christ. At the Conference, whose session has just been mentioned, the pastor reported tho present membership 223. This is the latest fruits of the grand spirit of unity which prevails among the churches here. It is indeed a monument, which shall for years to come perpetuate the cementing of St. Louis Methodism in the bonds of brotherly love.

A few weeks ago a union love-feast was held at First Church, to which the members of the other churches were invited. It was a fitting close to Dr. Finney's term of office as presiding elder of the St. Louis district. There were present at that love-feast some of the historic figures of early Methodism in St. Louis. You should have heard them speak! They told of the day when Methodism first made its appearance in this city, and reached back to the time when there were only three members of our church here. "Behold what God has wrought!" exclaimed a brother. It was a time of great rejoicing. The pastors each spoke, and then came the grand handshake and the mutual pledges to meet one another in the courts of Light.

St. Louis, which, in some quarters, does not bear the best reputation for piety, has in it some of the most saintly people. Be it remembered that when the world was most corrupt, and the dark signs of the coming catastrophy were descried, it was written of that man of God—"And Enoch walked with God." While the great cities can boast of having the most abandoned, devil-possessed of men, the whitest saints who walk the earth can be found in these same cities.

The history of St. Louis Methodism will give a goodly place to the career of Dr. Finney, the devoted, indefatigable and persistent servant of the church. He is a model presiding elder, and inspires the preachers in his district with his own confidence of success. By a happy division of the St. Louis district into two new districts his services will be continued, God willing, another quadrennium in this field with which he is so familiar, and to whose development he has dedicated his life. He has a grand scheme for aggressive work in the future; and, backed, as he is, by the churches, the success of the enterprise may be confidently expected.

Our branch of Methodism occupies the field here, and we are practically demonstrating its ability and fitness to do so. The population of St. Louis (numbering about 500,000) is necessarily cosmopolitan. North, South, East, West are all represented; and our church is sufficiently unsectional to offer a spiritual home to those coming from every section. If the present policy of aggressive work shall be unhindered, I do not hesitate to predict that what New York is to the Methodist Episcopal Church, St. Louis will be to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The suffix "South" is somewhat of a hindrance when we attempt to cross over the border. Some of our Northern friends ask whether we mean to make them Democrats or sympathizers with the South. An average Southern Methodist Church in St. Louis has a membership representing Confederate and Union soldiers, Democrats and Republicans, Prohibitionists and high license advocates, and those on both sides of the tariff question That is what this scribe calls a catholic church, indeed! No matter what our war record is, our church to-day is sufficiently unpolitical to invite into its communion the representatives of all political schools.

THE PERSONNEL OF THE PULPITS.

There stands John Mathews, with his pleasant and attractive peculiarities. He declares that as he matures towards longevity he is getting "less starchy." He believes in shouting, and claims there isn't a happier man in the world than he is. The people flock to hear him. He is said to be the youngest old man in the Conference. He wont reveal his age; so people surmise that he must be old while he seems so young! His labors last year resulted in about 350 accessions to Centenary Church. The present membership of that church is 1,009.

The courteous, sweet-spirited Messick holds the fort at St. John's, greatly to the delight of the people. He is able and winsome.

F. R. Hill has given proof of his exceptional abilities to organize and drill a new church. The churches are loud in his praise.

Our young Bro. Early, from Tennessee, is demonstrating his ability to work among the Americanized German element, in the midst of which his church, St. Paul's, is located.

Ledbetter, fresh from Georgia, a year ago, is stirring up Belle Fontaine, and finds the spring-chickens there more delectable than in old Georgia.

First Church lost in the transfer of Hammond to the presidency of Central College a man of such type as does not abound in the world. They felt their loss. Central College delighted in its good fortune, and the St. Louis District Preachers' Meeting felt keenly the absence of its faithful secretary. Dr. Hammond is scholarly, forcible as a speaker, and most lovable as a man. Various were the speculations as to his possible successor. Judicious eyes glanced all over the connection. A dozen names were mentioned. Claude Chilton, late of Kansas City, was selected by Bishop Hendrix. Of this young man, Dr. Mathews, who has known him from childhood, says: "He can play the fiddle, write poetry, improvise sermons, and play the part of an universal genius."

Josephus Stephen, formerly of Houston, Texas, follows Mays at Marvin Chapel. This young preacher, three years ago, found the Bonne Terre Church with a membership of less than thirty, and without a church structure. At the end of his three years' pastorate there he can point to over 300 members and a neat and commodious editice.

Bro. Mays, appointed to the South St. Louis district, starts off with vim.

What Methodist metropolis in the whole South can support two such religious weeklies as emanate at St. Louis! Dr. Godbey, of the Southwestern, and Drs. McAnally and Bounds, of the Advocate, are the live editors who, with trenchant pens, supply wholesome and edifying mental pabulum for the people.

Of the pastor of Lafayette Park Church you will not expect this scribe to talk. Some have expressed surprise that the swamps of Louisiana could produce such a physical phenomenon.

The present, with its pressure of work, can not efface from the heart the dear old associations of other days. Sweet, indeed, are the memories of old Felicity, and hallowed the thought of some whose faces have vanished from among the living!

We hear many exhortations on the subject of giving to the Lord. Men and women are frequently sent out to solicit contributions for various benevolent purposes. Preachers of all denominations are expected to do a fair share of begging to meet the exigencies of church enterprise and progress. Even the children of the Sunday-schools are being pretty well drilled in the exercise of collecting for the church. And yet apparently very little is being done in the way of sowing the seeds from which this army of reapers are to gather their expected harvests. What preacher ever preaches about the duty of making money to meet these demands? What man of energy and industry cultivates his farm or drives his business that "he may have to give to him that needeth"? In a large majority of cases the motive that prompts money-making is selfishness; it is not that which Paul speaks of as the legitimate one.

"But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth." A profane paraphrase on the above is: "A silver dime always makes more noise in the contribution-basket than a five-dollar bill."

Notes.

Rev. G. G. Smith, of Georgia, having spent some time in New York City, and visited the Methodist Preachers' Meeting several times, writes to the Nashville Christian Advocate: "I don't think preachers' meetings anywhere are a means of grace, and I am inclined to think preachers would love each other better if they did not meet on Monday morning."

The Evangelical Messenger, speaking of the different grades of men, uses this illustration:

It was designed that some should be high, some intermediate, and some low, as trees are: some thirty, some sixty, some a hundred, and some, the giant pines—how solitary their tops must be!—three hundred feet in height. But however high their tops may reach, their roots rest in the same soil; as men, though they can grow and tower aloft as much as they please, still stand on a common level.

To all church workers, whether preachers or laymen, who are laying plans for the furtherance of the Lord's kingdom among men, we commend these last sentences from Dr. Storrs' closing address before the American Board for Foreign Missions, at its recent session in Cleveland, Ohio:

Frame your policy, lay out your plans; do it considerately, prudently, wisely, but do it with absolute confidence and faith. Then let the breath of the Spirit of God, which is within it, lift it on the waves, and the breath of the Spirit of God which is in it will carry it on its triumphant course over the ocean to all shores.

This note from the Standard is worth pondering:

The Christian man ought to be the best man in citizenship, in business, in society, in every place and position in life. Christianity being the life, not a Sunday wrap to hide oneself in, it must be carried into everything. Where the true Christian goes he can not be anything else than Christian; he is to go where duty calls him; and duty calls him wherever there is need of the pure principles and spirit which he possesses. The field of his usefulness and service is broad as the world so long as wickedness exists in it. And nothing but the power of an every-day working Christianity can expel evil and restore paradise.

We invite your especial attention and also that of your family to this paragraph from the New York Advocate:

What is more beautiful than a living, working, loving church? It means a collection of families who are dwelling in peace, and whose homes are filled with the Spirit of God. There is no such thing as a church in love and sympathy made up of unhappy families. What will cause disturbances in the church will do so at home, and what will fill homes with strife will set a church on fire from beneath. Lifeless churches have no power to mold home life. Irreligious homes can not feed living churches. May all the families of Methodism be unlied in the love of their members and of the church!

Dr. Lafferty has this "word of exhortation" to the writers for the Methodist Press "at this time:"

Southern Methodism is in the midst of its Annual Conferences. Will not the writers for the press suffer a word of exhortation. The Christian people outside of our church and the cultured readers outside of any church are not edified by the excessive adulation in adjectives of middling performers. There is a vein of Chinese and superlative fustian in the pied and pompous verbal decorations we hang around the prominent people. "There were great warriors before Agememnon," and there were orators, parliamentarians and platform prodigies before this year of our Lord, 1888. Beloved brethren of the ink-horn, "draw it mild."

Within the last few days two ministers of our church, in conversation with us, have made the same complaint. These two men represent the extremes of our ministry. That is to say, one has spent a long life in the church service and the other has just begun his life-work. The complaint which these two men, standing at each end of the ministerial line, make is, that the Word of God has been practically banished from the Sunday-school. They say the Lesson Papers and the Quarterlies have done this deed. This grave charge ought to be looked into. If God's Word is banished, how can there be any reasonable expectation of God's blessing? "Thou hast magnified thy Word above all thy name!"

Robert Waters, whose book, "Shakespeare Portrayed in One of His Own Characters," was noticed by us some time since, has been writing some admirable articles on "Genius in Action" for the New York Christian Advocate. In one of these articles he quotes James Parton as saying this in regard to genius:

There is a mystery in this thing we call genius, which no one yet understands. How or why it is possible for the weakest and meanest of the human race—say, for example, Lord Byron or Jean Jacques Rousseau—to produce such striking and powerful literature as they often do, is the greatest puzzle I know of. It has led me to suspect that genius is, as some Frenchman remarked, not a sign of superiority, but of inferiority. The sound, wise, strong, victorious man whom men lean on and women justify confide in, who rear good children and found things that bless and endure, are not fluent of speech, and may pass twenty years without saying a "good thing."

In Memoriam.

Continued from Page One.

him was the gospel preached; and the churches grew and converts were multiplied. "The wilderness and the solitary place was glad for them; and the desert did rejoice and blossom as a rose."

Because they were there, we are here. They sowed and we have reaped. They cast their bread upon the waters; and after many days behold the harvests!

Our brother was a man of one book, and that book, the Book of books. Hence his ministry was attended by the power of God. He wasted no time on ecclesiastical quibble, ministerial sand-chains; nor did he give heed to fables and "endless genealogies which minister questions rather than godly edifying." And that ministry, treading in the feotprints of one who said, "I also am an elder," was in a direct line of divine authority, not a whit inferior to the eldership, and its obligations, of St. Paul himself, aside from the superior office of his apostleship. And the seals of his ministry were graven by the same wisdom, and stamped by the same divine hand—the hand of the Head of "the church of the living God." Thousands of converts have lived and died in all the wide field of his prolonged ministry to whom he could, as truly as did the apostle, say, "Are ye not my work in the Lord?" And the apostle asserted no higher claims, nor other credentials than these—"The seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord." He felt as much called of God to preach the gospel as did any apostle.

Our friend lived to see the rise and growth of all our institutions of Church and State. He saw "the righteous inherit the land—a little one become a thousand, and a small one a strong nation." He saw a handful of corn wave on the summit of Lebanon and the reapers fill a thousand garners with the golden sheaves. He saw the wilderness in which he was born filled with happy and virtuous homes, a flourishing tillage of the soil, a growing commerce, institutions of learning providing for the wants of the rising race; temples reared to the worship of God and crowded with intelligent listeners, and devout worshipers where his holy Word is taught, and his ordinances duly administered; and our departed friend did his full share, as a true man, to bring about and accomplish these things. Surely, surely, if anyone, with such a record of well-directed and fruitful toil, might say, "Now, Lord, let thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation," our ascended brother whose sacred dust we to-day commit to the custody of the silent grave might do so.

His heroic labors extended over sixty-four years as an itinerant minister—years of unbroken studiousness and unwearied preaching; years when he might, in the main, with the apostle say, he was "in journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren; in weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness. Beside those things that are without, that which cometh upon me daily, the care of all the churches." Those years cover an abridgment of the experience of many generations. Years of labor, care and sorrow, bereavement and affliction; of success and failure; of aspiration and achievement; self-conquest and spiritual uplift; discipline and attainment; acquiring and dispensing; sowing and reaping. In them he delivered many thousand sermons—sermons that cost much study and were mellowed with tears and prayers and informed with holy fire: thousands of exhortations and religious interviews, instructing, teaching and helping others to rise: confirming the wavering; strengthening the weak; comforting the afflicted; and edifying the church. What years! The seeming monotonousness, yet every day fresh and new and sweet. They seem long and wearisome, yet were full of compensation, were restful and abundantly blest.

We can never know their vicissitudes, sacrifices, conflicts and privations. In all weathers more than sixty winters, and early the tropical heat of their alternate summers, on he goes; faint yet pursuing; faithful and resolute, early and late, with this motto to spur—"This one thing I do;" while the sun, like a weaver's shuttle glided from solstice to solstice, weaving with his shining threads a downy sable for the little stranger just entering on life's journey—and a shroud for the venerable and hoary patriarch now bidding the world farewell!

His forte was a unit of three manifest forces—his pen, his tongue and his life. He was not an orator in the ordinary parlance, and yet, being free from the weakness of imitation—the bane of genuine eloquence—and maintaining his own characteristic personalities in the pulpit, it may be said he was eloquent. No one, as a speaker, is a standard of measure for another. The eye is not the measure of the ear; nor the foot of the hand. No two human faces on earth are exactly alike. No two voices precisely correspond. The wisdom of God is conspicuous in such diversities. And the more one preserves his natural peculiarities of voice and manner, the greater power does he possess, and the more truly does he conform to the purposes of God in bestowing "a diversity of gifts."

But of this fact there can be but one opinion. He turned many souls to Christ. He had no higher, no other ambition. That was his ruling passion. In this was displayed the highest wisdom. He early took in the full inspiration of those far-reaching words—"He which converteth a sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins"—and that, "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness, as the stars forever and ever." Do not his works follow him? Follow, as a procession, each one with a laurel for his brow: follow to testify for and crown him with benedictions. Follow into the realms of the blest: "O what must it be, to be there!"

Few men have been so uniformly diligent with the pen. He has been an observant and discriminating chronicler of the events, in Church and State, in this commonwealth for nearly a century. He wielded a strong and prolific pen; was a constant and valued correspondent of a number of church papers: and a voluminous historian of the rise and growth of the church, and our collateral progress. His unpublished history will be a treasury of untold value. Being "in labors more abundant," it was meet that he should rest. The Master will not permit the weary feet of his faithful servants to remain forever on the chafing tread-mill. They shall rest. Rest in the effulgence of a sunless noon; for there is no night there—rest in the bosom of God.

"Thus star by star declines,
Till all are passed away,
As morning high and higher shines
To pure and perfect day;
Nor sink those stars in empty night,
But hide themselves in heaven's own light."

The character of this good man stands like a shaft of Parian marble, and as long as the State shall conserve and maintain the political freedom we have inherited, and religion and worship remain free and untrammeled by priestly despotism—so long will the name of the departed be held in reverence, esteem and admiration. It is recorded of the patriarch Jacob that when "he had made an end of commanding his sons, he gathered up his feet, and yielded up the ghost, and was gathered unto his people." The resemblance here is phenomenal. His honored sons stood by him, and gentle, loving daughters ministered to him while he gave the minutest directions respecting the place and manner of his sepulture—the calmest and the most self-possessed of all present.

Gathered to his people! Thus he sleeps with his forefathers; with the loved ones who went before; with the comrades of his early warfare; the shining lights with whom he ran in the Christian race—gathered into the bright galaxy of the crowned and blest. And what a meeting! The Birds, the Nicksons, the Drakes, the Lanes, the Clintons, the Pipkins, the Watkinses, the Streets and Dr. Butler—a name of precious memory here—as well as many of other communions, who were one in Christ.

"They are gathering fast on the other side,
The friends we have loved of yore;
They have launched their bark on the shadowy tide,
And entered the shining shore.
From the church below, to the church above
They are passing—a glorious band—
And the Father welcomes them all in his love
To the joys of the heavenly land."

A dying testimony is a valuable tribute to the power of Christian faith; but not half so much as the unwavering life of a faithful worker in the Master's vineyard. When the venerable Dr. T. Dwight was near his last hour a friend asked him how he felt in view of the solemn step. He simply replied, "Ask my life." In our case we can cheerfully challenge the life, and then the last moments corroborated all that went before. To a kinsman he said: "I have a strong desire to depart and be with Christ. I have tried very humbly to serve him for sixty-seven years and now I want to go and see him." To a daughter he said, "All is so bright and so clear;" and this as he neared the crossing. At another time he said, "I do not see them, but it seems that the room is full of angels." So did he realize a wish of earlier years when the poet put the words in his mouth—

"Happy if with my latest breath
I may but gasp the name;
Preach him to all, and cry in death,
Behold, behold the Lamb!"

Truly to him it was "Christ to live and gain to die;" and he has "come to his grave in a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in his season."

Others have told you many of the features of his character, and his early conversion; his lucid experience; his consecration and spirituality; his patience, meekness, long suffering and gentleness; the sweetness of his heart and thoughts and words, and how loving and appreciative he was of his younger brethren; his freedom from the gloom and cynicism that sometimes mars the beauty of hoary age; of his love of the church and of children, and his unsectarian catholicity of spirit. Alas! alas! The chariot of Israel and the horseman thereof! Elijah has gone up, and his mantle—who shall dare to put it on?

In conclusion: Viewing the life and piety of our departed friend, so hastily and imperfectly sketched, who among us is there who would not die the death of the righteous and have his life's ending such as his? For a little while, adieu, my brother! We shall meet again.

REMARKS BY W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.

Dear Brethren: Father Jones was advanced in age when first I knew him. The infirmities of years were creeping upon him. The time was approaching when he who had been a leader on the field of Christian soldiership must remain about the camps, though his spirit was still eager for the conflict. He gloried in the itinerant work of a Methodist preacher, and it was his boast that he was never local an hour in his life. How shall such a man grow old and gradually subside into inactivity and death?

Those unamiable weaknesses of temper and spirit, which are apt to accompany the bodily failings of age, he determined to avoid. He resolved that he would not be a censorious, impatient old man. He would not prophesy the failure of Christ's cause on the earth, because he could no longer be a leader in its battles. If he gloried in the past, he was appreciative of the present and hopeful of the future. It was beautiful to see him growing in every grace, but especially in charity, as he evidently and consciously approached the end of life. He was "fat and flourishing in old age." When past fourscore his bodily strength was well sustained, his mind was clear, and his spirit strong in the powers of the world to come. His remarkable memory, along with his long life and his practiced use of a clear and pure English style, made him the fit historian of Methodism in his Conference.

As his room-mate during one of our Conference sessions, I was impressed with his meekness under affliction. During a whole night his cough was so distressing that I feared for his life; yet no word of impatience or murmuring escaped his lips. Let us magnify the grace of God as manifested in our departed brother and father in Israel. His memory we will cherish, and his name shall not be forgotten.

The hymn, "I would not live alway," was then sung, and the benediction pronounced by Rev. Dr. Marshall.

The City Mission services are being held at this time at the corner of Burgundy and Pauline streets, Third District; congregations large and attentive, averaging 1,500 people.

Personals.

Bishop Galloway came in upon us Friday evening from his long tour in the West. He has evidently been busy, as the following information extracted from him shows: Absent from home, 96 days; traveled 9,200 miles by railroad, steamship and stage coach, without missing a connection or a meal; held four Conferences; delivered seventy sermons and addresses; baptized seventeen infants and one adult; dedicated seven churches and raised nineteen thousand and four hundred dollars for various connectional enterprises. The Bishop looks well, but considerably bronzed by Western suns and breezes.

Rev. Christian Keener has been appointed to Mills River circuit, Asheville district, Holston Conference.

We notice in the proceedings of the Southwest Missouri Conference one preacher was located for "inefficiency, unacceptability and secularity," and one located for simple "inefficiency." Verily the sifting process is proceeding.

Rev. Dr. S. A. Steel has been transferred to the Southwest Missouri Conference, and stationed at Walnut Street Church, Kansas City.

Rev. J. V. Penn, of the Mississippi Conference, has been transferred to the Los Angeles Conference, and stationed at Santa Ana.

Our young friend, Rev. F. S. Parker, of Los Angeles Conference, has been transferred to the West Texas Conference.

The secretary of the Missouri Conference has laid us under obligations for a copy of the Minutes of the last session of that body.

Bishop Duncan, on his way to hold his Conferences in Texas, gave us a call last Tuesday. Hard work and travel seem to agree with him, for he is looking well and hopeful of the prospects and progress of our Zion. The Bishop dedicates a church, next Sunday, in Chihuahua, Mexico.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. W. B. Hines writes, October 3, 1888: "We were to-day at a delightful family reunion and social gathering at the pleasant home of Mrs. Martha Catchiug, on Pearl River, Copiah county, Miss. This very agreeable gathering was to witness the marriage of Mr. A. A Lilly, of McComb City, and Miss Pollie Catching, of Pearl River, Copiah county, Miss. This was a handsome bouquet of lillies. May they bloom long and freshly, and with the fragrance of piety and usefulness."

(This card came after our last issue.—ED.)

—Rev. I. L. Peebles writes from Newton circuit, Mississippi Conference, October 9: "Our fourth Quarterly Conference came off Saturday, the sixth instant. The presiding elder (Bro. Johnston) and his wife were present in good health and fine spirits. They made quite a good impression on our people. On the following Sabbath the elder preached a fine sermon, and his wife organized a Woman's Missionary Society. We have held a protracted meeting at each appointment on this circuit. Each resulted well, except one. It would have resulted well very likely if it had not been for the circuit court, much sickness and the exciting election at Meridian at the same time. Although this is our last year on this work, we have taken seventy-eight persons into the church and have had quite a number of conversions."

—Rev. J. F. Wynn writes from Montgomery, La., October 12: "Have just closed another four days' meeting at Sanders. Six accessions, several conversions and the church greatly blessed. Bro. Roberts assisted me. Bro. W. F. Sanders (local preacher) has held a good meeting at Long Straw, resulting in ten accessions and several conversions."

—Rev. J. A. Parker writes from Rustou, La., October 12: "I am nearing the close of the third week of a meeting at this place, having preached twice a day for the whole time (save two sermons from Bro. Wright). For four weeks previously, except five days, I had done the same. God has helped me, and voice, heart, muscle and hands have all been kept in working order. Forty penitents were at the altar to-night. There have been several conversions and thirteen accessions, with a prospect for a still further lugathering. Will write further after the close. The greatest results have been in the church."

—Rev. E. B. Galloway writes from Downsville, La., October 13: "Just closed at Ebenezer—the hard point on the circuit (so called). Gracious power; church quickened; fourteen accessions, fifteen conversions."

A widow lady, who is a graduate and an experienced teacher, desires employment. Will accept a position as governess, private tutor or teacher in any grade of school, or a situation as copyist. Testimonials and reference furnished. Address Mrs. M., care of this office.

Episcopal Visitation, 1888-9.

Conference.	Date.	Place.	Bishop.
M. E. Mis.	Oct. 31.	Del Rio, Tex.	Duncan
N. W. Texas.	Nov. 7.	Weatherford, Tex.	Hendrix
Virginia	Nov. 7.	Portsmouth, Va.	Granbery
W. Texas	Nov. 7.	Victoria, Tex.	Duncan
Memphis	Nov. 7.	Paris, Ky.	Keener
German Mis.	Nov. 14.	Houston, Tex.	Duncan
N. Ala.	Nov. 14.	Anniston, Ala.	Hargrove
N. Texas.	Nov. 14.	Dennison, Tex.	Key
N. Carolina.	Nov. 21.	New Berne, N. C.	Granbery
Cen. Mex.	Nov. 21.	San Luis Potosi.	Galloway
Little Rock.	Nov. 21.	Camden, Ark.	Key
Texas	Nov. 21.	Huntsville, Tex.	Duncan
Arkansas	Nov. 28.	Fort Smith, Ark.	Key
Mississippi.	Nov. 28.	Jackson, La.	Hargrove
E. Texas	Nov. 28.	Crockett, Tex.	Duncan
S. Carolina.	Nov. 28.	Winnsboro, S. C.	Keener
White Riv.	Dec. 5.	Paragould, Ark.	Key
N. Georgia.	Dec. 5.	Milledgeville, Ga.	Keener
N. Miss.	Dec. 10.	Starkville, Miss.	Keener
Florida	Dec. 12.	Bartow, Fla.	McTyeire
Alabama	Dec. 12.	Mobile, Ala.	Hargrove
S. Georgia.	Dec. 12.	Eastman, Ga.	Duncan
Louisiana.	Dec. 19.	New Orleans, La.	Hargrove
Baltimore.	Mar. 13.	Alexandria, Va.	Wilson

Notice.

To the Presiding Elders of the North Mississippi Conference—

DEAR BRETHREN: At the earliest possible day please send me names of lay delegates-elect to Annual Conference, together with names of local preachers coming up for ordination and candidates for admission into the traveling connection.

THOS. CAMERON.

To the Wives of the Preachers of the North Mississippi Conference—

DEAR SISTERS: Those of you who purpose attending Conference at Starkville please notify me at once, that homes may be provided for you.

T. CAMERON.

STARKVILLE, Mississippi.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R., Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

Publisher's Department.

No fraudulent advertisements will knowingly be allowed in the ADVOCATE. If one ever appears, it will be by accident.

In ordering from those whose advertisements appear in our columns please state that you have seen the same in the ADVOCATE.

HUGH JAMIESON, JR.,
Publisher.

Mr. Philip Werlein has in stock a beautiful selection of organs. Anyone thinking of purchasing should call and see them before purchasing. Mr. Werlein's terms are moderate; he sells cheaper than ever before, and guarantees his instruments as first-class in every respect. There is no better judge of an organ, and anyone in the country can safely leave such a matter to him, and be assured that their order will receive prompt attention and prove satisfactory in every respect.

A CONDITIONAL AGREEMENT.—"After ye've ate that mince pie an' them hard-b'iled eggs," asked the generous woman, "will ye carry in some wood for me?" "Certainly, madam," gratefully replied the tramp; "that is," he added, "if I live."

CHANGES.—We have quite a number of orders to change the address of subscribers; some without signatures, and others who do not give the former address. Under these circumstances, change can not be made.

Old lady (to grocer)—My daughter is quite an invalid, sir, and wants some nice fresh eggs. Grocer—Yes, ma'am. (To boy): James, show this lady those invalid eggs.

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.
PROF. D. F. HUDDLE, Sec.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the V., S. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 188
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—boar books, tuition and fees—of a comple English course for one term of twe weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address
R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, L

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

J. H. BRUNNER, Pres.
G. W. HUDDLESTON, Sec.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Mange, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

"A REMARKABLE BOOK," SAYS DR. EADON, of Edinburgh, Scotland; a graduate of three universities, and retired after 50 years' practice, he writes: "The work is priceless in value, and calculated to regenerate society. It is new, startling, and very instructive." It is the most popular and comprehensive book treating of

MEDICAL, SOCIAL, AND SEXUAL SCIENCE,

Proven by the sale of Half a Million to be the most popular Readable because written in language plain, chaste, and forcible Instructive, practical presentation of "Medical Common Sense" much Valuable to invalids, showing new means by which they may be cured Approved by editors, physicians, clergymen, critics, and literati Thorough treatment of subjects especially important to young men Everyone who "wants to know, you know," will find it interesting

4 Parts, 35 Chapters, 936 Pages, 200 Illustrations, and

A NEW FEATURE, just introduced, consists of a series of beautiful colored anatomical charts, in five colors, guaranteed superior to any before offered in a popular physiological book, and rendering it again the most attractive and quick-selling work for AGENTS who have already found it gold mine in it. Mr. Koehler writes: "I sold the first six books in two hours." Many agents take 50 or 100 at once, at special rates. Send for terms.

FREE—a 10 page Contents Table of Plain Home Talk, red, white and blue circulars, and a sample of Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

Standard Edition, $3.25 } Same print and illustrations, the Popular Edition, 1.50 } difference is in paper and binding.

MURRAY HILL PUB. CO., 129 (N.) East 28th St., New York.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PUBLICATIONS OF E. B. TREAT.

CURIOSITIES OF THE BIBLE.

BY A NEW YORK SUNDAY-SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY

REV. J. H. VINCENT, D. D.

SOLD BY SUBSCRIPTION ONLY.

Pertaining to Scripture, Persons, Places and Things. Including Prize Questions and Answers, Bible Studies and Readings, Prayer Meeting Talks, Subjects and Outlines, Concert Exercises, Blackboard Outlines, Object Lessons, and Chalk Talks. Seed Thoughts Illustrated. Religious Emblems and Allegories. Bible Revision Facts and Contrasts. Scripture Enigmas, Acrostics and Anagrams, Reference Tables, Maps, etc.

Price, Only $2. Postage Prepaid.

Read Testimonials Below, and Send in Your Subscription Now!

The New York Christian at Work says: It is a perfect treasury of things new and old, odd, curious and interesting. It is a volume as full of instruction as of entertainment, and will prove an endless source of profit and amusement in the home circle. It is in a peculiar and most happy sense a stimulating volume. We know of no volume of its kind extant, and whoever may be its author he has shown a special adaptedness to his task, and done his work in a most interesting and thorough manner.

Zion's Herald, Boston, says: It has almost everything that can be thought of to awaken a lively interest on the part of young and old in the careful study of the Bible. It affords also fine and profitable home study and amusement for the family. It is a good thing; happy is he who invented it.

The Cumberland Presbyterian, Nashville, Tenn., says: This is a book to rejoice the heart of every Sunday-school teacher and superintendent. This is not a collection of silly stories and cranky notions too often found in print. The student of these curiosities will find help and light in his investigation of the Word of God. This book in the hands of a wise Sunday-school superintendent would keep any school from dullness.

The Baptist Standard, Chicago, says: One would almost need to write a book as large as this one to give an adequate idea of what it is. The object plainly is to put young students, especially, in a way of learning more about Bible history, Bible geography and various other things in this wonderful book than they might know how to find without a guide. The book is a striking illustration of the methods of Bible teaching adopted in these days.

N. O. CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp St., New Orleans. | Address HUGH JAMIESON, Jr., Publisher, AGENT.

Golden Thoughts on

Mother, Home and Heaven.

In Poetry and Prose. By 400 Best Authors. Elegantly Illustrated.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION

By REV. THEO. L. CUYLER, D. D.

"If from our side the first has fled,
And Home be but a name,
Let's strive the narrow path to tread,
That we the last may gain."

This work is comprised in one large volume of 436 quarto pages, embellished with finely engraved and elegantly printed Steel Plate and Wood Cut Illustrations and an Illuminated Presentation Page. It is printed from plates made from new type, ordered expressly for this work, on fine-toned and calendered paper, in elegant holiday binding, at the following low prices:

In Fine English Cloth, Beveled Boards, black and gold side and back, $2.75
In Fine English Cloth, Bev'd B'ds, Gilt Edge, in a box, Parlor Edition, 3.50
In Elegant Full Morocco, gilt edge and side, in box, Presentation Edition, 5.00

GET IT! If you have a Mother, Father, Brother, Sister, Son or Daughter at Home or Abroad; on whom you would bestow a GIFT that would at all times prove a WELCOME GUEST of rare worth and lasting benefit, GET IT!!

The Detroit Christian Advocate says: We scarcely can tell which is most attractive about this volume, it par-excellent title, its 400 literary gems on the themes named, its brilliant array of distinguished writers, or its beautiful mechanical execution. It is a splendid book every way. A copy should be in every home, where every mother and every mother's friend can have access to it.

Prices as above, Post-paid to Subscribers.

Send subscriptions to NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 CAMP ST., New Orleans.

HUGH JAMIESON, Jr., Publisher,
AGENT.

W. C. SHEPARD, 49 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Crockery, China, Glassware and General House-Furnishing Goods.

Semi-Porcelain Dinner Sets, $8, $10, $12 and $15. Decorated Dinner Sets, $10, $12, $20 and $25. Chamber Sets, $2.45, $3 50 and $4 50.

Wonderful reduction on all goods. Determined to reduce stock. Call and see before purchasing elsewhere.

Blanchard Churns and Gate City Filters, Refrigerators, Ice Boxes, Bath Tubs and Summer Goods.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases.
A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel.
The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

PERFECT SAFETY

It has been used with most wonderful effect in

Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c

Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2-cent stamp to

MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA

Our Young People.

A RHYME FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

BY KATE M. CLEARY.

Oh, I'll tell you a story that nobody knows,
Of ten little fingers and ten little toes,
Of two pretty eyes and one little nose,
And where they all went one day.

Oh, the little round nose smelled something sweet,
So sweet it must surely be nice to eat,
And patter away went two little feet
Out of the room one day.

Ten little toes climbed up on a chair,
Two eyes peeped over a big shelf where
Lay a lovely cake, all frosted and fair,
Made by mamma that day.

The mouth grew round and the eyes grew big
At taste of the sugar, the spice, the fig;
And ten little fingers went dig, dig, dig,
Into the cake that day.

And when mamma kissed a curly head,
Cuddling it cosily up in bed;
"I wonder, was there a mouse," she said,
"Out on the shelf to day?"

"Oh, mamma, yes," and a laugh of glee
Like fairy bells rang merrily—
"But the little bit of a mouse was me,
Out on the shelf to-day!"

—St. Nicholas.

Can't Afford It.

"Here, Dan, is something that may interest you," said Farmer Brown as he handed the boy a bulky letter.

"The postmaster missed his mark there, sure," said Dan, glancing at the untouched stamp.

"That will send a letter to your mother, Dan, and not make you any poorer, either," answered the farmer.

"I dare say it will," responded the lad, as he proceeded to moisten it at the mouth of the steaming teakettle.

"And you can have the two cents you thus save for marbles," suggested Mr. Brown thoughtlessly.

"That would be cheating," whispered Dan's conscience. "The stamp has already done its duty in carrying one letter."

"It will carry another. It is not marked," argued Dan.

"But you know it was a mistake," urged the monitor within.

"That was the postmaster's fault, and not mine," was Dan's inward reply. "It is a small thing, and the government will not miss it—no, not even know it."

"Will you not know it, and can you afford to be dishonest for so small an amount?" the small voice whispered.

Dan trembled, for it seemed that some one had spoken the words right into his ear. Flinging the stamp he had loosened into the fire, he exclaimed, "No, I can not afford to sell myself so cheap!"

"What's wrong?" asked the farmer, glancing up from his paper. "Lose the stamp after all your trouble?"

"Worse than that," replied the boy, sheepishly.

"What, burned your fingers with the steam?" questioned his employer.

"No," said Dan, determinedly; "I sold my honor, or came near doing so."

"What do you mean, boy? The stamp is all right. It would never have been found out."

"But I knew it all the time, and two cents is a small amount to get for your own self-respect; besides ——"

"Besides what?" queried the man?

"God knows about it, and he looks upon the heart," answered Dan.

"It's a mighty small thing to worry over, I am sure," replied Mr. Brown. "The postoffice department would not have been much the poorer, I assure you."

"It would have been I who would have been poorer. Had I sold my honor for two cents, I should have made the worst bargain I ever did."

And so Dan gained a victory, and he was never sorry that he had obeyed the voice of conscience.—Selected.

Two Boys and a Horse.

When Jim first made acquaintance with Sam Wood, he had a very bad opinion of stable boys in general, and Bob Hawkins in particular. Bob had been stable boy before Sam, and before him had been three or four others, all bad boys, who had given the horse a dislike to the sight of a boy, and soured his temper entirely.

Bob used to think it delightful to pinch Jim's ears and underlip, or to tickle him, which annoyed Jim exceedingly, and taught him to snap at people's fingers. Bob used to put pepper in Jim's salt and oats. He knew of a certain little sound, something like a very young puppy whining, that made Jim almost wild with anger and fear. Why he was so afraid no one could find out, but Bob used to hide behind the hay, and just as Jim reached up to take a bite from the rack, Bob would make this sound. Then Jim would start and snort, and would not touch the hay again.

These, and a hundred other mean and cruel tricks, Bob played off against Jim. His master knew nothing of it, but wondered how the horse's temper came to be so bad of late.

But one day Bob's master found him out, and he was turned away in disgrace.

You can imagine how cross this daily worry had made Jim; so when Sam Wood came he looked on him only as another tormentor whom he had best bite and kick as often as there was a chance.

The first time Sam came to the stable he brought a nice piece of bread in his hand; but when he held it out to Jim, the horse laid back his ears and showed his teeth, as if to say, "Look out, I'll bite you." Sam stood quite still, with his hand stretched out, till Jim thought he might as well look at the thing, whatever it was. He was careful about sniffling at it, poor fellow, for he had burnt his nose with pepper from Bob's hand; but his curiosity was great, and at last he touched the bread with his lips.

"Good fellow," said Sam, in a kind, friendly voice. Jim hardly believed his ears. He looked carefully at this strange boy, and then, making up his mind to risk a peppering, he took the bread in his mouth. It tasted very good, and presently Jim found Sam smoothing his neck, and gently rubbing the back of his ear in a way the horse particularly liked, but which no one but his master ever treated him to.

From that time a firm friendship grew up between the boy and horse.

At first, Jim could not help being distrustful; but by and by he ceased to lay back his ears and curl his lip whenever a hand was laid on him. He no longer started at any strange sound in the barn, and he whinnied with delight when he heard Sam's voice. Sam never came to harness him for work without bringing a bit of bread or sugar, or an apple or salt to make him welcome, and Jim tried to show his grateful feeling in every way a horse could.

We think that when a boy will torment a helpless dumb beast as Bob Hawkins did, if the horse should kick him and break both his legs he would get no more than he deserved.—Dumb Animals.

OPENING THE HEART.—I knew a little boy whose heart was touched by a sermon on the words, "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock." My mother said to him when she noticed that he was anxious:

"Robert, what would you say to anyone who knocked at the door of your heart, if you wished him to come in?"

He answered: "I'd say, 'Come in.'"

She then said to him: "Then say to the Lord Jesus, 'Come in.'"

The next morning there was a brightness and joy about Robert's face that made my father ask:

"Robert, what makes you look so glad and joyful to-day?"

He replied joyfully: "I awoke in the night, and I felt that Jesus Christ was still knocking at the door of my heart for admittance into it. I said to him, 'Lord Jesus, come in!' I think he has come into my heart. I feel happier this morning than I ever was in all my life. How ungrateful and wicked in me to keep him waiting outside so long!"—Selected.

Though we know not where the road winds, we know where it will end.—Spurgeon.

INFANTILE Skin & Scalp DISEASES cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain-subduing plaster. 25c.

Household.

GOOD-NIGHT AND GOOD-MORNING.

BY A. H.

The quiet peaceful night has passed,
And welcome is the day at last.
"Good-morning!" we each other greet,
When at the breakfast board we meet.

As all that table nestly spread
The white-haired grandsire bows his head—
First having seen each one in place—
He reverent bow to hear the grace

From aged lips, in grateful tones,
Go up unto the throne of thrones—
Glad thanks for what kind Heav'n doth send
Of plenty—mercies without end.

That early meal, of all the best!
When, after sweet, refreshing rest,
Dear faces, bright with loving smiles—
Some full of childhood's dimpled wiles—

Now radiant gaze, each one at each,
While bubbling o'er in merry speech;
The thoughts of all, as free as air,
Find happy playground then and there.

Since thus begins our cheerful day,
Rich blessings follow all the way;
Benediction on the night descends,
And as the light with darkness blends,

So blend our day and evening dreams,
That when we say, "Good-night," it seems Again "good-morning," o'er and o'er
On slumber's fair, enchanted shore.

And when our life's short day is done,
Good-night, good-morning thus are one:
'Tis good-night here, good-morning there,
But God's dear presence everywhere.

—Good Housekeeping.

Home Amusements.

I listened to a lecture on amusements the other day, which I wish every home lover could have heard. The speaker said former generations had been unwise in ignoring the need of home amusements, and that the penalty of their strictness is seen in the undue love of excitement and pleasure, which characterizes the present age. He said that the penalty is worse than the crime; for while too little recreation dwarfs the individual, making him narrow and unsocial, too much pleasure seeking depraves the nature and destroys the moral fibre. He thought that home amusements should be provided, and, under proper restriction, that children should be allowed to enjoy them: that parents should often join in games and keep themselves young by spending a little time each day in some kind of play. But if duty or necessary work of any kind was sacrificed to the pleasures of playing any game, however innocent in itself, the effect would surely be a loss of self-respect and weakening of the character. The lecturer thought also too great fondness for games tends to selfishness in the home, and that children should be taught to always see that no one is left alone or suffers inconvenience from their absorption in a game.

Homes should certainly be made sunny and beautiful in all things, but the idea so often expressed, that we must keep our homes bright lest our husbands and sons seek the gilded saloon, he considered a very dangerous sentimentalism. Our sons should be taught to do right—to deny themselves pleasures which their conscience could not approve, to resist temptation and live in the fear of God. We should make our homes pleasant, but not as a bribe to keep our family there, for, beautiful as they might be, other places will be found more gorgeous, so that we might lose our pains at last. And then, when poverty, or sickness, or sorrow enter, when we can no longer make our home pleasant, are our supports in the hour of trial to desert the suffering home for pleasanter surroundings? Not if our children are taught to make duty the first consideration and pleasure the secondary. The speaker thought public games morally dangerous, that a young man should be sure of his strength before risking the temptations attendant on a club, and that few homes could afford to spare the head of the household for the duties attendant upon a member of a club.

AUNT ANN.

[The writer of the above letter says in a private enclosure: "I hope some one will set the Home Department thinking on ways of bettering the moral condition of our homes—not that I find many that are bad, but rather that the greater part of those I know are so good, I want them to be better." We hope others will take up this question of amusements, now that the school season is begun, and that they will discuss it in the same hopeful manner.—Editor Weekly Witness.]

Boils and pimples and other affections arising from impure blood may appear at this season, when the blood is heated. Hood's Sarsaparilla removes the cause of these troubles by purifying, vitalizing, and enriching the blood, and at the same time it gives strength to the whole system.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Best of All

Cough medicines, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is in greater demand than ever. No preparation for Throat and Lung Troubles is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known, as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble that, whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself by a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat and by difficulty in breathing. I have tried a great many remedies, but none does so well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which always gives prompt relief in returns of my old complaint."—Ernest A. Hepler, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terre Bonne, La.

"I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy

For Home Use.

I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults."—Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the lungs. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered my case hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—Samuel Griggs, Waukegan, Ill.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a cough, night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, pains in chest and sides, and was so prostrated as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am as well and sound as ever."—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

MUSICAL NOVELTIES.

ROYAL PRAISE. (50cts.) By J. E. Vaurey. The best Sunday School Book that has appeared in years. New Music and New Words.

GLORIOUS CAUSE. (35cts.) By G. F. Root. A fine collection of new Temperance Music. Leaders of the Temperance Cause endorse it.

EMPIRE OF SONG. (60cts.) By G. F. Root. A splendid Singing Class and Convention Book. Has no superior.

ROYAL PIANO FOLIO. (60cts.) A new collection of the choicest Piano Music by the best foreign composers.

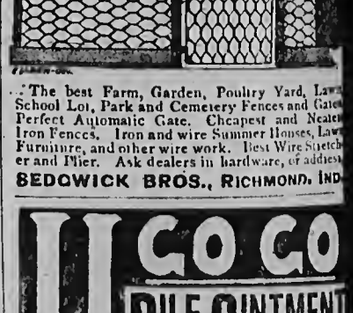
TIDBITS OF MUSICAL HISTORY. (50cts.) A collection of short sketches of celebrated musicians, their works and other items of Musical Interest.

SNOW WHITE. (50cts.) By Clara L. Burnham and G. F. Root. A new and charming little operetta for Young Folks. Not difficult of preparation.

Any of the above sent by mail on receipt of the specified price.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati,
And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

SEDGWICK STEEL WIRE FENCE



The best Farm, Garden, Poultry Yard, Lawn, School Lot, Park and Cemetery Fences and Gates. Perfect Automatic Gate. Cheapest and Neatest Iron Fences. Iron and wire Summer Houses, Lawn Furniture, and other wire work. Best Wire Stretcher and Plier. Ask dealers in hardware, or address

SEDGWICK BROS., RICHMOND, IND.

UCO CO PILE OINTMENT

The Great PILE REMEDY.

Why will so many suffer the tortures of pemtion when they can be speedily cured without pain and without cost. A permanent and immediate cure guaranteed. Send 50c. postal note for sample packages.

C. S. GILMAN & CO., AKRON, OHIO.

MAGIC LANTERNS

And STEREOPTICONS, of all prices. New and interesting every subject for PUBLIC EXHIBITIONS. A profitable business for a man with small capital. Lanterns for Home Amusement. 152 page Catalogue free.

McALLISTER, Optician, 49 Nassau St., N. Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents Dandruff and hair falling. 50c. and $1 at Druggists.

ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL

THIS NEW ELASTIC TRUSS

Has a Pad different from all others, is cup shape, with self-adjusting ball in center, adapts itself to all positions of the body, while the ball in the cup presses back the intestines just as a person does with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Circulars free. EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Chicago, Ill.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

McShane Bell Foundry

Finest Grade of Bells.

CHIMES AND PEALS for Churches, &c. Send for Price and Catalogue. Address H. McSHANE & CO., Mention this paper.

In all the world there is but one OPIUM Habit. The Dr. J. C. Hoffman Remedy never fails, and other treatment ever cured. We have cured more than 10,000 cases. No other treatment ever cured one case. NO PAY TILL CURED. Address this, and write to the Dr. La. Hoffman Co., Lebanon, Ohio.

CANCER and Tumors CURED: no knife. Book free. Drs. GRAVATT & [illegible], No. 160 Plum St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

DUNN—ROBERTS.—In Lake Providence, La., September 27, 1888, by Rev. Thomas J. Upton, Mr. James W. Dunn and Miss Lukie E. Roberts, both of Lake Providence, La.

HEALEY—GRAVES.—In the Methodist Church, Lake Providence, La., October 4, 1888, by Rev. Thomas J. Upton, Rev. James Healey, of the Mississippi Conference, to Miss Ettie C. Graves, of Lake Providence.

IKERA—PITTMAN.—In Lake Providence, La., October 4, 1888, by Rev. Thomas J. Upton, Mr. R. E. L. Ikera and Miss E. May Pittman, both of Lake Providence.

FERRES—BUTLER.—In West Monroe, La., October 7, 1888, by Rev. C. T. Munholland, Mr. H. M. Ferres to Mrs. A. M. Butler.

ATKINS—GOOCH.—At the residence of the bride's father, October 4, 1888, by Rev. John Pipes, Mr. W. S. Atkins, of Red River, to Miss Pauline Gooch, of Pleasant Hill, La.

HUMBLE—THOMPSON.—At the residence of Mrs. Drene Flotcher, St. Helena parish, La., October 3, 1888, by Rev. J. W. Ellison, Mr. William H. Humble and Miss Fannie H. Thompson.

GARRETT—DUTCHER.—
WILKINSON—NICHOLSON.—} In Arizona Methodist Church, October 7, 1888, by Rev. T. B. White, D. D., by the same ceremony, Mr. Hilary W. Garrett and Miss Annie Dutcher, and Mr. T. Bayliss Wilkinson and Miss Ida Nicholson, all of Claiborne parish, La.

McCLAMROCK—HARRIS.—At the residence of the bride's mother, near Cooper's Well, Miss., October 10, 1888, by Rev. I. W. Cooper, Mr. A. S. McClamrock, of Bolivar county, Miss., to Miss Jennie Harris.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

SANDIDGE—On October 4, 1888, in Beechwood, Tenn., died a young man of much promise. He was WILLIAM S SANDIDGE, of this city, in his twenty-fourth year—the very prime of young, opening manhood. During four years' pastorate of the writer in Felicity Street Church, he was a faithful attendant upon the services and an interested listener of the gospel message. He afterwards became a communicant in Trinity Episcopal Church. He was stricken by pulmonary disease, and in hope of reaping benefit by the change went in the early summer to his grandmother's in Tennessee. Here he gradually grew worse until death came and released him from his sufferings. He was cared for by the tender hands and loving hearts of kindred, and comforted by the greater presence and the larger peace of the Savior of sinners. In his last hour he said he knew he would go to Jesus, called his friends one by one and gave them a good-by kiss, sent love and kisses to his parents and sisters in this city, and calmly, trustfully started on his journey to the happy home above. God has use for him somewhere else than in this region of toil and sorrow.

C. W. CARTER.

WATKINS—NOTLEY HANSON, only child of W. O. and M. O. Watkins, died August 15, 1888, and his spirit was carried by the angels to the haven of bliss and happiness, leaving papa and mamma to mourn the loss of their little one for a time. The pride and joy of the mother's life and the comfort of the father's heart has gone to join the angels—among them a little sister who preceded him about ten years ago—to live with God forever. He was born July 26, 1886, and died August 15, 1888, aged two years and twenty days—the age when children become most interesting; and, indeed, he was an interesting child. 'Tis true that Notley is gone and that parents are lonely, but that is one more link added to the chain—a tie—a bud just beginning to live and grow on earth taken to bloom in heaven.

ROBT. SELBY.

WATTS—Died, August 10, 1888, JOSIE, eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Watts, of Pelahatchie. Josie had been staying with his grandparents at Newton for several months, going to school, when he was taken sick; had just made a visit to his home at Pelahatchie, Saturday, came home Sunday and took his bed Monday. He improved sufficiently to set up at one time during his sickness, but only long enough to buoy his parents and relatives up with the prospect of his recovery. Although some of the family at first would try to deter him, he never would give them any encouragement, and when he had been sick about six weeks, and all the family thought him sinking rapidly, he called his mother, father, sister and brother and bade them good-by, told them he had no fears of death and thought he would soon die, and wanted them all to meet him in heaven. He often talked calmly of his prospect for heaven; said he was perfectly resigned to God's will. About this time, perhaps, a few days later, his little brother, ALONZO WATTS, aged five years, was taken seriously ill. We all thought at this time Josie had passed the crisis of that dreadful disease, typhoid fever, and was slowly improving, but his "little daddie's" illness seemed to prostrate him. He said he felt so sorry to think his brother had to be so sick—indeed, his sympathy was so great that it weakened him very much. Fond parents, grandparents and aunts nursed them together and gave them every attention that it was possible to give for five long weeks, when they saw little Alonzo quietly pass away into the arms of Jesus." Alonzo was truly a little Christian. He often spoke of his little sister who died two years ago here, and spoke of seeing her. How the family feared this shock for dear little Josie. While their hearts were all broken up in sorrow, they were compelled to smother the great sobs that would involuntarily start, in order to not excite Josie; but finally, his grandpa went in and broke the news as gently as possible to him, and found that, although he showed signs of great grief, he controlled himself as only a little Christian can. We buried little Alonzo by his sister. His loved ones turned from the little grave to go and nurse Josie, who lived just ten days and "fell asleep in Jesus" to await the resurrection morning. Thus two of the loveliest Christian characters among children that I ever knew passed from earth to heaven. May God abundantly bless the parents and grandparents and still spare them the sister and little baby brother that survive!

M. ALICE PEEBLES.

PERRY—Sister ROBA W. PERRY took her exit from earth to glory, July 26, 1888, being in her forty-seventh year. She was born in Muscogee county, Ga., September 11, 1841, and moved with her parents to Auburn, Lee county, Ala., in 1842, where she lived until death bereaved her of her parents; thence she moved in 1884 to Hickory, Newton county, Miss., where she resided until her death with her relative, Bro. George B. Harper, whose present wife was her foster-daughter.

While quite young she was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to which church she was faithful up to the time that she died. Some time before she left Auburn the women of that place organized a woman's weekly prayer meeting, which she attended punctually unless providentially prevented. She was not punctual in attendance purely as a spectator, either curious or derisive, but as a participant in this soul-energizing work. Although she was very timid, she did not allow her timidity to prompt her to shirk duty. Immediately after she came to Hickory she enlisted cheerfully with the ladies of that place in every good work, especially that of the church generally. She not only performed her duties alacriously, but also conscientiously. Her pastor always found her ready to speak in his favor and to nullify any utterances that might have a tendency to mar his peace and relax his efforts for the promotion of the kingdom of Christ. She was of a literary turn of mind and, therefore, delighted in conversing on literary subjects and perusing valuable books. The Nashville, New Orleans and Alabama Advocates were precious papers to her. Although she experienced much pleasure in reading valuable books and papers of different kinds, the Bible was the chief literature with her. But she has been taken from the progressive steps of this life to the advancing stages of eternity. Her death was wholly unexpected to her attending physicians and loved ones until she was seized with congestion of the brain. It is true, that she had been somewhat ailing for a sennight or more, but not in the least to excite apprehensions.

We earnestly invoke God's richest spiritual and temporal blessings upon her many surviving relatives, especially Bro. G. B. Harper and his family, and may He help each to say, "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord!"

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.

MOODY—WILLIAM M. MOODY was born at Williamsburg, Va. in 1815, and died at Tigerville, La., September 25, 1888, being seventy-three years of age; was a graduate of William and Mary College; moved to New Orleans in 1853, thence to Tigerville in 1855, where he lived until his death. Bro. Moody was highly respected and esteemed by all who knew him, and especially was he careful of the ministers of the gospel. I don't suppose there is any preacher that ever preached in his town but that enjoyed his hospitality. His last illness was long and his suffering great, but he was patient through it all.

R. C.

HODGES—EMMA E. HODGES, infant daughter of A. S. and C. E. Hodges, born January 1, 1888; died July 30, 1888. Papa and mamma hated to give up the little curly head; but what a comfort to know after the scenes of this life are over, that they will meet their little one in a land where parting will be no more.

COUSIN FLORA.

AN AGGRESSIVE INSTITUTION.—Every feature of Christianity is aggressive, because its aim is to overthrow everything that is evil in the world and to supplant it with good. Aggression should, therefore, impress itself upon every phase of Christian work. Churches and Sunday-schools are wrapping their talents in a napkin and are not answering the end of their existence if they are not stretching out their strong arms as radii in concentric circles, and taking hold with willing and ever-busy hands upon the victims of sin and misery all around, and constraining them by a holy violence to come to the feast of gospel love and truth which God has provided for all. Every Christian, too, should feel that he is a lieutenant of God, sent with the impresses of divine majesty to make known his will and to plead with men to be reconciled to God. Stagnant churches, Sabbath-schools and Christians can not be in a healthy condition, so far as their own spiritual state is concerned, and are only a source of dissatisfaction and skeptical malaria to those around them. A celestial messenger is needed to be continually stirring up these human pools.—Pulpit Treasury.

Have you read the advertisement of B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, Va., in another column? If not, please do so at once. You may not be specially interested in what they have to say, but if you will call some of your friends' attention who need employment to their adv. you may confer a life-long favor on them.

Scientific.

Where Colors Come from.

A well-known artist gave me some curious information the other day regarding the sources from which the colors one finds in a paint-box are derived. Every quarter of the globe is ransacked for the material—animal, vegetable and mineral—employed in their manufacture. From the cochineal insects are obtained the gorgeous carmine, as well as the crimson, scarlet and purple lakes. Sepia is the inky fluid discharged by the cuttle-fish to render the water opaque for its concealment when attacked. Indian yellow is from the camel. Ivory black and bone black are made out of ivory chips. The exquisite Prussian blue is got by fusing horses' hoofs and other refuse animal matter with impure potassium carbonate. It was discovered by an accident. In the vegetable kingdom are included the lakes, derived from roots, barks and gums. Blueback is from the charcoal of the vinestalk. Lampblack is soot from certain resinous substances. From the madder-plant, which grows in Hindostan, is manufactured turkey red. Gamboge comes from the yellow sap of a tree, which the natives of Siam catch in cocoanut shells. Raw sienna is the natural earth from the neighborhood of Sienna, Italy. When burned it is burnt sienna. Raw umber is an earth from Umbria, and is also burned. To these vegetable pigments may probably be added India ink, which is said to be made from burnt camphor. The Chinese, who alone produce it, will not reveal the secret of its composition. Mastic—the base of the varnish so called—is from the gum of the mastic tree, indigenous to the Grecian Archipelago. Bistre is the soot of wood ashes. Of real ultramarine but little is found in the market. It is obtained from the precious lapis lazuli, and commands a fabulous price. Chinese white is zinc, scarlet is iodide of mercury, and cinnabar, or native vermilion, is from quicksilver ore.—Iowa State Register.

Manufacturing Ribbons.

It is known that the manufacture of ribbons was established in St. Etienne, France, in the eleventh century, and that the place remains to this day the center of the industry. During the persecution of the Huguenots in that country, many of the St. Etienne operatives went to Basle, Switzerland, and established the industry there, where it became second only to St. Etienne. The third most important center was Coventry, England, but Crefeld and Vienna are also large producing centers. To-day there are manufactured in the United States quite as many ribbons as are made at St. Etienne. The products of Switzerland consist mainly of plain styles; that of France largely of fine and fancy millinery goods; that of Crefeld mainly of black silk and black velvet ribbons, the latter a specialty; that of England largely of plain goods, while the United States tries everything with much success, though dependent chiefly upon Europe for the lead in styles. It is a curious fact that for 500 years ribbons were worn mostly by men rather than by women, especially during the long period of effeminacy in the male attire. In the fifteenth to the seventeenth centuries their use in England was restricted to the royalty and gentry by statute. In the times of Charles II. and James II. the whole attire was covered with ribbons. A fop in those days was described as "wearing more than would stock half a dozen shops or twenty country peddlers." It is another curious fact that in the manufacture of ribbons the self-acting loom was in use almost 100 years before Cartwright's invention.—The London Times.

Some persons, instead of "putting off the old man," dress him up in a new shape.—St. Bernard.

Consumption, Wasting Diseases
And General Debility.—Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites: the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

The unrest of the weary world is its unvoiced cry after God.—T. T. Munger.

How Gold Is Exported.

The process of shipping gold across the ocean is thus described by the Boston Commercial Bulletin:

Each keg contains fifty thousand dollars in clear gold. It is from the Bank of America, at New York, that most of the gold is shipped from that city. The foreign steamships sailing from this city now carry little or no gold, although the reverse was the case years ago.

The shipments of gold are not generally on the bank's account. At a first glance persons might well suppose that when the demand arises for gold to send abroad the shipper would only have to send in his orders for his hundreds of thousands to the Sub-Treasury, where millions of specie are on deposit. But there are sufficient reasons why this plan will not work. The Sub-Treasury can pay out its coin only to creditors of the government. With the Bank of America the Associated Banks keep on deposit constantly an enormous sum of gold, sometimes amounting to forty million dollars. To the members of the bank association the Bank of America issues its own certificates against these deposits, redeemable on demand. So when there is occasion for making a gold shipment, the coin is prepared for that purpose in the rear office of that bank; here it is bagged and kegged and made ready for shipment.

Kegs in which gold is packed—"specie kegs" as they are called—are made of extra hard wood. They must have an extra iron hoop. Specie is not thrown loosely into a keg, nor, upon the other hand, is it carefully wrapped in tissue paper and piled up, one coin upon another. The keg serves only as a protection for canvas bags, into which the gold is placed in the ordinary hit-and-miss fashion of pennies in a man's pocket. Into each bag go five thousand dollars, and ten bags fill a keg.

In the interests of security each keg is treated to what is technically known among the shippers as the "red-taping" process. At each end of the keg, in the projecting rim of the staves above the head, are bored four holes at equidistant intervals. A piece of red tape is run through these holes, crossing on the head of the keg, and the ends finally meet in the center. At the point of meeting the tape is sealed to the keg's head by wax bearing the stamp of the shipper.

Gold crosses the ocean very much as does every other kind of freight, without any special looking after. The average rate of insurance is about two thousand dollars on a shipment of one million dollars. There are shippers who do not insure. Having to ship one million dollars, they give it in equal parts to half a dozen different vessels. It is a strict rule with some firms never to trust more than two hundred and fifty thousand at a time on any one ship.

A certain party furnishes all the kegs for gold and packs them. The man who does this is a monopolist in his way. Shippers of large amounts always lose a few dollars by abrasion, but not exceeding sixteen ounces on a million-dollar shipment. The only protection to be found against abrasion lies in the shipment of gold in bars instead of coin. Gold bars are not readily obtained.

A THANKFUL SPIRIT.—There is nothing conduces to happiness like "making the best of it." Persons of a humorous turn of mind get through life easily, because they see the funny side of everything, and turn into a joke what would otherwise be a vexation. Of such was a certain minister who was invited to dine with a member of his flock, who though well enough off in this world's goods, lived sparingly in his greed for dollars and cents. When dinner was served, his host said: "I can't give you anything but bacon and greens, parson. It's all I can afford these hard times." "Lord, make us truly thankful," the minister responded, "for what we are about to receive. We expected nothing but greens, and behold! here is bacon also!"

The reading public has reason to be disgusted with any medicine which claims to cure everything, from a corn to consumption. Shallenberger's Antidote for Malaria is simply what its name imports. If you have Malaria in your system, a few doses will destroy it immediately. So far as now known it is the only antidote for this poison. Sold by Druggists.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A BOON to Housewives.

The farmer and working man who have been out in the mud all day can wash their boots clean before entering the house. They will be Soft, Polished and Dry, if dressed with

Wolff's ACME Blacking

Makes housekeeping easier.

Saves Sweeping and Scrubbing.

The boots will wear a great deal longer, will not get stiff and hard in snow water or rain, and will be WATERPROOF. Ladies, try it, and insist that your husband and sons use it. Once a week for Gents' Shoes and once a month for Ladies'. Unequaled as a Harness Dressing and Preserver. Sold by Shoe Stores, Grocers, Druggists, &c.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, PHILADELPHIA.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement, 1888.

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator	$3 50	$2 75
American Agriculturist.	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	3 50
" Times-Democrat.	3 [illegible]	2 75
Harper's Magazine	6 00	4 75
" Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People.	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

Hugh Jamieson, Jr.

$75 to $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. H. F. JOHNSON & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THREE WONDERFUL

SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect.

6,500,000 LADIES

Are Using Sewing on

SINGER

Family Sewing Machines.

8,000,000

SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,
185 Canal St., New Orleans.
S. E. RUNDLE - - - - - AGENT.

Agents Wanted

ERIE Self-Wringing MOP

is the best selling article out. Made from malleable iron and steel wire.

Special knitted cloth fitted into every Mop before shipping.

A Golden Opportunity for persons of either sex in search of profitable employment, as the SELF-WRINGER sells at sight.

Exclusive territory and liberal terms. Send 50 cents for sample and agent's outfit. Circulars and terms free.

EVANS BROS., Southern Agents,
13 Perdido St., New Orleans.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,
FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET,
BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES,
LAMPS AND LANTERNS.
Axle Grease,

Blacking, Blueing,
Cakes and Cheese Safes, Corks and Clocks,
Coffee and Grain Mills, Cutlery and Saws,
Hammocks, Ice Cream Freezers,
Oyster Tongs, Paper and Rags,
Scales, Sieves.
Whips.

HARDWARE, STONEWARE,
BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES,
TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE,
ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,
Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET.
E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. O. MACKIE,
MANAGERS.

A. Brousseau's Son,
22 and 25 CHARTRES ST.,
CHINA MATTING,
CARPETS,
INGRAINS
LACE CURTAINS,
WINDOW SHADES,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS.

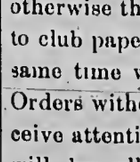
PHILIP WERLEIN'S
GREAT PIANO HOUSE
135 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

MASON & HAMLIN, MATHUSHEK, WEBER, and other Celebrated Pianos.

MASON & HAMLIN, ESTEY, and other World-Renowned Organs

Special Discounts to Schools and Churches. Greatest Bargains to Be Obtained at this Popular Piano House.

Catalogues mailed on application.



Artificial Limbs,
Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted
— BY —
A. McDERMOTT,
200 - - - - ST. CHARLES STREET - - - - - 200
Bet. Julia and St. Joseph.

$500 IN PRIZES.

We will give to the FIRST 100 PERSONS telling us the longest verse in the Bible, before January 1st, the following valuable prizes: To the first person giving the correct answer, $100; to the second, $75; to the third, $50; to the fourth, A Solid Gold Hunting Case Watch; to the fifth, A Beautiful Diamond Ring; to each of the next 25, A Solid Silver Watch; and to each of the next 70, a Beautiful Solid Gold Ring, set with a genuine Diamond. With your answer send 25 cts. (stamps, postal note, or silver), to help cover expenses of this advertisement, postage, &c., and we will send you our Illustrated 48 Page Monthly for six months, and our new Illustrated Catalogue of Watches, Diamonds, &c. Our Illustrated Monthly will announce the result of the contest, with the names and addresses of the winners.

This offer is made solely to introduce our publication and catalogue in new homes, where we feel sure our goods will find ready sale. Give full name and address.

WHITE & CO., 9 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK.

$1000 for a Wife! The above sum in cash and goods will be paid to the first 200 who send 25 cents for a sample of our goods, and tell us correctly where in the Bible is the word "WIFE" first found. Mention book, chapter and verse. The first person who sends the correct answer will be paid $100 IN CASH, the second $50, the third $25, the fourth $15, the fifth $10, and to the next 195, if there are as many, a SOLID GOLD PLATE HALF ROUND WEDDING RING. Warranted. We want new agents, and for 25 cents will send A HANDSOME FOLDING CASE containing 140 USEFUL ARTICLES for Domestic Use, elegantly embellished in 6 colors. Last year we paid $20,000 for advertising, and we wish to try the effect of a new method. Send postage stamps or silver, and LOSE NO TIME if you would secure one of the cash Payments. We will return the money and you may keep the goods if not found satisfactory. Mention this paper. Address at once WORLD MANFG. CO., 122 Nassau Street, N. Y.

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending October 16, 1888.)

COTTON.

Low ordinary	6⅞	— —
Ordinary	7⅜	— —
Good ordinary	8	— —
Low middling	8¾	— —
Middling	9¼	— —
Good middling	9⅝	— —
Middling fair	10⅛	— —
Fair	11	— —
Galveston middling	9⅛	— —
Mobile middling	9 3-16	— —
St. Louis middling	9¼	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	— —	— —
Fully fair	5½	— —
Strictly Prime	— —	— —
Common	4⅜	— —
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	— —	— —
Pr. yellow	— —	7⅛
Gray White	6⅞	— —
Choice white	— —	— —
Stan. Gran.	7½	— —

MOLASSES.

CENTRIFUGAL:
Good Prime	— —	28
Fair	26	— —
Good Common	10	15
CENTRIFUGAL:
Syrup	32	44

RICE.

Head	5¼	6
Good	4⅜	4¾
Fair	4	4⅛
Ordinary	3⅛	3¾
Common	3	3¼
No. 2	2 3-16	2⅜
Rough	2 25	3 75

FLOUR.

Choice	4 75	5 00
Fancy	5 50	5 60
Extra Fancy	5 90	6 00
Minnesota bakers	6 65	6 75
Minnesota patents	7 50	7 75
Extra fancy	6 10	6 15
Winter wheat patents	6 50	6 70

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	2 60	2 75
Cream meal	3 10	— —
Grits	3 10	3 20
Hominy	3 50	— —

GRAIN, ETC.

CORN:
White	55	56
Yellow	— —	— —
Mixed No. 2	56	57
OATS:
Western	33	33½
Texas rust-proof	— —	— —
BRAN:
₩ cwt	92½	95
HAY:
Prime	14½	15½
Choice	16 00	16 50

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	— —	16¾
Prime Mess	— —	16 50
Rumps	— —	16 00
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	12	13
Shoulders	— —	9¼
Sides, short rib	10⅜	10½
Sides, long clear	— —	10⅜
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	12½	13
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	— —	9¼
Sides, short rib	— —	10⅜
Sides, long clear	10⅜	10½

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	17⅜	18
Fair	16¾	17
Common	14¼	14½
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	26	— —
Western Dairy	17	18
Common	14	— —
LARD:
Refined	9¼	9⅜
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Fair	24	35
OILS:
Coal, bbls	10¾	— —
Coal, cases	15	16
Cotton seed, crude	— —	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70	75

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, per head	4	6
Chicago, per 100	— —	— —
Louisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 60	1 90
KROUT:
Western, ₩ bbl	3 25	3 50
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 50	— —

BALING STUFFS.

BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb	12¼	12¾
Jute, 1¾ lb. per yd	12¼	— —
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	12½
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	10½	11
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 10	1 12

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00	4 50
Young Chickens	2 25	3 00
Chickens, South'n	3 00	3 50
Young	1 75	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	12 00
EGGS:
Western	15	16
Southern	16	17
WOOL:
Lake, per lb	20	21
Louisiana	18	19
Burry	10	12
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₩ lb	— —	5
Dry salted	6	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	11 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	— —
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	2⅛	— —
Sulphuric acid	2	— —

CISTERNS.—A. RIGGS & BRO., 247 Delord street, near Dryades. Send for price list.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

In a collision which occurred between two trains on the Lehigh Valley railroad, at Mud Run, Pa., on the eleventh instant, fifty-seven persons were killed and a great many wounded seriously.

The State Fair opened in Dallas, on the eleventh instant, with an immense attendance of people.

The casualties from the falling of the amphitheatre at a fire-works display at Quincy, Ill., October 11, are more numerous than at first reported, but so far none have proved fatal. About 300 were more or less injured.

Master Workman Lewis, of National District Assembly 135, Knights of Labor, composed of coal miners, has called a special meeting to be held in Columbus, O., on December 4, to devise some method of more effectually uniting and solidifying the mining craft.

The sixty-one chiefs and sub-chiefs from the great Sioux Reservation in Dakota, composing the delegations from the several tribes which have come to Washington to confer with the President and the Secretary of the Interior, and to present their objections to the law recently passed by Congress for the relinquishment of 11,000,000 acres of their reservation, were escorted to the Interior Department, on October 13, by their respective agents.

The Chinese charge d'affaires in Washington recently requested the Treasury Department to send telegraphic instructions to the Collector of Customs at San Francisco, directing him to permit the landing at that port of certain Chinese laborers who have lately arrived there, some of whom are provided with return certificates, while others desire merely to pass through the United States to other countries. In answering the communication, Acting Secretary Thompson quotes the provisions of the Chinese exclusion law, and says that as it is understood that the laborers in question arrived since the approval of the act, the Treasury Department is unable to comply with the request.

The Republican Convention of the Second Congressional District, which met in the courthouse in St. James parish, on October 13, nominated H. Dudley Coleman, of New Orleans, to represent the district in the Fifty-first Congress.

Judge Thurman's letter of acceptance was made public on the fourteenth instant. The platform of the St. Louis Convention and the Mills' Bill are approved, and he asserts that the perpetuity of the Union is assured by Cleveland's re-election.

Only two deaths and eighteen new cases of fever were reported from Jacksonville, Fla., on October 14. One new case and two deaths of fever at Decatur, Ala., on the same date.

The nomination of Col. George Moorman to the United States marshalship for the Eastern District of Louisiana, vice Col. Pleasants, deceased, was received by the Senate, on October 15.

FOREIGN.

Emperor William was received at the depot upon his arrival at Rome, by King Humbert, on October 11. The King was in full uniform and wore several German orders. Emperor William wore the uniform of the Red Hussars, and on his breast was the decoration of the Italian Order of the Annunziata.

Dr. Mackenzie, in his book on the case of the late Emperor Frederick, states that after the Emperor's death, an attempt was made to entrap him into a false position, and it was, therefore, settled that no post mortem examination should be made.

Emperor William visited the Vatican, on October 12. He was received by the Pope in the throne hall and his reception was marked by the most imposing ceremonies. The visit of the Emperor to the Pope does not meet with favor in Nationalist circles in Rome.

The French government has issued an order forbidding the reception of foreign officers in the military colleges in France, and also forbidding their service in the army.

Prince Bismarck is suffering from a renewal of his attack of gout in a serious form, partly arising from worry. The reports as to his health are causing the greatest anxiety to his family, and it is said that his condition will probably oblige him to retire from public affairs.

Cardinal Moran, in sending a donation of £50 to the Parnell fund, writes: "On the eve of my departure, I desire to add my mite to the fund to enable the Irish party to defend itself from the vile aspersions the enemies of Ireland have cast upon it."

In the interview between the Pope and Emperor William, on October 12, His Holiness emphasized the necessity of the restoration of temporal power, and said all sovereigns should unite to assure it. Emperor William replied that it would be more to the Pope's advantage to unite with those who represent the principles of order and social conservatism, and, thereby, better secure the peace of the world.

The government of Morocco persists in its refusal to salute the Portuguese flag. The dispute is becoming acute.

The Chamber of Deputies re-assembled in Paris, October 15. General Boulanger was present at the opening of the session. M. Floriquet, the Prime Minister, introduced a bill providing for a revision of the Constitution. The introduction of the bill was greeted with applause by the members of the left.

Senor Moret, Minister of the Interior, of Spain, has informed the Council that the English government has proposed to request the European and American governments to prevent the Pacific Ocean trade in arms, dynamite and other explosives and alcohol.

A good head of hair is desired by everyone. Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer will restore the hair, if the hair cells are not closed up.

A Sermon by Father Taylor.

I once heard Father Taylor preach a sermon on the atonement. It was all in a style that nobody but a sailor could understand—a style that every sailor could comprehend, although a treatise on this subject from an uptown pulpit would have been "Greek" to him. This was one of the passages: "You are dead in trespasses and sin, and buried too: down in the lower hold among the ballast, and you can't get out, for there is a ton of sin on the main hatch. You shin up the stanchions and try to get it open, but you can't. You rig a purchase. You get your handspikes, capstan bars and watch tackles, but they are no good. You can't start it. Then you begin to sing out for help. You hail all the saints you think are on deck, but they can't help you. At last you hail Jesus Christ. He comes straight along. All he wanted was to be asked. He just claps his shoulder to that ton of sin. It rolls off, and then he says: 'Ship-mates, come out!' Well, if you don't come out, it is all your own fault."

It was on the Sunday before a State election. Briggs was the candidate of the Whig party, but Father Taylor desired that he should be elected because he was a religious man. This was his prayer: "O Lord! give us good men to rule over us—just men, temperance men, Christian men—men who fear thee, who obey thy commandments—men; but, O Lord! what's the use of veering and hauling and pointing all around the compass?—give us George N. Briggs for governor!" His prayer was answered on the next day.

Father Taylor was eloquent, humorous and pathetic by turns. Sometimes all these characteristics seemed to be merged in one. These and many others of his traits interested me, but I loved him because, first and last and all the time, he was the sailor's friend.—Captain Codman, in Century.

Blessed are those homes which are hallowed by daily prayer. They are blessed now, and their memory will be a benediction when the children have gone forth into new homes of their own. Alas! that any home, particularly and professedly Christian home, should be without this great privilege, this great safeguard, this means of preparation for the heavenly home!—Christian Weekly.

The Mutual Life.

The Clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this company has been opened in New Orleans, with offices in the Louisiana National Bank Building, 120 and 122 Common street, under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, General Agent.

To Our Readers.

With this issue we begin a year's advertising for the McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY of BALTIMORE, MD. The firm is soliciting the patronage of our people, and their Bells have been in use for many years. They are VERY FAVORABLY known, and give most general delight and pleasure to all who hear them, and we recommend that our people everywhere consult this Firm before buying a Bell or Bells and give their proposition due consideration. In doing so, please remember that in naming this Paper to the Firm when you write them, you do us a great favor (your church paper deserves it) and thus render unto Cæsar that which is due him—i. e., due credit for service performed. The McShane Bell Foundry answer all correspondence promptly and serve patrons faithfully and with dispatch. See their advertisement in our columns.

Clothing.

The card of H. D. McCown, the St. Charles street clothier, will be found in this issue of the ADVOCATE. While making no special announcement, it is in place here to say that his stock of clothing is unsurpassed by any other dealer in the city; and if the ladies will ask for Mr. E. S. Gardner, he will take pleasure in showing them the young folks' department, and give prices for first-quality goods that places shoddy goods and Cheap John behind the scenes.

John Martin Schleyer, parish priest of Constance, and inventor of Volapuk, is dead.

From Rev. Dr. McAnally, editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate.

"I have tried J. & C. Maguire's Cundurango on myself and others, and it is my opinion that to produce a healthy and safe action on the Liver, Kidneys and secretions generally, there is not a better medicine known, and for persons of Bilious or Costive habits its action is most effective and salutary." D. R. McANALLY.

Quarterly Conferences.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Courtland	Oct.	20, 21
Mt. Vernon		27, 28
Pleasant Grove	Nov.	3, 4
Arkabutla		10, 11
Como and Fredonia		12
Chulahoma		17, 18
Cochrum		24, 25
Louisburg		27
Horn Lake	Dec.	1, 2

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GRENADA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Oxford	Oct.	21, 22
Toccopola		27, 28
Water Valley circuit	Nov.	1
Banner		3, 4
Atlanta		10, 11
Grenada circuit		17, 18
Carrollton		24, 25
Pittsboro	Dec.	1, 2
Water Valley		8, 9

J. F. EVANS, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND

Ashland	Oct.	20, 21
Olive Branch		27, 28
Ryhalia and Victoria	Nov.	3, 4
Myrtle		10, 11
Marshall		17, 18
Hickory Flat		24, 25
Pine Mountain	Dec.	1, 2

JNO. BARCROFT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Iuka circuit	Oct.	19
Iuka station		20, 21
New Albany circuit	Nov.	3, 4
Pleasant Ridge circuit		10, 11
Ripley circuit		17, 18
Jonesboro circuit		24, 25
Ripley and New Albany		26
Blackland circuit	Dec.	1, 2
Guntown circuit		8, 9

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Carrollton and Greenwood	Oct.	20, 21
McCool circuit		27, 28
Valden circuit	Nov.	3, 4
Newport circuit		10, 11
Zilpha		17, 18
Ebenezer		24, 25
Durant and Lexington	Dec.	1, 2
Ethel circuit		8, 9

R. F. MITCHELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Ebenezer, at Egypt (Thu.)	Oct.	18
Okolona circuit, at Tranquil		20, 21
Tremont (Fri.)		26
Fulton and Smithville, at Smithville		27, 28
Prairie, at Lebanon	Nov.	3, 4
Athens (Thu.)		7
Aberdeen station		10, 11

AMOS KENDALL, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Hebron, at Hebron	Oct.	20, 21
Starkville station		23
Louisville, at Louisville		26
Plattsburg, at Mt. Pisgah		27, 28
Salem, at Mashulaville	Nov.	3, 4
Walthall, at Lebanon		10, 11
Lagranga		17, 18
Chester, at Chester		24, 25
Crawford, at Artesia	Dec.	1, 2
Tampico, at Mt. Pleasant		8, 9

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Wesson and Beauregard, at Wesson	Oct.	18
Bowerton, at Pleasant Ridge		20, 21
Providence, at Providence		27, 28
Topisaw, at Pleasant Grove	Nov.	3, 4
Hazlehurst		7
Crystal Springs		8
Adams, at Adams		10, 11
McComb City, at McComb City		11
Holmesville, at Water Holes		17, 18
Franklinton, at Franklinton		24, 25

J. M. WEEMS, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Union, at Union Camp Ground	Oct.	20, 21
Winchester (Wed.)		24
Shubuta, at Desoto		24
Sanderaville		27, 28
Enterprise (Wed.)		31
Vossburg, at Central	Nov.	3, 4
Paulding		5
Clark		10, 11
Lauderdale (Wed.)		14
Marion (Thu.)		15
DeKalb (Sat.)		17
Binnsville		18
Leakesville (Wed.)		21
Meridian circuit		25
Meridian station		26

R. D. NORSWORTHY, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Trenton, at Polkville	Oct.	20, 21
Carthage, at Carthage		20.
Hillsboro, at New Providence		27, 28
Conehatta, at White Plains	Nov.	2
Nesboba, at Mars Hill		3, 4
Fannin, at New Providence		7
Walnut Grove, at Scotland Chapel		10, 11
Shiloh		15
Marvin		16
Westville		17, 18
Raleigh		22
Braudon		24, 25

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Pipkin	Oct.	20, 21
Livingston, at Live Oak		22
New River, at Live Oak		23
East Baton Rouge, at Deer Ford		27, 28
Wilson, at Pisgah		30
North Wilkinson	Nov.	3, 4
Centerville		6
Amite, at Woodland		10, 11
East Feliciana, at Olive Branch		17, 18
Bayou Sara, at Concord		24, 25
Jackson		25, 26

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Carlisle	Oct.	20, 21
Harriston		27, 28
Oak Ridge	Nov.	3, 4
South Vicksburg		9, 10
Vicksburg		10, 11
Oak Grove		17, 18
Knoxville		24, 25

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Moss Point, at Moss Point	Oct.	20, 21
Vancleve, at New Prospect		27, 28
Bethel	Nov.	2
Mt. Carmel, at Mt. Zion		3, 4
Columbia		10, 11
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs		18, 19

T. S. WEST, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Amling circuit, at R. Lake	Oct.	20, 21
Flora circuit, at Bover (Sat.)		27
Mt. Olivet ct., at Mt. Olivet (Sun.)		28
Silver Creek circuit, at Ludi	Nov.	3, 4
Edwards circuit, at Queen's Hill		10, 11
Camden circuit, at Camden		17, 18
Raymond circuit, at Clinton		24, 25
West Jackson, at Forest Hill (11 a. m.)		26
Jackson station, at Jackson (7 p. m.)		26

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Anacoco, at Holly Grove	Oct.	20, 21
Woodside and Ebenezer, at Woodside		27, 28
Natchitoches, at Robeline	Nov.	2
Bellwood, at Shiloh		3, 4
Moorlingsport, at Mt. Zion		8
Caddo, at Friendship		10, 11
Cousbatta, at Cousbatta		15
East Point, at Hill's Chapel		16
Red River, at Lindsley		17, 18
Shreveport		24, 25
South Bossier		27
Valley circuit		29
North Bossier	Dec.	1, 2
Pleasant Hill, at Pleasant Hill		8, 9
Mansfield		15, 16

J. B. CASSITY, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Patterson	Oct.	20, 21
Opelousas		27, 28
Grand Chenier	Nov.	3, 4
Indian Bayou		10, 11
Washington		17, 18
Plaquemine Brulee		24, 25
Abbeville	Dec.	1, 2
Sulphur Mine		8, 9
Lake Charles		15, 16

S. S. KEENER, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Harrisonburg and Sicily Island, at S. I.	Oct.	20, 21
Winsboro, at Winsboro		27, 28
Waterproof, at Waterproof	Nov.	3, 4
Lake Providence, at Pecan Grove		10, 11
Oak Ridge, at Good Hope		17, 18
Bastrop, at Bastrop		21
Lind Grove, at Bartholomew		24, 25
Richland, at Girard	Dec.	1, 2
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove		8, 9
Delhi and Floyd, at Floyd		15, 16

J. D. HARPER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Dryades Street and City Mission	Oct.	21
Soraparu and Parker's Chapel		28
Gross Tete	Nov.	4
Baton Rouge		11
Donaldsonville and Plaquemine		18
Carrollton and Lower Coast Mission, at Carrollton		25
Craps Street	Dec.	2
Algiers		9
Louisiana Avenue		16

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Trinity, at White's Ridge	Oct.	20, 21
Columbia, at Columbia	Nov.	3, 4
Castor, at Ebenezer		10, 11
Montgomery, at Brett's		17, 18
Ada, at Beulah		90
Bayou Beouff, at Elm Bayou		24, 25
Sugar Town	Dec.	1, 2
Spring Creek, at Spring Creek		8
Alexandria, at Pineville		8, 9
Evergreen, at Melville		15, 16

B. F. ALEXANDER, P. E.

HOMER DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Haynesville, at New Saline	Oct.	20, 21
Homer, at Homer		27, 28
Minden, at Minden	Nov.	3, 4
Tullp, at Tullp		7
Ringgold, at Andrew Chapel		10, 11
Brushwood, at Gibsland		14
Vernon, at Wesley Chapel		17, 18
Indian Village		24, 25
Sparta and Saline	Dec.	1, 2
Ruston, at Ruston		8, 9
Arcadia, at Arcadia		15, 16

ROBERT RANDLE, P. E.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

Men's Furnishing Goods.

Headquarters of the Celebrated

STAR SHIRT.

Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

ANDREW H. WILSON. GEORGE E. FOSTER

WILSON & FOSTER,

Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,

No. 5 Commercial Place,

Corner of Camp Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Notary in Office.

WALL PAPER

in all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty. WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES. WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS. UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS, RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS.

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

$300 to $500 a month made by working for us. We guarantee energetic persons $500 a Year, with the opportunity of making 3 times that amount. Men who can furnish their own horses preferred. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Holloway & Co., 112 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Ministers, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., 720 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

This paper is kept on file at the office of

AYER AND SON ADVERTISING AGENTS

TIMES BUILDING Chestnut & 8th Sts PHILADELPHIA.

ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING at Lowest Cash Rates FREE

Send 10c. in stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.

NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

NEW! NEW! NEW!

MUSIC BOOKS,

Song Harmony (60 cts., $6 doz.) L. O. Emerson. For Singing Classes. Full set of melodious exercises and easy songs, with explanations, and excellent collection of sacred and secular music.

Song Manual, Book I. (30 cts.) For Primary Classes.

Song Manual, Book II. (40 cts.) For Medium Classes.

Song Manual, Book III. (50 cts.) For Higher Classes.

A new set of Graded School Song Books, by L. O. Emerson. Teachers will find them useful and attractive.

Bells of Victory, (35 cts.) Tenney and Hoffman. An unusually good Temperance Song Book. 104 first rate songs and choruses. Send for specimen copy.

Praise in Song, (cloth 50 cts., $4 80 doz., 40 cts., boards, $4 20 doz.) L. O. & E. H. Emerson. For Praise and Prayer Meetings and Sunday-Schools. May be safely commended as one of the very best books of the kind.

Classic Baritone and Bass Songs, (1,500) Songs of rare beauty. 38 songs by 27 different composers, all well known and eminent. This belongs among the Classical books, of which the others are: Song Classics, Song Classics for Low Voices, Classic Tenor Songs, Piano Classics, Classical Pianist; each $1 00.

ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & Co., 867 Broadway, New York.

A BEAUTIFUL HOME BOOK

In Prose and Poetry. By 400 best authors.

Edited by

THEO. L. CUYLER, D.D., and other

It contains the ripest thoughts and utterances of the minds upon the "three dearest names to mortals given." "Is valuable for its rich selections."—J. H. Vincent.

Elegantly Illustrated. 454 Quarto pages. Cloth, $2. Gilt Edge, in a box, $3.50. Full Morocco, in a box, $5.

Beware of Imitations.

E. B. TREAT, Publisher, 771 Broadway, N.

HUGH JAMIESON, Jr., Agent,

112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

PIANOS GRAND ORGANS

Summer Sale

CASH PRICES—PAY WHEN COTTON IS SOLD.

GRAND OFFER, 1,000 Pianos and Organs

To be sold in August, September and October at ROCK BOTTOM CASH OR EASY PAYMENTS, payable PIANOS only $125 Cash. ORGANS only $10 Cash. And balance Dec. 1, without interest or advance on lowest cash price. Buy now and pay when Cotton is sold. Great Bargains—Pianos $200, $225, $250. Organs $24, $35, $50, $60. 10 makers, 30 styles. All freight paid. 10 days' test trial. Reduced Prices. Write for Mid-Summer Sale Circular. LUDDEN & BATES, SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE SAVANNAH, GA. The Great S. & O. Depot of the South.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

GOAT WAGONS,

R. P. Randall,

54 & 56 Baronne.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 43. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1682.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
HUGH JAMIESON, Jr., Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, . . $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.
REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.
REV. T. L. MELLEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

INDIAN SUMMER.

BY MOSES HILL, D. D.

There are some sunny days in the month of November,
Long after the summer has gone:
They were called by the fathers the Indian summer,
For the Indians then gathered their corn.

There's a beauty and sadness that comes with those days,
Which in no other seasons are seen:
The birds are more gentle and soft in their lays
Than they were when the summer was green.

Those days in November would be a delight,
If that season would last all the year;
But the leaf has a tinge and the vine has a blight,
Which remind us that winter is near.

My Indian summer of life is now here,
My work in the field is now past,
But I must not be idle the rest of the year,
But improve these fine days while they last.

The freshness of spring-time I see no more now,
Nor the beauties of June do I know:
The suns of midsummer have faded my brow,
And my locks are as white as the snow.

No clouds in the skies are distinctly revealed,
Yet a glimmering haze do they show,
Like the face of a maiden with sorrow concealed,
When the tears are just ready to flow.

I'll improve the few days while the season is warm,
And prepare for the ice and the snow;
And strive to be ready to welcome the storm
That shall end all my labors below.

The City Mission.

BY REV. J. F. SUTHERLOCK.

This mission was inaugurated last year by the zealous and enterprising presiding elder of the New Orleans district, Rev. J. T. Sawyer; and, at the session of the Louisiana Conference, the importance of it was recognized by the presiding Bishop, and the Rev. J. J. Billingsley was appointed to it. These statements, as to its origin, are sufficient for those who desire any information concerning it.

The gospel on wheels may be a new idea to many, yet it is a fact with regard to which there can be no doubt. We have the gospel in the church and in the tent; why not have the gospel on wheels? The wagon is about sixteen feet long, about eight feet wide. It is covered overhead with plank to keep the rain off, and in it the organ is placed, and seats for those who will sing. It can be lighted in a few minutes with gas lamps, and the light of these contrasts strangely and solemnly with the surrounding darkness. "Ye are the light of the world," says the Savior, and here we have a significant illustration of the fact. There is an attraction in this wagon exceedingly interesting, and especially to children. No church, no grand ritual, no deep-toned organ will bring them together so readily, and in such numbers. Whatever will bring the people to hear the gospel, though it should be somewhat out of the ordinary and orderly methods adopted by the churches, let us use it gladly and cheerfully.

Services have been held by the missionary at Soniat street, Louisiana avenue, Clay Square, Claiborne street, two blocks above Canal, and another series of services are now in progress at the corner of Burgundy and Pauline streets. Over seventy-five services have been held at these several points within the last four months. It will be seen that the missionary is no idler in the vineyard of the Lord, but an earnest, constant and devoted laborer. He does not allow the vast multitudes to pass by in their career of indifference, neglect and folly, without blowing the trumpet of warning to flee from the wrath of God. He is doing the work assigned to him as he thinks best, and up to the measure of his strength and opportunities. The Revs. Sawyer, Ahrens and Carradine, with others, have rendered important and needed assistance. They have this work greatly at heart, and are thus supplementing their ministrations in their several charges with these out-door efforts. A few faithful women and men have been helping. They have been the right arm of the preacher. There have always been more of the former than the latter. Why is this? Are there more workers among the women than the men? It really seems so. Is it possible that among the great numbers of Methodists in the city not more than an average of eight regular attendants can be induced to lend a helping hand to this important enterprise—the evangelizing of the city of New Orleans? They can go out walking, to West End, to theatres, operas, etc., and where they are needed most they can not be induced to come. Who will rise up with the missionary and his co-laborers against the wicked? Who will heed this call to duty, and come out to sing and pray? May there be many responses!

The preaching is good, to the point, and faithful. There are efforts to convert, to build up, to keep the people of God from straying. Vice, in its most hideous forms, and however degrading and ruinous to the soul, has been openly and pointedly exposed, and the threatenings of God's law denouncing it, proclaimed with authority. Responsibility has not been evaded, for, as the mouthpieces of God, no uncertain sound has, as yet, been heard. Hundreds and thousands have been attracted to these declarations of divine truth. The attendance ranges from three hundred to a thousand, perhaps more. On favorable nights there are rarely fewer than 600 or 800. These stand up to listen, and gladly receive the literature, composed of tracts and Bible leaves; and whilst there are some who will not give attention to the Word preached, the majority of them do. There is more good listening and manifest appreciation of the truth than a casual observer would be able to discover. The congregations are as large as half, if not two-thirds, of our preachers address in the city on Sunday.

As to the results of these out-door services, I am able to give some satisfactory information. Many consecration cards have been signed and returned to the missionary. Four mission stations have been formed, and two or three Sunday-schools have been organized. Another mission station should be made, where services are now being held, at the corner of Burgundy and Pauline streets. The opening is most propitious, and should not be neglected. The work is not a failure, but a grand success, and needs only to be kept up to culminate in the grandest victory our church has ever achieved in the State. One-fourth of the population of the State live in New Orleans, and our Master's cause and the church we represent should be so deeply entrenched in the hearts of the population that they can never be extirpated either by error or persecution.

The formation of mission stations are intended to be auxiliaries to the churches now in existence, and not to supplant them. When established, they are turned over to the pastors under whose jurisdiction they would naturally fall for their pastoral oversight. They may thus be saved to the church, and contribute largely to their growth and strength. Any pastor who fails to enter this open door is not as deeply alive to this mission work as he should be. He loses ground, despite all his energies, eloquence, and faithfulness. This great evangelistic movement must get out of the old ruts, and conform itself to the needs of the people under new phases and new means.

There is not much said about this mission either among the people or in the newspapers. Why this ominous silence?—a silence which may be felt, and a silence which indicates the want of a genuine appreciation in the minds of those who ought to be alive to it. Our preachers ought to announce from their pulpits where services are being held, and urge their members to attend whenever practicable. Why not keep a standing advertisement in the leading newspapers of the city and in the ADVOCATE, apprising the people of these out-door services? The theatres, operas and circuses send out their circulars, hire brass bands to attract with their music, and employ men to drive through the streets with great posters mounted on wheels, simply to advertise their actors and plays. Why not talk up, and preach up, and write up the City Mission? This is the only way to keep the people reminded of it; otherwise they will forget that it has an existence. The work of the Lord is worthy of a widespread advertisement.

The Limit—Where Is It?

Exactly what the Savior meant when he charged the seventy to be "harmless as doves," does not easily appear, unless it was just what he said. Was that an exceptional case? Did he intend this harmlessness to be displayed only when men go out to evangelize the world, two by two, and seventy at a time; or is it a general direction covering the conduct of his followers everywhere and under all circumstances? Is it barely possible that the self-restraint here exhorted to holds us only to such a course of conduct as would not needlessly provoke hostilities, and such vigor or spirit of self-defense as would stop promptly at the effectual repulse of the enemy?

The limit of Christian aggressiveness, the true Christian attitude of self-defense, are interesting questions; and the many seasons of repentance and remorse through which we pass, in consequence of the excesses to which we go in advocacy of the right, or in indignation at a wrong, removes these questions from the domain of mere speculation. How often, upon the occurrence of some act of violence, do we hear from the lips of gentle women and Christian men vengeful words—denunciations of the wrong-doer—breathing the very spirit which in the young or the unregenerate lead to just such deeds as are the subjects of denunciation. This question of non-resistance came up in the writer's presence a few days ago, and in a company composed chiefly of ministers of the gospel. Its discussion was suggested in part by the writings of the Russian author, Tolstoi, which one of the company had recently read. As usual, the general principle was soon abandoned for "ad hominum" tests. "If a man should call you a liar," said one to a minister present, "what would you do?" "If he were more than two feet off," was the unhesitating answer, "I don't know what I'd do; but if he were near enough, I'd hit him." Another said that he would feel authorized, in this case and in all others similarly trying, to do whatever and only what the Savior would probably have done under such provocation; but argued that we could not properly infer from the record we have of his life that he would not have resented a personal insult even to the extent of violence, had he not been under the restraints of a peculiar mission—one of self-denial, suffering and death. No one present could be brought within a moral mile of accepting the doctrine of non-resistance, pure and simple. The first speaker was rather applauded than otherwise, and the liberal interpretation of Scripture which the second advanced was received with most indulgent criticism. And this was not in a belligerent company, by any means. There was no local cause of excitement. It was rather an expression of a sentiment very common to men, even those who are professed followers of Christ. Is this common sentiment right? If it is proper for a Christian, under the provocation supposed, to strike at all, how hard and with what may he strike in the name and by the example of the Master? Is the spirit of love and charity to be operative at twenty-four inches and over, but to draw the line at two feet? These are not altogether trivial questions, nor need they be unprofitable. It is of vast importance to us how far Christ's life is a model for ours. There are too many of us, perhaps, who would like the Scriptures better if He were more frequently represented as the "Lion of the tribe of Judah." We don't altogether enjoy the recurrence of the "Lamb" idea. Most of us wince a little even at being classed with the sheep, and there are not a few who can never adopt this classification without mentally reserving to themselves the occasional butting privilege of the rams of the flock. The difficulties of the case are enhanced by the suspicion of cowardice which commonly attaches to the man who declines a personal combat in vindication of his own or another's right. It is probably a knowledge that such a judgment is ready to be pronounced, together with some uncertainty of ourselves, which decides our course in such an emergency. Doubtless more of us would exhibit the forbearance of the Master were we only sure that we did it in the Master's spirit, and not because we were afraid of getting hurt. But even when we do so far control the natural man as to suffer wrong with patience, are we not a little too careful to let our friends know, or, like Longstreet's typical Georgian of the olden time, to assure ourselves, how we "mout have fout," if we had been so inclined? "If I were not a preacher," or "a member of the church," has uncovered a multitude of sins in the hearts of professed followers of the Lamb.

Recent developments in the prosecution of a great movement for moral reform are worthy, in this connection, of careful study. Intemperate language in the advocacy of temperance, hissing denunciation and damnation at the sinner, with such accompaniments of clenched fists and almost exultant tone, as who should say, "You will be damned, and I'm glad of it"—are there not those who do this?—are hardly the best ways of advocating religion or morals in a gainsaying world. To denounce or "champion" something is very tempting to the average public speaker—possibly because it is the easiest kind of speaking—and it becomes all good men to be sure in doing either that they do it for conscience sake. The "soldier" idea in the writings of Paul, properly understood, is not inconsistent with the "dove" and "lamb" ideas in the descriptions and the teachings of Christ. It is remarkable how careful Paul is to modify the military figure wherever he uses it. The soldierly quality which he recommends is almost always that of endurance, and even when he emphasizes it in the words, "I have fought a good fight," he qualifies the statement at once by adding, "I have kept the faith."

It may not be unprofitable to inquire what would be the result were the Savior's injunction, "that ye resist not evil," to be taken literally and carried into effect in every Christian life, even to the extent of offering the other cheek and giving the cloak also to our violent and rapacious neighbor. Would our civilization perish? Would the wrong everywhere prevail? Or would the exhibition of all-enduring patience, on the part of Christ's chosen people, check the hand of violence and melt the hard heart to tenderness and love? It can not be denied that the world has made some progress under the two-foot rule announced above. Would not the millennium be hastened by the general adoption among Christians of a kindlier standard, even though the old Adam "roar by reason of disquietness" within him?

It is worth the trial, at any rate.

A Gray Day.

BY MRS. L. CRARY SADLER.

MR. EDITOR: Did you ever experience the vicissitudes of a gray day? It is different from a blue day. All the preachers know what that is, especially when it falls on Monday; and some that are not preachers know. Blue goggles straddle the nose, and one feels as if they had been soused in a war-time indigo-barrel, hung in the smoke-house to dry, and ironed with a hot rasp. East winds blow and blue imaginations run rampant, but the only thing that really is blue is the sky; but those afflicted with the blues "are of the earth, earthy;" so they do not see that. When David had the blues, he said: "In my distress I cried unto the Lord, and he heard me; I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help." And, no doubt, the help came, and Doeg and the blues fled together.

Asking a friend for the synonym of the blues, he gave: "Meanness." If that is the tap-root, one has only to "quit their meanness" (as Sam Jones says) and blue days will vanish.

But a gray day! Well, on a gray day gray clouds loom up suddenly; right and left, before, behind, above. If one could see the sky, it would look gray, of course; but who would acknowledge that they felt gray? One must be a mind-reader to tell when another is passing through a gray day, or a physiognomist, at least; and the person seems to be perfectly conscious that what is, as it were, "a garment thereof" to him is a transparency to others. He also knows that there is a silver rim and a golden rift to the cloud, but the mist in his eyes shuts out the glint that otherwise would light up this gray day; yet he is not cast down—he is simply perplexed.

Eliha told Job that the Almighty covered the light with clouds, and "commandeth it not to shine by the cloud that cometh betwixt." You have a work mapped out, a certain line of duty to follow, and, lo! here is a "cloud betwixt;" so you make the best of it, and try to let the light that is in you shine through the cloud on somebody else, and, after many days, you may find out that what seemed to you a gray day was a real sunshiny day to others.

Gray days must have been prevalent of late, especially to the preachers. The yellow fever panic and the quarantine were the clouds that came "betwixt." This scribe hopes that they all used the gray days as effectively as did our presiding elder, Dr. West; our young pastor, Bro. Crymes, and the Rev. W. W. Hopper. They were laid up at our station two days; real gray days to them, but not so to us. Bro. Hopper preached at night one of his excellent sermons from the latter clause of Revelation xxii, 17, with very perceptible and good effect. His power seems to lie in his perfect consecration to the one object of saving souls. He is what Paul told Timothy to be, "Strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus." Bold in this faith, strong in this hope, firm in this belief, he "staggers not at the promises of God." Long may he live to bless the church with his labors of love! If those days to him were gray days, they were very bright to us, and very pleasant was the interchange of thought, the flow of soul and feast of fat things we enjoyed while recalling events and incidents of the past, and discussing some living topics. Twelve years had intervened since we had clasped hands. "Like a tale that was told," they were gone. Our paths met and diverged. They will meet again where gray days never dawn.

Our good Dr. West seemed to be much worn out. He had hastened from St. Tammany Camp Ground to catch a train before the quarantine should have cut him off; but, alas! he was too late. His benign countenance, cheerful words and genial manner almost dispersed the cloud; but he had to read sixty pages of "The Prison Life of Jefferson Davis" to dispel the cloud that "came betwixt" him and Morpheus. Then, when he had taken a dose of "nature's sweet restorer," he shone conspicuously. Bro. Crymes was at home, so there was no cloud betwixt him and his work, though he looked a little foggy after having been "in labors abundant."

Dr. West and Bro. Hopper must have had another gray day before they reached home, as they started afoot. Horses and saddle-bags are an unknown commodity to a presiding elder in these days of fast transit; so, when they are laid over by quarantine or accident, there is a "cloud betwixt" and a gray day ahead.

Wonders of the Dead Sea.

One of the most interesting lakes or inland seas in the world is the Dead Sea, which has no visible outlet. It is not mere fancy that has clothed the Dead Sea in gloom. The desolate shores, with scarcely a green thing in sight, and scattered over with black stones and rags of driftwood, form a fitting frame for the dark, sluggish waters covered with a perpetual mist and breaking in slow, heavy, sepulchral-toned waves upon the beach. It seems as if the smoke of the wicked cities was yet ascending up to heaven, and as if the moan of their fearful sorrow would never leave that God-smitten valley. It is a strange thing to see those waves, not dancing along and sparkling in the sun, as other waves do, but moving with measured melancholy, and sending to the ear, as they break languidly upon the rock, only doleful sounds. This is, no doubt, owing to the great heaviness of the water, a fact well known and which we amply verified in the usual way, for, on attempting to swim, we went floating about like empty casks. This experiment was more satisfactory in its progress than in its results, which were a very unctuous skin and a most pestiferous stinging of every nerve, as if we had been beaten with nettles. Nor was the water we took into our mouth a whit less vile than the most nauseous drugs of the apothecary. That fish can not live in this strong solution of bitumen and salt is too obvious to need proof; but to say that birds can not fly over it, and live is one of the exaggerations of travelers, who, perhaps, were not, like ourselves, so fortunate as to see a flock of ducks reposing on the water in apparently good health. And yet this was all the life we did see. The whole valley was one seething cauldron, under more than a tropical sun. God-forsaken and man-forsaken, no green thing grows within it, and it remains to this day as striking a monument of God's fearful judgments as when the fire from heaven devoured the once mighty cities of the plain.—The Missionary Herald.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1888.

OVER THE RIVER

Over the river I see the lights
That shine from many a happy home.
They twinkle upon the terraced heights,
Like the stars in heaven's jewelled dome.

Methinks I see, through the open door,
The children's faces fresh and fair,
The firelight dancing across the floor,
And leaping like the outer air.

O happy homes! and yet not all.
Alas! not all; for some there be,
Where the lamplight and the firelight fall
On angel faces I can not see.

O happy hearts, and hearts that ache!
O homes! O lights across the river!
Our God doth give, our God doth take;
Shall we not trust his love forever?

—Good Housekeeping.

(Vincent and Holway's Lesson Commentary. Phillips & Hunt, New York.)

Sunday-School Lesson.—Nov. 4.

DEFEAT AT AI.

Joshua vii, 1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Incline my heart unto thy testimonies, and not to covetousness.—Psa. cxix. 36.

TIME.—B. C. 1451, not long after the fall of Jericho.

PLACE.—Ai, ten or fifteen miles west of Jericho, and near Beth-el. Its location is supposed to have been nearly three thousand feet above the plains of Jericho.

1. Children of Israel—There was one transgressor against the cherem, or ban, on Jericho, and his transgression brought the guilt and disgrace of sin upon the whole nation. The nation, as a nation, was in covenant with God, and is treated by him not merely as a number of individuals, but as a divinely constituted organic whole. Hence the sin of Achan defiled the other members of the community as well as himself, and robbed the people collectively of holiness before God and acceptableness with him. Committed a trespass—The word used here in the Septuagint Version is very striking. It is the same as that employed in Acts v, 1, 2, to describe the sin of Ananias and Sapphira. They took for themselves, appropriated to themselves, sequestered from God, a portion of what had been devoted to him at Jericho. In the accursed thing—The silver and gold, etc., were to come as consecrated things into the treasury of the sanctuary; the rest of the spoil was to be burned with fire, as a sacrifice of the first-fruits of Israel's conquests. Achan, then, in diverting any of these devoted things to his own purposes, committed the sin of sacrilege. Achan—His genealogy is given probably to show that from a parentage so infamous the descendants would not be carefully trained in the fear of God. Took—What he took is more fully described in verse twenty-one. His sin was rendered more heinous by the fact that he knew full well the ban which had been pronounced upon the doomed city. Anger of the Lord was kindled—The heavenly Father is no blind and unjust parent, who has favorites whose transgressions he winks at. He chastises those whom he loves, and because he loves them.

2. Joshua sent men from Jericho, to Ai—After the sacking of Jericho, the next step was to penetrate into the hills above. Accordingly spies went up the mountain-pass to view the country. Which is beside Beth-aven—Though smaller than Jericho, Ai was a position of great importance: it dominated the road to Jerusalem, then called Jebus, and was situated only a few hours distant; it commanded the approaches into the heart of the country, and especially the fertile district of Samaria: its fall virtually involved that of Beth-el. Beth-aven lay between Beth-el and Michmash. On the east side of Beth-el—Beth-el was originally called Luz, a place on the border of Ephraim and Benjamin. It is frequently mentioned; was well known at a later time as the city in which Jeroboam established the worship of the calves, and was inhabited again even after the captivity.

3. Let about two or three thousand men ... smite Ai—The easy conquest of Jericho had probably rendered the people presumptuous. Their enemies are contemptible, and they can easily carry all before them. Even Joshua himself seems to have formed his measures without taking the usual precaution of consulting God as to his duty. Make not all the people to labor thither—That is, to labor and fatigue themselves by going thither: an advice by which they obviously consulted the ease rather than the safety or glory of the people. This was done by the wise contrivance of divine Providence, that their sin might be punished, and they awakened and reformed, with as little hazard and mischief and reproach as might be. For they are but few—The total population of Ai was about twelve thousand. It could, therefore, hardly muster three thousand warriors.

4, 5. They fled before the men of Ai—Not having their usual courage to strike a stroke, which was a plain evidence that God had forsaken them; and a useful instruction, to show them what weak and inconsiderable creatures they were when God left them: and that it was God, not their own valor, that gave the Canaanites and their land into their hands. Smote of them about thirty and six men—This disaster, though shameful, was much lighter than might have been expected to attend such a rout. Chased them ... unto Shebarim—That is, unto the "breakings" or "disgraces" at the opening of the passes. Shebarim is not a proper name, as the Vulgate renders it. It has the article, and must be rendered either with Keil, "the stone-quarries" (literally, "the crushings or breakings"), or with Gesenius, "the ruins," which, however, is less probable, since Ai has a similar signification. Smote them in the going down—That is, the declivity or slope of the deep, rugged adjoining wady. Hearts of the people melted, and became as water—This was not cowardice, but awe. The people had relied upon the strong hand of the Lord, which had been so wonderfully stretched out for them. From Joshua downward, everyone felt that, for some unknown reason, that support had been withdrawn. Thus the very effect which was threatened to be produced on the devoted nations by the approach of the Israelites was now in the righteous judgment of God wrought in the hearts of his own sinning people.

6. Joshua rent his clothes—For the loss fell, the consequent mischief feared, and the sin which he suspected. In token of sorrow and distress. Fell ... upon his face before the ark—In deep humiliation and fervent supplication. Until the even-tide—Thus spending the whole day in fasting and prayer. Common generals would have accounted the loss of thirty-six men as nothing; but the blood of Israel was precious in the sight of Joshua. Put dust upon their heads—A sign of still more abject humiliation. The head, the noblest part of man, was thus placed beneath the dust of the ground from whence he was taken. It was a common custom among the Greeks. Homer mentions the custom.

7. Wherefore hast thou ... brought this people over Jordan—The complaint almost amounts to murmuring, and sounds very much like the complaint which the murmuring people brought against Moses and Aaron in the desert; but it was very different from the murmuring of the people on that occasion against the guidance of God; for it by no means arose from unbelief, but was simply the bold language of faith wrestling with God in prayer—faith which could not comprehend the ways of the Lord. Would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan—To consider this trivial check as the forerunner of total ruin; to inquire wherefore the Lord had brought them over Jordan; and to admit the thought that it was in order to deliver them into the hands of the Amorites, were proofs of unbelief, which may be accounted for, but were wholly inexcusable, especially after the express promises and miraculous successes which he had just before received.

8. What shall I say, when Israel turneth their backs before their enemies—What construction shall I put upon it, or how shall I answer the reproaches and taunts of thine enemies, when Israel, thine own people, for whom thou hast done such great things, and to whom thou hast made such glorious promises, when they turn their backs in ignoble flight before their enemies? He speaks as one at a loss what to think of the unhappy events that had just occurred; as if nothing more strange or marvelous could have happened than the defeat of the chosen people. It was not because he did not know what to say, for he proceeded at once to pour out the thoughts of his heart, but because he felt that the thought which he was about to utter might involve a reproach, as if when God permitted that disaster he had not thought of his own honor.

9. The Canaanites ... shall hear of it—The disgrace which the sin of man brings upon the cause of the Lord is a real and very terrible thing. Environ us round, and cut off our name—Our enemies will be encouraged to make a combined assault, and destroy our communications with eastern Palestine. What will thou do unto thy great name—When they have destroyed our name, after thou hast chosen us to be thy people, and brought us hither with such great wonders, what will become of thy name? Our name is of little moment, but wilt thou consult the honor of thine own name, if thou destroyest us? For thou didst promise us this land; and what people is there that will honor thy name if ours should be destroyed?

10. Get thee up; wherefore liest thou thus upon thy face—The question involved the reproof that Joshua had no reason to doubt the fidelity of the Lord. Instead of seeking for the cause of the calamity in God, he ought to seek it in the sin of the people. God's answer is given directly, and, apparently, suddenly, to Joshua, in terms of biting reproof. Joshua must no longer lie helpless before God; the cause of the calamity was to be found elsewhere. Not puerile lamentation, but action, is ever the duty of the soldier of the Lord. If defeat assails either the individual or the cause, there is a reason for it, and this must be promptly searched out, and, with God's aid, be discovered. The sin or error once found out and put away, the combat may be renewed and brought to a successful issue.

11. Israel hath sinned—A simple, but satisfactory explanation. It is not God who changes. It is we who frustrate his counsels of love and protection against our enemies. We have here another assertion of the principle that if one member suffer all the members suffer with it. Achan's sin was the sin of all Israel. So the sin of one man is still the sin of the whole church. Transgressed my covenant—That is, have broken the conditions of the covenant or agreement of general obedience into which they had before entered. Covenant, in the Scriptures, often has the sense of command, precept, ordinance. Stolen—Have sacrilegiously taken and appropriated to their own use the portion which I had reserved to myself, and ordered to be brought into the treasury. Dissembled—Have covered the deed with deep dissimulation; instead of ingenuously confessing the sin and imploring pardon, have sinfully endeavored to hide it, as if by concealing it from their brethren they had concealed it also from me. Put it ... among their own stuff—The anger of God and the heinousness of Israel's sin are marked by the accumulation of clause upon clause, emphasis being given to each new item in the indictment by the repetition of "also." As a climax they had even put the consecrated property purloined from God "among their own stuff"—that is, appropriated it to their own use. The first three clauses describe the sin in its relation to God as a grievous offense; the three following according to its true character, as a great, obstinate, and reckless crime.

12. Therefore ... could not stand before their enemies—This plain statement disposes of the idea that the repulse before Ai was simply the result of Joshua's rashness in sending so small a body of troops. The vivid narrative of the detection of Achan, obviously taken from contemporary records, precedes the account of the final capture of the city, although Joshua resolves to take greater precautions before making a second attack. Because they were accursed—They had, by their iniquity, put themselves out of the range of his protection and blessing, and unless summary punishment was executed upon the offender, they would transfer upon themselves the very curse denounced against their adversaries. Means must, without delay, be taken to discover and punish the perpetrator of this trespass, that Israel may be released from the ban, and things be restored to their former state of prosperity. Neither will I be with you ... except ye destroy the accursed—The LXX. translate: "Except ye remove the accursed thing, the anathema, from among you," using the identical word for "remove" that St. Paul uses respecting the incestuous Corinthian, "therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person." (I Corinthians v, 13.) This declaration proves that the strong promise of chapter i, 5, was conditioned on the fidelity of Israel.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

Sin brings spiritual disaster.
Sin brings sorrow upon the good.
Sin brings reproach to the cause and name of God.

A Word to the Sisters.

MR. EDITOR: Can you spare space for a few words concerning the "Mississippi White Ribbon"? This is a monthly paper, published at Meridian, and edited by Mrs. H. B. Kells. Price, $1 per annum. The first issue had only eight pages. With the second number it was enlarged to twelve pages. It will probably be further enlarged and published twice a month in the near future. It is worthy of extensive patronage. The name of its editor is a sufficient guarantee as to its literary merit. A woman's paper published in the South is a need of the times. Papers for women are numerous, but they belong to other latitudes. This paper, while not oppressively sectional, is Southern in its tone. It does not advocate female suffrage or third-partyism. While the temperance cause is its specialty, it will be no hobbyist. Every cause that seeks the exaltation of female character and the purification of the home will find in it a friend.

I hope every good woman who reads the ADVOCATE will subscribe for it, and constitute herself an agent to extend its circulation. Will our preachers also lend a helping hand?

W. C. BLACK.

Centenary College.

Centenary still lives and grows. Despite the devastating storm and the demoralizing panic the college has already enrolled more students than during the entire session previous, and recruits are still coming. The prospects brighten weekly. The boys are a splendid set—studious, orderly and gentlemanly; none better to be found. The faculty all at their posts—faithful, conscientious and painstaking. President Hunnicutt has delighted one and all by his admirable conduct of the institution. His faith in what he undertakes never falters, and he is calm, confident and hopeful, inspiring all around him. "Just the man for the place," is the unanimous verdict.

Through the liberality of Bro. C. Keener, nearly five hundred dollars is being expended in repairing the buildings; and neatness and thrift characterize the present management.

Let the people awake, let the boys and money come, let the institution overflow with visible proofs of good-will, and Dr. Hunnicutt and his Christian associates will do a grand work for distinctive Christian education in the two States. J. V. PENN.

JACKSON, Louisiana.

From the West.

MR. EDITOR: The Pacific Conference, held by Bisop Galloway, at Woodland, Cal., has just closed. The session was the most delightful and prosperous in our history. So say our oldest members. More money was reported for missions—both foreign and domestic—than at any previous session; indeed, there has been a steady upward move on this line for about seven years, during which time we have more than doubled missionary collections. The church extension collections measured up to the assessment.

Woodland, the site of the session, is one of the beautiful and rich towns of the State. It was unoccupied by our church until five years ago, when, without property, we organized there with but thirteen members. Now we have a splendid church and a neat parsonage centrally located, and our membership approaches one hundred. The Church Extension Board aided us largely and may rejoice in its work.

Our Mississippi Louisiana Bishop charmed all minds and won all hearts; and no wonder, for he is every inch a Bishop. In the pulpit and on the platform he stood the peer of any, while in the Cabinet and in the chair he sat unsurpassed.

One more Conference item is worthy of note, viz: The beginning of a regular endowment fund for our college. The Bishop raised for this purpose, in a few minutes, on the Conference floor about fifteen thousand dollars; and we believe the work will go on. We start out with fresh hope for the new year; but one thing embarrasses us—we need men. Some came to us by transfer, but not enough to meet the growing demands of our work; besides we yielded up three men to the needs of Oregon and one to Mexico. Men for the West should be young, and in them should burn the missionary fire. For such men we have place and prospects of large usefulness. Several works remain unsupplied—two on my district, and some on others. Will not some readers of the ADVOCATE volunteer? If so, let them confer at once with Bishop Galloway. I would also be glad to hear from them. M. B. SHARBROUGH.

CHICO, California.

The Missionary Quilt.

To all the readers of the ADVOCATE we would say, our foreign missionary quilt is nearly completed. We want to have it finished, sold, and the money with Mr. Lamhuth by the last of December. To those who do not know the history of our quilt, we will say, we made it the week of prayer and self-denial. All who give us a dime, we put their name on our quilt. We are pleased to say we have the names and dimes of many of the readers of the ADVOCATE; and all others who love the missionary cause, we would ask, send us your name and a dime. We would ask the young people who have never done anything for the cause of missions to begin at once. The pleasure you would derive from it would amply repay you for all your labors. While we can not all go to foreign fields to proclaim the "glad tidings of salvation" to the heathen, we are glad we have the privilege of assisting those who are already there. To the editor of the ADVOCATE—one of the best of papers; Bro. Mellen, of Wesson; Dr. C. W. Campbell, of Rehoboth neighborhood, and all others who have given us words of encouragement in our work, we would say, God bless them. Please address

LILLIAN BEESLEY,
MABELLE BEESLEY.

WESSON, Mississippi.

From the Work.

BALLMAN, MISS.

MR. EDITOR: The fourth and last quarterly Conference for this charge was held last Saturday and Sunday at Mt. Pleasant Church. Our presiding elder, J. M. Weems, was on hand in due time, and in the spirit of his mission. It is no harm to say that he understands his business, presiding with honor to the church; his sermons and exhortations were according to the gospel of Christ. He knew his duty, and performed it with Christian firmness. Dinner for Saturday and Sunday was furnished on the ground with a liberal hand. The service on Sunday morning was truly "a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord." Many were made happy in the love of God. One young brother took the holy Eucharist for the first time since he joined the church (more than a year ago); was happily converted. I was thankful that I had exhorted him privately beforehand to do his duty and not deny his Lord. That happy day will not soon be forgotten. A Baptist lady took the sacrament with her husband, joined our church, and rejoiced together in the unity of God's love. They were but recently married. The writer requested the friends to come forward and give our beloved presiding elder (soon to go to the Mexican mission) the parting hand. We were reminded of the tearful time Paul once experienced; but, glory be to God! we expect to meet again in the beautiful land, when life's warfare is over.

This is largely a fruit and vegetable country, but on account of drought, and a storm which lasted twelve or fourteen hours, the crops were seriously cut off; also crops of corn and cotton. So on account of these disasters my financial report will be unavoidably short of the assessments. Mt. Pleasant Church has been nicely repaired and painted. Our large new church at Gallman is completed, except painting inside. We expect soon to have it dedicated. Its membership has increased largely in the last two years. She has paid all her assessments, and a little over, to the pastor. We have a nice home for the pastor at Gallman; first payment made. All this I am grateful to say, since the writer has been in charge. Old Bethesda Church is holding her own, I think. They have one of the best managed Sunday-schools I ever saw. Terry Church is advancing along the line with a good and increasing membership. She keeps up her Sunday-school and prayer meeting.

The writer will hold in grateful remembrance the many kind friends to himself and his helpmeet in the gospel.

Yours, etc.,

GEO. BANCROFT.

P. S.—I must not forget to mention the meeting which was held, Sunday afternoon, by the Woman's Missionary Society, appointed at that time, so as to have the presence of Bro. Weems. Sister Laura Francis is president, and Sister Mary Hennington, secretary, and Sister William Ford, treasurer. They done their work well. Bro. Weems gave them a very appropriate talk. Bethesda Church has a Woman's Missionary Society and a Juvenile. G. B.

SCOTLAND CIRCUIT, BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: As the Conference year is nearing its close, I send you a few items in regard to the affairs of our church work. Up to date we have had one hundred and eight professions of saving faith in Christ. We have received into the church one hundred and sixteen. A new church has been organized with seventy members. One Woman's Missionary Society organized with thirty-two members. We now have two—both doing well. A majority of those converted were already in the church, but had never been "born again."

We have had a two-days' meeting at Bethel, during which time forty-five publicly professed conversion; and I have never witnessed brighter or more satisfactory conversions. They knew it, they felt it, they told it. Several noteworthy facts might be mentioned in this connection. The attendance was large; behavior good; strict attention given to preaching; and for years past I have not seen so much religious feeling manifested under the preached Word.

Last Sunday night (the second of the meeting) we had a class meeting; and a glorious time it was. I invited penitents to the altar. About thirty-five came; and it seemed that nearly everyone else of that large congregation was happy, and a great many praising God aloud. We may truly say: "The Lord has done great things for us, whereof we are glad." We were assisted part of the time by Bros. J. M. Weems, P. E.; T. L. Mellen, of Wesson, and Bro. A. F. Watkins, of Brookhaven. These esteemed brethren did valuable work. They are known to the Master, and their record is on high. The other churches in this charge shared largely in the blessings of this meeting.

I am occupying the new parsonage that has been built this year. It is a commodious and comfortable home for the preacher. Its estimated cost is fourteen hundred and fifty dollars. The preacher who may come here next year will have a good home among kind and generous people. They have been good to me and mine; and may the Lord continue to prosper and bless them!

As to the finances: We have paid the presiding elder and Bishop's claim. All the collections ordered by the Conference well in hand, and I think all will be paid.

I am near the close of my fortieth year in the itinerant ministry, and I can truly say that this has been among the most happy, pleasant and enjoyable. Thank God for all the good that has been done.

"O, to Grace how great a debtor Daily I'm constrained to be!"

H. D. HOWELL.

CASEYVILLE, Miss., Oct. 9, 1888.

MEADVILLE CIRCUIT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: We have just closed our last protracted meeting on Meadville circuit. We commenced our meetings at Meadville; the next we held at Providence, then at Cool Springs, and last at Oak Grove. The church has been again blessed with the presence of the Spirit of God, at which we were astonished and very much encouraged. I thought that at some of these appointments we were at such a low ebb in spiritual matters that we need hardly expect the Lord to bless us unless we did something to earn his blessings. I have learned these lessons that, "God's thoughts are not as our thoughts, and that as far as the heavens are above the earth, so are his ways above our ways;" also that, "he is long-suffering and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression." Again the Lord has pardoned us, and we take courage and go forward. We have had forty accessions in all during the year—some by certificate from other circuits, but most from accessions during our meetings. We have had a comparatively successful year. I believe there is a deeper work of grace going on among the Christians, but in the process of purification we have found considerable alloy, which—under the fire—is being separated, and found to be "reprobate silver."

We will have one young (noble) man to apply for entrance into the traveling ministry; another has already received license to exhort, and the third will, doubtless, be raised by the Quarterly Conference from the position of a successful exhorter to that of a local preacher.

Our Ladies' Aid Societies are doing good work. At Meadville the ladies have furnished the parsonage with new, substantial furniture, bedding, quilts, etc., included. At Nebo they have raised, by ten-cent fees, nearly money enough to ceil the church. We do not despise the day of small things on this circuit.

We hope to bring up our Conference collections in full.

Very truly,

H. BRADFORD, P. C.

COLUMBUS, NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: The fourth Quarterly Conference for Columbus circuit, North Mississippi Conference, was held at Mt. Pleasant, September 29. Our presiding elder being absent, B. F. Phillips, P. C., occupied the chair. We had quite an enjoyable time. Preaching at eleven o'clock by J. W. Peavy, L. E., dinner on the ground, a few moments of friendly chat, then the business of the Quarterly Conference. The occasion of this communication was a resolution of F. A. Rowan, steward, at the close of reading of written report by the pastor in charge, in regard to the general state of the church.

Resolved, That the secretary be requested to furnish a copy of report to the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE for publication.

I now give you the report:

Report of the general state of the church on Columbus circuit for the fourth quarter, ending September 29: "I report the general state of the church good, an upward movement all along the line, and steady advancement. During the quarter I have traveled in actual pastoral work 725 miles; have visited 235 of the members, and prayed with nearly all of them in their homes. I have preached 51 times, received into the church 54 members, baptized 26 adults and 10 infants. Have lost by death, none; expelled, none; dropped by request, one; and dismissed by certificate, seven."

"I would like to add to this report that I have been much aided in my work by our local preachers, Revs. J. W. Peavy, Joseph Russell, and John Egger. May heaven bless them all!" (Signed by the pastor in charge.)

Now, Mr. Editor, don't you think that a first-class report on the winding up of third year? We are all hoping and confident that this work will meet all demands this year.

G. W. VAUGHN, Sec.

RINGGOLD CIRCUIT.

MR. EDITOR: Having closed the fifth protracted meeting on this circuit, I will try and let you know what the Lord has done for us. This has been a very happy year, indeed, with me. The Lord has wonderfully blessed this circuit. Every appointment has been strengthened. Eighty-three persons have been received into the church, and the membership quickened and built up generally. I expect, the Lord permitting, to hold two more meetings, and I am trying to pray and believe that they will result in enough conversions and accessions to make our increase for this year one hundred.

The Lord has given us success in other respects. We will have a nice little home for the preacher who is so fortunate as to be sent here next year. It has cost quite an effort, but we have it, and it will be furnished and out of debt before Conference. We have two new churches, with a prospect for the third. Hope it will be finished also. I am trying to get the collections in full. The people are able, and if we can get them to believe it, we will soon have the entire amount assessed. Yours in Christ,

H. W. MAY.

Religious Journalism in the South.

BY AN EX-EDITOR, SOUTH.

The Southern States do not lack in the number of their church papers. The Southern Methodists have for their advocacy sixteen Advocates and Methodists that I call to mind at this time. One, the Christian Advocate, Nashville, Tenn., is the official organ of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. This paper is issued from the Connectional Publishing House and leads all in circulation, its weekly issue being nearly thirty thousand. Few others reach ten thousand: the average being, perhaps, six. Besides the sixteen, are a number of papers with some special mission, yet closely allied to the church with which the publishers and editors are identified. Since the revolution—this is the word to use in speaking of the war of 1861–1865—there has been a strong disposition to multiply these Advocates; more than half of them are post-bellum enterprises. Those who conduct the old papers are very certain that the multiplication of Conference and State papers is unadvisable and every way harmful. Those who start the new papers are very sure that they "fill a long felt want," and that they are indispensable. It is not easy to decide the question. It depends on the standpoint; what a paper is wanted for. If local news be important; if reports from the churches in detail are desirable, then the Conference and State papers are obviously desirable. A great central paper can not fill its columns with reports from the churches, with the pious talks and doings of neighborhoods. If there are forty Annual Conferences a central paper would be utterly swamped in publishing local news from all of them. A paper that represents one Conference would be in as bad a case if it left out its local items; the people would have none of it. The multiplication of church papers means dilution, generally speaking; the more the weaker.

No amount of editorial industry or genius can prevent this weakening process. If there are six papers where really one can be fairly supported, this means that six men must work with utterly insufficient means. As a rule, it means one man trying to do the work of two or three men.

I have had personal experience and long and varied acquaintance with religious journalism in the South, and in the North also, and I am prepared to say that no one man can make a church paper what it ought to be at such a time as this. Further, no two or three men can make such a paper, if dependent on their own contributions or volunteer writers. The proof is, no such paper has been made under such conditions, though many industrious and gifted men have done their best.

We of the Southern States can not as the case now is, have first-class church papers. If we had mints of money we could not altogether overcome the difficulties inevitable to the multiplication of papers, for multiplication largely grows out of a demand for religious gossip and commonplace, and when this sort of stuff has the right of way the best newspaper results are impossible. But we have not only this trouble, that not even money can overcome; we have the money to pay contributors. No first-class paper can get on without first-class contributors, and such writers can not be expected to write for nothing, or, what is worse, two or three dollars per column. Not one Southern church paper pays contributors enough to inspire reliable and thoroughly capable work. This, too, may be denied; men differ so as to what first-class writing is.

All Southern church papers give much room to local news; reports from the churches, accounts of meetings, etc., etc. This sort of thing is intensely interesting to those who write the report, to the communities reported, and to a very few who have much leisure; and who have formed the habit of reading everything in the paper and enjoying it all. But such writing is as water poured forth where it is already sloppy. Such writing neither instructs nor inspires, and the one thing inexplicable to me is the charm it has for the majority of the people. I write majority deliberately; it is the minority that really wishes a paper, broad, strong, rich in information and thought-producing thought. And in this country of universal suffrage, shall not the minority hold their peace?

In noting certain differences between the best Southern and the best Northern church papers, a number of matters came up for statement. The Southern religious press is rich, or poor, by excess of obituaries. The Advocates lead the world in obituary literature. The leading Advocate this week has enough of them to make a little book. And they all give far more space to obituaries than Northern papers do.

The religious tone of the Southern papers is high. The development of religious character is fostered by these papers. Experience fills a large place. The "enterprises of the church:" missions, education, come next to religious character in the church papers of this region. They are all strong on the temperance question, and without an exception known to me, favor prohibition. And hardly any of them, if any, goes into the "Third Party." The church papers published by the colored Methodists and Baptists take a pretty free hand in politics: the papers published by the white people steer clear of this subject. Their conservatism at this point is perfect. All these papers, Methodist and Baptist, and Presbyterian (not so many of these, and their average is about that of the others), are orthodox. New theology fares badly among these editors. If one daring wing is seen, a dozen or more are whizzing into it in short order. On all subjects of moral reform these Southern papers are on the right side when they speak at all, and they generally speak.

Much of the difference observable between church papers, North and South, grows out of environment. The "Continental Sunday" question is not as exigent with us in Georgia as with you in Illinois; we are nearly all English and Protestant. Speculative infidelity has practically no foothold among us, and our papers have little to say about it. This should be said: Southern people take and read Northern papers far more than Northern people take Southern papers, and Southern people know what is going on North far better than Northern people can know us.

While we try to keep so many going I really fear we will never really make one go as it should. Take the matter home to yourself, Mr. Advance Editor. If you were in the midst of a whole tribe of little Congregational papers, what would become of you? What would they become? And, more important, what would become of the people who can not thrive on gossip—although "inclined to piety"—who must read something other than reports of their own doings and sayings? The little papers get things out of perspective proportion. I have known more space given to the "pounding" of the pastor with cheap gifts than to the bombardment of the heathen world.—Advance.

City Evangelization.

There is being added to Chicago yearly a city of 35,000 inhabitants. Brooklyn is growing equally fast, while New York's population is increasing at the rate of about 1,000 souls every week. A hundred years ago New York numbered only 23,000, now, according to the directory, 1,600,000. The population of Chicago is now not far from 800,000, though thirty years ago she could boast less than 100,000, and fifty years ago less than 5,000. Scores of other cities are growing at a rate only less surprising.

With this marvelous march, church provision has not kept step. New York and Brooklyn are only about one-half as well supplied with churches now as they were in 1840; and Jersey City and Chicago are not half as well supplied as they were forty years ago. In 1880, New York had one church for every 3,000 souls. During the six following years there were added 300,000 to her population; simply to have kept pace with her population she should have added during those six years one hundred churches to her evangelizing forces. As a matter of fact she added only four! . . . . .

What is to be the outcome? One of three things: present tendencies will continue until our cities are literally heathenized, or their arrested growth will enable the churches to regain lost ground, or the churches will awake to their duty. . . . The first must not be, the second can not be, the third, therefore, shall be. The churches will awake to their duty. Already are there signs of such awakening. In many cities are being organized local branches of the Evangelical Alliance, whose work provides for bringing the separated classes of society—earnest Christian people and the unchurched—into actual contact, and reaching systematically and persistently every non-church-going family with Christian influence. Already have hundreds of families in a single city been thus reached. In Buffalo the first month's work brought three hundred eighty-seven non-church going families to the churches.

There is no occasion for panic nor is there even room for doubt as to the issue, provided Christians will bestir themselves. Wicked as are our great cities they are virtuous and Puritanic compared with Ephesus and Athens and Rome when Christ sent out his handful of disciples to heal those great ulcers of the world. Their work was a thousand times more discouraging than ours. Those cities had no Christian institutions or traditions, no Christian literature, no press to scatter Bibles. The foundation and framework of society were utterly heathen. Those citadels of Satan were stronger than his strongest holds to-day; and the Galilean conquered!—Dr. Josiah Strong, in The Chautauquan.

"Fighting the Devil."

There are three ways of fighting the devil—at long range, at short range, and "with fire." The last means a turning of his weapons upon himself, and foiling him at his own game. This is often done by his professional friends; but as it implies a use of weapons not mentioned in the Christian armory, it is not a method which it is safe for us to adopt. The adversary, who is ingenious in his devices, prefers to attack the believer at "long range," in which he has many and obvious advantages. In such a contest we are generally badly beaten, when we are in such fear that we may not glorify God under some imaginary future conditions, that we let down our shields against present assaults. We are so afraid that we shall not have "dying grace," that our supplies of grace for living are cut off; and so this long-range fight with the evil one works against us in many ways. It is much better for us to be content to combat present and real instead of future and imaginary foes. The present hour is always our present battlefield. If the Christian knows his weapons and how to use them, he will prefer to fight his great enemy at short range—that is, to meet present and immediate dangers rather than those which are future and remote. Let him pray every morning that God would give him grace to go through one day; to give him courage and patience and fidelity, and deliver him out of all trials and temptations. If he can by God's help always take good care of to-day, next week or next year will take care of itself.—Evangelist.

"The best thing yet!" That is the way a young man put it who made arrangements to work for B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va. You can get further information by dropping them a card.

TRUTHFULNESS.—Probably nothing could have a more powerful effect upon social, domestic and individual welfare than the widespread diffusion of the spirit of truthfulness. It underlies all honest and faithful work, all rightful fulfillment of relations, all independence and self-respect, for he who in this high sense is faithful to the truth will be faithful to himself and to others.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

MISCELLANEOUS.

If You Have

no appetite, Indigestion, Flatulence, Sick Headache, "all run down," or losing flesh, you will find the remedy you need. They tone up the weak stomach, build up the lagging energies as no other medicine will, and

Tutt's Pills

CURE CONSTIPATION.

To enjoy health one should have regular evacuations every twenty four hours. The evils, mental and physical, resulting from are many and serious. For the cure of this common trouble, Tutt's Liver Pills have gained a popularity unparalleled.

HABITUAL CONSTIPATION

A TORPID LIVER

deranges the whole system and produces

Sick Headache,

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Sallow Skin and Piles.

There is no better remedy for these frequent diseases than Tutt's Pills, as a trial will prove. They should be found in every household. They are perfectly harmless, reliable, and can be taken without restraint of diet or occupation. Plain or sugar-coated. Sold everywhere. Price, 25c.

Office, 44 Murray Street, N. Y.

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age. Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. RUFUS FIGH,

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mole by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure. W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS. J. BUCKLEY,
471 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 17, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

HENRY V. MIELLY,
With Rice, Born & Co., 77 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.

Microbes Cause All Diseases

WM. RADAMS'

Microbe Killer

Cures All Diseases.

This indisputable assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,
149 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

RICHARDSON & BOYNTON CO.'S

"PERFECT"

HOT-WATER HEATER.

J. H. AITKEN & CO., 110 Camp street, Sole Southern Agents.

"PERFECT" HOT-WATER HEATER.

(The Most Powerful Water Heater ever Constructed.).

Has 2½ times more Square Feet of Hot-Water Fire Surface; hence capable of Heating more Square Feet of Radiation than any Heater ever made.

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER,

174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans and Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,
CHATTANOOGA,
CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

	NORTH-BOUND. No. 2, Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian	9:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington	4:10 p. m.	3:43 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

	SOUTH-BOUND. No. 1, Lim'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati	7:55 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City	11:15 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla	9:49 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham	11:45 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian	4:15 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent,
34 St. Charles Street.

E. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

	Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1, Fast Mail	9:00 a.m	No. 2, Fast Mail 5:00 p.m
No. 3, Express	6:25 p.m	No. 4, Express 8:00 a.m
No. 5, Bat. Rouge acc'dation	10:00 a.m	No. 6, Bat. Rouge acc'dation 3:45 p.m

Double daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans a 8 a. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harrision for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. dt. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Keaner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. F. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Com'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

	Leaves.	Arrives.
Texas and California Express	8:35 A. M.	7:00 P. M.
Baton Rouge Local	3:50 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

This train has also Pullman Sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Trav'g Passenger Agent.
E. W. McCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive		Leave.
No. 1	9:00 am	No. 2	5:00 pm
No. 3	6:25 pm	No. 4	8:00 am
No. 5	10:00 am	No. 6	3:45 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex.	7:55 am	No. 4 Fast Ex.	7:00 am
No. 1 Fast Ex.	7:20 pm	No. 2 Coast	8:40 pm
No. 5 Coast	9:05 am	No. 2 Lim. Ex.	1:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r.	11:00 pm	No. 2 Passen'r.	9:15 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim.	7:30 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex.	5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express	7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express	8:35 am
B. Rouge Local	10:00 am	B. Rouge Local	4:30 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 18 Califor.	3:25 pm	No. 18 Local	7:20 pm
No. 17 Local	8:55 am	No. 20 Califor.	11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.
(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 1, Lim'd	11:00 am	No. 2, Lim'd	3:35 pm
No. 5, Fast Line	6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line	9:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line	6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line	9:00 pm

P. AND F. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive	8:30 am	Leave	4:00 pm

Sunday Schedule.

Arrive	7:25 pm	Leave	7:30 am

FIRE INSURANCE.

Liverpool and London and Globe INSURANCE COMPANY.

Largest Fire Office in the World.

Losses paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,081.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,129,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

Directors in New Orleans—NEWTON BUCKNER, Chairman; RUDOLPH WOLTZ, JOHN W. LABOUISSE, A. DELVAILLE.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Res't Sec.

HENRY V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,000

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Desirable Fire Business.

W. R. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing (a saving of from $3.00 to $4.00) by subscribing for

THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

—AND—

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR

—FOR—

$3.25 (THREE TWENTY-FIVE)

DEMOREST'S IS THE BEST Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC, SCIENTIFIC, AND HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon order entitling the holder to the selection of any pattern illustrated in the fashion department in that number, and in any of the sizes manufactured, making patterns during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the best TWO Dollar Family Magazine issued. 188 will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so extensively as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8¾ x 11¼ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York.

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Christian Advocate at $3.25 Per Year

HINDERCORNS.

The only sure Cure for Corns, Stops all pain. Ensures comfort to the feet. 15c. at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

The best of all remedies for Inward Pains, Colic, Indigestion, Exhaustion and all Stomach and Bowel troubles. Also the most effective cure for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and affections of the breathing organs. It promotes refreshing sleep, improves the appetite, counteracts nervous prostration, and gives new life and strength to the weak and aged. 50c. and $1.00, at Druggists.

U CO CO CREAM

SURE CURE FOR CATARRH.

No expensive Inhaler needed. Any one can be permanently cured of Catarrh and Hay Fever at the small cost of 25c. It is the most wonderful preparation known for healing chapped hands, bruises and burns. Send 25c. for sample package.

C. B. GILMAN & CO. AKRON, O.

MAGIC LANTERNS

And STEREOPTICONS, all prices. Views illustrating every subject for PUBLIC EXHIBITIONS, etc. A profitable business for a man with small capital. Also Lanterns for Home Amusement. 150 page Catalogue free.

McALLISTER, Optician, 49 Nassau St., N. Y.

In all the world there is but one sure cure for the OPIUM Habit. The Dr. J. L. Stephens Remedy never fails, and no other treatment ever cures. We have cured more than 10,000 cases. No other treatment ever cured one case. NO PAY TILL CURED. Remember this, and write to the J. L. Stephens Co., Lebanon, Ohio.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:

REV. T. A. S. ADAMS, D. D. REV. J. T. SAWYER.
REV. W. L. C. RENNICUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1888.

The annual meeting of the Publishing Committee of this paper will be held in the office, 112 Camp street, Wednesday, October 31.

C. W. CARTER,
Chair'n Committee

Notice.

With the consent of the Sub-Committee of the Publishing Committee of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, Mr. Hugh Jamieson, Jr., who has been the publisher of the paper for several years past, has disposed of his contract and interests in the ADVOCATE to Mr. John G. Grant, of this city, who has taken charge of the office, and will hereafter publish the paper.

C. W. CARTER,
Chair'n Com.

Briefs.

The Pacific Conference was held by Bishop Galloway. As we have been able to gather them, the statistics are as follows: Members, 5,224; adults baptized, 201; Sunday-schools, 81; officers and teachers, 619; scholars, 4,481; churches, 70—value, $272,550; parsonages, 49—value, $59,900; collected for Conference claimants, $1,457 20; church extension, $1,027 90; parsonage fund, $164 75; missions, $3,450 90.

The nineteenth session of the Los Angeles Conference was held by Bishop Galloway in San Diego, California. The statistics are as follows: Local preachers, 29; members, 1,544; infants baptized, 33; adults baptized, 77; Sunday-schools, 26; scholars, 1,760; churches, 23—value, $127,150; parsonages, 15—value, $23,230; collected for Conference claimants, $516 75; for church extension, $486 75; Woman's Board, $120; foreign missions, $1,578 78; domestic missions, $353 63; special, $500.

Bishop Hendrix held the Southwest Missouri Conference. The statistics are: Members, 27,202; local preachers, 166; adults baptized, 1,428; infants baptized, 427; number of churches, 255—value, $505,572; parsonages, 71—value, $73,895; Sunday-schools, 225; officers and teachers, 1,982; scholars, 14,640; collected for Conference claimants, $4,118; foreign missions, $5,950; domestic missions, $4,281; church extension, $1,434. There are four institutions of learning with 34 teachers and 489 scholars.

AN OPENING FOR A GOOD INVESTMENT.—A short time ago we published an article, entitled, "A Word to the Well-to-do." We are now in receipt of a letter from a brother in the country who has one son in the ministry and a younger son licensed to preach, but unable to go to school for lack of money. We are acquainted with the brother in the itineracy, and believe the younger one a worthy young man. Here now is a case appealing to the well-to-do for means to acquire an education to preach the gospel of the glory of God. Many who read this can afford the means and be the better off for it. Will not some one come to the relief of this young brother? Will not some heart expand in benevolence to this call? Is not Christ calling here: "Inasmuch as ye do it to this one, ye do it to me"? Who will answer?

The Missouri Resolution.

It has by this time become quite well known to our people that at its recent session the Missouri Conference passed a resolution asking our Board of Missions to raise the assessment for foreign missions fifty per cent. upon the assessment of last year. No one who has read this paper can come to any other conclusion than that it is missionary to the core, and has always, under every editor, supported every measure calculated to increase the efficiency of the church in her missionary operations. But this resolution of the Missouri Conference we believe "is not good at this time." If all the Conferences, or a majority of them, should pass a like resolution, the Board of Missions would very likely raise the assessments, and, as a matter of course, increase the appropriations; but the question comes, Would those acts of the Board increase the receipts of the missionary treasury? Would those acts of the Board have such an influence upon the church as to raise the receipts from thirty cents a member to sixty cents a member? If they did, it would be the most marvelous fact in church history!

The preachers, being largely in the majority in an Annual Conference, and being largely missionary in spirit, can, without much trouble, pass the Missouri resolution in all the Conferences. The preachers, having almost entire control of the Board of Missions, can easily raise the assessment fifty per cent. Unfortunately, however, the preachers do not control the finances of the church, as our failure to raise the present assessment abundantly shows. Then to double the assessment before the receipts cover the present assessment seems to be unwise. After all these years of preaching and exhortation and editorials and pursuasion, our people have come up to thirty cents apiece for foreign missions; and is it supposable that next year they will go up to sixty cents for the mere passing of a resolution? We do not believe they will. If we pass the resolution, and the Board follows our advice and increases the appropriations, then we have unwisely opened the door for a big debt to walk in. Because, if we raise the assessment, we must increase the appropriations, or we will have no incentive to move us to collect it. If we increase the appropriations by 30 or 40 per cent., where is the hope that we will collect it when we are not collecting the present assessment? Increased assessment and appropriations while the church is in its present temper simply means a big missionary debt. We hope it will not be attemped.

Our people are not liberal in their missionary offerings, and they will never acquire the grace of liberality through resolutions passed by Annual Conferences or increased assessments and appropriations made by the Board of Missions. If the Annual Conferences will pass a resolution asking the proper authorities of the church to give us a weekly missionary paper, to cost not more than one dollar per annum, we think it would be much wiser. We think if such a paper—sprightly, earnest and with its eye upon the whole field and scattering its intelligence weekly—were given to our people, in two years the assessment would raise itself without a Conference resolution. Missionary zeal and missionary liberality go hand in hand with missionary intelligence.

That is a handsome thing done by Rev. T. Cameron, of Starkville, Miss.—we mean his invitation, in this week's paper, to the preachers' wives. The usual invitation is the other way. We hope that every preacher's wife will see her way to accept his generous hospitality. What a grand Conference it would be if the preachers' wives were all present! Bro. Cameron and his people have our vote of thanks in advance.

To the Friends of the Bible in Louisiana and Mississippi.

I desire, through the columns of the ADVOCATE, and of other papers that may be kind enough to copy this notice, to lay before the people of Louisiana and Mississippi the following resolutions, which were unanimously passed by the Chickasaw Presbytery at its recent session, and to make a short appeal to said people in behalf of the American Bible Society and its work:

Resolved, That it be made a standing rule of this Presbytery to spend one hour during her fall session in the interest of the American Bible Society.

Resolved, That a member of Presbytery be appointed at each fall meeting to deliver an address on this subject at the next fall meeting.

Resolved, That all our churches be urged to take up a collection for this cause annually during the month of October.

This action on the part of the Chickasaw Presbytery is a movement in the right direction, and the example set by this Presbytery ought to be followed by all the ecclesiastical bodies in our country that favor Bible distribution. Surely the American Bible Society deserves and should receive far more consideration than it is receiving at the hands of our people. It is doing a grand work in the earth—a work that richly deserves the moral and financial support of everyone who loves the Bible and humanity. To say nothing of the great work it is doing for the churches of this land in furnishing them Bibles at ten per cent. less than the cost of manufacture, the society is doing through its own agents and colporteurs, both at home and abroad, a most noble work—a work whose glorious fruits will never be fully revealed till the great books of eternity are opened. Through these agents and colporteurs, 1,504,647 copies of the divine Word were spread abroad in the earth last year, and nearly 30,000 of these were distributed in Mississippi and Louisiana. Certainly such a work merits the support of our people; and I here and now appeal to them for help. Quite a number of churches and individuals have already contributed right liberally to the great work, and it is to be hoped that thousands of others in the two States will speedily follow their example. One lady in New Orleans has contributed $100; and I trust that many of our rich and well-to-do people will do as this good woman has done—give a goodly sum of the money which God has placed in their hands to help put the Word of Life in the hands of the needy and destitute, both at home and abroad. Money can be sent either to the undersigned, at 163 Camp street, New Orleans, or to William Foulke, Jr., Bible House, Astor Place, New York. Thirty dollars, paid at one time, constitutes a life membership of the American Bible Society. Such a member receives a large, beautiful certificate of his membership, which he can have framed and hung up in his parlor, and then he will be entitled to the Bible Society Record and one dollar's worth of Bibles every year as long as he lives.

All the papers in the two States named that favor Bible distribution are requested to copy this article.

J. W. M'LAURIN,
Dist. Supt. A. B. S. in La. and Miss.

The churches have a great work to do in this land—a great battle to fight to drive sin and its allies out. The implement to work with—the weapon to war with—is the Word of the Lord. Nothing is too hard for its keen edge; no darkness so dense, its light can not dissipate; no error so great, it can not overthrow. Then let the churches and individual Christians take hold of the work of putting the Bible on every family center-table and in the hand of everyone who can read. God will be honored by such action, and in return will give the churches the victory everywhere.—EDITOR.

"Forward, the Light Brigade!"

Not that which made the fateful charge at Balaklava, but one deserving a similar title and a higher meed of praise. The small squadron of the army of the living God, sent out as torch-bearers to the regions overshadowed by heathenism and superstition, carry the light of Life to perishing millions. From helmet, shield and sword flash beams of the Sun of Righteousness. Therefore, are they truly called a "Light Brigade." In a very different sense of the word, also, are they "light." Their number is so small as compared with the serried hosts of the enemy. Protestant Christendom sends about one ordained preacher to every half-million of Pagans. In the face of such odds, nothing but the absolute marching order of a supreme Commander who never "blundered" could induce men to hazard their lives—their all. Yet we have a few such—notably one, who, with his devoted wife, has given thirty-five years of his modestly heroic life to just that godly undertaking; and now, with his children following in his footsteps, he rejoices as never before in the golden sheaves a faith-keeping Master permits him to gather. How our hearts should thrill with sympathetic joy as we read of the venerable Lambuth shouting the high praises of God over souls brought from thick darkness to the shining light of a Savior's reconciling countenance. "Salvation! let the echo fly the spacious earth around!"

What part shall we bear, brethren—fellow-keepers at home—in this Christly mission work? Can any of us look up to Heaven without a crimson blush if we fail to use every endeavor to bring up and send forward our full share of the commissariat essential to this peaceful warfare? The assessment should be the lowest figure we set for ourselves. In many charges this is far less than duty demands. It is a wonder the dainties on which many of us feast do not choke us so long as millions are starving for the "Bread of Life" through our neglect. How can a preacher stand up before Conference and report his own claims fully met and, perhaps, "Conference suit" extra, while the assessments for missions are behind! And how can our laymen feel guiltless of their brother's blood while they have the gospel regularly preached and the Word of God open before them if they fail to do their part in sending the glad tidings to the sorrowful sons of darkness! O brethren! let us each bestir himself during the few remaining weeks of our Conference year that no deficit may be marked against our name. Let us secure and maintain "a conscience void of offense" in this matter. All our missions are calling loudly for reinforcements. The doors are wide open. The men and women are offering themselves. Naught is lacking but the means to send. And this is so, not because of any real poverty in the home-church, but because—must I say it?—because the church lacks liberality, and many of our preachers missionary zeal. May God shower that grace upon us all! Let us wake to duty and send help, that our "Light Brigade" may snatch from "the jaws of death," from the very "mouth of hell," many prisoners there enchained in darkness!

J. P. DRAKE.

MOSS POINT, MISS., Oct. 18, 1888.

Our Church Extension Society has lately come into possession of a valuable property in this city, the gift of Rev. Moses U. Payne.

Letter from Japan.

MR. EDITOR: I have just returned from Nwajima, two hundred and seventy miles from Kobe. Was there ten days, laboring day and night, with that interesting people. A wonderful work of grace is going on there and in the town of Zoshida, near there. I baptized sixteen while there, and received some fifteen or more on probation; and the good work is spreading from house to house. My soul was stirred within me to see the earnestness with which they read the Bible and listen to the story of the cross. The Lord is blessing them, and many of them are rejoicing every day. I visited many families, and in some I feel sure that soon whole families will come into the church. It was an affecting sight to see them when they came to the hotel to bid me good-by. And after I arrived at the steamer I was surprised to see them all coming there to say good-by. The passengers not having arrived, we took possession of the salon, and had prayer meeting with them. Many of the women wept as they offered up earnest prayers to God for my protection while at sea, and that I might soon return to them.

Thank God for such a manifestation of his goodness to them! It has truly been a labor of love among them. A good work is going on in many homes in that place. Pray for us.

Please excuse haste; the mail leaves in an hour.

Your brother in Christ,

J. W. LAMBUTH.

KOBE, JAPAN, Sept. 27, 1888.

The New Hymn Book.

For the information of a waiting and anxious church we state these facts:

1. When, about the first of last March, the Hymn Book Committee completed its task of selecting the hymns for the new book, the committee and the College of Bishops, in joint session, concluded, for an obvious reason, that it would be best to issue the word and music editions simultaneously.

2. A sub-committee was appointed to perfect certain details and see the work through the press.

3. This sub-committee proceeded without delay to the performance of the work, devoting special attention, as the necessities of the case demanded, to the choice and arrangement of the tunes.

4. There was some unavoidable delay caused by negotiations for copyrighted hymns and tunes, but in a short time the work on the music edition began, a well-known Philadelphia house being employed to furnish the plates because of its ownership of certain patent music-notes for which there was a popular demand. And here is where the hitch occurred. Having other work of the same sort on hand, the Philadelphia house made slow progress with ours. The sub-committee and the Book Agent, sharing to the fullest extent the anxiety of the church, and feeling their responsibility in the matter, did all they could to accelerate the work, but were mortified by a delay which all deplored, but none could prevent.

5. We are now able to announce that the unexpected hinderances are removed, the work is being pushed with all possible diligence, and on or before Christmas the new hymn book will be ready. Unhindered by the unexpected and unavoidable difficulties encountered with regard to the music edition, the church might have been supplied months ago with a word edition. But the instructions of the committee, which at the time seemed to be wise and necessary, were followed. And when the music edition shall have been widely circulated and used by our people in all parts of the church, it will be conceded that the delay, however vexatious, is attended with a large compensation. We are confident that the new hymn book will meet the wants and expectations of the church, and will be good for many decades. Much faithful toil and prayer have been given to it. Be patient a little longer, brethren, and then be ready for a universal revival of holy song in our beloved church.—Nashville Advocate.

Notes.

The dispatches state that Sam Jones raised $22,000 in Nashville for the purchase of a building for religious services.

It never pays to buy a thing simply because it is cheap. And of all the bad bargains a person may make, there is as great a risk in buying a cheap book as in anything else. To buy one because it is cheap is a supreme folly and an imposition upon the intellectual nature.

As preachers, it may be well to call to mind occasionally a remark of Dr. Tyng, made in a public address in New York City. Speaking of the pastor's work, he said: "It seems to me that the devil would never ask anything more of a minister than to have him feel that his mission was chiefly to the grown-up members of his congregation, while some one else was to look after the children."

As an item of news we give our readers this:

The Supreme Court of Utah has decreed the dissolution of the Mormon Church as a corporation, and that all its property shall become escheated to the government for school purposes. If this decree shall be sustained by the United States Supreme Court, it will go far to put an end to the abominable system. For the wealth of the church has added greatly to the power of its rulers to propagate its doctrines and maintain its authority. Mormonism is not dead by any means, but Uncle Sam has got it by the throat, and will hold on at least until it has ceased to be a danger to the State. Meantime large numbers of Mormons are emigrating to Mexico and Canada, but are, professedly at least, leaving polygamy behind them.

In Paul's address to the elders of the Ephesian Church he speaks of the "word of his grace, which is able to build you up." This evidently points to the constructive power of the gospel. Man is in ruins. His intellectual, moral and spiritual faculties are all present, but they are in confusion. The word of grace is the power by which the scattered and tangled materials of the man are to be collected and adjusted and reconstructed into an edifice of grace and beauty after the likeness of the pattern-man, Christ Jesus. A new creature—a new creation out of old materials—is the sole object for the accomplishment of which the "word of his grace" is preached. Failure at this point is failure at every point.

There is nothing more important to a preacher than that quality which Dr. Austin Phelps calls "mental integrity." He explains what he means by the phrase in this sentence:

Argument which does not satisfy a preacher's logical instinct; illustration which does not commend itself to his æsthetic taste; a perspective of doctrine which is not true to the eye of his deepest insight; the use of borrowed materials which offend his sense of literary equity; an emotive intensity which exaggerates his conscious sensibility; an impetuosity of delivery which overworks his thought; gestures and looks put on for scenic effect; an eccentric elocution, which no human nature ever fashioned; even a shrug of the shoulder, thought of and planned for beforehand, these are causes of enervation in sermons which may be otherwise well framed and sound in stock.

We have read this strange story: Mr. Spurgeon preached a sermon in his tabernacle in London. The sermon was printed and found its way to America. An extract from the sermon was published in one of our religious papers. That paper went to a subscriber in Australia. That person, having occasion to send a parcel to Nottingham, England, wrapped the parcel with that part of the American paper containing the extract from Mr. Spurgeon's sermon. The person receiving the parcel read the extract and was thereby brought to reflection and repentance, and sought and found Christ! A sermon going around the world, and then being the means of the conversion of a soul within a few miles of where it was first preached, is an illustration of the methods of "Him whose ways are past finding out."

—Dr. Trumbull, in his lecture before the Yale Divinity School, on "The Sunday-School," has given a clear distinction between the meaning of the three words that are used in the Bible to denote preaching. The first is to proclaim the message of one who has authority, whether it be a message of good or evil. The second is to announce a truth which should bring joy to the hearer. The third is to make a truth clear. The first finds its emphasis in the sender of the message; the second, in the receiver of the message; the third, in the substance of the message. In the first, the preacher realizes for whom he stands; in the second, to whom he is sent; in the third, the importance of the truth which he is set to declare. It occurs to us that this is about as clear a definition of preaching, in all its phases and bearings, as can be made. It will be seen that in this comprehensive, yet brief exposition, the preacher is not seen at all.

Personals.

Rev. J. W. Mendenhall, editor of the Methodist Review (North) recently traveled 4,704 miles, visited eleven Conferences and returned to New York after an absence of only thirty days. Quick work, that!

The Los Angeles Christian Advocate has this personal: "Bishop Galloway gave eminent satisfaction in all the various duties that devolved upon him as president of the Conference. As an executive officer, orator and preacher, or as a friend and adviser of the preachers, he proved himself indeed a well-rounded episcopal officer."

The Pacific Methodist has this personal: "In the evening we had preaching by Rev. Fitzgerald S. Parker, a son of Bishop Parker, of precious memory. In his dark eyes and manly bearing may be traced the lineaments of his honored father, and if the clear-cut English, discriminating thought, and spiritual significance of this sermon are to be taken as a fair indication, he will prove a heritage to the church worthy of such a sire."

At the last session of the Holston Conference, seventeen preachers were received on trial and sixteen were received into full connection. That is good increase!

A good line upon which to work for a revival now is in the circulation of the church paper. A revival on that line will insure more intelligent piety, better work in the churches and larger benefactions towards church enterprises.

The original Democrat has turned up in Texas. He has been a Democrat ever since there was a Democratic party, is 115 years and his name is Richard Kirby. So we learn from an exchange.

Rev. J. W. Walling, of the Brazil Mission, expects to meet his brethren of the South Carolina Conference at their next annual meeting.

At the recent session of the Pacific Conference, Miss Annie Millington started a subscription for the Pacific Methodist College with $1,000, $100 a year for ten years, and the widow of Bishop Kavanaugh promised $100 a year for the remainder of her life. The amount raised for the college amounted to $15,000.

Rev. George B. Winton, one of the editors of the Pacific Methodist, has been transferred to the Central Mexican Conference.

Rev. J. M. Boland is out now in a little pamphlet called, "A Bible View of Baptism," published by our House in Nashville for fifteen cents.

Dr. R. H. Rivers, one of the editors of the Central Methodist, says he expects to spend the winter in the South. We hereby extend a cordial invitation to our old college president to sojourn awhile with us. There are many Centennry boys in Louisiana and Mississippi whose hearts would be gladdened by a sight of his face.

The British steamer "Utopia" landed at our wharf one day last week with 796 Italian immigrants They came direct from Palermo.

Bishop Granbery has returned from Brazil. He left the Brazil Mission in working order.

Rev. G. M. Livermon, of Keatchie, La., desires us to say that, owing to ill health, he will not be able to meet the engagements and fill orders given him for books this fall. At present he is not able to leave home. We pray God's blessing upon our brother.

The Louisiana State Fair was opened, October 22, at Baton Rouge. Notwithstanding the rain there was a good attendance, and the number and character of exhibits give promise of a successful fair. The main object is to make such an exhibit of the product and resources of Louisiana as will promote immigration.

The yellow fever still holds on in Florida and at Decatur, Ala. At Jacksonville up to Monday last there have been 3,839 cases and 332 deaths.

A private note from Rev. J. E. Thomas, of Grenada, Miss., informs us that Sister Morehead, wife of Rev. H. C. Morehead, died October 21. Our brother has our sympathy in his great bereavement.

There was on exhibition in Paris recently an "Arithmograph;" a machine which worked problems in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. If properly manipulated, its work was absolutely correct. The effort to invent a machine for the solution of all arithmetical problems has extended through two hundred and fifty years, and has been made by such men as Pascal, Leibnitz, D'Alembert, etc. The effort has not been entirely successful, as the attempt to construct an air-ship has not succeeded. But both may succeed.

Postal Card Reports.

—Bro. J. H. Brown, writing, October 12, from Taylor, Miss., says: "Truly the Lord has been with and graciously blessed us. We have had glorious revivals at some points on my charge, resulting in upwards of sixty professions of conversion and fifty accessions—forty-one on profession of faith. At our camp meeting we had about thirty professions of which we claim only half, as the Methodist-Free Church had stock in the meeting. While I was engaged elsewhere the Baptists had a good meeting at this place, resulting in about twenty-five professions and as many accessions to their church. And while we (Baptists and Methodists) were engaged in the immediate work of pointing sinners to the Lamb of God a good Baptist brother—a layman—bought out the only saloon in the place—beer saloon. So we consider that the Lord converted the sinners, and the good brother converted the saloon (into a furniture store)—as glorious a conversion as a mortal man can accomplish. Indeed. The Lord had stock in that—the glory be to him."

—Rev. J. A. Parker writes from Ruston, La., October 19, 1888: "Our meeting is still going on. Congregations large. Bro. Miller has assisted me two days this week. Have just closed the twenty-fifth day's exercises. Fifty-five have joined the church, and fifty-two have professed faith in Christ. The end is not yet. I have preached seventy-six times in fifty-four days. Pretty well worn out in the flesh, but strong in the spirit."

—Rev. Wilson Moore writes from Eden, La., October 16: "We have had quite a number of conversions and several accessions to the church since my note in August. We expect to come up tolerably well with our Conference collections."

—Rev. A. D. McVoy, Jr., writing from Mansfield, La., October 14, says: "This is the fourth week of our meeting here. Up to date about twenty-five conversions and fifteen accessions. God is shaking Mansfield from center to circumference. Bro. Blocker is now with me. Pray for us."

—Bro. J. A. Bowen writes from Greenville, Miss., October 15: "Yesterday was a day of power with us. Large congregations. We received the sacraments of the Lord's Supper under the presence of the Holy Ghost. Before the H. A. M. services closed, backsliders were reclaimed and penitents were at the altar. Some of them men who were never moved before. A class of Chinamen in the Sunday-school was another blessing. As we sat by them and tried to lead them to Jesus, we felt the missionary touch. So we are getting ready for the great union meeting near at hand."

Under date of October 22, the same writer says: "The presence of the Lord abides. Four accessions to our church yesterday, making, at least, one hundred since Christmas. This is only a sample of the work that is being done over this district. This whole section of the State seems to be ripening for salvation. The church is full of the revival spirit. We are nearly ready for the great meeting on November 1."

Literary Notes.

Andrew Lang has written an introduction for the volume of James Whitcomb Riley's poems which is to be published in England. Mr. Froude has written a preface for Mr. J. C. Reith's volume of travels in the States, called "Our Kin across the Sea," which Longman's, Green & Co. are about to publish.

Mrs. Susan N. Carter, principal of the Cooper Institute Art Schools, is writing the authorized Life of Peter Cooper. The book will be in two octavo volumes, and will contain much interesting correspondence as well as biographical material.

"Wit and Humor: Their Use and Abuse," by William Mathews, LL. D., is announced for immediate publication by S. C. Griggs & Co. Chicago. Dr. Mathews has unexcelled qualification for the successful treatment of such a subject, and his volume may be confidently expected to prove at once an entertaining and an instructive work.

"Shoshone, and Other Western Wonders," by Edward Roberts, with preface by Charles Francis Adams, an authentic description of the beauties and wonders of the Far West, from Denver to the Yellowstone, profusely illustrated, will soon be published by the Harpers.

Ten thousand copies of Dr. C. S. Robinson's "Pharaohs and the Exodus" have been sold and the demand is increasing. He is now preparing, "The Site of Calvary," which the Century Company will publish.

Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson, it is understood, will tell the story of his South Pacific cruise in fifty short articles to be published serially.

Among holiday souvenirs that will ere long command the admiration of purchasers, a high place will be assigned to the "Septuint Novelties" to be published by Messrs. Lee and Shepard. These consist of "A Christmas Carol" and "A Friend Stands at the Door," by Dinah Maria Mulock, the distinguished author of "John Halifax, Gentleman," and a charming calendar of "All Around the Year," for 1889, by J. Pauline Sunter, who has delightfully illustrated all three of these novelties.

Mr. Moncure Conway has prepared a volume on the Randolphs that will include much unpublished correspondence of celebrated persons of the Revolutionary and Constitutional periods.

Miss Catharine Laing has completed the great work that she undertook in 1880 on the death of her father—the Halkett-Laing dictionary of the anonymous and pseudonymous literature of Great Britain.

A new biographical series is to be devoted to men who have developed and shaped religion in this country. Mr. John Fiske has written the life of Theodore Parker; Professor Allen, who wrote "The Continuity of Christian Thought," has dealt with Jonathan Edwards; Mr. John Y. Shea with Archbishop Hughes, and the president of Princeton College, of Charles Hodge. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. are the publishers.

Dr. John Martin Crawford, author of the English translation of the Kalevala, the national epic poem of Finland, is a Cincinnati physician. The publication of this poem is the literary event of the season.

A series of leaflets for the guidance of students of English literature of the nineteenth century, prepared by Louise Manning Hodgkins, professor of English literature at Wellesley College, will be shortly issued by D. C. Heath & Co. This work has been already tested with marked success in the class-room, and it is hoped will prove an efficient aid to teachers of English literature, rhetoric, essay, and leaders of literary clubs. It is an especially companionable series for the student who has access to a good library. The leaflets give full lists for the study of English literature by the laboratory method.

The letters of Dr. H. M. Field, which have appeared in the New York Evangelist, on "The Rock of Gibraltar," are to be published in book form, illustrated, by the Scribners. The book is promised before Christmas.

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

THE DRAGON, IMAGE AND DEMON; OR, THE THREE RELIGIONS OF CHINA. CONFUCIANISM, BUDDHISM, AND TAOISM. Giving an account of the Mythology, Idolatry, and Demonolatry of the Chinese. By Rev. Hampden C. Du Bose, fourteen years a missionary in China. With 188 illustrations engraved in China. Crown octavo. Beautifully bound. Cloth, full gilt side. $2.

The writer has drawn his water from native wells, the facts being mostly gathered from Chinese sources. The pen is not held by one seated in a professor's study, but by a plain man, who daily walks to and fro among idolators, and testifies of what he has seen and heard, written in a plain style, so that the young as well as the old may understand it.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL, ITS ORIGIN, MISSION, METHODS AND APPLIANCES. By H. Clay Trumbull, editor of Sunday-School Times. Publisher, John D. Wattles, Philadelphia. Price $1 50.

This book contains the lectures on the Sunday-school delivered by Dr. Trumbull before the Yale Divinity School in the early part of the year. The author has given thirty years to the study and work of the Sunday-school, and these lectures are the results of the observation and study and experience of that length of time. The subject, in all its branches, is treated with fairness and good judgment, and the book is worthy of the study of every pastor and Sunday-school worker in the church. There are ten lectures. The author shows the Jewish origin of Sunday-schools; their progress through seventeen centuries; modern revival and expansion; influence on the family; membership and management; teachers and their training; pastor and Sunday-school; auxiliary training agencies; importance and difficulties, principles and methods of preaching to children. There are valuable indexes, biographical, scriptural and topical. We know of nothing on the subject of Sunday-schools equal to this book.

NOBODY KNOWS. By A Nobody. 12mo. pp. 290. Price $1 25. New York: Funk and Wagnalls. For sale by Eyrich, 130 Canal St., New Orleans.

There is a man behind the pages of this unique and instructive history. He is not a fictitious creation, but a real fact, wearing thick shoes, eating humble fare and living by the sweat of his brow. The pen of this unknown is a free lance. He knows no fear in dealing with social wrongs, and pushes his conclusions to their logical sequences regardless of consequences. There is no little homely philosophy and shrewd common sense in the book. All persons interested in the Labor Problem will be interested in this work. The author does not deal in theories, but in "facts that are not fictions."

A STRANGE CONFLICT and A STRANGE PEOPLE. These two books are written by John M. Batchelor, and published by J. S. Ogilvie, 57 Rose St., New York. Price fifty cents each.

HISTORY OF THE OLD TESTAMENT and HISTORY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT IN WORDS OF ONE SYLLABLE. These two books are by Josephine Pollard, and published by George Rutledge and Sons, 9 Lafayette Place, New York. Hansell and Bro., 28–30 Camp St., New Orleans. Price $1 each.

These books bring the Bible stories in the range of the youngest reader, and are capital introductions to the Bible itself. We commend them to all our young friends.

PERIODICALS.

—The October number of our Quarterly Review begins the New Series. We are now to have it quarterly, instead of bi-monthly. The present number contain twelve articles besides the Editor's Table, making in all over two hundred pages. Rev. R. N. Price contributes an interesting article on The First Methodist Conference West of the Alleghany Mountains. Dr. J. E. Edwards, in a review of The Problem of Methodism, accepts its teachings, excepting at one point. Baptism and Its Designs, is discussed by G. H. Hayes, D. D. Our old friend, Dr. M. B. Chapman, contributes a paper on Volapuk. Are Faith Cures Miraculous? is by Rev. James M. Hawley. Dr. J. M. Wright has an able and critical article on The Critical Value of the Septuagint; Dr. R. Abbey contributes, The Great Unthinkable Dogma; Protestantism, the Spirit of Christianity, is by Rev. C. M. Chilton; The Disciples and the Book, by W. T. Bolling, D. D.; Life and Genius of Sidney Lanier, by Rev. W. J. Scott; Dr. Steele's Fraternal Address, by Hon. J. W. Tucker; Reminiscences of the Olden Time, by W. F. Samford, D. D. Editor's Table. This is as good a number as we have seen. Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn.; W. P. Harrison, D. D., editor. Price $2 50 per annum.

—The American Magazine, for October, though late in coming, has a good table for its readers. Among other articles, it has, The Orinoco River, by W. F. Hutchinson, M. D., Illustrated; The Valley of the Connecticut, by John R. Chapman, illustrated; American's Crank Regiments—The Seventh of New York, by Walter S. Wilson. The American Publishing Company, New York. Price $3.

—The Quiver, for November, is already on hand with its good reading "for every day and Sunday too." We know of nothing better for the family and nothing so cheap as this monthly. It is published by Cassell and Company, New York. Price $1 50.

—The first number of the Home-Maker—Marion Harland's new monthly—is on our table. It is the best of the kind we have yet seen. It is full and admirably arranged as to its contents. The editor's name, Marion Harland, is a sufficient guarantee of the excellence of this monthly. We know all our lady readers would place a high value on it if they could see it. It is published at 24 West Twenty-third-street, New York, by the Home-Maker Company for $2 a year. Single copy, twenty cents.

—The Homiletic Monthly, for October, is good to the use of edifying in theology, exposition and homiletics. Preachers will find this a valuable aid in studying the Scriptures and in sermonizing. E. B. Trent, publisher, 771 Broadway, New York.

—The Kindergarten, for October, is on our table. This is a monthly for teachers and parents, edited by Cora L. Stockham and Emily A. Kellogg, in the interest of the Kindergarten system of education. Published by Alice B. Stockham & Co., 161 La Salle St., Chicago. Price $2 per annum.

—The Sidereal Messenger, October, conducted by W. W. Payne, of Carlton College Observatory, Northfield, Minn., Price $2.

—Vick's Illustrated Monthly Magazine is a fine periodical for all lovers of flowers. Published by James Vick, Rochester, New York. Price $1 25.

—The Musical Herald is a monthly devoted to the art universal, and published by Musical Herald Company, Franklin Square, Boston. Price ten cents.

The poet Whittier is credited with saying: "The fault is, I have written too much. I wish half of it was in the Red Sea." The common fault again! Too late in repenting.

The Clergy

of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Wanted.

By a graduate of the Feilchiann Female Collegiate Institute, a situation as governess or teacher. References given if desired. Address T., Box 73, Jackson, La.

A widow lady, who is a graduate and an experienced teacher, desires employment. Will accept a position as governess, private tutor or teacher in any grade of school, or a situation as copyist. Testimonials and reference furnished. Address Mrs. M., care of this office.

Dr. Taft Bros., Rochester, N. Y., offer a trial bottle of Asthmaline free; see card in this paper. Dr. Taft is a regular practitioner of 35 years' standing. The firm are entirely reliable.

Episcopal Visitations, 1888-9.

Conference.	Date.	Place.	Bishop.
M. E. Mis.	Oct. 31	Del Rio, Tex.	Duncan
N. W. Texas.	Nov. 7	Weatherford, Tex.	Hendrix
Virginia.	Nov. 7	Portsmouth, Va.	Granbery
W. Texas.	Nov. 7	Victoria, Tex.	Duncan
Memphis.	Nov. 7	Paris, Ky.	Keener
German Mis.	Nov. 14	Houston, Tex.	Duncan
N. Ala.	Nov. 14	Anniston, Ala.	Hargrove
N. Texas.	Nov. 14	Denison, Tex.	Key
N. Carolina.	Nov. 21	New Berne, N. C.	Granbery
Cen. Mex.	Nov. 21	San Luis Potosi.	Galloway
Little Rock.	Nov. 21	Camden, Ark.	Key
Texas	Nov. 21	Huntsville, Tex.	Duncan
Arkansas.	Nov. 28	Fort Smith, Ark.	Key
Mississippi.	Nov. 28	Jackson, La.	Hargrove
E. Texas.	Nov. 28	Crockett, Tex.	Duncan
S. Carolina.	Nov. 28	Winnsboro, S. C.	Keener
White Riv.	Dec. 5	Paragould, Ark.	Key
N. Georgia.	Dec. 5	Milledgeville, Ga.	Keener
N. Miss.	Dec. 12	Starkville, Miss.	Keener
Florida	Dec. 12	Bartow, Fla.	McTyeire
Alabama	Dec. 12	Mobile, Ala.	Hargrove
S. Georgia.	Dec. 12	Eastman, Ga.	Duncan
Louisiana.	Dec. 19	New Orleans, La.	Hargrove
Baltimore.	Mar. 13	Alexandria, Va.	Wilson

Notice.

To the Presiding Elders of the North Mississippi Conference—

DEAR BRETHREN: At the earliest possible day please send me names of my delegates-elect to Annual Conference, together with names of local preachers coming up for ordination and candidates for admission into the traveling connection.

THOS. CAMERON.

To the Wives of the Preachers of the North Mississippi Conference—

DEAR SISTERS: Those of you who purpose attending Conference at Starkville please notify me at once, that homes may be provided for you.

T. CAMERON.

STARKVILLE, Mississippi.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

Publisher's Department.

No fraudulent advertisements will knowingly be allowed in the ADVOCATE. If one ever appears, it will be by accident.

In ordering from those whose advertisements appear in our columns please state that you have seen the same in the ADVOCATE.

HUGH JAMIESON, JR.,
Publisher.

Mr. Philip Werlein has in stock a beautiful selection of organs. Anyone thinking of purchasing should call and see them before purchasing. Mr. Werlein's terms are moderate; he sells cheaper than ever before, and guarantees his instruments as first-class in every respect. There is no better judge of an organ, and anyone in the country can safely leave such a matter to him, and be assured that their order will receive prompt attention and prove satisfactory in every respect.

Physician (to patient)—"Your case is a serious one, sir, and I think a consultation had better be held." Patient (too sick to care for anything)—"Very well, doctor, have as many accomplices as you like."

CHANGES.—We have quite a number of orders to change the address of subscribers; some without signatures, and others who do not give the former address. Under these circumstances, change can not be made.

The English language sounds funny to a foreigner, as when one says: "I will come by and by to buy a bicycle."

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. T. Hunnicutt, President.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. H. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.
PROF. H. F. HUDDLE, Sec.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the V., S. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 188
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—boa books, tuition and fees—of a compl English course for one term of twe weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address
R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, L

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

J. H. BRUNNER, Pres.
H. W. HUDDLESTON, Sec.

PHILIP WERLEIN'S

GREAT PIANO HOUSE

135 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

MASON & HAMLIN, MATHUSHEK, WEBER, and other Celebrated Pianos.

MASON & HAMLIN, ESTEY, and other World-Renowned Organs

Special Discounts to Schools and Churches. Greatest Bargains to Be Obtained at this Popular Piano House.

Catalogues mailed on application.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

MISCELLANEOUS.

COLGATE & COMPANY'S TOILET ARTICLES.
FOR LADIES.

Cashmere Bouquet Toilet Soap.
Cashmere Bouquet Perfume.
Violet Toilet Water.
Rince Bouche, (Dentifrice.)

Artificial Limbs,
Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted
BY
A. McDERMOTT,
200 - - - St. Charles Street - - - - - 200
Bet. Julia and St. Joseph.

PUBLICATIONS OF E. B. TREAT.

CURIOSITIES OF THE BIBLE.

BY A NEW YORK SUNDAY-SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY

REV. J. H. VINCENT, D. D.

SOLD BY SUBSCRIPTION ONLY.

Pertaining to Scripture, Persons, Places and Things. Including Prize Questions and Answers, Bible Studies and Readings, Prayer Meeting Talks, Subjects and Outlines, Concert Exercises, Blackboard Outlines, Object Lessons, and Chalk Talks. Seed Thoughts Illustrated. Religious Emblems and Allegories. Bible Revision Facts and Contrasts. Scripture Enigmas, Acrostics and Anagrams, Reference Tables, Maps, etc.

Price, Only $2. Postage Prepaid.

Read Testimonials Below, and Send In Your Subscription Now!

The New York Christian at Work says: It is a perfect treasury of things new and old, odd, curious and interesting. It is a volume as full of instruction as of entertainment, and will prove an endless source of profit and amusement in the home circle. It is in a peculiar and most happy sense a stimulating volume. We know of no volume of its kind extant, and whoever may be its author he has shown a special adaptedness to his task, and done his work in a most interesting and thorough manner.

Zion's Herald, Boston, says: It has almost everything that can be thought of to awaken a lively interest on the part of young and old in the careful study of the Bible. It affords also fine and profitable home study and amusement for the family. It is a good thing; happy is he who invented it.

The Cumberland Presbyterian, Nashville, Tenn., says: This is a book to rejoice the heart of every Sunday-school teacher and superintendent. This is not a collection of silly stories and cranky notions too often found in print. The student of these curiosities will find help and light in his investigation of the Word of God. This book in the hands of a wise Sunday-school superintendent would keep any school from dullness.

The Baptist Standard, Chicago, says: One would almost need to write a book as large as this one to give an adequate idea of what it is. The object plainly is to put young students, especially, in a way of learning more about Bible history. Bible geography and various other things in this wonderful book than they might know how to find without a guide. The book is a striking illustration of the methods of Bible teaching adopted in these days.

N. O. Christian Advocate, 112 Camp St., New Orleans. | Address HUGH JAMIESON, Jr., Publisher, AGENT.

Golden Thoughts on
Mother, Home and Heaven.

In Poetry and Prose. By 400 Best Authors. Elegantly Illustrated.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION
By REV. THEO. L. CUYLER, D. D.

"If from our side the first has fled,
And Home be but a name,
Let's strive the narrow path to tread,
That we the last may gain."

This work is comprised in one large volume of 436 quarto pages, embellished with finely engraved and elegantly printed Steel Plate and Wood Cut Illustrations and an Illuminated Presentation Page. It is printed from plates made from new type, ordered expressly for this work, on fine-toned and calendered paper, in elegant holiday binding, at the following low prices:

In Fine English Cloth, Beveled Boards, black and gold side and back, $2.75
In Fine English Cloth, Bev'd B'ds, Gilt Edge, in a box, Parlor Edition, 3.50
In Elegant Full Morocco, gilt edge and side, in box, Presentation Edition, 5.00

GET IT! If you have a Mother, Father, Brother, Sister, Son or Daughter at Home, or Abroad, on whom you would bestow a GIFT that would at all times prove a WELCOME GUEST of rare worth and lasting benefit, GET IT!!

The Detroit Christian Advocate says: We scarcely can tell which is most attractive about this volume, it par-excellent title, its 400 literary gems on the themes named, its brilliant array of distinguished writers, or its beautiful mechanical execution. It is a splendid book every way. A copy should be in every home, where every mother and every mother's friend can have access to it.

Prices as above, Post-paid to Subscribers.

Send subscriptions to NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp St., New Orleans.

HUGH JAMIESON, Jr., Publisher,
AGENT.

Our Young People.

A SECRET.

BY LIZZIE M. HADLEY.

"I'll tell you something," says little Bell,
"If you're certain, sure, you'll never tell.

Well then," whispers the little maid,
"My papa, a great, big man's afraid."

"Oh, isn't that funny enough?" laughed Sue,
"Your papa's afraid, and mine is, too."

"Not of bears or tigers or humble-bees;
It's something a thousand times worse than these.

It's a terrible thing, that goes up and down
Through every city, village and town.

And my papa says he almost knows
That things will be ruined wherever it goes.

Yes, isn't it dreadful?" says Belle, with a sigh,
"It will swear and, papa says, steal and lie.

I 'spect it has horns and cloven feet;
And, Sue, what do you s'pose it will eat?"

Then closer together drew each little maid
Looking about as if half afraid

They might see this thing with cloven feet:
And find it liked little girls to eat.

And then they fancied they heard it roar,
As it gobbled them up and cried for more.

"Oh, it's name," cries Belle, "is so dreadful too;
Does your papa call it 'Republican,' Sue?"

Sue shakes her head. "Oh, it can't be that.
For my papa calls it a 'Democrat.'" —Boston Journal.

MR. EDITOR: It is my time to write, as sister wrote last. I read Bishop Galloway's letter to his little son, and I was very sorry for the parents of the "missing boy." We were very glad to see another letter from Aunt Loretta in the ADVOCATE. I have seen the insect called the devil's horse, but I can not tell what the toad's jewel is. We have all met with a loss. Our little sister, Helen, was taken sick September 25 and died September 28. She would often bring in the stove wood when I cut it and she would gather flowers to put in vases by our papa's picture. She was five years old and had picked one hundred pounds of cotton. She said her prayers night and morning and loved to go to Sunday-school and church. Your friend,

D. GARDNER CURRIE.

EAST CARROLL.

DO IT NOW.—This is for you, boys and girls. It is a bad habit—the habit of putting off. If you have something that you are to do, do it now, then it will be done. That is one advantage. If you put it off very likely you will forget it and not do it at all. Or else—what for you is almost as bad—you will not forget, but keep thinking of it and dreading it, and so, as it were, be doing it all the time. "The valiant never taste death but once;" never but once do the alert and active have their work to do.

I once read of a boy that drooped so in health that his mother thought she must have the doctor to see him. The doctor could find nothing the matter with the boy. But there the fact was, he was pining away, losing his appetite, creeping about languidly, and his mother was distressed. The doctor was nonplussed.

"What does your son do? Has he any work?"

"No; he has only to bring a pail of water every day from the spring. But that he dreads all day long, and does not bring it until just before dark."

"Have him bring it the first thing in the morning," was the doctor's prescription.

The mother tried it and the boy got well. Putting it off made the job prey on the boy's mind. "Doing it now" relieved him.

Boys and girls, do it now!—W. C. Wilkinson.

BAD WORD SOCIETY.—The "bad word societies" that have sprung up lately in the New England schools are by no means to be laughed at. They may do a great deal of good, and that good is of a nature that generally lies beyond the reach of teachers. There are few playgrounds attached to boys' schools in this country where language is not constantly used which would grieve and astound the mothers of those who utter and those who hear them. The rules of the Bad Word Society are usually not written down; but they are something like this: "One cent fine for every bad word spoken; every boy to report his own bad words to the treasurer and pay up; no telling of any other boy's bad words; the money to go to the school library." This is simple and practical. Perhaps, the scheme might be enlarged a little so as to include the grosser forms of bad grammar, such as "I done it," "them cabbages" and "you was." It is highly absurd that the boys who have been going to a grammar school for years should violate the most rudimental laws of grammar every time they speak ten consecutive words.—Youth's Companion.

Three Good Lessons.

"One of my first lessons," said Mr. Sturges, the eminent merchant, "was in 1813, when I was seven years old. My grandfather had a fine flock of sheep, which were carefully tended during the war of those times. I was the shepherd boy, and my business was to watch the sheep in the fields. A boy who was more fond of his book than the sheep was sent with me, but left the work to me, while he lay under the trees and read. I did not like that, and finally went to my grandfather and complained of it. I shall never forget the kind smile of the old gentleman as he said:

"Never mind, Jonathan, my boy; if you watch the sheep, you will have the sheep.'

"'What does grandfather mean by that?' I said to myself. 'I don't expect to have a sheep.' I could not exactly make out in my mind what it was, but I had great confidence in him, for he was a judge, and had been in Congress in Washington's time; so I concluded it was all right, and went back contentedly to the sheep. After I got into the field I could not keep his words out of my head. Then I thought of Sunday's lesson: 'Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things.' I began to see through it: 'Never you mind who neglects his duty; be you faithful, and you will have your reward.'

"I received a second lesson soon after I came to New York, as a clerk to the late Lyman Reed. A merchant from Ohio who knew me came to buy goods, and said: 'Make yourself so useful that they can not do without you.' I took his meaning quicker than I did that of my grandfather.

"Well, I worked upon these two ideas until Mr. Reed offered me a partnership in the business. The first morning after the partnership was made known, Mr. James Greery, the old tea merchant, called in to congratulate me, and he said: 'You are all right now. I have only one word of advice to give: Be careful whom you walk the streets with.' That was lesson number three."

And what valuable lessons they are: Fidelity in all things; do your best for your employers; carefulness about your associates. Let every boy take these lessons home and study them well. They are the foundation-stones of character and honorable success.

Lung Troubles and Wasting

Diseases can be cured, if properly treated in time, as shown by the following statement from D. C. FREEMAN, Sidney: "Having been a great sufferer from pulmonary attacks, and gradually wasting away for the past two years, it affords me pleasure to testify that Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda has given me great relief, and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering in a similar way to myself. In addition, I would say that it is very pleasant to take."

A BOY WHO DIDN'T KNOW WHEN HE WAS HAPPY.—A little fellow went to a party. They had plenty to eat. When all was joyful he was crying. A lady said to him:

"My little man, what's the matter?"

He bawled out, "I can't eat any more!"

"Well, then," said she, "put something in your pockets."

"I've got'em full."

"Well, haven't you some room in your bosom under your coat?"

"That's full, too!"

"Well, perhaps, if you go out and take a walk you will get hungry and can eat some more."

"Been out!"

"Then," she said, "I don't see any help for you. There's nothing for you but to cry and make yourself miserable."

So she left him blubbering.

There are many little and big folks who don't know when they are happy.

How to Cure Skin & Scalp Diseases with the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE MOST DISTRESSING FORMS OF SKIN and scalp diseases, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, are speedily, economically and permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, when all other remedies and methods fail.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Relief in one minute, for all pains and weaknesses, in CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c

Household.

SAVE THE BOYS.—But the main point is, how can we save the boys? Some would threaten, some would close the saloons, some would force them to be educated. Education can help greatly. For "knowledge is power" when one knows how to use it. But God does not save people from vice by education only. Of fifteen hundred prisoners at Joliet, in Illinois, ten hundred were well educated, and one hundred and twenty-nine were college graduates. There is one sufficient means to save, and that is the grace of God. But if we are to bring the boys under the influence of the sanctuary, we must treat them with respect. There is no sense in finding fault just because they sincerely differ in opinion. Treat them in a Christian way, treat them with politeness, give them a kind greeting. Then implant a sense of duty. A gentle hint will often set their consciences at work. Welcome them to the churches and social gatherings. Make the home the most inviting place. Let mothers bear in mind that no one has so much influence over their boys as they. A boy usually thinks his mother is an incarnate angel. She is nearest to an angel that a boy ever knows. Angels are ministering spirits. That is exactly what a good mother is.—Congregationalist.

HOME HAPPINESS.—Probably nineteen-twentieths of the happiness you will ever have, you will get at home. The independence that comes to a man when his work is over, and he feels that he has run out of the storm into the quiet harbor of home, where he can rest in peace with his family, is something real. It does not make much difference whether you own your house, or have one little room in that house, you can make that one little room a true home to you. You can people it with such moods, you can turn to it with such sweet fancies that it will be fairly luminous with their presence, and it will be to you the very perfection of a home. Against this home none of you should ever transgress. You should always treat each other with courtesy. It is often not so difficult to love a person as it is to be courteous to him. Courtesy is of more value and more royal grace than some people seem to think. If you will be but courteous to each other you will soon learn to love more wisely, profoundly, not to say lastingly, than you ever did before.

A SURPRISED FATHER.—A fine looking man of noble physique, and clad in an overcoat, gloves and stout boots, was walking out the other day with his little three-year-old daughter, a pale-faced child, with bare neck and arms and morocco slippers. A neighbor, meeting them, began to ask, with great apparent concern, after the father's health, adding: "But I am glad your little one does not inherit your feeble constitution."

"Feeble constitution!" exclaimed the astonished parent. "Why, I was never sick a day in my life; while, as to my daughter, we fear she has her mother's consumptive tendencies."

"Indeed!" replied his friend, with a sly twinkle of the eye, "you take extra care of yourself from the cold, while she goes bare-necked and in pasteboard shoes. I inferred that it was you that inherited the mother's consumptive tendencies, and not she."

EDUCATION OF THE YOUNG.—As each step of a ladder is useful only when those below it have been firmly trodden, so each step in education depends for its success upon the previous steps having been well taken. Thus the very earliest years of school life demand at least as much ability, judgment, experience and clear-sightedness in the teacher as do any subsequent ones, if not more. To commit the little ones to any but competent and responsible hands is one of the most fatal errors that can be made in education. It is during these years that the strongest impressions are made, and that the firmest and most lasting habits are formed.

JEAN A. PIZZINI, Editor and Publisher of the Catholic Visitor, Richmond, Va., says: "Having tried Shallenberger's Antidote for Malaria, we do not hesitate to say, from personal experience, that in our case it acted like a charm, and did all the doctor claims for it, and we would assuredly have recourse to it again if exposed to Malaria." Sold by Druggists.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Teacher

Who advised her pupils to strengthen their minds by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, appreciated the truth that bodily health is essential to mental vigor. For persons of delicate and feeble constitution, whether young or old, this medicine is remarkably beneficial. Be sure you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring and fall I take a number of bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and am greatly benefited."—Mrs. James H. Eastman, Stoneham, Mass.

"I have taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla with great benefit to my general health."—Miss Thirza L. Crerar, Palmyra, Md.

"My daughter, twelve years of age, has suffered for the past year from General Debility.

A few weeks since, we began to give her Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Her health has greatly improved."—Mrs. Harriet H. Battles, South Chelmsford, Mass.

"About a year ago I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for debility and neuralgia resulting from malarial exposure in the army. I was in a very bad condition, but six bottles of the Sarsaparilla, with occasional doses of Ayer's Pills, have greatly improved my health. I am now able to work, and feel that I cannot say too much for your excellent remedies."—F. A. Pinkham, South Molunens, Me.

"My daughter, sixteen years old, is using Ayer's Sarsaparilla with good effect."—Rev. S. J. Graham, United Brethren Church, Buckhannon, W. Va.

"I suffered from

Nervous Prostration,

with lame back and headache, and have been much benefited by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I am now 80 years of age, and am satisfied that my present health and prolonged life are due to the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—Lucy Moffitt, Killingly, Conn.

Mrs. Ann H. Farnsworth, a lady 79 years old, So. Woodstock, Vt., writes: "After several weeks' suffering from nervous prostration, I procured a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken half of it my usual health returned."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

—3 NEW VOLS.—
Giants & Goblins, $1.
Wings & Stings, 75c.
Paws & Claws, $1.
Mailed Postage Free

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL
The BRIGHTEST, JOLLIEST JUVENILE BOOK. Full of the oddest [illegible] and charming [illegible] laugh-provoking [illegible] by the [illegible] artists. A GREAT HIT! Over 10,000 sold. Critics say of it [illegible] R. H. Conwell, D. D. [illegible] Phila. Press [illegible] Hon. S. S. Cox [illegible] Hon. Howard Crosby. [illegible] Phila., Chicago, or St. Louis.

MUSICAL NOVELTIES.

ROYAL PRAISE. (35cts.) By J. R. Murray. The best Sunday School Book that has appeared in years. New Music and New Words.

GLORIOUS CAUSE. (35cts.) By G. F. Root. A fine collection of new Temperance Music. Leaders of the Temperance Cause endorse it.

EMPIRE OF SONG. (60cts.) By G. F. Root. A splendid Singing Classical Convention Book. Has no superior.

ROYAL PIANO FOLIO. (60cts.) A new collection of the choicest Piano Music by the best foreign composers.

TIDBITS OF MUSICAL HISTORY. (25cts.) A collection of short sketches of celebrated musicians, their works, and other items of Musical Interest.

SNOW WHITE. (75cts.) By Clara L. Burnham and G. F. Root. A new and charming little operetta for Young Folks. Not difficult of preparation.

Any of the above sent by mail on receipt of the specified price.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.
And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage.
MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

For Gas — BAILEY'S — For Oil
COMPOUND light-spreading silver-plated Corrugated Glass REFLECTORS.
A wonderful invention for lighting CHURCHES Halls, etc. Handsome designs. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free.
BAILEY REFLECTOR CO.
113 Wood st., Pittsburgh, Pa.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O

McShane Bell Foundry
Finest Grade of Bells.
CHIMES AND PEALS FOR CHURCHES, &c.
Send for Price and Catalogue. Address
H. McSHANE & CO.,
Baltimore, Md.
Mention this paper.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO
SUCCESSORS IN BLYMYER BELLS TO THE
BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO.
CATALOGUE WITH 1800 TESTIMONIALS
BELLS, CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM

CANCER and Tumors CURED: no knife; book free. Drs. GRATIGNY & BOSS, No. 165 Plum St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

MARION—MILES.—In Morton, Miss., October 9, 1888, by Rev. C. McDonald, Mr. J. D. Marion and Miss Mattie F. Miles.

UELTSCHEY—MAKLER.—Near Morton, Miss., October 10, 1888, by Rev. C. McDonald, Mr. W. H. Ueltschey and Miss Mollie E. Makler.

McCLINTOCK—McGEE.—At the Methodist Church, in Sallis, Miss., October 10, 1888, by Rev. W. W. Williams, Mr. H. A. McClintock to Miss Olivia McGee, both of Sallis, Miss.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

BRYANT—Sister LIZZIE BRYANT was born April 2, 1865, and departed this life February 11, 1888, in the full assurance of faith. She joined the Methodist Church, in '82, under the ministry of J. W. Chambers, and was soon afterward converted under the preaching of Bros. Anders and Roberts. It was my happy privilege, three years ago, to meet Sister Lizzie at the Sam Jones Camp Ground, where I formed her acquaintance. The active part she took in the services that were held from time to time, and the great zeal she manifested in the work of saving precious souls, drew my attention to her. I sought her acquaintance, and afterwards had many pleasant hours with her, talking about Jesus and his love. She loved Jesus and delighted in his service. She worked in the altar and out of the altar. And I shall never forgot the prayers she offered in behalf of sinners and for the advancement of the kingdom of Christ. They were earnest, fervent and prevailing. One year after these delightful days spent together in the service of our Master we met again at the Sam Jones Camp Ground. Sister Lizzie was there rejoicing in the Lord, ready to work for her Master. During that meeting she seemed to soar above the region of mortals. It was a delight to watch the expressions of her face as she told sinners of the love of Jesus. Smiles and tears mingled to form a beauty that was heavenly and inspiring to behold. Her young life was now fully consecrated to the Master's service. On the last night of this precious meeting we all shook hands, and promised that if we met no more on earth we would, by the grace of God, meet in heaven.

One year after this parting we are assembled at the camp ground to join in prayer and praise. This year Sister Lizzie's seat is vacant. She has fallen asleep in Jesus. "Blessed sleep, from which none ever wake to weep." And while we sang praises to our Redeemer on earth, she was shouting praise to him in heaven. She left no dying testimony; yet by the life she lived we know she has gone where her forehead is starred with the beauty that dwelt in her soul, where the light of her loveliness can not be marred nor the heart flung back from its goal. May the Lord comfort the hearts of the dear ones left behind, and help us all to live and die in the faith of Christ, who redeemed with his own precious blood!

L. S. JONES.

MOORE—On Monday, September 10, 1888, Bro. J. F. MOORE expired, being in his forty-seventh year. He was born February 23, 1842, at Columbus, Lowndes county, Miss. At this place he spent the first eighteen years of his life. In 1860 he moved to Newton county, Miss., and engaged in farming. When the war began, in 1861, he enlisted with a company of volunteers and was soon exalted to the office of major. Excepting his imprisonment for six months on Johnson's Island he was in service until the war closed. In 1876 he commenced the study of law and was admitted to the bar in 1877. He was quite successful in this profession. In 1876 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and remained in it until his death. At the fourth Quarterly Conference for Newton charge, in 1885, he was elected steward and filled that office most efficiently. In 1877 he was married to Miss Emma Everett (daughter of Dr. G. G. Everett) with whom he lived during the remainder of his earthly career. After his marriage he erected him a nice residence at Newton, a post-town of Newton county, Miss., where he breathed his last. Bro. Moore loved the missionary cause, and, therefore, contributed fifty dollars annually, since 1885, for the support of the same. He gave twenty-five dollars for the support of the worn-out preachers last year and subscribed the same amount this year. But his stay on earth has ended, and we sadly miss him. He has left a precious wife and brother to weep over his departure. May God comfort them and keep them impressed that "all things work together for good to those who love God." (Rom. viii, 28.)

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.

McADORY—J. W. McADORY was born in Tennessee, December 20, 1837, and died at Daleville, Miss., July 3, 1888.

Bro. McAdory was converted and joined the church in early life, and lived an upright Christian life. He feared God and eschewed evil. In February, 1865, he was joined in holy wedlock to Miss Sarah Barrier, with whom he lived happily for twenty-three years. In February, 1887, their only child—a sweet young lady—died of consumption and went home to rest. She has been joined by her father, and the two, doubtless, are "waiting and watching" for the mother and wife. Bro. McAdory—was a solid Christian character. His house was always open to weary itinerants, and many a preacher has rested and feasted under his roof. We miss him, we all miss him; yet we feel sure he is at rest.

H. P. LEWIS.

COLLINS—JAMES COLLINS was born in Georgia, August 12, 1811. He moved to Alabama in early life, where he was converted, joined the Methodist Church, and married Miss C. Cameron. He truly appreciated and highly enjoyed the workings and spirituality of our church fifty years ago. He moved to Mississippi and bought land in Carroll county. In little more than two miles of him sprang up Winona. Before the war he was a successful farmer. He died at his home, August 22, 1888. He had been married five times.

His life was valuable to the world. The religion of the Lord Jesus Christ reigned in his heart and shaped his character. Everybody called him a good man. Bro. Collins had the utmost confidence in God. He endeavored to revere and adore his name. He regarded him as the only Being worthy of worship, and felt that he deserved all his praise. He was an humble man, realizing his dependence and his nothingness of himself. At the feet of Jesus he deemed it essential and important to sit and learn.

The church of Christ was dearly beloved by him. He loved the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, believing heartily in her divine origin, accepting her entire polity. He was deeply concerned about the success of Christianity, daily showing a warm interest in the salvation of souls and the growing in grace of those who had taken the church vows. The preachers he loved and was ever ready to encourage and assist, never speaking disparagingly of them. He honored them for their office's sake. So he was a good neighbor, safe friend, a noble citizen, and a kind husband and father. He has left a grand legacy to his bereaved wife and six living children—an untarnished religious influence.

J. M. WYATT.

SIRMAN—Died, September 21, 1888, at the residence of his father, in Vernon parish, La., HENRY NEWTON SIRMAN, son of F. H. and Rebecca Sirman, aged fourteen years and three days. Henry joined the Methodist Church in 1884 under Bro. Boltz's ministry, and gave evidence of saving faith in his risen Savior. Henry was a favorite in the family, beloved by all who knew him, and was always found at his place in the sanctuary. He was sick but a few hours, when God took him to himself. Sweet be thy rest! God bless the bereaved parents! They have another tie in glory.

D. M. BANKS, P. C.

Fifteen Years Ago and Now.

A letter asking for certain historical information in regard to our missions has required me to make some examinations of the old records of the Board. My attention was arrested by the discovery that in the Annual Report for the year 1872-3 the Secretary, in making a general recapitulation of our missions and work, forgot to include our only foreign mission—the China mission. Looking back through the report, a short letter, dated February 10, 1873, written by J. W. Lambuth, unaccompanied by comment, is found. In this letter the following sentences occur; coming from the least complaining of missionaries, they mean all that is written: "We have some books and tracts ready for the press, but no funds. The funds received up to the present time have not been sufficient to meet the expenses of the mission by some three months. We have been looking forward to the coming of each mail for relief." Looking through the Treasurer's report, which is a simple copy from his day-book—no account being kept with Conference on the side of receipts, and no account kept with missions on the side of expenditures, we find that from March, 1872, to the date of this letter, Lambuth had received only $2,089 65 to support the mission. As the present Treasurer became that year a member of the Board, the discovery inclined him to look farther into the work of the Board from 1872 to 1888.

The Annual Report for 1883-4 adds nothing to the China mission, our one foreign mission, but makes mention of the beginning of work in the City of Mexico.

In 1885, when the writer became Associate Secretary, Dr. McFerrin being Constitutional Secretary, requested him to take charge of all correspondence and secretarial work for China and Mexico. The China mission had at that date only two missionaries, Rev. J. W. Lambuth and Rev. Y. J. Allen, the latter of whom was in the employment of the Chinese government, and received his salary from that source. The Mexican work had Rev. Joel T. Daves in the City of Mexico, with one church; A. H. Sutherland in charge of Mexican Border work of the West Texas Conference. This was the sum total of our foreign missionary undertaking. At the close of the year the Associate Secretary was able to report A. P. Parker added to the China mission. This had been done through the co-operation of E. R. Hendrix, then treasurer of the Missouri Conference Board of Missions; after much correspondence and concert of effort, the Missouri Conference undertook Brother Parker's support for a time, and China received her first recruit since 1856. A man of great value to the work, strong, devoted and thoroughly reliable, he has become a most excellent Chinese scholar, the first man on this roll in the mission.

This year Brazil was added to our list of foreign missions. A letter had come from Rev. J. E. Newman, asking that our church enter that field. After full correspondence, the Rev. J. J. Ransom gave his consent to go without any appropriation for salary. Dr. McFerrin, true to his constitutional conservatism, doubted our ability to undertake this new field. The Secretary and Associate had been now for months in daily contact, and had grown very intimate in all their relations. The Associate got all the facts, found the man ready to go, and kept the matter constantly before his senior. After days of consultation the Secretary at length consented that he would offer the resolution which gave birth to the Brazil mission. When he did so, however, he required the Associate Secretary and the missionary both to re-affirm their promise previously made, that there should be no salary chargeable to the Board for that year.

The Annual Report for this year mentions for the first time woman's missionary societies. Those mentioned are: Baltimore, Nashville and Warren, Ark. The Associate Secretary had bestowed much personal effort in Nashville, and gave a good deal of time to correspondence with other points to create this new source of aid to our work. The Secretary, with many men of prominence in the church, looked upon the movement as full of danger, and for years held back their approval. Later from almost all of them woman's work has come to meet hearty approval and encouragement.

For the first time in the history of the Board the Treasurer's Report for this year shows an attempt to keep accounts with Conferences. For the first time his report is accompanied with the report of an auditing committee. The appropriations to the missions in detail are for the first time given to the church in this Annual Report.

Figures, better and more concisely than words, will be able to tell the tale of progress. Appended is a table showing the condition of the work of the Board fifteen years ago and now. The Treasurer confesses great pleasure in the growth which has marked these years of his connection with the Board.

The table shows that fifteen years ago almost all of our work was in the United States; it also shows that the extension of our foreign work has not decreased our work in the United States. The home work is not only more vigorously prosecuted, but much of the work then counted as mission work has now become self-supporting, so that the last figures do not give the full results of this work. Let the reader remember that this does not measure the extent of our home missions; each Conference has its own missions within its own bounds, which exceed those under the care of the Parent Board.

FOREIGN.

	1873.	1888.
Missionaries	2	54
W. H. M. missionaries	.....	23
Native preachers	5	80
Members	75	3,786
Churches	2	42
Value of churches	$ 1,000 00	$ 8,285 00
Parsonages	1	30
Value of parsonages	3,000 00	52,150 00
Total val. of church prop'y.	4,000 00	213,502 00
Collections in mission	.....	2,650 57
Collect'n in whole church.	38,465 32	281,581 00
Paid to for. missionaries	2,087 65	131,725 01

HOME WORK (Under care of Parent Board).

	1873.	1888.
Missionaries	147	218
W. H. M. missionaries	.....	3
Members	17,957	25,325
Churches	"	231
Value of churches	"	$268,352 00
Parsonages	"	48
Value of parsonages	.....	52,000 00
Total val. of church prop'y.	"	507,506 00
Collections in mission	"	7,226 75
Paid to home missions	$ 36,577 67	66,126 41

So far as my knowledge extends no other church in the land has made the same relative progress in the same time. Our church has nothing comparable to it in any other fifteen years of our history; no other department of our church work equals this in comparative growth during these years. It is believed that the story told by these figures will be received with devout thanksgiving by the whole church.—Missionary Reporter.

"Weak and weary" describes the condition of many people debilitated by the warm weather, by disease or overwork. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed to build up and strengthen the body, purify and quicken the sluggish blood, and restore the lost appetite.

Scientific.

How a Lithograph Is Made.

After the lithographer has carefully studied the original drawing before him and laid out his plan, he makes a careful tracing of it on transparent gelatine, on which he indicates every line or shade or degradation, and this tracing is carefully transferred to a previously prepared stone and serves as a "key" to the entire work and for all the color stones. The work on stone is drawn with a greasy black chemically prepared crayon, which, by the way, has to be sharpened backward, or from the point up, as its very brittle nature will not allow of its being sharpened in the ordinary way. The greasy crayon penetrates the stone, which is then subjected to a solution of gum arabic and nitric acid, after which it is carefully washed off with water. The black drawing, however, still shows, but is now easily washed from the face of the stone with turpentine, leaving the surface, to all appearance, as clean as when the stone first came into the artist's hands. It is then dampened with water. The printer passes his roller, charged with color, over the surface, and this adheres only where the stone is dry, or, in other words, where the grease of the crayon is, and this color is transferred from the stone to the paper. The same process is employed for the application of each successive color, portions of the picture being drawn on several different stones to obtain what may be called the composite tints, while others are only drawn on a single stone, when the color in the picture is to be one of those directly employed.—New York Mail and Express.

The Sound of Thunder.

One of the most terse and succinct descriptions of a natural phenomenon is that recently given by M. Hirn, in which he says that the sound which is known as thunder is due simply to the fact that the air traversed by an electric spark, that is, a flash of lightning, is suddenly raised to a very high temperature, and has its volume, moreover, considerably increased. The column of gas thus suddenly heated and expanded is sometimes several miles long, and as the duration of the flash is not even a millionth of a second, it follows that the noise bursts forth at once from the whole column, though for an observer in any one place it commences where the lightning is at the least distance.

In precise terms, according to M. Hirn, the beginning of the thunder clap gives us the minimum distance of the lightning, and the length of the thunder clap gives us the length of the column. He also remarks that when a flash of lightning strikes the ground, it is not necessarily from the place struck that the first noise is heard. Again, he points out that a bullet whistles in traversing the air, so that we can to a certain extent follow its flight, the same thing also happening with a falling meteorite just before striking the earth. The noise actually heard has been compared to the sound produced when one tears linen. It is due, really, to the fact that the air rapidly pushed on one side in front of the projectile, whether bullet or meteorite, quickly rushes back to fill the gap left in the rear.—Scientific American.

PHOTOGRAPHING BURGLARS.—An idea has been recently suggested by a New Haven man for protection against burglars. He advocates flash-light photography in the following manner: "I would have a camera placed in a position where it would command in the field of the lens a space of ten feet square or more in front of the door of the vault, and have other apparatus so arranged that as soon as tampering with the vault door was attempted the whole would be placed in operation. My plan would, of course, include retaining the burglar alarm connecting with police headquarters. As soon as the burglars had begun operations the police would be alarmed and at the same instant a picture of the men would be made by the camera and flash-light combined, so that even if the men escaped the police, they would leave behind them evidence which would very probably eventually result in their detection and conviction."

Has that Tom Cat scratched my darling's face? Rub it, Freddy, with Salvation Oil.

The best remedy for pulmonary complaints is Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cents.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

BEATS the World. It is the Best

HARNESS DRESSING

The BEST for Men's Boots
" " " Ladies' "
" " " Children's "

ABSOLUTELY WATERPROOF.

SOFTENS and PRESERVES the Leather

Once a week for men's boots and once a month for women's is ample for perfect results. It makes the handsomest and most durable polish you ever saw. You don't have to groan and sweat with a blacking brush. Be wise and try it. Because your grandfather worked hard is no reason you should not spare yourself this worse than useless labor.

Sold by Grocers, Druggists, and Shoe Dealers.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, PHILADELPHIA.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement,

—1888.—

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator	$ 3 50	$ 2 75
American Agriculturist	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	2 50
" Times-Democrat	3 50	2 75
Harper's Magazine	6 00	4 75
" Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

Hugh Jamieson, Jr.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THREE WONDERFUL

SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect.

6,500,000 LADIES

Are Doing Sewing on

SINGER

Family Sewing Machines.

8,000,000

SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,
185 Canal St., New Orleans.
S. E. RUNDLE - - - - AGENT.

Agents Wanted

ERIE Self-Wringing MOP

is the best selling article out. Made from malleable iron and steel wire.

Special knitted cloth fitted into every Mop before shipping.

A Golden Opportunity for persons of either sex in search of profitable employment, as the SELF-WRINGER sells at sight.

Exclusive territory and liberal terms. Send 50 cents for sample and agent's outfit. Circulars and terms free.

EVANS BROS., Southern Agents,
13 Perdido St., New Orleans.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT, FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET, BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES, LAMPS AND LANTERNS, Axle Grease, Blacking, Cages and Cheese Safes, Coffee and Grain Mills, Hammocks, Oyster Tongs, Scales, Rinsing, Corks and Clocks, Cutlery and Saws, Ice Cream Freezers, Paper and Flake, Sieves, Whips.

HARDWARE, STONEWARE, BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES, TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE, ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,

Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET.

E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE, MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER

In all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty. WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES, WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS, UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS, RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS.

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP St., NEW ORLEANS.

W. C. SHEPARD, 49 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Crockery, China, Glassware and General House-Furnishing Goods.

Semi-Porcelain Dinner Sets, $8, $10, $12 and $15. Decorated Dinner Sets, $10, $12, $20 and $25. Chamber Sets, $2 45, $3 50 and $4 50.

Wonderful reduction on all goods. Determined to reduce stock. Call and see before purchasing elsewhere.

Blanchard Churns and Gate City Filters, Refrigerators, Ice Boxes, Bath Tubs and Summer Goods.

"A REMARKABLE BOOK," SAYS DR. FADDN, of Edinburgh, Scotland; a graduate of three universities, and retired after 50 years' practice, he writes: "The work is priceless in value, and calculated to regenerate society. It is new, startling, and very instructive." It is the most popular and comprehensive book treating of

MEDICAL, SOCIAL, AND SEXUAL SCIENCE,

Proven by the sale of Half a Million to be the most popular, Readable because written in language plain, chaste, and forcible, Instructive, practical presentation of "Medical Common Sense" itself, Invaluable to invalids, showing new means by which they may be cured, Approved by others, physicians, clergymen, editors, and interested, Thorough treatment of subjects especially important to young men, Everyone who "wants to know, and why" will find it interesting.

4 Parts, 35 Chapters, 936 Pages, 200 Illustrations, and

A NEW FEATURE, of beautiful colored anatomical charts, in five colors, guaranteed superior to any hitherto offered in a popular physiological book, and rendering it even the most attractive and quick-selling AGENTS who have already found a gold mine in it. Mr. ——— of ——— writes: "I sold the first six books in two hours." Many agents take 50 or 100 at once, at special rates. Send for terms.

FREE—A 32 page Contents Table of Plain Home Talk, red, white and blue circulars, and a sample of Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

Standard Edition, $3.25 } Same print and illustrations, the Popular Edition, 1.50 } difference is in paper and binding.

MURRAY HILL PUB. CO., 129 (N.) East 28th St., New York.

$1000 for a Wife!

The above sum in cash and goods will be paid to the first 500 who send 25 cents for a sample of our goods, and tell us correctly where in the Bible is the word "WIFE" first found. Mention book, chapter and verse. The first person who sends the correct answer will be paid $100 IN CASH, the second $50, the third $25, the fourth $15, the fifth $10, and to the next 195, if there are as many, a SOLID GOLD PLATE HALF ROUND WEDDING RING. Warranted. We want new agents, and for 25 cents will send A HANDSOME FOLDING CASE containing 140 USEFUL ARTICLES for Domestic Use, elegantly embellished in 8 colors. Last year we paid $20,000 for advertising, and we wish to try the effect of a new method. Send postage stamps or silver, and LOSE NO TIME if you would secure one of the cash prizes. We will return the money and you may keep the goods if not found satisfactory. Mention this paper. Address at once WORLD MANFG. CO., 122 Nassau Street, N. Y.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases. A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel. The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

PERFECT SAFETY

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

It has been used with most wonderful effect in

Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c.

Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2-cent stamp to

MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA.

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending October 23, 1888.)

COTTON.

Low ordinary	7 1-16	@— —
Ordinary	7 9-16	— —
Good ordinary	8 3-16	— —
Low middling	8 15-16	— —
Middling	9 7-16	— —
Good middling	9 13-16	— —
Middling fair	10 5-16	— —
Fair	11 3-16	— —
Galveston middling	9 7-16	— —
Mobile middling	9¼	— —
St. Louis middling	9⅜	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	5¼	5⅜
Fully fair	5½	— —
Strictly Prime	— —	— —
Common	4¼	— —
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4⅛	5⅛
Pr. yellow	6⅛	6 5-16
Gray White	6⅜	6⅝
Choice white	6 13-16	6⅞
Stan. Gran	7½	— —

MOLASSES.

OPEN KETTLE:
Good Prime	37	— —
Fair	— —	— —
Good Common	— —	— —
Syrup	32	44

RICE.

Head	5¼	5¾
Good	4½	4¾
Fair	— —	— —
Good	4½	4¾
Polish	14	15
No. 2	— —	— —
Rough	2 25	3 75

FLOUR.

Choice	4 50	4 60
Fancy	5 30	5 40
Extra Fancy	5 55	5 60
Minnesota bakers	6 50	6 75
Minnesota patents	7 50	— —
Extra fancy	5 80	6 00
Winter wheat patents	6 35	6 50

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	2 60	2 75
Cream meal	3 10	— —
Grits	3 10	3 20
Hominy	3 50	— —

GRAIN, ETC.

CORN:
White	53	54
Yellow	— —	56
Mixed No. 2	56	— —
OATS:
Western	33	— —
Choice	— —	— —
BRAN:
₩ cwt	87½	90
HAY:
Prime	14	15
Choice	15½	16 00

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	— —	16½
Prime Mess	— —	16 50
Rumps	— —	16 00
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	12	13
Shoulders	— —	8½
Sides, short rib	8¾	10½
Sides, long clear	— —	8¾
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	12	13
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	— —	8½
Sides, short rib	— —	8¾
Sides, long clear	— —	8¾

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	17¾	18
Fair	16¾	17
Common	14¼	14½
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	28	— —
Western Dairy	— —	18
Common	14	— —
LARD:
Refined	— —	8⅞
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Fair	24	35
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11¾	— —
Coal, cases	16	17
Cotton seed, crude	— —	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70	75

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, per head	3	4
Chicago, per 100	— —	— —
Lonisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Lonisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 40	1 85
KROUT:
Western, ₩ bbl	— —	4 00
ONIONS:
New Lonisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 60	1 70

BALING STUFFS.

BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb	12¾	13
Jute, 1¾ lb, per yd	12½	— —
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	12½
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	10½	11
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 10	1 12

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00	4 25
Young Chickens	2 25	3 00
Chickens, South'n	3 00	3 50
Young	1 75	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	12 00
EGGS:
Western	15	16
Southern	16	17
WOOL:
Lake, per lb	20	21
Louisiana	18	19
Burry	10	12
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₩ lb	— —	5
Dry salted	6	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	11 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	— —
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	2⅛	— —
Sulphuric acid, c	2	— —

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Gen. Adam Badeau's suit for $10,000 against Mrs. U. S. Grant, for alleged services in preparing General Grant's memoirs for publication, was adjourned until the first Monday in November.

The Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company of St. Louis, on the eighteenth instant, locked out 450 men, owing to trouble with the employees of the lasting department.

A wreck occurred on the Cumberland Valley railroad, near Shippensburg, Pa., on October 18. Trains Nos. 14 and 19 collided at a sharp curve in the road, completely demolishing the engines. Many of the passengers received injuries, though none are serious.

The fifteenth Annual Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union convened in the Metropolitan Opera House, in New York City, on October 19. Delegates were present from all parts of the United States.

A very severe hail-storm, accompanied by a high gale, passed over Chicago, on October 18.

The Fiftieth Congress, after the longest continuous session, adjourned on October 20.

Lonisiana has fared well in the matter of legislation in the last Congress, having received, among other things, $125,000 for public buildings at Monroe and Opelousas; $26,000 for public roads to the national cemeteries at Pineville and Baton Rouge; $27,500 for additional aids to navigation at the mouth of the Mississippi, besides the amounts in the river and harbor bills for the improvements of harbors and streams in the State. Mississippi has been scarcely less favored, having received large appropriations for public buildings at Vicksburg and other places, and for the improvement of rivers and harbors.

An ovation was given Judge Thurman at Brazil, Ind., on October 20. He addressed 25,000 persons at a mass meeting at that place.

One of the most notable Republican demonstrations in the campaign of 1888 occurred in Chicago on October 20. Mr. Blaine was the central figure. The occasion was his first public appearance since the national convention in that city, where that body had to nominate a new candidate for the party.

A Chicago street car was bombarded by riotous strikers, on the twenty-first instant. The mob was dispersed by the police after a sharp encounter.

Fifty new cases and one death from yellow fever were reported from Jacksonville, Fla., on October 20. Fernandina, Fla., nineteen new cases; Decatur, Ala., two new cases, no deaths; Gainesville, Fla., one case.

The Louisiana State Fair was formally opened at Baton Rouge on October 22. Gov. Nicholls delivered an address of welcome.

FOREIGN.

The Emperor William and King Humbert returned to Rome, on October 18. They met with a similar reception to that given to the Emperor William when he first arrived. Enormous crowds lined the route taken by the royal party.

Mr. Michael Davitt has written a letter to the Times in which he says that the Irish will not accept the scheme proposed by the Liberals for the government of Ireland, unless an Irish Parliament is allowed to solve the land question and fix the compensation to be paid the landlords.

Hon. J. A. Chaplean, Secretary of State, at a banquet given by the Workingmen's Conservative Association, in Ottawa, Ontario, ridiculed the idea of annexation, and said that the Englishmen and the French Canadians would never permit it to take place. Canada was destined to build up a great nationality.

Gen. Salomon, who was recently driven from the presidency of Hayti by an insurrectionary movement, and who went to Paris for the purpose of undergoing an operation, died on October 19.

The Mexican Minister of Public Works says that no more privileges will be given to railways.

From a member of the imperial attendants it became known that the Emperor William, while telling King Humbert how the Pope had insisted upon talking on the question of Rome, said: "I had to destroy his illusions, and it was done effectually."

The Vatican does not rest submissive or inactive. Cardinal Rampolla, besides instructing the bishops to renew the agitation for sympathy with the Pope, has prepared a statement explaining that His Holiness only consented to receive the Emperor after obtaining a formal declaration that the visit did not imply any recognition of the incorporation of Rome with Italy.

The escutcheon on the German consulate at Havre was torn from its position, on October 20, and thrown into the street. The prefect at Havre has tendered a profuse apology to the consul, and M. Goblet, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has likewise apologized to the German ambassador, at Paris, for the outrage.

Rev. Dr. Charles O'Rielly states that the Parnell defense fund, of which he is the American treasurer, is progressing finely, and will in all probability be enough to meet all the requirements for which it is raised.

The Emperor William returned to Berlin on October 21. At the railway station at Potsdam he was met by the Empress, with whom he drove to the marble palace.

The comic paper Grelot, of Paris, has been seized for publishing an insulting caricature of Emperor William in Italy.

The negotiations between the Rothschild syndicate and Premier Tisza, concerning the conversion of Hungarian loans, have been concluded. The operation affects a million of florins.

The marks of premature age may be effectually obliterated by using Buckinghum's Dye for the Whiskers. It colors uniformly, and always gives satisfaction.

Mansfield College.

The Rev. Dr. McVoy, the president of this grand old institution of learning, has captivated this whole town as a Christian gentleman, preacher and an educator. The faculty is, perhaps, unsurpassed in the South; and Mrs. Magee, of Doyline, La., is at the head of the boarding department.

There are now some eighty pupils in college, and still they come. Mansfield citizens are delighted and are rallying to its support. They tell me that they are feeling more sanguine of a fine school than for years. But, oh! we have not done our part. If we preachers will do our part, we can fill the college with boarders. And while I sent from my charge last year three pupils, and will have sent some four in few weeks this year, I feel pained that I have done so little.

Brethren, I am converted—I am converted. I shall go home and do more than ever before for Mansfield Female College. I have been here the last nine days assisting the pastor, Rev. A. D. McVoy, Jr., in a revival meeting, and have seen much of the workings of the school. The girls are being converted—in fact, every boarding pupil now is either converted, or at the altar earnestly seeking the Savior. Of course, some of the girls were converted when they came here. Then, what fine training! The college, Sunday-school and church, all united in training the girls, mentally, morally and spiritually, for society and the church of Christ. Therefore, our daughters return to us well fitted for the various duties, and the great city of God. But our girls at home want to know something about the fare. Well, it is good. Mansfield has a reputation for feeding well, and you know that it is said of preachers that they put up at the best place, and this preacher is a regular boarder at the college during his stay in town, and is delighted.

The revival goes on with increasing interest. To date some fifty or sixty have professed conversion, and several new family altars erected. The church is greatly encouraged, and many of her members seeking to be made perfect in love.

Yours in Christ,

R. M. BLOCKER.

MANSFIELD, LA., Oct. 17, 1888.

RELIGION ON THE RAIL.—The steamboat train from Boston reaches Stonington between nine and ten o'clock in the evening, where passengers take the boat for New York. About two o'clock at night the boat from New York arrives, and the train leaves with the passengers for Boston. During the four hours the train men were thus detained, for more than two years a midnight prayer meeting was sustained by them. So largely blessed was this meeting, that it is said three churches grew out of its influence along the line of the road. "Take a cigar?" said a passenger one evening to a pious brakeman. "Thank you," said the brakeman, "I never smoke." "Take a chew, then?" "I don't chew." "Well, then, take a drink?" "Never drink," was the reply. "What! never smoke, nor chew, nor drink?" replied the man, quite astonished. "What do you do?" "I frequently pray," replied the brakeman. "Well-I-I," said the stranger, "this is the queerest railroad I ever saw."—Watchman and Reflector.

It is the duty of every Christian, so far as he can, to make Christ known to others, and spread the glad tidings of salvation throughout the world. It is true, we can not all go as missionaries, but we can do something in the way of supporting those who can go, and thus contribute our part toward the evangelization of the world.

Yellow Fever Can Be Prevented!

Steamer Jos. KINNEY, St. Louis, November 18, 1878.—On our last trip from St. Louis to Vicksburg we used Maguire's Cundurango as a preventive of yellow fever, and our boat crew, officers and passengers were entirely free from sickness of every kind, and give the credit to the Cundurango.

BILLY BLANKER, Clerk Str. Jos. Kinney.
PIE S. LEE, Master Str. Alex Kendall.

Quarterly Conferences.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Mt. Vernun	Oct. 27, 28
Pleasant Grove	Nov. 3, 4
Arkabutla	10, 11
Como and Fredonia	12
Chulahoma	17, 18
Coolfrun	24, 25
Louisburg	27
Horn Lake	Dec. 1, 2

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GRENADA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Toccopola	Oct. 27, 28
Water Valley circuit	Nov. 1
Banner	3, 4
Atlanta	10, 11
Grenada circuit	17, 18
Carrollton	24, 25
Pittsboro	Dec. 1, 2
Water Valley	8, 9

J. F. EVANS, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND

Olive Branch	Oct. 27, 28
Ryhalia and Victoria	Nov. 3, 4
Myrtle	10, 11
Marshall	17, 18
Hickory Flat	24, 25
Pine Mountain	Dec. 1, 2

JNO. BANCROFT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

New Albany circuit	Nov. 3, 4
Pleasant Ridge circuit	10, 11
Ripley circuit	17, 18
Jonesboro circuit	24, 25
Ripley and New Albany	26
Blackland circuit	Dec. 1, 2
Guntown circuit	8, 9

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

McCool circuit	Oct. 27, 28
Valden circuit	Nov. 3, 4
Newport circuit	10, 11
Zilpha	17, 18
Ebenezer	24, 25
Durant and Lexington	Dec. 1, 2
Ethel circuit	8, 9

E. P. MITCHELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Tremont	(Fri.)... Oct. 26
Fulton and Smithville, at Smithville	27, 28
Prairie, at Lebanon	Nov. 2, 4
Athens	(Thu.).. 7
Aberdeen station	10, 11

AMOS KENDALL, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Louisville, at Louisville	Oct. 26
Plattsburg, at Mt. Pisgah	27, 28
Salem, at Mashulaville	Nov. 3, 4
Walthall, at Lebanon	10, 11
Lagrange	17, 18
Chester, at Chester	24, 25
Crawford, at Artesia	Dec. 1, 2
Tampico, at Mt. Pleasant	8, 9

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Providence, at Providence	Oct. 27, 28
Topisaw, at Pleasant Grove	Nov. 3, 4
Hazlehurst	7
Crystal Springs	8
Adams, at Adams	10, 11
McComb City, at McComb City	11
Holmesville, at Water Holes	17, 18
Franklinton, at Franklinton	24, 25

J. M. WEEMS, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Sandersville	Oct. 27, 28
Enterprise	(Wed.).. 31
Vossburg, at Central	Nov. 3, 4
Paulding	5
Clark	10, 11
Lauderdale	(Wed.).. 14
Marion	(Thu.).. 15
DeKalb	(Sat).. 17
Electa	18
Leaksville	(Wed.).. 21
Meridian circuit	25
Meridian station	26

R. D. NORSWORTHY, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Carthage, at Carthage	Oct. 26
Hillsboro, at New Providence	27, 28
Conehatta, at White Plains	Nov. 2
Neshoba, at Mars Hill	3, 4
Fannin, at New Providence	8
Walnut Grove, at Scotland Chapel	10, 11
Shiloh	15
Marvin	16
Westville	17, 18
Raleigh	22
Brandon	24, 25

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

East Baton Rouge, at Deer Ford	Oct. 27, 28
Wilson, at Pisgah	30
North Wilkinson	Nov. 3, 4
Centerville	6
Amite, at Woodland	10, 11
East Feliciana, at Olive Branch	17, 18
Bayou Sara, at Concord	24, 25
Jackson	25, 26

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Harriston	Oct. 27, 28
Oak Ridge	Nov. 3, 4
South Vicksburg	9, 10
Vicksburg	10, 11
Oak Grove	17, 18
Knoxville	24, 25

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Hattiesburg, at Hopewell	Nov. 14
Poplarville, at Purvis	16
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs	18, 19
Seashore, at Biloxi	20
Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis	24, 25

T. S. WEST, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Flora circuit, at Dover	(Sat.).. Oct. 27
Mt. Olivet ct., at Mt. Olivet	(Sun.).. 28
Silver Creek circuit, at Loui	Nov. 3, 4
Edwards circuit, at Queen's Hill	10, 11
Camden circuit, at Camden	17, 18
Raymond circuit, at Clinton	24, 25
West Jackson, at Forest Hill (11 a.m.)	26
Jackson station, at Jackson (7 p. m.)	26

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Woodside and Ebenezer, at Woodside	Oct. 27, 28
Natchitoches, at Robeline	Nov. 2
Hellwood, at Shiloh	3, 4
Mooringsport, at Mt. Zion	8
Caddo, at Friendship	10, 11
Coushatta, at Coushatta	15
East Point, at Hill's Chapel	16
Red River, at Lindsley	17, 18
Shreveport	24, 25
South Bossier	27
Valley circuit	29
North Bossier	Dec. 1, 2
Pleasant Hill, at Pleasant Hill	8, 9
Mansfield	15, 16

J. D. CASSITY, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Opelousas	Oct. 27, 28
Grand Chenier	Nov. 3, 4
Indian Bayou	10, 11
Washington	17, 18
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Abbeville	Dec. 1, 2
Sulphur Mine	8, 9
Lake Charles	15, 16

S. S. KEENER, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Winsboro, at Winsboro	Oct. 27, 28
Waterproof, at Waterproof	Nov. 3, 4
Lake Providence, at Pecan Grove	10, 11
Oak Ridge, at Good Hope	17, 18
Rastrop, at Rastrop	24
Lind Grove, at Bartholomew	24, 25
Richland, at Girard	Dec. 1, 2
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	8, 9
Delhi and Floyd, at Floyd	15, 16

J. D. HARPER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Soraparu and Parker's Chapel	Oct. 28
Gross Tete	Nov. 4
Baton Rouge	11
Donaldsonville and Plaquemine	18
Carrollton and Lower Coast Mission, at Carrollton	25
Crapa Street	Dec. 2
Algiers	9
Louisiana Avenue	16

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Columbia, at Columbia	Nov. 3, 4
Castor, at Ebenezer	10, 11
Montgomery, at Brett's	17, 18
Ada, at Beulah	20
Bayou Beouff, at Elm Bayou	24, 25
Sugar Town	Dec. 1, 2
Spring Creek, at Spring Creek	5
Alexandria, at Pineville	8, 9
Evergreen, at Melville	15, 16

B. F. ALEXANDER, P. E.

HOMER DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Homer, at Homer	Oct. 27, 28
Minden, at Minden	Nov. 3, 4
Tulip, at Tulip	7
Ringgold, at Andrew Chapel	10, 11
Brushwood, at Gibsland	14
Vernon, at Wesley Chapel	17, 18
Indian Village	24, 25
Sparta and Saline	Dec. 1, 2
Ruston, at Ruston	8, 9
Arcadia, at Arcadia	15, 16

ROBERT RANDLE, P. E.

We never know through what divine mysteries of compensation the great Father of the universe may be carrying out his sublime plan; but the words, "God is love," ought to contain to every doubting soul the solution of all things.—Mrs. Muloch Craik.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

H. D. McCOWN,
DEALER IN FINE CLOTHING
—AND—
Men's Furnishing Goods.
Headquarters of the Celebrated
STAR SHIRT.
Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.
CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.
Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

A. Brousseau's Son,
23 and 25 CHARTRES ST.,
CHINA MATTING,
CARPETS,
INGRAINS,
LACE CURTAINS,
WINDOW SHADES,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS.

PIANOS
GRAND Summer Sale
ORGANS
CASH PRICES—PAY WHEN COTTON IS SOLD.
GRAND OFFER. 1,000 Pianos and Organs
To be sold in August, September and October, at ROCK BOTTOM CASH PRICES, payable PIANOS only $25 Cash. ORGANS only $10 Cash.
And balance Dec. 1, without interest or advance on lowest cash price. Buy now and pay when Cotton is sold.
Great Bargains—Pianos $200, $225, $250.
Organs $24, $35, $50, $60. 10 makers, 300 styles, all freight paid, 10 days' test trial. Reduced prices. Write for Mid-Summer Sale Circular.
LUDDEN & BATES, SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE
SAVANNAH, GA. The Great P. & O. Depot of the South.

BOYS'
Velocipedes,
R. P. Randall,
54 & 56 Baronne.

This paper is kept on file at the office of
AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AGENTS
TIMES BUILDING Chestnut & 8th Sts PHILADELPHIA.
ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING at Lowest Cash Rates FREE
Send 10c. in stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.
PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

LOUISIANA
STEAM
SASH, BLIND AND DOOR
FACTORY,
309, 301, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.
Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.
Orders promptly attended to.
Plantation Cabins a Specialty.
BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

G. WOLF,
—MANUFACTURER OF—
GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES
(Formerly of 136 Common Street)
54 ST. CHARLES STREET,
Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St.,
NEW ORLEANS.
Orders promptly attended to.

A BEAUTIFUL HOME BOOK
In Prose and Poetry. By 400 best authors.

Edited by THEO. L. CUYLER, D.D., and other
It contains the best thoughts and utterances of the minds upon the "three dearest names to mortals given." "Is valuable for its rich selections."—J. H. Vincent, D. D. Elegantly Illustrated. 454 Quarto pages. Cloth, $2.50. Gilt Edge, in a box, $3.50. Full Morocco, in a box, $5.00.
Beware of Imitations.
E. B. TREAT, Publisher, 771 Broadway, N. Y.
HUGH JAMIESON, Jr., Agent,
112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

$300 to $500 a month made by working for us. We guarantee energetic persons $500 a Year, with the opportunity of making 6 times that amount. Men who can furnish their own horses preferred. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Holloway & Co., 112 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents.—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Workers, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., 720 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

TEACHERS, PROFESSORS and TUTORS supplied to Schools, Seminaries, Colleges and Families free of charge. We have a large normal student registration. Teachers, register early. Fee, small. Address, with stamp,
AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Cole Building, Nashville, Tenn.

WANTED at once, a representative, Man or Woman, in every vicinity until Dec. 25th. Liberal Pay. All time not necessary. Give references. R. H. Woodward & Co., Baltimore.

$75 to $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. H. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURED never fails to Cure. Any one who wants to be can send us their address and we will mail trial bottle FREE. Dr. TAFT BROS., Rochester, N. Y.

The Great Secret of the Canary Breeders of the Harz Mountains.
מאנא BIRD MANNA restores song to cage birds and preserves them in health. 15c. by mail. Sold by druggists. Directions free. Bird Food Co., 400 N. 3d St., Philad., Pa.

"Best cure for colds, cough, consumption" is the old Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam." Cutler Bros. & Co., Boston. For $1 a large bottle sent prepaid.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 44. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1683.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.
REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. JAMES A. GOLDEY.
REV. W. L. C. HENNICUTT, D. D.
REV. T. L. MEILEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

THE GREAT HEALER.

Healer of men: We bring our sick to thee:
Our sick in body, and our sick in soul;
Satan hath vexed them; thou canst set them free.
Thou only hast the power to make them whole.

On the far shores of lovely Galilee
They brought them to thee, sick and blind and lame;
Thy word was instant healing, and thy touch
Was heaven's best blessing upon all who came.

And there were those by demons mad possessed;
Thy power divine cured e'en their bitter woe.
Clothed, and in pure, right mind, they sat them down
At thy dear feet, until thou bidst them go.

Thou art no more on earth in human form;
Thou sittest now on the right hand of God:
Yet is thy power as great, thy love the same,
As when our ruined earth was thine abode.

We bring them to thee, sick and blind and lame;
The sick of sin. O heal them, blessed Lord!
Lord, we believe, help thou our unbelief,
And save us all according to thy word.

Kentucky Correspondence.

BY JOSEPH B. COTTRELL, D. D.

The recent session of the Louisville Conference, and the October issue of the Quarterly Review, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, are topics upon which I feel a prompting to write. The presidency of Bishop McTyeire is ever agreeable to the brotherhood, and, in this instance, he more fully impressed us that he is not extemporaneous or capricious, but that he has pretty well anticipated the conditions; yet is he competent to meet and provide for any unforeseen contingency. Lebanon is one of the cleverest of our Kentucky towns, and the entertainment of the Conference was most delightful. Our daily sessions were held in the First Presbyterian Church, that being the largest of all the Protestant Churches. Of the Bishop's sermon, at eleven on Sunday, I heard much commendation. Being, as usual, assigned to the pulpit of the Christian Church at the same hour, it was not my pleasure to hear it. Bro. I. W. Emerson preached the Annual Conference sermon from the text, "We are fools for Christ's sake." It was a most effective discourse, and the Conference was more demonstrative at the close than I've ever seen it before. Bro. Emerson is a man of rare endowments, intellectually. The best judge of preachers and preaching I know, declares him the most edifying preacher she has heard in Kentucky. Drs. Young and Kelly, recent transfers to us from the Kentucky Conference, preached in a masterly manner. Dr. Barbee, our Book Agent, made an address at the Methodist Church, at the anniversary of the Church Extension Board, about which I heard not a little in highest commendation. Being appointed to address the meeting on the same behalf at the same hour, at another church, I missed hearing this. But I heard the Doctor before the Conference on behalf of the publishing interests. Of Summers' "Systematic Theology," and of Boland's "Problem of Methodism," he spoke most highly. The Doctor was terrific on the so-called "advanced thinkers," characterizing them as presumptuous, vain and insignificant. He closed his address just at the close of a morning session, else he would have been requested to specify, particularly, at what and at whom he was striking. His glowing description of the Methodist movement, under the brave men who first led out into "advanced thinking," and thus disengaged the kingdom from the dogmatic and formalistic trammels termed, in their day, conservatism and orthodoxy, prompted me to put in, at a pause, with the question if that was not the effect and fruit of "advanced thinking." The Doctor said it was. Of course there are counterfeits on all that's good; but if there is over much fresh, original thinking, it fails to discover itself in our literature.

Bishop McTyeire was unexpectedly called to preside at an extra afternoon session of the Conference, and had me to represent him in an address at the anniversary of the Woman's Missionary Society. Miss Mary Helm presided, and gave a very interesting and effecting talk. Saving two churches in Louisville, my charge made the largest report in collections for the missionary cause, foreign and home. It was the only charge in the Conference that went over all its assessments. It is a pleasure to me to return to the service of this people, and the congregations of last Sunday, morning and evening, were not at all indicative of any abatement of interest or favor upon the part of the community.

The Quarterly Review is certainly a sterling one for this quarter. I've not read all the articles; but of that of Dr. J. E. Edwards, in criticism of Boland's "Problem of Methodism," I've been prompted to write. The Doctor suggests an "expurgation" of all our hymns and standards that teach the doctrine of the second change. He endorses the theory of the Problem, and claims for infants such a conditioning through the atonement as renders any change unnecessary. It was but a few years ago he was pleased to accuse Boland, myself and some others, of Pelagianism. We were then contributing to Sledd's "Homiletic Monthly." Certainly no one of us went so far as does Dr. Edwards now. I hope no one will fling any ugly word at him, but that "conference" will continue. That text, "Be courteous," is one upon which it were well for every preacher to prepare carefully, at least, one sermon. The article by Col. Sanford, of Alabama—"Reminiscences"—is certainly a most thrilling one. The one on Faith Cures is timely and able. Every preacher in the connection should take the Review, as also such laymen as are seeking the best culture.

As you were pleased to speak, editorially, of the extreme illness of Mrs. Cottrell, some weeks ago, it is in place for me to say that she is somewhat improved, and I'm hopeful of getting her down to Florida soon, that she may escape the rigors of a Kentucky winter.

One young man, on probation in the Conference, died last year only. There seems to be a healthful spirit in forming the ministerial brotherhood; and, if I discern aright the tendency, it is toward less glorification of Methodism, and a more modest conservation of the kingdom in its catholic adaptations. "Advanced thinking" has wrought no appreciable detriment in these regions, and it is to be hoped that each man, who presumes to lead the public mind, will lead by the foretop. By listening to God I think one may gather unto himself the ever-the-same, always-varying truth, which is light and life and power. There are two dangers, counterparts of each other, to be avoided, viz: supposing the church to belong to us, and belonging to the church. To be members thereof, and to realize it, is to enjoy the franchise whereof Paul speaks when he says, "Stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free." To cultivate the principle of preferring others in honor is to be engaged in a task that taxes the ultimates of Christian manhood. To live according to the opposite of this!—well, one had better be a sportsman than a preacher.

FRANKLIN, Kentucky.

"Kitchen Cabinets."

BY "GILDEROY."

"Kitchen cabinets" are the order of the day among the preachers now. These are meetings wherein the preachers make prognostications in reference to the appointments for the next year. Much precious wind is wasted in these meetings. The Bishops rarely ever pay any attention to the forecasts made in them. Indeed, I doubt if these preliminary and informal meetings are reported to the Bishop and his counselors. The "kitchen cabinet" is the place where the preachers and the appointments are most freely discussed. The absent preachers are the ones that are the most thoroughly dissected. They are cut up into small particles, and then sifted thoroughly like wheat. Their faults and weakness—commonly called "idiosyncrasies"—come into prominent view, and they are sometimes greatly magnified, rarely ever minified. Common politeness forbids that the preachers present should ever become the subjects of conference, unless some brother should get so full of himself and some probable or desirable appointment as to thrust himself upon the meeting. Then he fares like the absent, and is well winnowed like the rest. Methodist preachers deal more candidly and kindly with each other—and sometimes more bluntly—than any other class of men in the world. These siftings are generally taken as meant—in good spirit.

Now and then a brother whose skin is extra thin smarts mightily under the scalping-knife, but soon gets over it, and consoles himself with this reflection: "Well, I have been done for in this instance as I have often done by my brethren when they were being cooked in the 'kitchen cabinet.'" The average "kitchen cabinet" is open to serious objections. The business, which is purely a business of wind, may go too far, blow too hard, and bring some good brother harm instead of good. Now and then the "kitchen cabinet," like the regular cabinet, springs a leak, and spills out precisely the things that should have been securely corked up. Then, generally the mischief is to pay. No harm was intended, but harm comes of it whether intended or not. To the credit of these extemporaneous Conferences, be it said that, a brother's strong points are brought out as well as his weak ones; but the evil things nearly always leak out first, leaving the good in the cabinet like hope was left in Pandora's fabled box. It is always taken for granted in these meetings that every subject operated upon has faults and failings except the members present. They are the paragons in whose half-bushels other people's corn is to be measured. The measure they mete is often measured to them again by other cabinets in other parts of the Conference. While picking the mote out of a brother's eye, a long, rough beam is protruding from their own eyes. This fact, when remembered and acted upon, has a tendency to make us wondrous kind to other people, even in the close conferences held in the "kitchen cabinet" meetings. The more private these meetings are, the better they generally are; and some of them would have been better not to have been held at all. With a few provisos—all implying a thorough sanctification of the men and these meetings—"kitchen cabinets" are not unmitigated evils. We come to know each other as no other class of men are known to the class to which they belong. We know each other as preachers and as men—each other's strength and weakness—and this begets sympathy, so essential in a corporation where a community of interest is involved, as is the case among Methodist preachers. The people in any given territory, such as an Annual Conference, come to know all the preachers in the Conference as the preachers of no other denomination in the same territory are known. This fact goes very far toward mitigating the real or supposed evils of a ministry sent, as compared with a ministry called and tried. Our people know our preachers before they come. They know the evangelists, the pastors, the doctrinal, the experimental preachers, and the disciplinarians. The connectional spirit and machinery tends to promote a connectional knowledge of the men, of the preachers. The "kitchen cabinet" helps the preachers to know the charges, the circuits, stations, missions, and districts. A church or charge is never better than the people who compose it; it is made up of people. This fact is often forgotten by churches and charges, taken as a whole. Communities and churches, like individuals, often think more highly of themselves than they ought to think. If some of them could see themselves through the "kitchen cabinet" lens, it would tend to take the conceit out of them. The best charge or church has work enough and worry enough to make the stoutest human heart tremble with fear. Congratulation is often extended to the preacher by his church and charge when commiseration and prayer are more needed. The preachers know the hard corners and the disadvantages and drawbacks in all the leading charges in their Conferences. Some, reputed to be the best, are often most dreaded by the preachers, and yet, if sent, they go like brave men and do the best they can. They go with a full understanding of the situation, the condition of affairs. With this knowledge they are ready for effective work as soon as they get on the ground. Abraham went out, not knowing whither he went; but the average Methodist preacher has somewhat the advantage of Abraham in this particular. He often goes to other than a land flowing with milk and honey.

The "kitchen cabinets" discuss the editors, the papers, the books, the Publishing House, the Bishops and the presiding elders—in a word, everything that concerns the progress and prosperity of that form of Christianity known as Methodism. In this way the enthusiasm of the preachers—the spirit of the corps—is kept at white heat.

Whose Fault, If Anybody's?

The work of the domestic missionary is not generally appreciated at its full value. It is true that when we urge certain worldly-wise persons, both in and out of the church, to give to foreign missions, they dodge the issue by talking feelingly about "the heathen at home." Some of us have reason to know that the time for their sympathy to crystallize into action is always a little in the future. We also know that, in very truth, we have no "heathen at home" beyond the few Chinamen and Japanese who inhabit our cities. Our mawkish philanthropist has no reference to these. But he may well be concerned for the thousands in our midst whose moral condition is more fearful far than that of the blinded Pagan. All through these States are neighborhoods where the people are perishing, spiritually, with the Light of Life about them. Though they have practically rejected the gospel up to this time, yet they are not hopelessly lost—and they are our brethren. We owe the gospel to them specially, because they are, in a sense, "the lost sheep of the House of Israel." Their conditions for receiving the gospel have not been so favorable as ours. Either the sparseness of population, or the lack of interest in religion among those who should see to the moral welfare of the community, or, as in many rural districts, the actual poverty of the people, prevent the supply of their spiritual wants. Unless we help them to the Bread of Life, they will surely famish, and we shall bear the blame in the great day, when motives are all made manifest, and opportunities accurately weighed.

Even among our best people there is some misapprehension as to the working of this arm of the service; consequently a lack of ready response to this urgent claim on our Christian liberality or, I should rather say, sense of justice. Familiar with the operations of the Mississippi Conference Board of Missions for five years past, and taking it as a fair sample of the "patronizing Conferences," I can say with certainty that all funds raised for domestic missions are well expended. The Board meets several times during each session of Annual Conference to make careful inquiry into the amount of work done (and the visible result thereof) by all those who are aided in their support from our treasury. Other meetings plan and appropriate for the ensuing year, also making assessments on the various districts, to meet our need. The men whom we have thus employed have been among our best; and so it is this year. Very large results in accessions, conversions, Sunday-schools, church building, etc., have crowned the labors of these workmen who need not to be ashamed. The amounts heretofore raised and expended have been pitifully small, as compared with the outcome and with the imperative demand for the future. Our case this year is more emergent than ever before. Our assessment is only $120 above the appropriations, and these are so small as to yield the barest support to the faithful brethren who are toiling in this part of the field. Should the deficit this year be as large as is usual, I can not see how these toilers can live free of debt. We owe it to these, our own tried and trusted fellow-laborers, to see that they are not brought to this acute distress. Such surely will ensue if any deficiency be reported. Let the watchword be: "Every dollar of the assessment;" if it has to come out of our own support. But if we make the proper representation of this cause, our laity will not let us take the burden. Brethren in well-to-do charges, please remember that there always will be some who, through misfortune or neglect, fail to bring up their assessments. Let us indulge the privilege of going beyond the assessments and supplying their lack of service. Only thus can we avoid the necessity, hitherto laid upon us, of straining and draining our brethren of the Conference at the anniversary meeting; or, still worse, let our toil-worn missionaries be disappointed and, perhaps, hampered in their future work. Oh! when shall we be able to hold a Conference anniversary where seed-sowing for the future shall be the leading idea, and the collection incidental and conducted on the plan of a free-will offering to the Lord; where none shall be so badgered into giving as to destroy all the sweetness of voluntary devotion? This happy event waits on our full and faithful discharge of duty prior to Conference.

A. P. DRAKE,
Sec. Miss. Conf. Board of Missions.

The Itinerant Covenant.

The Alabama Advocate, in a thoughtful and kindly article on this subject, gives the preachers a friendly talk, part of which we present below:

What is to be thought of the preacher who, for any cause or pretext, talks about any other preacher in such a way as to circumscribe his influence and curtail his efficiency? Yet it is said that this is often done; and it is believed that this is a growing evil. In some cases the minds of the people have been so prejudiced against a given preacher that, if the Bishop were to appoint him to that charge, the people would almost rebel; and, in case the Bishop did not make a change, it would take the preacher a year or more to overcome the prejudice so unjustly and wickedly created against him. Those who have taken the time and the pains to look into the facts along this line, report that we have a few preachers—it is to be hoped a very few—who never permit any preacher's name to pass without some word of depreciation, some bill of exceptions, being entered against the absent brother. And this is done in the face of the commands: "Speak not evil one of another;" "Thou shalt not go up and down as a tale-bearer among thy people:" "Speak evil of no man."

Take another view: When a preacher joins the Conference, enters into the itinerant compact, and takes the vows of ordination, he puts his time, his energies, his talents upon the altar to be used, governed and spent as the Conference directs. But this is not all. As he is responsible to the Conference for his official and moral conduct, and as his character is challenged once every year in the presence of the Conference, he, of necessity, puts his character in the hands of the Conference. Hence, he has the right to expect that his good name, his character will be sacred in the hands of every member of the Conference. No preacher can depreciate, disperse, malign and backbite another preacher without forfeiting the respect and confidence of his brethren.

THE PURE HEART.—Rev. James Caughey once said in a sermon on "Blessed are the pure in heart," that it was impossible to sully a sunbeam. "A while the sunbeam," he said, "may dart down into the darkest hole of filth, and illumine it, it will soil nothing, and yet not be soiled itself. So the ray of heavenly life and love, existing in the perfect believer's heart, goes into and comes out into contact with the dark dwelling-places of iniquity and filth, and cheers, and enlivens, and encourages by its presence, but is always kept unspotted from the stains of the world. It is God who gives to the pure in heart this great gift and distinction. It is he only who can keep the heart in perfect peace."

This thought is beautifully illustrated by the Scripture: "Though ye have lien among the pots, yet shall ye be as the wings of a dove covered with silver, and her feathers with yellow gold."—Christian Witness.

A LIVERPOOL CHURCH SCANDAL.—An extraordinary case was heard in Liverpool on Wednesday. The Rev. Samuel Rogers, vicar of St. Mark's, summoned three of his parishioners for brawling in church. The reverend gentleman and his congregation have been at variance, and there have been some scandalous scenes in church. On the day to which the summonses referred the reverend gentleman, in a sermon, said, "You are one of those who will be in hell soon." One of the defendants took this to apply to him, and leaped on the seat and told the minister not to be personal. A scene of great uproar followed, in which another of the defendants participated. The third defendant was taking shorthand notes of the sermon, and refused to desist when told, and was ejected from the church. The charge against the latter was dismissed, but the other two defendants were bound over to keep the peace for three months. The church has been the scene of very extraordinary proceedings for some time.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1888.

HARVEST GLADNESS.

BY MARGARET HAYHURST.

Praise be thine, eternal King,
Young and old "Hosanna" sing:
Thou hast blest us far and wide
At the bounteous harvest tide;
Angels' voices high are blending
In the anthem never-ending;
Hear us while we fain would render
Praise for mercies, kind and tender.

Lord, 'tis thine almighty hand
That encwreathes the radiant land.
That the pastures doth enfold
In a royal robe of gold;
Shining vineyards, hill-l pe bears,
Woods aflame declare thy glory;
Thou hast hung the fruitage glowing
Where the orchard-boughs are blowing.

Praise for sun and praise for dew!
Praise for love forever new!
Praise for bounties richly shed,
That thy children may be fed;
Bread of Life, for all availing,
Vine the true, the never-failing!
Feed our souls, in thee confiding,
Keep our lives in thine abiding.

Old and young their music raise,
All things breathing chant thy praise:
Every season, every year,
Are thy tender mercies near:
Thou, our Hope, our Help for ever,
God of Harvest! leave us never,
Till we reach our Father's portal,
Bearing homeward sheaves immortal!

—The Quiver.

(Vincent and Holway's Lesson Commentary. Phillips & Hunt, New York.)

Sunday-School Lesson.—Nov. 11.

CALEB'S INHERITANCE.

Joshua xiv, 5-15.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed.—Psa. xxxvii, 3.

TIME.—B. C. 1445, or 1411.

PLACE.—The rampat Gilgal, west of the Jordan.

5. They divided the land—The division of the land of Canaan according to the boundaries laid down in Numbers xxxiv, 2-12, was carried out, in accordance with the instructions in Numbers xxxiv, 16-29, by the High-Priest Eleazar, Joshua and ten heads of fathers' houses of the nine tribes and a half, whose names are given in Numbers xxxiv, 18-28. The decision was made by lot, not merely to prevent all disputes with reference to their respective possessions, and to remove every ground of discontent and complaint, but also in order that each tribe might cheerfully and thankfully accept the share awarded to it, as the inheritance intended for it by God.'

6. Then the children of Judah came unto Joshua—The children of Judah—that is, probably, the heads and chief men, accompanied Caleb, who belonged to the same tribe, in order to testify their consent to the measure, and to aid and countenance him in obtaining the object of his request. Caleb, the son of Jephunneh—Caleb is first mentioned in the list of the princes who were sent to search the land of Canaan in the second year of the exodus (Numbers xiii, 6), and he and Joshua were the only two who on their return encouraged the Israelites to go up and take possession of the land. In the plague that ensued, these two alone were spared, and deemed worthy to enter the promised land. The Kenezite—His younger brother Othniel, afterward the first Judge, is also called "the son of Kenaz."

7. Forty years old—The Hebrew expression is, "The son of forty years." Compare the expressions: "Son of man," "Sons of Belial," "Son of the perverse, rebellious woman." I brought him word again as it was in mine heart—I spake my opinion sincerely, without flattery and fear, when the other spies were biased by their own fears, and the dread of the people, to speak otherwise than in their consciences they believed. Neither fear nor favor influenced him on the occasion; he told what he believed to be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. It has been remarked in this connection that Caleb's name signifies, according to the heart.

8. My brethren—The other spies, Joshua, of course, excepted, to whom Caleb was appealing. Made the heart of the people melt—In modern sense this would indicate compassion; in the ancient, fear. I wholly followed the Lord—Hebrew, fulfilled after the Lord. As he had obtained this testimony from God himself, it was not vain-glory for him to speak of it, especially as this was the main ground on which he had become entitled to the object of his petition. It is not pride, but simply a tribute of due acknowledgement, to declare what a gracious God has done for us and by us.

9. Moses sware—Caleb probably quotes an express declaration of Moses, not recorded in the Pentateuch, but familiar to Joshua, in whose hearing it may have been first related by Moses. This particular promise from God was closely related to the words with which Caleb endeavored to calm the minds of the people when they rose up against Moses, namely, by saying to them: "We are well able to overcome it," notwithstanding the Anakites who dwelt in Hebron and had filled the other spies with such great alarm on account of their gigantic size. With reference to this the Lord had promised that very land to Caleb for his inheritance. The land whereon thy feet have trodden—Not the land of Canaan in general, but this particular, this identical district.

10. The Lord hath kept me alive—It was the Lord who did everything for him. He does not exult in the strength of his constitution, on which time had made so slight an impression. It was the Lord who had kept him alive, when in the ordinary course of things he would have been dead. Forty and five years—This marks the date of the present conversation as occurring seven years after the invasion. Caleb was forty years of age when he went to spy the land of Canaan. For thirty-eight years the Israelites wandered in the wilderness. And Caleb was now eighty-five years old. Doubtless the apportionment of the land, and its occupation by the Israelites, was a long and tedious business. I am this day fourscore and five years old—Hebrew, a son of fourscore and five years. Caleb was now, with the exception of Joshua, not only the oldest man in all Israel, but was twenty years older than any of them; for all that were above twenty when he was forty had died in the wilderness.

11. As strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me—My ability, not only for counsel, but for action, remains unimpaired; I am as competent as ever for the hard services and difficult exploits of war. He mentions this, both to give glory to God, who was the strength as well as the length of his days, and also to intimate to Joshua that it would not be throwing away a portion upon a weak old man who was unequal to the task of either taking or retaining it. To go out, and to come in—To perform all the duties belonging to my place. Sweet is it to come to a period that fills the mind with the expectation of long-promised blessings, when just about to receive what the Lord, many years since, has spoken of concerning his people—to realize in old age what has been their hope in youth, and has been their support and solace in the pilgrimage of a lengthened life.

12. Give me this mountain—Not any particular mountain, but this mountainous tract or region, for such was eminently the country about Hebron. The spot on which Caleb had set his heart was the fertile valley of Hebron. Of all the country which the twelve spies, with Caleb and Joshua at their head, had traversed, this is the one scene which remains fixed in the sacred narrative, as if because fixed in the memory of those who made their report. It was the winding valley, whose terraces were covered with the rich verdure and the golden clusters of the Syrian vine, so rarely seen in Egypt, so beautiful a vesture of the bare hills of Palestine. Whereof the Lord spake—These words are a proof that it was not merely a general promise, but a special one in reference to Hebron, which Caleb had received. Thou heardest ... how the Anakim were there—We may suppose that Caleb, observing what stress they (the spies) laid upon the difficulty of conquering Hebron, bravely desired to have that city which they called invincible assigned to himself for his own portion: "I will undertake to deal with that, and if I can not get it for my inheritance, I will do without." "Well," said Moses, "it shall be thine own then; win it and wear it." If so be the Lord will be with me—The ardor of a bold native temperament is here moderated by the workings of a spirit of conscious unworthiness and of humble dependence on the divine blessing. Caleb in these words virtually acknowledges that the battle is not to the strong nor the race to the swift, and that the favorable presence of God with us in our undertakings is all in all to our success. Shall be able to drive them out—Out of their fastnesses, where they yet remain. Caleb desires this difficult work as a testimony of his own faith, and as a motive to quicken and encourage his brethren to the like attempts.

13-15. Joshua blessed him—Bade him God-speed in his warfare, and invoked the help of Jehovah to attend him. Gave ... Hebron—The Hebrew leader cheerfully granted the request of his old companion in the work of espial, and emphatically prayed for a successful issue to all his efforts against his gigantic foes. Because ... wholly followed the Lord—Singular piety shall be crowned with singular favors. Name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba—Caleb only restored the original name Hebron. Hebron would appear to have been the original name of the city, and it was not until after Abraham's stay there that it received the name Kirjath-arba, who was not the founder, but the conqueror of the city, having led thither the tribe of the Anakim to which he belonged. It remained this name till it came into the possession of Caleb, when the Israelites restored the original name Hebron. The land had rest from war—The inhabitants of Canaan could make no longer any head against the power of Israel. Being disjointed and broken, they could no longer rally in such force as to make it necessary for the whole Israelitish body to go out against them in a general campaign. There were afterward partial wars, arising from the attempts of each tribe to expel the ancient inhabitants still remaining in their respective territories.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

If we would secure a healthful and honorable old age, there is no better prescription than to seek the Lord early, and follow him wholly.

Glory and reputation are not for the leaders alone, they are also for the followers. There is an imperative need of fidelity in subordinate positions.

It is well to set a high value on the promises of God.

In old age it matters not even if the outward form perisheth, provided the inner man is "renewed day by day."

He Will Not Leave Them to Perish.

The following letter speaks for itself. Those who know the writer will recognize the consecrated, manly, heroic spirit that breathes through every line. He is modest and shrinking to an extreme, and I am sorry to give a letter not intended for publication; but it is the only way in which I can enable many to realize the facts of the case. It is not the man, but the cause he represents, that we must consider.

A heathen people without hope, without knowledge of the true God, seeing the blessed effects of the gospel upon others, begged that it might be sent to them. He went cheerfully—if not eagerly—for his heart is full of the love of God, though he knew that among an uncivilized people he would have many hardships to bear. Having put his hand to the plow, he will not turn back; but he is depending upon the "Parsonage Society" to give him the relief that will enable him to stay without suffering to his family. We need the funds to give it. Who will help him to stay with the "perishing people" for whom he pleads?

"Dear Sister: I have intended to write to you for some time, but have been on the go for the past six weeks, and have had but little time for correspondence. I have nothing special to write, but I suppose a note from me will provoke an answer, and it is the answer that I am after.

"Is it probable that the collection for our parsonage here will be sufficient to secure its erection during the fall before winter sets in? The little house we are in grows worse as age creeps on apace. Its friendly roof ceases to be friendly, for it opens its gaping cracks to receive the falling rain and sends it in concentrated force down upon our devoted heads—about the wettest water you ever felt. By heaping everything upon the bed, and elevating wife and little ones to the summit of that conglomerate heap, and then hovering a parachute over the whole we can keep things 'sorter' dry. But wouldn't it be a comical sight, though? It makes me laugh to think how I'll keep the whole outfit dry the next time it rains. But, seriously, the fast-waning summer and the approach of autumn remind me that winter will be here again soon, and with it the unheralded norther and piercing winds will also come to shake in playful toyings this frail, thin structure in which we camp. My family must suffer if compelled to remain in this house another winter. As for myself, I could get along were it not for the mother and the little ones (have only six). I can not, I must not quit this field until at least re-enforcements are sent and our church is established here. This work must go on, this perishing people must have the gospel. House or no house, help or no help, I can not give up this work now. But what can be done for our parsonage, and how soon?—I am not impatient or complaining, but am happy as a lark: for He is with us, and somehow I know He will provide and care for us. The lack of a home here makes us appreciate the prospect of one up yonder. The man who owns this house does not care to improve it, as he wishes to tear it down and appropriate it to other purposes. Let me hear from you soon, and do not forget to pray for our work.

"Your brother in Christ,

J. J. M."

It gave me pain to write him that unless the Lord opened the hearts of his people to give more freely, the house could not be secured this fall. Yet I hope—hope and trust—that it may be done. If he has determined to remain at his post, the responsibility rests herein upon the church to see that "the mother and little ones" do not suffer while the missionary gives his life to "rescue the perishing."

Let the willing-hearted, whether their gifts be large or small, send them for the love of Christ.

LUCINDA B. HELM,
Sec. W. H. Ch. Ex.

1509 Third Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

The College Question.

The following seem to be the conclusions which we have reached on the college question:

1. That we should establish district high schools in the bounds of our Conference.

2. That we should concentrate on one place somewhere in the Conference, and establish a first-class Conference high school for boys.

3. That we should invite the Mississippi Conference to unite with us and establish a Mississippi Methodist college.

I am fully persuaded (and so are many of my brethren) that the first-named plan is—at least, for the present—safest; but, in deference to those who differ with me, lest I should be mistaken and hinder a good cause, and for the sake of harmony in our Conference (which we must have, if we would succeed), I am willing to compromise on the second plan suggested—a Conference high school. I here lay down the battle-axe on this question. What say you, brethren; can we agree? Why not? I believe everyone who has written in favor of a college has said a "college or high schools" as though they were not very choice between the two. Certainly, then, we can agree here, for we could all feel free to commend this to our people. On the other hand, if we undertake to build a Mississippi college, we provoke opposition, and cause a division at once in our own Conference; and this division and opposition will exist as long as we have an interest in the collegiate department of the Vanderbilt University, where many of our preachers and people believe that our boys can get a better collegiate education than they could in any college we can establish in Mississippi; and we know that the majority of the Mississippi Conference are fully committed to the Centenary College, as they have decided, from time to time, through the last thirty years. When she gives it up, and begins to woo, it will be time enough for us to propose to wed. Divided in our own Conference, and opposed by the majority of the Mississippi Conference, in competition with the State University, with its free tuition, and under the twining shadows of the Centenary, Southern and Vanderbilt Universities, how could we expect to succeed? Brethren talk about what seventy thousand Methodists can do (as though not one of all these was committed to the Centenary or to Vanderbilt University) in the face of the fact that the Mississippi Conference is fully committed to the Centenary and we to the Vanderbilt; and many of us will be as long as the Vanderbilt offers superior advantages, which will be the case, no doubt, long after we are all gone to our reward.

We labor under disadvantages here which a new institution can not remove. What is the remedy? This is the question to which we must address ourselves. Some of the brethren seem to think a new college would swing clear of all these troubles; but, Why? and, How? The very same difficulties would remain. These brethren remind me of Dr. Lafferty's two Irishmen, who went out to a horse-lot to take their first horseback ride, and, after taking in the situation, they concluded that it would be safer to ride a young horse which had not learned any tricks; so they hemmed one in the corner of the fence, and one of them succeeded in mounting his horse, which sprang forward, and began to make fearful jumps with his rider, who was holding on by one arm and one leg, while the other Irishman stood off and gazed on the scene in astonishment, and cried: "Ha, share! why don't you get off of the baste." And the rider replied: "How can I get off when I can't stay on."

So these brethren seem to think that a new college would be free from all of these tricks. But I fear that they would soon learn that once mounted on a college failure it would not be easy to dismount.

J. W. HONNOLL.

CLARKSDALE, Mississippi.

To the Pastors of the North Mississippi Conference.

BRETHREN: How are you succeeding with the collections ordered by the Conference? Are you making every effort possible to get the whole amount assessed to your charge? Are you determined to have the whole amount? Don't be satisfied as long as a deficit remains. We need every dollar of the assessment. If one preacher fails, some one will suffer—some preacher, who has worked hard for the Master on small pay, will suffer; some preacher's wife and children will suffer; our superannuates will suffer, and the widows and orphans of deceased preachers will suffer if you fail. We can not respond to the cry, "Come over and help us," if you fail. If you fail, the Conference will be disappointed, the church will be disappointed, and the Master, whose servants you are, will be disappointed.

Brethren, don't calculate on failure; you can't afford it. You can, you must succeed. Success depends on you. Don't depend on collections in the congregation. Canvass the membership. Go from house to house, and make to each an earnest appeal. After you have seen every member, if there is a deficit, go to your closet and have a talk with Jesus about it, ask him to open the hearts and pockets of the people; then begin the canvass again. Tell the people there is a deficit; that the whole amount is needed, and that each must pay a little more. They will do it! I once canvassed a large membership three times before I got the assessment. Try this plan, and you will succeed. Fraternally,

T. W. PRICE,
Pres. Conf. Board of Missions.

Mississippi Conference.

STATISTICS.

On the form for "Membership," etc., please report the net gain, or net loss, as the case may be. If you have more members at the time of going to the Annual Conference than you had when you began the year's work, you have a net gain; if less members, you have a net loss.

"Value of Other Church Property," includes camp grounds, schools, lots and all other real estate belonging to the church not reported under other heads.

"Money Expended for Churches and Parsonages," includes all amounts raised (no matter how, nor by whom) and applied to the improvement, repairs, or furnishing of either church or parsonage.

"Financial Report." At the bottom of this report enter in one amount all money paid to sexton, organist, choir, for lights, fuel, expenses of protracted meetings, the poor, or any other incidental expenses.

"Sunday-School Report." Report only those amounts raised by the Sunday-school for missions and reported to the Parent Board. Money raised by Woman's Board of Missions will be found fully reported elsewhere. At the bottom give the amount raised on Children's Day.

"Missions, Church Extension and Special." In the amount reported paid for foreign missions please give the exact amount reported to the Secretary and Treasurer of the Conference Board of Missions. At the bottom give the result of the observance of the Week of Prayer and Self-denial, as evidenced by the free-will offerings of the people.

A due observance of these suggestions will, I believe, give us nearly a perfect set of statistics. Let me exhort you, dear brethren, be ready to report on the first day of Conference.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS.

From the Work.

THE RESTON REVIVAL.

MR. EDITOR: Revivals, like cyclones, have no common characteristics. The formative processes, the course and conduct—or, behavior—differ in all, as well as the effect and and extent.

Some two months ago the pastor called for special prayer-meeting exercises, for a revival, and announced that services would begin on the fourth Sunday in September, with a view to continuing indefinitely. On Monday, previous to the time named for the commencement of the meetings, the woman's prayer meeting resolved to meet each evening during the week to pray for a revival. At first, three or four, and then, perhaps, a dozen spent six evenings in fervent prayer for blessings on the effort for a revival. The time came. The pastor was just out of three meetings, of a week's duration each; pretty well worn out, and no help in sight, or engaged. Tired and husky of voice, supported by those godly women, whose prayers were "laid up," the pastor pulled on for a week with little or no prospect. Those prayers! We must go on! "Ah!" said a brother; "Bro. Parker will be preaching to empty pews before the middle of next week." He didn't see those prayers. "The middle of next week" came. The house was crowded. Eighty penitents were seeking pardon! Those prayers were sent back perfumed with the savor of life. Bro. Wright had preached us two unique sermons. The third week came. Those prayers were still coming back. Over forty had been "added unto them;" converted, and joined the church. The interest grew. Six weeks the pastor had preached twice a day. His heart was "burthened with souls," and his body was weary with work. Still about seventy penitents at the altar. No time to stop work now. Bro. Miller came, and, in the spirit of the Master, was with us three days. The pastor was rested somewhat; at least, the voice was improved, and on Friday, Bro. Collier came and preached. The fourth Sunday of the meeting came, and the intention to close at night was announced. The rain came—a dark, cold rain. No preparation for service by the pastor—had given it up. The people began to repair to the church; umbrellas, wraps and cloaks were utilized. The pastor went over to the church, and found a good congregation. Those prayers were still bearing fruit. Ten penitents and two members.

The meeting is closed; this M
Monday morning, and the pasto feels like he was "out of work."
What were the results as far a he can learn? God glorified him self, sixty-two conversions re ported, sixty-one application for membership, besides a num ber who will join other churches Whence this great work? From that week of prayer by thos holy women. There was th
"secret place of thunder"! N big preaching, no fancy singing nor loud shouting. But wha power! Strong men trembled and shed tears, like children ove a mother's grave. Stoics wer melted, and enthusiasts quieted
On one or two occasions th devil threw cross-ties on th track, but our road-master saw them, and took them off; so w just went right on, and when w thought it was time to hold "praise meeting," thirty or fort young converts—aged all along from ten to forty-five year (girls, boys, women and men)— stood up and testified, saying
"I thank God because, fo
Christ's sake, he has pardoned my sins." J. A. PARKER.

PALMER CAMP MEETING.

MR. EDITOR: At last we were all seated in our wagons, and the horses' heads turned in the direc tion of dear old Palmer Camp Ground. We were all cheerfu and happy, and we sang the songs of Zion as we moved along.
Those great, tall pines that we saw on our way, which stood so close together and seemed to have no passage between them, reminded me of one's difficulties
—how they arise, dark and tow ering, and there seems to be no way through them: but, as we near them, we see that God has provided a way of escape. After several hours' ride we arrived on the grounds. The meetings began that night, and God was with us from the beginning to the end. His Spirit moved upon the hearts of sinners, and about forty were converted and fifteen joined the church. All the min isters, like true soldiers of Christ, were faithful in their work.
One of the most impressive meetings was the children's.
How happy they looked as they sat listening to Bro. Hopper's address. When called to the altar, without hesitation they came and wept over their sins, and one or two offered up pray ers as children alone can utter.
Altogether, the meetings were enjoyable and profitable, and long to be remembered by many.

I have often heard of people being sanctified, but I never thoroughly understood it until
Mr. Hopper explained sanctifi cation so clearly that I see how, though tempted and tried, yet we must live without sinning. We must not serve God one minute, and then the next yield to temp tation. Many claimed sanctifica tion, and consecrated their all to Christ.

The morning for saying good-by came at last, and, after pray ers and singing, "God be with you till we meet again," the meetings came to an end and the tenters left for home.

L. R. DAVIS.

ADA CIRCUIT, LOUISIANA CONFER ENCE.

MR. EDITOR: The work has been blessed with glorious revi vals at nearly every appointment.
I have received into the church since the holding of my third Quarterly Conference (which was held on September 1) seventy members, making a total this year of 145 received into the church. A great number of these have not only joined the church, but they have been hap pily converted. Our assessment for foreign missions is paid in full, and most of the other as sessments ordered by the Con ference are in cash and good subscriptions.

Let me say something more about Paint Meagre, as so many of the brethren, readers of our ADVOCATE, know of this part of the country unfavorably. Three churches in this part of the cir cuit—viz: Oak Grove, Fellow ship, and Hickory Grove—have paid this year in cash and good subscription, to the various as sessments ordered by the Con ference, one hundred dollars.
Last year these three churches paid eighteen dollars to these same assessments. Previous to last year they paid less than eighteen.

I think we can safely report progress, spiritually and finan cially. The Lord willing, we want to come down to your city to Conference this year with a good report—not for a name, but for the glory of God.

Respectfully,

J. I. HOFFPAUIR.

Commendatory Resolutions.

Whereas, This is the last Quarterly Conference of the Wesson and Beauregard charge, Brookhaven district, Mississippi Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to be presided over by the Rev. James M. Weems, D. D., who, for three years, has filled the office of presiding elder of this district most acceptably to the people and to the preachers, and is now soon to leave us and his native land in order to preach "the everlasting gospel" unto the people of Mexico; therefore, by said Quarterly Conference, held at Wesson, Copiah county, Miss., Thursday, October 18, 1888, be it

Resolved, That we reluctantly part with our friend and brother, but submit to the constituted authorities of our church and to the will of him who said, "Go, preach my gospel to every creature."

Resolved, That we shall ever cherish for our friend and brother, and for his devoted wife, the kindest regards, and invoke upon them and their daughter the blessings of our heavenly Father, "according to the riches of his glory."

Resolved, That we commend Dr. Weems and his wife to our brethren of the Central Mexican Mission Conference as being in every way worthy of their respect, affection and confidence.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, properly attested, be handed to Bro. Weems, and that they be also published in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. T. A. LEE, Sec.

Brazil Revisited.

What is the present state of this mission? The Minutes of the recent Conference show the number of local preachers to be seven, and of members 288, a gain of 31 during the year. If we add three native preachers who remain on trial, and six missionaries, the total will be 304. When I held the first session of the Annual Conference, two years ago, the total was 223. This progress, though not rapid, calls for thanksgivings to God, and should incite us to greater zeal and effort. Another fact is cheering: there were reported 155 candidates for membership; some of them have been waiting for months to be admitted. Both missionaries and helpers exercise great caution at this point. They may be tempted to swell the number of members and parade large results of their labors by receiving applicants at once; but if so, they resist the temptation, and are more solicitous to go surely than to go swiftly. There is danger that the natives who offer to join us may mistake a shallow and transient interest in what the preachers has said, or a willingness to accept Protestant teaching for practical and experimental religion. Many of them go back, and walk no more with us after a few weeks; and of those who are taken into the church, some have to be dropped or expelled. The candidates are not neglected; their names are taken, and they are kept under pastoral care and instruction. Of course this probationary treatment may be carried too far, but we must trust the men under whose ministry they have been awakened to judge when they are prepared for membership according to our General Rules and Ritual. The eagerness of candidates and members to learn is a very gratifying feature. As soon as their hearts are affected by the gospel they desire to search the Scriptures, and to this end, if they do not already know how to read, they apply themselves to learn. They take great pleasure in the service of song, each bringing his hymn-book to church and joining in the singing. They watch over one another also, and report any inconsistencies which seem to demand disciplinary treatment.

The Sunday-school statistics are: Sunday-schools, 11; teachers, 33; scholars, 339. These schools are conducted as in the States, the same lessons are studied, and the Cristian Expositor contains regularly notes on the lessons.

Our three churches (at Rio de Janeiro, Pirnicaba, and Juiz de Fora) are valued at $52,938, and there is no debt upon them. $1,730 was raised for missions, and $480 for the poor and other objects. This year the missionary collections must be applied to supplement the amounts appropriated by the Board for the support of native preachers, instead of to the enlargement of the work. The reason is the present rate of exchange. On my former visit $1,000 was worth 2,340 millreis; the year before it was worth 2,800; now it is worth 1,890. All persons who receive fixed salaries in foreign money fare badly at this time. Our missionaries must endure the temporary straitness, expecting a better day; but the sums appropriated to the native helpers can not bear this reduction; they are paid in millreis, and the support should not fluctuate with the value of the dollar. The reader may be curious to understand the cause of the depreciation of foreign drafts. It is not, I am sorry to say, any real improvement in the financial condition of the country; but large loans have been obtained abroad, and there is so much money in the English banks to the credit of this country that foreign exchange is low. It is thought that this state of things will last six, or probably twelve months. Meanwhile it is agreed that the purchasing power of the millreis here is no greater than before. The whole indebtedness of our mission is about $1,000, and arises in part from this depreciation of foreign funds (the appropriations not sufficing to cover the debts), and in part from interest being due for which no appropriation was made.

To the Woman's Board is due the fact that we have any educational statistics. Colleges, 2; missionary teachers, 4; assistants, 13; pupils, 143; value of property, $45,000. The college at Piracicaba has just opened another session with better prospects than ever before. It is established in the confidence of the people; it has already made for itself a good reputation. The pupils are as happy a set of children as can be found anywhere, and their parents are well pleased. I am glad to emphasize again the religious influence of the institution. The Word of God is taught. Miss Watts directs the school with energy and skill, and Mademoiselle Rennotte can times that enthusiasm and aptness in teaching for which she has been long distinguished. What shall I say of the new enterprise—the School of the Height—in the capital of Brazil? It is lovely for situation. The mountains lift themselves on either side, and the front commands a view of the bay with its steamers and ships anchored, entering or departing. "How fortunate you are," said Drs. Hodge and Knox, "in having secured this building! It is the very spot for a college." Those gentlemen came out in the "Finance" to attend the first session of the Synod of Brazil, and I am rejoicing in the expectation of having their company on the homeward voyage. When the growth of the school shall demand it (not many years hence, I judge), another story will be added, and the building, nobly crowning the height, will attract every eye, and call forth universal admiration. At present there are thirty-one pupils. Already Miss Bruce and Miss Morris have moved into a convenient house in the neighborhood, that they may board boy-pupils who are between three and ten years of age. The number at this writing is one; he is known as the University. Misses Jones, Marvin and Granbery lodge in the school-building.

In view of all the facts, our condition is more prosperous and hopeful than at any former time. We are in a better state to do our work and to move forward. Our missionaries are full of faith and zeal. They long to do far more than they have done—far more than can be done with their present resources; nevertheless they are of good courage and confident of success. Brother Kennedy has fully recovered from his severe sickness, and is in excellent health. Brother Tarboux is not strong, and probably overtasks himself; but his health has improved, and he is hard at work. Brother Walling often suffers in body, and could not be called vigorous and healthy while he was doing very effective service in South Carolina; but, like many other men of physical infirmities and, also, of heart-sorrows, he accomplishes great things in the name of Christ. Our two new missionaries, Dickie and Tilly, show adaptation to the field and to the kind of labors here needed, and all of us congratulate ourselves and the church that they were selected for this mission. Brother Tucker is the picture of health, energy and cheerfulness; he fills most admirably the important office of Bible Agent, and is very helpful to us. Any day that we give the word he is ready for a circuit, station, district, or whatever work may be assigned him in our itinerancy. We have valuable native helpers, and their power for good develops year after year. "The best of all is, God is with us."—J. C. Granbery, in Nashville Advocate.

The Papal System.

The Pope's new encyclical, opposing civil and religious liberty, gives us a reason why the state should sustain the Roman Church and persecute all other churches—and why "false doctrines should be repressed by public authority," this, that the Roman religion is the only true religion—and "the marks of truth are, as it were, engraven upon it." Let us look a moment at the "marks of truth" referred to. This system takes a man at his birth, and requires the paid services of a priest to perform mummery over him, otherwise if he dies without it he will be damned, though an unconcious infant. Next, the child must be submitted to this priest for education, on the penalty of perdition both to his parents and to himself. The priest is paid for filling the child's mind with awe of the priest's power. The young man comes to marry. The priest tells him that marriage unless he, the priest, performs the ceremony is fornication. The married man and his wife are compelled on pain of perdition to tell the priest at confessional all that happens in the privacy of the family which the priest may desire to know, and are forced to give him authority over the children superior to their own. The man having done all that is required of him comes to die. The priest tells him that he must put oil upon him and hear the last revelations of his personal and private life, or he will go to perdition. The poor priest-ridden soul complies, and dies. Then his bereaved friends are told that unless the body is buried in grounds owned by the priest, that the devil will get away with him. That is done—the priest taking money and exercising arbitrary authority at every new move; and now the dead man, having been shrived and oiled and buried according to directions, and payment made therefor; having obeyed the priest all his life, would, one would suppose, be allowed to rest in peace. But no: friends can be swindled still further on his account. Now they are told that unless they pay for certain heathen mummeries to be performed in the church, the man's soul will be in misery. These mummeries are kept up as long as anybody can be found to pay for them—in some cases repeated for half a century. So successful are the priests in wresting money from their dupes that civil government is compelled, from time to time, to confiscate their property, or they would come, as in Mexico, to possess all the earnings and productions of the people. These "marks engraven upon it" would seem to indicate that the system is the most voracious, avaricious, insolent and persistent system of fraud and falsehood ever set up among mankind. There is nothing like it for persistent rapacity and insolent pretense among any of the pagan religions of the past or of the present, in the history of the human race.—Interior.

Mrs. Partington and her son Ike, it is said, both use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for colds.

Every traveling man should take with him a bottle of Salvation Oil. Price only 25 cents.

"Love is more imperative than law," says one. Very well; but there is a tyranny of love which does more evil than good. Even love, when co-existing with an unrestrained will, has its unlovely and even mischievous manifestation. The truth thus hinted is worth an hour's thought.—Morning Star.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine. It is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Pipsissewa, Juniper Berries, and other well-known and valuable vegetable remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative power not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures where other preparations fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best blood purifier before the public. It eradicates every impurity, and cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, all Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has met peculiar and unparalleled success at home. Such has become its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. Lowell druggists sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of all other sarsaparillas or blood purifiers. Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

MISCELLANEOUS.

Tutt's Pills

stimulate the torpid liver, strengthen the digestive organs, regulate the bowels, and are unequaled as an anti-bilious medicine. In

Malarial Districts

their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. This popular remedy rarely fails to effectually cure

Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness

and all disorders arising from a Torpid Liver and Bad Digestion.

A Proclamation!

Dr. I. Guy Lewis, Fulton, Ark., says: "A year ago I had bilious fever. Tutt's Pills were so highly recommended that I used them. Never did medicine have a happier effect. After a practice of a quarter of a century, I proclaim them the best medicine ever used. I always prescribe them in my practice."

ANTI-BILIOUS

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St. New York

Tutt's Manual of Useful Receipts sent Free

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age.

Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. REEVES FIGH.

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhea, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mole by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure,

W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS J. BUCKLEY.

471 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 17, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

HENRY V. MIELLY.

With Rice, Born & Co., 77 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.

Microbes Cause All Diseases

WM. RADAMS' Microbe Killer

Cures All Diseases.

This indisputable assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,

149 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

RICHARDSON & BOYNTON Co.'s

"PERFECT"

HOT-WATER HEATER.

"PERFECT" HOT-WATER HEATER.

(The Most Powerful Water Heater ever Constructed.)

Has 2½ times more Square Feet of Hot-Water Fire Surface; hence capable of Heating more Square Feet of Radiation than any Heater ever made.

J. H. AITKEN & CO., 110 Camp street, Sole Southern Agents.

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER,

174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans AND Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM, CHATTANOOGA, CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.	No. 2, Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian	8:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington	4:10 p. m.	3:48 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.	No. 1, Lim'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati	7:55 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City	11:45 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla	9:42 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham	11:15 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian	4:45 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent.

34 St. Charles Street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

	Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1, Fast Mail	9:00 a.m.	No. 2, Fast Mail 5:00 p.m.
No. 3, Express	6:25 p.m.	No. 4, Express 8:00 a.m.
No. 5, Bat. Rouge acc'dation	10:00 a.m.	No. 6, Bat. Rouge acc'dation 3:45 p.m.

Double daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville, Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans 8 a. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harriston for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. P. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Con'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Texas and California Ex- press	Leaves.	Arrives.
	8:35 A. M.	7:00 P. M.
Baton Rouge Local	3:10 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

This train has also Pullman Sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Trav'g Passenger Agent.
R. W. McCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.

JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS

(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
No. 1.....9:00 am	No. 2.....5:00 pm
No. 3.....6:25 pm	No. 1.....8:00 am
No. 5.....10:00 am	No. 6.....3:45 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:55 am	No. 4 F'st Ex...7:00 am
No. 1 F'st Ex...7:20 pm	No. 6 Coast....3:40 pm
No. 5 Coast....9:05 am	No. 2 Lim. Ex...3:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r. 11:00 pm	No. 2 Passen'r. 9:15 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim....7:30 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 62 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 61 California Express. 8:35 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:00 am	B. Rouge, local. 3:10 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 3:25 pm	No. 18 Local....7:20 pm
No. 17 Local....6:55 am	No. 20 Califor. 11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.

(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 1, Lim'd. 11:00 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....3:35 pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line..9:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.

(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line..9:00 pm

P. AND E. EAST LA.

(Abita Springs.)

Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:00 pm

Sunday Schedule.

Arrive.....7:25 pm | Leave.....7:30 am

MISCELLANEOUS.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849. Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,0

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Dwellings and Fire Business.

W. R. LYMAN, President
JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

PIANOS ORGANS

GRAND Summer Sale

CASH PRICES—PAY WHEN COTTON IS SOLD.

GRAND OFFER, 1,000 Pianos and Organs

To be sold in August, September and October at ROCK BOTTOM CASH PRICES, payable PIANOS only $25 Cash. ORGANS only $10 Cash. And balance Dec. 1, without interest or advance on lowest cash price. Buy now and pay when Cotton is sold. Great bargains. Pianos $200, $225, $250. Organs $21, $35, $40, $60. Handsome styles. All freight paid. 10 days' test trial. Reduced Prices. Write for Mid-Summer Sale Circular. LUDDEN & BATES, SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE SAVANNAH, GA. The Great P. & O. Depot of the South.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

Men's Furnishing Goods.

Headquarters of the Celebrated

STAR SHIRT.

Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing (a saving of from $3.00 to $4.00) by subscribing for

THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

—AND—

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR

—FOR—

$3.25 (THREE TWENTY-FIVE).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMMENDS ARTISTIC, SCIENTIFIC, AND HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon order entitling the holder to the selection of any pattern illustrated in the fashion department—in that number, and in any of the sizes manufactured, making patterns during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the best Two Dollar Family Magazine issued. 188 will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so extensively as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8¾x11½ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York,

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Christian Advocate at $3.25 Per Year

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents scalp diseases and hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL.

THIS NEW ELASTIC TRUSS has a Pad different from all others, is cup shape, with Self-adjusting Ball in center, adapts itself to all positions of the body, while the pad in the cup presses back the intestines (as you would if you had a person does with the finger. With light pressure the rupture is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Circulars free. ECCLESTON TRUSS CO., Chicago, Ill.

MAGIC LANTERNS

and STEREOPTICONS all prices. Views illustrating every subject for PUBLIC EXHIBITIONS, etc. A profitable business for a man with small capital. Also Lanterns for Home Amusement. 152 page Catalogue free. McALLISTER, Optician, 49 Nassau St., N. Y.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:

REV. T. A. S. ADAMS, D. D. REV. J. T. SAWYER.
REV. W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1888.

Notice.

MR. EDITOR: After mature consideration of sundry communications from presiding elders, and others interested, it has been decided to change the place of the next session of the Mississippi Conference from Jackson, La., to Vicksburg, Miss., and the time from November 28 to December 5.

Do me the kindness to announce the change.

Very truly,

R. K. HARGROVE.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Oct 25, 1888.

Fruit, Candy and Billiards.

The Times Democrat raises a lugubrious wail over the fact that the Sunday Law has interfered with the sale of fruit and candy and the playing at billiards on Sunday. One would suppose that the people who eat fruit, and the children who eat candy on Sunday, were in a bad way indeed; and as for those who play billiards on that day, they are reduced to a most pitiable plight. The Times Democrat is afraid that the fruit dealers and confectioners will be driven to some other market by the "odious Sunday Law," and the billiard players be completely crushed out by its "absurd, harsh and unjust provisions." We assure our neighbor that those fears are groundless. The fruit dealers and confectioners are not yet prepared to leave so good a market because they have to "rest from their labors" one day in the week. The fruit dealers have more wisdom than the Times Democrat gives them credit for. They have already learned to post signs over their places of business on Saturdays, reading thus: "Leave Orders for Fruit To-Day to Be Delivered without Charge." They have not been slow to learn that Sunday's fruit sold and delivered on Saturday not only brings in as much money as when formerly sold on Sunday, but they have now no risk in keeping it. The risk has been transferred to the buyer. It is the same with the confectioner. What he once took in on Sunday he now reaps on Saturday, and can give one day to rest. As for the billiard player, he is reduced to such extremities that we really do not know what is to become of him. Perhaps, in his hopeless condition he may take the suggestion of our neighbor, and "hie him to some other clime." This attack of the Times Democrat on the Sunday Law we are sure will not receive the commendation of the majority of its readers.

The Louisville Conference has 199 local preachers, 39,314 white and 6 colored members; 769 infants and 2,215 adults have been baptized during the year. There are 331 Sunday-schools, with 2,299 teachers, and 18,271 scholars. $2,098 29 was raised on the Conference collection; $4,625 89 was contributed for foreign and $2,467 11 for domestic missions, making a total of $7,093; $1,472 50 was collected for church extension. There are 378 churches—valued at $570,234; and 89 parsonages—valued at $103,485.

We call special attention to the cards of the former publisher and the present publisher, to be found in the "Publisher's Department," on the fifth page of this paper.

The Lord's Dues.

In less than two months all our patronizing Conferences will have held their annual sessions. The year has been a busy one with the workers in the Lord's vineyard; and we think the results of the work are larger and more satisfactory than ever before. The preachers throughout the bounds of our territory have reported many gracious revivals. Thousands of souls have yielded to the demands of Christ when, through the gospel, he has called them to repentance and faith in himself. Thousands of church members have become more firmly established in the faith, and are strengthened in God as never before. Hundreds have learned that new experience of joy that comes from earnest working in the Lord's cause. The Sunday-school teachers have had many great encouragements in their work as they have dropped the seeds of truth into the virgin soil of the young heart and watched its germination and growth. Hundreds of family circles throughout our borders have welcomed the incoming of the Son of Peace and given him the chief place at the fireside, and rejoiced with great joy in his presence. Thousands of souls, who were dead six months ago, have experienced the resurrection power of the living Christ, and are to-day thrilled with the presence of the abundant Life. The whole army of the Lord has made a year's march and conquest, and now stands upon high vantage ground and surveys the whole field with hopeful eye and heart full of confidence in future advances. The banner of the Lord waves to-day from a thousand hill-tops that six months ago were in the hands of the enemy. The cause was never so strong—never so hopeful—never so certain of final success. Looking back upon the past year, we may well exclaim: "What hath God wrought!" For to his presence and power and grace we owe all the success attained. Having done all this for us, God has brought us under new obligations to himself. He hath made us debtors to himself by the manifestations of his aid in our work. While we are grateful for these gracious manifestations of blessings, our overflowing gratitude does not "pay the debt we owe." The Lord lays a claim against our substance as well as against our souls. It is well to look at this matter calmly and closely as the year draws to its close. Our connection with the church has, so to speak, created a lien upon our property, for we promised before God and in the sight of the congregation to "support the institutions of the church." Now is the time to examine ourselves as to the fulfillment of this public promise for the year 1888. Do we know that our pastor has received the salary that our representatives—the Board of Stewards—promised him when he began the year's work? Have we contributed according to our ability to the various enterprises the church has been fostering and furthering this year? These two questions force themselves now before the tribunal of conscience, and demand an explicit answer. The promise made to help support the enterprises and institutions of the church has been registered in the books above, and simple honesty, personal integrity calls for a redemption of the promise for this year now about to end. In but a small number of cases have the assessments been heavy. In no case whatever would they be heavy if we all would endeavor to redeem our promise. Neither God nor the church ever asks us to contribute above our ability. That would be unjust. Many of us have prospered—much in temporal things this year; and that prosperity calls for free-will offerings beyond what we were assessed. Gratitude to him who "giveth power to get wealth" will determine the measure of those offerings.

From what we have heard, we believe that the finances in our three Conferences have improved much since our last convocations. There is still room for improvement. We want to see, and are praying to see, and expect to see the day when every preacher will go to Conference with all his own allowance paid and every cent of his collections in his pocket! What a Conference that will be!

Reader, see to it that your pastor goes up this year carrying with him your fulfillment of the promise, to "support the institutions of the church according to your ability," and you will have a clear conscience with which to spend Christmas.

Our New Publisher.

Mr. J. G. Grant, the new publisher of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, is one of the leading members of the Carondelet Street Church, of this city. He is superintendent of the Sunday-school; is one of the Board of Stewards, and chairman of the Committee of Finance. At the last session of the New Orleans District Conference he was elected a delegate to the coming Annual Conference. No one who is acquainted with these facts and, above all, who knows Bro. Grant, will question his identity with and interest in Methodism.

As to his business standing, he owns one of the largest and most prosperous furniture houses in New Orleans, and is recognized as one of the best business men in the city.

The friends and patrons of this paper can rest assured that they have at the head of the publishing department of the ADVOCATE a wide-awake, energetic and thorough-going business man. May we rally to his help and double the subscription list of our paper in the next twelve months.

"Christian Womanhood."

BY R. G. ANDREWS, D. D.

A book with the above taking title has recently been issued by the Southern Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn., for its author, the Rev. W. C. Black, D. D., of the Mississippi Conference. The volume is accurately printed, and neatly bound, with a generous margin to each page; thus making convenient provision for the criticisms certain to be called forth by sentiments so at variance with hoary prejudices. The author has not sought to purchase favor for his book by coupling with it the name and fame of some honored patron, but has boldly launched it, without an introduction, upon the perilous sea of popular opinion, to sink or swim, by its own intrinsic merits. The dedication is a declaration of his sincerity. It is inscribed to his mother, to his wife and to his daughters three. The identification of such sacred names with the characteristics of his ideal woman shows that his conception is no mere sentiment, but one that he is willing to see illustrated in the lives of the women standing in the nearest relation to him. The aim of the book is to bring woman out from the disfranchisement placed upon her by ignorance, heathenism and infidelity, and restore her to the position intended by God her Creator, and Christ her Savior. It labors to dispel prejudice and error, and to secure for the women of this age, and of succeeding ages, the same privileges and duties which were so usefully and so honorably fulfilled by the Miriams, the Deborahs, the Abigails of the Old Testament, and by the Marys, the Annas, the Lydias of the New.

Victor Hugo called the nineteenth century "the woman's century." By very many indications is this title found appropriate. That woman has come grandly to the front in these latter days can not be gainsaid. In spite of inveterate prejudice and of determined opposition she has been accorded a conspicuous, a useful and an honored place in the world's achievement. In social matters, in reformations and in the diffusion of religion her impress is apparent, and is appreciated.

The advocates for the enlargement of woman's sphere have been placed under great obligations by Dr. Black's contribution to the solution of this most interesting problem in sociology. It is gratifying to have facts existent, justified by argument and precedent and divine authority, as they are arrayed by the well-posted and painstaking author. He enters the lists for the emancipation of woman with an ardor and an enthusiasm worthy of a true knight of the times of ancient chivalry.

The author shows up so witheringly the inconsistencies of those persons who would relegate woman to silence whenever white-robed charity or heaven-born piety plead for a word or an act from her, and yet would encourage her to assume conspicuous positions in the theater and the ball-room, that the following quotations from his book will be relished, viz:

There are those who object to woman's occupying the pulpit and the rostrum on the ground that it destroys that delicacy and refinement which should ever characterize the gentle sex. This plea comes with bad grace from those from whose lips it is most frequently heard. Who are they that make it? Generally, they are what the world calls "society people," and, consequently, are frequenters of the theater and the circus. They see no impropriety in a woman's appearing before a mixed multitude in the capacity of an acrobat or an equestrienne. * * * If a woman has the heavenly gift of oratory, there is no impropriety in her exercising it on the stage for the amusement of the rabble; but for her to exercise those same God-given talents in the advocacy of some cause that looks to the amelioration of society is unwomanly. Low, vulgar comedy is pre-eminently compatible with the refined interests of womanhood; but for a woman to appear before an audience to plead for temperance, virtue and religion, that is too horrible to contemplate. Frances E. Willard, Mary T. Lothrop, Sallie F. Chapin, Mary Read Goodale, and a host of other noble women, who use their Heaven-bestowed gifts of oratory for the moral uplifting of humanity, are coarse, unrefined, unwomanly creatures; but there is nothing unrefined about the average actress. * * * Human speech is inadequate to the task of expressing the contempt we feel for such cant.

Persons who desire to read an exhaustive treatise upon the duties of Christian womanhood would do well to procure Dr. Black's book.

Vicksburg District.

MR. EDITOR: Leaving the college a few days since to finish up the fourth round in the valley part of my district, I was glad to find the world still retained its rotundity, and that many of its inhabitants still pursued life's callings in the good old way, notwithstanding the yellow fever panic, the like of which was never seen before; and it is to be hoped may never be seen again. The contagion of fear was worse than the contagion of fever. Men went wild. But I must not write of this. Let a book be written, and let all mankind learn that to prevent contagion, moral as well as physical, there must be separation.

The funeral services and burial of our lamented father in Israel, Rev. John G. Jones, at Port Gibson, were beautifully appropriate. The large congregation listened with solemn joy to the hymns: "It is well," and, "Soldier of Christ, well done," and, "How blest the righteous when he dies," concluding with, "I would not live alway." After the remarks by ministerial brethren present, all followed the remains to the grave, where the services were concluded with the ritual of the church and the rites of the Masonic fraternity, the grave being covered as the daylight departed.

After spending a night at the hospitable home of Dr. Marshall, in Vicksburg, I hastened to visit the churches in the valley above. At Rolling Fork and Carey, W. D. Domimck maintains a firm foothold, and with constant and wise zeal fosters the growth of piety and of the church. A gratifying increase will be reported by him at our Annual Conference.

Dr. J. W. Harmon, at Anguilla, stands strongly against all the foes of Christ's cause, and at this time is holding a pitched battle against the devil there.

On Sunflower river a fine new circuit is just getting ready to apply for admission into the list of appointments, under the labors of young Henry.

At Mayersville, Rev. V. D. Skipper is holding his own and advancing. He has gotten one new church built, which I had the pleasure of dedicating last Sunday, and proposes to proceed at once to build another.

I broke over the ordinary bounds of my space and time this trip and went as far as Greenville. It was my first sight of the place. I was quite unprepared to find it so large and handsome a city—full of life and growth. Eight thousand people, large, new brick stores, beautiful residences, wide streets threaded with street-car lines for miles, attractive churches, with many godly members, are there. I enjoyed very much the cordial kindness of Bro. Bowen and his people, and spoke at the prayer-meeting hour a few words for Centenary. The evening was not favorable, and the audience was not large, but they were appreciative; and Greenville will, I trust, yet honor herself by patronizing and helping to endow Centenary.

At Glen-Allen I found and preached in the nicest union church I ever saw. Here I was cordially received, and was kindly cared for and conveyed on my way by a Baptist brother, who seemed to think he could not do too much for one who carried the gospel of Christ.

The crops in the valley are not all good. Some had to be abandoned on account of the excessive rains. However, a great deal of cotton will be made, as the area planted is larger every year. The man of whom I wrote you two years ago, as having discovered the secret of good luck, still prospers. He has already cribbed the largest crop of corn ever gathered on his place, and will gather considerably more cotton than ever before. He still gives one-tenth to the cause of God.

On my return I found everything packed by my wife, and we were to bid farewell to our pleasant home in Port Gibson Female College. We left the college doing well and with good prospects. Mothers and grandmothers were bringing daughters, and some were going to stay with their children. Mrs. Levi Pearce, from British Honduras, was there with three granddaughters, and Mrs. Aldridge, of LeFlore county, with two, one of them a granddaughter of Gen. George. The mothers watch over their daughters, and find a pleasant home in the prettiest town in Mississippi.

Centenary is growing in favor with the people at home and abroad. I was never fully convinced that it had exactly the right location till the late yellow fever panic scattered the teachers and students of some schools on the railways, while we lost not an hour from our work, but had peace, health and hard study all those panicky days. Four miles from the nearest station is near enough to a railway.

What about our endowment? Brothren, send in your notes at six per cent., or payable in installments, annually. We must have the $25,000 before Conference. They are endowing colleges everywhere. Shall Centenary come behind? I read in the "Nashville," every week, about the "gifts of the wise" for colleges and other benevolent objects. Where are the wise and benevolent among us? We did admirably before the storm in August. That put out the endowment blaze. Let us kindle it again!

W. L. C. H.

Notes.

A correspondent writes as follows: "I have prepared several articles for the press this year, and then consigned them to the flames." That may not have been a good act. But this criticism is heavy—"Maybe some of your correspondents would profit by going and doing likewise." That is a back-handed thrust at both editor and contributors. Well, we can never improve unless we see need for improvement, and we will hardly see it unless it is pointed out to us. Let editor and contributors take the suggestion kindly.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided an interesting "liquor case" from Iowa. The distiller took the position that the prohibitory law of Iowa against the manufacture of liquor did not prohibit it its manufacture for export. The court sustains the decision of the Iowa court, that "the right to prohibit a manufacture of any kind within the borders of a State is a matter within the exclusive jurisdiction of the State." The decision was rendered by Justice Lamar.

Do you want to be an orator? Here is the recipe from Rev. Robert Collyer. He was asked how to be an orator, and he answered thus:

What I may have to say I try to say in the simplest words I can find; and in happy moments I seem to find these by instinct. Then I never make up my mind how I shall say them. I leave all this to some swift intuition of the instant, and the holy spirit of the truth, and know beforehand that, if the thing is well worth saying, and I can forget Collyer, it will be all right when I am through.

M. Renan was pleased to say not long since that "France will perish in a literary sense because of her young writers. It is impossible to write well before the age of forty." Upon this dictum of the French infidel, the editor of the Chautauquan wisely says: "The truth of the matter is, that writing well comes when one has something to say that his convictions tell him needs to be said. When a fancy, a plot, a grouping of ideas, a thought burns in the mind, it is time to write whether one be nineteen, as Bryant when he wrote Thanatopsis, or fifty-seven, as Milton when he wrote Paradise Lost." That seems to us to contain the essence of the whole subject.

We believe that many of our readers will read with pleasure the following note in regard to one of the grandest hymns ever sung by God's people. A writer says:

"I heard an odd story the other day about Bishop's Heber's beautiful hymn, 'From Greenland's icy Mountains,' said a well-known Cincinnatian. "What is it?" "It relates to the music of the hymn. You remember that Bishop Heber wrote it while in Ceylon in 1824. About a year later it reached America, and a lady in Charleston, S. C., was struck with its beauty. She could find, however, no tune that seemed to suit it. She remembered a young bank clerk, Lowell Mason, afterward so celebrated, who was just a few steps down the street, and who had a reputation as a musical genius. So she sent her son to ask him to write a tune that would go with the hymn. In just half an hour back came the boy with the music, and that melody dashed off in such haste is to this day sung with that song."

Dr. W. C. Wilkinson, an eminent Baptist minister of this country, writes in the Independent of the two most noted Baptists in the world, as follows:

It is a noteworthy thing that the two most remarkable preachers of the time in England, the two most widely heard all over the world, two with such a polar difference stretching between them, should both of them be Baptists. Baptists, however, in the American sense and usage of the term, Mr. Spurgeon and Dr. Maclaren hardly are. For both are "open communion" and Dr. Maclaren is even "open membership." Mr. Spurgeon's church invites Christian church members of every name, baptized and unbaptized alike, to share her celebration of the Lord's Supper, but admits to membership only such as have been baptized; that is, immersed. Dr. Maclaren's church, more liberally, receives into membership as well as invites to communion without reference to a precedent condition of baptism. American Baptists, of course, would not approve the practice of either one of these churches. Mr. Spurgeon's church, they would generally agree, is more nearly right, and Dr. Maclaren's church more nearly logical.

Personals.

The Episcopal Methodist, of last week, quotes from us as follows: "Bishop Duncan has done his Conferences in Texas." Things have become mixed somewhere. We said just the opposite, viz: that he was "on his way to hold his Conferences in Texas." Nothing like "following copy." We do not mind the Methodist quoting notes from us for which we get no credit, but when it credits us with what we do not say—"there we draw the line."

Bishop Vincent opens his Conferences every morning with a brief lecture to the young preachers and a short Bible-reading, and he has crowded houses.

Your preacher will soon be going to Conference. Will he go with his claims all met? Do you know if he has collected all his Conference money? It is your business to know that. Did you give him your subscription to the ADVOCATE, to be paid to the agent at Conference? It would be well to see to these things.

The St. Louis Advocate announces the death of Rev. W. W. Jones, of the Southwest Missouri Conference, and says he was "a man of ability, integrity and fidelity; true in his friendship, faithful in his work, a follower of Christ and a servant of the church."

One of our superannuates writes: "The end may be nearer than I expect. If so, thank God, the way is clear and bright. God bless you and the dear old ADVOCATE. How it comes freighted with good news and makes me want to live over again. I sympathize with you in your labor of self-devotion. You will never get pay this side of heaven." The sympathy of our brethren is balm to our soul.

Dr. J. L. M. Curry, ex-Minister to Spain, has resumed his labors as general agent of the Peabody Fund.

The latest issue of the Treasury Department is a twenty-dollar silver certificate bearing an excellent engraving of Daniel Manning.

A good brother left five dollars with us not long since to send the ADVOCATE to persons not able to pay for it. The publisher has opened a "Helping Hand" account, and desires to call attention to it. Contributions to this fund will be judiciously expended in sending the ADVOCATE to needy worthy persons.

In a case tried in this city the other day for violation of the Sunday Law, the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty." The Times-Democrat remarked: "The verdict of 'not guilty,' which was rendered by the jury, no doubt brought joy to the hearts of saloon and storekeepers." We were mistaken in thinking that our neighbor was specially interested in the illicit of the fruit dealers, confectioners and billiard players. The T.-D. spreads its wing over the saloonists and storekeepers generally.

Preachers and members of the Mississippi Conference will take notice of Bishop Hargrove's notice, on the fourth page, announcing the change of the time and place of holding the Mississippi Conference. It is to be held at Vicksburg, December 5.

Dr. W. B. Murrah gave us a delightful call last Saturday. He represents Whitworth as overflowing and everything moving on in good style. One hundred and fifty boarders have registered up to date.

Miss Frances E. Willard has been re-elected president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, receiving 360 votes out of a total of 391.

The Fox Sisters, who forty years ago, started the "spirit rappings," are now giving lectures and explaining the deceptions which were practiced upon the credulous. Of course, the dupes of these deceptions will now refuse to believe that the sisters are giving the true version of the origin of this strange hallucination. The originators of error can hardly stop the error when it is once fairly started.

The Methodist Church, North, has come to "close quarters" in missionary matters. The collections do not reach up to the appropriations, and it is either "cut down appropriations," or a missionary debt. In every business there is danger when money is appropriated before it is in sight.

The Tennessee Conference admitted seventeen preachers on trial and twelve into full connection. The other Conference is still fruitful.

The City Mission is holding interesting services this week near Washington Market. The attendance is good. Large numbers are listening attentively to the gospel story.

There are people who are ever laying the blame of their evil lives upon the circumstances which surround them. The word "environment" is a very popular word now, and it really means much, but we should not let it run away with us. A man's evil life is not the result of "environment," but of an evil heart. All the evil in this world comes out of some human heart.

Death of Rev. George F. Thompson.

MR. EDITOR: Saturday morning, about ten o'clock, October 27, our beloved pastor, Rev. G. F. Thompson, died at his residence very suddenly. He had prepared himself to go to his appointment; but no, God took him home to rest from his labors. He was just sixty-seven years old the day he died. He was a joyous Christian, and said to me so often, "I am happy in my religion all the time." On Sunday last he preached with unusual ease, power and great liberty. The last prayer he called on an old man in the congregation to pray; then he sang that precious hymn, "Oh, how I love Jesus." The Lord was with him and all of us. He was shouting happy, Sunday night, October 20, he preached his last sermon and had a very happy meeting. On Thursday he went with the widow of Prof. Wills, of Aberdeen, Miss., to see that great and good man, Mr. Jefferson Davis. Had a delightful visit; home at night. Saturday morning he died. He will be buried at Moss Point, Miss., where he has a son buried.

I only write a hasty note that you may let the brethren know the fact, and, no doubt, some one will write an obituary who knew him long and well. We all loved him in this community—all classes and all denominations—for he was a good man—a man of prayer, a man of faith and of the Holy Ghost.

Your brother,

W. R. STUART.

OCEAN SPRINGS, Mississippi.

Notice.

MR. EDITOR: Please announce through the columns of the ADVOCATE that Rev. B. T. Pearson, formerly a member of the Mississippi, Memphis, Illinois and Northwest Texas Conferences, late a member of the New Iberia station, has surrendered his credentials; hence the Methodist ministry must not be held responsible for his acts.

S. S. KEENER, P. E.

Opelousas Dist., La. Conf.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. T. L. Mellen, from Wesson, October 23, writes: "At our fourth Quarterly Conference for Wesson and Beauregard, held October 18, every Conference assessment was reported paid in full and some overpaid, with more to follow; the presiding elder's quarterage paid in full; and only about ten per cent. of the preacher's salary unpaid, and that balance the brethren guaranteed should be paid before the preacher in charge started for Conference. Our women and children have raised over $200 for missions this year. This is the 'banner charge' in Brookhaven district."

—Rev. D. P. Bradford writes from Jackson, La., October 23, 1888: "Bayou Sara circuit has been doing finely this year. I found the work well organized, with a first-class Board of Stewards. We are having splendid congregations at most places. Have had some excellent meetings, assisted by Bros. J. V. Penn and N. B. Norwood. Thirty-five accessions to the church; a goodly number of conversions. Foreign missionary money paid. I believe every dollar of assessment will be paid—that is, if one single church does not fall so far behind that the others can not bring up this with their own assessments."

—Rev. W. A. Dollar writes from Ebenezer circuit, North Mississippi Conference: "Our protracted meetings on the Ebenezer circuit, North Mississippi Conference, are closed with fine success. We have had about forty conversions, and fifty-one accessions to our church this year. Twenty-five heads of families pledged themselves to erect the family altar. A grand and glorious improvement in our prayer meetings. The Sabbath-schools are improving, doing well. We will report a new church at Conference, worth about one thousand dollars. I think our Conference collections will be full. Self-denial fund, twenty-seven dollars. Raised on Children's Day, $15 40. I thank God the circuit is on the up-grade, and we are happy."

Chrysostom said: "The Christian is the world's Bible, and the only one it will read."

Literary Notes.

The Life of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe is being prepared by her son, Rev. Charles E. Stowe, and Mr. Kirk Munroe. It is promised next winter.

Mr. Carl Schurz has been asked to write the Life of Lincoln for the American Statesmen Series.

Two volumes of collected essays from the pen of the late Mark Pattison will soon issue from the Clarendon Press.

Motley's "History of the Rise of the Dutch Republic" is being translated into French by M. Gaston Guillain, of Brussels, himself a Frenchman.

Charles L. Webster & Co. will publish next spring a comprehensive work on the folk lore of the Sandwich Islands, entitled "Myths and Mois: Fables and Folk Lore of a Strange People," written by ex-U. S. Minister R. M. Daggett, in collaboration with King Kalakaua.

Messrs. Macmillan & Co. announce for early publication Professor James Bryce's "American Commonwealth;" Sidney Colvin's "Letters of Keats;" "Letters of Carlyle," 1826-1836, edited by C. E. Norton; J. P. Mahaffy's "Tour in Holland and Germany;" Edmund Gosse's "English Literature in the Eighteenth Century;" Archdeacon Farrar's "The Bible: What It Is, and What It Is Not."

Many of our readers will be glad to hear that Macmillan & Co. will issue immediately a handsome edition of Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Robert Elsmere," in two volumes, Globe 8vo, uniform in size with their attractive edition of Mr. Matthew Arnold's writings. By kind permission of the author, it has been made expressly for the American market.

"Irish Fairy Tales and Folk Lore," selected and edited by W. B. Yeats, will shortly appear in the Camelot Series; "Chaucer," selected and edited by F. Noel Paton, in the Canterbury Poets, and "Life of Crabbe," by T. T. Kebbel, in the Great Writers. These three series are published in London by Walter Scott, and in New York by Thomas Whittaker.

Michael Davitt, the Irish leader, is engaged on a literary work: "A History of the Land League in Ireland and America."

The Harpers are to publish the "Life and Letters of John Lathrop Motley," edited by his daughter, Lady Vernon Harcourt.

Mr. Oscar Browning is to write a monograph on George Eliot for the "Famous Women Series."

Judge Tourgee says there is one chapter in "Fool's Errand" which he wrote fifty-eight times before it finally went into the book.

Eighty thousand copies of "Drummond's Natural Law in the Spiritual World" have been sold in England.

Mrs. Anna Randall-Diehl, the elocutionist, has published a dictionary of two thousand English words which Webster and his successors have overlooked.

The first volume of the new Oxford Dictionary of the English language has just been completed after thirty years' labor.

"Men and Measures of Half a Century," by Hon. Hugh McCulloch, is in preparation by the Scribners.

Mrs. Laura F. Hinsdale, of Biloxi, Miss., is to write the "Story of Mississippi," in Lothrop's "Stories of the States."

An Italian publisher is issuing the Bible in half-penny numbers, and fifty thousand copies were sold the first week.

Dodd, Mead and Co. announce for issue "The War Reminiscences of Col. John S. Mosby," with ten double-page illustrations.

J. R. Ingram's biography of Mrs. Browning will soon be published by Roberts Brothers in their Famous Women Series.

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

CAN IT BE FALSE? By A Layman. Publishing House of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Nashville, Tenn. Price $1.

This little book, while it contains nothing new, puts the old arguments for Christianity in an attractive style and freshens them by the exhibition of a genuine spirit of earnest love for the cause which they uphold. The lives of Jesus and Peter and Paul are reviewed, and the argument made that such lives can be reasonably accounted for only by the truth of the Christian system.

QUEER PEOPLE WITH WINGS AND STINGS AND THEIR KWEER KAERS. By Palmer Cox, author of Brownies, Their Book. Hubbard Brothers, publishers, Philadelphia.

Palmer Cox is certainly a genius on a line that is specially adapted to tickle the eyes and ears of the little people. The comic pictures delight the eyes, and are a study for old as well as young, while the comic rhymes charm the ears, and both give an immense amount of intense amusement. If you want your children to have the best of sport out of books, get these books of Palmer Cox, published by Hubbard Brothers.

THE RELIGIOUS ASPECT OF EVOLUTION. By James McCosh, D. D., LL.D. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. Eyrich, 180 Canal street, New Orleans. Price $1 25.

We have here six lectures by Dr. McCosh read before the Theological Seminary of the Diocese of Ohio and Kenyon College in 1887. In these lectures the author avows himself in favor of evolution properly limited and explained. He says: "I have never been able to see that religion, and in particular that Scripture in which our religion is embodied, is concerned with the question of the absolute immutability of Species." Of man's descent he says: "If anyone ask me if I believe man's body to have come from a brute, I answer that I know not. I believe in revelation, I believe in science, but neither has revealed this to me; and I restrain the weak curiosity which would tempt me to inquire into what can not be known. Meanwhile I am sure and I assert that man's soul is of a higher origin and of a nobler type." Whatever may be the personal views or convictions on this absorbing question, no one will begin these lectures without reading through to the end. The style is easy, the language simple and the thought clear.

BABYLAND, Annual volume, 1888. Illustrated. Boston: D. Lothrop Company. Price seventy-five cents.

Babyland is as beautiful outside as it is inside, and the two covers, front and back, with their pictures in color of the babies blowing bubbles and the babies going to bed, furnish material for no end of pleasant stories to ingenious papas and mammas.

NATIONAL SALVATION THROUGH THE REDEMPTION OF CHRIST. By Rev. Thomas M. C. Birmingham, of the Arkansas Conference. Methodist Publishing House, Nashville. Price twenty-five cents.

HOLIDAY ENTERTAINMENTS. The National School of Elocution and Oratory, Philadelphia. 200 pages. Boards, fifty cents; paper, thirty cents.

This book contains not only the very best features for entertainments at the Christmas holidays, but is adapted to such occasions as New Year's, Washington's Birthday, Easter, Decoration Day, Fourth of July, and Thanksgiving.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL AND CHURCH ENTERTAINMENTS. The National School of Elocution and Oratory, Philadelphia. Boards, fifty cents; paper, thirty cents.

This volume is composed of Responsive Exercises, Dramatized Bible Stories, Dialogues, Recitations, etc., enlivened by the introduction of many new features, and all happily serving to illustrate biblical truths. Handsomely engraved cover.

PERIODICALS.

—Cassell's Family Magazine, for November, has some good reading, such as Japanese Homes and Their Surroundings; A Preacher's Best Book, by Rev. S. Baring-Gould; England's Treasure Island in the West; Some Things We Say and Do in America, by Deliverance Dingle. The Gatherer is a department of this magazine which is always interesting. Cassell and Company, New York. Price $1 50.

—The Chautauquan, for November, is full to overflowing with the very best of reading. J. P. Mahaffy continues his Gossip about Greece, and Prof. A. P. Coleman gives the second part of The Circle of the Sciences. Edward E. Hale writes of the Economic Uses of the Telegraph and the Telephone. James Baldwin gives the second paper on Greek Mythology. Prof. W. W. White contributes Talks on Memory. Dr. Josiah Strong gives an appreciative article on City Evangelization, and Dr. Titus M. Coan writes of Pestilences in the United States. There are also other articles of value, and all this for $1 50 a year. Dr. T. L. Flood, Meadville, Penn.

—The Floral Home is devoted to the cultivation of plants and flowers, and is published by the Floral Home Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo., and edited by A. A. Sherman. Price $1 per year.

—The Rainbow Festival, for Church, Sunday-school, and Charity Festivals, by Mrs. A. G. Lewis and Leo R. Lewis. E. P. Carpenter Company, publishers, Brattleboro, Vermont.

—Littell's Living Age. A new volume began October 1. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year) the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10 50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

—The Magazine of Art, for November, finishes the eleventh volume of this superb monthly. It has been steadily increasing in circulation, and the promise of many better things in the coming year will, no doubt, contribute still further to enlarge its circle of readers. Cassell and Company, New York. Price $3 50.

—The African Repository, for October, has reached our table. It is a publication of the American Colonization Society, and is published quarterly at Washington City for $1 per annum.

The following are the statistics of the Brazil Conference: Preachers admitted on trial, 4; remaining on trial, 3; 14 preachers were stationed; number of members, 288; local preachers, 4; total, 292; infant baptisms, 31; adult baptisms, 36; number of Sunday-schools, 11; teachers, 33; pupils, 339; schools, 2; missionaries, 4; assistants, 13.

There are preachers who have qualms of conscience about repeating sermons, and really feel as if they had imposed upon the people when they do it. It may be some relief to such brethren to hear that there is one preacher who, it is said, has repeated a sermon two hundred times in ten years. That preacher is the celebrated John Jasper, of Richmond, Va., and the sermon is on "De Sun Do Move."

From the Publisher.

In accepting the position of Publisher of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, tendered me by the Publishing Committee, I beg to assure its patrons and friends that it will be my object to broaden and enlarge its field of usefulness and place it, in point of circulation, where, in literary merit, it justly belongs—in the front rank among the best religious papers of the country; and to that end I earnestly solicit the hearty co-operation of all its friends and patrons.

Respectfully,

J. G. BRANT,
Publisher.

Episcopal Visitation, 1888-9.

Conference.	Date.	Place.	Bishop.
N. W. Texas.	Nov. 7.	Weatherford, Tex.	Hendrix
Virginia	Nov. 7.	Portsmouth, Va.	Granbery
W. Texas	Nov. 7.	Victoria, Tex.	Duncan
Memphis	Nov. 7.	Paris, Ky.	Keener
German Mis.	Nov. 14.	Houston, Tex.	Duncan
N. Ala.	Nov. 14.	Anniston, Ala.	Hargrove
N. Texas	Nov. 14.	Dennison, Tex.	Key
E. Texas	Nov. 28.	Crockett, Tex.	Duncan
S. Carolina.	Nov. 28.	Winnsboro, S. C.	Keener
Mississippi.	Dec. 5.	Vicksburg, Miss.	Hargrove
White Riv.	Dec. 5.	Paragould, Ark.	Key
N. Georgia.	Dec. 5.	Milledgeville, Ga.	Keener
N. Miss.	Dec. 12.	Starkville, Miss.	Keener
Florida	Dec. 12.	Harlow, Fla.	McTyeire
Alabama	Dec. 12.	Mobile, Ala.	Hargrove
S. Georgia.	Dec. 12.	Eastman, Ga.	Duncan
Louisiana.	Dec. 19.	New Orleans, La.	Hargrove
Baltimore	Mar. 13.	Alexandria, Va.	Wilson

Wanted.

By a graduate of the Feliciana Female Collegiate Institute, a situation as governess or teacher. References given if desired. Address T., Box 73, Jackson, La.

Publisher's Department.

I have this day sold to Mr. J. G. Grant my entire interest and good-will as publisher of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. All debts due by Hugh Jamieson, Jr., as publisher up to this date will be settled by me. All accounts due to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE or Hugh Jamieson, Jr., as publisher, will be paid to and collected by Mr. J. G. Grant.

HUGH JAMIESON, Jr.

OCTOBER 22, 1888.

I have this day purchased the entire interest and good-will of Mr. Hugh Jamieson, Jr., as publisher of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and will hereafter publish the paper for my own account, under the contract of the Publishing Committee. Any debts due by the paper up to this date will be paid by Mr. Hugh Jamieson, Jr. All accounts due to the paper or Mr. Hugh Jamieson, Jr., as publisher, will be collected by me.

J. G. GRANT.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22, 1888.

Referring to the above, my connection with the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, as publisher, ceases from this date, and Mr. J. G. Grant assumes control. With the generous co-operation of the agents and patrons of the paper, Mr. Grant will meet you with energy and enterprise, such as promises to advance the standing of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE to the front rank in the Advocate family. I would respectfully request for Mr. Grant that the agents of the ADVOCATE would remit money in hand as promptly as convenient, as it will expedite business at the Conference sessions. I feel safe in making this request after six years of pleasant relations with the agents of the patronizing Conferences, who have my sincere thanks for all their kindness and attention.

HUGH JAMIESON, Jr.

OCTOBER 22, 1888.

Mr. Philip Werlein has in stock a beautiful selection of organs. Anyone thinking of purchasing should call and see them before purchasing. Mr. Werlein's terms are moderate; he sells cheaper than ever before, and guarantees his instruments as first-class in every respect. There is no better judge of an organ, and anyone in the country can safely leave such a matter to him, and be assured that their order will receive prompt attention and prove satisfactory in every respect.

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

PROF. D. F. HUDDLE, Sec.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the V., S. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 1889.
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$175 pays entire expenses—board, books, tuition and fees—of a complete English course for one term of twenty weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address

R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mail twice a day.

J. H. BRUNNER, Pres.

G. W. HUDDLESTON, Sec.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALEY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. A. Woodward.

The New American ROLLER ORGAN is operated similar to the finest French Music Boxes and PLAYS 200 TUNES, from a waltz to a hymn, with perfect tone and flow. Gives better satisfaction than a $100 PARLOR ORGAN and ten times more pleasure. This organ is the perfection of imitated instruments and the grandest and most marvellous instrument ever presented to the public. It plays SACRED MUSIC, MARCHES, WALTZES, POLKAS, JIGS, Reels, Operatic, Popular Songs, Church music, as well as any organ. Nothing grander or combining so many features can be found in French or Swiss Music Boxes, costing $100 to $200. It is BEAUTIFULLY CARVED CASE, with 2 tunes, as set for sale. It will fill you with astonishment and delight. If send C.O.D. send $2.50 when you order, pay balance when you get organ. Send P.O. order, Registered Letter or by Express. Send all orders for this organ to WORLD MANUF'G CO., 122 Nassau Street, New York.

Price Only $6,

$300 to $500 a month made by working for us. We guarantee energetic persons $500 a Year, with the opportunity of making 6 times that amount. Men who can furnish their own horses preferred. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Hidlowny & Co., 112 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Ministers, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., 720 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

IS A GREAT LABOR SAVER.
A SHINE LASTS A WEEK.
RAIN AND SNOW DON'T AFFECT IT
NO BRUSHING REQUIRED.
MAKES A SHOE WATERPROOF.
USED BY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN.
Can be washed like Oil Cloth, and absolutely
Softens and Preserves all kinds of Leather.
Ask for it, and do not give up till you get it, and you will be well rewarded.
Sold by Shoe Stores, Grocers, Druggists, &c.
For Harness it is unequaled.
WOLFF & RANDOLPH, PHILADELPHIA.

Agents Wanted
ERIE
Self-Wringing
MOP

Is the best selling article out. Made from malleable iron and steel wire.

Special knitted cloth fitted into every Mop before shipping

A Golden Opportunity for persons of either sex in search of profitable employment, as the SELF-WRINGER sells at sight.

Exclusive territory and liberal terms. Send 50 cents for sample and agent's outfit. Circulars and terms free.

EVANS BROS., Southern Agents,
13 Perdido St., New Orleans.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,
FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET,
BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES,
LAMPS AND LANTERNS.
Axle Grease,

Blacking,	Blueing,
Cages and Cheese Safes,	Corks and Clocks,
Coffee and Grain Mills,	Cutlery and Saws,
Hammocks,	Ice Cream Freezers,
Oyster Tongs,	Paper and Rags,
Scales,	Sieves,

Whips.

HARDWARE, STONEWARE,
BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES,
TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE.
ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,
Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET.

E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE
MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER
In all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty.
WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES,
WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS.
UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.
Framing Neatly Done.
PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS,
RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS.
EDWARD HEATH,
Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

G. WOLF,
—MANUFACTURER OF—
GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES
(Formerly of 130 Common Street)
54 ST. CHARLES STREET,
Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St.,
NEW ORLEANS.
Orders promptly attended to.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement,

—1888.—

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator	$ 3 50	$ 2 75
American Agriculturist	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	2 50
" Times-Democrat.	3 50	2 75
Harper's Magazine	6 00	4 75
" Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People.	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

J. G. GRANT, Pub'r.

Our Young People.

THE BABY'S CREED.

BY CHARLES H. LEGRIS.

I believe in my papa,
Who loves me—oh, so dearly;
I believe in Santa Claus,
Who comes to see me yearly.
I believe the birdies talk
On the boughs together:
I believe the fairies dance
O'er the fields of heather:
I believe my dolly knows
Every word that's spoken:
I believe it hurts her, too,
When her nose is broken.
Oh! I believe in lots of things—
I can't tell all the rest—
But I believe in you, mamma,
First and last, and best!

—St. Nicholas.

MR. EDITOR: It has been a great while since I wrote to the ADVOCATE. The last letter I wrote was not printed. Now please, Mr. Editor, print this one, as I want my grandpa to see it. The answer to Maggie E. Walker's question can be found in Deuteronomy xxxiv, 9, also several times in the Book of Joshua. Nun was the father of Joshua. I will ask a question: Who was the first to weep in the Scriptures?

Your little friend,
GRANVILLE BRABSTON.
BOVINA, Mississippi.

A More Excellent Way.

It all came about through Johnny's dropping the syrup-pitcher at breakfast. The table-cloth was spick and span clean, and his mother had risen with a miserable neuralgic headache, and Johnny wasn't as careful as she would have been, of course, when in his hurry he tipped the pitcher, which in its fall overturned a very full tumbler. And so, in another half-minute, there was an island of syrup set in a small pond of ice water! All the circumstances which I have enumerated were too much for ordinary maternal patience.

"Johnny, you are a naughty, careless boy! You can have no syrup on your cakes this morning!"

Johnny's eyes opened in astonishment.

"Why, mamma, I didn't mean to do it!"

"But you are always doing things with such a rush. You make other people a great deal of trouble and labor, and then you say, 'I didn't mean to!'"

A cloud of very gloomy character had suddenly fallen over the group at the pleasant breakfast table. Just here, in the confusion consequent upon the accident, Kate, the twelve-year-old sister, who sat opposite Johnny, struck her napkin ring sharply against the salt box standing by her plate, thereby overturning the dainty little china device. This incident being of so trivial a nature, nobody made comment, until the rebellious and tearful Johnny exclaimed: "Kate has been careless, too, mamma, and you haven't blamed her a bit. Shan't she go without syrup, too?"

"It isn't anything to tip over a salt box," remonstrated the little girl.

"What a silly thing to mention, Johnny!" added the mother.

But somehow, almost before the remark had left her lips, her conscience had disputed its truth.

"Johnny," she said suddenly, "will you excuse me for speaking as I did? It was because the clean table-cloth was soiled, and the spilling made such confusion and so much work that I was discouraged. But it was an accident, and not my little boy's fault. You did not mean to do damage any more than Kate when she hit the salt box. You can see that yours was a much more trying accident, and it was hard to be pleasant over it; but I see that I was in the wrong, because I was really blaming you because there was syrup in the pitcher, and not for being careless in tipping it, as I said. Kate's salt cellar didn't have any syrup in it, you see, only salt, which did no damage."

The picture before her was chaotic, but Mrs. Way succeeded in smiling brightly into Johnny's eyes, and added: "I am sick this morning. I didn't sleep well last night. You know how I dislike a soiled table-cloth—so, on the whole, won't you try to excuse me?"

Such a queer expression as Johnny's face wore, but smiles carried the day very speedily.

"Now, children," interposed their father, "since mamma has been so very polite, and has apologized so beautifully, don't you think a small boy and girl, not very far away, ought to be very careful as to their manners at table, and run no risks of tipping pitchers and tumblers and salt cellars, and making ugly spots on clean table-cloths?"

"Yes, sir," said Johnny with great emphasis.

"I'll try," added Kate.

That morning, as the children were on their way to school, Kate said in a thoughtful way, with a tender accent in her voice: "I think mamma is just the sweetest mother in all the world. She is always sorry when she does wrong, just as much as she wants us to be."

To which somewhat confused grammar of his sister, Johnny responded with earnest loyalty, "Yes, and she owns up right out loud, too, I tell you!"—Congregationalist.

BE COURTEOUS, BOYS.—"I treat him as well as he treats me," said Hal.

His mother had just reproached him because he did not attempt to amuse or entertain a boy friend who had gone home.

"I often go in there, and he doesn't notice me," said Hal again.

"Do you enjoy that?"

"Oh, I don't mind! I don't stay long."

"I should call myself a very selfish person if friends came to see me and I should pay no attention to them."

"Well, that's different; you're grown up."

"Then you really think that politeness and courtesy are not needed among boys?"

Hal, thus pressed, said he didn't exactly mean that; but his father, who had listened, now spoke:

"A boy or a man who measures his treatment of others by their treatment of him, has no character of his own. He will never be kind, or generous or Christian. If he is ever to be a gentleman, he will be so in spite of the boorishness of others. If he is to be noble, no other boy's meanness will change his nature." And very earnestly the father added: "Remember this, my boy: You lower your own self every time you are guilty of an unworthy action because some one else is. Be true to your best self, and no hey can drag you down."

TO GIRLS.—Be cheerful, but not gigglers; serious, but not dull; be communicative, but not forward; be kind, but not servile. Beware of silly, thoughtless speeches; although you may forget them, others will not. Remember God's eye is in every company. Beware of levity and familiarity with young men; a modest reserve, without affectation, is the only safe path. Court and encourage conversation with those who are truly serious and conversable; do not go into valuable company without endeavoring to improve by the intercourse permitted to you. Nothing is more unbecoming, when one part of a company is engaged in profitable conversation, than that another part should be trifling, giggling and talking comparative nonsense to each other.—Leigh Richmond.

Lung Troubles and Wasting

Diseases can be cured, if properly treated in time, as shown by the following statement from D. C. FREEMAN, Sidney: "Having been a great sufferer from pulmonary attacks, and gradually wasting away for the past two years, it affords me pleasure to testify that Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda has given me great relief, and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering in a similar way to myself. In addition, I would say that it is very pleasant to take."

We honor and admire our friend in proportion to the struggle we see him make in the victory over the evil passions of his nature. The remote world calls him a happy man, inasmuch as they see the light of his high achievements, but they can not see the dust and soil of the conflict until the great spiritual triumph is won.—Baltimorean.

MANLY PURITY AND BEAUTY

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURE SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

NO PEN CAN DO JUSTICE TO THE ESteem in which the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, itching, scaly, and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood Purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 35c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, black-heads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains and Weakness speedily cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster.

Household.

ADVICE TO THE GIRL OF THE PERIOD.

BY G. H. W.

You will have to know Latin and Logic and Greek,
You will have to be able correctly to speak
Of Atoms and Molecules, Acids and Bases,
Of the Earth in Aphelion, of the Moon and its Phases,
Of the three laws of Newton, of gases expanding,
Of how to preserve equilibrium when standing,
Of what is the green coloring matter in plants,
Of the structure of elephants, beetles, and ants;
You should also be able to fluently chatter
On the prevalent opinions of Mind and of Matter.
Never mind learning "to play" or "to sing,"
To be able to please is no longer the thing;
Don't trouble your head about baking and cooking,
Red faces and fingers ar'n't student-like looking;
In all household duties, whate'er there's to do,
Let your brothers see to it, they've more time than you;
At table, gulp down your food, don't try to talk,
Don't waste precious time by taking a walk.
Don't heed the broad hints about spoiling your looks,
Let health, beauty, pleasure go, stick to your books,
Be sure a fixed hatred of mankind you show,
"Superior women don't marry," you know.

* * * * * * *

When years have gone by, if you find, when too late,
That your love for book lore, and for mankind your hate
Have brought no repose, but a heart-rending pain,
And you wish you could live your life over again,
Whatever occurs, don't show what you feel,
Let no one imagine the grief you conceal,
But rather bequeath what you have to a college,
And, in dying, proclaim, "There is nothing like knowledge."

—Temple Bar.

Mother and Son—Companion Pictures

BY REV. H. H. HENRY.

Black crape hangs from the door, the blinds are closed, the curtains drawn, voices are hushed, and those who must pass through the hall step with lightest tread. The hardest of all trials has come to a young husband. Death has snatched away the wife of his love, and put out the light of his home. In the parlor sits an aged mother and her stalwart son. In the anguish of his heart the strong man has sought the refuge of years ago—his mother. She is quiet and self-possessed, God's discipline of years having taught her how to meet sorrow. Once more, as in childhood days, he lays his head on her lap, and in broken words tries to tell all the anguish of his heart. Gently stroking back the hair from his brow, she speaks in soothing tones the holy words of comfort in which her heart found strength through weary, suffering years. Thus of her love is born courage to bear the blow, while he murmurs over and over the old heart-cry, "Mother, what could I do without you?"

A winter night. In a bright, cosy parlor, thoughtless of the wind and storm without, a tall, strong man sits upon the sofa beside his old mother. Her eyes are weak and dim, his as bright as the stars above the storm. Her hair is white as the snow which drifts against the windows, his is black and bushy. And what a contrast between his form, straight as a young pine, and hers so bent with years and many infirmities. Yet this stalwart son is making love to his aged mother. In his sturdy, sinewy hand he holds hers so withered, shrunken and drawn by disease. He talks of the days when with romping brothers he caused her trouble and anxiety, and how he longs to make some return for all those years of care. He pauses and looks down upon her with admiring love in every line of his manly face. And while she smiles back through gathering tears he folds her in his strong arms.—Evangelist.

The modern ideal home is just as much an intellectual and emotional work as an essay or a poem. A book is a collection of thoughts. Such also is a dwelling house, and the woman who has some degree fashioned it is as much an intellectual creator as is the masculine toiler whom we call an essayist or poet or dramatist. While, therefore, the new home of our age is the result of the great and free woman, it is also the cause and has made woman the possessor of an intellectual power which she could not claim in the cabin and tent period. The house has helped to create the new woman.

The prevalence of Malaria in large sections of country where, until recently, it has never been known, is not easy of explanation. If you are a sufferer, it will be more interesting to you to know how to get well. A few doses of Shallenberger's Antidote will do the work, and do it immediately. The medicine is prompt in destroying the poison, and always safe; even for young children. Sold by Druggists.

Responsibility of Wealth.

Besides the reckoning for sins committed and opportunities neglected, there is a solemn account to be rendered by many for the use of property. This is as much a gift of God for which we are accountable as our powers of mind or emotions of heart. It is a pertinent question for each one to ask himself, though it might be impertinent to ask another, "Have you not more than is needful for reasonable wants? Have you not more than you ought to use for God than you do use for him? Is there nothing which you are holding for self upon which God has a prior claim.

Some think that this is a branch of stewardship that pertains only to the rich. But those who think so have not learned the lesson of real benevolence, nor received the true teaching of Christian experience. It is doubtless true that very rich men do not exercise their stewardship as faithfully as men of more moderate incomes; they give, indeed, and some of them give frequently and nobly; but human hearts are all alike, and where one rich man gives in proportion to what has been given to him, multitudes gives only a pittance from their abundance, and few rise to the gospel idea of duty or privilege in this matter.

If, however, one has nothing to bestow, is it not because self has made too large demands for comfort or indulgence or prospective accumulation? or because carelessness and lavish expenditure have wasted the portion which ought to be given to the Lord? The answer to such questions will surely come from an awakened conscience.

"Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come and follow me. But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful; for he had great possessions" (Matt. xix, 21, 22).

"The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts" (Haggai ii, 8).

Wealth is God's. If it is selfishly hoarded or recklessly spent, leaving God out of the account, he may give riches wings, and leave their former possessor a prey to poverty and want.—Exchange.

The Oldest Books in the World.

Among the oldest writings which have come down to us are the arrowheaded, or wedge-shaped writings used in Assyria and Media. These writings are either stamped on bricks, or chiselled into stone and rock. They date about 3,000 B. C. The letters are all formed by combinations of a stroke with a head to it, like a barb, or a wedge. By the labors of recent scholars the meaning of tablets and inscriptions written in this way can be deciphered. Then there are the papyri, or paper books of Egypt. Papyrus is a flowering reed growing luxuriantly in the still waters and marshes of the Nile. There are specimens of it to be seen in the basins of our parks in New York. The pith of this reed is taken out, flattened and gummed together so as to make long pages and rolls. The Greek for this natural paper is byblus, hence our Bible. These rolls of papyrus are then filled with writing. The writing of Egypt was hieroglyphic, or produced by a series of pictures of different natural objects. The trustees of the British Museum have recently obtained a roll of papyrus written out by an Egyptian scribe called Ani. He lived more than 1,300 years B. C.—i. e., about 3,200 years ago. Every chapter of the book is illustrated by vignettes of extraordinary beauty. In this respect it resembles one of the illuminated parchments of monkish times. The colors laid on so carefully by the skillful brush of Ani, although most delicate, are apparently as fresh today as ever they were. A group of weeping women, which forms part of the first vignette, is particularly well done. The book itself is a copy of the Book of the Dead, which contains prayers and devotions relating to the condition of the disembodied soul. For the Egyptians believed in the soul's immortality.

The trustees of the British Museum are going to have this book reproduced by the press, with all its colors. There will be a full description of the vignettes, or translation and introductions. Thus we shall be able to read old Ani's work 3,000 years after he wrote it. Homer is almost a modern author in comparison.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Constipation

Demands prompt treatment. The results of neglect may be serious. Avoid all harsh and drastic purgatives, the tendency of which is to weaken the bowels. The best remedy is Ayer's Pills. Being purely vegetable, their action is prompt and their effect always beneficial. They are an admirable Liver and After-dinner pill, and everywhere endorsed by the profession.

"Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."—Dr. I. E. Fowler, Bridgeport, Conn.

"I can recommend Ayer's Pills above all others, having long proved their value as a cathartic for myself and family."—J. T. Hess, Leithsville, Pa.

"For several years Ayer's Pills have been used in my family. We find them an Effective Remedy

for constipation and indigestion, and are never without them in the house."—Moses Grenier, Lowell, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Pills, for liver troubles and indigestion, during many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action."—L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y.

"I suffered from constipation which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared it would cause a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills effected a complete cure."—D. Burke, Saco, Me.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years and consider them an invaluable family medicine. I know of no better remedy for liver troubles, and have always found them a prompt cure for dyspepsia."—James Quinn, 40 Middle st., Hartford, Conn.

"Having been troubled with costiveness, which seems inevitable with persons of sedentary habits, I have tried Ayer's Pills, hoping for relief. I am glad to say that they have served me better than any other medicine. I arrive at this conclusion only after a faithful trial of their merits."—Samuel T. Jones, Oak st., Boston, Mass.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

MUSICAL NOVELTIES

ROYAL PRAISE. (Words By J. R. Sweney. The best Sunday School Book that has appeared in years. New Music and New Words.

GLORIOUS CAUSE. (35cts.) By G. F. Root. Fine collection of new Temperance Music. Leaders of the Temperance Cause endorse it.

EMPIRE OF SONG. (60cts. By G. F. Root. A splendid Singing Class or Convention Book. Has no superior.

ROYAL PIANO FOLIO. (65cts. A new collection of the choicest Piano Music by the best foreign composers.

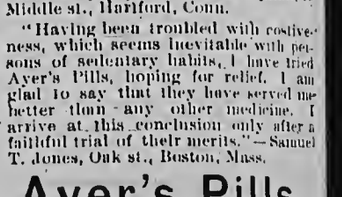
TIOBITS OF MUSICAL HISTORY. (50cts.) A collection of short sketches of celebrated musicians, their works and other items of Musical Interest.

SNOW WHITE. (30cts.) By Clara L. Burnham & G. F. Root. A new and charming little operetta for Young Folks. Not difficult of preparation.

Any of the above sent by mail on receipt of the specified price.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati.
And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

SEDGWICK STEEL WIRE FENCE



The best Farm, Garden, Poultry Yard, Lawn, School Lot, Park and Cemetery Fences and Gates. Perfect Automatic Gate. Cheapest and Neatest Iron Fences. Iron and wire Summer Houses, Lawn Furniture, and other wire work. Best Wire Stretcher and Plier. Ask dealers in hardware, or address

SEDGWICK BROS., RICHMOND, IND.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or slay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

UCO CO
COMPLEXION CREAM

This famous remedy is a sure and safe Cure for Freckles, Tan, Pimples, Roughness of Skin, and all Facial Blemishes. It opens the pores and softens the skin, giving a healthy, beautiful complexion. It does not cover defects, but cures them. No lady's toilet is complete without a box of it. Sent prepaid for 35 cents. C. S. Gilman & Co., Akron, O.

CHILDREN are IRRITABLE

Feverish, sometimes craving food and eating voraciously, again refusing wholesome diet, tossing restlessly in sleep, moaning and grinding the teeth; then you may know Worms are sapping at the life and unless prompt measures are taken, spasms and finally death will follow. H. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge never fails to cure. Try and see for yourself. It is not a cathartic.

FOR 60 YEARS

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

McShane Bell Foundry
Finest Grade of Bells
CHIMES AND PEALS for CHURCHES, etc.
Send for Price and Catalogue. Address
H. McSHANE & CO.,
Baltimore, Md.
Mention this paper.

In all the world there is but one cure for the OPIUM Habit. The Dr. J. L. Stephens Remedy never fails, and no other treatment ever cured. We have cured more than 10,000 cases. No other treatment ever cured one case. NO PAY TILL CURED. Send for book of this, and write to the Dr. J. L. Stephens Co., Lebanon, Ohio.

CANCER and Tumors CURED: no knife. Book free. Drs. GRATIGNY & Bro., No. 165 Plum St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

LESTER—HOOVER—At the residence of the bride's father, near Midway, Yazoo county, Miss., October 18, 1888, by Rev. I. W. Cooper, Mr. J. Wallace Lester, of Jackson, Miss., to Miss Willie Hoover.

TALBERT—HILL—At the residence of the bride's father, October 18, 1888, by Rev. J. M. Wyatt, Mr. H. B. Talbert, of Texas, to Miss Mattie Hill, of Winona, Miss.

FLETCHER—SCARBOROUGH.—At the residence of the bride's father, Judge J. W. Scarborough, October 28, 1888, by Rev. J. W. Malone, Mr. J. W. Fletcher, of Orlando, Fla., to Miss Fannie G. Scarborough, of Kosciusko, Miss.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

KENDALL.—Mrs. ANTIOPE H. KENDALL was born in Kentucky, January 19, 1823. Her parents removed to Tennessee, and spent a few years, and from thence to Mississippi, when the subject of this notice was about nine years old. She professed religion in early life and joined the Methodist Church. On September 18, 1844, she was happily married to G. W. Kendall. My acquaintance with Sister Kendall began only about seven months before she was called from the sufferings of earth to the joys of heaven. We never met outside of her own Christian home. But I saw enough of her there, as I visited the family from time to time, to be convinced that her life was as one hid with Christ in God.

She possessed a rich experience, and was ever ready to converse on the subject of religion. In the devotional exercises of song and prayer her countenance would become luminous, and tears of rejoicing would flow from her eyes as she talked of her prospects of a bright, beautiful home in heaven. The grace of patience was well developed and was a clearly defined factor in her Christian character. She suffered long and much, but always with that love which endures as seeing him who is invisible. She was ready to depart and be with Christ. Her house was set in order. She reminded me of one who had been from home a long while, and, as the time for returning drew near, became anxious to start. As she knew she could not recover she would beg her family and friends to let her go. "Oh, don't keep me any longer," she would say. After a severe paroxysm from which no one thought she could rally, seeing her children weeping, she asked if their father was dead; and, being told they were grieving for her, she exhorted them not to grieve, but meet her in Heaven.

She was a noble, true woman; true to her Lord and her church—true and kind to her husband, truly loving to her children, accommodating to her neighbors and fast in her friendship. On the night of August 3, 1888, she quietly fell asleep in Jesus. May her family follow her as she followed Christ! is the earnest prayer of the pastor, H. C. MOREHEAD.

JONES—Bro. W. W. JONES was born September 14, 1825, and died September 25, 1888. Bro. Jones professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the year 1860, in the communion of which he lived until his death. He had served the church in different official capacities, and whatever work the church assigned him he endeavored to do with earnest fidelity to the Master. He was a model Sunday-school superintendent, an industrious steward, a pious class leader; his soul was full of music and he would sing praise to God wherever he went. He was a long and patient sufferer, being confined to his bed for nearly two months. During this time he was delighted when some one would talk with him on the subject of religion, and would testify that the religion of Jesus Christ could comfort him in his afflictions and afford him a willingness to do and suffer the whole will of God. He lived by faith and died in the faith, and is blessed forever more. We commend his disconsolate wife and sorrowing children to the grace of that God who has promised to care for them.

W. W. WILLIAMS.

WADE—Mrs. MARY JANE WADE departed this life at her residence, in Bolivar, Miss., August 16, 1888, in her sixty third year. We have no data as to when or where she was born, married or joined the church. I learned that she united with the church soon after her marriage, and remained an acceptable member up to her death. I visited her during her illness and found her perfectly composed and her faith strong in God. She told me she was safe, and had nothing to fear. Her house was the home, or stopping-place, of almost everybody in the country; her catholic spirit never turned away anyone, good or bad.

How she is missed!—especially by little Mary Lou, a granddaughter who she had in charge; also by her three sons; missed at the parsonage, in the church, for when she was well her seat was seldom vacant; missed by the young people of Bolivar—her house was headquarters for them; missed by the entire community. Oh, how we miss her! but we sorrow not as those who have no hope. We expect to see her again in the likeness of the Son of God. J. B. HARRIS.

FULCHER—Little RUBIE FULCHER, youngest child of J. D. and Ella Fulcher, was born December 7, 1880, and died June 9, 1888. Ruble was only 18 months old; but she had made many sweet impressions on her fond parents. None but those who have looked upon the "empty crib" and the "vacant chair at the table" can appreciate the loneliness of that dear father's and mother's heart.

ANNIE BARNETT.

LAMPKIN—Sister LIZZIE HUMBLE LAMPKIN was born October 26, 1818, and died October 4, 1888, at her home in St. Helena parish, La. She declared her faith in Christ, in the year 1870, by joining the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Homesville, Pike county, Miss., from which time to the close of life she "fought the good fight, kept the faith and finished her course," quietly yielded to death, and went to her reward, leaving eleven children and a husband to mourn her absence. A good Christian mother and wife, a faithful friend and neighbor rests from the labor and trouble of this life. May all the loved ones meet her in the sweet by-and-by!

J. W. ELLISON, Pastor.

VANSLYKE—On the morning of August 6, 1888, as the sun was rising above the horizon, filling the world with its glorious light, the spirit of little NETA VANSLYKE took its flight to realms of endless days. Born July 4, 1886, she lived only long enough to entwine herself around the hearts of father, mother, sisters and brother, and then God saw best to call her back to him ere sin and sorrow had touched her heart. While it is natural to mourn, yet how comforting for those whom she loved to look forward to the time when she will welcome them to an eternity of bliss, where partings are no more. I. H.

HORTON—PARIS ALVIN, infant son of E. W. T. and T. V. Horton, died September 29, 1888, aged one year, nine months and twenty-three days. Many hearts are saddened by the loss of this little darling boy's sweet cunning smiles and baby prattle. In the last struggle through death he knew his papa and mamma, and looked earnestly in their faces as if to say, "Farewell, papa, mamma, brother and sisters; I must go," then closed his eyes in peace, and his spirit took its flight with the angels that God had sent, through realms of bliss into eternal joy.

JAS. G. CAMMACK, P. C.

GROUT—Sister JULIA A. GROUT (nee Choate) was born in Vermillion parish, La., in 1823; married Dr. J. S. Grout in 1843; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Patterson in 1853, and died in peace, August 25, 1888, at the home of her daughter in Patterson. For the last five years Sister Grout was an invalid, during which time she was patient; had no fear of death, and in her last conversation concerning her departure said she loved and trusted her Savior.

C. B. CARTER.

Simple and Direct.

It was the man of rut and precedent who said: "You can't assist nature." But the principle that an individual can conduct his own business best does not apply here. For nature, as a rule, is prodigal and dissipates a great deal of energy to accomplish her purposes. If you are able to conduct any of nature's energies into a direct channel you not only insure effectiveness, but change caprice into uniformity of result. So in regard to the vital part of nature's breath, oxygen: if we reinforce this restorative principle with increased supplies and charge it with positive magnetization, how additionally effective it will be in the building up of vigor, the restoring of wasted tissues and the preservation of vitality. This is precisely what DRS. STARKEY & PALEN have accomplished in their treatment by inhalation. Such, at least, is the inference from the following:

Mr. N. G. Osteen adds to a former testimonial:

SUMTER, S. C., March 17, 1888.

"Your remedy is getting up quite a reputation in this vicinity, from the good it has done Mr. Charles Witherspoon."

SAVANNAH, Mo., February 18, 1888.

I am highly pleased with the Oxygen Treatment, and am satisfied that it has done more for me than any course of drugs I could have resorted to. MILTON L. VAN BESKIRK.

ATHENS, O., February 29, 1888.

I feel very confident that I owe my life to Compound Oxygen.

MRS. M. E. WARDEN.

RIVER FALLS, Wisconsin.

I recommend your specific to the thousands of sufferers from catarrh, with its attendant evils.

W. D. PARKER,
President of State Normal School.

We publish a brochure of 200 pages regarding the effect of Compound Oxygen on invalids suffering from consumption, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, catarrh, hay fever, headache, debility, rheumatism, neuralgia; all chronic and nervous disorders. It will be sent, free of charge, to anyone addressing DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., or 331 Montgomery street, San Francisco, Cal.

There must be something in art besides imitation or the mere following of a model, no matter how near the perfection of art that model may be, if one would attain the position of a master. In Christianity matters are entirely different. Imitation is there the test of a triumphant and glorious success, and originality is always at a ruinous discount. Imitation of the Master in his controlling love for man; imitation of his sympathy with every phase of human sorrow; imitation of his willingness to suffer that others might cease to suffer; imitation of his patience under revilings and scourgings; imitation of his zeal to do the will of the Father—these are the upward steps to a fadeless crown, an incorruptible inheritance, an unending triumph. But to ensure this triumph, we must be very sure that we have chosen the Model presented to us in the Scriptures, and not some modification of it that we have formed for ourselves or that others have found for us, in order to make our assimilation to it be easier because it is less self-denying.—Evangelist.

Scientific.

Why the Leaves Turn.

"Probably not one person in a thousand knows why leaves change their color in the fall," remarked an eminent botanist the other day. "The common and old-fashioned idea is, that all this red and golden glory we see now is caused by the frosts. A true and scientific explanation of the causes of coloring of leaves would necessitate a long and intricate discussion. Stated briefly and in proper language, those causes are these:

"The green matter in the tissue of a leaf is composed of two colors, red and blue. When the sap ceases to flow in the autumn, and the natural growth of the tree ceases, oxidation of the tissue takes place. Under certain conditions the green of the leaf changes to red; under different conditions it takes on a yellow or brown tint. This difference in color is due to the difference in combination of the original constituents of the green tissue, and to the varying conditions of climate, exposure and soil. A dry, cold climate produces more brilliant foliage than one that is damp and warm. This is the reason that our American autumns are so much more gorgeous than those of England.

"There are several things about leaves that even science can not explain. For instance, why one or two trees growing side by side, of the same age and having the same exposure, should take on a brilliant red in the fall and the other should turn yellow; or, why one branch of a tree should be highly colored and the rest of the tree have only a yellow tint, are questions that are as impossible to answer as why one member of a family should be perfectly healthy and another sickly. The coloring is not as good this fall as usual, but in the country there is some very gorgeous foliage. The maples and oaks generally have the brightest colors." —Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

CURIOSITIES OF MAGNETISM.—Most well-informed people are doubtless aware that the globe on which they live is a great ball of magnetism, but comparatively few have an adequate idea of the influence this property is continually exerting on all sides, that many common but inexplicable phenomena can be traced directly to this source. Statistics go to show that in the matter of steel rails, as many as thirteen will become crystallized and break where they go to make up a railroad track running east and west, before one of those on a north and south track is similarly affected. This is entirely due to the magnetism generated by friction, and the fact that the polarity of the magnetic current is in the former instance resisted in the headlong rush of the train, whereas in the latter case it is undisturbed. Another strange effect of this peculiar and occult force is that exerted on the watches of trainmen. A timepiece carried by the conductor running a train twenty miles an hour, however accurate it may be, will, if the speed of the train is increased to, say fifty miles, become useless until regulated.—The magnetism generated by the flight of a train may be said to be in proportion to the speed with which it is propelled, and the delicate parts of a watch, numbering all the way from 400 to 1,000 pieces, and peculiarly susceptible to this influence by reason of the hammering and polishing they have received, are not slow to feel the effect.—Troy Times.

The record of cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla can never be completely written. The peculiar curative powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are successful when everything else has failed. If your blood is impure, your digestion out of order, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

All redemption must begin in subjection, and in the recovery of the sense of fatherhood and authority, as all ruin and devastation begin in the loss of that sense.—John Ruskin.

Are you waiting for something to turn up? If so, you are making quite a mistake. Better hustle around and turn up something for yourself. B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, Va., can give you a pointer in that direction that will help you wonderfully.

Public opinion is a weak tyrant compared with our own private opinion; what a man thinks of himself, that it is which determines or, rather, indicates his fate.—Thoreau.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THREE WONDERFUL
SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect.

6,500,000 LADIES Are Doing Sewing on

SINGER
Family Sewing Machines.

8,000,000
SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,
185 Canal St., New Orleans.
S. E. RUNDLE - - - - - AGENT.

A. Brousseau's Son,
28 and 25 CHARTRES ST.,
CHINA MATTING,
CARPETS,
INGRAINS,
LACE CURTAINS,
WINDOW SHADES,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PHILIP WERLEIN'S
GREAT PIANO HOUSE,
135 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

MASON & HAMLIN, MATHUSHEK, WEBER, and other Celebrated Pianos.

MASON & HAMLIN, ESTEY, and other World-Renowned Organs

Special Discounts to Schools and Churches. Greatest Bargains to Be Obtained at this Popular Piano House.

Catalogues mailed on application.

Artificial Limbs,
Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted
— BY —
A. McDERMOTT,
200 - - - ST CHARLES STREET - - - - - 200
Bet. Julia and St. Joseph.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND
Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases. A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel. The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

PERFECT SAFETY

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

It has been used with most wonderful effect in

Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c.

Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2-cent stamp to MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA.

GRANT'S
FURNITURE HOUSE.

$35.00
Buys a beautiful Crimson Plush Parlor Suit, in five pieces, as shown in illustration. Solid Walnut Frame, Hand-carved and Rubbed Oil Polish. Same suit in Hair Cloth, $35.

$45.00
Buys the same suit in five pieces, covered in Silk Plush, all one color, in either of the following: Crimson, Old Gold, Olive, Peacock Blue or Maroon; or the same set made up in all the above colors.

$55.00
Buys the suit in ten pieces, including the five pieces here shown, one more Sofa and four Parlor Chairs covered in plush.

$65.00
Buys the same set—ten pieces—covered in Silk Plush—all one color, or five different colors.

Plush Rockers, Reception Chairs, Reed and Rattan Rockers, Fancy Tables in Walnut, Mahogany, Oak and Cherry.

$20.00
Buys a French Bed-Room Set.

$69.50
Buys a beautiful Victoria Bed-Room Set, in Imitation Walnut, Marble-top—twelve pieces—as follows: Bedstead, Dresser, Washstand, Armoir, four Cane-seat Chairs, one Cane-seat Rocker, one Towel Rack, one Spring, and one Centre Table.

$95.00
Buys a magnificent Black Walnut Bed-Room Set, Marble-Top, Satin Tester, brass rods—twelve pieces as above.

$19.00
Buys a Dining-Room Set, including Sideboard, Extension Table, and six Cane-seat Chairs.

$22.00
Buys a Kitchen Set, including a first-class Stove, with Utensils, Kitchen Safe, Kitchen Table, four Kitchen Chairs.

Office and Library Furniture in large variety.
CARPETS—Ingrain, Brussels and Velvets.
Rugs, Portiere and Lace Curtains in all styles and at all prices.

☞Figures talk; and if you doubt, call and inspect the goods. Everything else proportionately cheap. Stock complete with the latest designs and fresh from the best factories. Call and examine, and I guarantee polite attention reliable goods, fair dealing and bottom prices at the Cheapest FURNITURE HOUSE in NEW ORLEANS.

J. G. GRANT, 50 and 52 Baronne Street.
☞Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending October 30, 1888.)

COTTON.

Low ordinary	6 15-16 @	— —
Ordinary	7 7-16	— —
Good ordinary	8 1-16	— —
Low middling	8 13-16	— —
Middling	9 9-16	— —
Good middling	9 13-16	— —
Middling fair	10 5-16	— —
Fair	11 3-16	— —
Galveston middling	9½	— —
Mobile middling	9¼	— —
St. Louis middling	9 7-16	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	5	— —
Fully fair	4⅞	— —
Good fair	4½	4¾
Common	4⅛	4⅜
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4½	5⅝
Pr. yellow	6	6 1-16
Gray White	6¼	6¾
Choice white	7	7⅛
Stan. Grau	7⅜	— —

MOLASSES.

OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	43	— —
Fair	25	28
Good Common	— —	— —
Syrup	24	33

RICE.

Head	5¼	5¾
Good	4½	4¾
Fair	4⅛	4⅜
Good	4¼	4¾
Polish, per ton	14 00	15 00
No. 2	2⅛	2¼
Rough	2 25	3 00

FLOUR.

Choice	4 50	4 60
Fancy	5 30	5 40
Extra Fancy	5 60	5 70
Minnesota bakers	6 50	6 75
Minnesota patents	7 50	— —
Extra fancy	5 80	6 00
Winter wheat patents	6 35	6 50

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	2 60	2 75
Cream meal	3 10	— —
Grits	3 10	3 20
Homiuy	3 50	— —

GRAIN, ETC.

CORN:
White	53	— —
Yellow	— —	55
Mixed No. 2	— —	55
OATS:
Western	33	— —
Choice	— —	34
BRAN:
₩ cwt	87½	90
HAY:
Prime	— —	15 00
Choice	16 00	16 50

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	16 25	16 37½
Prime Mess	— —	16 50
Rumps	— —	16 00
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	— —	8¼
Sides, long clear	— —	8⅝
Sides, short rib	— —	8¼
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	12	13
Shoulders	9	— —
Sides, long clear	9⅝	9¾
Sides, short rib	9¾	— —
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	12	12¾

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	17½	17¾
Fair	16½	16¾
Common	14	14¼
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Fair	24	35
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	29	30
Western Dairy	18	19
Common	14	16
LARD:
Refined	— —	8⅝
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11¾	— —
Coal, cases	16	17
Cotton seed, crude	— —	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70	75

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, per head	3½	4½
Chicago, per 100	— —	— —
Louisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 40	1 90
KROUT:
Western, ₩ bbl	— —	4 00
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 40	1 60

BALING STUFFS.

BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb	12¾	13
Jute, 1¾ lb, per yd	12½	— —
Lace Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	12½
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	10½	11
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 05	— —

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00	4 50
Young Chickens	2 25	3 00
Chickens, South'n	3 00	3 50
Young	1 75	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	12 00
EGGS:
Western	— —	16
Southern	17	17½
WOOL:
Lake, per lb	20	21
Louisiana	18	19
Burry	10	12
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₩ lb	— —	5
Dry salted	6	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	11 00	— —
Meal	20 50	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	— —
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	2½	— —
Sulphuric acid	2	— —

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Judge Thurman spoke to an immense crowd in the Cincinnati Exposition Building, on Democratic Day, October 25.

All the employees at the saw-mills in Arkansas, who have recently come from Indiana, and who have not lost their citizenship, have announced their intention of returning next week to vote at the election. It is understood that their traveling expenses and their wages for the time that they are absent will be paid them by the State Central Committee of the respective parties to which they may belong.

Daniel Hand, of New Haven, Conn., who was a grocer in Charleston, S. C., before the war, has given $1,000,000 to the American Missionary Society, to be devoted to the education of negroes in the South.

Irishmen turned out in full force, October 25, to attend the mass meeting of the Irish Protectionists at Madison Square Garden in New York City. The immense building was crowded too overflowing half an hour before the meeting was called to order, and the adjacent streets were thronged with people eager to get a glimpse of James G. Blaine, the attraction of the night.

The turnout of the business men of New York City, on October 27, in honor of President Cleveland, who reviewed it, is said to have been the most remarkable demonstration ever seen in this country. Thirty thousand men were in line, and they marched through a severe rain-storm.

The Courier-Journal's Omaha correspondent telegraphs that Patrick Egan, ex-president of the Irish National League, is the author of the Murchison letter to Minister West, whose response has created a stir both in the United States and England. It is said to have been a scheme of the Republicans to elicit from the representative of Great Britain sentiments favorable to Cleveland, and thus alienate from the Democratic party the Irish vote.

A riot in which thirty-five railroad men were involved occurred, October 28, at the Air Line bridge in Chicago. A Burlington engine had the right of way on a switch, and it was disputed by the crew on the engine of another road.

Jacksonville, Fla., on October 29, reported thirty-six new cases and four deaths; Enterprise, Fla., seventeen new cases and two deaths, and Gainsville, Fla., ten new cases of fever.

FOREIGN.

The St. James Gazette, referring to the letter written by Lord Sackville, British Minister at Washington, to an Anglo-American resident of California, in which he discussed American politics, says that in the present position of American politics Lord Sackville should not have written such a letter, even under the seal of privacy; but the fact that he acted in perfect innocence is clear.

A punch was given at Cherbourg, October 25, in honor of the officers attached to the Russian squadron at that port. The mayor offered a toast to the union of the French and Russian peoples, and the maritime prefect proposed a toast to the Russian navy.

The decree forbidding the sale of Dr. Mackenzie's book in Germany has been rescinded. The Berlin correspondent of the Times says perhaps it is not too much to assume that the abrogation of the interdict against Dr. Mackenzie's book is due to the personal wish of the Kaiser himself.

At a Boulangerist meeting in the Salle Wagram, in Paris, October 26, at which about 600 persons were present, a party of anti-Boulangerists provoked a free fight. Many persons were carried out of the place with cut and bleeding faces.

The Germania (Catholic) asserts that the papal note to the nuncios at foreign courts will emphasize the fact that Emperor William's visit, having led to occurrences that could not fail to wound the Pontiff, has made the position of the Pope still more deplorable.

King Milan has settled 1,000,000 francs on ex-Queen Natalie. The Crown Prince will be permitted to write to his mother three times weekly.

The people and the government of China are greatly excited over the Chinese Exclusion Bill. The Chinese Times contains a letter signed by the Peking officials and written just after the news had reached China that the United States Senate had passed the Chinese Exclusion Bill. Following is an extract taken from the letter: "If the obnoxious American bill should be carried into effect, there will be no other course open for China, consistent with her dignity as a nation, than to adopt retaliatory measures by prohibiting the citizens of the United States from coming to China."

In Roumella a royal proclamation has been issued declaring that a new constitution is necessary, and appealing to all parties to unite in the work of procuring it.

Emperor William has instructed the Foreign Office to thank the governments which he has visited recently for the cordial receptions tendered to him, and to express his gratification that a peaceful interpretation has been placed on his tour.

The American steamer "Hayilan," while trying to force the blockade at St. Mary's, Hayti, on October 27, with rebel troops, arms and ammunition on board, has been captured. The captain and crew are prisoners of war at Port-au-Prince.

The Germania (Catholic) says that the Pope has sent to President Carnot a letter, in which His Holiness points out the necessity for a good understanding between France and the Vatican.

Two thousand persons attended a monarchist meeting at Tours, October 28. The meeting was followed by a banquet, at which 500 persons were present. M. Lambert de St. Croix and Gen Charlette delivered addresses.

Conference Beggars.

We have come to look for the Conference beggar at our annual sessions with almost as much certainty as for the presence of the Bishop; and we are seldom disappointed. His personality and his mission are not so certain. He may represent an important school, an imperiled church, or a worthy eleemosynary institution. It may be one of these, or something else, but, whatever it is, it is always an urgent case which will not admit of delay. Getting such a cause on his hands and heart, away the agent goes to make the round of the Conferences in its interest. If he is fortunate enough to have the favor of the Bishop, or can get the indorsement of a few of the older brethren, he will get on finely. He gets the floor, presents his case, makes a pathetic appeal, and the ministers come down handsomely to the extent of some hundreds of dollars. It is not an uncommon thing for them to respond to two or three appeals in behalf of causes of greater or less magnitude, so that it amounts almost to one collection for every day of the session, counting in those taken at the anniversaries for the janitor, etc. Sometimes the minister's giving at Conference is limited only by the amount of money he has with him, and sometimes not even by that, for he borrows money to pay his way home. The laymen, with few exceptions, know little or nothing of the tax levied on the ministers at the Conference sessions.

We have tried to look this matter over carefully for a number of years, and we can come to no other conclusion than that the custom of Conference begging is vicious in principle, injurious in practice, and should be discontinued. This we say not so much in the interest of the minister's finances, as in the interest of his influence and the general result on the benevolent causes of the church. Some may be influenced under the pressure of these special appeals to give more than they should in view of the needs of their families, but we make no argument on this. Our observation is that very few men of any class give too much to worthy causes. While we believe that Methodist ministers, as a class, give more than any other class in the church, we will not say they give too much. It is not to the amount they give we object, but to the manner in which they are made to do it under the present system of Conference begging.

The pastors are to be the leaders of the people in all things—"ensamples to the flock." This applies to the department of benevolence as well as to anything else. They should themselves give systematically and conscientiously, as they insist that the people shall do. That their example may have its full effect, the pastors should give with the people, that it may be known that they practice what they preach. The example is always contagious and inspiring. The people follow the lead of their pastor far more promptly and cheerfully than they will go where he tells them they should. To reach the highest influence possible in this direction, the pastor should give each year with his people, as one of them and their leader, all he can possibly afford to contribute. Nothing less than this will fill the measure of his duty. If he has failed at this point, the fault is irremediable. No special giving at Conference can atone for it.

But if he has met his obligation at this point, then he can not in justice meet these Conference demands. The evil is in this, that he has come to know that these Conference calls will be made, and he holds back in his giving with his people that he may have somewhat with which to respond, and thus fails in impressing and leading the people in their gifts. So it comes to pass that while our ministers, as a rule, give more than their people, the people do not give them proper credit, being ignorant of the facts. We, therefore, affirm that the practice which leads to these evil results is wrong, and should be discontinued. Let the generation of Conference beggars come to an end.

It is proper to say that these remarks are inspired by no new facts, and have no personal application. They are the expression of an old conviction, one which gathers strength with years.—Pittsburg Advocate.

We take pleasure in recommending the use of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer as safe and reliable for restoring gray hair to it natural color.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

Quarterly Conferences.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Pleasant Grove	Nov.	3, 4
Arkabutla		10, 11
Como and Fredonia		12
Chulahoma		17, 18
Cochrum		24, 25
Louisburg		27
Horn Lake	Dec.	1, 2

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GRENADA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Water Valley circuit	Nov.	1
Hanner		3, 4
Atlanta		10, 11
Grenada circuit		17, 18
Carrollton		24, 25
Pittsboro	Dec.	1, 2
Water Valley		8, 9

J. F. EVANS, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Byhalia and Victoria	Nov.	3, 4
Myrtle		10, 11
Marshall		17, 18
Hickory Flat		24, 25
Pine Mountain	Dec.	1, 2

JNO. BARCROFT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

New Albany circuit	Nov.	3, 4
Pleasant Ridge circuit		10, 11
Ripley circuit		17, 18
Jonesboro circuit		24, 25
Ripley and New Albany		26
Blackland circuit	Dec.	1, 2
Gomtown circuit		8, 9

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Valden circuit	Nov.	3, 4
Newport circuit		10, 11
Zilpha		17, 18
Ebenezer		24, 25
Durant and Lexington	Dec.	1, 2
Ethel circuit		8, 9

B. P. MITCHELL, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Prairie, at Lebanon	Nov.	3, 4
Athens	(Thu.)	7
Aberdeen station		10, 11

AMOS KENDALL, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Salem, at Mashulaville	Nov.	3, 4
Walthall, at Lebanon		10, 11
Lagrange		17, 18
Chester, at Chester		24, 25
Crawford, at Artesia	Dec.	1, 2
Tampico, at Mt. Pleasant		8, 9

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Topisaw, at Pleasant Grove	Nov.	3, 4
Hazlehurst		7
Crystal Springs		8
Adams, at Adams		10, 11
McComb City, at McComb City		11
Holmesville, at Water Holes		17, 18
Franklinton, at Franklinton		24, 25

J. M. WEEMS, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Vossburg, at Central	Nov.	3, 4
Paulding		5
Clark		10, 11
Lauderdale	(Wed.)	14
Marion	(Thu.)	15
DeKalb	(Sat)	17
Enosville		18
Leaksville	(Wed.)	21
Meridian circuit		25
Meridian station		26

D. D. NORSWORTHY, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Conehatta, at White Plains	Nov.	2
Neshoba, at Mars Hill		3, 4
Fannin, at New Providence		7
Walnut Grove, at Scotland Chapel		10, 11
Shiloh		15
Marvin		16
Westville		17, 18
Raleigh		22
Brandon		24, 25

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

North Wilkinson	Nov.	3, 4
Centerville		5
Amite, at Woodland		10, 11
East Feliciana, at Olive Branch		17, 18
Bayou Sara, at Concord		24, 25
Jackson		25, 26

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Oak Ridge	Nov.	3, 4
South Vicksburg		9, 10
Vicksburg		10, 11
Oak Grove		17, 18
Knoxville		24, 25

W. L. C. BENNICUTT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Hattiesburg, at Hopewell	Nov.	14
Poplarville, at Purvis		16
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs		18, 19
Scranton, at Biloxi		20
Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis		24, 25

T. S. WEST, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Silver Creek circuit, at Lodi	Nov.	3, 4
Edwards circuit, at Queen's Hill		10, 11
Camden circuit, at Camden		17, 18
Raymond circuit, at Clinton		24, 25
West Jackson, at Forest Hill (11 a.m.)		26
Jackson station, at Jackson (7 p. m.)		26

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Grand Chenier	Nov.	3, 4
Indian Bayou		10, 11
Washington		17, 18
Plaquemine Brulee		24, 25
Abbeville	Dec.	1, 2
Sulphur Mine		8, 9
Lake Charles		15, 16

S. S. KEENER, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Natchitoches, at Robeline	Nov.	2
Hellwood, at Shiloh		3, 4
Mooringsport, at Mt. Zion		8
Caddo, at Friendship		10, 11
Coushatta, at Coushatta		15
East Point, at Hill's Chapel		16
Red River, at Lindsley		17, 18
Shreveport		24, 25
South Bossier		27
Valley circuit		29
North Bossier	Dec.	1, 2
Pleasant Hill, at Pleasant Hill		8, 9
Mansfield		15, 16

J. B. CASSITY, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Waterproof, at Waterproof	Nov.	3, 4
Lake Providence, at Pecan Grove		10, 11
Oak Ridge, at Good Hope		17, 18
Bastrop, at Bastrop		21
Lind Grove, at Bartholomew		24, 25
Richland, at Girard	Dec.	1, 2
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove		8, 9
Delhi and Floyd, at Floyd		15, 16

J. D. HARPER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Gross Tete	Nov.	4
Baton Rouge		11
Donaldsonville and Plaquemine		18
Carrollton and Lower Coast Mission, at Carrollton		25
Crapa Street	Dec.	2
Algiers		9
Louisiana Avenue		16

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Columbia, at Columbia	Nov.	3, 4
Castor, at Ebenezer		10, 11
Montgomery, at Brell's		17, 18
Ada, at Hineah		20
Bayou Boeuff, at Kilo Bayou		24, 25
Sugar Town	Dec.	1, 2
Spring Creek, at Spring Creek		5
Alexandria, at Plueville		8, 9
Evergreen, at Melville		15, 16

B. F. ALEXANDER, P. E.

HOMER DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Minden, at Minden	Nov.	3, 4
Tullp, at Tulip		7
Ringgold, at Andrew Chapel		10, 11
Brushwood, at Gibsland		14
Vernon, at Wesley Chapel		17, 18
Indian Village		24, 25
Sparta and Saline	Dec.	1, 2
Ruston, at Ruston		8, 9
Arcadia, at Arcadia		15, 16

ROBERT RANDLE, P. E.

THE LESSON OF THE FOLDED NAPKIN.—There in that folded napkin lay evidences of the gratitude of Christ. Coarser minds are ready to discard a thing when they have done with it, when they have no more use for it. Not so Christ. He who bade them gather up the fragments that nothing be lost, himself not only unbound the napkin and removed it from his brows, but carefully folded it up and laid it by itself. It had served him, and now he would serve and honor it. Besides, that napkin had been the gift of loving hands and tender hearts—the best linen that Joseph of Arimathea could find, and laid gently and lovingly round the bruised and broken and bleeding brows of the dead Christ—and as such was to him the expression of love and tenderness and service to him when he apparently was past requiting it. And now in the hour of his resurrection and triumph, now when all the trouble of life and the dark passion and agony are over, now when God is about to exalt him and give him a name which is above every name, he forgets not this humble service of faithful friends, the love and devotion of those whom he is not ashamed to call brethen, and gently, thoughtfully, deliberately, significantly, folds up, as a thing most precious, the blood-stained linen that has itself served him and been the expression of that apparently useless, hopeless service, which was all that loving hearts and tender hands could do.—The Quiver.

The clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Prof. Henry Morley has completed his Universal Library by the issue of the sixty-third volume, and the series will be published in chronological order.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

From Rt. Rev. Bishop Ryan, of Philadelphia.

I can testify to the efficacy of J. & C. Maguire's Cundurango, it having been my favorite medicine for several years past. I believe it to be the best Anti-Bilious Cathartic and Corrector of Liver, Blood and Kidney derangements that can be taken, and its general use in families would no doubt avert attacks of sickness.

P. J. RYAN,

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

NEW! NEW! NEW!

MUSIC BOOKS

Song Harmony (60 cts., $6 doz.) L. O. Emerson. For Singing Classes. Full set of melodious exercises and easy songs, with explanations, and excellent collection of sacred and secular music.

Song Manual, Book I. (30 cts.) For Primary Classes.

Song Manual, Book II. (40 cts.) For Medium Classes.

Song Manual, Book III. (50 cts.) For Higher Classes.

A new set of Graded School Song Books, by L. O. Emerson. Teachers will find them useful and attractive.

Bells of Victory, (35 cts.) Tenney and Hoffman. An unusually good Temperance Song Book, 104 first class songs and choruses. Send for specimen copy.

Praise in Song, (cloth 50 cts., $4 80 doz.; boards, 35 cts., $3 60 doz.) L. O. & E. U. Emerson. For Praise and Prayer Meetings and Sunday-Schools. May be safely commended as one of the very best books of this kind.

Classic Baritone and Bass Songs. Songs of rare beauty, 33 songs by 27 different composers, all well known and eminent. This belongs among the Classical books, of which the others are: Song Classics, Song Classics for Low Voices, Classic Tenor Songs, Piano Classics, Classical Pianist; each $1 00.

ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York.

Just What I Want!

One Sugar-coated Pill, such as the natives of India call a Hump Pill, because it not only

Cools the Blood,
Controls Perspiration,
Sharpens the Appetite,
Promotes Digestion, Regulates the Bowels, and cleanses the Kidneys

But produces sound and refreshing slumbers, preventing headache and giving a good flow of spirits to the otherwise languid dyspeptic.

These pills are an East India herb flower, a vegetable compound; 75 pills in a box—each pill a dose. Price, $1.75. Ask your druggist for it. H. James' Purifying and Regulating Pills.

CRADDOCK & CO., Proprietors, 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia.

W. C. SHEPARD,

49 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets

BEAUTIFUL

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds.
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store. Cheap as the Cheapest

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

$75 to $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. H. F. JOHNSON & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

MASON & HAMLIN

The cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin organs have always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.

Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of unequalled excellence of their organs, the fact that at all of the Great World's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. One hundred styles, from $22 to $900 or more. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin do not hesitate to make the extraordinary claim for their pianos, that they are superior to all others. They recognize the highest excellence achieved by other leading makers in the art of piano building, but claim superiority. This they attribute solely to the remarkable improvement introduced by them in the year 1882, and now known as the "Mason & Hamlin Piano Strings," by the use of which is secured the greatest possible purity and refinement of tone together with greatly increased capacity for standing in tune, and other important advantages.

A circular, containing testimonials from three hundred purchasers, musicians, and famous people together with descriptive catalogue, to any applicant. Pianos and organs sold for cash or easy payments also rented.

ORGANS $22 TO $1000.

PIANOS GRAND & UPRIGHT

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO. BOSTON. NEW YORK. CHICAGO.

GIRLS' TRICYCLES,

R. P. Randall,

54 & 56 Baronne.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 45. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1684.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

J. C. GRANT, Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, $2 PER ANNUM.

Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.

REV. S. S. KEENER.

REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. JAMES A. GODBEY.

REV. W. L. C. HINNICUTT, D. D.

REV. T. L. MELLEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.

REV. A. D. CAMERON, D. D.

REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

THE SERVICE OF GRIEF.

BY CHRISTINA G. ROSSETTI.

Christ's heart was wrung for me, if mine is sore;
And if my feet are weary, his have bled:
He had no place wherein to lay his head:
If I am burdened, he was burdened more.
The cup I drink, he drank of long before;
He felt the sundered anguish which I dread:
He hungered, who the hungry thousands fed,
And thirsted, who the world's refreshment bore.
If grief be such a looking-glass as shows
Christ's face and man's in some sort made alike,
Then grief is pleasure with a subtle taste;
Wherefore should any fret, or faint, or haste?
Grief is not grievous to a soul that knows
Christ comes, and listens for that hour to strike.

The Children of the Church.

BY R. ABBEY, D. D.

I threatened to say something more on this subject. The unpopularity of it don't disturb me seriously. I suggested two or three little improvements in our book of discipline looking to the practical church membership of the children of the church. The very fact of his knowing that a child is personally associated with others in the fellowship of Christianity, can but operate as a powerful stimulant to good conduct and a restraint against the thousands of temptations to which children are subject almost every day. Can anyone imagine any benefit of this sort to grown people that will not apply equally to children?

The difficulty about infantile or juvenile membership in the church arises mainly, it may be presumed, from their supposed incapacity to be religious. So this question must be inquired into. The popular theory, as well as the uniform practice, is, that children are not eligible to Christianity until about the tenth or twentieth year.

The Methodists and Catholics, I presume, are the only churches that recognize child membership as such. While the other churches do not exclude children in terms for lack of years, they do exclude them for lack of literary and theological qualification. They must stand an approved examination before a theological committee. The Baptists examine candidates on ecclesiastical science as touching baptism, Lord's Supper, etc., and Presbyterians on Calvinistic decrees, etc. While Presbyterians and some others baptize their infant children, they do not make any practical use of it, so far as I know.

We, in these respects, are not consistent with ourselves. We regard baptism a certificate of membership in the church; but, in case of children, we make no uniform practical use of it. So, practically, we are like the rest; we make no drafts upon childhood and youth-life for church supply, except through our Sunday-schools. The practical question underlying all this, then, is: Are children capable of Christianity? That raises the question, What is Christianity? Right here, if not careful, we may misread the Bible. Much of the Bible descriptions of religion refers to cases of persons of long, open sinful life, who turn from their wickedness and seek and find the favor of God. Religion, in the broadest sense, does not refer to such cases. There are many persons, say, those under about five years or so, who, to say nothing of their natural state, are not conscious of having sinned, and could not be made to understand or feel their need of a Savior. Are they capable of religion? I understand that any person who fulfills the divine requirement is religious, give it whatever name you may. That which is required of an adult person is not necessarily required of a child. "Obey your parents," is all that is required of a small child. This is the only moral thing he is capable of. And of this he is fully capable at any age.

And, be it remembered, this rule is not enjoined upon the child, but upon the parent. The child does not even understand the command, or know that there is one; and yet this brief, simple precept embraces and includes every religious doctrine and precept. It is the full curriculum and environment of a child. The sphere of manhood is larger, but not different in moral character.

Does adult manhood need a religious minister in order to a religious life? So does the child in the cradle no less. This cradlehood ministry is amply provided in the mother chiefly. But does she discharge her duty? In answering this question I wish, in my heart, I could be permitted to speak out fully. Nevertheless, I will venture a few words.

And, first, what is the sum of this special motherly ministry? It is simply this, no more, nor no less: Teach your children to obey their parents. This duty is elsewhere stated and alluded to in other forms of expression, but this is its substance. And when the mother is charged with an almost total neglect of this highest and most important of all the duties of motherhood, she adds to her fault by attempting to throw the blame on her innocent child. This can not be allowed. You must bear the blame of your own wrong. Show me a bad child, and I will show you a bad mother, or, at least, a negligent, uninformed and grossly incompetent one. God gave you a good child, and, by your neglect of a plain duty, he became bad. You knew, or might have known, that while your children were born innocent, they had in them such a powerful tendency to badness that unless you taught and instilled into them a habit, duty and spirit of parental obedience, they would soon become bad, very bad; and this most important duty you wholly neglected. And now you make matters worse by casting the blame on the child. This is the true state of the case.

But, perhaps, you object to this, and declare that, whatever may be the case with others, you have done your best to make your children obedient. Then you are one woman in ten thousand, and are a happy mother. Bad or disobedient children furnish the best evidence the nature of the case admits of, of negligent training.

So, now, let us reason this case a little. You say the boy was born bad, and so you throw blame on the Almighty. Then let us see and illustrate. What is the worst, most vicious and intractable animal you know? I suppose you will say the panther, or tiger. Well, your boy was no more vicious than a panther? "O, not one-tenth as bad as a panther." Well, we all know very well that you could take a young panther, at the very first, and put him under rigid discipline so as to keep him perfectly tractable, bidable, and harmless. This has been done a thousand times, and never fails except where the government fails. And if a boy of sixteen can do this with a wildcat or a bear, you could have done it with your boy. Your boy was an animal, bad enough, it is true—that is, prospectively bad, if left to the bent of his vicious nature—but not one-tenth as bad as a Bengal tiger. And if these beasts can be tamed or, rather, kept tame, and made to remain docile and obedient, surely your boy could be. I do not believe your boy was born half as bad as an average dog. And everybody knows that you may take a new-born puppy and so train him that he will never disobey. You may pit his obedience against his appetite, and still he will not disobey in a single instance. A dog may easily be so trained that, though he be hungry, he will carry a loaf of bread home from the bakery and never attempt to eat it.

And you, madam, tell me you could not prevent your boy running into disobedience! It is incredible. You never tried! And, now, if you will hold still a moment and listen to plain truth, I will convince you that you never tried—never half tried, in any reasonable way, to inculcate obedience in your children. You followed the fashion of others around you, not thinking of the principle or the importance of obedience. The child was, at least, two or three years old—entirely ungoverned—and then you did not think of exacting obedience as a religious duty for both yourself and child. You required partial obedience only as a matter of convenience to yourself, only because by disobedience the child would occasionally break a pitcher, or leave the door open, or play with the fire. Prompt obedience as a religious duty did not enter into your nursery administration. And then you begun entirely too late. If you had begun at first, one-twentieth part of the amount of government would have answered a better purpose. One of the greatest difficulties in family government is, that we have ten or twenty times as much of it as is needful. Begun right at the first, and pursued firmly, lovingly and regularly, children need very little government.

But here is a mother of ten children, who says: "I'll be bound that that old man never had any children. He's a theorizer. Let him know as much about children as I do!" And I'll be bound you know nothing about children. You have neither the means nor the capacity for studying the subject. And here is another who really has some capacity, but very little opportunity to learn. She says: "I greatly appreciate the importance and the gravity of the subject. I have prayed over it, and tried and wondered at my lack of success, and deplore it." With such a woman there is hope.

Now, my dear woman, stop and think a moment. What is the difference between your baby and a young dog? They are both animals, and, as such, they are much alike. The baby is a rational, thinking, religious animal, with a soul to be saved or lost. You are his divinely appointed priest—not merely his pastor—charged with a specific duty, viz: to see to it that he obeys his parents. Is that all? That is all, substantially and comprehensively. Do that, and the rest will get done. And, now, the great question is, how to do that. Your husband or son or neighbor keeps a few dogs for the chase, and they are everyone under strict discipline. They were trained from early puppyhood to obey quick, prompt, with no hesitation. Disobedience is never thought of. The habit is settled. At daybreak they are all sound asleep. At the first toot of the horn everyone springs to his feet and reports for duty instanter. They may be in full chase, eager for the victim; but, at the sound of the horn, everyone stops instanter and returns. Now, ask these men how they taught their dogs to obey so promptly. You must teach your young animals exactly that way; there is no other. But did they not have to whip and beat them very much? No, no. The whip was not necessary except in case of neglect of discipline. And then, again, you have greatly the advantage of dog-discipline. Your animals have—developed after awhile—slight openings of reason, perception and diviner guidance, and very soon the help of language. You would scarcely admit—as many mothers do virtually—that your children have less capacity or aptitude to learn than dumb brutes. And then, too, you have the incalculable advantage of intercessory prayer in their behalf. O, you have many advantages over dumb animal discipline!

Another mother thinks all this may do for most children: but some are so very bad! Nothing but ignorance will relieve you from the charge of slander thus ten thousand times repeated! There are no such children. Of course there is as much diversity of character and temperament in children as is found elsewhere in nature: but you never bore a child more vicious or with more innate depravity than an average wildcat. And if a young wildcat can be easily and certainly educated to a habit of quiet, docile, cheerful obedience, then your worst children can be so tutored with even far less labor. But there is a way to do it, and a way to fail.

Now, the divinely accepted state of a child is obedience to parents—that, and that only. Theologians may make any verbal or technical criticisms they may, but they can not get away from this great sheet-anchor—that the young child that obeys his parents is accepted, and in a right relation to God. Secondly, that this relation is not only practicable, but easily established by any mother with reasonable co-operation of the father. Thirdly, that almost all women, following the custom of the times, are grossly ignorant of this duty, and the ease with which it may be performed. Fourthly, all the pastors—possibly there may be an exception here and there—are greatly derelict in duty just here. Fifthly, children thus brought up will generally—yea, uniformly—stay in the church and make far better members than those brought in late in life. Then it follows: That if, twenty-five years ago, one-half the women of our church had firmly followed the Bible rule of child government up to this time, our church would be four or five times as large as it now is! I respectfully and prayerfully ask my brethren to consider these things.

And yet we depend entirely, or nearly so, for church supply on our adult people!

Wanted: A Preacher.

BY J. B. K.

In an article in the September Harper, Mr. Charles Dudley Warner proposes a suggestive "text." Coming from him, a writer of fiction, a man of the world, and, hence, not affected, presumably, by any of that narrowness and bigotry as to the moral tendencies of things which is often charged upon the church, this "text" has peculiar significance. What he has to say, in general, concerning the moral quality of the recitation, or "rendition," as it is more popularly called, commends itself to the attention of those who control our institutions of learning, especially such as are devoted to the education of females. Indeed, the rise and progress of the "rendition" would be an interesting subject to the student of social development in the South during the past twenty years. Formerly those who were tuneful would "sing a song" upon occasion, or "play a tune," perhaps, if skilled in the use of musical instruments. Now it is considered better form in certain quarters to "render" a "selection," whether the exercise be vocal or instrumental. In the younger days of the writer, who is not yet an old man, boys "spoke a speech" also, and girls, on rare occasions, recited verses, which, if they failed somewhat in dramatic effect, had yet the negative merit of purity in sentiment and wholesome moral teaching. But the time came, quite a decade ago, when Walter Scott and the respectable Mrs. Sigourney no longer furnished passages for our social or school entertainments. It is safe to admit that the heroes of these once popular authors were a trifle too heroic; that there was a rather tiresome sameness in the romantic situations, and that their lovers wooed and their maidens accepted or refused in a style that lacked the "snap" of the more modern writers of poetry or fiction: but there was, at least, no suggestion anywhere of disrespect for the old-fashioned morality of our fathers, and these tame lovers, once married, had the comfortable habit of staying mostly at home and "living happily ever after." But, since the advent of the hysteric school of elocution, popular favor inclines more and more toward that style of recitation which is better adapted to stage effect. The consequence is, that almost before we are aware of it a taste will be cultivated in our young people for a literature already too common, whose wit expresses itself in slang or equivoque, whose charity is employed chiefly in leveling moral distinctions, and whose eloquence is not unfrequently directed against those sacred obligations which have been the safeguard of social and domestic life for ages.

While, therefore, our Methodist pulpit and press are faithfully warning the people against the evils of theatre-going, are we not in danger of the same evils from this disposition to dramatic display at our female college and other school entertainments? But, let Mr. Warner speak for himself:

"If one . . . might make a suggestion, it would be that what the frank, impulsive Southern girl, with her inborn talent for being agreeable, and her vivid apprehension of life, needs least of all is the cultivation of the emotional, the rhetorical, the sentimental side. However cleverly they are done, the recitation of poems of sentiment, passion, love-making and marriage, above all, of those doubtful dialect verses in which a touch of pseudo-feeling is supposed to excuse the slang of the street and the vulgarity of the farm, is not an exercise elevating to the taste. I happen to speak of it here, but I confess that it is only a text, from which a little sermon might be preached about 'recitations' and declamations generally, in these days of overdone dialect and innuendoes, about the hypocrisy of old-fashioned morality."

The "text" is a good one. Who will preach the "sermon"?

Books for Winter Reading.

This is the busy season of the year. Crops are to be gathered, and wood and coal laid in for the winter. While we are doing this, let us not forget to lay in a supply of good books for the long winter evenings. If you have not already mapped out a course of reading, allow me to call your attention to the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Course. The following are the studies for 1888 89:

An Outline History of Greece—J. H. Vincent, D. D., LL.D., and J. R. Joy: Preparatory Greek Course in English—W. C. Wilkinson, D. D.; College Greek Course in English—W. C. Wilkinson, D. D.: Popular Zoology—J. Dorman Steele: Chemistry—J. H. Appleton, A. M., of Brown University: The Character of Jesus—Horace Bushnell: The Modern Church in Europe—J. F. Hurst, D. D., LL.D.

Readings in The Chautauquan. A series of papers on the following subjects:

1. The Position of Greece in the History of Civilization. 2. Greek Biography. 3. Modern Greece. 4. Greek Art. 5. Greek Archæology. 6. Physical Training Among the Greeks. 7. Position of Women Among the Greeks. 8. Zoology. 9. The Circle of the Sciences. 10. Social and Economic Effects of Inventions. 11. Questions of the Times. 12. Great Philanthropists. 13. Sunday Readings.

The Chautauquan is a monthly magazine published by Dr. T. L. Flood, Meadville, Pa. The cost of the books, magazine and membership fee for this year, is $7 50. Over one hundred thousand persons are reading this course. I commend it to every reader of this paper. Order the books and begin reading at once. Get some friends to join you and form a circle. Circles have been formed all over the country, and the people are delighted. There is inspiration in the fact that thousands are reading the same books and thinking upon the same subjects. Join this grand army of readers. For circulars and membership blanks address me at Murfreesboro, Tenn.

J. H. WARREN,
Sec. for Southern States.

Rev. Geo. F. Thompson.

Yesterday (Sunday, October 28) I was called upon to perform the last sad offices for our dear brother, G. F. Thompson, who died suddenly at Ocean Springs, Saturday, at ten o'clock A. M. About half-past eight that morning he was completing his preparations to start to his appointment at Zion Church, near this place, though he had been quite sick the night previous. His disease was probably angina pectoris, or some other form of heart trouble. That morning, while walking around, apparently well, he was seized with violent pain across his chest and arms, accompanied by a death-like paleness. Before he could reach his bed he was helpless, with intense suffering. When medical aid reached him it was too late to avail. His spirit passed away, calling upon his "precious Savior." His remains were brought here by the sorrow-stricken widow, his youngest daughter, and grandchildren. The service in our church, at three P. M., Sunday, was doubly solemn, because he had so often ministered to this people. The large concourse, hearing beautiful floral tributes, and listening with tearful eyes, witnessed how much he was beloved. We left what was mortal of our brother by the side of the sleeping dust of the little son he loved so well (Hugh), who died during his pastorate here. We shall meet again on the "shores of eternal deliverance."

J. P. DRAKE.

Moss Point, Mississippi.

Current Coins.

(Wesleyan Christian Advocate.)

The truth is, that while the American people, and especially the American churches, have done a vast deal in the matter of education, nobody that has a good basis of knowledge of facts for his thoughts, and that does really think upon the subject, is at all satisfied with the educational status of the country: nor is he content to let things remain as they are. Confusion reigns supreme as to whether the Bible or religion should be taught in school and university: indeed, confusion covers the whole question of what should be taught in school. The sex question has not been settled. The social and race questions are like so many dynamite bombs. Shall we have large foundations with thousands of pupils in each, or more and smaller ones with only hundreds of scholars? How shall endowments be obtained? How can we best educate the poor without impairing their manhood? These and many other questions like these agitate the minds of thoughtful men. This awakening is to us one of the most hopeful signs of the times, and, although it has not yet reached the masses of the people, it is spreading in that direction. Like religious revivals, however, it will reach no further than the workers push it. Human nature is like a gum log: it will hold neither religion nor intelligence, except the fire that kindles it be fed and fanned.

(Interior.)

The political workers have a style of campaign which they call a still hunt. That means no big meetings, no brass bands, no torch-light processions, no noise: but a quiet, eager, persistent, thorough, house to house and man to man canvass. They find out the exact voting strength of each precinct, by personal visitation of homes and lodging-houses, and then they learn exactly where each voter stands politically. If any voter is not hopelessly rooted to the spot he happens to occupy, the workers labor with him to induce him to change his ground, to come over, to their side, if possible. This sort of a campaign is always found to be effective. Why not give it a trial in the church's contest against the world, wherein we hope to bring souls open to conviction over to the Lord's side?

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1888.

A COMMUNION HYMN.

BY C. F. L.

At thy command, O Christ of Calvary
We bids, we people, be remember me"—
Behold us gathered at the festive board.
No royal dainties—did we such afford.

In memory of thy sacrificed Name,
We take the broken bread and flowing wine;
And as these mingle with our vital frame,
Henceforth becoming portions of the same—

So may our souls be faith receiving there,
Increased therefrom in heavenly grace be;
And thy good spirit so our hearts indwell,
That God-like Christ-like we become as well.

Thus, while our favored souls on thee are fed,
And sweetly nourished as with heavenly bread;
Drinking of thee, the ever-living Vine,
More radiant may our Christian virtues shine.

Oft would we come together at thy word,
To hold communion with our risen Lord,
And with each other as the brethren here,
Till in the "Father's House" we all appear.

—London Baptist.

(Vincent and Holway's Lesson Commentary. Phillips & Hunt, New York.

Sunday-School Lesson.—Nov. 18.

HELPING ONE ANOTHER.

Joshua xxi, 43-45; xxii. 1-9.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.—Gal. vi. 2.

TIME.—B. C. 1444.

PLACE.—Shiloh, south of Shechem, in the territory of Ephraim. Says Tristram: "It was a central point for all Israel, equidistant from north and south, easily accessible to the trans-Jordanic tribes, and in true keeping with that hill-country which Joshua's first subjugation, and which remained, to the end of Israel's history, the district least exposed to the attacks of Canaanitish or foreign invaders."

43. The Lord gave ... all the land which he sware ... unto their fathers—He gave them the right to all, and the actual possession of the greatest part of it, and power to possess the rest as soon as it was needful and convenient for them, which was by degrees, when their numbers were increased, etc., and the absolute dominion of all the people remaining in it. Possessed it, and dwelt therein—The foregoing history is here wound up by a suitable acknowledgment of the faithfulness of God in the performance of all his promises. The Canaanites, it is true, were yet in possession of some parts of the country, but they were so far subdued that they gave them no serious molestation, and they were enabled to sit down in their possessions in the enjoyment of comparative ease, rest and quiet. They had as much of the land in actual possession as they could occupy.

44. The Lord gave them rest round about—Compare Exodus xxxiii. 14: "And he said, My presence shall go with thee, and I will give thee rest." Deuteronomy iii. 20: "Until the Lord have given rest unto your brethren." Deuteronomy xxiv. 19: "When the Lord thy God hath given thee rest from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance." There stood not a man ... before them—This was true as far as the present history is concerned. We read the Ephraimites did not, or "could not," drive out their enemies; and that the other tribes also failed to obtain complete possession of the land. It was from no neglect on Joshua's part that this was not done at once, for it had been God's own command that it should not be done, lest the country should become a desert. Lord delivered all their enemies into their hand—Though Israel after the death of Joshua became slothful in the work, and never obtained complete possession of the land, never, for example, conquered Tyre and Sidon, still this was no breach of the divine promise, for its complete fulfillment depended upon Israel's fidelity.

45. Failed not aught of any good thing which the Lord had spoken—Or, aught of all the good word—the sum of the reiterated assurance which God had made to the nation. Of these, the possession of the land of Canaan was regarded as the essence and central point, because this possession was to be for Israel the foundation of all further blessings, the pledge of the continued fulfillment of the rest of the promises of God. In due season all the promises of God will be accomplished to his true people; and their believing hope, and patient waiting, and self-denying obedience will terminate in joyful songs of triumph, and thankful celebrations of his faithfulness, love and power.

1, 2. Then Joshua called—This took place not immediately after the close of the war, but after the completion of the division of the land and the appointment of the Levitical cities, in which the transjordanic tribes had as much interest as the other tribes. Reubenites ... Gadites ... half tribe of Manasseh—These two tribes and a half had always their quota of men, originally amounting to forty thousand, in readiness at their respective posts for any service to which they might be called, and after so long a delay we can easily imagine how ardently they must have longed for the period of their release, when they could return to their peaceful homes to be met with a joyful welcome by their wives and children. But, like faithful soldiers, they await the full close of the war, and an honorable discharge. So, though our home in heaven be ever so attractive, we are required to remain contentedly on earth till our warfare be accomplished; and, instead of anticipating our removal, to wait for a due discharge at the hands of our divine Leader. Kept all ... commanded you—They had kept their obligations to Moses, to Joshua and to Jehovah.

3. Have not left your brethren these many days—The detachment of the two tribes and a half had been absent from home seven years at least, except as any of them had visited their families, or been exchanged for others of their brethren. It is a remarkable and almost inexplicable fact that, while the sojourn in the wilderness is represented as one long catalogue of murmurings, not one single complaint (unless we may call the gentle expostulation of the tribe of Joseph, in chapter xvii, a complaint) disturbs the peace of the tribes while Joshua led them. It is the times of adversity that try men's faith and patience. As long as the Israelitish Church was subduing kingdoms, winning splendid victories, experiencing the encouragement derivable from God's sensible presence and intervention, there was no discontent, discouragment or wavering. But the trials of the long wandering, as well as those incident to the quiet, unostentatious discharge of duty, were fatal to their faith and patience. Get you into your tents—The word "tents" here, as often elsewhere, is used for houses, or homes. Its use probably arose from Israel's dwelling so long in tents. It is probable, however, that they still retained somewhat of the nomad habits of their ancestors, and that tents were by no means uncommon among them.

5. Take diligent heed, etc.—The expressions, as Keil well remarks, are "crowded together, so that obedience to God's commands may be the more deeply impressed on their hearts." Love the Lord your God—They were to give the most diligent heed to themselves to see that the love of God, as the great ruling principle of action, was deeply seated in their hearts. This must be evinced by the universality of their obedience, extending to every divine precept, and still further illustrated by the constancy, humility, resolution, and affection which were to characterize their walk. Keep his commandments—The redundancy of the language is remarkable, and shows how important, in the judgment of the venerable leader, a steadfast observance of the divine law was to personal happiness, as well as national prosperity. Cleave unto him—The Hebrew is stronger, cleave unto him, as though regarding not so much isolated actions as principles of life. Our life was to be "rooted and grounded," to use an apostolic phrase, in his. Serve him with all your heart ... soul—The words "heart" and "soul" indicate the affectional and emotional nature, and are used to intensify the exhortation to sincere and heartfelt obedience unto Jehovah.

6. So Joshua blessed them—That is, he expressed his affectionate goodwill to them by earnest prayers, and by pronouncing a blessing on them, which was done by princes and others on some occasions, and not by the priests alone, though by them most solemnly. Went unto their tents—It would seem that, during the whole of these "many days," the conquered cities had remained tenantless, waiting for the return of the warriors from their long expedition. "Those that were the first in the assignment of the land were last in the enjoyment of it, so 'the last shall be first and the first last,' that there may be something of equality." They undoubtedly returned with all convenient expedition. It had been a long absence, and the meeting was, no doubt, proportionally happy.

7. To the one-half of the tribe of Manasseh Moses had given ... Bashan—The writer, for the sake of clearness, refers again to the fact that only half of Manasseh had received its inheritance from Moses in Bashan, whereas the other had received its inheritance through Joshua on the west of Jordan. To us such repetitions appear superfluous; but they are closely connected with the copious breadth of the early historical style of the Hebrews, which abounded in repetitions. When Joshua sent them away ... he blessed them—This interpolation involved a further repetition of the fact that Joshua also dismissed them (the Manassites of the other side) with a blessing, in order that the words might be appended with which Joshua dismissed the two tribes and a half to their homes, namely, the admonition to share the rich booty which they had accumulated with their brethren at home, in accordance with the instructions which Moses had given them with reference to the war with the Midianites.

8, 9. Return with much riches—Since the Canaanites were quite advanced in arts, manufactures, and agriculture, it is natural that they should have a large amount of the precious metals and costly articles embodying wealth. Divide the spoil of your enmies with your brethren—Your brethren that have remained on the other side of Jordan, protecting your families, flocks, and goods. On a previous occasion Moses commanded that those who did service at home should share equally with those who had periled their lives in battle, for the obvious reason that guarding the household and raising supplies for the army are just as necessary and as patriotic as hurling javelins and storming hostile cities. Departed ... out of Shiloh—When the land had been divided. Few places in respect to situation are described so accurately as Shiloh. In Judges xxi. 19, it is said to have been situated "on the north side of Beth-el, on the east side of the highway that goeth up from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah." It was one of the earliest and most sacred of the Hebrew sanctuaries. Gilead—Here used in the widest sense for the whole transjordanic district.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

There is no waste in God's promises. A glorious fulfillment awaits them all.

Happy those who, looking back over life's pathway and seeing how they have been led through difficulties and dangers and seemingly impassable barriers, can "set to their seal that God is true."

They who "war a good warfare" shall receive an honorable discharge and a welcome to heavenly rest from the Captain of our salvation.

Letter from California.

MR. EDITOR: We were once a reader and subscriber of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE during our residence in Mississippi, but since our removal to the Pacific coast we have seen but few copies of that paper. We do not remember seeing many communications from California to your paper relative to our church work in this cosmopolitan section of the Union; consequently we thought you would allow space in your paper for a brief letter from the Far West.

"We are here to stay!" has become a maxim and watchword along the entire coast, and no sooner do our Bishops cross the Rockies, than they catch its sound and meaning and join in the expression. One of the first utterances of Bishop Galloway in the Columbia Conference was, "We are here to stay!"

Thirty-eight years of experience in the extreme West has proved the fact, that the hand which planted our church here was divine. No more sure was the hand of Providence manifested in directing the steps of Joseph into Egypt, and the raising up of Moses to lead the people of Israel out of the same, than it was in establishing Southern Methodism on the Pacific coast. God has a work here for us to do and, thanks be to his name, he is helping us to do it. We are stronger to-day than at any period in our past history. We are stronger in numbers, in material prosperity, in influence, etc. We are felt and respected. One very gratifying feature in our church work here is that young men, "native sons," are coming into the ministry from colleges and other sources. Our outlook for the future is very flattering and in every way encouraging.

To enter into a statistical report of our work on the coast would enlarge our letter too much, so we confine ourselves to a few general statements.

The prompting cause, however, which actuated us in writing at this time, is to give your readers a short account of our last Annual Conference session, which closed in Woodland, September 30, and of the visit of Bishop Galloway to our State. The old veterans who have answered to roll-call for over thirty years said during the session and at its close that it was by far the most pleasant and agreeable Annual Conference they ever attended. A quick dispatch of business, a clear and well-ordered programme of all details characterized the whole session from beginning to end. A deep spirituality pervaded both members and visitors of the Conference, and on one or two occasions the original Methodist fire caught hold of the people, and shouts of hallelujahs were heard all over the Conference-room.

The visit of Bishop Galloway to our coast has been attended with the most satisfactory results, inspiring enthusiasm and infusing new life into our ranks. Some curiosity had been awakened in our Conference after his appointment to this district to see and hear the young Bishop. Loyal, indeed, to the dictum of the General Conference, our Conference withheld its endorsement until a practical knowledge was had of him. The Pacific Conference says, "Amen!" to his election, and believes him to be sent of God. He fairly captured our people, not merely as a pulpit orator, but as an efficient officer in the church, and a Christian gentleman in all the departments of life in which God has called him to work. In social life he has no superior, combining dignity with affability, rendering his demeanor agreeable to all. In the Conference-room he presides with grace and ease, but firm and self-possessed. His magnetic power and control of men is such that he needs no gavel to command order. His talks on various subjects were wonderful, producing conviction in many ways. When the subject of education and college endowments was discussed, he did not speak on the question more than twenty minutes; but before he sat down he raised $15,000 endowment on the Pacific Methodist College, in Santa Rosa. He is a grand preacher. Wherever he preached, the people were edified and delighted. But the most prominent feature in his character is his deep piety and consecration to God. He was the guest of the writer nearly two days when first arriving in the State from the Columbia Conference. He preached for my people to their satisfaction and delight. I have known him for nearly twenty years—knew him when he commenced preaching; and during his visit to Anderson many incidents of past days were referred to. May God bless him and long preserve his life for good to the church!

J. S. HUTTON.

ANDERSON, California.

There is more power to sanctify, elevate, strengthen, and cheer in the word Jesus—Jehovah, Savior—than in all the utterances of man since the world began.—Charles Hodge.

From the Work.

THE FOURTH QUARTER—HARVEST-HOME.

MR. EDITOR: It is the time of ingathering in North Mississippi with both the farmer and the preacher. The time for plowing and planting is past, and the farmers hereabouts are busy gathering the fruits of their toil. An abundant corn crop will be housed, and the cotton fields are white with the promise of more than an average yield. The fleecy staple, jute or no jute, is coming in, packed and ready for the market.

A glance over the fields of our spiritual husbandry at such a season is interesting. Protracted meetings are mostly over, and the work of the Conference year is well-nigh done. The preachers are busy closing their labors, and getting ready for Conference. One brother gave as a reason for not helping me in a meeting, the following: "I am so pressed with my own work that I have to say my prayers in a trot." Postal card reports and longer accounts from these tillers of "Immanuel's ground" are full of good cheer and gladness.

As a sample of many, I read, in the last ADVOCATE, the report of Rev. H. D. Howell, formerly of North Mississippi, now of Scotland circuit, Mississippi Conference. Over one hundred conversions and additions; revivals of the old-time Methodist type, with rejoicings and shoutings; living in a new parsonage, costing over fourteen hundred dollars; collections well in hand, and this as he is nearing the close of a forty years' ministry. God bless Bro. Howell! And may his bow, as now, long "abide in strength." Take another; the report of Bro. B. F. Phillips, of Columbus circuit, read at his fourth Quarterly Conference: "An upward movement all along the line; traveled during the quarter, in actual pastoral work, 725 miles; visited 235 members, and prayed with nearly all of them in their homes; preached 51 times; received 51 members; baptized 26 adults and 10 infants." Bro. Phillips is still "weeding a wide row" and keeping up a good record. Our Conference organs abound with such notes of gladness during this season of ingathering. They have the ring of the former-day Methodism, and sing "harvest-home."

Sardis district is alive and working. Its preachers are earnest and hopeful, winding up the labors of the year. Bro. S. M. Thames has the district well in hand. He is a strong preacher, laborious and efficient as a presiding elder, looking closely after the interests of the church and the welfare of his preachers. Our financial report promises better, perhaps, than the excellent report of last year. Bro. E. H. Cacy reckons on doubling the amount of his assessments for collections ordered by the Conference. The assessments for Sardis were all provided for, before the spring flowers had shed their bloom, in one of the happiest collections ever "lifted" by this preacher. Brethren, take up your collections on some bright, pleasant Sunday, before the vernal suns have run their course.

At Sardis we had with us for one week the sweet singer, Rev. J. W. Beville. The preaching by our neighboring pastors, Bros. Moon, Cacy and Bell, was strong and good to the use of edifying. Believers were quickened and made glad in the Lord. We had a profitable meeting also at Davis Chapel, where valuable aid was rendered by Bros. Bachman, Massey and Terry. We observed the week of prayer and self-denial, and also Children's Day, with good results.

Along the line of woman's work there has been glad life and sensible progress. Our devoted band of missionary women began work early, observing their week of prayer and self-denial just before Christmas. Then followed a missionary entertainment in the spring, with song and recitation and a spice of "Gilderoy," all in the programme. Bro. Thames said more of the missionary spirit was infused into our people by this entertainment than he or myself could have done in six months' preaching. Then followed later "The Missionary Ship," an entertainment, inspiring and successful, impressing favorably unwonted elements in our community. The regular meetings of the society have been observed with increasing interest, while an occasional "missionary tea" has imparted an enjoyable zest to the work. Besides, a woman's union prayer meeting, kept up chiefly by Methodist ladies for more than two years, has been a source of spiritual influence to our community, and of strength to the preacher. They pray for the pastor. Let the brother who follows help these good sisters who have labored with us in the Lord."

Soon will close the Conference year, bringing me to the pastoral limit in this charge. At such a time a preacher looks back through four years along a checkered way. There are hallowed memories, some difficult places, and many shortcomings; but there are bright places and much to call forth gratitude. Kindnesses received, happy seasons seen, cordial help from earnest workers, strong ties of friendship and Christian fellowship formed, never to be broken. Leaving, now, he would look only upon the bright spots, and, thanking God, turn his face hopefully to the future.

T. C. WIER.

SARDIS, Mississippi.

EAST FELICIANA, LA.

MR. EDITOR: We are nearing the close of another Conference year. The winding up of the pastor's work, the getting ready reports for our annual convocation, engage our hands, head and heart. I have passed a very pleasant and a very profitable year on this work. The Lord has blessed us all around the circuit. The church has been revived, and has taken higher latitude in Christ-like living, sinners have been awakened, backsliders reclaimed, and about 150 souls converted, 78 have been added to the church, 28 children baptized, 35 new family altars erected. To God be all the praise! This is indeed a very pleasant charge. A better, kinder-hearted and more hospitable people never lived than these.

Allow me just here to return thanks to brethren for assistance rendered: Revs. G. D. Amlers, R. W. Tucker, J. W. Ellison, P. S. Petty; last, but not least, L. S. Jones, of Clinton. Bro. Jones has lived in Clinton for four years. The first year he served a part of this circuit in connection with the church at Clinton. He has gone in and out before this people for nearly four years: to visit the sick, bury the dead, and preach the gospel of Christ. All of my people, both young and old, know Bro. L. S. Jones. He is one of whom it may be truly said: "To know him more, is to love him more."

Many thanks to all of these brethren. May the Lord's richest blessings rest on this dear people. N. J. ROBERTS, P. C.

ROCKY SPRINGS CIRCUIT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: Last December I was assigned to this charge (by Bishop Keener), one among the oldest circuits in the Mississippi Conference, the boundaries of which are in the Vicksburg district. In this field there are some appointments, reaching from the eastern boundary of the country to Grand Gulf, on the bank of the Mississippi river. My labors during the year have been almost commensurate with the entire county of Claiborne, and, thus far, has been one of the hardest years of my ministerial life, which spans a period of twenty-seven years, without a broken link in the chain for any cause. Unlike many others, I have had no weeks or months of vacation during these years of toil for the Master. Although the year has been one of toil and anxiety, it has not passed thus far without gracious results. At Hermanville, on the Natchez, Jackson and Columbus railroad, we held a protracted meeting, beginning on Saturday before the fourth Sabbath in August, and it was continued for twelve consecutive days. The results of this meeting, under the circumstances, surpassed our most sanguine expectations. Through rain, wind and mud the people came to the sanctuary, and our congregations increased nightly, until the last benediction was pronounced. During the progress of this meeting there were 29 accessions, a number of bright conversions, five children baptized, and the church quickened and made alive to all her duties and interests. I am deeply indebted to Bro. E. H. Mounger, of Port Gibson, who came in the spirit of the Master, and preached for us four days in succession with an unction and power characteristic of E. H. Mounger. Bro. C. T. French, one of the old veterans of the Mississippi Conference, now a local elder in our charge, assisted us from the beginning to the final amen of the meeting, and rendered valuable aid, both in the pulpit and at the altar. Bro. Fernando Guice preached us one sermon during the meeting, for which we tender thanks. Our Baptist brethren also came to the front and aided us much in singing and prayer. It was a feast of good things for all Christian souls.

At Rocky Springs I was assisted by Bro. W. P. Jones, of South Warren, who was admitted into the Conference last winter. Bro. Jones gave us faithful and acceptable service, and is earnest and energetic in his labors. At this meeting, embracing the third Sabbath in September, we had nine accessions to the church, and the membership revived and strengthened. During the year we have had, in all, about forty accessions to the church.

Our last quarterly meeting was held on September 29 and 30. In consequence of the yellow fever scare, Dr. Hunnicutt, our beloved elder, did not reach us, and we held the Quarterly Conference, feeling keenly the absence of his godly counsels, logical sermons and superior administrative ability as a presiding elder. The Mississippi Conference has lost one of its best administrative officers, and Centenary College has lost nothing by his appointment to the presidency of that institution of learning. Success to our good old Advocate!

W. W. HURST.

PALMER CREEK CAMP MEETING.

MR. EDITOR: The Palmer Creek Camp Meeting began, according to appointment, Saturday night, October 6, and continued until the following Friday morning. The services were opened by a sermon on the subject of prayer, delivered by W. W. Hopper, to a very large and attentive congregation. On Sunday the congregation was said to be as large as ever attended this place; and the weather being pleasant, singing sweet and preaching good, there were quite a number that stand until the meeting closed. There were thirteen ministers present during the meeting, as follows: Dr. J. B. Walker, of New Orleans; Dr. T. S. West, P. E. Seashore district; Rev. W. W. Hopper, of Texas; Revs. W. G. Evans, Alexander Scarborough, Michael Cox, A. P. Cox, J. L. Jordan, J. J. Lovett, Jeff. Havens, Albert Scarborough, Elbert T. Breland, and this writer.

The result of the meeting was glorious. There were fifteen that united with the church, forty that professed conversion, some claimed to be sanctified believers, greatly blessed and strengthened for the warfare, and almost every sinner impressed with the fact that religion is a reality and that God hath power on earth to forgive sins. Praise the Lord! salvation is rolling on! God bless the good people that support this camp meeting, and may it continue until every one in this community be brought to Christ and saved from sin!

R. A. BRELAND, P. C.

STONEWALL, Mississippi.

COLUMBIA, MISS.

MR. EDITOR: Our protracted meeting, held at this place, October 10-18, and conducted by Bros. Sibley and Tucker, with Bro. G. H. Galloway, was the most wonderful experience in the history of our church here. We rejoiced in a gracious and most powerful manifestation of the Holy Spirit. Our house of worship was crowded to the fullest capacity nearly all the time, and on one day numbers were compelled to turn away from the doors for lack of room. The conversions are reckoned at fifty, and the accessions to our church at twenty. The whole church was revived, and many family altars erected. The meeting, though prolonged beyond expectation, never dragged in interest to the last, and closed with a service of such joy and thanksgiving for the mercies of God, that will linger long in the memories of those who witnessed it. LAYMAN.

DIRECTIONS TO HUSBANDS.—Never find fault with your wife before others; per contra, remember the counsel of the good Book: "Her husband shall praise her in the gates." That is, before folks. Bear all her burdens for her; even then she will bear more than you do, in spite of you. If you want her to submit to your judgment, never ask her to submit to your selfishness. A woman's life is made up of little things. Make her life happy by little courtesies. Love is a wife's only wages. Do not scrimp in your pay.—Free Press.

Rev. J. G. Jones.

A TRIBUTE TO HIS MEMORY BY HIS LIFE-LONG FRIEND, REV. H. M. BOOTH.

The death of this man of God and faithful servant of the church, my friend and coinborer (as he was want to call me) for half a century, has created a desolation of heart in preceding me to the heavenly land, to greet our companions dear who preceded him in reaching the heavenly home. The friend and compatriot of Winans and Drake and Lane and Owens and Campbell and Byrd and a host of others, ministers and laymen, has been greeted with songs of triumph on the eternal shore. What a happy meeting of these blessed spirits in their loud acclaim of, "Hallelujah to the Lamb forever!"

Bro. Jones affords another striking illustration of what Methodism, in its itinerant ministry, can effect in developing Christian and ministerial character, by the power of the Holy Ghost. He was as evidently called of God to the ministry as was any of the grand worthies who have illustrated the history of the church since the reformation by that apostolic man of God, John Wesley, and his compeers of the past century. In the humble walks of life and its ordinary avocations he was arrested by the Holy Spirit, convinced of sin, converted to God, called to the ministry and inaugurated into the life-work of an itinerant minister of sixty-four years' duration, and during that period of continuous and uninterrupted service accomplished, with divine endowment for it, a mighty work in the salvation of souls. This endowment consisted in a lucid intellect, gifted with fine powers of analysis in the investigation of truth, with excellent judgment and common sense in the discrimination and adaptation of the best means to secure the best ends.

He was eminently practical and evangelical in his ministry, richly furnished with an experience, thorough and complete, from its reception in a sound conversion to its consummation in sanctification, after the Wesleyan model. With this evangelic experience, emphasized by the call of God to the ministry, he preached with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven, and was, therefore, noted among his peers in winning souls to Christ. No true minister or pious layman doubted the genuine character of this useful and successful man of God and eminent servant of the church. He impersonated the elements of the Christian life in their highest development of attainment, and wielded a moral power commensurate with the forces thus achieved. He occupied a high place in the estimation of his most eminent associates in ministerial labor. I have frequently heard Dr. Drake speak in the highest terms of his judicious and efficient ministry.

He was a life-long student and living encyclopedia of historical facts, which qualified him eminently to be the historian of Methodism in the Southwest. This history supplies a desideratum in all that vast region invaluable to the church, as stated by Dr. Marshall in his admirable funeral address. The records in this history can be found nowhere else, and should be so estimated by the church as to give it a most extended circulation throughout the Southwestern Conferences—the fruits of the labors of the eminent men who traversed this vast region, and whose characters and labors are photographed therein by his historic pen, eminently qualified by intimate association and extended labors to make the record. Judging from the first volume of the history of thrilling interest and touching pathos, the others should go through the press speedily by the efficient co-operation of the ministers and descendants of those heroic men and women whose lives are so graphically delineated in these volumes. The church will surely not permit the labors and means exhausted by the ascended man of God to perish by failure to perpetuate the record of as consecrated lives as ever adorned the church of God. Rev. J. A. B. Jones, a noble son of a noble sire, has exhausted his resources in giving publication to these volumes—an invaluable legacy to the church. As a writer and preacher, Bro. Jones is too well known to require any additional encomium from this writer, as it has been bestowed by more able and eloquent tongues. Suffice it to say, he stands the peer, before the public mind and heart of the church, of those grand men whose characters and lives and labors he records as the products, with himself, of that grand system of theological training: the itinerancy of Methodism—the greatest theological school on earth—producing more profound and successful ministers of the gospel than all others in combination in the Methodist Church, and will ever do it as long as she is true to her mission in selecting, as the Master, ministers from the unlearned and learned, as it pleased him, and divinely endowing them with the gifts of the Holy Ghost, who alone can clothe them with "power from on high."

I deeply realize my personal loss and grief for my sainted friend, whose love and affectionate correspondence has abounded and continued, through life up to a few days before his death, expressed most lovingly to me and mine. Thank God for his friendship! and blessed be God for his triumphant death! He is now with his sainted wife, who at the midnight hour shouted her readiness to meet the Bridegroom, who, coming suddenly, found her ready. The last triumphant acclaim of our departed friend was, "Glory to God!" "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his." "He now rests from his labors, and his works do follow him." Blessed be God!

In Reply.

MR. EDITOR: I see in the Southern Baptist Record two articles (one, I suppose, from the editor, the other from "C. E. W. D."), both replying to my article published in the ADVOCATE, of August 30. The editor seems to think I made some misstatements with regard to the true reasons why the Baptists outstripped us in accessions last year, unintentionally doubtless, nevertheless grossly misleading. But, at the same time, he expresses no fears as to the result of said statements, and yet goes on in an article, nearly a full column, trying to set aside my statements, or explain them away; and then gives right smart space to another article from "C. E. W. D." for the same purpose.

I wish to say that I did not say or indicate that the Baptists run ahead, as a general thing. He would make it appear in his article that I said or indicated that they were ahead all the time, which I did not do; for, if I had, it would have been a misstatement, indeed, for we find, according to the statistics, that the Methodists have far outstripped all other churches.

The Baptists, you know, claim to have been in existence since the days of Christ or John the Baptist—say nearly eighteen hundred and fifty-eight years; the Methodists only a little under one hundred and fifty years. And, according to their own acknowledgement, we have now 727,844 members more than they have; and, according to J. H. Riggin's statement, taken from the Baptist Year-Book of 1888, we have 1,182,840 more than they have: so, taking their own statement, it is wonderful how we have left them.

Now, the above facts and figures gave rise to my article and my surprise (if it is true, as the Independent stated, that they left us last year); and I at once began to hunt for the reasons, and, I believe, found some of the main ones, which, if corrected, the like will not occur again. But, Mr. Editor, is it not strange (if, as he said, he was not afraid of my false statements) that he would load and fire off two cannon at a sparrow?

As to whether the Spirit has helped us in the past, I am willing for the Lord and thinking men to decide. Go, see how our people live. See if they are not as honest, upright, and religious as the Baptists, and also as intelligent; and then go to the bedside and catch the last whisper of our brethren and sisters as they pass over the river of death, and say, if you can, that there is not a divine reality in the religion which we preach. The man must be slow of comprehension, or destitute of religious integrity, that can stand and see the grand march of Methodism against the empire of darkness, and see her signal victories and grand conquests for the Master, and then hear her veteran soldiers shout the victory as they fall in the battle and cross over to the blest beyond, and then say there is no reality in it.

I believe that Methodism, under God, will march on from conquest to victory until all prejudice, bigotry and superstition will be crushed to atoms, and there will be no big I's and no little you's, but there will be one common brotherhood from sea to sea, and from the rivers to the ends of the earth—not all Methodist, but each acknowledging "others better than themselves." May God speed the day!

The man must look something who can stand up in the blazing light of the nineteenth century, and fold his hands across his breast, and say, We are the only true church, and our baptism is the only baptism that will fit a man for the Lord's Supper, and also for heaven. God pity the man that can thus do. "For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted." (Luke xiv, 11.)

But he further says: "We, doubtless, could get most of them in the church without conversion if we were to try very hard; but we don't want any but genuine converts." "On the other hand, as we understand the Methodist effort in such meetings, it is to get them into the church as a means of conversion, in which they have a great advantage over us, as inquiring penitents are often only too glad to get into some sort of a refuge."

I reply: I do not know how we would open our doors wider than they do down here, or work harder for members, for, as stated before, they tell them that if they believe Jesus Christ is the Son of God, they are converted and ought to join the church. And I heard from a reliable source that one of their pastors said if he had ever been converted, he did not know it: he hoped he had. How could we beat that? I believe every church on earth takes in penitent sinners. The only difference between us and the Baptists is, we take them as such, and they make them say they are converted, or regenerated, or that they hope they are. Hope is not applicable here. Hope looks to future attainments, and not to present reality. "For what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for? But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it." (Romans viii, 24, 25.) So you see hope looks to the future for its reward, and does not refer to present attainments. "For I know that my Redeemer liveth." (Job xix, 25.) "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren." (I John iii, 14.) We ought to use the word "know" in place of "hope" with regard to conversion. Now, which is worse—to make them say they are converted when they are not, or take them in without making them say it?

But as to our chief effort in our meetings being to get them into the church, that is just simply a misrepresentation, as there is no church on earth that stresses the doctrine of the necessity of regeneration by faith more than we do, begging and persuading sinners not to stop short of it; but at the same time, according to the Bible teaching, we open the door to penitents.

Then, as to my suggested contrast, he accuses me of misrepresenting the Baptists as to what they preach, and says they preach salvation "by grace through faith, and that" the faith "not of yourself, it," the faith ever, "is the gift of God;" while the Methodists seem to preach the validity and efficacy of mental and moral exercises as essential means of grace, which are supposed to bring the sinner into a savable condition. In reply, I will say that I did not misrepresent the Baptists. They preached what I said they did, as testified to by many witnesses. And as to faith being the gift of God, I suppose no one will deny that the faculty or power to believe is the gift of God; but if he intends to convey the idea, as it seems he does, that faith in its faculty or power and exercise is the gift of God, then I join issue with him. But I suppose I have mistaken his meaning, for surely no one believes that God exercises this faculty or power for man; for if so, then all will be saved, or God will be a respecter of persons. But the "Methodists seem to teach." Well, it may seem that way to a prejudiced hearer (as he said of me); and yet not be that way. But he said, "Bro. Miller must have been to a Campbellite meeting." Well, maybe so; but they call themselves Missionary Baptists down here. And now, in turn, maybe my brother may have been attending a Campbellite meeting when he heard that "seem-so" doctrine he was writing about.

But, in conclusion, he doubts me hearing Baptist preachers preach that if a person believe that Jesus Christ is the son of God, he was converted: and "C. E. W. D."—queries, in the next column, as to whether I have seen certain passages, which, I suppose, he thinks proves that doctrine. Now, it seems to me that the doctors differ. So I will let them settle that matter.

And now, in conclusion, I wish to say I did not intend to excite controversy when I wrote my article. I only wanted to "stir up the pure minds" of my brethren by way of remembrance; and if we will do our whole duty, we will see that God will bless us with former prosperity.

A. D. MILLER.

CATO, Mississippi.

Bible-Study.

Bible-listening! There is much of it. It is of value; it is better than nothing. It is easy; many enjoy it. We find it in our churches, in our Sunday-schools, in our schools and colleges. Some imagine it to be Bible-study; some even so call it. But the mistake is great. The sad fact is that, in the case of many who so deceive themselves, Bible study is becoming a thing unknown, well-nigh a thing impossible. Bible-listening has become a bane. Who will measure the evil it has done? Who, the evil it is doing?

Bible-reading! There is very considerable of this. It is of more value than Bible-listening. It may not be as easy; it may not be as enjoyable; but it is more profitable. And yet, how profitable is it? Are we not satisfying ourselves with the less? Are we not neglecting larger possibilities? Have we not, in many directions and in many cases, much Bible-reading that is called Bible-study! that is really thought to be such! The evil is not in the reading of the Bible; it is in the fact that we do not call things by their right names.

Bible-study! There is very little. Many who talk about it have never met with it, or have not recognized it. What is it? The way to find out is not to study a definition, but to become acquainted in experience with the fact. When one can clearly distinguish, in one's own practice, between Bible-listening, Bible-reading, and Bible-study, then probably one has begun to become acquainted with the last.

Bible-study stands in direct relation to Bible-listening and Bible-reading. It fits one to do either with profit, with intelligence and Christian judgment. It prepares the congregation to listen to expository preaching, the Sunday-school scholar to consider the lesson in company with the teacher with interest and independence of thought. Especially, it prepares the scholar and student in our institutions of learning for proper Bible-listening and Bible-reading throughout life. How often we sacrifice the lasting good to the apparent edification of the moment! Shall we do less Bible-listening and less Bible-reading, that we may do more Bible-study? Shall we do more Bible-study that we may listen and read the better and the longer?

Old Testament Student.

Warm weather often causes extreme tired feeling and debility, and in the weakened condition of the system diseases arising from impure blood are liable to appear. To gain strength, to overcome disease, and to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

All believers receive of Christ's fullness: the greatest saints can not live without him, the weakest saints may live by him.—Henry.

Peculiar

To itself in many important particulars, Hood's Sarsaparilla is different from and superior to any other medicine.

Peculiar in combination, proportion and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its medicinal merit, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown.

Peculiar in strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time. Do not be induced to take any other preparation. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

$75 to $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. H. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Tutt's Pills

stimulate the torpid liver, strengthen the digestive organs, regulate the bowels, and are unequaled as an anti-bilious medicine. In

Malarial Districts

their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. This popular remedy rarely fails to effectually cure

Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness

and all disorders arising from a Torpid Livor and Bad Digestion.

A Proclamation!

Dr. I. Guy Lewis, Fulton, Ark., says: "A year ago I had bilious fever; Tutt's Pills were so highly recommended that I used them. Never did medicine have a happier effect. After a practice of a quarter of a century, I proclaim them the best medicine ever used. I always prescribe them in my practice."

ANTI-BILIOUS

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St. New York.

Tutt's Manual of Useful Receipts sent Free

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age. Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. REEVES EIGH.

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mole by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure.

W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS. J. BUCKLEY,
471 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 17, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

HENRY V. MIELLY,
With Hice, Horn & Co., 77 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.

Microbes Cause All Diseases

WM. RADAMS'

Microbe Killer

Cures All Diseases.

This indisputable assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

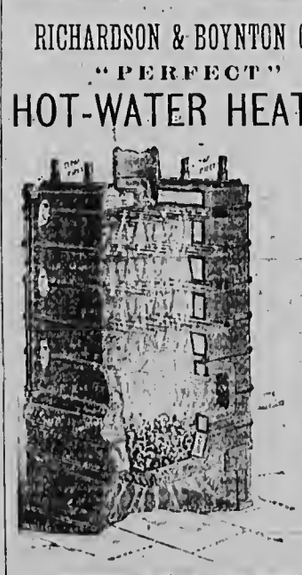
M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,

149 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

RICHARDSON & BOYNTON CO.'S

"PERFECT"

HOT-WATER HEATER.



J. H. AITKEN & CO., 110 Camp Street, Sole Southern Agents.

"PERFECT" HOT-WATER HEATER.

(The Most Powerful Water Heater ever Constructed.)

Has 2½ times more Square Feet of Hot-Water Fire Surface; hence capable of Heating more Square Feet of Radiation than any Heater ever made.

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive		Leave.
No. 1	9:30 am	No. 2	5:00 pm
No. 3	8:25 pm	No. 4	8:00 am
No. 5	11:00 am	No. 6	3:45 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex.	7:55 am	No. 4 Fast Ex.	7:00 am
No. 1 Fast Ex.	7:20 pm	No. 6 Coast	3:40 pm
No. 5 Coast	9:30 am	No. 2 Lim. Ex.	4:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r.	11:30 pm	No. 2 Passen'r.	9:15 am.
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim.	7:30 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex.	5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express	7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express	8:35 am
B. Rouge, local	10:00 am	B. Rouge, local	2:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor.	3:25 pm	No. 18 Local	7:20 pm
No. 17 Local	6:50 am	No. 20 Califor.	11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.
(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 1, Lim'd	11:00 am	No. 2, Lim'd	3:35 pm
No. 5, Fast Line	6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line	9:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line	6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line	9:00 pm

P. AND E. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive	8:30 am	Leave	4:00 pm

Sunday Schedule.

Arrive	7:25 pm	Leave	7:30 am

FIRE INSURANCE.

Liverpool and London and Globe INSURANCE COMPANY.

Largest Fire Office in the World.

Losses paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,259,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

Directors in New Orleans—NEWTON BUCKNER, Chairman; RUDOLPH WIDSTE, JOHN W. LAMOTHE, A. DELVAILLE.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Res't Sec.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849. Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1866.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,0

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Desirable Fire Business.

W. R. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PIANOS GRAND ORGANS Summer Sale

CASH PRICES—PAY WHEN COTTON IS SOLD.

GRAND OFFER. 1,000 Pianos and Organs

To be sold in August, September and October, at ROCK BOTTOM CASH PRICES, payable PIANOS only $25 Cash. ORGANS only $10 Cash. And balance Dec. 1, without interest or advance on lowest cash price. Buy now and pay when Cotton is sold. Great Bargains. Pianos $200, $225, $250. Organs $24, $35, $50, $80. 40 makers, 100 styles. All freight paid. 10 days' test trial. Reduced Prices. Write for Mid-Summer Sale Circular. LUDDEN & BATES, SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA. The Great P. & O. Coast of the South.

BABY CARRIAGES,

R. P. Randall,

54 & 56 Baronne

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing (a saving of from $3.00 to $4.00) by subscribing for

THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

—AND—

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR

—FOR—

$3.25 (THREE TWENTY-FIVE).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC, SCIENTIFIC, AND HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon, order entitling the holder to the selection of any pattern illustrated in the fashion department in that number, and many of the sizes manufactured, making patterns during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the best TWO Dollar Family Magazine issued. 1888 will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so extensively as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8½ x 11¼ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York, AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Christian Advocate at $3.25 Per Year

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURED never fails to Cure. Any one who wants to be cured can send us their address and we will mail trial bottle FREE. Dr. TAFT BROS., Rochester, N. Y.

"Best cure for colds, cough, consumption is the old Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam," Cutler Bros. & Co., Boston. For a large bottle sent prepaid.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:

REV. J. D. CAMERON, REV. B. CARRADINE, D.D.
REV. W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1888.

Briefs.

Mark Guy Pearce says that one of the chief works of the devil is to make us think about ourselves; and one of the chief works of the Holy Spirit is, to stay our thoughts upon God.

Rev. F. D. Maurice says: "If I work without fear or anxiety, believing that there is One over me who knows what I am doing and takes an interest in it, and desires that my work shall be healthy and profitable, then I am serving my Father in heaven: then I am acting as if he were my Master."

This sentence from Rev. F. D. Maurice will bear meditation: "I find it a good rule when I am contemplating a person from whom I want to learn always to look out for his strength, being confident that the weakness will discover itself, so far as it is good for me to be aware of it, without seeking it."

A writer in one of our exchanges makes a very gratifying statement, and then asks a very significant question:

There were never so many Bibles printed and sold as at the present time. Was there ever a time, though, when there was less real, upright and downright, honest and unquestioning belief in the words of the Bible than now? "When the Son of Man cometh, shall he find faith?"

It is said of Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson that from the battle-field of Bull-Run he sent a note to his pastor at home, inclosing a check, and said: "I remember that next Sunday is the day upon which the collection for missions is taken." Brother, sister, have you been mindful of a like obligation on your part? Have you paid your missionary dues this year? If not, go at once and pay the amount to your preacher. Let not the spirit of the Christian soldier condemn you in this matter at the last day.

On Hebrews i, 1, one commentator gives, as an illustration of the meaning of "sundry times and divers portions," this: "All was not revealed to each prophet; one received one portion of revelation, another received another portion. To Noah the quarter of the world to which the Messiah should belong was revealed; to Abraham, the nation; to Jacob, the tribe; to David and Isaiah, the family; to Micah, the town; to Daniel, the exact time; to Malachi, the coming of his forerunner. Each only knew in part. The Messiah combined and realized all."

The statistics of the Young Men's Christian Association show progress. Since 1866 the number of associations have increased from 59 to 1,240; membership, from 15,000 to 175,000; value of property, from $90,000 to $7,260,000; amount contributed annually for local work, from less than $50,000 to $1,200,000; amount annually for general work, from $522 to $105,000. There are now 273 college, 77 railroad, 10 German, 29 colored, and 15 Indian associations. There are 488 libraries, containing 350,193 volumes; 583 reading-rooms; over 1,500 educational classes; 2,919 lectures and 3,000 sociables annually; 398 Bible classes; 367 Bible-training classes; and 1,242 weekly prayer and gospel meetings for young men only; 237 gymnasiums, and 135 literary societies; 12,700 situations for young men were secured last year.

Men of Israel, Help.

From every quarter of the church comes the cry for help for our young men whom the Holy Spirit has called to the work of the ministry. It saddens our hearts to hear these cries for help, when there seems to be no relief at hand. A correspondent of the Wesleyan writes his experience on a certain occasion as follows:

I attended, some days ago, the meeting of one of the district committees charged with selecting young men to whom loans from the Emory Loan Fund should be made. I will never forget that day. I was thrilled with hope and with sorrow. Seven pious and promising young men (with effort the number could easily have been doubled) were before the committee asking the privilege of borrowing money to obtain a Christian education. There was sadness in the treasurer's face, a tremor on his lips, as he said: "The funds in hand will only allow us to help one young man." Six pious young men must, for the time—and it may be for their life-time—go without such an education as Emory College furnishes. The State and the Church will need very soon just such men as these boys—educated—would make. I could not bear that presence longer. I could have wept, and copiously, if weeping could have relieved either the young men or myself. As I descended the stairs and came into the street, I thought of the aggregated wealth of the Methodists living within that presiding elder's district. What handsome houses some of them have! How much invested in stocks and bonds and lands, and how many of them have no children of their own to educate! I thought of the thousands of dollars the Georgia Methodists have put into railroads which some syndicate will "scoop," or from which dividends will come by running trains at excursion rates on the Lord's day, and then I thought of the several thousands of us who are furnishing only enough money to lend annually to one poor boy out of seven who wish to borrow money to secure an education! It is blindness, blundering, poor Christianity and poor patriotism, one or all, that makes possible such a condition of things. Will we always be so hard to wake up?

Upon this sad incident, enough to sadden a seraph's soul, the editor of the Wesleyan says:

Our correspondent is, as the hunters would say, on a hot trail. His communication calls vividly to our mind two pictures placed before us—pictures which no artist could draw—for they were from life, and attractive by the power of an inexpressible pathos. The one was a young man, the son of a widow, who rents her land. This boy had recently been converted; had been a wild, reckless lad, but the Spirit touched him, and he yielded. Hearing of a loan fund to help young men secure an education, he applied. The committee questioned him closely. He understood that the money was to be a loan. He had arranged with an older brother to run the farm for a year or two, and the older brother and the widowed mother had agreed to live hard and help this once wild and reckless, but now pious and gentle son and brother to an education in a Christian college. The boy was poorly clad, barely shod. How eager for knowledge—it sparkled in his eye, was manifest in a peculiar nervous movement of his every feature. He was willing to do anything—all things that he could, if only he could get an education. When the committee, godly men, and acting in the fear of God, denied him a loan, his brow shaded; there was not only disappointment, but sadness in his face and heart. We thought, too, of the aged, poverty-stricken mother, how disappointed she would be even in the uselessness of sacrifice for her son, now "a new creature in Christ Jesus." Ah! when will the church of Christ learn to do Christ's will among men?

Another picture in another presiding elder's district. Here were six young men who wished a loan—all promising, all pious. The presiding elder said to us: "One of them is one of the most eloquent men I ever heard." A gem of purest ray. A man loving God, wanting better equipment for God's work. A man loving his fellow-men, and anxious, longing for the furnishing that will prepare him to help his fellow-man. All this, and more. But underneath this group, brilliant as it was, were read the shaded letters spelling out the sentence: "The church cares more for money dividends than for dividends in men."

That last sentence has the ring and tone of the judgment thunders! Brother, get your Bible and go into your closet, and get down on your knees and read the fifth chapter of the Epistle of James! May God have mercy upon a church that "cares more for money dividends than for dividends in men"!

The Endowment for Centenary College.

We have been requested to publish again Dr. Hunnicutt's plan for the endowment of Centenary College, which was published in the ADVOCATE, of August 2. In putting forth the plan, President Hunnicutt used these words:

No outward appliance is so much needed by our church in all this region as a well-equipped college for boys which shall be liberally and largely patronized by the Methodists of Mississippi and Louisiana. Such a college I most ardently desire, and in this desire I feel assured I am joined by thousands throughout both these States. No college for boys, deserving the name, was ever well maintained without an endowment or its equivalent. I, therefore, propose that we immediately begin an energetic movement to endow Centenary College. It has ample grounds, large and elegant buildings, a healthy and accessible location, and is worth, at least, seventy-five thousand dollars. My proposition is that $250,000 be raised for its endowment in ten or less annual installments, and that $25,000 of that amount be raised the present year.

The following is the plan proposed by President Hunnicutt:

1. That any friend of education, able to do so, be and is hereby earnestly requested to endow a professorship, to be selected and named by the endower. Two persons might unite in endowing a chair with twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars, the professorship to bear their joint names.

2. That twenty-five persons be requested to give $1,000 each to raise the $25,000 called for this year. (Several have already given their notes under this proposition, and we hope the amount will be raised by the subscribers of $1,000 each. Notes may be given payable in installments or bearing interest, the principal not being collectable while the interest is duly paid.)

3. That all friends of this movement be requested to subscribe one or more hundred dollars to the general endowment fund, either in notes payable—say, in four annual installments—or in notes bearing interest as above specified.

4. That our women, some of whom have accomplished wonders in many other great enterprises of the church in recent years, be asked to aid in raising this endowment fund by forming multiplying guilds. Say, one gives five dollars and induces five of her friends to give five dollars each, and each of these five induces five others; or twenty-five persons to give five each, they all reporting to the first one, will make a sum of $155. Or, one gives one dollar and induces four others to do likewise, and each of these four induces four others to contribute a dollar each, which would amount to eighty-five dollars.

Now, friends, this means work for God in the cause of Christian education. Let us do it.

Will the friends of education in the bounds of our patronizing Conferences give this matter their earnest and prayerful attention. The education of the young men of the church is a question of paramount importance at this time. With the Roman Catholic Church on one side in open and publicly avowed hostility to all our educational enterprises, and the State on the other, fostering institutions that, in their influence, are making godless men out of the boys of religious parents, the duty of the church is plain to every unprejudiced mind. Centenary College is an institution of the Methodist Church, and she proposes to educate the boys of Methodist parents, if the means to do so are put within her reach. The investment of money in such an institution will yield dividends in the shape of godly, educated men to rule the Church and State through all the coming centuries. Let the brethren and sisters throughout our bounds meditate on these things.

Bishop McTyeire, Concerning a Few Old Friends.

MR. EDITOR: The necrology of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE has had a sad interest for me these last days. The manner in which our dear and venerable brother, Rev. John G. Jones, was mourned and buried impressed me as highly becoming. The addresses made at his funeral were edifying and just, and they covered many phases of his long and useful career. Personally, I was always much attached to him. Sincerity, truth in the inward parts, was a striking trait in his character. What a contribution was the example, the influence and the labors of such a life to the church and the world! It can not be measured.

A reason is known to me, that was not known to its present editor, justifying the large space which the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE devoted to a memorial of Bro. Jones. From the beginning he was its friend. He used to send me long lists of subscribers when the paper was not rich in supporters.

Our dear Sister McKnight has been the subject of a proper obituary in your columns. She was such a godly woman. I verily believe, as St. Paul would have made mention of gratefully in the sixteenth chapter of Romans. Her helpful countenance and prayers were among my blessings when pastor of Felicity Street Church. And when, in the dark days, we "refugeed" in Alabama, there she met me again, only to help and bless. The "Colonel," her generous husband, was an energetic business man, and, like that other good and timely friend, Leonard Fash, he knew the ins and the outs of blockades. My homespun Confederate suit was well worn when, by her kindness, I was furnished with a real nice clerical outfit from foreign looms. The tailor had an order to make it up for me; and my last ordination took place in that McKnight outfit. She bestowed much labor on us.

Of the many godly and helpful women in the days of my pastorate in New Orleans there is a long list in the heart's memory. Time would fail me to call them by name, and speak as they deserve for their devotion to the Master's cause—the living and the dead. Only of one I may now say a few words. Last week's copy of the Picayune brought intelligence of the death of Mrs. Eugenia Armistead. She was one of the charter members of Felicity Street Church; and a more pious and exemplary one I could not name. Her husband, Mr. Robert Armistead, belonged to that old and respectable family that for two centuries has clustered about the Lower York and James rivers, in Virginia. With a half-dozen young men—most of whom were Methodists—he came to the "Crescent City" before the "forties," seeking his fortune. I believe they all prospered, in one way and another, but Armistead was the only one that held on to Methodism. It cost something in those days for a young man to stand firmly by those colors. He did.

He met Miss Eugenia Chappell in the house of her uncle, Mr. Hull; and they were married. She came over to his church with a warm heart and fine intelligence, and illustrated every virtue. How punctual at the class meeting, where she led beautifully in prayer when the pastor requested! How kind to the poor! If the parsonage was to be fixed up, she was there with her well-trained servant, and all needful appliances. Once, in the absence of my family, I had a spell of dengue fever, and she nursed me at her house with unspeakable tenderness and patience. The house stood on the corner next the church, and sat back in the yard, with a grove of orange trees in front. What a home of peace and of happy little children was there in my day! Quite unconsciously to herself, she first moved me to study hymns by a remark concerning a preacher, one of my predecessors, about whom others had little to say in the way of praise. She remarked that one thing in Mr. Chase always repaid her for going to hear him—"He always made such an apt and beautiful selection of hymns." Mrs. Armistead had long been a widow, and the paper informs me that she died at the home of one of her daughters in the city. I can not doubt, the end of that Christian life was peace.

May the Head of the church grant to us not only a succession of faithful preachers like John G. Jones, but of such godly women as Mrs. McKnight and Mrs. Armistead! Amen!

H. N. M'TYEIRE.

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY, Oct. 25, 1888.

Annual Report of the Publishing Committee of the New Orleans Christian Advocate to the Patronizing Conferences.

At our yearly meeting, held in the ADVOCATE office, 112 Camp street, New Orleans, La., Wednesday, Oct. 31, 1888, there were present all the committee, excepting the Rev. Dr. Hunnicutt and our venerable brother, the Rev. James A. Godfrey. On account of transferring to the Holston Conference, Bro. Christian Keener resigned his office as a member of the Publishing Committee, and on motion of Dr. Carter, seconded by Dr. Carradine, the Rev. S. S. Keener was elected to fill the vacancy until the Louisiana Conference should elect and fill the vacancy in due form. In this connection it may be well to call the attention of the patronizing Conferences to the fact that our charter requires the election of members of the Publishing Committee to be made annually. The exact language of our charter on this point is as follows: "Said members shall be elected annually by the several patronizing Conferences at their annual sessions." (Art. III.)

The action of the Sub-Committee in bringing about a change of publishers was ratified. Owing to the very recent date of the change, we were not furnished the usual detailed statement of the business; but Bro. Grant, our new publisher, promised it should be ready for submission to the Annual Conferences interested. Enough, however, appeared to show that there had been a gratifying increase in the number of subscribers.

We have been perplexed not a little by a debt which was contracted some years ago, but think we have at last provided for its payment if the members of the patronizing Conferences will bestir themselves and heartily co-operate with Bro. Grant in extending the circulation of the ADVOCATE. Our paper should have a subscription list of not less than 10,000, and it will soon reach that number if the preachers (including the members of the Publishing Committee) will do their duty in securing subscribers.

Bro. Grant contemplates making sundry improvements in the make-up of the paper and intends, so far as he is concerned, to leave preachers and people without excuse for not taking and paying for the ADVOCATE. He will exclude all objectionable advertisements and secure such as will pay the paper and result in good to the advertisers.

With restored health, Dr. Carter will manifest renewed energy and zeal in the management of the editorial department. To assist him he will have as corresponding editors Dr. CAMERON, of the North Mississippi Conference; Dr. Hunnicutt, of the Mississippi Conference, and Dr. Carradine, of the Louisiana Conference.

Every practicable effort will be made to make our ADVOCATE indispensable to every Methodist family in the bounds of the patronizing Conferences.

T. L. MELLEN,
For Pub. Com.

Notes.

That the church in this country has a work to do which is continually growing in breadth and importance is indicated by a fact stated in an exchange, that it requires the Bible in twenty-nine different languages to supply the inhabitants of Pennsylvania with the Word of God.

Self-depreciation is quite a common practice; but it is questionable if it is an exhibition of honest humility. Sometimes it looks as if the practice was followed for the purpose of making capital out of it. If we will look closely within, we will find that sometimes our hearts are secretly crediting us with being better and doing better than we acknowledge to others. The lips and the heart do not agree and the integrity—the wholeness—of the character is broken. Self depreciation can not, then, be a part of humility.

An exchange has the following, which we fear is too true:

It is surprising how few members are active to maintaining the services of the ordinary church. In a church of 100 members 75 could be picked out whose death would not put a check to any one department of the work. On the other hand, the death of a selected ten would break up the prayer meeting, the Sunday-school, and the finances. How the fellers can be content with themselves we do not understand.

Reader, do you belong to the seventy-five or to the ten?

Mr. Carnegie, the iron millionaire, of Pennsylvania, has been making some speeches in the old world which have attracted much attention. Among other things he said, he "had determined not to die rich," and that "the greatest boon which could be conferred on the people is the total prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors." His testimony to Englishmen is, that "wherever total prohibition has been tried it has been a success." The London Methodist Times naively says: "Mr. Carnegie smiles at the extreme moderation of our temperance program and laughs to scorn the idea of any compensation being paid to the publican. According to American ideas, that is mere moonshine madness—a species of legislative lunacy not worth a moment's serious discussion."

Senator Blair recently introduced into the Senate a joint resolution providing an amendment to the Federal Constitution, "concerning establishments of religion and free public schools." The first section reads:

No State shall make or maintain any law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

The second section provides:

Each State shall establish and maintain a system of free public schools adequate for the education of all the children living therein between the ages of six and sixteen years, inclusive, in the common branches of knowledge, and in virtue, morality, and the principles of the Christian religion.

To guard against denominationalism in the public school is this clause:

No money raised by taxation shall ever be appropriated to any school in which instructions shall be given in the doctrines or observances peculiar to any sect, nor shall such doctrines or observances be taught or inculcated in the free public schools.

It is said, "Truth is sometimes stranger than fiction," and in confirmation of the saying this story is told: Daniel Hand, of Charleston, S. C., at the beginning of the war, went North, leaving his property and business in the hands of a friend, G. W. Williams, to do the best he could with it. Mr. Williams managed matters so well that, when, twenty years after the war, his friend Hand turned up, he turned over to him several millions of dollars' worth of property. And now Mr. Hand has donated to the American Missionary Association one million dollars' worth of property for the purpose of educating the negroes in the South! The income to be used will be between fifty and sixty thousand dollars yearly. That is good. And now we think it is about time for some rich man to give something to educate the "poor whites" of the South! Don't you?

Personals.

Rev. J. F. Scurlock, who is in charge of our Lower Coast Mission, reports progress in his work, notwithstanding the peculiar difficulties in the way. He has organized societies at Grand Prairie and St. Bernard. The congregations are pretty good at Port Eads, Pilot Town and other points on the mission.

The twenty-third annual season of prayer for young men and Young Men's Christian Associations will begin, as usual, on the second Lord's Day in November, and continue one week.

Dr. Joseph Parker has lately said: "It is very extraordinary how often Christianity has been destroyed, and how little damage it has suffered."

Rev. J. J. Ransom, former missionary to Brazil, has been appointed missionary to Cuba.

The St. Louis Christian Advocate has done Dr. Carradine and us the honor of publishing almost entire the Doctor's article on "Preachers' Experiences," which we published September 27. The failure to give credit to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE was, we suppose, an oversight.

Have you read the publisher's announcement about giving the ADVOCATE from date to January, 1890, for two dollars? Now is your time. Use it promptly.

The last number of the Pacific Methodist contains the farewell address of Editor G. B. Winton, who has been transferred from the Pacific Conference to the Central Mexican Mission.

The Publishing Committee, in session here last week, had a long sitting, full of hard work. Matters were so overhauled and re-adjusted as to put them in a better shape than they have been for several years. The new publisher has taken hold with a vim, and, with the earnest co-operation of the preachers, the ADVOCATE will go on to completer success in the future.

John Guy Vassar, the last of the Vassar brothers, died in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., October 27.

Judge Daniels, of New York State, has decided that habitual drunkenness is a good ground upon which to refuse naturalization papers to an applicant.

Our new publisher proposes to send the ADVOCATE to all new subscribers from this time until January 1, 1890, for $2. That is two months for nothing. Now is the time to push the claims of the paper.

We learn that Rev. Sam Jones is to begin a meeting in Greenville, Miss., November 10.

Illwassee College has sent out ninety-one preachers. That college might appropriately be called, "The Mother of Preachers."

Rev. A. J. Coleman, of the Alabama Conference, died at Whistler, Ala., October 19. "He was an honored and faithful minister."

Bishop McTyeire has changed the time of holding the Florida Conference from December 12 to January 9, 1889.

Last Sunday evening the city missionary, Rev. J. J. Billingsley, closed his 90th open-air meeting. He has held services in seven different parts of the city, and estimates the average attendance at 600. He has also established three mission Sunday-schools.

We invite all our laymen and women to earnestly co-operate with their pastors to enlarge the circulation of the ADVOCATE. Go out among your neighbors and canvass for this arm of church power. The more subscribers you give us, the better paper we will give you! The price is two dollars from now till January 1, 1890.

The Southern Watchman, of last week, published at Clinton, La., contains the announcement of the death of Mrs. Louisa Green, of East Feliciana parish. The editor has known this estimable Christian lady ever since the days of his boyhood, and tenders his sympathy to the bereaved friends. She died at the home of her son, I. T. Felps, aged eighty years.

Bishop Galloway gave us a call last Monday. He was en route to Mexico, where he holds the Central Mexican Mission Conference, at San Luis Potosi, November 21.

Thanksgiving service among the Methodists of the city will be held in Felicity Street Church, Thursday, November 29, at 11 A. M. Dr. Carradine is to preach the sermon.

Rev. J. A. Lyons, of our Sunday-school department at Nashville, gave us a "pop-call" last Tuesday. He is en route to Victoria and other places in Texas to push his work before the Texas Conferences.

Courage to blunder, with the determination not to blunder, is the secret of the extemporaneous art of public speech—is the way a writer in Zion's Herald puts it.

Vicksburg's Cordial Invitation.

MR. EDITOR: At the first suggestion of a change in the place of meeting of the Mississippi Conference, our pastor, Rev. R. J. Jones, after consulting the official members of the church, submitted the proposition to the full congregation on Sunday, and by a unanimous and rising vote they cordially invited the Conference to its hospitable homes. Our latch-string never hangs out; we have none: we have no latch; no door; only an open space as wide as the horizon: come in. Yours,

C. K. MARSHALL.

Vicksburg, Mississippi.

Notice.

To the Preachers of the North Mississippi Conference—

DEAR BRETHREN: Please make out a written report for your pastoral charges as follows: Amount of books sold during the year; number of church papers taken; Children's Day services, whether held or not, with amount collected. Have this ready and hand to me on the first day of the Conference session, without fail.—Don't forget nor neglect it. Let me know in due time what special books you want at Conference, that I may have them on hand for you.

H. W. HACHMAN.

Kosciusko, Miss., Oct. 30, 1888.

Notice.

To the Presiding Elders of the Louisiana Conference—

Please furnish me with the names of the lay delegates and the candidates for admission on trial who expect to attend the approaching session of our Conference. Due notice will be given of arrangements with railroads. CHAS. F. EVANS.

Hurst St., cor. Aratella, New Orleans.

The Advocate Free until 1889.

Send $2 now and receive the ADVOCATE free until 1889. Your subscription will not expire until January 1, 1890.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. J. D. Hays writes from Poplarville, Miss., October 29, 1888: "This is a work of three appointments—namely, Poplarville, Lumberton and Purvis—all of them being on the N. O. and N. E. railroad. We have taken in an appointment at McClure's Mill, but have no church organization there. We have had a fine protracted meeting at Purvis, and the church there has been abundantly blessed. Fourteen were added to the roll, and the membership wonderfully revived. Bro. Chambers assisted at this meeting, and his powerful preaching, together with his great earnestness and zeal, was very beneficial. Our meetings at Poplarville and Lumberton were not so successful; but we trust that good was done. The collections on this work, considering the strength of the churches, have been very good. To the Lord be all the praise."

—Rev. J. W. Huggin writes, October 30, of Chulahoma circuit, North Mississippi Conference: "This, my second, year with this charge is just now drawing to a close. I have had a pleasant time with this kind people. We have had this year thirty-two accessions to the church; twenty-four of this number joined our church at Wall Hill, at which place we had a powerful revival in August. Bro. W. M. Adams, of the Holly Springs circuit, was with us on that occasion, doing most of the preaching, and otherwise laboring with much zeal and earnestness. We are thankful for the great services rendered us by Bro. Adams; also for valuable services rendered us by Rev. A. P. Sage at Hebron. We are also deeply grateful to Rev. J. H. Brooks for labors bestowed in three of our protracted meetings, and in my charge generally. His fatherly interest in the pastor and his family has gained him a very warm place in our hearts. He resides in the bounds of this circuit. We are doing our best to bring up the collections ordered by the Conference."

—Rev. G. W. Gordon writes, October 30, of Fulton and Smithville circuit, North Mississippi Conference: "The Lord has been favorable to us this year. Success has attended our labors in the different lines of church work. We are winding up and getting ready for Conference, December 12. Our Conference collections will be full and, perhaps, a small excess."

Special Offer.

Anyone sending two dollars will receive the ADVOCATE free of all charges until January, 1890.

Literary Notes.

D. Lothrop Company, in their fall announcement, offer some exquisite gift-books for the coming holidays. Among them, some especially appropriate to Christmas. This firm takes the lead in juvenile books.

Estes and Lauriat announce many new publications for the autumn. Among them new books for young people, juvenile annuals, new editions of important books, and miscellaneous publications.

The Scribners have issued a new edition of their famous Thackeray letters, in smaller form, and have made of it one of the handsomest specimens of book-making of the year.

Among the frontispieces preparing for Wide Awake for 1889 are portraits of John Burroughs at twenty, Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson in her young womanhood, Pet Majorie, Sir Walter Scott's famous little friend, and Lady Raleigh, the wife of Sir Walter Raleigh.

The entire first edition of Thomas Nelson Page's stirring story for boys, "Two Little Confederates"—his first juvenile book—was exhausted upon publication, and a second edition has just been issued.

The Famous Darley Edition of Ik Marvel's "Reveries of a Bachelor," which when first published created such a literary furore, has been given a reissue by the Scribners. All the original illustrations by F. O. C. Darley have been preserved and are printed in tint in the new edition.

A fascinating work will shortly come from the Scribner presses, in the "Diary and Letters of Gouverneur Morris." Society, politics, travel, literature, and the theatre furnished this famous wit and popular man of the world with material for his letters, and one can easily imagine the delightful result. The most brilliant men and women of America and France were his intimate friends, and many of them made him their trusted confidant.

The following autograph has been sent Miss Mary Lee, the daughter of the celebrated Confederate general, for her album: "I have personally known only two men who were real heroes. The one was Gen. Lee, of Virginia, the other was Gen. Charles Gordon. Both these patriots despised party politicians.—Wolseley." Mr. Gladstone has copied for Miss Lee's album these lines from George Herbert:

"He that aims the moon
Shoots higher far than he who means a tree."

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

JOHN BOIDWIN'S TESTIMONY. By Mary Halleck Foote. Ticknor and Company, Boston. George F. Wharton, New Orleans. Price fifty cents.

This is a remarkable story of life in the Rocky Mountains, full of vitality, and at the same time, as the Church Review says, "most excellent and agreeable." The author has for some years lived at Boise, in Idaho, and hence the local coloring of her stories is at once accurate and vivid, and the reader feels the deep interest which rises from thorough sympathy and comprehension.

DOCTOR BEN. By Orlando Witherspoon. Ticknor and Company, Boston. George F. Wharton, New Orleans. Price fifty cents.

This is a story of Canadian life and the vagaries of alienated minds, and sensational to the last degree.

AUTREFOIS. TALES OF OLD NEW ORLEANS. By James A. Harrison. Cassell and Company, New York. George F. Wharton, New Orleans. Price fifty cents.

People hereabouts will read these stories with interest and pleasure.

BOOKLETS. Anson D. F. Randolph & Co., New York. Twelve kinds, ribbon-tied, sold separately, each twenty-five cents.

These are poems largely of a consolatory or helpful character. The titles and subjects are as follows: (1) Sometime. Full of Christian hope and confidence in God. (2) Beyond the Shadows. Designed for the comfort and consolation of the bereaved. (3) The Master Is So Fair. The poem shows that those who depart from us go not because they have lacked anything at our hands, but that God has called them to himself. (4) God Knoweth. The past is in his keeping, and he will take care of our future. (5) How? When? Where? Why? I gave my heart to Christ. A poem that will answer to the experience of thousands. (6) He Leads Us On.—For those who are in sorrow or doubt or perplexity. (7) Your Birthday. A birthday poem (not for young people) full of tenderness and beauty. (8) Thou and I. A contrast between the condition of one who has reached the heavenly home with that of one still on earth. (9) His Name. A lesson of confidence and trust. (10) Tired Mothers. Every mother will prize it. (11) The Secret of Content. Gerhardt's well-known hymn. (12) All's Well; Homeward. A lesson and a song for the troubled or weary.

THE PANSY, FOR 1888. Ill. Boston: D. Lothrop Co. Price $1 25.

The bound volume of Pansy will be heartily welcomed by hundreds of little readers who have learned to expect it every year, and to whom it is a veritable treasure. It is full of good things from the pens of favorite authors. Margaret Sidney, "Pansy" herself, of course, Mrs. Livingston and others, and is profusely illustrated. The covers are new designs, and one of them, a full-length picture in color of a charming, fair-haired little girl bearing a bunch of pansies, is sweet enough to hang upon the walls of the choicest room in the house.

PERIODICALS.

—The Medical Classics is a monthly devoted to hygiene, the prevention and the cure of disease, proper foods, and all kindred matters. It is edited by Dr. Ferdinand Sieger and John Macmullen, A. M., and published by the Medical Classics Publishing Company, 38 Murray St., New York. Price ten cents a number, or fifty cents a year.

—The Popular Science Monthly, for November, has its usual good table of contents. The first article, by Charles S. Ashley, on the Effects of Protection, will command a wide reading, as that subject is uppermost in the American mind. Altruism Economically Considered, by Charles W. Smiley, will also be read with interest, discussing, as it does, a subject coming more and more to the front. In the article, The Problem of the Flying Machine, Prof. Le Conte thinks he demonstrates the impossibility of such a machine being made. The Prolongation of Human Life, by Clement M. Hammond, is an instructive paper on a subject interesting to everybody. There are other articles of value. D. Appleton & Co., New York. Price $5.

—The Woman's World, for November, has for frontispiece, A Lady of Pompeii. Miss Lucy Garnett writes of, The Fallacy of the Equality of Woman. Miss Edith Simcox contributes a paper on, Elementary School-Teaching as a Profession. Miss Robinson continues A Walk through Marais. George Fleming's serial, The Truth about Clement Ker, is concluded in this number. Other Women in Germany, is by Miss Hulda Friedrichs. A Woman's Friendship, is by Mrs. Fenwick-Miller. Published by Cassell & Company, New York. Price $3 50 a year; 35 cents a number.

—Minutes of the Seventh Annual Conference of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, held in Chicago, July 5-8. This pamphlet contains not only the proceedings of the Conference, but also the addresses on various phases of the work which were delivered before the Conference. It is an interesting document, and shows how the young people are laying hold of the work of the Lord and pushing it with all their energy. Published by the United Society of Christian Endeavor, Boston.

—The Statesman, for November, has an interesting symposium by various persons on, Why I Left My Party. Besides these papers there are, Future Southern Influences, by Prof. A. A. Hopkins; The Pulpit and Politics, by A. J. Jutkins, D. D.; An Ancient Republic, by George P. Hays, D. D.; What Is a Board of Trade, by J. W. Strong; and other articles. The Statesman Publishing Company, Chicago. Price $2.

Episcopal Visitation, 1888-9.

Conference.	Date.	Place.	Bishop.
German Mis.	Nov. 11.	Houston, Tex.	Duncan
N. Ala.	Nov. 14.	Anniston, Ala.	Hargrove
N. Texas.	Nov. 17.	Dennison, Tex.	Key
N. Carolina.	Nov. 21.	New Berne, N. C.	Granbery
Gen. Mex.	Nov. 21.	San Luis Potosi.	Galloway
Little Rock.	Nov. 21.	Camden, Ark.	Key
Texas.	Nov. 21.	Huntsville, Tex.	Duncan
Arkansas.	Nov. 28.	Fort Smith, Ark.	Key
E. Texas.	Nov. 28.	Crockett, Tex.	Duncan
S. Carolina.	Nov. 28.	Winnsboro, S. C.	Keener
Mississippi.	Dec. 5.	Vicksburg, Miss.	Hargrove
White Riv.	Dec. 6.	Paragould, Ark.	Key
N. Georgia.	Dec. 5.	Milledgeville, Ga.	Keener
La. Miss.	Dec. 12.	Starkville, Miss.	Keener
Alabama.	Dec. 12.	Mobile, Ala.	Hargrove
S. Georgia.	Dec. 12.	Eastman, Ga.	Duncan
Louisiana.	Dec. 19.	New Orleans, La.	Hargrove
Florida.	Jan. 9.	Bartow, Fla.	McTyeire
Baltimore.	Mar. 13.	Alexandria, Va.	Wilson

Wanted.

By a graduate of the Feliciana Female Collegiate Institute, a situation as governess or teacher. References given if desired. Address T., Box 73, Jackson, La.

Publisher's Department.

Special Offer.

All new subscriptions for the ADVOCATE received between now and January 1, 1889, will receive the paper free until that date.

Subscribe now, and you will receive the paper 14 months for $2.

J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

Mr. Philip Werlein has in stock a beautiful selection of organs. Anyone thinking of purchasing should call and see them before purchasing. Mr. Werlein's terms are moderate; he sells cheaper than ever before, and guarantees his instruments as first-class in every respect. There is no better judge of an organ, and anyone in the country can safely leave such a matter to him, and be assured that their order will receive prompt attention and prove satisfactory in every respect.

Madam (to French cook applying for a place)—"Your accent, Marie, is not strictly Parisian." French cook—"No, mum; me husband was Dublin-born, and it is his accent that I have absarbed a little."

CHANGES.—We have quite a number of orders to change the address of subscribers; some without signatures, and others who do not give the former address. Under these circumstances, change can not be made.

The flexibility of the English language is shown in the reply of an Irishman to a man who sought refuge in his shanty in a heavy shower, and, finding it about as wet inside as out, said, "You have quite a pond on the floor." "Yis-shure, we have a great lake in the roof."

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

Church & School Bells

SIZES AND PRICES.

Diam.	Wt. with yoke & Bell frame.	Cost of Hung's
No. 6,	25 in.	250 lbs. $25
No. 6½,	27 in.	340 lbs. 30
No. 7,	30 in.	430 lbs. 50
No. 8,	34 in.	730 lbs. 75
No. 9,	38 in.	925 lbs. 130

Rumsey & Co., Seneca Falls, N. Y., U. S. A.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DR. SUMMERS'S
Systematic Theology:

A COMPLETE COMMENTARY ON THE TWENTY-FIVE ARTICLES OF RELIGION.

EDITED BY PROFESSOR JNO. J. TIGERT, D.D.

Volume I. SECOND THOUSAND NOW READY.

THIS VOLUME INCLUDES:

I. THEOLOGY PROPER. II. THE PERSON AND WORK OF CHRIST. III ESCHATOLOGY: THE DOCTRINE OF THE LAST THINGS. IV. THE PERSON AND OFFICES OF THE HOLY GHOST. V. THE DOCTRINE OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

The Church has called for this second edition of Volume I. within a little more than two months after the issue of the first. Appended are a few of the numerous

PRESS NOTICES:

"Regard it as a most valuable contribution to our Methodist and general theological literature. It ought to occupy a prominent place, because of its broad scope, and of the rich material which abounds throughout the work."—Bishop John F. Hurst.

"One hardly knows what is the fascination. The style is limpid. This work never tires by long and involved periods. There is not an obscure sentence in the book. No Methodist writer—not excepting Watson, Pope, Raymond, or any other Methodist author—has ever more clearly and forcibly set forth and unanswerably vindicated Wesleyan Methodist Arminianism than has Dr. Summers. The value of the new work to young men studying for the ministry can not be overstated. The sharp analysis and methodical arrangement of the matter, together with copious index, are not among the least of the qualities that recommend the work. Professor Tigert has clearly demonstrated caro ability in editing this first volume. His notes, annotations, bracketed matter, and criticisms are scholarly, concise, pertinent, and judicious. They are side-lights of great value. As a text-book, on which a student is to stand an examination, it has qualities that must give it the precedence over Watson or Pope."—Dr. John E. Edwards.

"The arrangement is precisely that of the Methodist Church to which the author belonged. The treatment after the introductory chapters on 'Theological Science' and 'The Creeds and Confessions of Christendom,' follows (save by joint the articles of the Methodist Episcopal Churches. As regards the treatment, much might be said in its praise. Dr. Summers was evidently a man of profound reverence, of wide reading, cautiously conservative, but ready to hear, able to defend his positions. His ultra-conservative views of textual critics as interfere with the accuracy of his citation of proof-text, but his editor has been very careful to annotate in the interest of a more correct attitude to the real word of God. Indeed, Professor Tigert has supplemented the volume so as to bring it down to date in all the departments of Biblical learning upon which it seemed to require such enlargement. The doctrinal views are precisely what might be expected from the pen of the title. They are carefully and fully stated, objections are candidly weighed; but the author remains a Wesleyan Arminian. In discussing the Atonement he accepts three aspects of it: the propitiatory,—the governmental, and the moral. The Eschatological positions are those professed by all evangelical Protestant churches. Book V., treating of Bibliology, deals fairly with the questions involved—the canon, inspiration, etc. Dr. Summers is a safe guide in the matter of exposition, though his exegesis of the inspired word may not in all cases be accepted. The volume is handsomely printed; the editor deserves great praise for the evident care and skill with which he has done his loving work."—Sunday-school Times.

Volume II. SECOND THOUSAND NOW READY.

THIS VOLUME INCLUDES:

VI. ANTHROPOLOGY: THE DOCTRINE OF MAN. VII. ECCLESIOLOGY: THE DOCTRINE OF THE CHURCH. VIII. CHRISTIAN ETHICS. IX. A THEOLOGICAL GLOSSARY.

PRICE: $2 per Volume; $4 per Set; Usual Discount to Preachers.

J. D. BARBEE, Agent, Nashville, Tenn.

Cashmere Bouquet
Toilet Soap & Perfume.
Luxurious, lasting, refined

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

113 Common Street.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

THREE WONDERFUL

SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect.

6,500,000 LADIES

Are Doing Sewing on

SINGER

Family Sewing Machines.

8,000,000

SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,

185 Canal St., New Orleans.

S. E. BUNDLE - - - - - AGENT.

W. C. SHEPARD,

49 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds.
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store, Cheap as the Cheapest.

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Fingers and Curtain Stretchers.

WANTED at once, a representative, Man or Woman, in every vicinity until Dec. 25th. Liberal Pay. All time not necessary. Give references. R. H. Woodward & Co., Baltimore.

$300 to $500 a month made by working for us. We guarantee energetic persons $500 a Year, with the opportunity of making 8 times that amount. Men who can furnish their own horses preferred. A few vacancies in Iowa and other States. Holloway & Co., 112 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans AND Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,

CHATTANOOGA,

CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.

	No. 2, Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans.....	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian.....	9:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis.....	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa.....	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham.....	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla.....	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga.....	7:35 a. m.	6:26 p. m.
Arr. Junction City.....	9:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington.....	4:10 p. m.	3:43 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati.....	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.

	No. 1, Lim'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati.....	7:55 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington.....	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City.....	11:45 a. m.	12:50 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga.....	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla.....	9:49 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham.....	11:45 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa.....	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis.....	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian.....	4:45 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans.....	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent, 34 St. Charles Street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1, Fast Mail, 3:00 a.m	No. 2, Fast Mail, 5:30 p.m
No. 3, Express, 6:25 p.m	No. 4, Express, 8:00 a.m
No. 5, Bat. Rouge acc'dation, 10:00 a.m	No. 6, Bat. Rouge acc'dation, 3:45 p.m

Double daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville, Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans at 8 a. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harriston for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. CHOW, G. F. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Com'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN.

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Texas and California Express.	Leaves.	Arrives.
	8:35 A. M.	7:00 P. M.
Baton Rouge Local.....	3:30 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

This train has also Pullman sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Trav'g Passenger Agent.
E. W. MCCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The secret of my happiness is, I have thrown away my old Blacking Brush, and have

WATERPROOF BOOTS

BEAUTIFULLY POLISHED WITHOUT LABOR.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

Produces a polish without the old brush, and the shine will last a week on men's, and three on women's shoes.

Why stick to old ways in these days of progress?

Sold by Shoe Stores, Grocers, Druggists, etc.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, PHILADELPHIA.

Agents Wanted

ERIE Self-Wringing MOP

Is the best selling article out. Made from malleable iron and steel wire.

Special knitted cloth sized into every Mop before shipping

A Golden Opportunity for parsons of either sex in search of profitable employment, as the SELF-WRINGER sells at sight.

Exclusive territory and liberal terms. Send 50 cents for sample and agent's outfit. Circulars and terms free.

EVANS BROS., Southern Agents,
18 Perdido St., New Orleans.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT, FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET, BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES, LAMPS AND LANTERNS.

Axle Greasa,

Blacking,	Blueing,
Ovens and Cheese Safes,	Corks and Clocks,
Coffee and Grain Mills,	Cutlery and Saws,
Hammocks,	Ice Cream Freezers,
Oyster Tongs,	Paper and Bags,
Scales,	Stoves,
Whips.

HARDWARE, STONEWARE, BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES, TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE, ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,

Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET.

S. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE, MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER

In all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty. WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES, WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS, UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS. RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS.

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

G. WOLF,

—MANUFACTURER OF—

GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES

(Formerly at 130 Common Street)

54 ST. CHARLES STREET,

Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Orders promptly attended to.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement,

—1888.—

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator.....	$ 3 50	$ 2 75
American Agriculturist.	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	2 50
" Times-Democrat.	3 50	2 75
Harper's Magazine.....	6 00	4 75
" Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People.	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine...	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

J. G. GRANT, Pub'r.

Our Young People.

A NAME FOR THE BABY.

Oh, where is a name for baby?
Come, tell me every one,
Give me a name as sweet as a rose,
And bright as the morning sun—
A name that shall tell wherever 'tis heard
The graces and charms of this baby lord.

Yes, tell me some names for baby,
All joire and beautiful things,
Fair as a lud, tender as love,
And glad as a bird's light wings.
Yes, baby's name when whispered o'er,
A thousand charms must hold in store.

Then, give me a name for baby,
For a queen a crown must wear,
And one befitting her royal brow,
Must dainty be and rare.
Surely all of earth's wondrous lore
Some fitting name must hold in store.

Yes, give me a name for baby,
From earth, or sea, or air,
We can't always call her "Pearl" and "Pet,"
"Jewel" and "Sunny-hair."
Oh, for a name that in all its parts
Will adorn our queen, our "queen of hearts."

—Good Housekeeping.

Under a Rock.

"I'm going to try 'em," said Grandpa Gray, and his eyes twinkled. Grandpa Gray's eyes were always twinkling. He meant three small grandsons, Hal, Herbie and Had. So, at dinner grandpa said to grandma: "I wish I had time to take that rock out of the yard there. It's a real eyesore to me."

"Can't we, grandpa?" asked the boys.

"Well—yes, if you want to," said he, "and I'll be much obliged to you."

So directly after dinner they set to work. It didn't look like a very large rock; but it was a good deal larger than it looked, really.

"Pooh!" said Herbie, "I'll take it out in no time!" and he got a stout stick and tried to pry up the rock. But the stick broke, and Herbie got a fall, from which he jumped up red and angry.

"Mean old thing!" said he, and he put his hands in his pockets and watched Hal and Had tug at it until their faces were red, too.

Then the three of them lifted together; but it wasn't a mite of use.

"Let's get the hoe," said Had.

"And the little crowbar," said Hal.

"And the shovel," said Herbie.

So Had hoed around it, and Herbie shoveled. Ha! pushed the crowbar under the rock, and bore down on it with all his might. The afternoon was very warm, and the three little scarlet faces needed a great deal of mopping. But the boys wouldn't give it up.

"Poor little fellows!" said grandma, looking out through the vines.

But just then a great shout announced that the work was done; and there—there where the rock had lain were four new silver dimes—one apiece and one for luck.

"Hurrah for grandpa!" cheered the boys, and at that very minute grandpa walked out of the house.

"Pretty well done!" said he, giving each little head a pat as he came to it. "Pretty well done!"

And now the boys are anxious to dig out another rock; but grandpa thinks maybe silver dimes won't grow under the next one.—Exchange.

A BOY'S RELIGION.—If a boy is a lover of the Lord Jesus Christ, though he can't lead a prayer meeting or be a church officer or a preacher, he can be a godly boy, in a boy's way and a boy's place. He ought not to be too solemn or too quiet for a boy. He need not cease to be a boy because he is a Christian. He ought to run, jump, play, climb, and yell like a real boy. But in it all he ought to be free from vulgarity and profanity. He ought to eschew tobacco in every form, and have a horror of intoxicating drinks. He ought to be peaceable, gentle, merciful, generous. He ought to take the part of small boys against large ones. He ought to discourage fighting. He ought to refuse to be party to mischief, to persecution, to deceit, And, above all things, he ought now and then to show his colors. He need not always be interrupting a game to say that he is a Christian, but he ought not to be ashamed to say that he refuses to do something because it is wrong and wicked, or because he fears God, or is a Christian. He ought to take no part in the ridicule of sacred things, but meet the ridicule of others with a bold statement that for the things of God he feels the deepest reverence.—Selected.

Killing the Dragon.

A little boy four years old was much impressed by the story of "St. George and the Dragon," which his mother had been reading to him and his sister, and the next day he said to his father:

"Father, I want to be a saint."

"Very well, John," said his father: "you may be a saint if you choose, but you will find it very hard work."

"I don't mind," replied John. "I want to be a saint and fight a dragon. I am sure I could kill one!"

"So you shall, my boy."

"But when can I be one?" persisted the child.

"You can begin to-day," said his father.

"But where is the dragon?"

"I will tell you when he comes out."

So the boy ran off contentedly to play with his sister.

In the course of the day some presents came for the two children: John's was a book, and his sister Catharine's a beautiful doll. Now John, was too young to care for a book, but he dearly loved dolls; and when he found that his sister had what he considered a much nicer present than his own, he threw himself on the floor in a passion of tears.

His father, who happened to be there, said, quietly:

"Now, John, the dragon is out."

The child stopped crying, and looked quickly around the room, and then up at his father's face, but said nothing.

That evening, however, when he bade his father "good-night," he whispered: "Papa, I am very glad Catharine has the doll. I did kill the dragon!"—Temperance Banner.

"Mamma, mamma," sobbed a little three-year-old girl, running into the house, much offended, "I wish you'd whip the old hen. She won't let me see the chickies. She dest lifted up her dress an' they all run right under!"

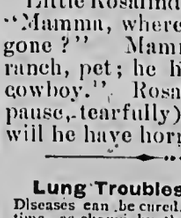
"I had my picture taken today," said little Christine. "I crossed my arms and leaned on a chair, and the picture man put my head in some tongs." "Why, you must have looked like a lump of sugar in sugar-tongs," laughed papa. "Why, so I must have," said Christine, delightedly, "cause the man kept saying, 'What a sweet little girl!'"

Little Rosalind (five years old): "Mamma, where has Uncle Jack gone?" Mamma: "On a ranch, pet; he has gone to be a cowboy." Rosalind (after a pause, tearfully): "O mamma, will he have horns?"

Lung Troubles and Wasting

Diseases can be cured, if properly treated in time, as shown by the following statement from D. C. FREEMAN, Sidney: "Having been a great sufferer from pulmonary attacks, and gradually wasting away for the past two years, it affords me pleasure to testify that Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda has given me great relief, and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering in a similar way to myself. In addition, I would say that it is very pleasant to take."

When Christ showed us God, then man had only to stand at his highest and look up to the infinite above him to see how small he was. And, always, the true way to be humble is not to stoop till you are smaller than yourself, but to stand at your real height against some higher nature that shall show you what the real smallness of your greatest greatness is. The first is the unreal humility that always goes about deprecating human nature; the second is the genuine humility that always stands in love and adoration, glorifying God.—Phillips Brooks.



BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO SCIENCE AT all comparable to the CUTICURA REMEDIES in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Dull Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Ministers, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., 720 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

Household.

HEALTH ACROSTIC.

(The Trinity Church Association of New York City distributes gratuitously among the tenement houses in the lower wards of the city the following hints on the preservation of health, in verse printed on a card.)

As soon as you are up, shake blankets and sheet.
Better be without shoes than sit with wet feet;
Children, if healthy, are active, not still;
Damp beds and damp clothes will both make you ill;
Eat slowly, and always chew your food well;
Freshen the air in the house where you dwell;
Garments must never be made to be tight;
Homes will be healthy, if airy and light;
If you wish to be well, as you do, I've no doubt,
Just open the windows before you go out;
Keep your rooms always tidy and clean,
Let dust on its furniture never be seen;
Much illness is caused by the want of pure air,
Now to open your windows be ever your care;
Old rags and old rubbish should never be kept;
People should see that their floors are well swept;
Quick movements in children are healthy and right;
Remember the young can not thrive without light.
See that the cistern is clean to the brim;
Take care that your dress is all tidy and trim;
Use your nose to find out if there be a bad drain.
Very sad are the fevers that come in its train.
Walk as much as you can without feeling fatigue;
Nerves could walk till many a league:
Your health is your wealth, which your wisdom must keep;
Zeal will help a good cause, and the good you will reap.

INFLUENCE OF HAPPY HOMES.—If every word we speak and act we perform carry with them influences which can be seen and felt during all time: if the universe, as many now believe, is one gigantic sensitive plate on which is stamped even the secret thoughts of every mind, how powerful and far-reaching must be the influence of a happy home! Not so much by words as by feelings, thoughts and deeds do its members unconsciously make their own records.

It has been truly said that each soul is a battery connected with all other souls and that nowhere is the circuit broken. Continuing the similitude, it is evident that, in consequence, when one suffers all others suffer though the cause of it they may not know, and that the joy of one is the joy of all. Life, universal and eternal, palpitates through all the human family from center to farthest circumference, and individuals are only stations where power is received, stored and distributed—Good Housekeeping.

"HARDENING" CHILDREN.—There is a tolerably general impression in many quarters that in order to promote the health of children, it is advisable to subject them to a "hardening" process. The aim is to encourage native energy by opposition, to engender strength of mind and body by early participation in the struggle for existence. The principle is in itself a wholesome one, and is not without its parallel in the history of nature's processes. Care is most necessary, however, in its application. Without such care it may, and frequently has been, overdone. In particular must it be remembered that all success in the adoption of this plan in education depends on the possession by a child thus trained at a basis of sturdy physical vigor. A delicate child, if similarly treated, would languish and succumb.

HOW TO SAVE BOYS.—Open your blinds by day and light bright fires at night. Illuminate your rooms. Hang pictures upon your walls. Put books and newspapers upon your tables. Have music and entertaining games. Banish demons of dullness and apathy, and bring in mirth and good cheer. Invent occupations for your sons. Stimulate their ambitions in worthy directions. While you make home their delight, fill them with higher purposes than mere pleasure. Whether they shall pass boyhood and enter upon manhood with refined tastes and noble ambitions depends on you. With exertion and right means, a mother may have more control over the destiny of her boys than any other influence whatever.—Appleton's Journal.

A Book Which Has Helped Me.

Under title of "Books Which Have Helped Me," a galaxy of famous authors has given expression to some suggestive opinions. Of course cases varied, and there were unavoidable omissions. So for the purpose of filling the hiatus occasioned by one of them we subjoin the following brief notice from the editorial columns of the New South:

"We have seen the efficiency of the Compound Oxygen Treatment, as prepared by Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, No. 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., or 331 Montgomery street, San Francisco, Cal., tested so fully and successfully in a number of cases, embracing a variety of diseases, that we do not hesitate to recommend it to all afflicted with chronic diseases of any kind. Send for a copy of their treatment on Compound Oxygen, an interesting book of 200 pages, sent free by mail."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:—

"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyron, (of Fernandina, Fla.,) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas Selections Containing new Carols, Chants, and services, by well-known writers, a full line of work, all of it attractive. Responsive Exercises of high character, with or without the Carols. Price, $4 per hundred; 50 cts. per dozen; mailed postpaid; $1 a hundred when not prepaid.

—FOR 1888.—

Services. "Good Will to Men," Hall; "Noel," by P. Lutkin; and "Peace on Earth," by E. Hall; these consist of choice Responsive Readings with carols, etc., out which are interspersed Beautiful Anthems, especially for use in connection with the Readings. Price of each of the three Services as for the "Christmas Selections."

Cantatas. "The New Santa Claus," by Tilsworth and Winner. "Santa Claus," by Burnham and Root. "The Waifs' Christmas," by Burnham and Root. "Santa Claus' Visitors," by Burnham and Root. "The Three Kings Kringle," by Butterworth and Root. Price of the Cantatas, each by mail postpaid

Catalogue of all kinds of Christmas Music will be sent free on application.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

UCO CO PILE OINTMENT

The Great PILE REMEDY.

Why will so many suffer the tortures of piles, when they can be speedily cured without pain and without cost. A permanent and immediate cure guaranteed. Send 25c. postal note for sample package

C. S. GILMAN & CO., AKRON, OHIO.

HINDERCORNS.

The only sure Cure for Corns. Stops all pain. Ensures comfort to the feet. 15c. at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N. Y.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

From its combination of valuable medicines, is superior to the essence of Ginger in the cure of Cramps, Colic, Dyspepsia and Bowel disorders, and is invaluable for all Throat and Lung Troubles. Use it without delay if you have Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Weak Lungs. 50c. & $1.

BAILEY'S REFLECTORS.

For Gas. For Oil.

A Wonderful invention for lighting CHURCHES, Halls, etc. Unique in design. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free. BAILEY REFLECTOR CO. 163 Wood St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO

SUCCESSORS IN BLYMYER BELLS TO THE BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO

CATALOGUE WITH 1600 TESTIMONIALS.

BELLS, CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O

McShane Bell Foundry

Finest Grade of Bells.

CHIMES AND PEALS for Churches, &c. Address Send for Price and Catalogue. H. McSHANE & CO., Baltimore, Md.

Mention this paper.

In all the world there is but one sure cure for the OPIUM Habit. The Dr. J. E. Stephens Remedy never fails, and no other treatment ever cures. We have cured more than 10,000 cases. No other Remedy ever cured one case. NO PAY TILL CURED. Remember this, and write to the J. E. Stephens Co., Lebanon, Ohio.

CANCER and Tumors CURED: no knife: book free. Drs. GRATIGNY & BONO, No. 155 Plum St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

HOLLINGSWORTH—SLADE.—At the residence of the bride's father, Lumberton, Marion county, Miss., October 5, 1888, by Rev. J. D. Hays, Mr. Robert Hollingsworth to Miss Frances Almeda Slade.

ADAMS—TALLY.—At the residence of Mr. W. R. P. Tally, near Walnut Grove, Miss., by Rev. Irvine Miller, Mr. J. A. Adams to Miss Annie Tally.

MILESAPS—MIDDLETON.—At the residence of the bride's father, Bowerton, Miss., August 29, 1888, by Rev. D. F. Gulce, Mr. W. F. Milesaps to Miss Matilda Middleton.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

BRYANT—God's people are gathering home. BENJAMIN BRYANT was born December 28, 1817, in Georgia; went to Alabama in childhood; then to Tennessee, and when a young man removed to Mississippi. On October 8, 1888, he was thrown or fell from a wagon in Anding, Yazoo county, Miss., and was so severely injured that he died on the tenth from concussion of the brain. Bro. Bryant was married to Mary J. Denson, daughter of Rev. William Denson, in Rankin county, February 22, 1848. She, with a son and daughter, survives him. Bro. Bryant was converted and attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church in his youth—about 1830. He had, therefore, been a member of the church for about fifty-eight years, and was always a true and faithful Christian. He loved the church and its ordinances and was, in his younger days, before age and infirmities prevented him, regular in his attendance and faithful in the discharge of every duty that devolved upon him. He spent many years in Madison county, Miss.; several years in Louisiana; returning to Mississippi, always carrying his letter and attaching himself to the church where he lived. He was once independent, if not affluent, circumstances; but met with reverses and lost his property, but was ever cheerful and resigned, preserving unsullied his Christian character under all circumstances and changes of fortune. He was a kind husband and tender father. He was as sweet-spirited and kindly as a woman. No one ever heard words of doubtful propriety or outbursts of temper from him. He loved the preachers and, in his days of prosperity, his home was the preacher's home. Indeed, he seemed to regret his loss of fortune more because of his inability to have them with him and his inability to support the church, than for the sake of self. He went home full of years and of honors. J. R. B.

LANGSTON—Mrs. MARY C. LANGSTON, daughter of Osborn Robinson and Mary C. Dunlap, was born in South Carolina in 1812. Her parents moved to Jasper county, Ga., where she was converted when quite young, and joined the Presbyterian Church. In 1834, having moved to Harrison county, Ga., and there being no Presbyterian Church convenient, she united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which she remained a consistent and faithful member until death removed her to the church triumphant. She died near Arcadia, Bienville parish, La., September 4, 1888, at the advanced age of seventy-six years, full of faith and hope. She was married to Rev. James R. Langston, near Whitesville, Ga., April 6, 1836. In 1844 they moved to Arkansas, and in 1851 to Claiborne parish, La. She was the mother of eight children—five of whom preceded her to the spirit land. She leaves an aged husband, two daughters and one son to mourn their loss. For fifty-two years she was a true and faithful helpmeet to her husband. When he was absent from home she kept up family worship with the children. The result was that all of the children were converted and became active members of the church. She leaves a large number of grandchildren, and nearly all of them are members of the church. "She commanded her house after her." She suffered much and long, but with Christian patience she bore it, and testified that these afflictions were "working for her a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." She is "waiting and watching" for the loved ones on the other shore. JNO. A. MILLER.

SMITH—DR. THOMAS H. L. SMITH was born in Calvert county, Md., March 21, 1824, and died in Jefferson county, Miss., June 30, 1888, and was buried at Auburn, the family residence of the Harrisons, on Cole Creek. He was the son of Col. William Smith and Margaret Lyles. He came to Mississippi with his parents and settled in Hinds county. He studied medicine with Dr. Cheer, of Baltimore, and graduated at the University of Pennsylvania. He married Mabella Harrison, and practiced in Jefferson county until the late Civil War, when he settled in Natchez and continued in his profession until a short time before his death, when he returned to his old plantation to die; and his devoted wife and three sons mourn their loss. He was a long and patient sufferer, dying from heart disease. He had joined Jefferson Street Methodist Church, and expressed himself as prepared to die. Farewell, old friend; may your many good deeds come as a memorial in your behalf, when the Master comes to reward his faithful followers! THOS. REED.

SMITH—Died in Starkville, Miss., September 11, 1888, little MARION, youngest child of Mr. George W. and Mrs. Bettie Smith, aged three years and five months. "Suffer the little children to come unto me."

L. H. P.

JAMES—To me has been accorded the honor of writing a few words, by way of memoir, concerning the late SAMUEL L. JAMES, of Holmes county, Miss., and I confess that I could do so worthily, could I but in any wise portray his grand character according as it is estimated by my own warm feelings of love and admiration. I would write of his life no brilliant and rounded rhetorical sketch—all worthy as he is of all that rhetoric and oratory and poetry could do to depict his nobility. I have neither the time nor the talent for this, and I know that he would not have it so. I would only mention a few of his most shining virtues that all will attest at once as belonging to him, and that each individual should bestir himself to imitate. In business judgment, profound; in coolness and soundness of mind, in sobriety, in liberality, in lowly humility, in evenness of temper—in all these respects he was a man among men—he was a man of a thousand! He was born in Copiah county, Miss., in the year 1816, and attained unto the age of seventy-two years and sixteen days, departing this life, September 27, 1888, at the home of his intimate friend, Mr. E. W. Burton, and in the town of Pickens—the place in which he had spent many years of his life and which had witnessed many of his greatest business successes. The family name of James has become famous, linked, as it is, with the financial and religious history of our State; but if there is one member above another who has contributed to dignify and emblazon the escutcheon of this house, such an one is this same elder brother of large powers and fine industry. He was one of the few men who make history, and yet refuse to permit their own names to sparkle upon its pages. He, in dispensing his many charities, was one of the few who obey the Bible injunction. "Let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth."

As a friend, he was of that rare and precious type, that if he heard an absent friend ill spoken of, he considered it as personal and took the matter up; whereas, the rule is, that the most that can be expected of a good friend, even under such circumstances, is to keep silent. As a business man, what is most remarkable about him, and in which I might almost say, he was alone, is the fact that he had no enemies, notwithstanding his various and multitudinous transactions with all sorts of people; but, on the contrary, the result shows that he enchained all hearts in friendship to himself. In a word, with regard to all matters of public importance and interest, he was referred to and consulted as a very oracle of wisdom—a very patriarch of authority.

This hurried sketch would be incomplete without a mention of the colored people as among his most devoted friends and ministers, not only those of his former slaves, but every one of his acquaintance. They regarded him universally in a spirit of veneration that invested him with somewhat of the supernatural. In view of such a life, the hard fact stares us in the face that his death was a severe public, as well as sore personal loss, and we fall in deep humility and supplication before our God and beg of him—who only can—to raise up another to take his place. MAC.

HILLIARD—Died at her home, near Dublin, Coahoma county, Miss., Mrs. LOUETTA W. HILLIARD, wife of Capt. M. W. Hilliard. Sister Hilliard was born May 11, 1845, and died September 29, 1888, aged forty-three years, four months and eighteen days. She was converted about 1857, and has ever since been a consistent member of the church of Christ. She leaves a kind husband, an affectionate daughter, relatives and many friends to mourn her departure, of whom her pastor is one. Her once pleasant face is to be seen no more on earth by those who loved her; but her daughter will remind us of our sainted sister, whom God hath called to enjoy her reward of eternal life. A Christian wife and mother gone to wait and watch at the beautiful gate for those she has left on earth, leaving them the evidence that she died as she lived—"in the Lord." May God sanctify her death to the eternal good of those who are to-day mourning her absence, and help us to realize that, "God hath the right to call his children home!" May a double portion of her spirit be given her daughter, that she may carry on the work her tired hands hath laid down, until our heavenly Father shall say, "Come up higher and enjoy the presence of mother and friends in the haven of rest!"

J. W. TREADWELL.

TEDDLIE—EVALINA MATTIE, infant daughter of A. C. Teddlie and Nina McCain, was born February 15, 1888, and departed this life, September 13, aged six months, twenty-nine days. Little Eva was not only idolized by parents and grandparents, but was a general favorite. She was afflicted all her life, but was nursed day and night by one of the most affectionate mothers I have ever known. Her little dead face was one of the sweetest I have ever seen, and her funeral one of the most impressive I have ever attended. Many touched the little cold hand and promised to meet the sainted babe in the better world. That these promises may be fulfilled is the prayer of her pastor.

J. F. WYNN.

ALLEN—CLARENCE ANCEL, infant son of Reuben and Maggie Allen, was born April 15, 1888, and faded from their mortal sight June 5, 1888, and went home to Jesus, who said "of such is the kingdom of God." This should console the hearts of sorrowing parents. J. W. ELLISON, Pastor.

Temperance is reason's guide and passion's bridle, the strength of the soul, and the foundation of virtue.—Jeremy Taylor.

Shallenberger's Antidote for Malaria destroys the cause of disease, which Quinine and other remedies do not pretend to do. It effectually neutralizes the poison in the system, and thus prevents the chill. It contains no arsenic or poisonous ingredient of any kind, and may safely be given to an infant. Sold by Druggists.

Scientific.

Niagara's Retrocession.

Dr. Pohlman, in an address before the Society of Natural Science of Buffalo, on "Recent Changes in the Falls of Niagara," said:

"The first scientific survey of the Falls was made in 1842 by Prof. James Hall, the State Geologist of New York, and all our exact knowledge dates from his maps. Professor Hall gives the height of the American fall as 167 feet, and of the Horseshoe fall as 158 feet, counting the elevations from the water's edge on October 4, 1842, and he admits that this starting point can vary from 4 to 20 feet with the rise and fall of the water in the river below the falls; width of American falls, 600, and Horseshoe, 1,800 feet. The Lake survey went over the ground again in 1875, and in those thirty-three years the southernmost part of the Horseshoe fall had receded 160 feet, while in the brink of the American fall differences of 40 feet were apparent. When the American Association for the Advancement of Science met here in 1886, the Section of Geology decided to make Niagara the problem of the session, and for that purpose Professor Woodward, of Washington, and some of his assistants surveyed the brink of the falls again. He found an average retrocession for the whole face of the falls of about 2 1-2 feet per annum, but as the central parts of the curve, where the water is deepest, retreated faster than the edges, for the southernmost part of the Horseshoe fall it was found that it had traveled south 275 feet since 1875, or 435 feet since 1842, or about 9 feet every year. In view of such rapid changes it seems highly probable that the older pictures of the falls, which always place the Horseshoe fall considerably nearer than we find it to-day, are practically correct. If the rate of retrocession remains during the next five hundred years as it has been for the past forty-five years, the inner edge of the Horseshoe fall will have passed to the west of Goat Island, and as the line of deepest water is near the Canadian shore, all the waters of the river will pass over the Horseshoe fall, obliterating the American fall entirely and transforming Goat Island into a peninsula.

"The fall will then perhaps be higher than to-day, because the present descent of fifty feet over the rapids will then be added to the height of the cataract minus the number of feet necessary to give the necessary current to the river below, which at present is fifteen feet to the mile. At that rate it will need about five miles before the Niagara shale, which occupies the lower half of the face of the fall, is under water, and the retrocession by means of undermining is stopped. Then the changes will be accomplished simply by the eroding power of the water, and the falls will remain near the foot of Grand Island for a practically unlimited time. The hope of finally having the Falls of Niagara at Buffalo must be abandoned, for from the foot of Grand Island to the city only rapids can exist, never a fall, on account of the nature of the underlying rock, which is soft.

"As the retrocession of the Falls of Niagara commenced in what we may call geologically the most recent period, the time necessary for it to arrive at its present site has had a very important bearing upon the question of the age of man on the American continent. As long as it was considered necessary to claim several hundred thousand years for the age of Niagara alone, the age of the human race had to be computed at perhaps 500,000 years. No matter how little such high figures agreed with other discoveries, the rocky gorge of the Niagara always presented an insurmountable obstacle against any reduction of time. But now since we have discovered that after all the work of excavation could have been done in perhaps 3,000 or 4,000 years, our computation of the age of the human race has settled down to reasonable figures, which gives to the beds in which the oldest human implements have been found an age of perhaps of 40,000 to 50,000 years, and anthropologists claim that all the facts collected so far agree well with the latter figure.

"Future surveys of the Falls at perhaps every ten years will help to settle definitely this important question, for we are all more or less interested in the history of the human race, and as far as we know to-day the Falls of Niagara represent the most reliable measure of time on the face of the globe."—Buffalo Courier.

It is rough work that polishes. Look at the pebbles on the shore! Far inland, where some arm of the sea thrusts itself deep into the bosom of the land, and expanding into a soft loch, lies girdled by the mountains, sheltered from the storms that agitate the deep, the pebbles on the beach are rough, not beautiful; angular, not rounded. It is where long white lines of breakers roar, and the rattling shingle is rolling about the strand, that its pebbles are rounded and polished. As in nature, as in art, so in grace, it is rough treatment that gives souls, as well as stones, their lustre. The more the diamond is cut the brighter it sparkles; and in what seems hard dealing, there God has no end in view but to perfect his people.—Guthrie.

Salvation Oil is guaranteed to effect a cure in all rheumatic and neuralgic affections.

Chinese eat rice off sharp-pointed sticks, but take Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup naturally.

The human voice and eye give a reality to the thought, provided the voice and eye be real and earnest also.—C. Kingsley.

"I want to thank you," writes a young man to B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va., "for placing me in a position by which I am enabled to make money faster than I ever did before." This is but a sample extract of the many hundreds of letters received by the above firm.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PHILIP WERLEIN'S
GREAT PIANO HOUSE,
135 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

MASON & HAMLIN, MATHUSHEK, WEBER, and other Celebrated Pianos.

MASON & HAMLIN, ESTEY, and other World-Renowned Organs

Special Discounts to Schools and Churches. Greatest Bargains to Be Obtained at this Popular Piano House.

Catalogues mailed on application.

Artificial Limbs,
Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted
—BY—
A. McDERMOTT,
200 - - - ST CHARLES STREET - - - - - - 200
Bet. Julia and St. Joseph.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND
Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases.
A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel.
The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. ☞ It can be given with to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

PERFECT SAFETY

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

It has been used with most wonderful effect in

Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c.

Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2 cent stamp to MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA.

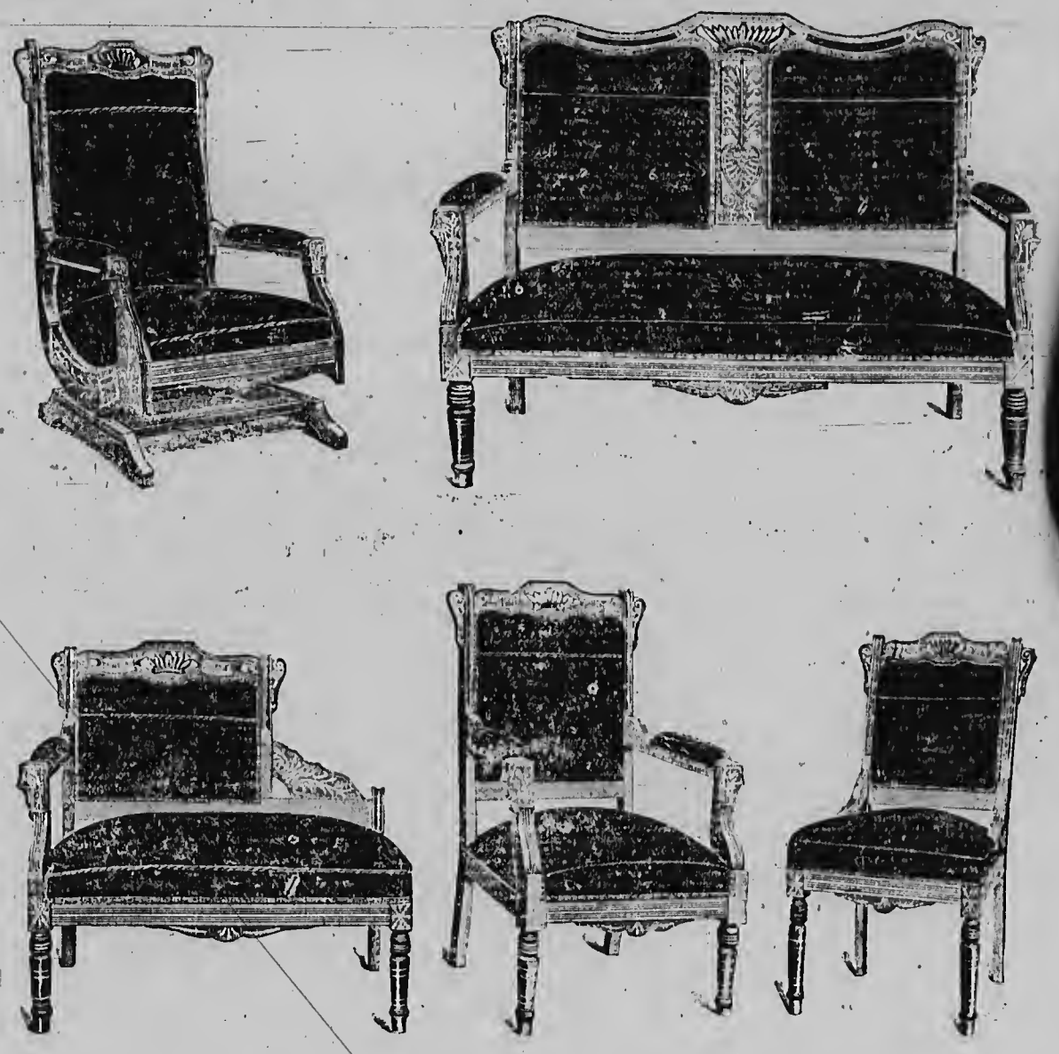
GRANT'S
FURNITURE HOUSE.



$35.00
Buys a beautiful Crimson Plush Parlor Suit, in five pieces, as shown in illustration. Solid Walnut Frame, Hand-carved and Rubbed Oil Polish. Same suit in Hair Cloth, $35.

$45.00
Buys the same suit in five pieces, covered in Silk Plush, all one color, in either of the following: Crimson, Old Gold, Olive, Peacock Blue or Maroon; or the same set made up in all the above colors.

$55.00
Buys the suit in ten pieces, including the five pieces here shown, one more Sofa and four Parlor Chairs covered in plush.

$65.00
Buys the same set—ten pieces—covered in Silk Plush—all one color, or five different colors.

Plush Rockers, Reception Chairs, Reed and Rattan Rockers, Fancy Tables in Walnut, Mahogany, Oak and Cherry.

$20.00
Buys a French Bed-Room Set.

$69.50
Buys a beautiful Victoria Bed-Room Set, in imitation Walnut, Marble-top—twelve pieces—as follows: Bedstead, Dresser, Wash-stand, Armoir, four Cane-seat Chairs, one Cane-seat Rocker, one Towel Rack, one Spring, and one Centre Table.

$95.00
Buys a magnificent Black Walnut Bed-Room Set, Marble-Top, Satin Tester, brass rods—twelve pieces as above.

$19.00
Buys a Dining-Room Set, including Sideboard, Extension Table, and six Cane-seat Chairs.

$22.00
Buys a Kitchen Set, including a first-class Stove with Utensils, Kitchen Safe, Kitchen Table, four Kitchen Chairs.

Office and Library Furniture in large variety.
CARPETS—Ingrain, Brussels and Velvets.
Rugs, Portiere and Lace Curtains in all styles and at all prices.

☞ Figures talk; and if you doubt, call and inspect the goods. Everything else proportionately cheap. Stock complete with the latest designs and fresh from the best factories. Call and examine, and I guarantee polite attention, reliable goods, fair dealing and bottom prices at the Cheapest FURNITURE HOUSE in NEW ORLEANS.

J. G. GRANT, 50 and 52 Baronne Street.
☞ Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

EDUCATIONAL.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

PROF. D. F. HUDDLE, Sec.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the V., S. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 1889.
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—board, books, tuition and fees—of a complete English course for one term of twenty weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address

R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

J. D. BRUNNER, Pres.

G. W. HUDDLESTON, Sec.

TEACHERS, PROFESSORS and TUTORS supplied to Schools, Seminaries, Colleges and Families free of charge. We have a large normal student registration. Teachers, register early. Fee, small. Address, with stamp,

AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Cole Building, Nashville, Tenn.

Weekly Market Review.

For Week Ending November 6, 1888.

COTTON.

Low ordinary	7	@ — —
Ordinary	7 1/2	— —
Good ordinary	8 1/8	— —
Low middling	8 7/8	— —
Middling	9 3/8	— —
Good middling	9 7/8	— —
Middling fair	10 3/8	— —
Fair	11 1/4	— —
Galveston middling	9 5-16	— —
Mobile middling	9 1/4	— —
St. Louis middling	9 3/8	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	5	5 1-16
Fully fair	4 3/4	4 7/8
Good fair	4 5/16	— —
Common	4	4 3/8
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4 1/4	5 3/4
Pr. yellow	5 15-16	6 1-16
Gray White	6 5-16	6 3/8
Choice white	6 5/8	6 11-16
Stan. Grail	7 1/4	— —

MOLASSES.

OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	44	— —
Fair	27	28
Good Common	— —	25
Syrup	25	33

RICE.

Head	5 1/4	6 1/4
Good	5	5 1/8
Fair	4 1/8	4 3/4
Good	4 1/4	4 3/4
Polish, per ton	14 00	15 00
No. 2	2 1/8	2 1/4
Rough	2 25	4 00

FLOUR.

Extra Fancy	5 60	5 70
Fancy	5 30	5 40
Choice	4 50	4 60
Minnesota patents	7 50	— —
Extra fancy	5 80	6 00
Winter wheat patents	6 35	6 50
Minnesota bakers	6 50	6 75

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	2 60	2 75
Cream meal	3 10	— —
Grits	3 00	3 20
Hominy	3 25	— —

GRAIN, ETC.

CORN:
White	54	55
Yellow	— —	55
Mixed No. 2	54	55
OATS:
Western	33	— —
Choice	— —	34
BRAN:
₩ cwt	87 1/2	90
HAY:
Prime	15 00	15 50
Choice	16 00	16 50

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	16 00	16 25
Prime Mess	— —	15 50
Rumps	— —	15 00
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	8	8
Sides, long clear	8 1/2	8 3/8
Sides, short rib	8 1/4	8 3/8
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	12	12 1/2
Shoulders	8 1/2	8 3/4
Sides, long clear	9 1/4	— —
Sides, short rib	9 1/4	9 3/4
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	11 1/2	12 1/2

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	17 1/2	17 3/4
Fair	16 1/2	16 3/4
Common	14	14 1/4
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Fair	24	35
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	29	30
Western Dairy	18	19
Common	15	— —
LARD:
Refined	— —	8 1/4
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11 3/4	— —
Coal, cases	16	17
Cotton seed, crude	— —	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70	75

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, per head	3	4
Chicago, per 100	— —	— —
Louisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	— —	1 90
KROUT:
Western, ₩ bbl	— —	4 00
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 25	1 35

BALING STUFFS.

BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb	12 3/4	13
Jute, 1 3/4 lb, per yd	12 1/2	— —
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	12 1/2
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	10 1/2	11
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 05	— —

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00	4 50
Young Chickens	1 75	3 50
Chickens, South'n	3 00	3 50
Young	1 75	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	12 00
EGGS:
Western	16	17
Southern	17 1/2	18
WOOL:
Lake, per lb	20	21
Louisiana	18	19
Burry	10	12
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₩ lb	— —	5
Dry salted	6	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	11 00	— —
Meal	20 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	— —
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	2 1/2	— —
Sulphuric acid	2	— —

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Lord Sackville, the late British Minister at Washington, whose letter to a correspondent, dabbling in American politics, created such a sensation, was requested by President Cleveland to withdraw.

President Cleveland issued a proclamation, on the first instant, designating Thursday, November 29, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer.

Judge Allen G. Thurman, the Democratic candidate for Vice-President, closed his campaign at Nelsonville, O., on November 3. It is eleven weeks since he started out, and during that time he has traveled 4,785 miles by railroad and 125 miles by water, and made eight-nine speeches of all kinds.

The severest shock of earthquake felt in West Tennessee since 1811 was experienced at Union City, on November 3, between three and four o'clock A. M. It was preceded by a terrific roarling, and the motion was from west to east. Nearly the entire population was awakened.

The express car on the Northeastern railroad was robbed on November 3, about forty-four miles distant from New Orleans. A highwayman took charge of the car while the train was in motion; and, after surprising and overcoming its inmates, quietly left the train with money and valuables aggregating $30,000.

A disastrous explosion occurred in the Kettle Creek Coal Mines, in Pennsylvania, on the third instant. Seventeen lives were lost.

The Monticello Female Seminary, in Illinois, was destroyed by fire on the fourth instant. A vast amount of property, accumulated in the half-century the school was in operation, was burned. The seminary's loss on building and contents is over $150,000; insurance, $75,000.

The Louisiana State Fair and Shreveport Exposition opened its third annual display in Shreveport, November 5. Its opening gives promise of a brilliant success.

Jacksonville, Fla., on November 5, reported 39 new cases and 5 deaths from yellow fever; Fernandina, Fla.—new cases, 8; deaths, 1; Gainesville, Fla.—new cases, 3; Decatur, Ala.—new cases, 5.

FOREIGN.

The festivities in Athens, on October 31, in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of King George's accession to the throne were carried out on a grand scale. The buildings of the city were profusely decorated and the streets were thronged with visitors.

The Czar has received telegrams from the Emperor of Germany and Austria and President Carnot of France congratulating him upon his escape from the accident which his train met with last week.

The condition of the King of the Netherlands has grown worse, and is declared to be critical.

Hon. Michael Henry Herbert has been appointed British charge d'affairs at Washington. Lord Sackville will come to England immediately on leave of absence. It is understood that the government will allow his case to rest until after the presidential election.

M. Goblet, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, has received from the Vatican a note respecting Emperor William's recent visit to Rome. In it the Vatican again asserts the papal claims to temporal power.

The court has ordered that the affairs of the American Exchange in Paris be wound up under the supervision of the court.

The Official Messenger states that the Czar's foot and the Czarina's hand were injured in the accident to the Imperial train on Monday last. Despite their injuries, the Czar and Czarina devoted themselves to attending to the other persons on the train who were severely injured.

The Catholics of Australia and India have presented the Pope with $1,000,000.

Emperor William has signed decrees reorganizing the admiralty. Vice-Admiral Count Von Moltz will retain the administrative head of the department, but in the future the commander-in-chief will be severed from the Admiralty Office, and in due time will be bestowed upon Prince Henry. The navy battalions or marine will be increased from April to regiments of two battalions, with four companies each.

The National Zeitung confirms the report that the King of Greece will visit Berlin next autumn. It also says that Emperor William has promised to attend the marriage at Athens of the Duke of Sparta to the Princess Sophia of Prussia.

Cardinal Newman, of Landon, who had been seriously ill, is now reported out of danger. A thanksgiving service for his recovery was held on November 4.

The Freissinger Zeitung and other journals deny the existence of a concerted plan to misrepresent Emperor William, and declare that the municipal authorities have no influence over the press.

The Norwegian bark "Norr," Captain Bjonness, from New York, October 5, for Stettin, collided with and sank the steamer "Saxmundham off Cowes. Twenty-two persons are missing and are supposed to have been drowned. Eight survivers have landed at Weymouth. The "Norr" was abandoned. Her crew have landed at Portland.

The Pope refused to comply with Count Herbert Bismarck's request to use his influence in behalf of the government candidates in the elections for the Landtag; hence there is coldness between Germany and the Vatican.

The Advocate Free until 1889.

Send $2 now and receive the ADVOCATE free until 1889. Your subscription will not expire until January 1, 1890.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is becoming a universal favorite for restoring gray hair to its natural color, and making hair grow thick and strong.

Thanksgiving Day.

A PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Thanksgiving and gratitude from the American people to Almighty God for his goodness and mercy, which have followed them since the day he made them a nation and vouchsafed to them a free government. With loving kindness he has constantly led us in the way of prosperity and greatness; he has not visited with swift punishment our shortcomings, but with gracious care he has warned us of our dependence upon his forbearance and has taught us that obedience to his holy law is the price of a continuance of his precious gifts. In acknowledgement of all that God has done for us as a nation, and to the end that on an appointed day the united prayers and praises of a grateful country may reach the throne of grace, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the twenty-ninth day of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to be kept and observed throughout the land. On that day let all our people suspend their ordinary work and occupations, and in their accustomed places of worship with prayer and songs of praise render thanks to God for all his mercies, for the abundant harvests which have rewarded the toil of the husbandman during the year that has passed, and for the rich rewards that have followed the labors of our people in their shops, and in their marts of trade and traffic. Let us give thanks for peace and for social order and contentment within our borders, and for our advancement in all that adds to national greatness, and mindful of the afflictive dispensation with which a portion of our land has been visited; let us, while we humble ourselves before the power of God, acknowledge his mercy in setting bounds to the deadly march of pestilence, and let our hearts be chastened by sympathy with our fellow-countrymen who have suffered and who mourn; and as we return thanks for all the blessings which we have received from the hands of our heavenly Father, let us not forget that he has enjoined upon us charity; and on this day of thanksgiving let us generally remember the poor and needy so that our tribute of praise and gratitude may be acceptable in the sight of the Lord.

Done at the City of Washington on the first day of November, eighteen hundred and eighty-eight, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and thirteenth.

In witness whereof I have hereunto signed my name and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

GROVER CLEVELAND,
President.

By T. F. BAYARD,
Secretary of State.

Common Sense

Should be used in attempting to cure that very disagreeable disease, catarrh. As catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do no permanent good. The common-sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. That this peculiar medicine does cure catarrh is shown by the many testimonials from people who have found relief upon using it when all others had failed. A book containing statements of cures sent on receipt of two-cent stamp, by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Quarterly Conferences.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Arkabutla	Nov. 10, 11
Como and Fredonia	12
Chulahoma	17, 18
Cockrum	24, 25
Louisburg	27
Horn Lake	Dec. 1, 2

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GRENADA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Atlanta	Nov. 10, 11
Grenada circuit	17, 18
Carrollton	24, 25
Pittsboro	Dec. 1, 2
Water Valley	8, 9

J. P. EVANS, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Myrtle	Nov. 10, 11
Marshall	17, 18
Hickory Flat	24, 25
Pine Mountain	Dec. 1, 2

JNO. HARCHOFT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Pleasant Ridge circuit	Nov. 10, 11
Ripley circuit	17, 18
Jonesboro circuit	24, 25
Ripley and New Albany	26
Blackland circuit	Dec. 1, 2
Gunntown circuit	8, 9

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Newport circuit	Nov. 10, 11
Zilphia	17, 18
Ebenezer	24, 25
Durant and Lexington	Dec. 1, 2
Ethel circuit	8, 9

R. P. MITCHELL, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Walthall, at Lebanon	Nov. 10, 11
Lagrange	17, 18
Chester, at Chester	24, 25
Crawford, at Artesia	Dec. 1, 2
Tampico, at Mt. Pleasant	8, 9

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Crystal Springs	Nov. 8
Adams, at Adams	10, 11
McComb City, at McComb City	11
Hohneeville, at Water Holes	17, 18
Franklinton, at Franklinton	24, 25

J. M. WEEMS, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Clark	Nov. 10, 11
Lauderdale	(Wed.) 14
Marion	(Thu.) 15
DeKalb	(Sat.) 17
Blumsville	18
Leaksville	(Wed.) 21
Meridian circuit	25
Meridian station	26

H. H. NORSWORTHY, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Walnut Grove, at Scotland Chapel	Nov. 10, 11
Shiloh	15
Marvin	16
Westville	17, 18
Raleigh	22
Brandon	24, 25

F. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Amite, at Woodland	Nov. 10, 11
East Fellciana, at Olive Branch	17, 18
Bayou Sara, at Concord	24, 25
Jackson	25, 26

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

South Vicksburg	Nov. 9, 10
Vicksburg	10, 11
Oak Grove	17, 18
Knoxville	24, 25

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Hattiesburg, at Hopewell	Nov. 14
Pogdarville, at Purvis	16
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs	18, 19
Seashore, at Biloxi	20
Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis	24, 25

T. S. WEST, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Edwards circuit, at Queen's Hill	Nov. 10, 11
Camden circuit, at Camden	17, 18
Raymond circuit, at Clinton	24, 25
West Jackson, at Forest Hill (11 a. m.)	26
Jackson station, at Jackson (7 p. m.)	26

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Indian Bayou	Nov. 10, 11
Washington	17, 18
Plaquemine Brulee	21, 25
Abbeville	Dec. 1, 2
Sulphur Mine	8, 9
Lake Charles	15, 16

S. S. KEEKER, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Mooringsport, at Mt. Zion	Nov. 8
Caddo, at Friendship	10, 11
Coushatta, at Coushatta	15
East Point, at Hill's Chapel	16
Red River, at Lindsley	17, 18
Shreveport	24, 25
South Bossier	27
Valley circuit	29
North Bossier	Dec. 1, 2
Pleasant Hill, at Pleasant Hill	8, 9
Mansfield	15, 16

J. B. CASSITY, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Lake Providence, at Pecan Grove	Nov. 10, 11
Oak Ridge, at Good Hope	17, 18
Bastrop, at Bastrop	21
Lloyd Grove, at Bartholomew	24, 25
Richland, at Girard	Dec. 1, 2
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	8, 9
Delhi and Floyd, at Floyd	15, 16

J. B. HARPER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Baton Rouge	Nov. 11
Donaldsonville and Plaquemine	18
Carrollton and Lower Coast Mission, at Carrollton	25
Crops Street	Dec. 2
Algiers	9
Louisiana Avenue	16

CHAS. T. HYMEL, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Castor, at Ebenezer	Nov. 10, 11
Montgomery, at Brett's	17, 18
Ada, at Beulah	20
Bayou Rapids, at Elm Bayou	24, 25
Sugar Town	Dec. 1, 2
Spring Creek, at Spring Creek	5
Alexandria, at Pineville	8, 9
Evergreen, at Melville	15, 16

B. F. ALEXANDER, P. E.

HOMER DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Ringgold, at Andrew Chapel	Nov. 10, 11
Ironshwood, at Gibsland	14
Vernon, at Wesley Chapel	17, 18
Indian Village	24, 25
Sparta and Saline	Dec. 1, 2
Ruston, at Ruston	8, 9
Arcadia, at Arcadia	15, 16

ROBERT RANDLE, P. E.

Special Offer.

Anyone sending two dollars will receive the ADVOCATE free of all charges until January, 1890.

The clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders. The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

Prevent Attacks of Fever.

We ask but a glance at this, and it will pay any sufferer from liver complaint, enlarged spleen or ague cake. Billious affections of any kind, deranged secretions, prostration from dissipation, constipation, dropsy, or any affections where liver, bowels, blood and stomach are involved. A guaranteed cure for all this class of diseases is offered in J. & C. Maguire's Cundurango. Doctors are astonished and invalids delighted.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

299, 301, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

COLD WEATHER MUSIC BOOKS.

The chill November winds, the whistling, withered leaves that tap against the window pane harmonize well with the sweet music and the cheerful songs that are to make winter hours attractive. With some luck, bring in a goodly quantity of our height.

NEW MUSIC BOOKS.

These new books are every day more in favor:

CLASSICAL PIANIST, PIANO CLASSICS, SONG CLASSICS, SONG CLASSICS FOR LOW VOICES, CLASSIC TENOR SONGS, CLASSIC BARITONE AND BASS SONGS. Each $1.

Praise in Song (40 cts., $4.20 per doz.) is the best new Sacred Music Book for Home and Vestry singing.

Let the Children Sing (from Mrs. Arnold's Songs for Kindergarten and Primary Schools, 35 cts., or Jepk's Songs and Games for Little Ones, 35) or Children's School Songs (35 cts., $3.60 per doz.). All have very sweet child's songs.

Give Your Aid in getting up a rousing good exciting Singing Class to use Song Harmony (50 cts., $6 per doz.). Full of most interesting music, Sacred and Secular. Song Manual, Book 3 (50 cts., $4.80 per doz. Is also a good collection, mostly secular.

Tell the Temperance People that a better Temperance Song Book has appeared than Bells of Victory (35 cts., $3.60 per doz.

Xmas is Coming. Send for lists of Christmas Cantatas and Carols.

ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

Men's Furnishing Goods.

Headquarters of the Celebrated

STAR SHIRT.

Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

Elopement of the Frog and the Mouse. Full of the oddest pranks, charming stories and laugh-provoking illustrations by the Prince of juvenile artists. Selling immensely. Critics say of it: "Parents may little dollar well with delight."—Hon. Clinton B. Fisk. "Don't send me another book for the children to read."—R. H. Colwell, D. D. "Exquisitely neat and elegant."—Hon. S. S. Cox. "Equals Æsop and Uncle Remus."—Hon. Howard Crosby. Agents wanted. HUBBARD BROS. Philadelphia, Chicago, or Kansas City.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

SALARY —FOR— 3 YEARS

We wish to employ a reliable man in your county. No experience required. Steady position for three years. Salary $75 per month and expenses paid each week. Extra inducements to the right man. Address at once, stating age, and enclosing stamp. We refer to any business man in this city. Address CENTENNIAL M'F'G CO., CINCINNATI, O.

DETECTIVES

Wanted in every County. Shrewd men to act under instructions in our Secret Service. Experience not necessary. Particulars free. Write Grannan Detective Bureau Co. 41 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

The Great Secret of the Canary Breeders of the Harz Mountains is MANNA MAN'NA BIRD restores song to cage birds and preserves them in health. 15c. by mail. Sold by druggists. Directions free. Bird Food Co., 400 N. 3d St., Phila.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 46. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1685.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. W. L. C. DENNICUTT, D. D.
REV. T. L. MELLEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

For the Advocate.

"THERE THE WEARY BE AT REST."

BY W. H. ANDERSON, D. D.

These words from sufferer's lips design,
On the dark grave sweetly to shine.
They whisper hope to wearied breast,
Of certain, quiet, dreamless rest.
In the tomb's hushed and voiceless shade
No tears are shed, no sighs are made,
God's angels tireless vigils keep
O'er mortal dust in quiet sleep.

But in our Father's home on high,
Beyond the lovely sunlit sky,
The weary rest 'neath God-built domes;
Jesus prepares the Christians' homes.
Sin, pain or death no more are known
Among saints—the dwellers near the throne.
The wicked there from troubling cease,
Earth's blood-washed ones find heavenly peace.

Then, Christian, patient, onward go;
Though here are trials, griefs and woe,
Follow the way by Jesus trod,
Its mile-stones mark the road to God.
Let every anxious care be cast
On Christ, who o'er this way has past.
Felt every thorn, tasted each grief,
That he might furnish sweet relief.

When troubles rise, your faith to dim,
Lift tearful, trustful eyes to him;
Who stilled Capernaum's storm-tossed lake,
Will hush each fear for his own sake.
Sin, and its brood of fears and woes,
On earth alone "Christ's own" oppose.
To grave we give our sinful dust.
Our souls to God in holiest trust.

SHANNON, Kentucky.

(Editorial.)

His "Lordship."

The Episcopal Church papers have published a very interesting correspondence between certain church dignitaries in Ireland and the Rt.-Rev. Hugh Miller Thompson, S. T. D., LL.D., Bishop of Mississippi. In this correspondence the Bishop had a fine opportunity opened to him to enlighten the ignorance of his Irish brethren, and, as a patriotic American citizen, to rebuke their ecclesiastical toadyism. They spoke of him "as a Bishop of the great branch of the catholic church in the United States." There was an opening to pour in "floods of light," and we believe it is a Bishop's duty, as well as privilege, to enlighten the ignorant, and we are sorry to know that the "Bishop of Mississippi" failed in his duty. He ought to have told his unenlightened brethren across the water that his "great branch of the catholic church" was one of the smallest in the United States, and that his own diocese of Mississippi contained just about as many communicants as would make up half-dozen congregations the size of Dr. Palmer's, in this city, and that the Methodists in his own territory outnumber his host twenty to one. Bishops ought not to leave people in an ignorance so dense.

The Bishop also let slip a good opportunity to administer a merited rebuke to prelatical toadyism. In the letter addressed to him, his Irish friends take several occasions to apply a title which no true American would think of receiving. They addressed him as, "Your Lordship." Here was a chance for the Bishop to assert his manhood, and rebuke the officiousness that would soil it with an unmeaning and ridiculous title; but he missed it. Indeed, he seems to have accepted it as the proper thing; for he said "that from no part of the universal church could words of commendation be so prized and cherished." Alas! "how are the mighty fallen"! To think of the Bishop of Mississippi receiving willingly, and without rebuking its bestowers, a title that brings the blush of shame to the gallant sons and fair daughters of our sister State, is too much! The Apostle Peter warned the Bishops about "being lords over God's heritage," and we trust the Bishop of Mississippi left his title where he got it, and that hereafter he will be content with simply, the Rt.-Rev. Hugh Miller Thompson, S. T. D., LL.D., Bishop of Mississippi.

Preachers' Experiences.

BY B. CARRADINE, D. D.

NUMBERING ISRAEL.

Nothing seems easier than counting. It is one of the first achievements and accomplishments of childhood. The veriest savage knows something of numerals, while his Caucasian brother is as much at home with the multiplication table and with formidable columns of figures, four abreast, as the musician with the instrument he has long since mastered. As to the importance of being able to number correctly, all are agreed—from the fruit-vender in the French Market up to the United States Treasurer poring over figures in Washington City. The importance has, doubtless, led to the facility we behold now in the art. And yet, easy as it seems to be, and apparently universal as it is, it is the duty of this writer to call attention to the mournful fact that there is a large body of our fellow-creatures who can not count correctly. This large class consists of preachers. As much as we are pained to record the fact; as much as we deplore the inconvenience—not to say, loss—arising from the erratic pointings of the mathematical faculty within them, it has to be admitted (can not be denied!)—preachers can not count. What is easy to children is impossible to them. Panoplied everywhere else, here we behold the vulnerable heel of Achilles. It was a long time before we could believe in this mortifying state of things. That orators, ecclesiastical legislators, church builders and financiers should lack in this earliest grace—this accomplishment that even learned pigs of a second-rate show had mastered—it was hard to realize. But pressed upon the consciousness daily, confirmed with every new ministerial acquaintance, we have finally surrendered. We accept it as we do a hunchback and a limping leg—preachers can not number correctly!

Now, before the Board of Missions, moved to pity as well as alarm, should have the Publishing House send broadcast to our pastors treatises and books on mathematics—arithmetics and algebras, and sheet-prints, containing the multiplication table—let me call attention to some peculiar features of this lost or lacking art that will shed light upon the matter, and cause the Board to send not volumes of arithmetics, but a certain little book, upon the fly-leaf of which I read the following title: "The New Testament of Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

One peculiarity is, that this difficulty of numbering appears only when confronted with human beings. If the question is raised, "How many dollars have you received?" the brother can favor you with a lightning-like and correct reply. If he is counting pastoral visits, he is also accurate. It is only when standing before an audience, and asked to declare the number present, that he becomes raving distracted in figures—a regular numerical lunatic!

Another peculiarity about the numbering of a preacher is, that he never undercounts. There is no such thing as a minifying estimate of a congregation. If, for instance, there should be fifty people present, no one ever heard the minister say he thought there were forty. The idea of his saying "thirty" is too preposterous to entertain for a moment!

Still another peculiarity, and one even more remarkable, is that the congregation always suddenly diminishes when another preacher is present. It is the identical audience which he addressed the Sabbath before, and which he publicly represented as being a splendid audience or a packed house; and yet here it instantaneously collapses before his vision when another ministerial brother happens to be with him in the pulpit. And to such an extent is the collapse and shrinkage, and so mentally burdened is he with the heaviness and dreariness of the fact, that he feels compelled to lean over and whisper to the clerical brother that the congregation is nothing like so large as he is accustomed to have. Sometimes the brother thus confided in is a visitor; sometimes it is the presiding elder filling one of the appointments of his weary round. It is all the same, the curious fact is, that the presence of another minister has dwarfed and minified that congregation; and the additional curious feature is, that this is the only time in which the brother we are writing of ever sees small, so to speak. We leave our readers to imagine how such a sentence as this—"The audience is unusually small to-day"—shot into the ear of the brother just rising to preach, would operate. How like oil to the bones and a cordial to the heart! The inference conveyed and drawn is, that the people, somehow, had obtained intelligence that their pastor was not to preach, and—here is the result. The information once imparted, the pastor sinks back upon the pulpit-sofa greatly relieved in mind, while the visiting brother rises with chastened spirit to address the decimated few who, from a strict sense of duty alone, have braved the inclemencies of the sunset, the overflow of the dew, and the heat and glare of the stars in order to hear the gospel from his lips.

The final peculiarity is, that when called upon to declare the size of a congregation that he alone ministered to, the brother we are writing of to-day invariably goes into the manifying business. He becomes demented on the subject of numbers. He sees double, he sees treble; yea, verily, some see thirty; others, sixty; and still others, an hundredfold. He sees as did a little nephew of the writer, who came home and declared that the whole square was filled with dogs; but, upon being pressed and cross-questioned, finally admitted he saw a dog's tail vanishing around the corner. As a counter, the brother scorns to descend to the antiquated and plebeian practice of numbering noses, but, with a royal sweep of the eye, he sizes the audience at a glance, and reaches stupendous results in a way that would thrill the numerative faculty of a Chicago census taker.

I have had my breath literally taken in listening to a brother declare the size and number of his audience. In fact, to be candid, I have taken my own breath in making the same kind of statements. For the truth is, that we have all sinned here, although we have never "come short" in numbers.

Listen to him—no; let me put it truthfully—listen to us. "We had a splendid audience in the morning." That means fifty people in a church that would seat a thousand. Listen again: "We had between two and three hundred people out last night." The truth is, that there were just seventy-five, sexton and preacher included. Hearken again: "We had a packed house on Sunday"—means two people in each pew that would contain eight to ten individuals.

As announced from the pulpit, we hear of full stewards' meetings, which means four out of twelve members present. The class meeting room was full. So it was—of chairs. And so on to the end. Scripture is strangely fulfilled. One man is equal to a thousand, and two to ten thousand.

We remember, when a boy, being much confused in reading a little poem in one of the school readers about "a little girl with many a shining curl," who kept saying to an inquisitive stranger, "Pray, master, we are seven." As far as I could see, and it appeared to be the same with the stranger, there were only five of the family. But she insisted to the last, "Pray, master, we are seven." It is the private opinion of this writer that this girl grew up and became the mother of all those political geniuses who can outcount votes on the day following an election, no matter what the ballot may have been on the other side; and also the progenitress of all preachers who grow numerically insane over an audience, no matter how slim and attenuated that gathering may be. Her posterity, true to their own failing, can not be numbered. Geography, topography, climate—all fail to affect them. Wherever found, they are clinging to their mother's original statement. They are insisting, with a devotion to her memory that is really touching, that they are seven, when we all know they are only five.

No denomination can claim the exclusive copyright of these brethren; they are in all the churches. Mr. Moody is as much given to it as the most obscure preacher in our itinerancy. All of us can claim to be among the "thirty," although we grant that among us there are some who, for proficiency in this regard, are enrolled among the "first three." We can not attain unto them. The flourish of a bandana handkerchief is transformed in their eyes into an army with banners, while the flutter of a calico dress becomes a host that no man can number. But here we are admonished, by the number on our manuscript page, that we can dwell upon this interesting psychical phenomenon no longer. We conclude our remarks with a brief explanation that shall serve as a mantle of charity or a royal robe, according as the reader prefers.

How shall we explain the discrepancy between the preacher's figures and facts? Perhaps he has a vocabulary of his own. For all we know, "splendid audience" means fifty with him, "fine" means forty, while the word "packed" may mean crowded, in the Daniel Boone sense. We read of that celebrated hunter that after occupying the entire State of Kentucky for years, having heard that another white man had crossed the Ohio river, he immediately moved farther west, remarking that it was becoming too crowded for him. So, in the Daniel Boone sense the preacher may use the word "packed."

Or, perhaps, the discrepancy may be accounted for by a peculiar accent. When the preacher reported that he had a fair audience on one occasion, and really had only four people present, this, doubtless, was what he intended to say—he meant four. Fair may be the Celtic way of pronouncing four. And words, you know, sometimes travel. For instance—four—fur—for—far—fair. How beautiful and simple and natural the gradation! How certainly four becomes fair. Then when we said we had a full stewards' meeting, and yet had only one-third present, don't judge us too hastily; we may have meant a fool stewards' meeting. Full being the Anglo-Saxon style of pronouncing fool. Or the preachers may really see double. Or they may have inherited the propensity to magnify. Descending, doubtless, from the little girl who insisted she was seven, and being necessarily related still farther back to Ananias and Sapphira, this gives us our moral bearings at once. Or maybe the preacher is bewildered and confused by his audience, or by portions of his audience. We recall a certain congregation in Mississippi where one of its members was equal to twenty men. He never sat longer than five minutes in one place. He was here, he was there, and he was yonder. Now near the door, now in the center of the church, and when you next saw him, he was in the choir gallery. Distributing himself thus judiciously, not to say omnipresently, he created the pleasing delusion that there were a great number of men in the audience. Ten such fidgety men could have easily filled any auditorium. So, in some cases where large reports are given, we fail to see exaggeration, but simply delusion. Or the case may be accounted for from the fact that preachers are afraid to number Israel. They remember that David got into great trouble simply from counting people. They receive it as a solemn warning, and thereafter lump all their audiences. The farther off they are from accurate numbering, the safer they feel and the more they are determined to size up the congregation. The sin of numbering Israel can certainly not be laid to their charge.

The last explanation we offer is that the ministerial conscience may not be awakened and developed at this particular point. We have known excellent people who were conscientious about everything except the payment of their debts. No one doubted they were good people, but all doubted that they would settle their bills. They were without proper moral sensibility in the financial department of their nature.

And so in this matter; the preacher may have no conscience in respect to numbers. The gospel has not yet leavened his numerative faculty. His mathematics is not sanctified. Is it so? Who can tell?

An Honored Christian Career.

BY C. G. ANDREWS, D. D.

John T. Cameron was born near Nashville, Tenn., August 29, 1805. His parents were Presbyterians, and he was brought up strictly in the faith of that church. While clerking in the store of a Presbyterian elder, he was converted and was received into the Methodist Church during the session of the Tennessee Conference, which was held in Murfreesboro, December, 1828. He was awakened by a sermon preached at the opening of the Conference by the Rev. James McFerrin, father of the late Dr. John B. McFerrin, upon the choice of Moses. (Hebrews xi, 23-25.)

He attended college in Tennessee, and received a liberal education. In 1835 he came to Mississippi, and settled in Canton, the county site of Madison county, and lived there and in that vicinity until the day of his death, August 14, 1888.

In 1836 the Methodist Church was organized in Canton, consisting of eight members, of whom he and his wife were two. He remained a member of that church until his removal to the triumphant church. For many years he was the sole survivor of the original class.

In all the qualifications which go to make up a good and true and useful man, Bro. Cameron abounded. He was a most excellent business man. Painstaking, accurate and conscientious, everyone felt sure that whatever was entrusted to him would be well done. He was clerk of the probate court of Madison county for about twenty-one consecutive years. He was supported without regard to politics, because it was realized that all the interests of the people were as safe in his hands as capacity and faithfulness and honesty could make them. When, because of closely drawn party lines, and because he had held the office so long, he was finally defeated, many, even of those who voted against him, regarded his removal from office as almost a public calamity.

He was the friend of everybody; the poor as well as the rich, the influential as well as the least esteemed. The milk of human kindness abounded in his bosom. Gentle, quiet, unobtrusive, he moved along noiselessly in his sphere of life; yet there were no obligations unmet, no duties unperformed, no responsibilities slighted.

As a Christian and as a member of the Methodist Church, his record is most interesting and most honorable. To his church he was attached by the strongest and most sacred ties. His service to her was as a labor of love, rather than an exaction of duty. He delighted in all her means of grace, and in the ordinances of her house. Before age impaired his voice he was a delightful singer. For many years he acted as precentor in his church, and performed this important, yet difficult, role to general acceptability. His stock of select melodies was very full, and when those pathetic sentiments would be rendered in his rich, musical voice, the effect would be most inspiring.

For several consecutive years he was the recording secretary of the Mississippi Annual Conference. He delighted in this service, and being a ready and neat penman, and being a skillful and willing worker, his service was most efficient and acceptable. When age came upon him he reluctantly gave up his position. It, doubtless, caused him many a regret to retire from the front in his beloved Zion. It was an unalloyed joy to be permitted to meet in her councils, to greet her faithful laborers, and to contribute his part in her glorious achievements; yet there was no murmuring nor fault-finding. He grew old gracefully, cheerfully according the parts of activity and honor, which he had once filled so enthusiastically and so acceptably, to the younger men of the flock.

Bro. Cameron was a man of deep piety. Love of the church and enjoyment of religion were no simulation with him. They were the law of his life, the natural feeling of his heart. He was twice married, and reared a large family of children, several of whom, together with his faithful, congenial companion, still survive. He has left them the priceless legacy of a long, honored, useful life; of a reputation unsullied, and of a character unimpeached. It would be difficult, indeed, to find among fallen mortals a career of eighty-three years in which there was so much to love and to cherish, so little to condemn or to blot.

KEEP STILL.—Keep still. When trouble is brewing, keep still. When slander is getting on to its legs, keep still. When your feelings are hurt, keep still, till you recover from your excitement, at any rate. Things look differently through an unagitated eye. In a commotion once I wrote a letter, and sent it, and wished I had not. In my later years I had another commotion, and wrote a long letter; but life had rubbed a little sense into me, and I kept that letter in my pocket against the day when I could look it over without agitation and without tears. I was glad I did. Less and less it seemed necessary to send it. I was not sure it would do any hurt, but in my doubtfulness I leaned to reticence, and eventually it was destroyed. Time works wonders. Wait till you can speak calmly, and then you will not need to speak, maybe. Silence is the most massive thing conceivable sometimes. It is strength in its very grandeur. It is like a regiment ordered to stand still in the mad fury of battle. To plunge in were twice as easy. The tongue has unsettled more ministers than small salaries ever did, or lack of ability.—Dr. Burton's Lectures to Yale Divinity Students.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1888.

EUTHANASIA.

BY H. M. GOODWIN, D. D.

The year is dying tranquilly and slow.
Like a fair saint slow sinking into rest
Whose spirit's wills the sun the west
With sunset's gorgeous splendors is aglow—
Crimson and gold and amber, that flow
As from the golden cup of the blest.
The trees have caught the radiance and stand
Dressed
In robes celestial like to those which grow
Beside the river of life—each glories shine
From the rapt face of a wide-arching sand.
When, with unlifted look and kindling eye
He sees by faith upon the Lamb divine
Long lost appear while earthly hopes grow faint.
And mortal puts on immortality.

How calm, how bright and beautiful the days
As in some vast cathedral, grand and high,
The great rose-window, like an eastern sky,
Floods aisle and vault and chancel with a blaze
Of glory streaming from the pictured saints,
Who stand transfigured in their height of place—
Moses, Elias and the Savior's face,
Still shining as the sun, as Raphael paints—
Entranced, we say, "This is the gate of heaven!"
So sacred, grand and beautiful this world,
Wrought with such artist skill and breathing thought,
To whose dear breast such robe dying is given,
O'er which such is already glory unfurled.

Advance.

(Vincent and Hotwa's Lesson Commentary. Phillips & Hunt, New York.)

Sunday-School Lesson.—Nov. 25.

THE COVENANT RENEWED.

Joshua xxiv, 19-28.

GOLDEN TEXT: The Lord our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey.—Josh. xxiv, 24.

TIME.—B. C. 11-?

PLACE.—Shechem, between Mount Ebal and Mount Gerizim.

CONNECTING LINKS.—The altar of the Reubenites; eighteen years of peace; Joshua's first parting address of warning to the leaders of the people; his second address at Shechem.

19. Joshua said unto the people—In reply to their expression of horror at the idea of their becoming idolaters, and of their hearty resolution to serve the Lord, who was their God, and had shown them such great mercies. Ye cannot serve the Lord—He speaks not of an absolute impossibility, but of a moral impossibility. Joshua was stating nothing but a plain fact, which his own higher conception of the law had taught him, that the law was too "holy, just and good" for it to be possible that Israel should keep it. He had forebodings of coming failure, when he looked, on one side, at the law with its stern morality and vigorous provisions, and the undisciplined, untamed people that he saw around him. He would have them count the cost of the engagements into which they proposed to enter, and be fully aware of the temptations, tribulations, conflicts and self-denials which they would involve. He is a holy God—Hebrew, he is holy Gods; the adjective being plural as well as the substantive. The expression is remarkable, and contrary to usual analogy, but whether carrying with it any special implication in regard to the divine nature, it is, perhaps, impossible to say. We imagine, on the whole, that to the Hebrew ear the phrase would merely convey the idea of more emphasis, solemnity and awfulness in respect to the attribute here affirmed of Jehovah. Holiness is the principle that guards the eternal distinction between Creator and creature, between God and man; it preserves the divine dignity and majesty from being infringed by the divine love; it eternally excludes everything evil and impure from the divine nature. He is a jealous God—The Israelites did not intend to forsake God; but they imagined that they might serve strange gods, the gods of Canaan, with God, the God of Israel. Joshua warns them that God is a jealous God, and will have no rivals or partners with himself. Numerous passages in the prophets bring out the idea of God as one who requires of his people, to whom he was married, the unbroken fidelity of marriage, and punishes most inflexibly any attachment to another god, any departure from him. Will not forgive your transgressions—Hebrew, will not bear, will not tolerate. The meaning is, not that God was implacable, or that he would not show mercy to the penitent, however great their sins, but that they could not offend against him with impunity, that he would certainly punish their transgressions.

20. If ye forsake the Lord—The longer and the more open profession the people should make of worshiping Jehovah, the deeper would be their guilt and condemnation, if they should at last apostatize to idolatry. Serve strange gods—Hebrew, gods of the stranger or foreigner. Then he will turn—Not in himself or in his dispositions toward his creatures, for we are elsewhere told that with him there is "no variableness, nor the least shadow of turning." But the character of his dispensations, the course of his providence toward them, should be entirely changed, in view of the change in their conduct toward him. Consume you, after that he hath done you good—Nothing so embitters the judgments of God as the reflection that they have been incurred after the experience of his tender mercies. The fact that we have made him to repent of his past kindnesses to us, and forget all the good he had wrought in our behalf, barbs and envenoms the arrow of remorse beyond the power of language to describe.

21, 22. Nay; but we will serve the Lord—The people repeat their protestations of fidelity to Jehovah, and vow to serve him with sincerity. Ye are witnesses against yourselves—He reminds them that their own words so deliberately uttered will be forever witnesses against them, should they afterward refuse to keep an engagement into which they entered with their eyes open. They do not in any way shrink from the responsibility, and by accepting the situation as it is placed before them render it impossible henceforth to plead ignorance or surprise as an excuse for their disobedience. We are witnesses—In so saying they did virtually confirm and ratify by their own express consent the covenant which Joshua would now impose upon them, and by voluntarily engaging, as he intimated would be the case, to be witnesses against themselves, provided they turned aside from God, they did in effect affix their name and seal to that solemn covenant, and bind themselves under fearful sanctions to its faithful observance.

23, 24. Put away ... the strange gods which are among you—The words import that there really were among the people, even in Joshua's days, those who were idolaters in secret, as there were in the days of Jacob before him and of Samuel after him. Keil and others, indeed, understand the passage to mean simply that the hearts of some among them were inclined to idolatry. But this is hardly consistent with the plain and obvious sense of the words; and the silence of the narrative as to the actual discovery and surrender of any images does not prove that nothing of the sort in fact occurred. Incline—your—heart unto the Lord—This expression shows how earnest this venerable servant of God was, to lead the people into the inward exercises of true piety, and to excite them to be spiritual and hearty, as well as entire, in their religion. The people said—For the third time the representatives of the nation avow that they will serve Jehovah and hearken only to his voice.

25. So Joshua made a covenant—Hebrew, cut a covenant; alluding to the sacrifice usually offered on such occasions. But whether the ordinary rites were performed at this time is uncertain. A covenant had been concluded by God on Sinai with Israel (Exodus xix, 20), and solemnly ratified with burnt-offerings and peace-offerings at the foot of the mount; the reading of every word of the law in the ears of the people; the sprinkling of one-half of the blood of the victims on the altars and the roll containing the covenant conditions, and the other half on the people. (Exodus xxiv, 3-8; Hebrews ix, 19, 20.) This covenant Moses had renewed in "the field of Moab" (Deuteronomy xxix, 1), with a transcription of the blessings and curses of the law; a solemn delivery of it to the priests, to be placed beside the ark in the holy of holies, and to be read in the hearing of all the people once every seven years, at the feast of tabernacles. (Deuteronomy xxxi, 9-11; xxv, 26.) Joshua, who had been present at the ratification of both the previous covenants, renews it now, and, doubtless, with august ceremonial. Set them a statute and an ordinance—The word translated "statute" is derived from the same root as our word hack, signifying to cut, and hence to engrave in indelible characters. The practice of engraving inscriptions, proclamations, and the like, on tablets was extremely common in the East. We have instances of it in the two tables of the law, and in the copy of the law engraven in stones on Mount Ebal. The Moabite stone is another instance. And the Egyptian, Assyrian, and Babylonian monarchs seem to have written much of their history in this way. The word rendered "ordinance" is far more frequently rendered "judgment" in our version, and seems to have the original signification of a thing set upright, as a pillar on a secure foundation. In Shechem—Shechem, and not Shiloh, was chosen for this event, because it stood between the mountains Ebal and Gerizim, where the covenant was first renewed, soon after they had entered Canaan. The same spot was to be the witness of the last renewal of the covenant before Joshua's death, which had witnessed the first renewal of it after he had become the successor of Moses.

26. Joshua wrote these words—A description of all that occurred at Shechem in this solemn renewal of the covenant. This chapter contains, probably, the substance of that ancient document. In the book of the law of God—This protocol he placed inside the roll of the law of Moses. Inserted it on some blank space of the great roll on which the sacred canon was originally inscribed. Took a great stone ... set it up there under an oak that was by the sanctuary—The sanctuary of Jehovah under the oak at Shechem was nothing else than the holy place under the oak where Abraham had formerly built an altar and worshiped the Lord, and where Jacob had purified his house from the strange gods, which he buried under this oak, or, rather, terebinth tree.

27. This stone shall be a witness—So in Genesis xxxi, 48, 52, Laban says to Jacob, "This heap is a witness between me and thee this day;" and in Deuteronomy xxxi, 19, 21, 26, Moses says: "Write ye this song for you, ... that this song may be a witness for me against the children of Israel." It hath heard all the words of the Lord—Williams very appositely cites from Livy the following instance of a similar phraseology: "The general of the Equi informed the Roman embassadors (sent to complain of a plundering excursion) that they might deliver their message to an oak which shaded his tent. On this, one of the embassadors, turning away, said: 'This venerable oak and all the gods shall know that you have violated the peace; they shall now hear our complaints; and may they soon be witnesses, when we revenge with our arms the violation of divine and human rights.'" By a like usage of speech the sacred writers frequently call upon the heavens and the earth to hear their addresses to the people of Israel. Lest ye deny your God—To deny is to say he is not. The Hebrew implies, "to deny concerning him," to contest the truth of what has been revealed of his essence, and to disparage or deny the great things he had done for his people.

28. So Joshua let the people depart—With the renewal of the covenant Joshua had ended his vocation. He did not formally lay down his office, because there was no immediate successor who had been appointed by God. The ordinary rulers of the congregation were enough, when once they were settled in Canaan; namely, the elders as heads and judges of the nation, together with the high-priest, who represented the nation in its relation to God, and could obtain for it the revelation of the will of God through the right of the Urim and Thummim. At last, twenty-five years after crossing the Jordan, he died in his own inheritance, full of years and glory, at the age of a hundred and ten, and the light of Israel for the time faded away.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

We should remember the character of the Being whom we propose to serve. "The Lord our God is jealous, just, and holy; he will not be trifled with, he can not be imposed upon; he hates lukewarmness, and will as certainly punish the apostate as forgive the humble believer."—Scott.

If with a clear foresight of what God's service demands we decide to accept it, we must renounce all other masters, and have no compromise with any form of evil. God will not accept a divided allegiance.

A sincere purpose is consistent with many imperfections. So long as we truly mean to serve God he will pardon those shortcomings which result from our personal infirmities.

Doctrinal Preaching Again.

MR. EDITOR: With your permission, I would like to talk to my brethren through the columns of the ADVOCATE again on the subject of doctrinal preaching. And by the term "doctrinal" I mean the distinctive doctrines of our church (and, of course, we claim that every part and particle of our doctrine is taught in God's holy Word); and, if so, why not preach and teach it? We do not believe that every part of our doctrine is of the same importance, nor that we should stress every part alike; but we do believe every part is important, and should be preached occasionally; and when I say "occasionally," I do not mean only once in five or ten years, but every year, for the blessed Savior said to his disciples—"teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." (Matthew xxviii, 20.) And the Apostle Paul said: "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness." (II Timothy iii, 16.) And again: "Take heed unto thyself and unto the doctrine; continue in them; for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." (II Timothy iv, 16.) So we think that every part of the doctrine is important—some more and some less; and none of so little importance that it ought to be left out. I suppose all agree that the doctrines of repentance, faith and regeneration are essential doctrines, and ought to be preached a great deal; but because they are leading and essential doctrines, should we neglect the doctrines of minor importance altogether? I say, No! We ought to give each the part of time that its importance demands; and can we be faithful ministers of the New Testament and neglect to do it? I say, No, again. Take, for instance, the doctrine of apostasy; and do we not believe in the possibility and, I may say, the probability of falling from grace? I say, Yes; and not only the Methodists, but the apostles and Christ believed in it, and taught it. Christ said: "And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved." (Matthew xxiv, 12, 13.) And again: "I am the vine, ye are the branches. He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit; for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered, and men gather them, and cast them into the fire and they are burned." (John xiv, 5, 6.) And again: "I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot; I would thou wert cold or hot. So, then, because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spew thee out of my mouth." (Revelation iii, 15, 16.) How could he spew them out if they were not in? Paul says: "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." (I Corinthians x, 12.) How could a man fall if he was not up somewhere? So I conclude that the doctrine of apostasy is one of the most important doctrines of the Bible, and the doctrine of the final unconditional perseverance of the saints—one of the most dangerous; hence the necessity of preaching this distinctive doctrine of Methodism and the Bible, for Paul charged the elders at Ephesus: "Take heed, therefore, unto yourselves and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood. For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock." (Acts xx, 28, 29.) Also read the three following verses.

Mr. Editor, you will please excuse me for occupying so much space under this head, as I wanted to be brief; and I will now call the attention of my brethren to the subject of baptism; and I suppose that all agree that persons ought to be baptized when they have the opportunity, for Christ said to his disciples: "Go ye, therefore, and teach" (or disciple) "all nations, baptizing them," etc. (Matthew xxviii, 19.) So we think it is right for all persons, when they have an opportunity, to be baptized; but the question naturally arises in every conscientious mind, How ought I to be baptized, or by what mode? (as there are different modes practiced by different churches); and persons have a right to ask the question and expect an answer at the hands of God's ministers; and we have no right to refuse to answer to the best of our ability, for Christ says: "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." (Matthew xxviii, 20.) Baptism—with the rest, even to its mode or manner of being administered—ought to be taught, for you know, my brethren, that our Baptist brethren say that immersion is the only scriptural mode; and in the country they preach it almost every Sunday, keeping it constantly before the minds of the people. Well, is that the scriptural mode of baptism? I say, No! and our church world say, No! for we believe that affusion is a scriptural mode; that the Bible teaches that persons ought to be baptized by sprinkling or pouring; and, if so, why not preach it? I believe if we would preach oftener and plainer on the subject, that we would soon see what a telling effect it would have; not abuse other denominations, but in a Christian spirit prove it from the Bible, as we can do. I do not claim to be strong on doctrine at all, and yet I preach occasionally at all my churches on doctrine, and the result is, that I have received six or eight good Baptists—not castaways, but acceptable, good members—into my churches this year; and I have not proselyted either—not one of them have I asked to join my church. And yet they join. You may be surprised when I tell you that I heard a local preacher in the Methodist Church say he had never heard a sermon on baptism by one of our preachers. And an itinerant preacher said he had never preached a sermon on baptism; and I am fearful they are not exceptional cases. I was holding a meeting, some time back, and a brother joined our church that had been raised to believe in immersion, and I had to immerse him; and just one month after that I preached a sermon on the mode of baptism, and, after hearing it, it was all we could do to keep from having to sprinkle him, for he said he did not believe immersion was baptism at all. And another good brother, that had been a member of our church for several years, and had been sprinkled, wanted me to immerse him; and I preached for him on the subject, and since he has been perfectly satisfied; and a young lady, after hearing me on the subject (a member of one of my churches), came to me to express her gratitude, and said she had already consulted a Baptist minister with a view of joining his church and being immersed, for she said that was the first Methodist sermon on the subject she had ever heard, and that she was now perfectly satisfied. And they were not weak-minded ones either.

And now, in conclusion, let me say that a great many of our people do not have their children baptized for the simple reason that they are not posted on the subject; and if they are not, whose fault is it? Theirs and ours.

May God bless us all, and help us to do our whole duty in the future; and if we do, we will see that Methodism, as in the past, will far outstrip all other churches. A. D. MILLER.

CATO, Miss.-Sippi.

The Colporteur and Sunday-School Agent in the Field.

As soon as the quarantine was raised I resumed travel and work. My first objective point was Minter City, where I arrived October 11. I found Bro. Futrell, P. C., at home with his family in their good parsonage, and Bro. Evans, P. E., on hand for quarterly-meeting at Strathmore, Saturday and Sunday following. These brethren kindly aided me with conveyance and words of introduction and commendation. I spent ten days with Bro. Futrell and his people, and succeeded in disposing of $68 10 worth of good books.

I then went to Sunnyside and McNutt, and gave one week's service, including two Sundays, to that pastoral charge; Bro. Sisloff, a noble layman in the church, very generously placed at our disposal a good horse and buggy. With this outfit Bro. Shipman, P. C., and myself traversed his pastorate pretty well, and sold $101 worth of books and secured several subscriptions for church papers. The congregation at McNutt contributed also $9 35 for the Sunday-school cause.

These two pastoral charges have developed within a few years. Four years ago there was not a Methodist Church nor preacher's home where there are now two parsonages and four church-houses, worth, at least, $6,000. The people then paid $200 or $300 a year to the support of the gospel; they now pay more than $2,000 annually. All this improvement is right along on the Tallahatchie river and in the Yazoo Delta, a region of as rich lands as the world affords. Thus we see that while this country is developing materially, it is also improving morally and religiously. The greatest apparent drawback to the material, as well as moral, interests of this country is strong drink; but I am glad to note the rapid growth of the prohibition sentiment all along the line, and the probabilities are that ere long the sale of liquor will be a traffic of the past in these regions. With such religious and moral teachers as Futrell, Shipman and Lewis, there is great hope for the church and society in this Yazoo Valley.

C. W. BACHMAN.

From the Work.

ROUNDING UP ON COLUMBUS CIRCUIT, NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: I am rounding up my third year on Columbus circuit, and I can truly say "the lines have fallen to me in pleasant places." I have made many true friends on this work. God has blessed my labors, and I shall soon be on my way, with a light heart, to join the brethren in another Annual Conference. One more round, and then away to render account of my stewardship to the Bishop and Conference, and then to receive my appointment for another year. What mingled emotions, both of joy and grief, mark the life of an itinerant Methodist preacher! How our hearts bound with inexplicable joy as victory flashes along the lines of God's marshalled host! How we joy and rejoice as we see sinners leaving the camps of Satan, and offering themselves with all their aspirations to our God! How our hearts run out after God in thankfulness as we listen to the glad shouts of rejoicing begotten within them by the witnessing Spirit of adoption! How pleasant to go in and out before an appreciative people as pastor from year to year, and to have the abiding evidence of increased friendships! On the other hand, how sad to think that if we had been more faithful, the victory would have been more complete!—to think that if we had been more zealous, it, perhaps, would have begotten a greater zeal in others! And, then, to feel that these opportunities are gone, and gone forever! Yes; gone, for should we be returned to the same field we can never recall the lost opportunities of the past years. How sad to part with those that we have learned to love, with this reflection, that we may not see each other's faces again in this world of tears; but, oh! how joyous to think of that glorious meeting in our Father's house "by and by"!

I think I can say of a truth that the general state of the church on this work is good. Of course, there are individual cases that could be much improved; but take the circuit as a whole, I think it will compare favorably with any work with which I am acquainted. And should the Bishop see proper to change my field of labor, the preacher who succeeds me will find that he has not been afflicted by being assigned to Columbus circuit. A comfortable parsonage out of debt, located in the beautiful town of Columbus; only six appointments; all the churches in good repair; an appreciative people who will pay every dollar of assessment, and who do many little kindnesses for the preacher's family over and above the regular assessment; three local elders that have stood shoulder to shoulder with me, and who will aid my successor in every way, provided he does not feel that he has no need of their assistance. God forbid that the time should ever come when brethren of the local ministry shall be rated under their true value. I have never had a local preacher under my pastoral care that was not of intrinsic worth to me. One of my local preachers (J. W. Peavy), for many years an itinerant, reported at the fourth quarterly meeting this year that he had kept up a regular appointment at a thrown-out appointment on an adjoining circuit; that there had been a most glorious revival at that point, and that he had organized a church with forty-odd members at that point. What do you think of that? Only ten members on the roll when the appointment was dropped! By the way, who shall Dr. Peavy report to? and who shall report that work as the Annual Conference—the preacher in charge of that circuit or I? (See Discipline, ¶ 81, Ans. 1.) H. F. PHILLIPS.

OLIVE BRANCH CIRCUIT, NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: At the last convention of the North Mississippi Conference I was read out to Olive Branch charge. This charge has for its northern boarder the Memphis Conference line, which line is twelve miles south of Memphis. The old Olive Branch Church was the mother church of our Methodism in this section, and was once a flourishing church, but, for some reasons, had gone down until I found one male and six females holding on at my arrival. I found no foot of property belonging to the Methodist Church in fee simple. Vigorous treatment or natural death were the two things before us. I soon decided on treatment. While the treatment was taking its first effect, it seemed that death was inevitable. A little nourishment of wholesome character, well prepared and judiciously given, gave opportunity by sustaining life for a thorough work of treatment, which arrested the slough that had struck into the very marrow, and purged, cleansed and invigorated soul and body. The results: About the first of February a healthful, strong man walked out (as if well prepared to run a race), in the person of our membership, and devised plans on which to go forward. The first move we decided was a parsonage; so we laid together our heads, hearts and purses, and went to work like clever fellows in the name of our Master. The outcome is a neat, comfortable and commodious parsonage of six rooms, well ventilated and heated, with galleries, closets, etc.; situated on two acres of elevated land forming the right of way of the K. C., M. and B. R. R., eighteen miles from Memphis. This property I can cast now at $1,500. We also have a valuable church lot in fee simple. This is a small town, but in the midst of a flourishing people and the best farming section between Memphis and Tupelo.

Allow me to mention this fact in connection. When the zeal of the church was manifest, men of the world caught the contagion and actually planked down considerable sums to further the Lord's enterprise. I must not forget to say that the good Baptist brethren gave us material aid, for which we are thankful, and we stand ready to reciprocate their favor. I have preached some to the colored people, and made some repute as a "negro preacher."

This, in some respects, has been a hard year for me and mine, and it seemed to succeed was impossible. I resolved afresh to know nothing in the work of the Lord but success, and that no earthly opposition should prevent. We now rejoice in the success God has given us, and the people feel that they are manifestly on the upward march, and that the possibility of becoming one of the best works of this Conference is theirs.

Now, in conclusion, I will say much work is still necessary in church building and improving; but I hope you will not gather from what has gone before that I am hungry for the remainder. I do not know that we should conclude that, because a man does one kind of work, he can do no other. I rejoice in that the Lord will take care of all we do, and bring us to our rewards according to that we have done. I would be ashamed to think of less than success when the Lord of hosts is my strength. To succeed or die ought to be the motto of every herald of the gospel. G. H. HODGE.

If I can put one touch of rosy sunset into the life of any man or woman, I shall feel that I have worked with God.—Macdonald.

Mode of Examining Undergraduates at Conference.

MR. EDITOR: I have been requested by some of the more interested party to express my views to you on this subject, which I do readily.

There are two modes of examining the classes. One is to catechise the young men on their knowledge of the books, the other on their knowledge of the subjects treated. The latter, and not the former, is the proper mode in my judgment. And for the following reasons:

A man's knowledge of a book is of little or no consequence to the church. He may tell you very much about chapter one, and two or three, etc. He may give you the headings of those chapters, and remember some of the words of the author, and yet know but little on the subject treated in the book. Surely nobody cares anything about a book itself. It is the subject that is necessary for us to inquire. We do not care where he got his learning; the question is, Does he possess it? If he does, that is sufficient.

It has been said, and, I suppose, will be said, the quickest, readiest memory is the poorest, It is come quick, go quick. The slow memory is the one that deepens and lasts.

For myself, I am very sure I never could learn anything of consequence about a book. If you were to put me before a committee and examine me on one of my own books, and if the committee did not know, I would be reported deficient.

These books are recommended as the most suitable sources for the student to get information on the subjects indicated, and for this purpose he is expected to read the books; but still I very respectfully suggest that it is the subject that we are all interested in. The other course frequently embarrasses the student to no good purpose. R. ABBEY.

Annual Conference Minutes.

MR. EDITOR: For years I have been unable to secure a sufficient number of copies of Annual Conference Minutes. Nearly every Methodist family would take a copy at any reasonable price. I have adopted the following plan: Everyone that wants a copy gives me his name and ten cents. I shall at Conference turn over the money to the Publishing Committee, and the subscription list to my successor, who will receive and distribute Minutes according to list. Should every pastor adopt this plan, it will secure to every family a copy that wants it; and will put the cash into the hands of publishers, as well as furnish them with information as to number of copies wanted.

Very truly yours,

R. M. BLOCKER.

HAGGERTON, LA., Nov. 3, 1888.

Dispersing Religious Force.

Historians tell us that the main cause of the success of Napoleon in his great battles was his practice to mass his forces at one particular point, and thus throw the whole force of his army upon one part of the line of his antagonist, and, having defeated him there, to repeat the maneuver until, in detail, he crushed him completely. This is said to have been the secret of his success.

It seems to us that such tactics by the church in her spiritual warfare would be more certain of success than the plan which seems to be coming so rapidly into use. Instead of concentrating our forces, we seem to be dividing them; and we fear that if we keep on at this, the enemy will defeat us in detail. We present our pastors and people this week with an article on this subject taken from the November number of the Chautauquan, and ask all interested in church progress to give it a careful reading. We commend it specially to our pastors and people in the cities and towns.

The multiplication of religious and semi-religious services has gone quite as far as is safe—perhaps, too far for safety. The active members of a church now have from three to six meetings to attend on Sunday: the Sunday-school, the teachers' meeting, morning and evening public service, a young people's prayer meeting, and often an experience meeting under some name. To these are often added a gospel temperance meeting, Y. M. C. A. meeting, a Christian Endeavor meeting, and, perhaps, one or two other services. A friend has counted thirteen Sunday services which, on different occasions, of course, he has been told by the pulpit that he ought to attend. We can not count quite so many, but we are on the way to the thirteen. Two or three different effects must follow from these tendencies. The most obvious fact is that no one can "do" all these services. It follows that a part of the church has one set of services; another part, another set, and a third part, a third set. The force of the church is not united along any one line. Even the preaching services suffer from the claims of other services upon the strength of active Christians. The Sunday-school is impaired by the temperance or the Y. M. C. A. meetings. The church practically divides into groups, some going into one set of religious activities, and others into another. The whole energy of the church can not be concentrated for any part of the service of God.

It would be strange if this dispersion of force did not create confusion in some young minds respecting the relative importance of the different services. The essential things in the worship of God and the work of the church are easily forgotten in a crowd of special services. But, not to dwell on obvious evils, may we not do well to remember that in its regular services the church is promoting all the causes which the special meetings are organized to promote? A good temperance meeting is held every Sunday in a living church. The interests of young men are constantly remembered in sermons and prayer meetings, and the Sunday-school has a special regard for them. It is impossible to name any cause which a church ought to foster and yet can not foster in its regular services.

The special services, no doubt, have their value, but we may carelessly give up to them too much else which is more valuable. It would seem to be time to weigh advantages and disadvantages, gains and losses, through the new meetings. A possible result of counting up the losses and gains may be the discovery that this or that extra service takes away from regular services more people than it brings to them; that a supposed auxiliary is in fact a rival; that the less distinctly religious meeting is not religious at all; that we are not saving souls, but losing them by some of these semi-religious annexes of Christianity. We have heard all and each of these suggestions from the lips of godly pastors; and yet we hope they exaggerate the evil.

The church can not multiply power by dividing itself and marching different ways. More services do not mean more good done, and they do tend to mean various modes of worship in the same church. A more excellent way would be to gather every proper interest of religion into the one regular group of Sunday and week-day services, and to confine the religious activity of the outside organizations to the work of bringing people to the house of the Lord. Let them be judged by the results on this line, and we do not doubt that they will then work effectively to enlarge the usefulness of the church.

The Law of Benevolence.

The influences are many and varied that retard benevolence; that prevent a full and sufficient inflow of gifts into the treasury of the Lord for the work of the Lord. To be classed with the chief of them, perhaps, is a misconception of, or half belief in the divine law of benevolence, especially as to its perpetually binding obligations. This appears from the impatience often manifested at the frequent appeals made from the pulpit and elsewhere in behalf of Church Boards and Funds and charitable institutions.

The question is often acted, if not always uttered, "When will there be an end to this constant begging? We hear the cry 'give, give,' all the time until we are tired of it." Then, to their shame, be it said, they have become tired of that God-like grace, of which the heavenly Father, to whom they owe everything, never grows weary. The moment he suspends or abolishes the law of benevolence by which he himself is governed in maintaining this universe and all it contains, then will be the time, and not one moment sooner, when his servants may stop begging and his stewards stop giving, for that moment they will stop living. Why are any alive to-day on earth? Why do you live? Did you give your life to yourself? Do you maintain it of yourself? You know that you did not or do not. You are bound to refer to the original source of life, and to ascribe all to him. You live, and all men, because God lives and gives, and gives all the time—gives the vital air you breathe; gives the soil that grows the wheat; gives the sunshine and showers to ripen the harvest, that you might have bread to eat.

For a single thing in nature that does not give, a thousand things can be named that give, constantly give—the flowers, their grateful fragrance; the birds, the music of their liquid voices; the trees, their luscious fruit and luxuriant foliage; the valleys, their broad acres of pasture lands; the mountains, their wealth of timber and mineral ore; the streams and rivers, their mighty water power to run mills, to bear commerce, to slake the thirst of grazing herds and populous cities; the sun and moon, their floods of light. Every dish of fish or fowl or flesh put upon your table is a fresh reminder of the beneficence of Nature and Nature's God. We have our being by that which is given. The world is full of our servants, whose service is gratuitous.

All things were put under man that he might be served by the product of their growth, strength and labor; and in many instances, after service comes sacrifice, that their flesh might be our food. Think of it, with the creation of man, and for him began the operation of the great law of vicarious sacrifice—the highest expression of the law of benevolence—life for life, life by death, life saved by life lost. It seems that the creation of man created this necessity—a necessity which eventually could not be fully met short of a victim direct from the bosom of God. In the kingdom of nature it is usually the life of the inferior for the superior. In the kingdom of grace it is reversed. There it is the life of the superior for the inferior—the life of the Son of God for the son of man—a sinner.

Despite all this, despite this law of benevolence that we see perpetually operating in nature and in grace, man alone, who is most blessed by it, protests against coming under it and being governed by it. He who receives most royally, gives most niggardly. Let men put themselves in full accord with this law as they ought to do, in justice to their manhood; let them give as the sun gives, as the clouds give, as God gives, freely, copiously, habitually, and there will be enough and to spare both of men and of means for the Lord's work in the world.—Christian Intelligencer.

Do you suffer with catarrh? You can be cured if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. Sold by all druggists.

Daniel Webster before a Jury.

Mr. Webster was the only man I ever knew or heard of who united in himself the highest qualities of an advocate, orator and debater. He has never been excelled, if equaled, in making difficult and intricate questions intelligible to jurors. Seeing clearly the real points at issue, and using language that anybody could understand, his statements of the points at issue were arguments. He never permitted the minds of jurors to be diverted from the question upon which a case turned. Brushing aside everything that was not essential, the strong points only were presented by him, and those with exceeding clearness. I was struck with this the first time I heard him before a jury. He was defending a man indicted for forgery. To obtain a verdict, it was necessary that the State should not only prove that the forgery had been committed, but that the forged instrument had been uttered in Suffolk county, where the case was being tried. To my surprise, at the very commencement of the trial, before a witness had been called, Mr. Webster rose to his feet, and said in a quiet manner: "May it please the Court, we admit the forgery, so that the evidence on this point will be unnecessary. We deny that the note was uttered in this county." I was amazed at this admission. To me it seemed to be giving away the case. But the wisdom of it soon became apparent. Mr. Webster was quite sure that the forgery could be proved, but he doubted that the State would be able to prove that the paper had been issued in Suffolk county. His doubts were confirmed. The defendant was acquitted for want of proof on this point. If both the question of forgery and the issue of the paper in the county had been presented, the jury might have regarded the forgery as the real question, and the defendant might not have escaped the punishment which he merited.

Mr. Webster's eyes, though deep set, were so penetrating that few guilty men could endure their piercing gaze. One of his clients in a case of considerable importance informed him that he thought a witness on the other side intended to commit perjury. "Point him out to me when he comes into the court-room," said Mr. Webster. The witness soon after appeared and took a seat in a swaggering manner, when looking toward the bar, his eyes met those of Mr. Webster fixed steadily upon him. He immediately looked in another direction; but as if fascinated, he soon turned his face again toward Mr. Webster, to meet those deep, penetrating eyes, which doubtless seemed to read his very soul. He moved nervously in his seat for a few moments, then rose and left the court-room, to which he could not be induced to return. — Men and Measures of Half a Century.

The Present God.

The same temper of mind that would leave God behind us in the past, would persuade us, also, to banish him to distant space. He is not here, but there. We look for him above, beneath, around us. In majesty he broods over the abyss; benignly he gazes from the stars. He is under the ocean, in the desert, on the mountain-top. But how seldom we recognize that he is here. Our surroundings are vulgar; and to associate God with the poor, common things of life seem little less than profane. But this was not Paul's view of the divine. In the tentmaker's house at Corinth, where the canvas and the tools were lying as he entered upon his morning task, lo, God was there! His bodily eyes saw only the plain, common-looking men who worked with him, but a keener sight beheld the spiritual presence of the divine Workman, who was great enough to fashion the world, and humble enough to toil once, at Joseph's bench. The lane in which the apostle lived may well have seemed too dingy for anything heavenly to enter. But in his humble lodgings Christ was an hourly guest. He loved his disciple, and would not leave him comfortless. When Paul passed down into the hold of the Mamertine prison, Christ passed down there, too. In persecuting the follower the world has always persecuted the Master; for he can not desert his own. To all believers in all time he has fulfilled his promise to the letter: "I will never leave thee, I will never forsake thee." We have, hence, to pass, if we are his children, over no great distances to find him. We say he is at the centre of the universe. And so he is; and so is every one of his creatures. The centre of the universe to you is just where you stand, and at that centre is God.—S. Gifford Nelson, in American Magazine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. C. SHEPARD,
49 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL
China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL
Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds.
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store.
Cheap as the Cheapest.

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

PIANOS
GRAND Summer Sale
ORGANS

CASH PRICES—PAY WHEN COTTON IS SOLD.
GRAND OFFER. 1,000 Pianos and Organs
To be sold in August, September and October at ROCK BOTTOM CASH PRICES, payable PIANOS only $25 Cash. ORGANS only $10 Cash. And balance Dec. 1, without interest or advance on lowest cash prices. Buy now and pay when Cotton is sold. Great Surprise—Pianos $200, $225, $250. Organs $24, $35, $50, $60. 10 makes. 30 styles. All freight paid. 10 days' test trial. Reduced Prices. Write for Mid-Summer Sale Circular. LUDDEN & BATES, SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE SAVANNAH, GA. The Great P. & O. Depot of the South.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Tutt's Pills

stimulate the torpid liver, strengthen the digestive organs, regulate the bowels, and are unequaled as an anti-bilious medicine. In

Malarial Districts

their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. This popular remedy rarely fails to effectually cure

Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness

and all disorders arising from a Torpid Liver and Bad Digestion.

A Proclamation!

Dr. I. Guy Lewis, Fulton, Ark., says: "A year ago I had bilious fever. Tutt's Pills were so highly recommended that I used them. Never did medicine have a happier effect. After a practice of a quarter of a century, I proclaim them the best medicine ever used. I always prescribe them in my practice."

ANTI-BILIOUS

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St. New York.

Tutt's Manual of Useful Receipts sent Free

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age.

Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption: was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. REV. S. FIGH.

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., July 22, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mole by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure.

W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS J. BUCKLEY,
171 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 17, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

HENRY V. MIELLY,
With Rice, Born & Co., 77 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.

Microbes Cause All Diseases

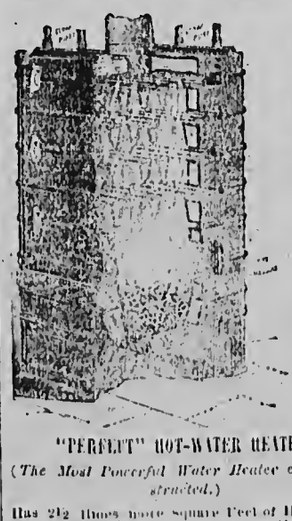
WM. RADAMS'
Microbe Killer
Cures All Diseases.

This indisputable assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,
149 Camp St., New Orleans, La

RICHARDSON & BOYNTON CO.'S
"PERFECT"
HOT-WATER HEATER.



"PERFECT" HOT-WATER HEATER.
(The Most Powerful Water Heater ever Constructed.)

Has 2½ times more Square Feet of Hot-Water Fire Surface; hence capable of Heating more Square Feet of Radiating than any Heater ever made.

BROWNE & JENKINS,
DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN
WALL PAPER
174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

Mention the Advocate when you write.

J. H. AITKEN & CO., 110 Camp street, Sole Southern Agents.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
No. 1.....9:30 am	No. 2.....5:00 pm
No. 3.....1:45 pm	No. 4.....8:00 am
No. 5.....10:00 am	No. 6.....3:45 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 2:55 am	No. 1 Fast Ex. 7:00 am
No. 1 Fast Ex. 7:20 pm	No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:40 pm
No. 5 Coast.....9:05 am	No. 2 Lim. Ex. 7:40 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r. 11:00 pm	No. 2 Passen'r. 9:05 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Limited.....7:30 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:35 am
B. Rouge Local. 12:00 pm	B. Rouge Local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 3:25 pm	No. 18 Local... 7:20 pm
No. 17 Local....6:05 am	No. 20 Califor. 11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.
(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 1. Chat'g. 11:00 am	No. 2. Lim'd.....3:35 pm
No. 3. Fast Line. 6:30 am	No. 6. Fast Line. 9:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5. Fast Line. 6:30 am | No. 6. Fast Line. 9:00 pm

P. AND E. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily, Except Sunday.

Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:00 pm

Sunday Schedule.

Arrive.....7:25 pm | Leave.....7:30 am

MISCELLANEOUS.

THREE WONDERFUL
SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect

6,500,000 LADIES
Are Using Sewing Machines.

SINGER
Family Sewing Machines.

8,000,000
SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,
185 Canal St., New Orleans.
S. E. RUNOLE - - - - - AGENT.

Mention this paper.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,0

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Desirable Fire Business.

W. R. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH HOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

WONDERFUL
SUCCESS.
ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing (a saving of from $3.00 to $4.00) by subscribing for

THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

—AND—

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR
FOR
$3.25 (THREE TWENTY-FIVE).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST
Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC, SCIENTIFIC, AND HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon order entitling the holder to the selection of any pattern illustrated in the fashion department in that number, and in any of the sizes manufactured, making patterns during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the best TWO Dollar Family Magazine issued. 1888 will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so extensively as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8¾ x 11½ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York, AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Christian Advocate at $3.25 Per Year

Church & School Bells
SIZES AND PRICES.

Diam.	Wt. with Cast-off Yoke.	Cost of Bell from Henry's
No. 7	25 to 290 lbs.	$25
No. 6	42 to 350 lbs.	30
No. 5	60 to 500 lbs.	60
No. 4	84 to 700 lbs.	75
No. 3	98 to 925 lbs.	100

Roussey & Co., Seneca Falls, N. Y., U.S.A.

Mention this paper.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Fire-alls, Time Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

McShane Bell Foundry
Finest Grade of Bells.
Chimes and Peals for Churches, &c.
Send for Price and Catalogue. Address
H. McSHANE & CO.,
Mention this paper. Baltimore, Md.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:

REV. J. D. CAMERON REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D. REV. W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1888.

A dispatch from Bro. Bowen, of Greenville, Miss., says: "Glorious meeting here. Rev. Sam Jones will remain till Monday."

Briefs.

It is very curious to see so many people in the world trying to find out what they ought not to believe!

Many of us persuade ourselves, all of us have probably yielded to the opinion, that reputation is necessary for the sake of usefulness. Every hour, I think, will shows us more and more that the concern about reputation is the great hinderance to usefulness; that if we desire to be useful, we must struggle against it night and day.—Maurice.

The London Methodist Times, speaking of church work in the cities, says:

But nothing can, now or henceforth, give any church a hold of the great cities except downright, unmistakable, soul-converting work among the masses of the people. The great political parties, the socialists, the universities, and the men of science are all going to the people: and we also must go to the people, or perish in dull respectability and amiable impotence.

Tennessee Conference statistics are as follows: Received on trial, 17: into full connection, 14; number of members, 56,166; infants baptized, 1,132—adults, 2,902; Sunday-schools, 510; teachers, 3,394; scholars, 29,690; collected for Conference claimants, $4,936; foreign missions, $22,322—domestic, $4,203; church extension, $3,816; number of churches, 534—value, $731,555; parsonages, 80—value, $71,860. The total increase on the missionary collections was $4,867.

Rev. Arthur T. Pierson, giving an account, in the Christian Intelligencer, of a Scottish mission tour, lately made by Dr. Gordon and himself, has a paragraph on mission training, which we reproduce for our readers:

We need early training in missions. Dr. Wadsworth has told us that if he wished to train a child from the beginning to a consecrated life as a lover of liberty and a patriot, he would have said and sung at his cradle the story of Washington. And what is the imperative need of the church to-day? At the cradle to say and sing the story of Jesus, inspire love for the perishing souls that he left heaven to save. The peril is that education for Christian work shall be left too long—too late—until there is a preoccupation of mind and heart with other pursuits. There is no danger of the home fields being depleted or left destitute. The appetite for self-denial has never yet been so strong as to imperil the supply of the more lucrative and attractive places of honor and labor. The reaction—the reflex influence of missions—has been always the chief factor in the development of the home work. The church that works most vigorously at the earth's ends, like the heart that beats strongest in the extremities of the body, will have the throb of most vigorous life at the heart and center.

Fitness, the best fitness, for any work must be acquired early in life. If we train our young people to mission work and giving for mission in one generation, all the opposers of missions will be gone. And where can we do this better than in the Sunday-school?

Christianity is more than a mere prohibition of iniquity; it is the performance of Christ's commandments.

Thy Loving Kindness.

Every man can perceive the kindness of the Lord—that his disposition "delights in contributing to human happiness." This attribute of the divine nature is exhibited specially in the temporal blessings which are bestowed with such a munificent generosity upon men. It is manifested to all in giving life, in supplying wants, in causing "his sun to rise on the evil and on the good," and sending "his rain upon the just and upon the unjust." Men generally are willing to acknowledge that God is Lord of the sunshine and shower, and that he "leads forth the sowing-time and the harvest." It is by these temporal blessings which are bestowed upon men that the kindness of the Lord is manifested to them.

The term "loving kindness" expresses something more than this. It is a term which leads the mind to meditate upon the endearing relation and the spontaneous affection which subsist between father and child. The kindness of the parent is the kindness of love. It is love flowing out to the child in acts which show good-will. It is in the hand that supplies wants and wards off danger; in the tongue that speaks in affection's soft tones; in the heart that swells with tenderness and sympathy. When this term is used to describe the disposition of the divine mind toward men, it is simply an expression of God's concern for their highest welfare. It is a verbal demonstration that there is in the divine nature the same sympathy and affection for men that there is in the nature of the parent for the child, only in a much larger and higher degree. It exhibits to humanity a stream of love, arising in the inaccessible depths of Godhead, and pouring itself out through thousands of channels to refresh the dreary wastes of human life.

The richness of this "loving kindness" is shown in the covenant of grace, ratified by the blood of the Son of God and sealed by the Holy Spirit. In this covenant God's love gleams in tenderness and beauty. In this covenant we see divine compassion yearning over weak and helpless men. The most attractive manifestation of love in the universe is seen in this covenant. The love that suffers and bleeds and dies for its object—who can measure that? "God so loved the world," is a sentence whose depth of meaning the profoundest study of nineteen centuries has not yet fully explored. "Thy loving kindness," is an expression whose tenderness has calmed the uproar in many a troubled heart. "His great love wherewith he loved us," has lifted many a weary soul up into the peace of God's presence. "God is love," is a truth which has gone down into the nature of man, and satisfied all its cravings, and fulfilled all its hopes, and intensified all its joys. It all means God's nature is love; his disposition is described by the phrase, "loving kindness." It is nothing more nor less than a confirmation of the teaching of Jesus—"One is your Father, even God." As the King eternal, he is controlling the destinies of his whole creation; as "our Father," he is governing us in such a way as to bring us under the dominion of that law by which his own actions are governed—even the law of love. No wonder the Psalmist exclaimed: "Because thy loving kindness is better than life, my lips shall praise thee!"

In regard to newspapers, Rev. F. D. Maurice has this pregnant sentence: "If the newspapers supply us with the material for thinking, they will do us good; if we use them as substitutes for thinking, they will destroy both our intellects and our characters."

The Election.

Ever since last July the political pot has been boiling furiously, and last week a new set of governmental officials was turned out. The Democrats have been badly beaten, and are consequently much chagrined at the result. The Republicans have won an unexpected victory, and are, therefore, huzzaing mightily over the prospect of coming again into power. The Prohibitionists did not expect to win, but are rather surprised at the turn of the wheel, and are ready to go in for another four years' tussle for the triumph of their principles. The Christian, to whatever party he belongs, believes that God rules through men, and he has already began to send up his prayers, that those who are called by the vote of the people to rule shall be so influenced by the Divine Spirit that they shall rule in the fear of God and for the good of all the people.

The House of Representatives seems to be Republican by a small majority. Speculations are rife as to the character of the Federal legislation of the future, and especially in regard to the South; but as no man can tell "what a day may bring forth," we put all such speculations aside, and go on with our daily work for the advancement of the cause of the Lord, trusting in God and relying upon the good sense of the American people.

The College Question.

BY J. D. CAMERON, D. D.

The article on the college question by J. W. Honnoll, in your issue of October 25, deserves notice. Bro. Honnoll says, "The following seem to be the conclusions which we have reached on the college question;" and then follows a statement of those "conclusions." If he had said "suggestions" instead of "conclusions," we might have accepted his conclusion, though that is doubtful, as we do not think any conclusion has been reached. The question is far from a conclusion, as it seems to me. He says we must have harmony. That depends upon the point of harmony. If he means harmony of sentiment, we will never have that; if he means harmony of feeling and effort, then we ought to have that in spite of a division in sentiment. He says: "If we undertake to build a Mississippi college, we provoke opposition and cause a division at once in our own Conference; and that division and opposition will last as long as we have an interest in the collegiate department of Vanderbilt University." Surely Bro. Honnoll does not mean that we are to have a faction in our Conference simply because we can not see alike. Have we a man who will lead off in a faction simply because other brethren, perhaps as capable and honest as himself, can not see just as he sees? I think not. No; we must award to each other honesty of purpose and agree to disagree. I confess I do not know what Bro. Honnoll means by the "collegiate department of Vanderbilt University," and by our having an interest in such department that we have not in the University as a whole. We propose no conflict with Vanderbilt University. Colleges are feeders of universities, and not their enemies. Is North Alabama less loyal to and less interested in Vanderbilt because of her connection with the Southern University, or Arkansas because she proposes a college of her own? If, as we are assured, the buildings and endowment of a college can be secured, I confess I can not see the ground of opposition or division. South Carolina has her Wofford; North Carolina, her Trinity; Georgia, her Emory; Alabama, her Southern University; Virginia, her Randolph Macon; Holston, her Emory and Henry, and her Hiwassee; Tennessee, the great Vanderbilt; Missouri, her Central; Texas, her Southwestern University; Arkansas, her prospective new college; Louisiana, her Centenary; and Mississippi—her nothing!

I was talking to a leading Baptist minister of this State, a short time ago, who said to me: "Let the pastor of the Baptist Church, of blank, settle that question for you." And on being asked how he would settle it, he said: "Establish your college; if you do not, we are going to distance you." We hope there will be developments at Conference which will both open the eyes and change the views of brethren. I believe these developments will say we are going to have a college, and I believe all the brethren will say, Amen! If this should not be the case, let there be no division among us. "We be brethren."

That Missouri Conference Resolution.

BY REV. M. B. CHAPMAN.

In the ADVOCATE, of October 25, you have an editorial on "The Missouri Resolution," which asked the Board of Missions to raise the assessment for foreign missions fifty per cent. upon the assessment of last year, dissenting from that action and expressing the fear that if other Conferences took similar action and the Board complied, it would bring on us another big missionary debt. Your argument is, however, principally based on the idea that the increase asked for is one hundred per cent. instead of fifty per cent. Possibly you may modify your views somewhat when you look at it in this new light. Last year the church paid nearly thirty cents per member. Surely it is not too much to ask it to pay forty-five cents per member. Even then we would be behind most of the other leading denominations of the land. The Congregationalists give an average of $1 17 per member; the Northern Presbyterians, $1 01; Episcopalians, 53 cents; Northern Methodists, 50 cents; Southern Presbyterians, 48 cents. So that if Southern Methodists could be brought to pay 45 cents per member, they would be doing less than some other churches have been doing for the past ten years.

With reference to the debt question, a burnt child should dread the fire, and the Board should make its actual appropriations on the basis of the receipts of the present year, and then make contingent appropriations which are to become actual only when the money is in hand.

I do not consider the fact that the church fails to meet its assessments any argument for keeping those assessments below what the ability of the church and the demands of the gospel require. If this policy had always been followed, there would never have been an advance, as we have never met our assessments. But each legitimate increase of the assessments is an incentive to increase the collections. Within the last fourteen years there has been a remarkable increase in our missionary contributions. In 1874, with a membership of 712,000, we only paid for foreign missions $36,884. In 1882 we paid $188,272, an increase of 500 per cent. in eight years, while our membership had only increased 23½ per cent. in the same time. This phenomenal increase in missionary contributions was largely due to increased assessments and the awakening of a missionary spirit in the church by definite methods and the dissemination of information. Since 1882 the collections have run up to nearly $235,000, an increase of nearly fifty per cent. in six years—almost double the per cent. of increase in membership.

Ten of the Annual Conferences of our church already pay over forty-five cents per member—and the Louisiana Conference has the honor of belonging to this list. Why can not all the Conferences do what these ten have found possible?

Last year, in my own Conference—the Missouri—twenty-one charges averaged forty-five cents or over for missions, some of them going as high as one dollar per member. What these did all can do, and, having some knowledge of these various charges, I know that it is not those which are most able which averaged the highest.

The truth is, that we are merely playing at missions, and have not yet begun to realize our responsibilities. For fifty years the church has been praying to God to open the doors of heathenism, and now that they are not only open, but lying flat in the dust, we are not ready to enter them. God has done everything in this vineyard that he can do. Every land is open. Every important language is mastered. The Bible is translated into almost all tongues. The flags of the great civilized nations make it safe on almost every square yard of earth or sea. The Mission Boards are crowded with applicants. The conversion of the world waits to-day on the money of the church. Shall we hesitate to follow the moving pillar of Divine Providence? Shall covetousness on the part of the church retard the progress of the kingdom of God? The watchword of the church is always, "Forward." Her work—the evangelization of the world—rises before her, grand, urgent, sublime. When God calls, she must not hesitate, even though it be through the deep waters. He is able to make a pathway, and to cast down the walls of heathendom before the shout of a victorious, advancing church.

The suggestion of the ADVOCATE, that we should have a weekly missionary paper—bright, earnest and wide-awake, scattering missionary intelligence far and wide, and educating our people on this great subject—published at one dollar per year, is an excellent one; and it is hoped that the next General Conference will adopt the idea and take measures to establish such a paper, and elect an editor for it.

Great good has resulted in England and in many portions of this country from the anniversaries and "simultaneous meetings," which have been worked up by those specially interested in the missionary cause. Previous to these meetings, a large amount of missionary literature is circulated throughout the entire community, in the way of leaflets, tracts, pamphlets, etc.; the meetings are largely advertised; good speakers are provided, and everything possible is done to create interest and enthusiasm. Such meetings, properly arranged for and held as nearly as possible at the same time all over the church, would awaken an interest on the subject of missions such as has never been seen in our Southern Methodism. The Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey, the Newark Methodist Episcopal Conference, the Presbyterians of Ohio, the Presbytery of Philadelphia, the New England Methodist Episcopal Conference, and various other bodies in this country, have tried this plan with most gratifying success.

The world moves, and we must move with it. We are living in the grandest era of the world's history, and the grandest fact of this age is that the whole world is open to missionary enterprise. It is the church's opportunity—the opportunity for which she has been watching and praying through the centuries. A church of over a million of members should be thoroughly aroused to a sense of her obligations and do her full part in the world's evangelization. I am sure that the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE is now as always in the past, ready to sound the bugle-call and help marshal the hosts for victory.

HANNIBAL, Missouri.

Notes.

There is nothing equal to preaching the positive side of the gospel. People generally do not need to be told the objections to religion, even if you go ahead and refute such objections. The advice of the old professor to the divinity class is still good: "Young gentlemen, never raise the devil unless you can lay him." But many a preacher raises him and then the devil is more than a match for the preacher, and he finds himself slain, and some poor soul filled with doubt. We prefer to preach and to hear a positive gospel.

The Southwestern Methodist has caught one of a numerous tribe. See how he did it:

"Stop my paper! I won't patronize a paper that advertises quack medicines." This card was from Mr. A. We stopped the paper. Next week we made a visit to Mr. A. We found in his house three secular papers, either one of which had more patent medicine advertisements than he could have found in the church paper in the issues of a month. Strange, we thought. But then we reflected. Mr. A. is not a member of the church; the church paper was his wife's. She valued it very highly.

One of our zealous presiding elders, in a private letter, notes these points as evidences of the success and progress of gospel work in a district: "Conversions, reclamations, growth in grace and knowledge, increase in zeal, fraternity and liberality, more family religion, more reading of the Bible, more attention to private prayer, and a larger use of all the means of grace and service." He then says, "I wish we were up in all these points." That certainly is a comprehensive catalogue, but it is by no means a condition of things that can not be attained. "All things are possible to him that believeth." The attainment of such a condition in any district is largely in the hands of the presiding elder.

The St. Louis Christian Advocate has this call to seriousness on the part of preachers:

We heard Rev. W. G. Caples preach a most powerful sermon in Brunswick, Mo. At its close he said, "I see Mr. ——— in the congregation; I will see him and have him take dinner with us at Mr. Rhodes'." Pausing a moment, he said, "No; he seemed impressed by the sermon and I may say something foolish or light and spoil the effect. We will lose his company, and let him take the seriousness and the sermon." How often is this done; the lightness of the preacher or some of his members dissipates the force of the most powerful sermon. Be sober, is a most important injunction. The shortness of time, the smallness of opportunity, the tremendous interests—all call loudly to be serious. Watch unto prayer.

We have always held that the safest way to grow in grace is to be earnestly engaged in some kind of work for the Lord. The number of "do-nothings" in the church is alarming. But when we say "work" we mean something positive. We don't mean simply "talk." On this point the Watchman has a good paragraph, which we commend for meditation:

"Experience has shown that it is easier to talk about Christian work than to do it. In this age of organization, when to get up a society is always easy, the agreeable enjoyment of platform oratory and of publishing appeals, of forming wide-reaching plans and drafting and passing resolutions, may absorb energies that are needed in actually doing the good that is talked about. It is so much easier to send somebody else than to go one's self, to recommend action than to put it forth, to praise than to exercise self-denial. The Divine Book of Remembrance will grant small space to the good that men have imagined and lauded, in comparison with cups of water, actually given in the name of a disciple, or any humblest service rendered to the Master's cause.

While we are on this subject, of everybody doing something positive in a positive manner to help on the cause of Christ, we invite the reader to ponder this note taken from the Interior:

A pastor has a right to something more than the praises of his people. He has a distinct claim on them for help in the doing of his parish work. A parishioner whose heart has been stirred within him by the preaching of the Word, should go to the preacher with an appreciative and practical question—"Can I do anything this week to further your plans for Christian service, in the direction indicated in this sermon? Or, can you, out of your richer experience, suggest a way in which I may utilize the fresh impulse to devotion and self-denial, which your utterance of God's message has implanted in my breast?" A heart full of willingness to do something would bring more joy to the preacher than a mouth full of personal praise.

Every true messenger of the Lord will give a hearty, Amen! to that last sentence.

Personals.

The Presbyterians (North) gave less for foreign missions during the six months ending October 1, than they gave during the corresponding months last year. The Methodists (North) make the same complaint. What is the matter with the missionary spirit?

Joseph Moses Levy, editor of the London Daily Telegraph, the most largely circulated paper in England, died recently. Though a capable editor, it is said he never wrote a line for his paper!

A reader of the ADVOCATE sent last week to the editor $50 to help Bro. Methvin build his parsonage in the Indian Territory. The editor sent it the same day to Mrs. Lucinda B. Helm, who has charge of the Woman's Department of Church Extension.

We have looked in vain for some notice in the election returns of the Prohibition vote cast in this city. As far as we have observed, not a vote has been published in the papers. Did the Democratic and Republican commissioners agree together not to count the vote?

The Southwestern Methodist has been removed from St. Louis to Kansas City, and a joint-stock company incorporated to publish it. We wish our brethren of that paper abundant success in their new field.

The St. Louis Advocate announces the death of Rev. Wesley Browning, at Eden, St. Louis county, Mo., aged ninety-three years. "His life was an illustration of the Wesleyan doctrine of perfection, which he preached and lived."

Brother preacher, have you "raised all your collections?" If any deficiency yet remains, don't rest, but try again and again. The money is all needed and somebody will feel it if there is a dollar lacking. Try again in the name of the Lord.

Postal Card Reports.

—Dr. Featherstun writes from Brandon, Miss: "Brandon has been blessed with another revival of religion; sixteen being added to the church, most of them happily converted. Bro T. L. Mellen, of Wesson, was with us and preached sermons that were food for head and heart. Bro. Mellen is a man of great power in the pulpit, and is one of the growing men in our Conference. One month more and my four years will be out at Brandon. They have been happy years to me. This people will make their new pastor happy and comfortable. On profession of faith and by letter eighty-nine names have been added to this little charge during the last four years. To God be all the praise."

—Rev. William Hoover writes, November 6, of New Hope circuit, Mississippi Conference: "Fifty-nine accessions; eighteen infants baptized; organized a church at Adams' Mills; another near Wesson. At Summit a church will be built ready for the next preacher. All the Conference claims will be paid. The pastoral claims will be paid. New Hope circuit is looming up."

—Rev. J. G. Sibley, writing November 5, says of Topisaw circuit, Mississippi Conference: "Our fourth Quarterly Conference is in the past, and we are all happy over the showing made on the occasion. The following may serve as a sample of the year's work: All the assessments ordered by the Conference are paid, and some of them are overpaid. There have been more than 185 accessions to the church, more than 200 conversions, 50 infant baptisms, and 107 adults baptized. The assessment for the presiding elder and pastor in charge have not been paid as yet, but it is very probable that they will be. A great deal more could be very truthfully said, but I must close, and haste to my appointment. God bless you and your labors!"

—Rev. H. W. May writes from Ringgold, La., November 6: "We are in the midst of a good meeting in Ringgold, the hardest place that I ever saw. But the Lord is giving us the victory; lots of penitents at the altar; some have been blest. The church is wonderfully revived."

—Rev. J. A. Whitehurst writes from Marietta circuit, North Mississippi Conference: "Our people have been wonderfully blessed this year. The 'holy fire' has been felt all over my charge. Grand revivals at every appointment; 140 conversions and ninety accessions this year. Many family altars erected. Much improvement in every way. One new church built. Prayer meetings all over my charge. Little boys and girls praying in public."

A SPECIAL OFFER.

To any New Subscriber who will send $1.75 for a year's subscription to THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, the paper will be sent free to Jan. 1, 1889, and for a full year from that date. This offer includes the Four Holiday Numbers, the Illustrated Weekly Supplements, and the Annual Premium List, with 500 Illustrations.

Notice.

Applicants for admission on trial into the North Mississippi Conference will please meet the Examining Committee in Starkville, at three P. M., on Monday, December 10, next. Inquire at the store of Mr. John Critz or at the Methodist Church for the session-room of the committee.

The topics embraced in the English branches in this examination are spelling, composition, English grammar, geography and arithmetic. The committee will expect a reasonable knowledge of these subjects, as well as of the sermons and Discipline. The examination in spelling and grammar will be based on a composition to be written on a subject given by the committee at our first meeting. No other composition will be accepted.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, Chair'n,
For the Committee.

Notice.

To the Presiding Elders of the Louisiana Conference—

Please furnish me with the names of the lay delegates and the candidates for admission on trial who expect to attend the approaching session of our Conference. Due notice will be given of arrangements with railroads. CHAS. F. EVANS,

Hurst St., cor. Arabella, New Orleans.

Special Offer.

Anyone sending two dollars will receive the ADVOCATE free of all charges until January, 1890.

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

LIFE'S POSSIBILITIES. A SERIES OF SABBATH EVENING ADDRESSES TO YOUNG PEOPLE. By Rev. William Smith, A. M., Ph. D. With introduction by Bishop Thomas Bowman, D. D., LL.D. Cranston & Stowe, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis. Price $1.

This volume is the fruit of the author's intense interest in young people. Many fail of success in life through lack of instruction in the essentials of true living. To know in advance what to do and how to do, is of great advantage. Very many lack inclination and determination to do what they know should be done, hence are in need of inspiration. In hope of adding to this needed knowledge and inspiration, these addresses were prepared and delivered.

PANSIES FOR THOUGHTS. From the Writings of "Pansy" (Mrs. G. R. Alden). Compiled and arranged with an appropriate text for each day by Grace Livingston, author of A Chautauqua Idyl. D. Lothrop, Boston. Price seventy-five cents.

Perhaps no one woman in this country has done more by her writings to help cheer, ennoble and purify the world than Mrs. Alden. Her earnestness and fervor are magnetic, and people who do not quite endorse her religious sentiments are charmed with her bright, strong, helpful stories. They are so practical, so real, so full of the every-day life, in its struggles and temptations, its joys and sorrows.

DAY-DAWN OF CHRISTIANITY; OR, THE GOSPEL IN THE APOSTOLIC AGE. By the Rev. Thomas M. McConnell, A. M. Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn. Price $1.

The author follows the "Acts of the Apostles," and by going into detail, and thus enlarging the original history, he has made a book of over 400 pages. While we think there are many things in the "Acts" that need explanation, we do not believe anybody can re-write that little pamphlet and make an improvement on it. It is the purest gem of history in the world.

THE GOSPEL AWAKENING. A new singing book, by Prof. F. A. Blackmar. Published by J. S. Ogilvie, New York. Price thirty-five cents.

SABBATH COMMENTARY. By Rev. James Bailey. American Sabbath Tract Society, Alfred Centre, New York. Price sixty cents.

This is an attempt to prove that it was contrary to the Scriptures to change the Sabbath from the last to the first day of the week. The author has not established his point, and we are sure all such people are simply "beating the air."

THE ILLUSTRATED HOLINESS YEAR-BOOK, for 1889, has just been issued. Palmer and Hughes, publishers, 62 and 64 Bible House, New York. Price, ten cents per copy.

It is a very neat and attractive publication. It has valuable astronomical notes. It has Scripture selections for daily reading—the Morning and Evening Portion—Sabbath Topics and a variety of interesting home reading. It also makes a full presentation of the Work of Holiness throughout the world—Associations, Publications, Benevolences, Evangelists, etc., on this line, constituting it a needed Holiness Directory, valuable for reference.

PERIODICALS.

—The Musical Herald, for November, is a good number and will interest all lovers of music. Musical Herald Company, Boston. Price ten cents a number.

—Report on the Forest Conditions of the Rocky Mountains. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. An immense amount of interesting information may be obtained from this pamphlet.

—St. Nicholas, for November, begins a new volume of this popular young people's monthly. The portrait of a Young Girl is the frontispiece; then follow articles of various kinds from various celebrated writers and pictures of exquisite beauty, all of which will interest, and, many of them, afford solid instruction to our young folks. We commend this number to all. The Century Company, Union Square, New York. Price $3; 25 cents a number.

—Book News is a monthly publication giving prompt and accurate information concerning new books and miscellaneous items and articles of special interest to readers, authors and publishers. Published by John Wanamaker, Philadelphia. Price fifty cents a number. The November number is on our table.

—The Book-Buyer, for November, contains portraits and sketches of two famous women, Mrs. Ward, author of Robert Elsmere, and Mrs. Deland, author of John Ward, Preacher. It has also notices of books and authors, all of which will interest the lovers of literature. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. Price $1 a year.

—The Forum, for November, contains a broad review of Old-World politics, European and Asiatic, by Prof. Arminius Vambery, the famous Hungarian author, who writes on "Is the Power of England Declining?" Another foreign political study in this number is, "Canada and the United States," by Prof. Goldwin Smith, who believes in ultimate annexation. Charles Dudley Warner points out the criminal methods that are prevalent of dealing with criminals, and contends that the proper way is to sentence them to prison till they are reformed whether it be one year or a life-time. "After Us—What?" by the Rev. Dr. Kendrick, insists on the value of religion as a practical force in men's lives, and shows that there is really no religious retrogression. There are other valuable articles. Forum Publishing Company, New York. Price fifty cents a number or $5 a year.

—The November Century begins the thirty-seventh volume and nineteenth year of the magazine; and the number is made notable by the beginning of several new series, or magazine "features." The most important of these is the first instalment of The Century Gallery of Old Masters; engraved by T. Cole, and described by W. J. Stillman and by Mr. Cole himself. Another series begun in November is Mr. Cable's "Strange True Stories of Louisiana"—after a preface by Mr. Cable himself comes the extraordinary story of "The Young Amit with White Hair," from an old French manuscript. The Guilds of the City of London are described by Norman Moore and profusely illustrated by Joseph Pennell; several Unpublished Letters of Lord Nelson are accompanied by two striking portraits of the hero of Trafalgar; Dr. Robinson answers, with the aid of illustration, the interrogative title of his article, "Where Was the Place Called Calvary?" Dr. Lyman Abbott has a timely and thoughtful essay on the present tendency of religious thought throughout the world, under the suggestive title of "The New Reformation." Century Company, N. Y. Price $4.

Literary Notes.

A Life of Christ, entitled, "From Beginning to End," jointly written by Dr. Talmage, Bishop Newman, Mr. Moody, Drs. Lorimer, Newton, Swing, Pierson, Thomas, John Hall and Rev. Joseph Cook, and illustrated with the finest copper-plate engravings by the greatest artists of the age, including among others, Dore, DaVinci, Scheffer, Jalobert, Hunt, etc., has been brought out by the Classic Publishing Company, 26 University Place, New York. This will be a superb book for a Christmas or New Year's gift.

Messrs. Macmillan & Co. announce the complete Poetical Works of William Wordsworth, copyright edition, with an introductory essay by John Morley, with a portrait. This edition will contain, in addition to the author's notes which are still copyright, a hitherto unpublished poem of about seven hundred lines. This same house announce Matthew Arnold's Essays in Criticism, second series, with an introductory note by Lord Coleridge.

The "Longfellow Remembrance Book" is one of the attractive holiday publications of D. Lothrop Co. ($1.25)

Charles Scribner's Sons have brought out, in a handsome volume, Thomas Nelson Page's spirited story, "Two Little Confederates." ($1.50.)

Garibaldi's Autobiography is announced to be translated and published this autumn. The volume will contain several fac-similes of letters.

Amelie Rives Chanler is under contract to write a story for the New York Weekly, for which she is to receive $7,000.

A vivid description of the yellow fever scourge, with deeds of heroism taken from life, is to be found in "Gladys: A Romance," published by D. Lothrop Company.

Mrs. Fremont has written a very remarkable "ghost story" for the Christmas Wide Awake. It is from her own experience, of a joyous nature and influence, and entitled, "How the Good News Came Out of the West."

William Elliot Griffis' work on "Corea, the Hermit Nation," generally accepted as the most authoritative work on that strange country, has gone into a new edition, with revisions to date, with the Scribners.

Mrs. Clara H. Stranahan, the author of the "History of French Painting," which the Scribners are about to publish, is the wife of the Hon. J. S. T. Stranahan, one of Brooklyn's most eminent men of affairs.

Thomas Nelson Page's "In Ole Virginia" is to be brought out in London with a generous first edition.

Frank R. Stockton's latest book of stories, "Amos Killbright," has passed into its second edition with the Scribners.

People with thin heads of hair should use Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer to make the hair grow out thick, healthy and strong.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Features for 1889.

Six Serial Stories—150 Short Stories

Profusely Illustrated by Eminent Artists.

Tales of Adventure; Illustrated Articles of Travel; Sketches of Famous Men; Historical and Scientific Articles; Bright Sayings; 1,000 Short Articles; Anecdotes; Sketches of Natural History; Poetry.

$5,000 in Prizes for Short Stories.

Three Prizes of $1,000 each, three of $750, and three of $250, are offered by the Publishers of THE COMPANION for the best Short Stories. Send stamp for full particulars.

Four Holiday Numbers

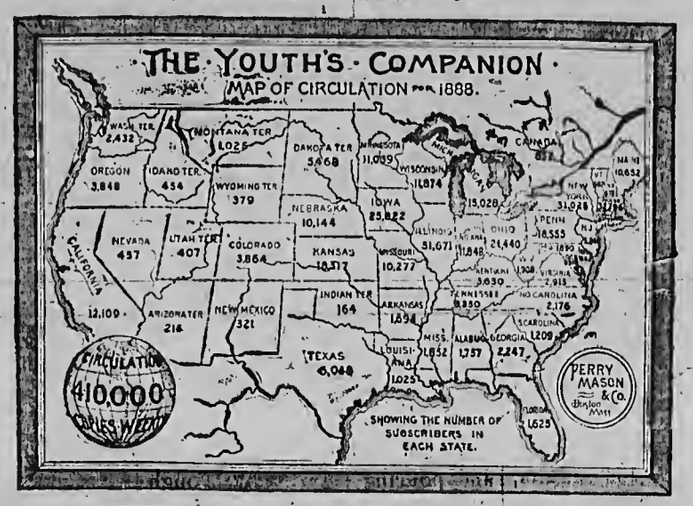
Are in preparation, and will be exceedingly attractive, filled with the special work of our favorite writers, and profusely illustrated.

Thanksgiving—Christmas—New Year's—Easter.

These Souvenir Numbers are sent to Each Subscriber.

The Illustrated Supplements

Were given with nearly every issue last year, and have become an important part of the paper. They will be continued this year. No other paper attempts to give such a large increase of matter and illustrations without increase of price. Really a $2.50 paper for $1.75 a year.



THE YOUTH'S COMPANION
MAP OF CIRCULATION FOR 1888.
CIRCULATION 410,000
PERRY MASON & Co.
SHOWING THE NUMBER OF SUBSCRIBERS IN EACH STATE.

Two Millions of Readers Weekly.

Household Articles will be published frequently, giving useful information in various departments of home life—Cooking, Embroidery, and Decoration of the Home, without and within. The Editorial Page gives timely articles about current events at home and abroad. The Children's Page is always crowded with Stories, Anecdotes, Rhymes and Puzzles, adapted to the Youngest Readers.

SPECIAL OFFER TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

FREE to Jan. 1.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS who send $1.75 now will receive the paper FREE from the time the subscription is received to Jan. 1st, 1889, and a full year's subscription from that date. This offer includes the FOUR HOLIDAY NUMBERS, the ILLUSTRATED SUPPLEMENTS, and the ANNUAL PREMIUM LIST with FIVE HUNDRED ILLUSTRATIONS.

Send money by Post-Office Money Order, Express Money Order, Check, or Registered Letter.

Specimen Copies and Colored Announcement free. Please mention this publication. Address

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 41 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

Episcopal Visitation, 1888-9.

Conference.	Date.	Place.	Bishop.
N. Carolina.	Nov. 21.	New Berne, N. C.	Granbery
Cen. Mex.	Nov. 21.	San Luis Potosi.	Galloway
Little Rock.	Nov. 21.	Camden, Ark.	Key
Texas.	Nov. 21.	Huntsville, Tex.	Duncan
Arkansas.	Nov. 28.	Fort Smith, Ark.	Key
E. Texas.	Nov. 28.	Crockett, Tex.	Duncan
S. Carolina.	Nov. 28.	Winnsboro, S. C.	Keener
Mississippi.	Dec. 5.	Vicksburg, Miss.	Hargrove
White Riv.	Dec. 5.	Paragould, Ark.	Key
N. Georgia.	Dec. 5.	Milledgeville, Ga.	Keener
N. Miss.	Dec. 12.	Starkville, Miss.	Keener
Alabama.	Dec. 12.	Mobile, Ala.	Hargrove
S. Georgia.	Dec. 12.	Eastman, Ga.	Duncan
Louisiana.	Dec. 19.	New Orleans, La.	Hargrove
Florida.	Jan. 9.	Bartow, Fla.	McTyeire
Baltimore.	Mar. 13.	Alexandria, Va.	Wilson

There is no conception of a limit to the discoveries of science. The last discovery is a thought-weigher. One of our papers says:

One of the most remarkable discoveries of modern times is that of Prof. Mosso, an Italian physiologist. Thought is intangible, and has commonly been considered imponderable. The professor decides otherwise. By means of a large balance on which the human body may be poised horizontally, Prof. Mosso found "that one's thoughts may be literally weighed, and that even dreams or the effects of a slight sound during slumber turn the blood to the brain sufficiently to sink the balance of the head. The changing pulse even told him when a professional friend was reading Italian and when Greek, the greater effort of the latter only affecting the blood flow."

A man's religion is very easily weighed; but the weighing of his thought is something new. What next?

"JUST THE BOY THAT'S WANTED," or the qualities which insure success in the leading professions, will be published in the coming volume of THE YOUTH'S COMPANION. General Nelson A. Miles will write of the army, Admiral Luce, of the navy, Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., of the bar, Dr. Austin Flint, of the medical profession, and E. L. Godkin, of journalism.

Artificial Limbs,

Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted

—BY—

A. McDERMOTT,

200 - - - ST. CHARLES STREET - - - - - 200

Bet. Julia and St. Joseph.

Publisher's Department.

Special Offer.

All new subscriptions for the ADVOCATE received between now and January 1, 1889, will receive the paper free until that date.

Subscribe now, and you will receive the paper 14 months for $2.

J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

The publisher acknowledges the receipt of a souvenir from Messrs. Colgate & Co., through Mr. J. Walter Thompson, in the shape of a dainty box of their perfume, soap, etc., accompanied with their good wishes. It did not require this handsome souvenir to make us say that Colgate & Co.'s soaps are pure and good, for we have used them for years, and the ladies say the perfumes are delicious.

The editorial "we" had better be careful. The editor of the Springfield (Mass.) Union says, "We ate 3,100,000 bags of peanuts last year."

Next to your subscription the greatest favor you can extend the ADVOCATE, in a business point, is to mention the paper in writing to advertisers.

CHANGES.—We have quite a number of orders to change the address of subscribers; some without signatures, and others who do not give the former address. Under these circumstances, change can not be made.

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

COLD WEATHER MUSIC BOOKS.

The chill November winds, the whirling, withered leaves that tap against the window pane, harmonize well with the sweet music and the cheerful songs that are to make winter homes attractive. With your fuel, bring in a goodly quantity of our bright.

NEW MUSIC BOOKS.

These new books are every day more in favor: CLASSICAL PIANIST, PIANO CLASSICS, SONG CLASSICS, SONG CLASSICS FOR LOW VOICES, CLASSIC TENOR SONGS, CLASSIC BARITONE AND BASS SONGS. Each $1.

Praise in Song (40 cts., $4.20 per doz.) is the best new Sacred Music Book for Home and Vestry singing.

Let the Children Sing from Menard's Songs for Kindergarten and Primary Schools (30 cts., or Jenk's Songs and Games for Little Ones ($2) or Children's School Songs (35 cts., $3.60 per doz.). All have very sweet child's songs.

Give Your Aid in getting up a rousing good evening Singing Class to use Song Harmony (60 cts., $6 per doz.). Full of most interesting music, Sacred and Secular. Song Manual, Book 3 (50 cts., $4.80 per doz.) is also a good collection, mostly secular.

Tell the Temperance People that no better Temperance Song Book has appeared than Bells of Victory (35 cts., $3.60 per doz.).

Xmas Is Coming. Send for lists of Christmas Carols and Carols.

ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & Co., 867 Broadway, New York.

Mention this paper.

$300 to $500 a month made by working for us. We guarantee energetic persons $300 a Year, with the opportunity of making 6 times that amount. Men who can furnish their own horses preferred. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Holloway & Co., 117 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

ALL BOOKS at Wholesale to members of the Book Buyer's Bureau. Membership free. AGENTS WANTED to solicit members. Send 2c. stamp for catalogue and information to R. H. Woodward & Co., Baltimore, Md.

$75 to $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans AND Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,

CHATTANOOGA,

CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.

	No. 2, Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian	8:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington	4:10 p. m.	3:43 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.

	No. 1, Lim'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati	7:55 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City	11:45 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla	9:49 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham	11:45 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian	4:45 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent.
34 St. Charles Street.
R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1, Fast Mail, 9:00 a.m	No. 2, Fast Mail, 5:00 p.m
No. 3, Express, 6:25 p.m	No. 4, Express, 8:00 a.m
No. 5, Bat. Rouge acc'dation, 10:00 a.m	No. 6, Bat. Rouge acc'dation, 3:45 p.m

Double daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville, Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans at 8 a. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harriston for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East. also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRAILEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. P. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Cen'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Texas and California Express.	Leaves.	Arrives.
	8:35 A. M.	7:00 P. M.
Baton Rouge Local	3:30 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

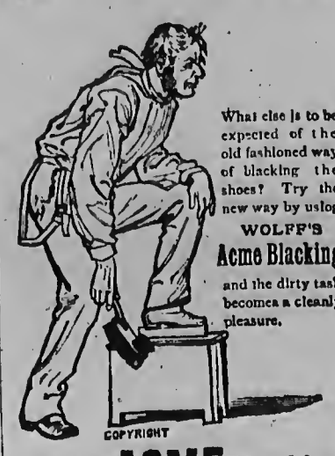
This train has also Pullman Sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Trav'g Passenger Agent.
R. W. McCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Sweat-Groan-Growl.



What else is to be expected of the old fashioned way of blacking the shoes? Try the new way by using WOLFF'S Acme Blacking and the dirty task becomes a cleanly pleasure.

COPYRIGHT

Wolff's ACME Blacking

REQUIRES NO BRUSH.

Sheds Water or Snow. Shoes can be washed clean, requiring dressing only once a Week for men, once a Month for women.

It is also an Elegant Harness Dressing.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia

Agents Wanted

ERIE Self-Wringing MOP

is the best selling article out. Made from malleable iron and steel wire.

Special knitted cloth fitted into every Mop before shipping

A Golden Opportunity for persons of either sex in search of profitable employment, as the SELF-WRINGER sells at sight.

Exclusive territory and liberal terms. Send 50 cents for sample and agent's outfit. Circulars and terms free.

EVANS BROS., Southern Agents,
13 Perdido St., New Orleans.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT, FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET, BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES, LAMPS AND LANTERNS.

Axle Grease,

Blacking, Lineing,
Cages and Cheese Safes, Corks and Cinchs,
Coffee and Grain Mills, Cutlery and Saws.
Hammocks, Ice Cream Freezers,
Oyster Tongs, Paper and Bags,
Scales, Sieves,
Whips.

HARDWARE, STONEWARE, BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES, TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE, ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,

Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET.

E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE
MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER

In all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty. WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES, WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS. UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS, RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS.

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

G. WOLF,

—MANUFACTURER OF—

GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES

(Formerly of 120 Common Street)

54 ST. CHARLES STREET,

Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Orders promptly attended to.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement,

—1888.—

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator	$ 3 50	$ 2 75
American Agriculturist	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	2 50
" Times-Democrat	3 50	2 75
Harper's Magazine	6 00	4 75
" Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

J. G. GRANT, Pub'r,

Our Young People.

NOVEMBER IN THE GARDEN.

BY GRACE WINTHROP.

The sunflowers in the garden
Are bending limp and low.
The cornstalks, brown and withered,
Stand rustling in a row.
"We were so fine," they murmur,
"A little while ago!"

The sky is gray and gloomy
Without the sunshine's glow.
There is no smiling anywhere
Unless—Oh, gladsome show!
Twelve plump and golden pumpkins
All beaming in a row!

They say, "Why so despairing?
We're always here, you know.
At this unpleasant season
Expressly sent to show
The need of glad Thanksgiving,
In spite of frost and snow."

—St. Nicholas.

MR. EDITOR: As we have never written to your dear old ADVOCATE, we will make our first attempt this morning. We have a large Sunday-school of about one hundred pupils. We attend regularly every Sunday. We have a faithful and honest superintendent, Bro. J. L. Scales. Rev. C. Keener, our pastor, was transferred to the Holston Conference on account of his ill health, and Rev. A. D. McVoy, Jr., fills his place. We all like him very much and hope he will be sent back here next year. We have had a revival here for the last month, until last Sunday it closed. Bro. R. M. Blocker, of Haughton, La., was here assisting. They did a good work. For fear our letter will be too long, we will close with much love to your ADVOCATE. We remain,

Your friends,

MAGGIE CASSITY,
FLAVILLA WHITE.

MANSFIELD, Louisiana.

That Baby.

There was a baby in the railway car the other day. It was not an unusual child; but it had a decidedly bright face and pretty ways. For the first few miles she was very quiet, and her blue eyes looked about in wonderment, for evidently it was the little one's first ride on the cars. Then, as she became used to the roar and rumble, the baby proclivities asserted themselves and she began to play with her father's mustache. At first, the father and mother were the only parties interested; but soon a young lady in an adjacent seat nudged her escort and directed his attention to the laughing child. He looked up, remarked that it was a pretty baby, and tried to look unconcerned, but it was noticed that his eyes wandered back to the spot occupied by the happy family, and he began to smile.

The baby pulled the hair of an old lady in front, who turned around savagely and glared at the father with a look that plainly said: "Nuisances should be left at home." But she caught sight of the laughing eyes of the baby, and when she turned back, she seemed pleased about something. Several others had become interested in the child by this time, business men and young clerks, old ladies and girls, and when the baby hands grasped the large silk hat of her father and placed it on her own head, it made such a comical picture that an old gentleman across the way, unable to restrain himself, burst out into a loud guffaw, and then looked sheepishly out the window, as if ashamed to be caught doing such an unmanly thing. Before another five minutes, he was playing peek-a-boo across the aisle with the baby, and every one was envying him.

The ubiquitous young man, ever on the move, passed through, and was at a loss to account for the frowns of everybody. He had failed to notice the baby. The brakeman looked in from his post on the platform and smiled. The paper boy found no custom till he had spoken to the baby and jingled his pocket of change for her edification. The conductor caught the fever and chucked the little one under the chin, while the old gentleman across the aisle forgot to pass up his ticket so interested was he in playing peek-a-boo. The old lady in front relaxed and diving into her reticule unearthed a brilliant red pippin and presented it bashfully to the little one, who, in response, put her chubby arms around the donor's neck and pressed her rosy little mouth to the old lady's cheek. It brought back a flood of remembrances to that withered heart, and a handkerchief was seen to brush first this way and then that, as if to catch a falling tear.

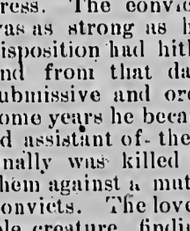
The train sped on and pulled into the station where the baby with her parents was to leave the car. A look of regret came over every face. The old gentleman asked if he couldn't kiss it just once; the old lady returned the caress she had received, and the baby moved toward the door, shaking a by-by over the shoulder of her papa, to which everyone responded, including the newsboy, who emphasized his farewell with a wave of his hat. The passengers rushed to the side where baby got off, and watched till she turned out of sight at the other end of the station, shaking by-bys all the time. Then they lapsed into silence. They missed that baby, and not one of them would be unwilling to acknowledge it. The little one's presence had let a rift of sunshine into every heart, warm or cold, in that car. Business men had forgotten for awhile their schemes for the day, the girls had omitted to follow up their train of thoughts about that new dress or the skating rink, and the young fellows had left off thoughts of base-ball. Everybody was better for the presence of that baby, and its happy face was pictured in many thoughts that day as men pored over columns of figures or talked abstractedly of stocks and securities.—Newport News.

A RAT STORY.—Even rats are not without their good qualities. Miss Frances Power Cobbe tells us a story of a French convict who was reformed by a rat—a man who was long the terror of prison authorities. Time after time he had broken out and made savage assaults on his jailers. Stripes and chains had been multiplied year after year, and he was habitually confined in an underground cell, whence he was only taken to work with his fellow-convicts in the prison-yard; but his ferocity long remained untamed. At last it was observed that he grew rather more calm and docile, without apparent cause for the change, till one day, when he was working with his comrades, a large rat suddenly leaped from the breast of his coat and ran across the yard. Naturally the cry was raised to kill the rat, and the men were prepared to throw stones at it, when the convict, hitherto ferocious, with a sudden outburst of feeling, implored them to desist and allow him to recover his favorite. The prison officials for once were guided by happy compassion, and suffered him to call back his rat, which came to his voice and nestled back in his dress. The convict's gratitude was as strong as his rebellious disposition had hitherto proved, and from that day he proved submissive and orderly. After some years he became the trusted assistant of the jailers, and finally was killed in defending them against a mutiny of other convicts. The love of that humble creature, finding a place in his rough heart, had changed his whole character. Who shall limit the miracles to be wrought by affection, when the love of a rat could transform a man?

Lung Troubles and Wasting

Diseases can be cured, if properly treated in time, as shown by the following statement from D. C. FREEMAN, Sidney: "Having been a great sufferer from pulmonary attacks, and gradually wasting away for the past two years, it affords me pleasure to testify that SCOTT'S Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda has given me great relief, and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering in a similar way to myself. In addition, I would say that it is very pleasant to take."

The heroes of mankind are the mountains, the highlands of the moral world. They diversify its monotony, they furnish the watershed of its history, as the Grampians, or the Alps, or the Andes, which tower over the lowlands and fertilize the plains and divide the basins of the world of nature. They are the "full-welling fountain-heads of change," as well as the serene heights of repose.—Dean Stanley.



INFANTILE Skin & Scalp DISEASES cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, clear every form of skin and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain-subduing plaster. 25c.

Household.

A HOUSEKEEPING SONG.

BY M. D. STERLING.

O have you heard the housekeeping song?
For, if you've not, we won't be long:
It tells the right way from the wrong
Of keeping a house in good order.
Brooms and brushes, dust-cloths, too,
All these we have, and so must you;
Dust, dirt, and cobwebs, you know, will not do
When keeping a house in good order.

Don't make your bed as soon as you rise,
'Tis neither nice nor very wise;
Fresh air and sunshine you won't despise
When keeping a house in good order.
Sheets and blankets neatly spread,
Coverlet, too, for every bed,
Bolster and pillows, of course, for the head
When keeping a house in good order.

Tho' very plain your food, perhaps, be,
The table set most carefully;
For better taste the toast and tea
In a house that is kept in good order.
Tablecloth and napkins white,
Plates, saucers, cups, glasses, all bright,
Knives, forks, and spoons—you will say them just right
In a house that is kept in good order.

And when the table you wish to clear,
Obey the rules; nor ever fear
But you will yet do well, my dear,
With keeping a house in good order;
Dish-pans, towels, soapsuds hot,
Wafer for rinsing never forgot;
"Wash cleanest things first," and then you will not
Miss keeping your house in good order.

Or don't you think it is pleasant to know
About the daily work, just so
And what's the way we all must go
When keeping a house in good order?
Heads and hearts are houses, too,
(May they be wise, may they be true!)
Let each one try the best we can do
Toward keeping these houses in order.

A Plea for Father.

Let every wife and mother fully understand that the road along which the man of business travels is not a macadamized one, nor does it ordinarily lead through pleasant scenes and by well-springs of delight. On the contrary, it is a rough and rugged path, beset with "wait-a-bit" thorns, and full of pitfalls, which can only be avoided by the watchful care of circumspection. After every day's journey over this worse than rough turnpike road, the wayfarer needs something more than rest; he requires solace, and deserves it. He is weary of the dull prose of life, and athirst for the poetry. Happy is the husband who can find that solace and that poetry at home! Warm greetings from loving hearts, fond glances from bright eyes, the welcome shouts of children, the many thousand little arrangements for our comfort and enjoyment, that silently tell of thoughtful and expectant love, the gentle ministrations that disencumber us into an old easy seat before we are aware of it; these and like tokens of affection and sympathy constitute the poetry which reconciles us to the prose of life. Think of this, ye wives and daughters of business men! Think of the toils, the anxieties, the mortifications and wear that fathers undergo to secure for you comfortable homes, and then compensate them for their trials by making them happy by their own firesides.—Reformed Church Messenger.

MAMMONIZING CHILDREN.—There is great danger, in this age of materialism, of parents who are immersed in the world—its gains, pleasures, and pursuits—impressing upon the plastic minds of their children their own likeness in these things, and of failing to train them for better things both in this life and that which is to come. When everything smacks of the world in the parental spirit and conduct, the offspring naturally partakes of the same, readily follows a similar course, and soon becomes thoroughly mammonized. Good reading, Sunday-school instruction, sanctuary privileges, are all ignored, and God and eternity prohibited. It may be a polite secularity is affected, and a seductive deliciousness of personal comfort enjoyed in the gilded scenes of worldliness, but there is no solid happiness attained, and nothing but what the world can give sought. How unspeakable the folly of such training? How fearful the responsibility incurred, and how ruinous the results!—Pulpit Treasury.

REV. DR. BELL, Editor of the Mid-Continent, Kansas City, Mo., says in its issue of October 1st, 1887:

It is to be believed that DR. SHALLENBERGER, of Rochester, Pa., has a sure remedy for Fever and Ague. A gentleman in our employ suffered greatly from Malaria, and tried many remedies to no purpose; when seeing this ANTIDOTE advertised, tried it, was immediately relieved, and finally cured. This was two years since, and he has had no return of his trouble.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Favorite

Medicine for Throat and Lung Difficulties has long been, and still is, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It cures Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, and Asthma; soothes irritation of the Larynx and Fauces; strengthens the Vocal Organs; allays soreness of the Lungs; prevents Consumption, and, even in advanced stages of that disease, relieves Coughing and induces Sleep. There is no other preparation for diseases of the throat and lungs to be compared with this remedy.

"My wife had a distressing cough, with pains in the side and breast. We tried various medicines, but none did her any good until I got a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has cured her. A neighbor, Mrs. Glenn, had the measles, and the cough was relieved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have no hesitation in recommending this to every one afflicted."—Robert Horton, Foreman Headlight, Morrilton, Ark.

Cough Medicine

"I have been afflicted with asthma for forty years. Last spring I was taken with a violent cough, which threatened to terminate my days. Every one pronounced me in consumption. I determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Its effects were magical. I was immediately relieved and continued to improve until entirely recovered."—Joel Ballard, Guilford, Conn.

"Six months ago I had a severe hemorrhage of the lungs, brought on by an incessant cough which deprived me of sleep and rest. I tried various remedies, but obtained no relief until I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A few bottles of this medicine cured me." Mrs. E. Coburn, 19 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

"For children afflicted with colds, coughs, sore throat, or croup, I do not know of any remedy which will give more speedy relief than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have found it, also, invaluable in cases of Whooping Cough."—Ann Lovejoy, 1257 Washington street, Boston, Mass.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas Selections —FOR 1888.— Containing new Carols by well-known composers, with words and music complete in each book. Bright, attractive and responsive Exercises that may be used with or without the Carols. Price, 5 cts. each; $4 a hundred by the dozen by mail postpaid; $4 a hundred by express not prepaid.

Services. "Good Will to Men," by E. L. Hall; "Noel," by F. L. Campbell; and "Peace on Earth," by J. H. Hall. Each of these consist of choice Responsive Readings, through which are interspersed Beautiful Carols, Solos, Duets, etc., especially for use in connection with the Readings. Price of each of the three Services is same as for the "Christmas Selections."

Cantatas. "The New Santa Claus," by Butterworth and Hall; "Queer Santa Claus," by Butterworth and Hall; "Santa Claus' Christmas Call," by Burnham and Read; "Santa Claus' Mistake," by Burnham and Read; "Santa Claus' Kriss Kringle," by Butterworth and Read. Price of the Cantatas, 30cts. each by mail postpaid.

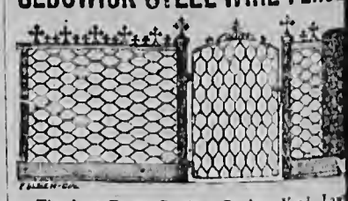
Catalogue of all kinds of Christmas Music to be sent free on application.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati,
And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

SEDGWICK STEEL WIRE FENCE



The best Farm, Garden, Poultry Yard, Lawn, School Lot, Park and Cemetery Fences and Gates. Perfect Automatic Gate. Cheapest and Neatest Iron Fences. Iron and wire Summer Houses, Lawn Furniture, and other wire work. Best Wire Stretcher and Plier. Ask dealers in hardware, or address

SEDGWICK BROS., RICHMOND, IND.

DON'T RUN THE RISK of losing your child by permitting Worms to work out its destruction. When a child fails to sleep well, is restless, unnatural in its appetite, grinds its teeth, you have strong indications of Worms; the positive cure for this is H. Fahnestock's Vermifuge. Ask your druggist for it. Its timely use may save your child from its grave.

ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL

THIS NEW ELASTIC TRUSS

has a Pad different from others, is soft to the touch, with adjusting Ball that yields to all positions of the body, holds itself to all positions of the body, holds the ball in the exact place the intestines need, and a child can do it. Can be worn on the bare skin. Can be worn on the bare skin. Can be worn on the bare skin

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

HENDERSON—SAMPLE.—In the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Keachie, La., November 1, 1888, by the Rev. George M. Liverman, Rev. William F. Henderson, of Louisiana Conference, to Miss Lucy M. Sample, of Keachie, La.

FORSYTH—HOWELL.—At the Methodist Church, in Caseyville, Miss., November 1, 1888, by Rev. J. M. Weems, Rev. W. Y. Forsyth to Miss Mary Z. Howell, daughter of Rev. H. D. Howell, of the Mississippi Conference.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

RANDOLPH—JOHN F. RANDOLPH was born in Minden, La., in 1838, and died in Tuscaloosa, Ala., October 8, 1888.

His early life was spent in New Orleans. At the breaking out of the late war he volunteered his services and left us a member of the Washington Artillery. He then made a lasting record for faithfulness and valor as a soldier. He went in as a Christian and came out a Christian—which is more than many could say. The soldier, true to his country, was also a Christian soldier, true to his heavenly Captain. The two made a delightful blending, and left on observing minds an impression for good, and a record to stay. At the close of the war he returned to New Orleans and engaged in the cotton business and in merchandise. In the year 1867 he married Miss Emma Parham, the daughter of Hon. J. G. Parham, of this city.

For four years the writer of this sketch was his pastor, and they are years filled with most gracious and delightful reminiscences. Bro. Randolph was a man whom to know was to esteem and love. He won hearts not by studied effort, but naturally and unconsciously. It was not the endeavor to win that captured you, but the man himself. I have rarely known a man who succeeded more remarkably than himself. In binding young people to him than he. His Sunday-school class loved him with a pure and lasting affection; while out in the world all men esteemed him because of the kindness, the worth and the manliness of the man.

As a church member, he was all that a pastor could desire. His seat was never vacant. He listened with all his soul. His enjoyment of the truth was evident in his face. He was the preacher's friend, and he was the church's friend. As to his liberality, he was one of the few men that needed restraining rather than spurring. He was a spiritual man. Religion was something more than a name and form to him; it was a life and power—he enjoyed it! He walked with God. His home was always a delightful place to visit—not only because of the attractiveness given by the wifely hand, but because of the genuine hospitality there, and because love and religion constituted its atmosphere.

In the very prime of life, and in the midst of his greatest usefulness to the church, and arduous labors in the business world, he was suddenly prostrated by the hand of lingering disease. Many were the hopes entertained by devoted friends that he would finally recover; but they were all doomed to disappointment. After two years of suffering on his part, and of unwearied devotion on his wife's part, he fell asleep in the city of Tuscaloosa, Ala., on October 8, 1888, and awoke to everlasting health in the city of God. R. CARRAIONE.

The following resolutions were unanimously passed by the Board of Stewards and Sunday-school of Rayne Memorial Church, this city.

Whereas, We have heard with sorrow of the death of Bro. JOHN F. RANDOLPH, who has been for years associated with Rayne Memorial Church in the various capacities of steward, Sunday-school worker, etc.; therefore, be it Resolved, That in the death of Bro. Randolph the church has been deprived of a faithful servant and generous friend; the community, of a useful citizen, and the immediate family circle of an affectionate member who adorned it in every relation.

Resolved, That while we bow submissively to this dispensation of our Maker's will, we will cherish the example of Bro. Randolph in his unselfish devotion to the cause of our common Master, and that we will endeavor to imitate his Christian walk and graces.

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved family and relatives of our deceased brother our Christian sympathies in view of this great affliction, and pray that they may be divinely sustained in this sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication. L. T. BELT, for Com.

DAKIN—MISS BELLE DAKIN breathed her last at the residence of Mrs. Eliza Dakin, in Martin, Claiborne county, Miss. When I remembered the extreme pain which for years she had borne with such patience and sweet resignation to the will of our Father, I could not help but think how sweet it must be to her after falling asleep here in such agony to awaken in that blissful home "where there is no more pain, neither sorrow nor crying."

Miss Belle was indeed a child of affliction, having been confined to her bed for about two years, during which time she suffered almost continuously the most excruciating pain, but seemed to believe and realize that "whom the Lord loveth, he chasteneth," and never murmured at her lot; but by her amiability, her cheerfulness and, above all, her trust in God and cheerful resignation to his will, she was a living sermon to all who came near her. Her pleasant, cheerful disposition amid such extreme suffering was often commented on by her numerous visitors. I had heard it remarked: "A visit to Miss Belle does me more good than a sermon; she makes me ashamed to complain of my little sufferings and troubles." And her minister said: "A visit to her makes me feel more like preaching." Such was the moral influence of this unobtrusive, afflicted young lady. Such the atmosphere of resignation and sweet trust in our heavenly Father which surrounded her. The last time I saw her she said to me: "No tongue can tell, and no one has an idea how I suffer. But I am young, the world seems very beautiful to me and I have such dear, good friends, I suppose it is natural I should wish to get well, and I think if it is only God's will to spare me, how happy I will be and how much good I will try to do; but I know that whatever he does will be right, and I am not troubled about it." To her bereaved relatives and friends, who will sadly miss her, I would say: Grieve not, but think of the glorious change; think of her as free from all pain and radiant with happiness, singing and rejoicing in that blissful home where those who loved each other here, may meet to love again, and so live that "in the sweet by and by" you may meet her in that "better land" where "all tears are wiped away and farewells are never spoken."

M. M. L.

MOORE—LUCIAN L. MOORE is not dead, but simply gone before; and while his mortal remains have been deposited in the silent tomb to await the resurrection, no doubt his sanctified spirit forms one of the innumerable host of heaven, washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb. Bro. Moore was born in Alamance county, N. C., September 16, 1810; moved to Mississippi in 1837, was married to Miss M. Stratton, who proved indeed a helpmeet. No doubt it was largely owing to her consistent, godly life that he was finally brought to Christ. Moreover, he was blessed with the exemplary life of a Christian mother, who still survives him. Although his moral character stood unimpeached in the community where he lived, he felt that something else was needful; therefore, in a class of forty-three he was received by the writer into the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, April 29, 1883. He was always quiet and unostentatious, but ever after this he gave evidence of a changed man. When circumstances permitted, he was regular in attendance upon all the services and ordinances of the church.

For several years past his friends could plainly read in his face and step that nature was gradually succumbing to the disease that had fastened upon him. His pastor, Bro. Ballard, writes me he was fully reconciled to the divine will, and sometimes rather anxious to depart and be with Christ. Bro. Moore was a true man in every sense. On August 22, surrounded by his loved ones—mother, wife and children—with others very dear, near Bolton, Hinds county, Miss., he fell asleep, in full assurance of everlasting life. We shall meet again, my brother.

D. P. BRADFORD.

CLARK—WARDINE WEEMS CLARK, daughter of Charles B. and L. B. Clark, was born April 17, 1883; died August 18, 1888. How we all miss the affectionate, gentle little creature and her sweet winning ways. Rarely ever do we see in one so young such strong affection for a parent as she evidenced for her father; knew little of her mother's love, who watched over her with such tender care during her short motherhood, preceding her to the home of eternal rest.

A. P. W.

He who has given himself in loving trust to God can feel assured that his interests are God's interests, and that whatever happens is for his welfare as surely as it is for God's glory. To be at oneness with God is to be in accord with all that God does, and to be restful under all that God permits. And to be at oneness with God is the privilege of every believer in Jesus.—Sunday-School Times.

A Talisman.

Treatment by inhalation observes that prime rule of success—it begins right. That is to say, it does not attempt to usurp the prerogatives of nature,—but simply urges and gives durability to her more kindly moods. Here are some witnesses to testify to the truth of this statement:

MCCONNELSVILLE, OHIO, Sept. 14, 1886.

"Not myself alone, but all of our family have been greatly benefited by the use of Compound Oxygen.

MRS. F. A. DAVIS.

ACHILLES, KAN., May 22, 1887.

"I have great faith in Compound Oxygen." A. LYLE MCKINNEY.

CHICAGO, ILL., May 29, 1887.

"I am happy to say that I am better every way since using the Compound Oxygen." M. G. KIMMEL.

OAKLAND, O., May 29, 1887.

"I am still improving in every respect." R. L. HALSTEAD.

INDEPENDENCE, OREGON, Feb. 26, 1888.

"Compound Oxygen has done wonders for me."

PROF. J. S. HENRY.

KANOPOLIS, KAN., May 21, 1888.

"I wish that every tired-out, miserable woman could have the home treatment of Compound Oxygen."

MRS. ISAAC M. REED.

We publish a brochure of 200 pages, regarding the effect of Compound Oxygen in invalids suffering from consumption, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, catarrh, hay fever, headache, debility, rheumatism, neuralgia; all chronic and nervous disorders. It will be sent, free of charge, to any one addressing DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Phila., Pa.; or 331 Montgomery street, San Francisco, Cal.

Scientific.

How Storms Are Made.

Our earth only receives a small fractional part of the sun's heat; but whatever that may be in one year, more or less than the average, the entire surface of our earth must feel and be subject to the effects. And one thing is certain—namely, that a year, or series of years, of excessive sun-heat will inevitably be years and seasons of excessive atmospheric disturbances, because increase of heat will produce excess of evaporation, excess of electric action, and, necessarily, excessive precipitation, and during a prevalence of this excess of sun-heat, there must be over limited areas violent storms both summer and winter. When very large areas of the atmosphere have been, by excess of heat, brought into an unequal state, as large areas of lower stratum of highly heated air and vapor, which is also intensely electric, the conditions to produce sand-spouts, water-spouts and tornadoes are fully ripe. The upper and colder layer of the atmosphere can not cool the lower highly heated and vapor-laden stratum so evenly and quickly as to prevent vents in the forms of funnels forming from the lower stratum to the higher stratum and causing a rupture which takes place upward in pipe form, just as water in a tank or basin, having a bottom means for discharge by a pipe, flows out by a whirling motion—in our northern hemisphere always in the direction of the hands of a clock—and so heated, highly electric, and excessively vapor-laden atmosphere breaks into the cold atmosphere above; when at the level of the "dew point" invisible vapor becomes visible, parting with its latent heat, which so rarefies the air as to force some of the condensed atmosphere in visible clouds, mounting thousands of feet above the condensed dew point into a region above the highest peaks of the highest mountain. To feed this pipe, or, as in some cases, pipes, the lower stratum flows in from all sides to rotate and ascend with an intense velocity of steam power, sufficient to produce all the disastrous effects of the wildest tornado, there being almost a vacuum at the ground or water line, as the phenomenon may be on the land or over the sea. On the land trees are twisted and uprooted, houses are unroofed, solids of various kinds are lifted from the earth, and human beings have been blown away like dead leaves. There are, also, records of railway wagons having been blown off the rails. In deserts entire caravans have been buried beneath a mountain of blown sand—camels, horses and men; while in Egypt there are ruins of cities, massive temples and monuments deep buried in the adjoining desert sand. At sea many a good ship caught by a tornado has been overwhelmed and sent to the bottom whole.

THE NEW COLORADO OBSERVATORY.—The Lick Observatory is soon to have a rival nearly 1,000 feet higher than Mount Hamilton, and situated in Colorado, at an elevation of 5,000 feet above sea level. Mr. H. B. Chamberlin, of Denver, provides the funds for its erection; and the main instrument will be a twenty-inch telescope, a size quite sufficient for nineteen-twentieths of all astronomical work, and much less unwieldy than the great Lick telescope, with a thirty-six inch lens, and a tube nearly sixty feet long. The new observatory will be attached to the University of Denver, and its director will be Prof. H. A. Howe, formerly of Cincinnati, who is now in the Eastern States on a tour of inspection of the principal observatories before building his own.—New York Post.

QUICKSAND.—Quicksand is composed chiefly of small particles of quicksand mica mixed largely with water. The mica is so smooth that the fragments slip upon each other with the greatest facility, so that any heavy body which displaces them will sink until a solid bottom is reached. When particles of sand are jagged and angular, any weight pressing on them will crowd them together until they are compacted into a solid mass. A sand composed of mica or soapstone when sufficiently mixed with water seems incapable of such consolidation.

If you want to cure a cough, use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the reliable remedy. 25 cts.

Salvation Oil is the cheapest and best pain cure on earth. Price only 25 cents a bottle.

Dr. Parker on Preaching.

Dr. Parker has been writing to the Scotch papers on the subject of pulpit prospects. His contention is that in Nonconformity preaching is everything, and that it is impossible to do all that is demanded. "What mortal man," says the Doctor, "can satisfy an insatiable and irrational appetite for originality, genius, power, and every element and force that invests pulpit ministration with attractiveness? The sweating system is not confined to manual labor. Far too much is expected of the preacher." Undoubtedly there is truth in this. One of the greatest living Baptist preachers told the writer a dozen years ago that the strain was too great for him, and he sighed for a quiet country pastorate. But is not the ideal of preaching all wrong? Do people demand a display of originality and genius three times a week? Would not a quiet and genial talk often do more good and be more acceptable? Preaching, and great preaching, we want, and must have. But the wise preacher will never work beyond his normal power, especially when he has a probable pastorate of many years before him. Even Titans grow weary, and genius works less rapidly and brilliantly as years increase.—Methodist Times, London.

In this, as in every community, there are those who are out of work, or who are employed at very unsatisfactory wages. To any and all such we would say, write to B. F. Johnson & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va. They can show you "a better way." Capital not necessary.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT MCGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE,

John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

113 Common Street.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases. A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel. The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with PERFECT SAFETY to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

It has been used with most wonderful effect in Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c.

Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2 cent stamp to MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA

GRANT'S FURNITURE HOUSE.

$35.00

Buys a beautiful Crimson Plush Parlor Suit, in five pieces, as shown in Illustration. Solid Walnut Frame, Hand-carved and Rubbed Oil Polish. Same suit in Hair Cloth, $35.

$45.00

Buys the same suit in five pieces, covered in Silk Plush, all one color, in either of the following: Crimson, Old Gold, Olive, Peacock Blue or Maroon; or the same set made up in all the above colors.

$55.00

Buys the suit in ten pieces, including the five pieces here shown, one more Sofa and four Parlor Chairs covered in plush.

$65.00

Buys the same set—ten pieces—covered in Silk Plush—all one color, or five different colors.

Plush Rockers, Reception Chairs, Reed and Rattan Rockers, Fancy Tables in Walnut, Mahogany, Oak and Cherry.

$20.00

Buys a French Bed-Room Set.

$39.50

Buys a beautiful Victoria Bed-Room Set, in imitation Walnut, Marble-top—twelve pieces—as follows: Bedstead, Dresser, Wash-stand, Armoir, four Cane-seat Chairs, one Cane-seat Rocker, one Towel Rack, one Sprung, and one Centre Table.

$95.00

Buys a magnificent Black Walnut Bed-Room Set, Marble-Top, Satin Tester, brass rods—twelve pieces as above.

$19.00

Buys a Dining-Room Set, including Sideboard, Extension Table, and six Cane-seat Chairs.

$22.00

Buys a Kitchen Set, including a first-class Stove with Utensils, Kitchen Safe, Kitchen Table, four Kitchen Chairs.

Office and Library Furniture in large variety.

CARPETS—Ingrain, Brussels and Velvets.

Rugs, Portiere and Lace Curtains in all styles and at all prices.

☞Figures talk; and if you doubt, call and inspect the goods. Everything else proportionately cheap. Stock complete with the latest designs and fresh from the best factories. Call and examine, and I guarantee polite attention reliable goods, fair dealing and bottom prices at the Cheapest FURNITURE HOUSE in NEW ORLEANS.

J. G. GRANT, 50 and 52 Baronne Street.

☞Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., New York.

EDUCATIONAL.

A ROAD TO SUCCESS.

A ...ne of the grand avenues to successful business life leads through

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

where every student buys and sells, receives and pays, corresponds, calculates, attends Business Lectures, forms and dissolves co-partnerships, keeps books and transacts business in the same manner as do Merchants, Manufacturers, Bankers, etc., in daily business.

This renowned and progressive institution has for the past thirty-two years enjoyed the confidence and support of the discerning public for its faithful, high-grade, practical education.

Soule College has also Higher English, Academical, Mathematical, Shorthand and Type-writing Schools. For catalogues address,

GEO. SOULE, President,
183 St. Charles Street, New Orleans, La.

N. B.—Soule's New Science and Practice of Accounts (416 pp.) and Soule's Philosophic Work on Practical Mathematics (880 pp.) are replete with expert and practical accounting and with the highest work and the rarest gems of the sciences of which they treat. Price $5 each. For sale at the College office.

Mention this Paper.

Leche's Graded Institute.

DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL.

Seventh Session Opens Monday, September 10, 1888.

English, French, Latin, German, Drawing, Shorthand, Type-writing. For prospectus address A. S. LECHE, 7 Prytania street.

Mention this paper.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.
PROF. D. F. HUDDLE, Sec.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the V., S. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 1889.
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—board, books, tuition and fees—of a complete English course for one term of twenty weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address
R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

J. H. BRUNNER, Pres.
G. W. HUDDLESTON, Sec.

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending November 13, 1888.)

COTTON.
Low ordinary	7 3-16	@ —	—
Ordinary	7 11-16	—	—
Good ordinary	8 5-16	—	—
Low middling	9 1-16	—	—
Middling	9 9-16	—	—
Good middling	10 1-16	—	—
Middling fair	10 11-16	—	—
Fair	11 9-16	—	—
Galveston middling	9 9-16	—	—
Mobile middling	9⅜	—	—
St. Louis middling	9⅜	—	—
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4⅜	—	—
Fully fair	4¾	—	—
Good fair	4 9-16		4⅝
Common	4¼		4⅜
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4¼		5½
Pr. yellow	5⅞	—	—
Gray White	5⅞		6
Choice white	6¼		6⅜
Stan. Gran.	7¼	—	—
MOLASSES.
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	—	—	—
Fair	24		25
Good Common	—	—	—
Syrup	25		31
RICE.
Head	5¼		6¼
Good	5		5⅛
Fair	4⅛		4⅜
Good	4½		4¾
Polish, per ton	14 00		15 00
No. 2	2⅛		2¼
Rough	2 00		4 00
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 45		5 50
Fancy	5 10		5 20
Choice	4 40		4 50
Minnesota patents	7 50		— —
Extra fancy	5 80		6 00
Winter wheat patents	6 35		6 50
Minnesota bakers	6 50		6 75
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	2 60		2 75
Cream meal	3 00		— —
Grits	2 90		3 00
Hominy	3 25		— —
GRAIN, ETC.
CORN:
White	52		— —
Yellow	52		53½
Mixed No. 2	51		52
OATS:
Western	32		32½
Choice	32½		34
BRAN:
₩ cwt	82½		87½
HAY:
Prime	16 00		17 00
Choice	18 00		19 00
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	16 00		16 25
Prime Mess	—	—	15 50
Rumps	—	—	15 00
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	8		— —
Sides, long clear	8¼		8⅜
Sides, short rib	8¼		8⅜
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	12		12½
Shoulders	8½		8¾
Sides, long clear	9¼	—	—
Sides, short rib	9¼		9⅜
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	11½		12½
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	16½		16¾
Fair	15½		15¾
Common	13		13¼
TEAS:
Choice	40		80
Fair	24		35
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	29		30
Western Dairy	18		19
Common	14		15
LARD:
Refined	—	—	8¼
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11¾	—	—
Coal, cases	16		17
Cotton seed, crude	—	—	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70		75
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, per head	5		6
Chicago, per 100	—	—	— —
Louisiana, ₩ crate	—	—	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	—	—	— —
Western	—	—	1 90
KROUT:
Western, ₩ bbl	—	—	4 00
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	—	—	— —
Western	1 15		— —
BALING STUFFS.
BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb	12¾		13
Jute, 1¾ lb, per yd	12½		— —
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	—	—	12½
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	10½		11
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 00		1 02
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00		4 50
Young Chickens	2 00		3 50
Chickens, South'n	3 00		3 50
Young	1 75		2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00		12 00
EGGS:
Western	17		18
Southern	—	—	19
WOOL:
Lake, per lb	20		21
Louisiana	18		19
Burry	10		12
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₩ lb	—	—	5
Dry salted	6		— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	11 00		— —
Meal	20 00		— —
Pure ground bone	30 00		— —
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	3½		— —
Sulphuric acid	2		— —

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Harrison and Morton, the Republican candidates for President and Vice-President, were elected by the people of these United States. Excepting Connecticut and New Jersey and the Southern States, which were carried by the Democrats, the Republicans nominees had majorities in every State. Both the House of Representatives and Senate of the next Congress will have Republican majorities.

A terrible explosion took place in a mine near Pittsburg, Kan., on November 9. The bodies of ninety victims had been recovered on the tenth instant, while forty-six were believed to be still lying in the pit.

The first anniversary of the hanging of the Chicago anarchists was celebrated on November 10, by sympathizers in Chicago, St. Louis, New York and Pittsburg.

In a fire which occurred at Rochester, N. Y., on the ninth instant, twelve lives were lost and twenty persons injured. The pecuniary loss will amount to $250,000.

A Washington special to the New York Herald says: "It now appears probable that Gen. Harrison will immediately upon his induction in office call the members of Fifty-first Congress together. His motive for this will be to arrange some plan for the reduction of taxation."

The fair at Shreveport closed on the tenth instant, having on that day an attendance of 5,000 people. The exposition has been well attended and highly appreciated.

The figuring on the standing of the two parties in the next House has now been reduced to a fine point. General Clark, clerk of the House, said he counted upon 160 Democrats and 162 Republicans, with three districts still in doubt, namely: one in Connecticut, one in California, and one in Michigan. The chances are that these are all Republican, and would give that party a majority of five in the House.

The works of the Tullahoma Woolen Company, at Tullahoma, Tenn., were destroyed by fire, November 12. Loss, $100,000; insurance, $47,000.

The Augusta (Ga.) Exposition is a great success. Over 25,000 people were in attendance on the twelfth instant.

On November 12, Jacksonville, Fla., reported 30 new cases of yellow fever, and 3 deaths. Total cases up to that date, 4,511; deaths, 388.

The Supreme Court of the United States, on November 12, rendered an opinion in favor of the government in the case of United States against the American Bell Telephone Company, brought there on appeal from the decision of the circuit court of Massachusetts, sustaining the demurrer entered by the Bell Company to the government's suit. The decision of the court reversed the judgment of the circuit court and remands the case to that court for a trial on its merits.

The forthcoming marriage of Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, of England, and Miss Mary Endicott will be celebrated, according to announcement, on Thursday, and is exciting much interest in Washington.

FOREIGN.

The International Exhibition at Brussels closed on November 11. The American representatives, Messrs Bigelow and McFarlane, received the decoration of the order of Leopold, the former being made a commander, and the latter a chevalier of the order.

A London cable dispatch says that the Earl of Winchelsea will preside at a conference on November 22, to consider the Pacific cable project. All the leading commercial and shipping houses interested in Canada and Australia are invited.

The Czar has issued a rescript declaring his gratification that his desire to have a fleet in the Black Sea which will be able to protect property and insure the development of commerce is being fulfilled.

In Cartbegena, there has been great loss from drouth and forest fires. All crops have been lost, and in some places the fire has destroyed over-valuable properties, including an immense sugar plantation, in which the buildings and 75,000 coffee plants were consumed by the fire.

The Swedish explorer, Westmark, has received a letter from a friend on the Congo, expressing his confident belief that Stanley is dead.

The Economist contests Mr. Gladstone's statement that Home Rule is so rooted in the minds of the people that it will survive his leadership with undiminished vigor. "After the death of Mr. Gladstone," it says, "Home Rule will have to stand on its own merits. Mr. Gladstone's present colleagues being all inferior, nobody is able to predict who his successor will be. His equals have all abandoned him."

A French Royalist Congress, comprising a large number of titled persons, assembled, November 11, at Romans on the occasion of the centenary of the formation of the Provence assembly.

A Prussian general has gone to Rome to establish more intimate relations between the German and Italian general staffs, the object being to make possible a harmonious mobilization of the forces of the two countries should necessity arise for joint action.

Owing to recent disturbances in Madrid, the authorities have issued an order prohibiting street assemblies, and instructing the police to disperse all gatherings that may be attempted.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

Examples Worthy of Imitation.

We present our readers with examples of benefactions worthy of imitation. What man or woman in Mississippi or Louisiana will join this noble company?

Stephen Girard gave $8,000,000 to Girard College.

Asa Packer gave $3,000,000 to Lehigh University.

J. B. Colgate gave $300,000 to Madison University.

George I. Seney gave $450,000 to Wesleyan University.

The Crozer family gave $300,000 to Crozer Theological Seminary.

Benjamin Bussy gave real estate worth $500,000 to Harvard University.

W. W. Corcoran gave $170,000 to Columbian University in money and land.

Amasa Stone gave $600,000 to Adelbert College by direct gift and by request.

Whitmer Phœnix gave the bulk of his property, amounting to about $640,000, to Columbia College.

A Mr. Clark recently gave $1,000,000 for the founding of a university in Massachusetts to bear his name.

Samuel Williston, William J. Walker and Samuel A. Hitchcock gave between $100,000 and $200,000 each to Amherst College.

Cornelius Vanderbilt gave $1,000,000 to the Vanderbilt University, to which William H. Vanderbilt afterward added $500,000.

Johns Hopkins gave $3,148,000 to the university which bears his name. His gifts for benevolent purposes amounted to $8,000,000.

John C. Green and his residuary legatees gave $1,500,000 to Princeton College. Ezra Cornell gave $1,000,000 to Cornell University.

Senator Leland Stanford has given a vast estate, amounting to $20,000,000, to found a university in California in memory of his deceased son.

Matthew Vassar gave $800,000 to Vassar College. Gardner Colby $170,000 to Colby University and $100,000 to Newton Theological Seminary.

Isaac Rich bequeathed the greater part of his estate, which was appraised at $1,700,000, to Boston University. On account of the great fire and shrinkage in value, and other unfortunate circumstances, the university will realize less than $700,000 from this magnificent bequest.

The Advocate Free until 1889.

Send $2 now and receive the ADVOCATE free until 1889. Your subscription will not expire until January 1, 1890.

Earnestness in the Work.

Thomas Carlyle uttered a divine truth when he said: "The essential element of heroism is earnestness;" for it truly characterized those who have accomplished anything great in life. In fact, without earnestness there can be no evidence of a conviction of one's purpose or mission. If one has convinced himself of the importance of whatever he undertakes, he will be in earnest over the matter. In proportion to the magnitude of his work will be his interest. Enthusiasm, intense interest is conviction on fire, burning and bursting forth to impress the world with its thoughts. Men charged with some great principle or truth and conscious of a mission to impress these upon the minds of men, must do so by great earnestness. The way to interest others is first to be interested yourself. Paul impressed the world with the gospel by his intense interest, and so must those who follow him in the great work of preaching the gospel. There is more need of earnestness in the pulpit and all Christian work than anything else in the wide world. The spirit of Christ in us should intensify our efforts; the message itself, with its glories and beauties, its mercies and warnings to a lost world, should inspire our zeal; and the great responsibilities that rest upon a servant of God—together with the divine commission and awful consequences, should fill him with mighty enthusiasm. How can an ambassador for Christ, sent out with terms of reconciliation to a dying world, be otherwise? These stupendous truths and glad tidings should arouse his servants with untiring energy and enthusiasm in advancing his kingdom and leading a lost world to Christ.—Issue.

Special Offer.

Anyone sending two dollars will receive the ADVOCATE free of all charges until January, 1890.

Quarterly Conferences.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Thalahoma	Nov. 17, 18
Chehrun	24, 25
Louisburg	27
Horn Lake	Dec. 1, 2

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GRENADA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Grenada circuit	Nov. 17, 18
Carrollton	24, 25
Pittsboro	Dec. 1, 2
Water Valley	8, 9

J. F. EVANS, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND

Marshall	Nov. 17, 18
Hickory Flat	24, 25
Pine Mountain	Dec. 1, 2

JNO. BARCROFT, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Ripley circuit	Nov. 17, 18
Jonesboro circuit	24, 25
Ripley and New Albany	26
Blackland circuit	Dec. 1, 2
Guntown circuit	8, 9

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Zilpha	Nov. 17, 18
Ebenezer	24, 25
Durant and Lexington	Dec. 1, 2
Ethel circuit	8, 9

H. P. MITCHELL, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Lagrange	Nov. 17, 18
Chester, at Chester	24, 25
Crawford, at Artesia	Dec. 1, 2
Tampico, at Mt. Pleasant	8, 9

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Marion	(Thu.) Nov. 15
DeKalb	(Sat.) 17
Binnsville	18
Leaksville	(Wed.) 21
Meridian circuit	25
Meridian station	26

R. D. NORSWORTHY, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Shiloh	Nov. 15
Marvin	16
Westville	17, 18
Raleigh	23
Brandon	24, 25

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

East Feliciana, at Olive Branch	Nov. 17, 18
Bayou Sara, at Concord	24, 25
Jackson	25, 26

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Oak Grove	Nov. 17, 18
Knoxville	24, 25

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Poplarville, at Purvis	Nov. 16
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs	18, 19
Seashore, at Biloxi	20
Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis	24, 25

T. S. WEST, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Camden circuit, at Camden	Nov. 17, 18
Raymond circuit, at Ullinton	24, 25
West Jackson, at Forest Hill (11 a. m.)	26
Jackson station, at Jackson (7 p. m.)	26

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Washington	Nov. 17, 18
Plaquemine Brulee	24, 25
Abbeville	Dec. 1, 2
Sulphur Mine	8, 9
Lake Charles	15, 16

S. S. KEEMER, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Coushatta, at Coushatta	Nov. 15
East Point, at Hill's Chapel	16
Red River, at Lindsley	17, 18
Shreveport	24, 25
South Bossier	27
Valley circuit	29
North Bossier	Dec. 1, 2
Pleasant Hill, at Pleasant Hill	8, 9
Mansfield	15, 16

J. B. CASSITY, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Oak Ridge, at Good Hope	Nov. 17, 18
Bastrop, at Bastrop	21
Lind Grove, at Bartholomew	24, 25
Richland, at Girard	Dec. 1, 2
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	8, 9
Delhi and Floyd, at Floyd	15, 16

J. D. HARPER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Donaldsonville and Plaquemine	Nov. 18
Carrollton and Lower Coast Mission, at Carrollton	25
Crups Street	Dec. 2
Algiers	9
Louisiana Avenue	16

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Montgomery, at Brett's	Nov. 17, 18
Ada, at Beulah	20
Bayou Rapids, at Elm Bayou	24, 25
Sugar Town	Dec. 1, 2
Spring Creek, at Spring Creek	6
Alexandria, at Pineville	8, 9
Evergreen, at Melville	15, 16

R. F. ALEXANDER, P. E.

HOMER DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Vernon, at Wesley Chapel	Nov. 17, 18
Indian Village	24, 25
Sparta and Saline	Dec. 1, 2
Ruston, at Ruston	8, 9
Arcadia, at Arcadia	15, 16

ROBERT RANDLE, P. E.

The clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders. The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

From Rt. Rev. Bishop Ryan, of Philadelphia.

I can testify to the efficacy of J. & C. Maguire's Coodurango. It having been my favorite medicine for several years past. I believe it to be the best Anti-Bilious Cathartic and Corrector of Livar, Blood and Kidney derangements that can be taken, and its general use in families would no doubt avert attacks of sickness.

P. J. RYAN.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information, apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

When death was hourly expected, all other remedies having failed, and Hon. H. JAMES was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The doctor now gives this recipe free, together with certificates of cures from physicians, ministers, and other eminent persons, only asking that each result two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This herb also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break up a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address PRADDUCK & CO., 1932 Race Street, Philadelphia

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

Men's Furnishing Goods.

Headquarters of the Celebrated

STAR SHIRT.

Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

CARRIAGES,
Buggies,
Phaetons,
Surreys,
Carts,
HARNESS,
Baby Carriages,
R. P. RANDALL,
54 and 56 Baronne Street,
New Orleans.

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Ministers, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., 720 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

Mention this Paper.

MASON & HAMLIN

The cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin organs have always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.

Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of the unequalled ex... ORGANS ...cellence of their organs, the fact that at all of the great World's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. One hundred styles, from $22 to $900 or more. Illustrated catalogues free.

Mason & Hamlin do not hesitate to make the extraordinary claim for their pianos, that they are... PIANOS ...perior to all others. The highest excellence achieved GRAND & UPRIGHT by other leading makers in the art of piano building, but still claim superiority. This they attribute solely to the remarkable improvement introduced by them in the year 1882, and now known as the "MASON & HAMLIN PIANO STRINGER," by the use of which is secured the greatest possible purity and refinement of tone, together with greatly increased capacity for standing in tune, and other important advantages.

A circular, containing testimonials from three hundred purchasers, musicians, and tuners, sent, together with descriptive catalogue, to any applicant.

Pianos and organs sold for cash or easy payments, also rented.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO.
BOSTON. NEW YORK. CHICAGO.

DRUNKENNESS OR THE LIQUOR HABIT

Positively Cured with Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It Never Fails. We Guarantee a complete cure in every instance. 48 page book Free. Address as below. Sold by Druggists. Price, $1.00. Trial package sent by mail for 25 cents. Address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 47. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1686.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. JAMES A. GOODEY.
REV. W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.
REV. T. L. MELLEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

NOVEMBER.

BY EMILY GILMORE ALDEN.

A Quakeress in symphony of grays,
November comes; demure as any nun;
She is no lover of the fecund sun,
But patroness of wan and pallid days,
Belated traveler by dismantled ways,
The banquet over, and the revel done.
The colored laces of the autumn sun
Chrysanthemums their silver crowns upraise—
To cast them at her feet in glistening rows;
Altho' her sober suit no gem requires,
Yet here and there fell-over topaz glows
As flames leap suddenly from funeral pyres;
Naught can surpass her majesty of pose
Altho' she flaunts no colors, sweeps no lyres.
—Advance.

Thirty Years Ago and Now.

BY REV. JOHN PIPES.

MR. EDITOR: During the pleasant days in October, in company with the Rev. J. B. Cassity, presiding elder of the Shreveport district, we traveled through the southwestern portion of his work, including a portion of DeSoto, and all of Sabine parish, La. Thirty years ago we came through this same region of country, four times a year, as presiding elder, and as many times asked the trite questions: Are there any appeals? Are there any complaints? Quarterly Conferences, however, have been greatly lengthened out since that time by the addition of other questions. There is an apparent improvement in the country, in many respects, since that day. The people live in better houses, have larger farms, and worship in better churches. Having owned but little slave property, they lost comparatively little by the late war. Having always been poor, they did not have that feature of life to learn, as many of their rich neighbors did. Hence they have graded up, while others, who had more, have graded downwards. No doubt, however, the one thing which has added most to their moral elevation and temporal improvement is, for three years past they have had the benefit of a local-option prohibition in the parish, which, perhaps, has not saved them less than fifty thousand dollars a year. Therefore, the parish is out of debt, and the people are solvent and thrifty.

In nothing is the improvement of this country more visible than it is in the manifest and increased desire of the people for the education of their children; and they have shown their faith by their works. At Fort Jessup they have erected magnificent college buildings at a cost of not less than five thousand dollars. The main building is modeled after the Louisiana State University, which was burned at Alexandria, La. It has fourteen rooms, 18x22 feet. Besides, there is a large two-story building on the campus, designed for a preparatory department and a masonic lodge. The buildings are complete and ready for occupancy. Already they have a first-class school of sixty or seventy pupils, and others are coming every week. The boarding department is kept by a competent gentleman and his wife at the low rates of $8 per month. In about the year 1818 the government selected Fort Jessup as a frontier military post, and military statistics show that it was the healthiest military station in the United States. The water is good and bountiful. The veritable well which furnished Gen. Z. Taylor with water is now used by the college.

As to presiding eldering and Quarterly Conference usages, now and thirty years ago, some things may have improved; others have not. The presiding elder is still abundant in labors—traveling, preaching, and ruling the churches throughout seven or eight parishes in Northwest Louisiana. He magnifies his office in the Quarterly Conference. Sometimes I thought a little unmerciful to financial delinquents. Furthermore, the love-feast used to be considered an essential accompaniment to a good quarterly meeting; but to-day it takes a second grade in the ranks on the program. In the first place, it was induced to give way on Sabbath morning, which time it had occupied for many long years, to the Sunday-school, thought by many to be of greater importance. Next it was appointed for Sunday evening; but here even it was frequently interfered with by a juvenile missionary society or some other important meeting. Being handed about in this way, has created, upon the part of many, an indifference for it. So, it too often happens, that the quarterly meeting comes and goes without the love-feast being attached. Even when it is held it is usually with open doors, a miscellaneous crowd, with a sort of running talk. The design of the love-feast was to exclude the world, for the time being, that the saints might enjoy a season of secret communion with each other, free from the embarassment of those from without, to hear of each other's trials and triumphs, and to be benefited by each other's experiences, which we need to-day as much as we ever did. The quarterly fast set apart by the Discipline of the church, to be observed on Friday preceding each Quarterly Conference, used to be a benediction to the whole church, as it was then observed; but to-day, so far as our observation goes, it is almost a thing of the past. True, the injunction to fast is still in the Bible and still in the Discipline, for we looked to see lest we might be mistaken. However, we rarely hear a pastor announce it from the pulpit, as they used to do, or insist upon its observance in his exhortations, as they used to do. Is there any reason why fasting to-day is not as essential to the spirituality of the church as it used to be? If devils never die, and if they have the same power and influence over men which they had in the days of the Son of man, then why may we not be as much under the influence of that sort of devil to-day as the disciples would have been who failed to fast and pray? "These go out only by fasting and prayer."

Suffer me here to call the attention of the Publishing House to the great destitution of our Standard Hymn Book in all the churches in all this region, while its place has been supplied mainly by a frivolous character of evangelistic songs and choruses. These songs are animating, and calculated to arouse the emotions, and the masses like them. The worst feature of it is; there is an inclination to keep them, and the fear is that they will want to retain them after the standard book comes. It is amusing sometimes to see what a confusion such a medley of songs and books create in the congregation. The pastor holds two or three books in his hands, and attempts to give out the number of the hymns in each. It is one thing in the standard book, another in the abridged edition, and still another in the "Gospel Hymns," and by the time he gets through many have forgotten all. We never fail to get left on it. We have a longing desire to get back to the old substantial:

"Before Jehovah's awful throne,
Ye nations bow with sacred joy."

From observation the conclusion has been forced upon my mind that there is no other class of men of the same ability who perform as much labor and accomplish as much good in the way of elevating society to a higher plane of civilization, morality and religion, for as little remuneration, as the itinerant Methodist preachers in this region of country.

Think of it—a man with a family, a man of culture and talent, giving all his time and energies to promote the happiness of the people, for the scant sum of $200 per year! This was the amount reported by, at least, one preacher at his last quarterly meeting. It is a burning shame, not only for the church, but for a community who receive all that is enjoyable in life from the influence of the gospel. We must believe it is because the subject has not been properly placed before them. Some of them, we know.

Letter from Japan.

MR. EDITOR: On October 14 we dedicated our beautiful little church in Kobe to the service of our God, in the midst of great rejoicing. We had about three hundred persons present, and the weather was as perfect as could be. Bishop Wilson could not be with us, as he was due in China on October 10. The good work in Kobe is still going on among our people, and many are working earnestly among their friends and neighbors. Encouraging letters come to me from several parts of my work, telling me of increased interest among our native Christians seeking the salvation of those around them. Many of our people in Kobe are happy in the Lord, and are earnestly praying for a greater blessing from the Lord. I wish you could see our little church, and I wish you could visit us and see something of the work of the Lord in our midst. Tell the dear friends who gave their money to send out a missionary to Japan, it has been used to good advantage in sending us such a consecrated, godly man as Bro. Newton is. He is doing good work in Tokio. Can not the three Conferences send us another missionary within the next year? I trust they can. We want more men, and we want more money. I am glad to see that the Mississippi Conference raised more missionaries the past year than any other Conference. Can they not do the same next year? Pray for us, and ask all those who love the Lord Jesus to pray for us and help us all they can.

Your brother in Christ,
J. W. LAMBUTH.

KOBE, Oct. 24, 1888.

How to Succeed in Public Speaking.

Mr. Bright has just, for the second time, informed the public how he has been accustomed to prepare for his great oratorical achievements. Here is his method in his own words: "When I intend to speak on anything that seems to me important, I consider what it is that I wish to impress upon my audience. I do not write my facts, or my arguments, but make notes on two or three or four slips of note paper, giving the line of argument and the facts as they occur to my mind, and I leave the words to come at call while I am speaking. There are occasionally short passages which, for accuracy, I may write down, as sometimes also—almost invariably—the concluding words or sentences may be written." Young ministers of religion would do well to ponder these ingenuous confessions. It would probably be found that all supremely successful speakers of our own time have substantially adopted the same method as Mr. Bright. Very few, if any, great speakers in Parliament or the bar have fallen into what Mr. Bright truly describes as "the double slavery" of writing out their speeches at length, and then committing them to memory. Reading speeches and reciting speeches are vices peculiar to the Christian ministry. All the most powerful and successful pulpit orators of our time have emancipated themselves from the "double slavery." Even those who began with that plan have discovered that it is unendurable and fatal to the highest success.

If we want to discover the conditions of successful preaching, we must turn to the Dissenting Churches. The Church of England has to-day better preachers than she ever had before. But there is such an idolatrous prejudice in favor of Anglican clergymen in society, in the universities, and in literature, that we can never be quite sure how far an Anglican clergyman's popularity may not be due to the halo of glory which surrounds the least capable minister of the favored and petted sect. An Anglican clergyman is like a prince of the blood. If he is only not worse than other men, multitudes go into raptures over him. All his good qualities are surveyed through a magnifying glass of enormous power. Many an Anglican divine is in all the photographers' windows, is quoted by the Press, and is worshiped in drawing-rooms, who would never have been heard of if he had been a Baptist or a Methodist minister. On the other hand, many an obscure and half-starved Dissenting pastor would have been a wealthy canon or dean if his lot had been cast, as Dr. Binney once said, "on the sunny side of the hedge." It is a fact well known to those who are familiar with the inner history of the churches, that nearly every Dissenting minister who takes Anglican orders obtains swift preferment. Some who have been positive failures in Nonconformist pulpits have become shining lights in the less exigent sky of Anglicanism. But when an English Dissenter becomes known and obtains a national popularity, we may be quite sure that he owes very little to fortune. He, in this land of intense ecclesiastical caste, must "break his birth's invidious bar," and "breast the blows of circumstance," and "grapple with his evil star." He "makes by force his merit known."

The greatest illustration of this is Mr. Spurgeon. He was a minister of one of the smallest and least influential of the evangelical sects. It has grown mightily since his advent. Moreover, he achieved the highest popularity in London. This is very rare. Most great English preachers make a reputation in the provinces and bring it to London. If a man can succeed in London, he can succeed anywhere. But many a great provincial preacher comes to London and fails. Mr. Spurgeon's success is, therefore, on every ground phenomenal. Now, his method of preparation is substantially the same as Mr. Bright's. He prepares both of his sermons on Saturday evening by jotting down on half a sheet of note paper the main outline, with suggestive words. Like Mr. Bright, he leaves very much to the inspiration of the moment, when under the glorious influence of the great crowd that fills the Metropolitan Tabernacle. Every true orator owes some of his best and most impressive passages to the subtle, magnetic influence of his audience. The speaker and those who listen act and react upon one another. Some of the loftiest achievements of human speech are improvised in the presence of a sympathetic auditory. The true speaker instinctively modifies and readjusts in actual delivery even what he had minutely prepared. The man who reads or recites a sermon is not an orator. He may be a brilliant essayist, or a refined scholar, or a consummate rhetorician; but the very essence of oratory is dexterous adaptation of speech to the exact circumstances of the living audience. A man who reads his sermon is like a brilliant pianist who may do wonderful execution with notes already mechanically prepared. He may even by a subtle "touch" bring much expression out of them. But the true orator, of the Bright or Spurgeon type, is a violinist who makes his own notes, and produces subtle and exquisite effects beyond the reach of art, and even to himself instinctive rather than deliberate.

Young ministers would do well to imitate Mr. Bright's method as far as possible. They must, of course, beware of verbosity and inelegance. But mere technical symmetry and artificial flourish should always be sacrificed to force and effect. A sermon is not an end in itself. It is a means to an end. The real end is to move the will of the hearer to the imitation of Christ. If the preacher only succeeds in awakening admiration in the mind of his hearer, or in his own, his sermon is a dead failure. All sermons should be judged by their fruits. Do they bring men to repentance and to Christ? Then they are a genuine success. Do they fail in producing that result? Then, however much they may be applauded by mere literary critics, they are really a failure. Sir Charles Russell is the leading orator at the bar because he convinces juries and wins their verdict more frequently than other men. Preaching is as real and practical a thing as forensic oratory, and must, in like manner, be judged by its results. As men are increasingly interested in religious questions, the public taste in pulpit oratory is being revolutionized. Mere rhetoric, mere clever word-painting, is becoming positively repellent. There is profound truth in Dr. Parker's famous exclamation: "Prepare your sermon? No; prepare yourself!" Let men be simple and earnest; let them use intelligible illustrations and arguments; let them subordinate everything to the great practical result; and they will not lack an audience wherever they are.—London Methodist Times.

Programme for Week of Prayer and Self-Denial.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

The results of the week of prayer and self-denial observed in December, 1887, were so gratifying that the Woman's Board of Missions, in annual session last May, determined to set apart another season for similar services, and appointed as an appropriate time the week in November which includes "Thanksgiving Day." By order of the Board this programme has been prepared with a hope that it may prove helpful and suggestive.

Auxiliaries are expected to have daily meetings for prayer. Those who find it impossible to attend these meetings are earnestly urged to observe the hour by special devotions in the quiet of their home. Every member of every auxiliary, adult and juvenile, is affectionately requested to keep this season with special prayer, special thanksgiving, and special free-will offerings. May the Father who crowns the year with mercy and blessing see his children making return in gifts proportionate to these mercies and blessings! Pastors are requested to call the attention of the women of the church to these services and to aid in having them properly conducted.

"If two of you shall agree on earth touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven."

MONDAY.

Let prayer be made that the whole church have a fresh baptism of the Holy Ghost, as a preparation for the proper observance of this season; for all officers and members of the missionary society; for the more than half a million in the church who "are not interested" in this work, who hear not the "voices of the women" who plead for light and salvation; for the "grace of liberality," that God may be honored by giving as well as by praying; for the youth of the church, that they may be trained for God's service wherever his providence may place them.

TUESDAY.

For all missionaries, specially for those of the Woman's Board of Missions, in their different fields, that their physical, mental, and spiritual health be preserved,—so that the body yields not to trying climate; that the mind be kept clear and strong under the strain of peculiar and difficult work, and that, spiritually, they may keep "close to Jesus" while under the benumbing, depressing influence of a heathen atmosphere. Also for native members, that they by consistent lives may recommend the gospel they profess: for Bible women, for children in schools, for those who translate God's Word, and for a blessing on that Word as preached and read.

WEDNESDAY.—CHINA.

"I will also give thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation to the ends of the earth."

Shanghai—Missionaries: Misses Haygood, Muse, Hamilton, Atkinson, Hughes, Lipscomb, McClellan, and Mrs. Campbell. Pray that each be helped and blessed in her individual work; that the "Home and School" may be completed and prove the spiritual birthplace of many, many souls.

Soochow—For Dr. Philips and Miss Kerr, that as in their hospital work they minister to physical needs, they may gain access to hearts, and successfully teach of Jesus and salvation to the sufferers and their friends; that the labors of Misses Lois Phillips and Gordon as teachers be not "in vain in the Lord;" for medical candidates preparing for work.

Nantziang—That in the management of Pleasant College and the day schools, Misses Kate Roberts and Reagan may daily realize the presence and aid of God's Spirit.

Reding—That Miss Rankin may have special guidance in conducting her extraordinary work, and, in view of her great need of an assistant, that God may move upon the heart of some suitable woman, and cause her to offer. "Here am I; send me."

THURSDAY. MEXICAN BORDER MISSION.

"Is not my Word like as a fire, saith the Lord, and like as a hammer that breaketh the rock?"

Laredo—Misses Nannie and Della Holding, Miss Toland, and all assistant teachers in the seminary, that through their faithful labors and prayers "many that sit in darkness may see great light;" that the "Laredo Building Fund" may increase until ample provision can be made for all desiring to enter the school.

Saltillo—That the efforts of Misses Lelia Roberts and Gilbert to enter "open doors" and establish schools be successful; and that these schools be nurseries for the church.

FRIDAY.—BRAZIL.

"There shall be one fold and one shepherd."

Piracicaba—Misses Watts, Bennette, Marvin, and their assistants, that the marked prosperity of the college, so largely due to their efforts, may continue and increase.

Rio de Janeiro—Misses Bruce, Jones, and Granbery, that God will remove all obstacles and bless the effort to found and build up the Girls' College; also that he call and indicate one fitted to assist in this important work, making her willing and glad to go.

SATURDAY.—INDIAN MISSION.

"For the oppression of the poor, for the sighing of the needy, now will I arise, saith the Lord."

Muscogee—Miss Wilson and all teachers in Harrell Institute, that their work in behalf of our brother in red may be blessed of God, and prove to him that religion is love, despite the conduct of so-called Christians.

Pawhuska—Miss Carrie Arrington, that she may "hold the fort" and build up a good school that will be as "a city set on a hill," and a blessing to the "poor Indian."

SUNDAY.

Request that prayer be made for the Woman's Missionary Society in all the churches. Let a public meeting be held, with appropriate services; and, summing up the subjects prayed for during the week, let renewed supplication be made to him who alone is our hope and help. At this time offerings may be gathered up. May it be "a sacrifice to God of sweet-smelling savor!"

NOTE 1.—Additions may be made to these orders at any time. Be sure to mention, in reporting, all that is collected as a result of this season of self-denial. All money collected this week must go through the regular channels into the general treasury.

NOTE 2.—In the meetings let different persons offer prayer for the different subjects; let these be short, earnest, and to the point.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1888.

THE AUTUMN WOODS

What beauty in the autumn woods!
Where, in the calm, deep solitudes,
The amber sunshine finds its way,
And checkered light and shadows play
Such beauty everywhere on earth!
The moss-grown rock and drooping herb,
The woodland flowers and rustling vines,
The singing brooks and sighing pines,
The murmur of the gentle breeze
That stirs the yellow fruit leaves,
Fall softly in the grasses brown.
The round and prickle burs drop down,
The maple's sere in bright array
Of mottled red and crimson gay;
The oaks in deepest scarlet dressed,
In cloth of gold are all the rest.
Except that now and then between
There stands a tall, dark evergreen
That sheds its spicy fragrance round
And drops its cones upon the ground.
While asters white and purple tinged,
And gentian-rod, in wreaths are fringed,
With scarlet berries peeping through
Where wild grapes hang, of purple hue,
And fiery-fingered ivy clings,
While milk-weed floats on downy wings.
The crickets chirp and insects hum,
For glorious autumn now has come.

—Good Housekeeping.

(Vincent and Holway's Lesson Commentary. Phillips & Hunt, New York.

Sunday-School Lesson.—Dec. 2.

ISRAEL UNDER JUDGES.

Judges ii, 11-23.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief in departing from the living God.—Heb. iii, 12.

TIME.—After Joshua's death, which occurred about B. C. 1426.

PLACE.—No particular place is mentioned. The lesson describes the general behavior of the Israelites under the Judges.

11. Children of Israel did evil—This is the regular phrase for falling into idolatry, through this Book of Judges, and through all the historical books. In the sight of the Lord—Which notes the heinousness and the impudence of their sins above other people's sins; because God's presence was with them and his eye upon them in a peculiar manner, and he did narrowly observe all their actions, which also they were not ignorant of, and, therefore, were guilty of more contempt of God than other people. Served Baalim—The plural Baalim is a general term employed to denote all false deities, and is synonymous with the expression "other gods" in the clause "other gods of the gods of the nations round about them" (the Israelites). This use of the term Baalim arose from the fact that Baal was the chief male deity of the Canaanites and all the nations of hither Asia, and was simply worshiped by the different nations with peculiar modifications, and, therefore, designated by various distinctive epithets.

12, 13. They forsook the Lord, etc.—This was one of the highest aggravations of their offense; they forsook the God who brought them out of Egypt, a place in which they endured the most grievous oppression, and were subjected to the most degrading servitude, from which they never could have rescued themselves; and they were delivered by such a signal display of the power, justice and mercy of God as should never have been forgotten, because the most stupendous that had ever been exhibited. Bowed ... themselves—"Publicly worshiped." Probably one reason why they forsook the Lord was, that to observe the unusual rites prescribed for them made them singular, and exposed them to be hated on that account. Provoked the Lord to anger—We must never lose sight of the fact that this was no mere contention for forms of worship, but that the most frightful moral contamination clung to the worship of Phenicia and Syria. Served ... Ashtaroth—This is the plural form of Ashtoreth, the Venus of Syria, whose rites were more filthy and abominable than even those of the Grecian Venus, whose temple, with its thousand female votaries, polluted Corinth, and on a smaller scale defiled every Grecian city. Ashtoreth was the female, as Baal was the male, divinity of the Zidonians. Her worship was celebrated with the most revolting rites of licentiousness. It did not obtain such a hold upon the Israelites, however, as that of Baal—perhaps, because it was far more impure.

14. The anger of the Lord was hot—God's essential antagonism against sin and sinners is one of the perfections of his holy nature. And such righteous indignation the Scriptures properly call anger. Delivered them into the hands of spoilers—Robbers, marauders, plundering parties of the Canaanites, who committed depredations upon their cattle, flocks, crops, etc. Sold them into the hands of their enemies—God is said to "sell" his disobedient people when he delivers them up into the hands of their enemies to be dealt with as they may see fit; when he puts them out of his own hand, as it were, withholds his protection, and has nothing more to do with them as the objects of his peculiar protection. Could not ... stand before their enemies—This was the fulfillment of the threat (Lev. xxvi, 17), and the exact contrary of what was promised to them on condition of their obedience.

15. Whithersoever they went out—That is, whatsoever expedition or business they undertook. Hand of the Lord was against them for evil—Providence worked against them, so that all manner of misfortunes befell them. Now they were scourged by famine, now by war and oppression. As the Lord had sworn—There is no express oath mentioned either in Leviticus xxvi, or Deuteronomy xxviii; it is implied, therefore, in the nature of the case, inasmuch as the threats themselves were words of the true and holy God. They were greatly distressed—Literally, were in great straits. The word in the original signifies to be narrow; hence to be pent up, or pressed down.

16. Nevertheless ... the Lord raised up judges—They denote those occasional leaders and chief magistrates of the Israelites who led out the people to war against their enemies, and after having delivered them from the oppression of the neighboring nations, exercised each during peace the office of chief ruler and judge of Israel. The judges were usually raised up by divine appointment. They were probably also elected to their high positions by the free choice of those whom they ruled, their eminent qualifications for the office causing them to be sought by the people. Their duty was not confined, like that of modern judges, to the holding of courts for adjudication of civil and criminal causes; they combined the judicial and executive functions; they both judged and enforced the law. The nation had no fixed capital, and the judge selected his own place of residence. Which delivered them—To excite them to love in return by this manifestation of his love and mercy, and to induce them to repent.

17. And yet they would not hearken—Would not obey. Went a-whoring after other gods—By the covenant entered into at Mount Sinai (Exodus xix, 6), the people of Israel were virtually married unto God, so that every instance of idolatry was a breach of that solemn compact. The worship of idols was accounted and spoken of as spiritual adultery, and from the nature of the rites accompanying these idolatrous practices, the term was often more than metaphorically proper. Out of the way which their fathers walked in—The allusion is to the generation of Joshua and the elders "who served the Lord" (verse 7). The leaven of idolatry, with its moral abominations, was brought into contact with the people at so many points that the whole commonwealth was quickly pervaded with the dreadful abomination. Worship is a powerful assimilator. Men become like their gods.

18, 19. Then the Lord was with the judge—Nothing great was done, according to the writers of the Old Testament, but by God's help. This is as true now as it ever was, in spite of man's frequent misuse of God's gifts. It repented the Lord—This is one of the many instances of condescension to the imperfection of human speech which are to be found in the Scriptures. Strictly speaking, God never repents. His nature is unchangeable. But his attitude to man is relatively changed when man turns to him, as is the case here. He altered the course of his providence, acted as if he repented. When the judge was dead—A God-fearing ruler can, by his example and authority, arrest the moral degeneracy of a nation. The removal of such a ruler, whether by death or otherwise, is often the disastrous turning-point in a nation's history. More than their fathers—A disobedient and corrupt nation, when the fear of God has been completely thrown off, gravitates toward ruin with an ever-accelerating velocity. Ceased not from their own doings—Hebrew, they let nothing fall from their doings. They abated, they relaxed, nothing of their evil practices. Nor from their stubborn way—Hebrew, their hard way. Hard, as proceeding from a hard and perverse heart. It is the term applied to the obstinate and intractable conduct of Pharaoh.

20, 21. The anger of the Lord was hot—From this verse to the end of the chapter the narrative is probably to be considered merely as a repetition in substance of what is affirmed by the angel (verses 1-3). It is a more full and detailed statement of the reasons for the foregoing appearance of the divine messenger, threatening them with the judgments of heaven for their disobedience. Nothing is more common than such transpositions in the order of the inspired record. The effect is first mentioned, and the cause afterward. And he said—On account of this idolatry, which was not only constantly repented, but continued to grow worse and worse, the anger of the Lord burned so fiercely against Israel that he determined to destroy no more of the nations which Joshua had left when he died, before the people that had broken his covenant. Will not thenceforth drive out—I will not while you continue in your stubborn way. The promises of God to expel the Canaanites were upon condition of their obedience.

22, 23. That through them I may prove Israel—Not for his own satisfaction, but that they themselves might be made better acquainted with the plague of their own hearts, and that the righteous judgments of God might thus approve themselves to the consciences of all who should either experience, or witness, or hear of them. Therefore the Lord left these nations—In Deuteronomy vii, 22, another reason is assigned for leaving the Canaanites in the land, namely: "lest the beasts of the fields increase upon thee." But that passage contemplates the destruction of the idolaters, "little by little," through an uncompromising aggression upon them, while in this the Israelites are rebuked and punished for giving up the contest as hopeless, and for making covenants with those whom God had doomed to a gradual extermination. Without driving them out hastily—What is threatened in verse 21 is not the suspension of rapid extermination, but of any further extermination. This threat, therefore, is so far limited by the word "hastily," as to signify that the Lord would not exterminate any more of these nations so long as Israel persisted in its idolatry. But as soon as and whenever Israel returned to the Lord its God in true repentance, to keep his covenant, the Lord would recall his threat, and let the promised extermination of the Canaanites go forward again.

Something Ought to Be Done.

BY REV. A. B. NICHOLSON.

There is one piece of work neglected by all the Christian Churches in this country that I think is paramount to all others at this time. I shall not except foreign, domestic missions, or prohibition, with all their importance. I allude to the colored people in our country. I believe, as far as the Methodist Church is concerned, their condition is not understood. Being a superannuated preacher, I can go to any church I please. As such, I go to their religious services, and I am astonished, for in the days of slavery I preached to them, more or less, every year, and after they were set free as long as they would condescend to hear me; and I was regarded a good negro preacher, but for several years I did not have the opportunity to go to these meetings until lately. I believe they have gone back to heathenism several degrees, and still going as fast as the wheels of Time can carry them. The fact is, their preaching, praying and singing I believe is sacrilegious, and something ought to be done for them right now by all the Christian Churches, even at the expense of other interests. I am glad the Baptist Church has gone to work among them. Their General Associations are sending some of their best preachers to labor among them, and they are much encouraged. One minister came to our town, not long since, and lectured several days and nights. I heard him but one time. I was pleased, because I saw the importance of the work. True, he built for them a complete Baptist Church with immersion as the exclusive mode of baptism, though he did not call it "the Baptist Church," but the "New Testament Church;" at the same time every negro in the house understood it and was delighted; but he made them wiser and better people and stronger Baptists. He instructed their preachers how to preach and what to preach about, and how to conduct religious services and behave themselves in their modes of worship generally.

It is hardly necessary to educate men of their own color to preach to them until the masses are taught, for they have a prejudice against educated ministers of their color; call them "aristocrats," and say they try to do like "white folks." The more ignorant the preacher is, the better he can preach to them, so he will help them go into all manner of extravagance and pretentions. Now, it may not be so in all their churches, but it is so where I have attended. I heard a big, black fellow preach the other night, and he was all negro all over. When he got about half through, he quit trying to use any words—not a word did he use. How he did it I can not tell, but it was grunts, groans, yells, with the most powerful physical extortions; lung power was immense, but not a word did he utter. It was then the Christians got happy and made the welkin ring. I think it was a good thing he quit using words, for many of them were bad words as well as poor ones; yet I believe they are now willing to be taught by white preachers, and by them an educated ministry can be introduced; so I believe the white ministry is their salvation.

Woman's Work.

BY MRS. HELENA BOOTH.

That we should take a deep interest in woman's work for woman is not surprising; indeed, constituted as we are—beings with human love and sympathy—how can we do otherwise? We have read of the misery and degradation of woman in those countries where the light of God's Word had not penetrated; that her position in life was scarcely of more consequence than that of the lowest animal; that to her hapless lot fell the most menial employments and drudgery, and that in every circumstance of her life her condition was one to be commiserated. But the power of the gospel broke the fetters that had bound her; and the social standing of woman has been wonderfully ameliorated by the preaching of "the Word of Life." It is an "old, old story," that we hope will never lose its interest while there are Christian women to respond and heathen women to be made inheritors of God's kingdom.

Only a few weeks ago we had seen in the tabernacle an illustration of how small a portion of the earth is inhabited by the subjects of this kingdom. We can not be ignorant of the fact that millions upon millions of women have never heard of the King whom Christians own as their Sovereign. They are still in the sad condition of slaves, debarred from the blessed privilege and instruction of the gospel that has made us free. How shall we use this freedom? Not by wasting God's time and money on ourselves, and thinking that because we are free we can be idle. Shall we not rather press onward, showing by our eagerness that we are willing to do and give what we can? Even though the offering be small, still the one talent and the two mites will not be despised, if that is all we are able to do. We have read in the Bible that small means are accepted when the will to do more is in the heart. God can work by a few devoted Christians as well as by a great army, if such be his pleasure. Let us hope and pray that he may use our humble efforts, in behalf of our oppressed sisters, to save many precious souls. We should be encouraged, knowing that it is his way of working. Though all means are at his disposal; though "the cattle upon a thousand hills are his," he still chooses "the foolish things of the world to confound the wise, and the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty, and things that are despised hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not, to bring to nought things that are."

When our Savior was on earth, he directed his disciples to pray to the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers to gather in the ripe sheaves that stood waiting; and what a mighty resolution these few earnest men produced? Blessed by the Spirit, many thousands of souls were gathered in on the day of Pentecost; and since that time God has owned the work of his servants in every country; and though there is much to be accomplished, we will, by the aid of the Holy Spirit, be enabled to succeed, if we faint not. Let it be ever in our minds that the object is to help those heathen women who have never heard of Jesus Christ. "The harvest is ripe, but the laborers are few." Let the prayer be in our hearts and on our lips to the Lord of the harvest to prepare the laborers, and be it our part to provide the means for sending them. The "day of small things" is not to be despised. For as we have sung,

"Little drops of water,
Little grains of sand,
Make the mighty ocean
And the beauteous land,"

so the little dimes accumulate into the larger dollars. There is, perhaps, not one woman in our church who is too poor to give one dime each month, and there are many who are able to give a dollar, or more, in the same length of time. Let it be hoped that love for our distressed sisters will influence us to practice some self-denial in order to "rescue the perishing;" and, then, what glorious results may be achieved by the women of this church in the saving of precious souls!

While we regret the absence of those dear departed sisters whose aid has been so helpful, still we rejoice that no sorrows can disturb the calm of the serene atmosphere surrounding their Father's throne. Perhaps, through its clearness the dear ones on earth are seen. That is a subject beyond the limits of our present knowledge, but we do know that time for them exists no longer; and what if even now they are preparing a welcome for the loved ones who, temporarily remaining behind, are finally found worthy to enter the "eternal city"! May we be of that number!

From the Work.

GROSSE TETE AND FALSE RIVER CIRCUIT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: This circuit was set off from the old Plaquemine and Grosse Tete circuit at the Annual Conference, held at Minden, four years ago, and presided over by Bishop Hargrove, who assigned the writer to it, and his wisdom has been approved of by each succeeding Bishop until the maximum has been reached, and his removal is inevitable, making the coincidence that when, in the providence of the Lord, the time fixed by the Discipline arrives for a change to be made, the same Bishop is again to preside.

In setting this circuit off from the mother circuit, there was no stint or want of liberality in the assignment of territory, for a superabundance was allotted, reaching over parts of three parishes, with water courses and water privileges illimitable, having a soil as rich and as productive as the State affords. Thirty years ago it was dotted with large sugar estates, working thousands of slaves, and included in the temperance organization of the South—one of the grandest temperance societies in the world, prohibiting the making, selling or drinking of intoxicating liquors. Statutory law prohibited the selling of liquor to negroes in the towns or upon the plantations, which was rigidly enforced; but things have changed, and liberty is a license for drunkenness, profanity, gambling and murder. The old slaves are now freemen, constituting a large majority of the population, while many of the proprietors have either died or moved away, and a new regime of things exists. In this revolution the Protestant Churches have sustained great depletion and loss. Besides the territory allotted, though the good old mother did not assign to the young child the homestead—the parsonage, yet she gave it two churches; and a membership was collected up and registered of about thirty-four persons.

Methodism adapts itself to circumstances; so that when there was no churches, school-houses, court-houses, railroad depots, gin-houses and private houses were brought into requisition for preaching the gospel to those thirsting for it.

In surrendering the circuit and furnishing an inventory, we would remark that its boundary has not been changed, having the same extent of country; one neat new church, estimated to be worth fifteen hundred dollars, has been added, eligibly situated at Arbroth, on the Mississippi river, conspicuous to the eye of the traveler and easy of access to both sides of the river for all who may desire to come to it to worship. There is one local preacher, sixty-four members—being an increase of thirty; five adults have been baptized, and forty-nine children.

LEWIS A. REED, P. C.

FRANKLIN, LA.

MR. EDITOR: I am now making my last round on this charge. I began work on January 1, 1888—the day I arrived at the parsonage. There is a nice parsonage on this work, which I found well furnished on my arrival. I have been kindly received and well cared for during my sojourn in Washington parish. My wife received the very best attention during her illness. We have made many warm friends on this charge. We have on the work eight appointments per month, three weekly prayer meetings, and five Sunday-schools—three of which are weekly. We have held four protracted meetings—two of which showed signs of revival spirit. Only six have claimed conversion. We have received twenty-four members to date, baptized nine adults and twenty-two infants. I filled my last appointment at Tylertown, Sunday, November 11, after which we had a missionary speech from Miss Addie Marshall, of Brookhaven; and you may judge the merit of the speech when I tell you the result was an offering of $13 30.

Our self-denial offering is not so good as it was last year; but, with the offering for the poor and other ministerial aid, we exceed the offering of last year several dollars. This circuit generally pays all assessments, and, though somewhat behind now, we fully expect to make a clean report.

We can safely say the Lord has been with us, and that to own and bless both temporally and spiritually. We can safely say, the preacher whose lot it may be to serve this work will meet a hearty reception. Most of the people say they are pleased to have whom the Conference may send them; and, though there may be a few croakers, yet this preacher has failed to find anything but a hearty welcome in visiting one hundred and five families. I care not where my lot may be next year. I shall not expect to meet a kinder people than those of Washington parish.

Now, trusting that the year 1889 may be more prosperous than this, we ask an interest in your prayers, Mr. Editor, and assure you that we will read and work for the ADVOCATE.

A. C. FLOWERS, P. C.

BELZONA CIRCUIT, NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: At the last session of the North Mississippi Conference I was assigned to the Belzoni circuit. On my way home, after Conference, I was informed by the former pastor that the work was totally situated in the swamp. Having spent one year in the valley of the Mississippi, I knew that living in this section of country would be detrimental to my health; nevertheless, I resolved, by the grace of God, to go and do the best I knew. So, after spending a week with mother and loved ones at home, with a heavy heart I bade them good-by, and started to my first appointment. After several days of hard travel I reached my work. The brethren, though they gave me a welcome reception, were eager to inform me that the work was hard, and expressed little hopes of my making it a success. Young and inexperienced as I was, to me this was a mountain of difficulty; but I was determined not to be impeded by it. Well, I couldn't preach much, but went to work to do the best I could in this way; at the same time doing what pastoral visiting I thought necessary. I soon got my appointments regularly arranged, and went to work aright. To me it has been a year of great rejoicing. Though my health has been greatly impaired by chills and fever, the Lord has so graciously arranged it that I have not missed a single appointment from sickness. My protracted meetings were "times of refreshing from the presence of the Lord," resulting in the conversion of twelve souls and eleven accessions to the church. The membership has been greatly revived, and we are all on a higher plane than ever before. To God we give the glory. Two of our members have gone to their final rewards. The Lord has truly been with us and blessed us, whereof we are glad. We feel like saying with the grand old patriarch, David: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits!" May the Lord continue to bless his Israel, and all the people to give him praise!

W. W. MOSS, P. C.

DELHI AND FLOYD.

MR. EDITOR: Delhi, not unlike most other railroad towns in North Louisiana, has manifested but little religious interest for some time; only preaching once a month until this year, and usually no prayer meeting. During last month the writer, assisted by the faithful presiding elder of this district; Bro. Moseley, of the Presbyterian Church, and Bros. Hart and Randle, and Sister Randle, held a meeting lasting about ten days, resulting in several professions and six accessions to our church, and three to the Presbyterian, and more, perhaps, to follow. One of the most encouraging features now in the religious outlook at Delhi is a young ladies' prayer meeting. One of the most prominent and accomplished young ladies of the town enterprised it, and now it meets regularly with a good attendance.

Now, I write the most remarkable fact of all: My home, West Carroll parish, called the Nazareth of North Louisiana, if not of the State, has gone as dry as powder. For or against license was submitted to our people on Tuesday last, and we gained the victory by twenty-three majority. "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow."

H. ARMSTRONG.

FLOYD, Louisiana.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.—The Bank of England doors are now so finely balanced that a clerk, by pressing a knob under his desk, can close the outer doors instantly, and they can not be opened again except by special process. This is done to prevent the daring and ingenious unemployed of the metropolis from robbing the bank. The bullion department of this and other banks are nightly submerged several feet in water by the action of the machinery. In some banks the bullion department is connected with the manager's sleeping-room, and an entrance can not be effected without shooting a bolt in the dormitory, which in turn sets in motion an alarm. If a visitor during the day should happen to knock off one from a pile of half sovereigns the whole pile would disappear, a pool of water taking its place.—New York Sun.

The defects of a true man's character are seen only by those who know him intimately and watch him critically in his fierce struggle for the victory over the wrong. He whose temper is naturally fiery and violent is far more worthy of credit when he preserves a calmness and serenity of manner under strong incentives to resentment than the man who is by nature obtuse in his emotions, and is seldom aroused to any show of anger or petulance under the most exasperating provocation.—Baltimorean.

Tithes.

THE TWO GREAT COMMANDMENTS—AN EXHORTATION TO PREACHERS.

The sum of all the law and the prophets is, love God and love man. The first table of the Decalogue has reference to our duties to God; the second, our duties to man. The first part of the Lord's Prayer, the petitions have reference to God—Holy thy name, thy kingdom come, thy will be done; the latter part has reference to man—Give us, and forgive us. That we may accomplish what is required of us, more readily and certainly, in the first great command, one-seventh of our time is set apart to be devoted specially to this object; so we rest from all other duties on this seventh day, and think of, read of and talk about our Maker, and our special duties to him. He is not to be forgotten on other days; but this day must be devoted to him. Now, that we may accomplish more readily, easily and systematically what is required of us in the second great command, a tenth of our earning is required. This is to be set apart for benevolent purposes. If ye love me, keep my commandments; and my command is that ye love one another; and one-tenth of your earnings is required to be set apart as an expression of this love, to be devoted to the good and comfort of God's children. Therefore, "The tithe is the Lord's;" not shall be, or ought to be, but "is the Lord's." This does not bar a free-will offering; more may be given, but a tenth part must be set apart to glorify God, by blessing his children. The importance of observing this law is shown again by the intimation that the final judgment is to deal largely with the manner of its observance. "Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." Why so? Because you feed the hungry, clothed the naked, etc., and I accept it as service unto me. And the very reverse to those on the left hand.

I suppose this is so, because it requires great faith in God and love for man to obey thoroughly the second great command: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it." But selfish, money-loving man says: "That must have been for some one else, and for other times. It can't mean us now; we simply can't afford it. Lord, we can't trust you that far." Satan, I fear, is the author of the can't-afford argument. Now, my brother, Abraham was able to afford it. The early Christian Church, for a thousand years or more, was able to afford it. So sayeth the fathers. Thousands of men in our land to-day feel amply able to afford it. Again, the Arabians, Phenicians, old Britons, Romans, Greeks and Carthagenians were able to afford it, for they paid tithes to their deities. I know of no religious practice in the annals of all time more common than the paying of tithes. Our Father commanded the tithes to be brought in, and promised a blessing with it. Our Savior, in referring to the matter, said, "This ought ye to have done." The apostles and early church practiced it. What say you? "I can't afford it and do justice by my family." "If I was certain the Lord would fulfill his promise! but I can't trust him that far; my family is dependent on me." My dear brethren, if the promises of God are not sure, alas for me! I am undone; everything is insecure.

But let us examine the can't-afford-it argument. I take the tithe to be one-tenth of the net earnings. And it is very easy for a little selfish meanness to slip in here. A doctor might take the cost of his medicines, horse-feed, wear and tear of team and tools from his gross receipts before he tithes them, but not his family expenses, nor is he to consider what he can not collect as tithes given. A preacher may take his horse-feed, traveling expenses, etc., from his receipts before he tithes, but is not to consider what the stewards luck of paying him as tithes given.

Now, on the can't-afford argument hear my experience: I have afforded it, do afford and expect to continue to afford it. Last year I gave or paid more than a tithe; up to date this year I have gone beyond a tithe. My wife believes in the tithe law stronger, if possible, than I do, and encourages me in it. Now, brother, just lay aside in your tithe bank one-tenth of your quarterage as you receive it, and let that be the fund you draw from for missionary and other benevolent purposes. You say you are on a poor work that pays but little. Well, I have never been sent to any but what were called "broken-down works" but twice since I have been in the Conference—works that had failed to pay the preacher before me. One of these paid me $480; the other I am on now. It has been considered a hard work, but not broken down, for it has never been up to break down. There are six of us in family—three adults and three children. My children are going to school, and I pay full tuition. I live on my salary, and pay a tenth to the Lord. I live in comfort and have no fears of perishing. Many farmers in my charge do the same. Many others do not pay a hundredth.

Now, let me give you somebody else's experience; One of our preachers received $250, and gave of that something to benevolent purposes. Afterwards he received $100, and gave very little. This applies to more than one. I know a preacher to receive $1,500, and he gave less than $15. Brethren, I am not guessing. I know what several men receive and what they give. I know a preacher who is now receiving about $600 as quarterage, and he gives less than $10. How would he do to send out to teach that farmer liberality, who makes $500 and gives $5. Brethren, just at this point of giving or paying into the Lord's treasury a little more self-denial and more faith in God would make us strong to enforce a duty where the church is far in the background. Just here the Lord's cause languisheth much. I have seen it stated somewhere that water rises not above the fountain-head, and again, "As is the priest, so are the people."

TOM STRING.

Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, Louisiana Conference.

DEAR SISTERS: On page 69, "Tenth Annual Report Woman's Board of Missions," we find that the week in November embracing Thanksgiving Day (29) is set apart as a week of prayer and self-denial. Sisters, in the love of Christ, will you heed this call? Will you not consecrate your thanksgiving festivities with a thank-offering? If rich, give as God has prospered you. If poor, send your mites forth laden with so much cheerful love that they will overbalance the rich men's offerings. Are you too poor to give? Maybe your poverty is the result of not giving. Our God can not make a mistake. His promise is, "Bring your tithes and prove me, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven and pour you out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it." Our own souls are perishing for the fullness which our own hands put away from us. The followers of Christ are oft put to shame by the heroic self-denial of the world. When Sir William Wallace, of Scottish fame, was leading his army to rout the invader of his country, he marched through a devastated, pillaged region, where fire and sword had done their worst. The homeless, famished women crowded about him, holding up to his gaze the living skeletons of their children, crying: "Give us bread, Regent of Scotland, or we perish!" He turned to his war-worn, weary troops, saying: "Fast for a day, brave soldiers, for sake of these hapless ones; to-morrow you shall feast on southron tables!" He was instantly obeyed: the loaded wallets were thrown amongst the starving groups, and the foot-sore, fasting soldiers marched on—to victory!

Soldiers of the Cross, do we love our fellow-sufferers less? Do we hug our wallets close while our Captain bids us divide with the hungry millions who are crying to him for the Bread of Life? "Freely ye have received, freely give." At the end of the march heavenly tables shall be spread for you. Help, my sisters; there is so much to be done, and so few lend a helping hand.

"No gold—no gold!
Our hands are heavy, our feet unshod.
For we have no gold
To go forth for God."

"Where is the gold—
The fair, bright gold—
Which is given the church
For her Lord to hold?
I see it—the flash of the diamond's ray
Tells of its place in a saint's array!
I see it—gleaming on mirrored walls,
Where the reasoned sit in their ceiled halls:
I see it shine on yon robes that change
Their costly beauties to sad and strange,
'Adorning' the layers of God's meek word,
Who say that they strive to be like their Lord:
I see it glowing in costly wine,
In dainty banquets I see it shine:
And its shreds lavished on trifled store
To please self's idol a moment more.
Weep for the gold—God's gifted gold—
Which he gives to his saints for their Lord to hold.
Pray over the gold—God's gifted gold—
For it is but given for us to hold.
Scatter the gold in seed-time brief.
For the glory cometh with harvest sheaf."

E. J. FULLILOVE,
Pres. W. F. M. S., La. Conf.

"Enthusiasm Does; Fanaticism Overdoes."

Public speakers often imagine that it is impossible to produce enthusiasm except by extravagance. But herein they err. Extravagance always rebets unfavorably as respects both the speaker and the cause which he advocates. Perception of the situation, and a vivid delineation of it, with all the interest and sympathy which the case admits of without the loss of rational coherence and accurate statement, will kindle enthusiasm while the speaker is on the floor, and will send the people away with grim determination to work for the cause and a clear perception of how to do it. It is not the highest function of oratory to make a concourse already greatly excited, and of the speaker's way of thinking, wild, but its highest achievement is, without destroying the fervor of the hearers, to guide them into right ideas of what is to be done, to convince those of a different opinion, and to send them away prepared to convince others. Speakers who utter what will not bear inspection lose the confidence of those whom they deceive, and those who use language which the case does not demand, especially personal language, excite sympathy for the cause or men traduced, never convince others, and delight only the less influential, the more ignorant and boisterous of their own adherents. There is not a party in the United States lately contending for the suffrages of the people which has not been injured by the violence and rant of some of its advocates.

Just prior to the late war a conversation occurred between two ministers. One said to the other; "You and I agree in our sentiments, and if I am correctly informed you utter your sentiments unequivocally, and you keep the peace with your congregation. Even if they don't agree with you, they come to hear you. You preach abolition, don't you?"

"Oh, yes, everybody who hears me knows that I am in favor of the abolition of slavery."

"Well, I can't keep peace with my people. They are nearly all down on me now, and they say that as soon as the time comes around to vote they will vote me out of my place, and I can not understand it."

"Well," said the minister first addressed, "I will come around some time and hear you, and if I can see anything which accounts for the general dislike which all parties have of your preaching, I will frankly tell you."

When a suitable occasion came the visit was paid; the visiting brother arrived during first prayer. After the usual appropriate supplications for a public congregation, the pastor said: "And, now, we commend unto thee the condition of four millions of our fellow creatures ground down under the iron heel of slavery. We know, O Lord, that there are some people, even in this congregation, so low, base and mean, that they don't like to hear thy servant pray for the slaves; but, O Lord, all the powers of hell, much less such mean, tyrannical spirits as those which we have to contend with here, can't close thy servant's lips. He will pray for the slave if he dies on his knees," and much more of the same kind. He was taking advantage of a prayer addressed to the Deity, and using Billingsgate against the people who were there, and who were unable to reply or defend themselves. Afterward his friend told him that though he was an abolitionist, during that prayer he almost sympathized with the other side. The peculiarity in this brother was constitutional. Everywhere he went he broke up congregations, though he had great natural abilities. He denounced all offenses, whether against God's law or simple propriety, in the unvarying tone of harsh malediction. It was said of him by a worthy brother that all that preceded the last utterance of the service was *mal*diction, but the discourses were invariably closed with the *bene*diction. He has long since retired from the ministry, but every generation has representatives of that class. Yet this man could have uttered the same ideas with moderation and candor, and carried his congregation with him. Force is not the equivalent of violence, nor are earnestness and maniacal excitement convertible terms; fidelity is not bitterness, nor hurling epithets from a pulpit a manifestation of courage. "Enthusiasm does it; fanaticism overdoes it."—New York Christian Advocate.

We are often disappointed at the apparent ingratitude of mankind. We bestow favors upon those who seem to be worthy; we give aid to the needy; we comfort as we can the sorrowing and the afflicted—and then rest for awhile and await the returns. Generally they fail to come, and when they do, they are not such as we anticipated from the nature of the investments. Those whom we have aided and comforted seem to think that we have only done our duty, and that the consciousness of duty, well performed, ought to be a sufficient reward. Indeed, they seem pleased to think they have been a "means of grace" to us, and to be quite willing to repeat the process. The trouble with us probably arises from the fact that our benefactions were bestowed in the hope of receiving them back with compound interest; they were made in our own names, and not in the name of the Master. Unless made in his name, they yield no returns of blessing to us. The reward is only to those who "do good, hoping for nothing again."—Evangelist.

Have you a few hours or a few days' spare time occasionally that you would like to turn into money? If so, then write quickly to B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, Va., and they will give you information that will prove to be money in your pocket.

It is in vain to preach to people unless you love them:—Christianly love them. It is not the smallest use to try to make people good, unless you try at the same time, and they feel that you are trying, to make them happy. And you rarely can make another happy unless you are happy yourself.—Mrs. Crnik.

Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Bronchitis, can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Prominent physicians use it and testify to its great value. Please read the following: "I used Scott's Emulsion for an obstinate Cough with Hemorrhage, Loss of Appetite, Emaciation, Sleeplessness, &c. All of these have now left, and I believe your Emulsion has saved a case of well-developed Consumption."—T. J. FINDLEY, M. D., Lone Star, Texas.

Never speak well or ill of yourself. If well, men will not believe you; if ill, they will believe a great deal more than you say.—Eastern Proverb.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Catarrh

May affect any portion of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, and the most liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength and health. If you suffer from catarrh, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ringing Noises

Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." Mrs. G. H. Gunn, 1029 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures Catarrh

"I was troubled with that annoying disease, nasal catarrh, and never found relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. L. ROUTT, Marksburg, Ky. N. B. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Ministers, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., No. 4 So. Sixth St., St. Louis, Mo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Tutt's Pills

stimulate the torpid liver, strengthen the digestive organs, regulate the bowels, and are unequaled as an anti-bilious medicine. In

Malarial Districts

their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. This popular remedy rarely fails in effectually cure

Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness

and all disorders arising from a Torpid Liver and Bad Digestion.

A Proclamation!

Dr. I. Guy Lewis, Fulton, Ark., says: "A year ago I had bilious fever; Tutt's Pills were so highly recommended that I used them. Never did medicine have a happier effect. After a practice of a quarter of a century, I proclaim them the best medicine ever used. I always prescribe them in my practice."

ANTI-BILIOUS

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St. New York.

Tutt's Manual of Useful Receipts sent Free

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age.

Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. RUFUS FIGH,

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mule by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure. W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS J. BUCKLEY,
471 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 17, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

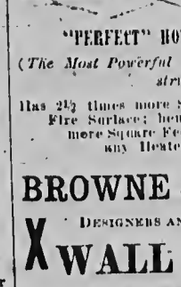
HENRY V. MIELLY,
With Rice, Born & Co., 77 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.



Microbes Cause All Diseases

WM. RADAMS'

Microbe Killer

Cures All Diseases.

This indisputable assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,

149 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

RICHARDSON & BOYNTON CO.'S

"PERFECT"

HOT-WATER HEATER.

J. H. AITKEN & CO., 110 Camp street, Sole Southern Agents.

"PERFECT" HOT-WATER HEATER.

(The Most Powerful Water Heater ever Constructed.)

Has 2½ times more Square Feet of Hot-Water Fire Surface; hence capable of Heating more Square Feet of Radiation than any Heater ever made.

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

Mention the Advocate when you write.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
No. 1.....3:00 am	No. 2.....5:00 pm
No. 3.....6:25 pm	No. 4.....8:00 am
No. 5.....10:50 am	No. 6.....3:45 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:55 am	No. 4 F'st Ex....7:00 am
No. 1 F'st Ex....7:20 pm	No. 6 Cin'ti....3:40 pm
No. 5 Cin'ti....9:05 am	No. 2 Lim. Ex...6:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r, 11:00 pm	No. 2 Passen'r, 3:15 am
No. 3 Chic. and N. O. Lim....7:30 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 California Express. 4:35 am
B. Rouge, local, 11:00 am	B. Rouge, local, 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 18 Californ. 3:25 pm	No. 18 Local....7:20 pm
No. 17 Local....6:55 am	No. 20 Californ. 11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.
(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 1, Lim'd ..11:00 am	No. 2, Lim'd....3:35 pm
No. 5, Fast Line, 6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line..9:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)
No. 5, Fast Line, 8:30 am | No. 6, Fast Line..9:00 pm

P. AND E. EAST LA.
(Alda Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.
Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:00 pm
Sunday Schedule.
Arrive.....7:25 pm | Leave.....7:30 am

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. C. SHEPARD,

49 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds.
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store.
Cheap as the Cheapest.

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

Mention this paper.

PIANOS ORGANS

GRAND Summer Sale

CASH PRICES—PAY WHEN COTTON IS SOLD.

GRAND OFFER. 1,000 Pianos and Organs

To be sold by August, September and October at ROCK BOTTOM CASH PRICES, payable PIANOS only $25 Cash. ORGANS only $10 Cash. And balance Dec. 1, without interest or advance on lowest cash price. Buy now and pay when Cotton is sold.

Great Bargains—Pianos $200, $225, $250. Organs $24, $35, $50, $80. 10 makers, 200 styles. All carefully packed, 10 days' test trial. Reduced Prices. Write for Mid-Summer Sale Circular. LUDDEN & BATES, SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA. The Great P. & O. Depot of the South.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing (a saving of from $3 to $4.00) by subscribing for

THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

—AND—

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR

—FOR—

$3.25 (THREE TWENTY-FIVE).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC, SCIENTIFIC, AND HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon order entitling the holder to the selection of any pattern illustrated in the fashion department in that number, and in any of the sizes manufactured, making patterns during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the best TWO Dollar Family Magazine issued. 188 will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so extensively as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8¾ x 11¼ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York,

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Christian Advocate at $3.25 Per Year

Church & School Bells

SIZES AND PRICES.

Diam. Weight Cost of Bell Bell Frame Hung

No. 1,	24 in.	250 lbs.	$25
No. 2,	27 in.	350 lbs.	30
No. 3,	30 in.	500 lbs.	50
No. 4,	34 in.	700 lbs.	75
No. 5,	38 in.	925 lbs.	100

Rumsey & Co., Seneca Falls, N. Y., U.S.A.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Church, Peal and Chime Bells. Also Improved Church Clocks. Price Also Chimes, Peals, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

McShane Bell Foundry

Finest Grade of Bells.

CHIMES AND PEALS FOR CHURCHES, &c. Send for Price and Catalogue. Address H. McSHANE & CO., Mention this paper. Baltimore, Md.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO

SUCCESSORS TO BLYMYER BELLS TO THE BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO

CATALOGUE WITH 1800 TESTIMONIALS

BELLS, CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM

CANCER and Tumors CURED; no knife. Book free. Drs. HUATLEY & BYERS, No. 163 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. B. GALLOWAY, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS
[illegible] REV. I. G. JOHNSON, D. D.
REV. W. L. G. SMITH, D. D.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1888.

A dispatch from Bro. Bowen, of Greenville, Miss., November 19, says: "Great victory. Two hundred joined the churches. Bro. Jones left to-day. Meeting continues."

Briefs.

The editor of a Japanese paper has received directly from all Protestant Churches of Japan their statistics for the past year, which he gives in comparison with the three preceding years, by which the marvelous growth appears in that time of 151 churches from 38, of 11,604 members from 3,530, and of the contributions over £4,725 from £2,496.

At the beginning of our century the whole number of male missionaries employed by seven societies was 170. Of these, about 100 belonged to the Moravians. In 1880 there were in the employ of the 70 societies about 2,400 ordained Europeans and Americans, hundreds of ordained native preachers, over 25,000 native helpers, catechists, evangelists, teachers, etc.

The progress of missions in India, as shown by the Independent, is gratifying to all the Lord's people. For the past six years the increase has been: Foreign preachers, 67; native preachers, 76; native Christians, 33,348; native communicants, 23,748. There are twelve denominations reported. The largest membership as well as the largest increase is among the Baptists.

The Episcopal Church in this country, according to report made at the recent session of its missionary council in Washington City, has 41 principal stations and 145 out stations, and 133 missionaries and 229 native helpers in foreign fields. It has 90 day and boarding-schools, with 3,364 pupils. The treasurer's report shows a balance of $53,000 to the credit of foreign missions. The annual report shows 3,450 parishes and missions in this country.

The Roman Catholics and the Episcopalians have many points of similarity. One is this: The farther the "temporal power" recedes from the Pope, the more vigorously does that old gentleman assert that the peace and prosperity of Europe depend upon reinstating him to his temporal throne. The farther away the "sects" drift from the Episcopal Church, the more earnest are the invitations of that church to others to come over. The Powers of Europe are expected to accept the Pope's terms, and the "sects" are notified that they must come to Episcopal terms to effect church union; neither of which will ever be accepted.

The statistics of our Japan mission, furnished by C. B. Moseley, statistical secretary, are as follows: Number of stations, 5; missionaries, 9; missionaries' wives, 5; members, 163—increase, 99; probationers, 79; theological students, 7; exhorters, 5; adult baptisms, 88; infant baptisms, 6; number of chapels, 14; Sunday-schools, 15; Sunday-school scholars, 359; Bible classes, 10, scholars in Bible classes, 113; night-schools, 2; scholars, 77; day-schools, 3; scholars, 82; number of churches, 1—value, $2,500; amount raised on salaries and expenses of self-supporting missionaries, 2,523 yen. Whole amount raised on the field, 3,897 yen. The value of the yen is 76 per cent. of the American gold dollar.

Better Than Life.

What a beautiful thing life is! When we see it as it is—in its responsibilities, privileges, hopes and possibilities—we are ready to say, "Nothing can be better." The life that is peaceful and prosperous—in which the sunshine is bright and broader than the shade, in which contentment stands sentinel over the passing hours—has so much of blessing that we imagine nothing can be added to its bliss nor can anything be more desirable. Even a life full of disappointments and checkered with darkest shadows is not often wished away. It is human to love life dearly. Men and women cling to it with a surprising tenacity. They do not often willingly let it go.

What, then, can be "better than life"? David answers: "Thy loving kindness is better than life." David did not hold defective views of life, nor was he deficient in its experiences. He saw as many phases of life as most men. He saw it under quite a variety of circumstances. He saw it as a simple shepherd-boy—as the acknowledged champion of a great army—as the king of a great nation—as a man with a happy household—as a monarch dethroned by his own son—as an old man calmly awaiting its mysterious end. His opinion, then, on the subject is entitled to some consideration, and his judgment must have some value. He says emphatically that there is something "better than life." As beautiful, as grand, as noble, as desirable as it may be, there is yet something better; and that is, God's love. Human life is a great sea, but it has a rugged shore against which human hopes are dashed to pieces. God's love is a boundless ocean upon whose gently rolling billows our hopes may float forever in safety! Human life is a vast plain, "sprinkled with perfume," adorned with flowers and waving in beauty, but in the distance the plain juts up against the sky and stops the vision and shuts out the thought. God's love is an ever-opening and ever-enlarging field of wonderful and glorious surprises, where the eye of the soul may range in delightful contemplation forever. Whatever is beautiful in life, whatever is useful, whatever is good is so because of God's love, revealed and manifested. Is life honorable? God's love has touched it with the honor from above. Is it full of light? God's love is the lamp that kindled it. Is it full of love? God's love is the fountain whence that rill flowed. Is it full of sorrow? God's love spans every cloud of sorrow with a bow of hope. Life's flowers wither at the touch of death and drop into nothingness. The blossoms of God's love shed eternal fragrance through the balmy air of immortality. Life's blessings will cease to be blessings. The blessings of God's love will be expanded into infinite measures in the great hereafter. Life's pleasures will cease to please. The pleasures originated by God's love will thrill the soul with deeper joy when the saved saint shall stand upon the banks of the eternal river. Life's employments weary the energies and distress the nature. The employments which God's love gives will be the source of new strength and fresh vigor through the unending cycles. Life's companions die and are lost. The companions that are bound together by God's love will hold sweet and unbroken communion through the endless ages. Human life—however beautiful, however noble, however grand—does not fill the awful spaces in the human heart, nor satisfy the infinite wants of the human spirit, nor meet the God-like aspirations of the human soul! But God's love leaves not a single desire unfulfilled, nor a single wish ungratified, nor a single aspiration unrealized. It fulfills and gratifies and realizes them all—not for a day, but for an eternity. Then David was right when he said: "Thy loving kindness is better than life."

The Sunday Law Going.

The mayor of this city and the district attorney have taken upon themselves the responsibility to suspend the Sunday Law in its applications to fruit-vendors. This was done upon the certificate of certain physicians that fruit is "an absolute necessity for the residents of this city." That our readers may understand this whole business, we give them the mayor's instructions to the chief of police:

Chief of Police H. C. Hennessey:

SIR: Upon a certificate signed by Drs. Wilkinson, Watkins, Solomon, Levy and Murphy that the consumption of fruit is almost an absolute necessity for the residents of this city, and their recommendation that the same should be placed within the reach of every citizen at all times, Sunday included, the Hon. C. H. Luzenberg, district attorney, has endorsed the following:

Respectfully referred to his honor, Mayor Shakespeare. In the face of the within certificate, I consider that the prosecution of persons for vending fruit on Sundays would be idle. Please notify the police that I desire no further reports as to them.

The mayor directs that in accordance with the above you instruct your force not to interfere with the sellers of fruit on Sundays. Respectfully,

WRIGHT SCHAUMBERG,
Secretary.

Upon the receipt of this order the chief of police issued instructions to his men not to interfere in the future with the sellers of fruit on Sunday.

This is certainly a most remarkable proceeding. That a law of the land, passed by the chosen representatives of the people in General Assembly convened, and duly promulgated, and then passed upon by the Supreme Court as constitutional in its provisions, should be set aside as to some of its inhibitions by the mayor of the city and the district attorney upon the certificate of a half-dozen physicians is surely a most extraordinary thing!

But that is not all. The Times-Democrat, in commenting on this action of the police authorities, gives its cordial approval to it, and says: "A good beginning has been made in this case in reforming the Sunday Law and getting rid of its more objectionable features; but there yet remains much to change and correct in it if is to remain the law of the land." If it is true, as generally understood, that the Times-Democrat is working for the reinstatement of the saloon on Sunday, then the above sentence can be interpreted to mean about this: "We will get a few physicians to sign a certificate that liquor is 'almost an absolute necessity for the residents of the city,' and then the mayor, acting under advice from the district attorney, will order the police not to interfere with the saloons who hold open on Sunday." That will be the end of the Sunday Law. But that is not all. If one law may be suspended upon the certificate of a few persons that some of its provisions work hard upon a certain class, then all laws may be suspended, for there is no law that does not bear hard upon somebody. The wedge has entered. Alas! for the Sunday Law! Alas! for all law!

The increase in the circulation of the ADVOCATE depends upon the energy and tact of the pastors, who are its agents. There is a mutual work between them and the paper. The paper helps them in all the work by its weekly visits, and they help the paper by increasing the number of those visits, and both are in partnership with the Lord, who gives his blessing to all.

Our Religious Exchanges on the Result of the Election.

The Southwestern Christian Advocate, of this city, organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church, says:

The great national victory means the downfall of the solid South, the admission of Dakota and other Western Territories into the Union as States, an honest and vigorous foreign policy, protection to American industries, and increased purity in elections as a national necessity. It does not mean aggression beyond the enforcement of the Constitution and the laws, but an encouragement to the material and progressive interests of all sections of the country.

The Western Christian Advocate (Methodist Episcopal Church) has this:

The editor of the "Western" resided for years in the immediate neighborhood of General Harrison's home, and has the honor of a familiar personal acquaintance with him, as we stated in the "Western" some months ago. The President-elect is a cultured, dignified, Christian gentleman who commands the respect of all who know him. He is a devout man, and an earnest and faithful officer in the Presbyterian Church. We are certain there will be a family altar in the White House, the benediction of which will reach the remotest corner of our national domain.

The Central Christian Advocate (Methodist Episcopal Church), St. Louis, says:

The Republican party, having been recalled to the administration of the government, is called upon to act with the highest wisdom and commit itself entirely to the public welfare. What the people desire is a clean, patriotic administration. The greatest need of the government is a sweeping reform of the Civil Service. The adoption of the spoils' system for the last two years of Mr. Cleveland's administration does not seem to have been of much service to him—it brought discredit upon all that he did, and lost him the confidence of men who were active in his support when he was elected. So long as the offices are party spoils they will attract to every party a class of men who harm it to the extent of their activity.

The Standard (Baptist), Chicago, says:

It is for us simply to congratulate all readers that this national ordeal has been safely passed once more, and that the men chosen are eminently deserving of the trust in their ability and integrity expressed in the national choice. Alike, the elect and non-elect have, by all accounts, borne themselves, under victory on the one part and defeat on the other, with a manly equanimity such as becomes them, and such as is in consonance with the dignity of their position.

The Interior (Presbyterian), Chicago, says:

Now that the contest is past, it will offend none to say that youthful companionship with both the President-elect and his wife left a friendly regard which has deepened with the passing years

"As streams their channels deeper wear."

The knowledge of their eminent worth—of the purity and beauty of their characters, of the great intellectual ability of the now President-elect, which has become familiar to the whole country, and which will be further verified by the test of power and the highest honor possible to man—the knowledge of this has been familiar to the mind of the writer from boyhood, and with it a conviction that the Harrisons, like the Adams, would become an example, seen by all the world, of the heredity of brains, manliness, patriotism, religion and success.

The Northwestern Christian Advocate (Methodist Episcopal Church), Chicago, says:

We are sure that the present victory is not a triumph. The issue was close enough to suggest to the victor some of the reasons of his defeat in 1884. The Republican party can not avoid being on its good behavior. Four years last past suggest that it is not indispensable to the existence of the republic, and that a national Democratic victory does not kill as promptly as does a dose of prussic acid. The lesson of 1884 has not been lost by any means. Four years have brought an accession of caution and, it is to be hoped, a large increase of conscience. Some party papers are already prophesying Republican rule for the coming twenty-four years. The prophecy is not in order so soon. We have faith that the best elements in the party will counsel the devouter course, and will signalize its reentrance to authority by contracts to obey God and serve mankind.

The Advance (Congregational), Chicago, has this:

After next March: President Benjamin Harrison. Every good citizen, of whichever party, will accept it as reason for thankfulness that so good a man is to be at the head of the government.

Mr. Harrison's Cabinet is the next question of universal conjecture. Unless all the signs fail he will be his own man, and the master of the situation. The administration of government in a country of such magnitude and such variety of interests as ours is a work of enormous responsibility. The very ablest and most experienced statesmen will be needed for the President's advisers and helpers. In our judgment, the best and ablest man of them all should be chosen as Secretary of the Interior.

The Independent (New York) closes a jubilant article in these words:

What was the cause of the political revolution last week? General loss of confidence in the Democratic party and a general desire for the return of the Republican party to power. The Democratic party offered a sectional policy, a free trade measure, a sham Civil Service reform, and an inefficient and unstable administration. The people had been grossly deceived in Grover Cleveland and they rejected him, his party and his principles. In his stead they have chosen a strong, clean, capable man who will never break his pledges nor abuse the confidence of the country. Character, yet counts with the American people, and in Harrison and Morton they have rulers who represent the best type of American patriotism, intelligence and morality.

The Christian Advocate (Methodist Episcopal Church), New York, closes its article on the result thus:

Congratulating the country on the peaceful character of the election, the renewed manifestation of the good-humored practical philosophy of the majority of the American people, without believing that the country would have been ruined if the election had gone the other way, or that it is now safe in any way to absolve Christians and patriots from the most vigilant watchfulness and active devotion to the public good, The Christian Advocate will pursue "the even tenor of its way," recording the progress, building up the institutions, sustaining the religious life, and conserving the morals of this, the greatest experiment in free government the world has ever seen.

The Christian Advocate (Methodist Episcopal Church), Pittsburg, says:

The Republicans were successful, and Gen. Harrison will be the next President of the United States. Leave politics out of the question, and the whole country has reason to rejoice in this fact. He is a man of whom all can justly feel proud. He is an active Christian man, a member of the Presbyterian Church, and for many years a ruling elder in the church to which he belongs. His membership has not been a nominal one, but active. He has maintained a positive Christian character. In this respect no man ever elected to the Presidency stood higher than Gen. Harrison.

We appreciate the following from the Central Methodist:

The NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE has a new publisher, J. G. Grant, who is said to be a fine business man, and who proposes to place that journal in the front rank of religious periodicals. That paper has a fine field to cultivate, is edited with fine taste and decided ability, and deserves a wide and extended circulation.

It is in order now for every one of our readers to help us in cultivating our "fine field." Send on the subscribers as fast as you please, brethren and sisters.

Notes.

That was a fine remark made by a writer in one of our exchanges, who said, that when young ministers came to him to consult about their work, and their desires for larger fields of usefulness, he told them, that "the best way to get larger fields of usefulness is to fill their present places of usefulness, more than full." That is the whole secret of advancement to larger fields.

We know some people that will be benefited by reading this, from the interior, if they will read it aright.

A writer in the Belfast Witness laments that it is so easy and so common to substitute pietism for practical every-day piety, spiritualism for spirituality, devotion for devotedness to God, rapture for righteousness, a technical experience of conversion for a really changed and sanctified life. Evidently the same temptations beset the sinners in the north of Ireland that are wont to afflict us in the United States.

Did the reader ever notice what a variety there is in the contents of the religious paper? We give the headings of the principal articles in one of our exchanges this week to show this: "Does God Approve Humor," "Progress," "Theology in Fiction," "The Conquest of the Sioux," "Sunday-School Lesson," "The Necessity of Evangelistic Work," "Liberty and Service," "Answers to Prayer for Foreign Missions," "Letter from Boston," "Modern Education," "The Pleasures of Stealing," "The Plague's Ambition," "Her Home-Coming," "Winged Warriors," "Discipline in Play," "The Old-Fashioned Girl," "Sabbath-School Work in Nebraska." Almost any religious paper will give us a like variety.

The Christian Intelligencer says this:

The editor of one of our best quarterlies says, "We know of cases at this moment where men have been prevented from making a public profession of their faith by uniting themselves with the church of God because they have had to supply the Sunday newspaper to readers, many of whom were themselves members of our churches. A sense of the inconsistency of their employment has kept them back." We beg to submit this statement which, we doubt not, is literally true, to those Christian people who buy or read or advertise in the Sunday paper. They are little aware what an injury they are doing to their own souls and the souls of others. Men of the world will not care about such things, but they who love the Lord and make conscience of doing his will and serving his cause should consider well the evil consequences of giving into this recent, but most effective way of overthrowing the sanctity of the day of rest.

We have seen at one time a minister, and at another time a prominent member of the church, buy the Sunday paper on the way to church on Sunday morning! "I was wounded in the house of my friends."

Dr. Haygood, in the Nashville Advocate, has a most interesting article on "The Statistical Test," which all our people ought to read. In the midst of the article there stands this paragraph:

The question is, Does it pay to tell all we know, or guess, about our work? I believe we do not yet report the number of sermons preached, visits made, prayers offered. But we may come to it: we do report on less important matters.

Ah! Doctor, way down here we are ahead of you in Georgia on that line. We heard a preacher in Conference read out just that, and more. He gave number of sermons preached, prayer meetings held, Sunday-school talks made, visits made to sinners, visits made to saints, prayers offered in families, expostulations to sinners, encouragements to saints, etc. The reading had a visible effect upon the Conference and a marvelous effect upon the Bishop. The brother was moved. Though he had finished but one year at that place. And why not? Hadn't he done everything?

The Evangelist gives some admirable advice to the spiritual Nimrods of our time, which we commend to those who are handling spiritual weapons:

The spiritual gunner who has a reasonably fair appreciation of his important and responsible business, will not try to use the same kind of gun for all kinds of game. He will adapt his gun to the kind of game he has specially in view—and he will always have in view game of some kind, if he is anxious to become "a mighty hunter before the Lord." He will not bring out a loaded Armstrong, or Columbiad, or Gatling for very small game, and reserve his smallest arms for game of the largest and most dangerous kinds, if he wishes to bear home any trophies of his working skill. Every professional gunner—every pulpit gunner especially—who wishes to do efficient work, will not only have large guns and small guns ready loaded, where he can lay his hands on them at once, but will know just when and how to use each kind. He will also be careful not to use kicking guns and overloaded guns, which always do a great deal more harm to those behind them than they do to those just in front. A gun that shoots straight ahead without much scattering, instead of backwards or sideways; that is well aimed, and that carries true to its aim, is the only gun for the spiritual hunter, whether it be large or small

Personals.

The Roman Catholics have increased one-fold and the Protestants four-fold in the last one hundred years.

Dr. Lafferty says that Dr. McFerrin "is the link between the old itinerant and the present church tourist."

You had better renew your subscription to your various religious papers before the excitement of the Christmas and New Year holidays comes upon you. Besides the ADVOCATE, you should, by all means, read the Missionary Reporter and the Woman's Missionary Advocate. They are only fifty cents each.

The Educational Loan Fund Association of Georgia has twenty-seven students already in Emory College, and eight more are expected soon. How glad we are to chronicle such a fact as that!

At one of the Methodist Conferences, North, it is said that the character of no preacher was passed until he reported his missionary collection in full! How would such a rule work among us? Some preachers would have to hustle around pretty lively or they would be laid on the shelf.

Why can't our preachers get up a genuine ADVOCATE boom? They can. We believe they will. The publisher assures the committee that every dollar above expenses shall go to the improvement of the paper. Can any offer be fairer than that? Remember that two dollars now pays for the paper until January 1, 1890.

The Mississippi White Ribbon is the name of a monthly paper published at Meridian, Miss. It is devoted to the interests of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, to the educational, industrial and general work of woman and temperance. It is ably edited by Mrs. H. B. Kells. Terms, one dollar a year in advance.

The votes of the Prohibitionists during the last election, were double to what they were in 1884. So says the Voice. The vote reached between 240,000 and 350,000.

We call especial attention to the article, on the first page, from the London Methodist Times. We would, however, warn our young preachers not to imitate Mr. Spurgeon in putting off studying their sermons until Saturday evening. That will hardly do for you.

During the month of October there were landed in this city 1,093 immigrants; 781 males, 312 females. Eight hundred and five of these were from Italy.

Dr. Haygood, in Nashville Advocate, has this sentence:

How singular it is that precisely those preachers who most need presiding elders to take care of them kick most at the office! that the churches that most need presiding elders to keep them at all in Methodist order most dislike the office!

Some of those singular people and churches are right here in Louisiana.

Now, brethren, the campaign is ended, the election over, and we know who is to be our President; but let us, one and all, start a new and more vigorous campaign in the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

We receive regularly the "El Evangelistic Mexicano," the organ of our church in Mexico, edited by Revs. H. C. Watkins and A. H. Sutherland. It is a bright-looking four-page paper, not one word of which we understand. It is, however, evidence that our church is true to her traditions in giving a Methodist literature to the people among whom she works.

Bishop Lane, of the C. M. E. Church, gave us a call last Saturday en route to hold a Conference this week in Houston, Texas. The Bishop is hopeful of the prospects of his church, but says the Southern Methodists must stand up to it a little more stoutly in the future.

President Fitzhugh, of Whitworth College, dropped in our office the other day. His college is still expanding to admit new pupils who continue to come. Whitworth is prospering beyond the most sanguine expectations of its most sanguine friends.

Dr. Black writes, November 16, from Meridian station: "I am now approaching the close of my fourth year in this charge. During that time there have been four hundred and twenty-five accessions to our membership. Finances have advanced all along the line. A new church office has been erected at a cost of a little more than $13,000. Our old house of worship—a neat, substantial wooden building—has been removed to an eligible lot in West End. I leave to my successor the work of building a parsonage in keeping with the church, and of buying a pipe organ. Strong and tender are the ties that bind me to this part of God's heritage."

An interesting letter from Bishop Galloway, written from the City of Mexico, which came too late for this issue, will appear next week.

Instructions to Delegates.

DEAR BRETHREN: Through the courtesy of the Southern Passenger Association, persons attending the North Mississippi Conference, to be held at Starkville, Miss., commencing on December 12, will be granted a reduction in their return railroad fare only under the following conditions:

First. Each person must purchase a first-class ticket (either limited or unlimited) through to the place of meeting, for which he will pay the regular tariff fare, and upon request the ticket agent will issue to him a certificate of such purchase (Form 2).

Second. If through tickets can not be procured at the starting-point, the person will purchase to the most convenient point where such through tickets can be obtained, and there re-purchase through to the place of meeting, requesting a certificate properly filled out by the agent from whom purchase was made.

Third. The reduced rates for the return journey will only apply to points to which through tickets are on sale at the place of meeting, and at which through tickets to the place of meeting were purchased. If through tickets to the starting-point can not be purchased at the place of meeting, the person will purchase to the most convenient point to which such through tickets can be obtained.

Fourth. Tickets for the return journey will be sold by the ticket agents at the place of meeting, at one-third the highest limited fare, only to those holding certificates signed by the ticket agent at the point where the through ticket to the place of meeting was purchased, and countersigned by the secretary of the Conference, certifying that the holder has been in attendance upon the Conference.

Fifth. It is absolutely necessary that a certificate be procured, as it indicates that full fare has been paid for the going journey, and that the person is, therefore, entitled to the excursion fare returning. It will also determine the route via which the ticket for the return journey should be sold, and without it no reduction will be made.

Sixth. Tickets for return journey will be available for continuous passage only; no stop-over privileges being allowed on tickets sold at less than full fares. Certificates will not be honored unless presented within twenty-four hours after the adjournment of Conference.

Now, brethren, please preserve these instructions and follow them carefully, as without this you can not obtain the reduced rates. These instructions apply to the I. C., M. and O., V. and M., and K. C., M. and B. roads. Remember your certificates must be procured of the agent from whom you buy your ticket, and must be countersigned by the Conference secretary. On the M. and C. road round-trip tickets will be on sale at Memphis, Grand Junction, Middleton and Iuka, on December 8, 10 and 12. Close connections are made at Artesia by both the north and south-bound trains on the M. and O. road with trains coming to Starkville. The train from Durant reaches Starkville, at 7:17 A. M. All members will be met at trains by the committee. Yours truly,

T. CAMERON.

STARKVILLE, Mississippi.

Notice to Mississippi Conference.

The following special rates and terms are offered by railroads to members attending Conference:

L., N. O. AND T. R. R. (VALLEY ROAD.)

Members purchase usual tickets for full fare going, and return at one-third usual rate on certificate of secretary of Conference.

I. C., V. AND M., N. O. AND N. E. R. R.

1. Members purchase, at the place of starting, through tickets to Vicksburg.

2. If no through tickets are on sale at starting-point, purchase one at most convenient point.

3. Get from agent selling selling through ticket a certificate of the purchase.

4. Present this certificate, countersigned by secretary of Conference, to agent at Vicksburg, and he will sell return ticket for one-third usual rate.

N. B.—The through ticket and the certificate from the agent selling it, countersigned by secretary of Conference, are absolutely required to secure reduced rates over these roads.

Other roads have not been heard from yet.

R. A. JONES.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Nov. 16, 1888.

Conference Notices.

Applicants for admission on trial into the North Mississippi Conference will please meet the Examining Committee in Starkville, at three P. M., on Monday, December 10, next. Inquire at the store of Mr. John Critz or at the Methodist Church for the session-room of the committee.

The topics embraced in the English branches in this examination are spelling, composition, English grammar, geography and arithmetic. The committee will expect a reasonable knowledge of these subjects, as well as of the sermons and Discipline. The examination in spelling and grammar will be based on a composition to be written on a subject given by the committee at our first meeting. No other composition will be accepted.

W. F. J. SULLIVAN, Chair'n.

For the Committee.

Brethren of the Mississippi Conference will please remember to be prepared, on the first day of our approaching Conference, to bring up all your missionary assessments. The Board resolved to hold its anniversary on Thursday evening. Our ability to do so will depend on your promptness. Our connectional brethren will probably want to occupy evenings later in the week.

J. P. DRAKE,
Sec'y Bd. Missions, of Miss. Conf.

Applicants for admission on trial to Mississippi Conference, also members of the Committee of Examination, will please meet at Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Vicksburg, at 9:30 o'clock, Tuesday morning, December 4, and oblige,

R. JONES, Chair'n

The class of the second year, of the Mississippi Conference, will meet the committee at the Methodist Church in Vicksburg, December 3, at 3 P. M.

J. M. WEEMS, Chair'n.

A Gift for Endowment by One Who Realizes the Blessedness of Giving.

MR. EDITOR: I hope I violate no confidence in sending you the following just received.

W. L. C. H.

——, MISS., Nov. 6, 1888.

PROF. G. H. WILEY, Jackson, La.—

MY DEAR BROTHER: I send the enclosed sight draft on W. M. & Co. for $200 to your favor, as requested. This ends my gift made to Prof. Rush, my good friend. I am glad that the Lord has so prospered me us to enable me to give this $100 to such a good cause as the endowment of Centenary College. I believe it has enlarged my soul for liberality and for good works. While I am a small factor in the great work, yet my mite will help. I have the consolation of knowing that this money is to be held intact, and that it is in prudent hands for investment, and that its interest will accrue annually for centuries to come, I hope, and that it will be doing good for the church of my choice and adoption long, long years after my hands have ceased to work. May God bless you and Bro. Hunnicutt in your work! Very truly yours, T. A. H.

Special Offer.

Anyone sending two dollars will receive the ADVOCATE free of all charges until January, 1890.

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

A MAN STORY. By E. W. Howe. Tickner and Company, Boston. George F. Wharton, New Orleans. Price $1.50.

RACHEL ARMSTRONG; OR, LOVE AND THEOLOGY. By Celia Parker Woolley. Tickner and Company, Boston. George F. Wharton, New Orleans. Price fifty cents.

MASSA'S IN THE COLD, COLD GROUND. By Stephen C. Foster. Tickner and Company, Boston. George F. Wharton, New Orleans. Price $1.50.

This is a most beautifully illustrated edition of a song popular thirty years ago. The illustrations are by Charles Copeland, the ornaments by Frank Mytlick, and altogether make one of the most beautiful little books we have seen.

MISS PARLOA'S NEW COOK BOOK. By Maria Parloa. Published by Estes and Lauriat, Boston. Post-paid on receipt of thirty cents.

This book seems to contain everything necessary to be known in order to prepare and serve a good meal.

JESUS NOT IMMERSED, BUT BAPTIZED; OR, THE DESIGN AND MODE OF CHRIST'S BAPTISM BY JOHN FINALLY SETTLED BY THE HOLY SCRIPTURES. By Rev. L. H. Shaw, of West Texas Conference. Southern Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn. Price five cents.

ST. PAUL ON HOLINESS. By Rev. L. L. Picket, Dangerfield, Texas. Price fifty cents.

THE SECOND BLESSING DEMONSTRATED. By Rev. B. F. Grayson. L. L. Picket, Dangerfield, Texas. Price ten cents.

PERIODICALS.

—The Pearl of Days, for November, is invaluable to all who desire to know of the growing Sabbath sentiment. Its articles are of superior intrinsic value. The illustrations are choice and the general appearance of the magazine is most attractive. We are glad to be assured in this number of the bright prospect for the coming year. Such a powerful ally of the Christian church in quickening the conscience on this subject is certain to win highest success. $1 per year; single copy, ten cents. Wilbur B. Ketcham, publisher, 71 Bible House, N. Y.

—The Minutes of the Forty-First Session of the St. Louis Annual Conference, held at Bonne Terre, Mo., have been received.

—The November Wide Awake is just as bright and beautiful as ever, and yet the managers promise a great deal more for the Christmas number. Look out for it. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston. Price $2.40 a year.

Holiday Numbers.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION will publish this year four holiday numbers, on Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year's and Easter. The Weekly Illustrated Supplements have become a feature of the paper and will be continued. No other paper gives so much for so low a price. Really a $2.50 paper for only $1.75 a year. Every family should have it.

Publisher's Department.

Note from the Publisher.

To those who have received statements of their accounts, I wish to say that these statements are taken from the books in this office as they were turned over to me by Mr. Jamieson. If any of them are not correct, I will most cheerfully correct them to the entire satisfaction of those interested. Whatever arrangements were made with the former publisher will be carried out by me. Respectfully.

J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

Special Offer.

All new subscriptions for the ADVOCATE received between now and January 1, 1889, will receive the paper free until that date.

Subscribe now, and you will receive the paper 14 months for $2.

J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

Next to your subscription the greatest favor you can extend the ADVOCATE, in a business point, is to mention the paper in writing to advertisers.

Did it ever occur to you that, although the bass drum doesn't make good music, it drowns a heap of bad?

CHANGES.—We have quite a number of orders to change the address of subscribers; some without signatures, and others who do not give the former address. Under these circumstances, change can not be made.

Christopher Columbus was no sailor, but all the same he was the first Landseer of America.

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

MISCELLANEOUS

They will suffer ache and pain, Need suffer never more again.

A NEW INVENTION.

PLEASANT, CONVENIENT and LUXURIOUS.

CURING

It combines Electro-Magnetism with all the best Qualities of Standard Porous Plasters, and is a really wonderful remedy.

We confidently guarantee that it will produce more astonishment, effect more rapid cures where medicine and all other means fail, TRY ONE TO-DAY, and if it is not entirely satisfactory, the price will cheerfully be refunded. There is no shock, but a pleasant, genial glow. It cannot injure, and will always do good.

Accept no substitute. If you cannot obtain it promptly at your druggist's, remit price, 25cts. to GEO. A. SCOTT, 842 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, and it will be mailed, post-paid. 5 sent for $1.00.

For Family Use.

Mention this paper.

IT CAUSES NO SORES LIKE CERTAIN OTHER PLASTERS.

IT'S ENOUGH TO MAKE A FROG LAUGH!

GREATEST HIT YET. IMMENSE SELLER.

3 BRIGHT VOLUMES.
Wing & Stings, 75c.
Paws & Claws, $1.00
Goblins, Giants, &c., $1.
Mailed on receipt of price.

The BRIGHTEST, JOLLIEST JUVENILE BOOKS. Full of the oddest of quaint and most charming shows with laugh-provoking situations by the Funniest Juvenile Artists. Critics say of it: "It sets my little folks wild with delight" Hon. Chelsea Fisk. "Don't send me another, for I can't get the child on to bed" E. H. Conwell, D. D. "Delight them!" Phila. Press. "Inimitably natural and comical" Hon. S. S. Cox. "Are tantalizing as Fox and Uncle Remus" Hon. Howard Crosby.

AGENTS WANTED. Apply early to HUBBARD BROS., Pubs., Phila., Chicago, or Kansas City.

MUCH WISDOM, BUT FEW WORDS!

Prices That Will Do All Good!

50 Pieces Cashmere, 15c—worth 35c. | Extra-fine Henrietta, 35c—worth 50c.
Double-width Henrietta, 15c—worth 25c. | Combination Suits, from $1.95 up.

BIG BARGAINS IN LACE CURTAINS.

Handsome Line of CHENILLE CURTAINS and PORTIERES.

CARPET ROOMS Overflowing with Bargains.

Plain and Fancy Mattings, from 12½c up. | Handsome Body Brussels, sage—worth $1.
Brussels Carpet (all wool), 50c—Made and Laid. | Beautiful Line of WINDOW SHADES.

J. A. Braselman & Co.,

586 and 588 - - MAGAZINE STREET - - 586 and 588

Artificial Limbs,

Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted

—BY—

A. McDERMOTT,

200 - - - ST CHARLES STREET - - - - Bet. Julia and St.

$1000 for a Husband!

The above sum in cash will be paid to the person who will send 50 cents for one of our goods, and [illegible] where in the Bible is the word "HUSBAND" first found. Mention book, chapter and verse. The person who sends the correct answer will be paid $100 IN CASH, the second $50, the third $25, the fifth $10, and to the next 95, if there are as many, a SOLID GOLD PLATE Half Round WEDDING RING. We want new agents, and for 50 cents will send a SEVEN HUNDRED PAGE DICTIONARY of the English Language, well bound, in cloth and gilt. An excellent Christmas Gift. Send your 50 cents and you may win $20,000 for advertising, and we wish to try the effect of a new method. LOSE NO TIME if you would secure one of the Cash Payments, as all answers must be sent before Feb. 1st, 1889. The Premiums will be paid Feb. 10th. Send postage stamps, postal note, or silver. Mention this paper. Address at once WORLD MANUFG. CO., 122 Nassau Street, N. Y.

The Great Church LIGHT.

FRINK'S Patent Reflecters give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. I. P. FRINK, 552 Pearl Street, N. Y.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

Men's Furnishing Goods.

Headquarters of the Celebrated

STAR SHIRT.

Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

PHAETONS and SURREYS

R. P. Randall,

54 & 56 Baronne.

HOW MANY LINKS IN THE CHAIN?

$155 IN CASH GIVEN AWAY!

Mail your answer with 25c. silver, and you will receive free for six months the brightest and most interesting family newspaper in the U. S. The 3 correct guess will also receive $50 in cash; 2d, $25; 3d, $15; 4th, $10; 5th, $5; next 50 in each, $2. Premiums will be all delivered March 1, 1889, and names of winners published in Our Family Exchange, a splendid newspaper worth many times the price asked, which should be in every home. Address Publishers Family Friend, Chicago, Ill.

SALESMEN

We wish a few more to sell our goods by sample to the whole sale and retail trade. Largest manufacturers in our line. Inclose 2-cent stamp. Wages $3 Per Day. Permanent position. No postals answered. Money advanced for wages, advertising etc. Centennial Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

This paper is kept on file at the office of

AYER & SON ADVERTISING AGENTS

TIMES BUILDING Chestnut & 6th Sts PHILADELPHIA.

ESTIMATES For NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING FREE at Lowest Cash Rates

Send 10c. in stamps for AYER & SON'S MANUAL

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION. SPECIAL OFFER TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

A $2.50 PAPER FOR ONLY $1.75

To any New Subscriber who will send us this Slip, with name and P. O. address and $1.75 in Money Order, Express Money Order, Registered Letter, or Check, for a year's subscription to the Companion, we will send the paper

FREE TO JAN. 1, 1889,

and for a full year from that date. This offer includes the ILLUSTRATED SUPPLEMENTS, the PREMIUM LIST and

FOUR HOLIDAY NUMBERS,

Sent to Each Subscriber at Thanksgiving—Christmas—New Year's—Easter.

Illustrated WEEKLY Supplements

The volume for 1889 will be superior to any previous year. It will contain Six Serial Stories, 150 Short Stories, profusely Illustrated, Household Articles, Tales of Adventure, Illustrated Sketches of Travel, 1,000 Anecdotes, Historical and Scientific Articles, Humor, Poetry.

☞ Specimen Copies and Colored Announcement free. Please mention this publication. Address

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 41 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans AND Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,
CHATTANOOGA,
CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.

	No. 2, Ltm'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian	9:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington	4:10 p. m.	3:43 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.

	No. 1, Ltm'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati	7:55 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City	11:45 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla	9:49 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham	11:35 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian	4:45 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent,
34 St. Charles Street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1. Fast Mail. 9:00 a.m	No. 2. Fast Mail. 5:00 p.m
No. 3. Express. 6:25 p.m	No. 4. Express. 8:00 a.m
No. 5. Bat. Rouge acc'dation. 10:00 a.m	No. 6. Bat. Rouge acc'dation. 3:45 p.m

Double daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville, Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans at 8 a. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harrision for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. F. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Cou'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

	Leaves.	Arrives.
Texas and California Express	8:35 A. M.	7:00 P. M.
Baton Rouge Local	3:50 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

This train has also Pullman Sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Traf'g Passenger Agent.
S. W. McCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

What a Comfort!

No Dirt! No Fuss! No Back Ache!
LASTS LONGER,
LOOKS BRIGHTER,
and makes the Shoes WEAR BETTER.
Don't let the women have all the best things, but use

Wolff's ACME Blacking

ONCE A WEEK FOR MEN.
ONCE A MONTH FOR WOMEN.
I find it a tip top Harness Dressing.
WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia

Agents Wanted
ERIE
Self-Wringing
MOP

is the best selling article out. Made from malleable iron and steel wire.

Special knitted cloth fitted into every Mop before shipping

A Golden Opportunity for persons of either sex in search of profitable employment, as the SELF-WRINGER sells at sight.

Exclusive territory and liberal terms. Send 50 cents for sample and agent's outfit. Circulars and terms free.

EVANS BROS., Southern Agents,
13 Perdido St., New Orleans.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,
FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET,
BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES,
LAMPS AND LANTERNS.

Axle Grease,

Blacking, Cages and Cheese Safes, Coffee and Grain Mills, Hammocks, Oyster Tongs, Scales, Bineing, Corks and Clocks, Cutlery and Saws, Ice Cream Freezers, Paper and Bags, Sieves, Whips.

HARDWARE, STONEWARE,
BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES,
TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE.
ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,

Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET.

E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE.
MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER

in all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty. WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES, WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS. UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS, RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS.

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

G. WOLF,

—MANUFACTURER OF—

GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES

(Formerly of 130 Common Street)

54 ST. CHARLES STREET,

Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St., NEW ORLEANS.

Orders promptly attended to.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement,

—1888.—

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator	$ 3 50	$ 2 75
American Agriculturist	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	2 50
" Times-Democrat	3 50	2 75
Harper's Magazine	6 00	4 75
" Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

J. G. GRANT, Pub'r,

Our Young People.

NUTS ARE RIPE.

Jack Frost was out last night on a lark,
'Neath the moon-beams clear and bright.
He nipped every nut of the old shag-bark,
With his touch so stealthy and light.

"I'll crack them open and hang them there
To ripen in the sun,
I'll leave my card on the windows where Every schoolboy will have one.

"The youngsters are tired of books, I think,
And long for my annual feast,
I have but to beckon with nod and wink,
And they're here from eldest to least."

Old Hickory laughed in his glee aloud
And whispered in Jack's friendly ear,
"I'll hold them back till the noisy crowd
Of your merry boys draw near.

"Then I'll swing my arms and open my hands,
And shower my treasures down,
For I'm ready enough at your command
To hit every boy on the crown.

"I welcome the shots they aim at me,
And shake my sides at their fun,
Their jokes and clubs they fling in glee
I pelt them back till they run.

"I watch as they fill each basket and sack
And rejoice in their brave good-will,
But I'm sorry at last to see them go back
And leave me alone on the hill.

"I'll gather my strength for another year,
And fill up my store for the boys;
My work is not small, tho' I only stand here,
And add my mite to their joys."

—Good Housekeeping.

MR. EDITOR: Will you please publish our little letter in your paper? We have never written for the ADVOCATE; but we read all the "little letters" every week. In the last number of the Cultivator we read of a mistreated grandfather, which so touched our sad and bleeding hearts, that we want to tell how we loved our idolized and now sainted one. All the ADVOCATE readers knew him—Rev. J. C. Jones, of the Mississippi Conference—and are sorry to hear of his death, we know.

On the first of October, God took our dear grandpapa from us. He was eighty-four years old on August 23; was a Methodist preacher over sixty years. We loved our grandpapa; loved to be with him and wait on him. He was not put off in one corner of the room, with wooden bowls and spoons with which to eat; but had the easiest chair and most comfortable place at the table. When the bell rang some one would go for grandpapa, bring him to the table; his pet, the youngest of the family, would move out his chair, and give him his Bible. After he was seated, then the family sat down with bowed heads till he "blessed our food." We miss our grandpa so much. Often we would go to his room, and say, "Grandpapa, you got anything nice for us?" He would always open his desk and give us an orange, apple or candy. We loved to be with him and hear him talk. He would tell us so many beautiful stories and sing us such nice songs. He told us so many interesting stories of the Indians in this country, when he was a young man. How bad and savage they were, and how many people they killed! He knew an Indian song, that he sang in Choctaw. We loved to hear it. It sounded so funny. Grandpapa would sometimes go on a visit, to be gone several days, and sometimes two or three weeks. We missed him, and our home was lonely then; all wished for his return, and weeks and days were counted till he would be at home. He has now gone on a long visit, to return no more. No grandpapa to fill the big arm chair at the table, which was always placed there for him; no grandpapa to give us nice things, tell us beautiful stories and sing nice little songs; no loved grandpapa to pat us on the head and call us his good little children; no precious grandpapa to kiss good-night any more! Oh, how sad our little hearts were when we kissed him good-night for the last time! Why did God take our dear grandpapa from us? We loved him so dearly. Our home is sad without him. We are two little sisters and one brother; ages, ten, eight and six.

RUBY E. MILLSAPS,
R. W. MILLSAPS, JR.,
JANE R. MILLSAPS.

HAZLEHURST, Mississippi.

MR. EDITOR: As I have never seen a letter in your paper from any of the children in our part of the world, I thought I would write one. I am thirteen years old; am a member of the Sunday-school and also of the Methodist Church. My papa is my superintendent and my teacher. Bro. D. C. Barr is our pastor. We all like him very much. He has just closed a protracted meeting at our church. There were a great many conversions, and forty-two joined the church. I will close by asking the cousins a question: Who were the three kings of all Israel, and how long did each reign?

Your little friend,

ETTA OZLEY.

CANE RIDGE, Louisiana.

MR. EDITOR: I am a boy twelve years of age. My father is keeping a hotel in West Melville. We have a great many boarders now. I go to the Methodist Sunday-school every Sunday. We have a large Sunday-school. My teacher is Mr. J. S. Jackson. He is also a steward in the church. I go to school every day. I study geography, arithmetic, spelling and reading. We have about thirty-three scholars. Our teacher's name is Mrs. Landrum. I will ask, What woman is mentioned in the Bible as making garments for the poor, and where found? Please do not consign this to the waste-basket, Mr. Editor. I will close with my best wishes for you and all the readers of the good old ADVOCATE. Your little friend,

JOSEPH A. ROWE.

POLITENESS.—A boy who is polite to father and mother is likely to be polite to everybody else. A boy lacking politeness to his parents may have the semblance of courtesy in society, but is never truly polite in spirit, and is in danger, as he becomes familiar, of betraying his real want of courtesy.—We are all in danger of living too much for the outside world, for the impression which we make in society, not coveting the good opinion of those who are in a sense a part of ourselves, and who will continue to sustain and be interested in us, notwithstanding these defects of deportment and character. We say to every boy and every girl, cultivate the habit of courtesy and propriety at home—in the kitchen as well as in the parlor—and you will be sure in other places to deport yourself in a becoming and attractive manner.

HOW TO MAKE A GOOD BOY.—"They all put brandy in them," said one.

"They all don't. My mother has never put a drop of brandy into her mince-pies since the day Bob said he could taste the brandy and it tasted good. Mother said then it was wrong and she never would be guilty of it again. And if mother says a thing is wrong, you may be sure it is wrong; for what mother knows, she knows."

"How about mince-pies? Are you sure she knows how to make pies good?" and a laugh went up from a group of girls gathered around the register of the recitation-room eating their lunch.

But some of them winced a little when back were tossed these words: "If she doesn't, she knows how to make a boy good; and isn't a boy worth more than a mince-pie?"

FOUND IN THE LITTLE DESK.—Not long ago a little girl in a Christian family died. She was only six years old. About a year before her death she had a small writing desk given to her. After she died, her mother unlocked it, and found this writing:

"The minute I wake up in the morning, I will think of God.

"I will mind my father and my mother always.

"I will try and have my lessons perfect.

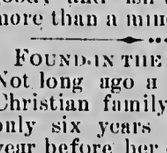
"I will try to be kind, and not get cross.

"I want to behave like God's child."

Salvation Oil relieves instantly and cures speedily all bodily pain. Price only 25 cents.

Verdict of a coroner's jury: "Died from want"—of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. 25 cts

If you had seeds of pestilence in your body, you would not have a more active contagion than you have in your tempers, tastes and principles. Simply to be in the world is to exert an influence—an influence, too, compared to which mere language and persuasion are feeble.—H. Bushnell.



How to Cure Skin & Scalp DISEASES with the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE MOST DISTRESSING FORMS OF SKIN and scalp diseases, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, are speedily, economically and permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, when all other remedies and methods fail.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 35c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Ballet in one minute, for all pains and weaknesses, in CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c

Household.

NO TIME!

No time to sing,
No time to play
With her little children
So happy and gay;
No time for even
A sweet caress;
She is fixing the Romeo
Of a party dress.

No time to read,
No time to pray,
To teach her darlings
The holy way;
She is driven to death,
O yes, O yes!
She is sewing the lace
On her party dress.

FAMILY PRAYER.—No service is more important and impressive than that which daily calls a family together to acknowledge God as our creator and preserver. Parents and children and domestics assemble and reverently hear God's Word read, and then unite in praise and thanksgiving to our heavenly Father for his providential care and his loving kindness to each one of the household and all others; and then how delightful for a whole family unitedly to ask him, who loves all his children, a divine protection and guidance in all the work and interests of life. We can think of no service more pleasing to our Father above, and upon which the angels look with more delight, nor which can be more salutary and blessed in all its influence upon old and young than just such a family service as this. And we only wonder that any Christian family can be content to live without it. If God be our Father, shall we not honor him by worshiping him and asking his blessing upon our families?

Of course, the proper person to lead such a service is the father. He is the divinely appointed head and priest of the family. But if, for any reason, this can not be, then let the mother, or some other member, take his place. But, by all means, let the family altar be established, and let the service of prayer and praise be daily offered to the God and Father of all.

CONVERSATION AT HOME.—Few things are more important in a home than is conversation, yet there are few things to which less deliberate thought is given. We take great pains to have our house well furnished. We select our carpets and pictures with the utmost care. We send our children to school that they may become intelligent. We strive to bring into our homes the best condition of happiness. But how often is the speech of our household left untrained and undisciplined!

The good we might do in our homes with our tongues, if we would use them to the limit of their capacity of cheer and helpfulness, it is simply impossible to state. That in most homes the best possible results from the gift of speech are not attained is very evident. Why should so much power for blessing be wasted? Especially, why should we ever pervert the gift and use our tongues to do evil, to give pain, to scatter seeds of bitterness? It is a sad thing when a child is born dumb; but it were better far to be born dumb, and never to have the gift of speech, than, having that gift, to employ it in speaking only sharp, unloving, or angry words.—Central Christian Advocate.

An Invincible Duet.

Sometimes, and with some natures, all that seems to be needed is confidence and a physician, a sensitive imagination properly guided is the remedy.

But in desperate matters confidence and a good remedy make an invincible duet at whose assault disease promptly yields.

Here is what the voice of experience has to say of it:

"BUNKER HILL, March 11, 1888.

"I feel that I can not say too much in praise of Compound Oxygen Treatment. The first time I wrote from I was a complete physical wreck; my nerves so exhausted that it was with difficulty that I moved about the house. Last Thursday I walked a mile and a half in the country to visit a friend, and could have walked as far again, I think, without being tired. If my name and experience is of any use to you, you are at liberty to use them at any time.

"MRS. FLORENCE BLIZE."

We publish a brochure of 200 pages, regarding the effect of Compound Oxygen on invalids suffering from consumption, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, catarrh, hay-fever, headache, debility, rheumatism, neuralgia; all chronic and nervous disorders. It will be sent, free of charge, to anyone addressing DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Phila. Pa.; or 331 Montgomery street, San Francisco, Cal.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Ask For Ayer's

Sarsaparilla, and be sure you get it, when you want the best blood-purifier. With its forty years of unexampled success in the cure of Blood Diseases, you can make no mistake in preferring Ayer's to any other. The fore-runner of modern blood medicines, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is still the most popular, being in greater demand than all others combined.

Sarsaparilla

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla is selling faster than ever before. I never hesitate to recommend it."—George W. Whitman, Druggist, Albany, Ind.

"I am safe in saying that my sales of Ayer's Sarsaparilla far excel those of any other, and it gives thorough satisfaction."—L. H. Bush, Des Moines, Iowa.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills are the best selling medicines in my store. I can recommend them conscientiously."—C. Bicklums, Pharmacist, Roseland, Ill.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"I have sold your medicines for the last seventeen years, and always keep them in stock, as they are staples. 'There is nothing so good for the youthful blood' as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—R. L. Parker, Fox Lake, Wis.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives the best satisfaction of any medicine I have in stock. I recommend it, or, as the Doctors say, 'I prescribe it over the counter.' It never fails to meet the cases for which I recommend it, even where the doctors' prescriptions have been of no avail."—C. F. Calhoun, Monmouth, Kansas.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas Selections —FOR 1888.— Containing Carols to be sung in churches, Recitations, Responsive Exercises that may be used with or without the Carols. Price, 5 cts. each or 50 cts. per dozen by mail postpaid; $4 per hundred by express not prepaid.

Services. —"Good Will to Men," by J. H. Hall; "Noel," by P. F. Gaynor; and "Peace on Earth," by J. H. Hall. These consist of choice Responsive Readings throughout which are interspersed Beautiful Carols written especially for use in connection with the Readings. Price of each of the three Services is 5 cts. as for the "Christmas Selections."

Cantatas. —"The New Santa Claus," by Butterworth and Murray. "Judge's Claus," by Burnham and Root. "Santa Claus' Christmas," by Burnham and Root. "Santa Claus' Make," by Burnham and Root. "Santa Kriss Kringle," by Butterworth and Root. Price of the Cantatas, 30cts. each by mail postpaid.

Catalogue of all kinds of Christmas Music to be sent free on application.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati,

And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

HINDERCORNS.

The only sure Cure for Corns. Stops all pain. Ensures comfort to the feet. 15c. at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

The best of all remedies for Inward Pains, Colic, Indigestion, Exhaustion and all Stomach and Bowel troubles. Also the most effective cure for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and affections of the breathing organs. It promotes refreshing sleep, improves the appetite, overcomes nervous prostration, and gives new life and strength to the weak and aged. 50c. and $1.00, at Druggists.

For Gas BAILEY'S REFLECTORS.

A wonderful improvement for lighting CHURCHES, Halls, etc. Numerous designs. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free.

BAILEY REFLECTOR CO
118 Wood st., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SALARY —FOR— 3 YEARS We wish to employ a reliable man in this county. No experience required. Permanent position for three years. Salary increased each year. Light, easy, genteel business. Send stamp. No attention to postals. Address CENTENNIAL MF'G CO., CINCINNATI, O.

DETECTIVE

Wanted in every County, Shrewd men to act as detectives in our Secret Service. Experience unnecessary. Particulars free. Grannan Detective Bureau Co., 41 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE never fails to CURE. Any one who wants to be CURED can send us their address and we will mail trial bottle FREE. DR. TAFT BROS., Rochester, N. Y.

The Great Secret of the Canary Breeders of the Harz Mountains restores MANNA BIRD to cage birds and preserves them in health. 15c., by mail. Sold by druggists. Directions free. Bird Food Co., 300 N. 3d St., Phila.

In all the world there is but one OPIUM Habit. The Dr. J. C. Stone Remedy never fails. All other treatment even a pretended cure for the Opium Habit. No other treatment ever cured a case. We have cured more than 10,000 cases. NO PAY TILL CURED. Remember this, and write to the J. L. Stephens Co., Lebanon, O.

"Best cure for colds, cough, consumption" is the old Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam. Cures Bros. & Co., Boston. For 11 a large bottle sent prepaid

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

BYKIN—CURREY.—At the residence of the bride's father, I. M. Currey, Raleigh, Miss., September 12, 1888, by Rev. J. H. Evans, Mr. W. H Bykin to Miss Florence Currey, all of Smith county, Miss.

MARSHALL—TOWNSEND.—At the residence of A. F. Townsend, September 6, 1888, by Rev. D. C. Foust, Mr. William Marshall to Miss Lee Townsend, all of Montgomery county, Miss.

BEALE—SIMMONS.—At the residence of the bride's father, near Brownsville, Miss., November 8, 1888, by Rev. I. W. Cooper, Mr. J. W. Beale, of Madison county, Miss., to Miss Fannie Simmons.

CECIL—FAUVER.—At the residence of the bride, near Wilson, La., November 7, 1888, by Rev. John A. Ellis, Rev. C. D. Cecil, of Mississippi Conference, and Miss Mary Irene Fauver.

JELKS—FLY.—At the Methodist Church, in Centreville, Miss., October, 31, 1888, by Rev. John A. Ellis, Mr. W. C. Jelks and Miss Nora Fly, of Centreville, Miss.

ADAMS—THOMPSON.—At the residence of the bride's father, Judge Thompson, near Middleton, Tenn., November 7, 1888, by Rev. D. W. Babb, Mr. Albert Adams, of Corinth, Miss., to Miss Lizzie Thompson.

KELLER—SILK.—At the residence of Philip Hallaran, in this city, on November 15, by Revs. J. B. Walker and C. W. Carter, J. H. Keller, Esq., to Miss Mattie W. Silk.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

LAWRENCE—H. N. LAWRENCE was born January 26, 1810, in Charleston district, S. C., and died at his home, in Crawford, Lowndes county, Miss., September 20, 1888. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church when about seventeen years old and lived an acceptable member until his death; over sixty years. On December 3, 1829, he married Mary H. E. Kells, who died March 29, 1830. He was married again, April 2, 1835, to Mary M. Hughes, who died February 17, 1846. He was married the third time August 24, 1847, to Catharine C. Renfrow, who now survives him. He was the father of thirteen children, only four of whom are now living. His wife, children and many grandchildren mourn the loss of an affectionate husband and kind father. He was devoted to his family, especially his wives. The writer has often heard him say that he was one of the most unfortunate and fortunate men in the world, having suffered the loss of two wives, but had married three good Christian women.

He started in life in moderate circumstances, was financially successful and could command money when he needed it. He provided well for his family during his life and left them sufficient means for a good living. Bro. Lawrence served the church as class leader and steward for many years, and was very prompt in his duties. When his church suffered he suffered. The writer was very intimate with him often at his home and in the house of God, and scarcely ever parted with him without having had a religious conversation, in which he delighted. J. P. OAINES.

WARE—JAMES R. W. WARE was born October 10, 1847, and died in Sallis, Miss., August 23, 1888. Bro. Ware did not have extra advantages while growing up; his father having died while he was of tender years and left his son to contend with the world the best he could; yet he choose honesty as the best policy, and truth as a good motto, and by these he established a good character and secured the respect of all who knew him. For several years he was in the employ of the Illinois Central Railroad Company. Here he enjoyed the confidence of all his employers and associates. Two months before his death he left the railroad and moved to Sallis, Miss., in order to live more quietly, and be convenient to church and school privileges.

Bro. Ware had only been a member of the church about one year; yet he had proved his sincerity in the profession of religion by an unswerving fidelity to every Christian duty, and the church had already learned to look to him as a man on whom they could depend. Bro. Ware was naturally a pleasant, sweet-spirited, companionable man; and when nature's happy gifts were intensified by the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, it became God-like. In the death of Bro. Ware the church has sustained the loss of a valuable member; the Sunday-school, one of its best workers; and a blood-washed soul has gone to an endless rest. May the hand of God lead the disconsolate wife and his two fatherless children to their heavenly Father's house!

W. W. WILLIAMS.

SANFORD—Sister NANCY SANFORD, daughter of Col. John Bowie, was born at Harrisonburg, Catahoula parish, La., September 25, 1815, and was married to Mr. James Y. Sanford, near Helena, Ark., about 1835, and moved to Chicot county, Ark., about 1848, where her sisters—Mrs. Horner and Mrs. Steward—resided, and joined the Presbyterian Church at Mt. Carmel, under Rev. B. Shaw. After the death of Bro. Shaw, she joined the Methodist Church, South, at LeVaughn, and has been a faithful member ever since. She was left a widow with a large family to raise, and saw them all married and members of her church. She was confined to her bed two months and seven days, but bore her sickness patiently and met death with resignation to God's will. She died October 24, at 8 A. M., at her son-in-law's, Mr. John Boyd. Just before her death she sang, "Sweet by-and-by," and requested it sung at her grave. She was buried with the Methodist ritual, surrounded by a large circle of relatives and friends. She leaves three daughters, a son and sister, with many grandchildren. May her works and godly example follow her, and thus enable her sorrowing children to press on that they may meet her in heaven!

Sister Sanford was not ashamed to shout when moved by the Holy Spirit, and often made her friends rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory. F. G. DAVIS, L. P.

MARSHALL—JAMES HENRY MARSHALL was born February 11, 1865, and died October 19, 1888. He was the son of Bro. W. B. and Sister Dolly Marshall, of Carroll county, Miss. Jimmie joined the church when he was only twelve years old, and lived a consistent Christian all his life. He was one of the best young men I ever saw. He was free from the common vices of the day, and no one led a more blameless life than he. As we stood around his grave I saw young men weep as if a brother had died. The whole community said, "He was a good boy." Not good in common parlance, but good in that he lived to do right and do good. He was the oldest living child. He had just gone out into the world to work for himself. How soon are our most cherished hopes disappointed in this life! May a gracious Providence hover over and comfort the afflicted family!

T. W. LEWIS.

CROMWELL—Little JULIA E. CROMWELL, baby-daughter of G. W. and M. A. Cromwell, was born April 2, 1887, and died October 23, 1888. Another beautiful flower of sweetest fragrance has been plucked from earth's stormy paths to be transferred to the beautiful home in paradise above, where innocency and beauty rejoice forever in the presence and companionship of him who says, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of God." Little Julia was a precious jewel to the loving parents and children, and it was hard to say, "Thy will be done;" but his will is best, for he wills the purest and highest happiness of both parents and child.

May God bless and console the parents and children, and may we all meet her in the sweet by-and-by!

C. C. GRISHAM.

HUNTLEY—Whereas, In the providence of Almighty God, we have been called upon to part with our beloved president and friend, Mrs. W. H. HUNTLEY, who fell asleep in Jesus at noon of Thursday, August 30, 1888, the Flora Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, situated at Flora, Miss., does hereby desire to express its grief at the afflictive dispensation, and to bear open testimony to the zeal and faithfulness of its departed head, and to bear love and good works of her who labored with her husband in the discharge of his ministry, "Magnetic in influence, thoroughly unselfish in character, untiring in the service of the Master, she consecrated all she was and ever could be to her God.

She was a chosen vessel, and earthly and spiritual advantages had fitted her for the service of the Lord. The true type of "a perfect woman nobly planned," the influence of her noble, beautiful Christian life will live forever in the memory of all who knew her. We tender, as a body and as individuals, our tenderest sympathy to the bereaved husband and children, to the stricken relatives, and many afflicted friends.

We are assured that we grieve not as those without hope, for she showed her faith by her works and is, without doubt, now enjoying the rest prepared for the people of God.

Resolved, That, as we looked up to her while with us as a leader and exemplar in the ways of God, so will we take new hold upon eternal life, and, as if her mantle had fallen upon each one of us, by numbers try to fill the breach made by the loss of the gifted one.

Resolved, That this society take the name of the Huntley Missionary Society of Flora, Miss., and be so known while in existence in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Flora, Miss.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be made for our bereaved pastor and the relatives of our deceased sister, and that they be printed in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, with the request that Georgia papers please copy.

M. A. BRADLEY, for Com.

HIBBARD—Died, at Patterson, La., Sunday, October 14, 1888, E. THORNTON, wife of S. M. Hibbard, in the thirty-sixth year of her age, born in Port Gibson, N. Y.; a sister also of J. H. Thornton, of Patterson.

At a called meeting, ordered by the vice-president on October 20, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Our heavenly Father, for unfathomable purpose, has seen fit to remove from us our much beloved and highly esteemed president, Mrs. S. M. Hibbard, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we do mourn her loss as true sisters, and grieve that her name is stricken from our roll.

Resolved, That we do, on this present day, and will always, miss her smiling face and her genial, encouraging presence, and will sadly miss her devotion in the cause of our church with her untiring industry.

Resolved, That we offer heartfelt sympathy of the entire association, as a body and individually, to the bereaved husband, and their four little children, to the stricken mother and father, also to her brothers, and to her afflicted sister, Mrs. Craig, of Chicago, who is also a member of this association.

Resolved, That the secretary is hereby ordered to send a copy of these resolutions to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the Morgan City Free Press for publication, and to procure copies of same and forward to the absent relatives of our deceased honored president.

Resolved, With one accord, that all deplore the loss of one of our most energetic and generous workers—all trusting to meet her in that better land, where there will be no parting.

MRS. J. P. MUGGAH, V. P.

Do you suffer with catarrh? You can be cured if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. Sold by all druggists.

Scientific.

Visual Synchronism.

Dr. J. Harris Rogers, of Washington, is responsible for a new telegraph invention, which will be known as visual synchronism. The discovery consists of a method by which two wheels, thousands of miles apart, may be kept revolving in perfect unison, and the application consists in the ability to print and transmit from one wheel to another about 150 words a minute.

By means of a small instrument with ten keys a message is first perforated on a tape. This tape runs through a telegraphic instrument, and the perforations permit small steel fingers to make electrical connections with an ordinary telegraph wire, which in its turn connects with the receiver on the other distant wheel and influences ten magnets, provided with curves and strokes, which combine to form Roman letters in accordance with the original perforations.

The two indicators or wheels which actually form the visual synchronism give 900 revolutions a minute, and each revolution forms a letter. This gives about 150 words a minute. The Morse characters have to be interpreted, but as visual synchronomic messages come out in Roman letters, much labor is saved.

"Autographic telegraphy," said Mr. Rogers, "invented by the famous electrician, Bakewell, about thirty years ago, and afterwards improved upon by Father Secchi, Edison, Gray and Sawyer, failed in practical applications for want of the rapid synchronism now introduced by me. With the aid of the new discovery it may now be utilized."

A test of the new apparatus was held a short time since, and a message of seventy-six words sent over in twenty-five seconds and printed on a tape in plain Roman characters. The inventor says that he can by this system make one wire do the work that ten do now by the system in vogue.

Dr. Rogers, who is about thirty-five years old, was born in Tennessee, and was educated partly in New York and partly in Europe. He is an electrical engineer and is the inventor of the Pan electric patents which are at present the subject of litigation in the superior courts. The new invention, which has been patented in every capital city of the world, is warmly indorsed, Mr. Rogers says, by J. Dudley Field and Mr. Worthington, of the Electric Review.—Picayune.

THE MIGHTY YUKON RIVER.—R. J. McConnell, of the Ottawa Geological Survey staff, who has just returned from the geological expedition, reports that the Yukon river flows through British territory for 600 miles. This includes about 200 miles of the gold-mining regions, where the chief mining camps are situated. The men are earning $10 to $20 a day washing, but the work only lasts about two months in the year in consequence of the freshets and early frosts. The river is 2,300 miles long, of which 2,000 are navigable without a single rapid or portage. Its breadth is six to seven miles in places, and averages three or four. Rivers emptying into the Yukon are broader than the Hudson at New York. Little of the region traversed is fit, for agricultural purposes, although there are valleys suitable for stock-raising. Potatoes and other vegetables equal to the best produced in Canada, are raised at the furthest northern posts of the Hudson Bay Company. The country abounds with minerals, and the winters are not more severely felt than those of Central Canada.—Evangelist.

And though sometimes, on passing from the turmoil of the city and the heats of restless life into the silent temple of the universe, we are tempted to think that there is the taint of earth, and here the purity of heaven; yet sure it is that God is seen by us through man, rather than through nature; and that without the eye of our brothers, and the voices of our kind, the winds might sigh, and the stars look down on us in vain.—James Martineau.

Shallenberger's Antidote for Malaria is the cheapest remedy in the world in proportion to the work it does, because it is certain to cure even the worst cases if taken properly. One bottle of thirty pills will cure any ordinary case, and one dose will stop the chills, but a number of doses and a little time are required to drive all Malaria from the system. Sold by Druggists.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THREE WONDERFUL
SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect.

6,500,000 LADIES
Are Doing Sewing on
SINGER
Family Sewing Machines.
8,000,000
SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,
185 Canal St., New Orleans.
S. E. RUNDLE - - - - - AGENT.
Mention this Paper.

$300 to $500 a month made by working for us. We guarantee energetic persons $3500 a Year, with the opportunity of making 6 times that amount. Men who can furnish their own horses preferred. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Holloway & Co., 112 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

ALL BOOKS at Wholesale to members of the Book Buyer's Bureau. Membership free. AGENTS WANTED to solicit members. Send 2c stamp for catalogue and information to R. H. Woodward & Co., Baltimore, Md.

$75 to $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Southern Insurance Company
OF NEW ORLEANS.
54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.
John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward

B. D. WOOD & SONS,
113 Common Street.
COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND
Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases.
A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel.
The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

PERFECT SAFETY

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

It has been used with most wonderful effect in

Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c.

Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2-cent stamp to MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA.

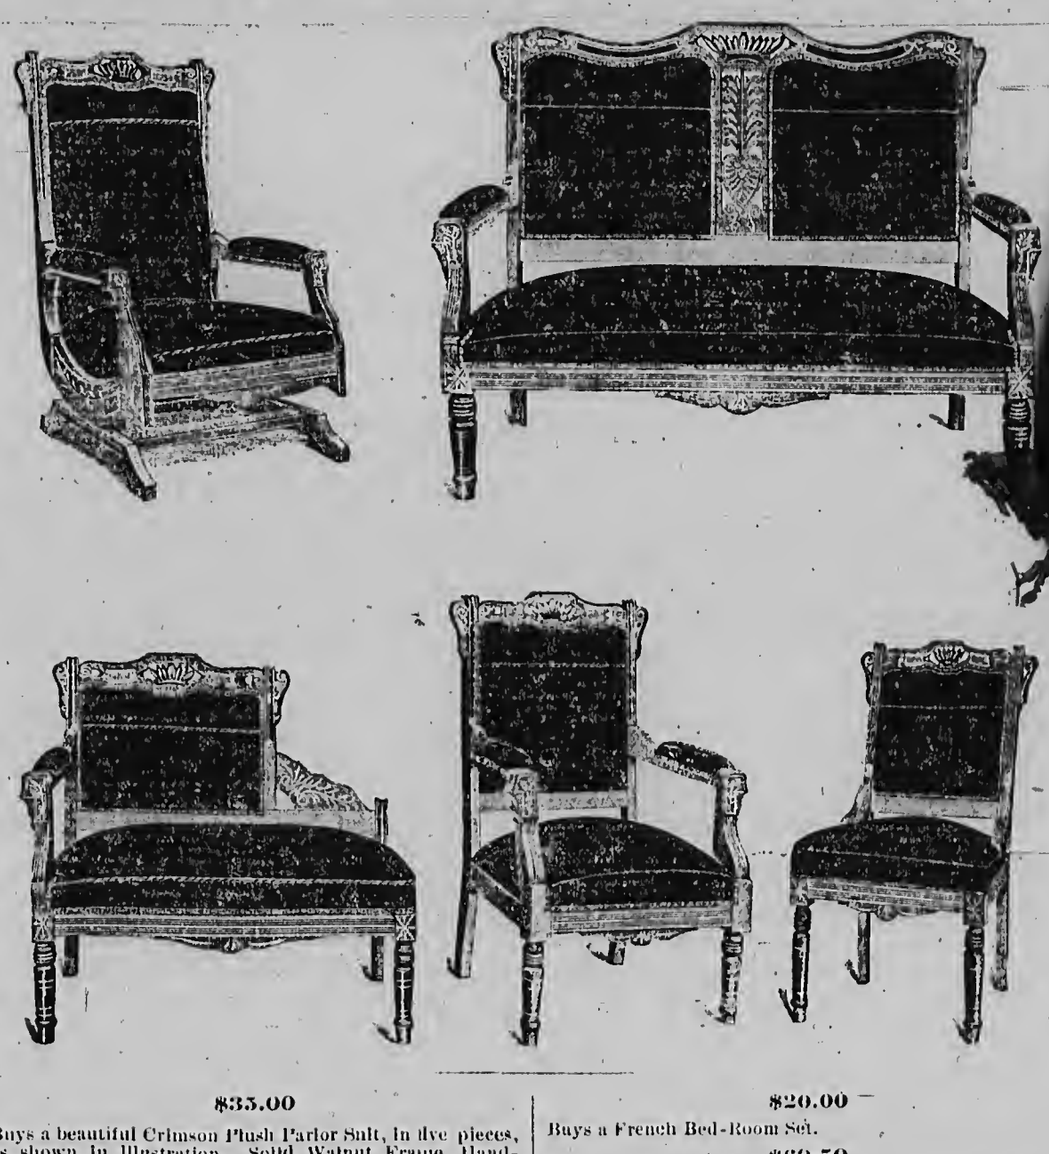
GRANT'S
FURNITURE HOUSE.



$35.00

Buys a beautiful Crimson Plush Parlor Suit, in five pieces, as shown in Illustration. Solid Walnut Frame, Hand-carved and Rubbed Oil Polish. Same suit in Hair Cloth, $35.

$45.00

Buys the same suit in five pieces, covered in Silk Plush, all one color, in either of the following: Crimson, Old Gold, Olive, Peacock Blue or Maroon; or the same set made up in all the above colors.

$55.00

Buys the suit in ten pieces, including the five pieces here shown, one more Sofa and four Parlor Chairs covered in plush.

$65.00

Buys the same set—ten pieces—covered in Silk Plush—all one color, or five different colors.

Plush Rockers, Reception Chairs, Reed and Rattan Rockers, Fancy Tables in Walnut, Mahogany, Oak and Cherry.

$20.00

Buys a French Bed-Room Set.

$69.50

Buys a beautiful Victoria Bed-Room Set, in imitation Walnut, Marble-top—twelve pieces—as follows: Bedstead, Dresser, Washstand, Armoire, four Cane-seat Chairs, one Cane-seat Rocker, one Towel Rack, one Spring, and one Centre Table.

$95.00

Buys a magnificent Black Walnut Bed-Room Set, Marble-Top, Satin Tester, brass rods—twelve pieces as above.

$19.00

Buys a Dining-Room Set, including Sideboard, Extension Table, and six Cane-seat Chairs.

$22.00

Buys a Kitchen Set, including a first-class Stove with Utensils, Kitchen Safe, Kitchen Table, four Kitchen Chairs.

Office and Library Furniture in large variety.
CARPETS—Ingrain, Brussels and Velvets.
Rugs, Portiere and Lace Curtains in all styles and at all prices.

☞ Figures talk; and if you doubt, call and inspect the goods. Everything else proportionately cheap. Stock complete with the latest designs and fresh from the best factories. Call and examine, and I guarantee polite attention, reliable goods, fair dealing and bottom prices at the Cheapest FURNITURE HOUSE in NEW ORLEANS.

J. G. GRANT, 50 and 52 Baronne Street.
☞ Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

EDUCATIONAL.

A ROAD TO SUCCESS.

One of the grand avenues to successful business life leads through

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

where every student buys and sells, receives and pays, corresponds, calculates, attends Business Lectures, forms and dissolves co-partnerships, keeps books and transacts business in the same manner as do Merchants, Manufacturers, Bankers, etc., in daily business.

This renowned and progressive Institution has for the past thirty-two years enjoyed the confidence and support of the discerning public for its faithful, high-grade, practical education.

Its sole College has also Higher English, Academical, Mathematical, Shorthand and Type-writing Schools. For catalogues address,

D. O. SOULE, President,

1, 3 & 5, Charles Street, New Orleans, La.

N. B.—Soule's New Science and Practice of Accounts (40 pp.) and Soule's Philosophic Work on Practical Mathematics (300 pp.) are replete with original and practical accounting and with the highest work and the rarest gems of the sciences of which they treat. Price $5 each. For sale at the College office.

Mention this Paper.

Leche's Graded Institute.

DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL.

Seventh Session Opens Monday, September 10, 1888.

English, French, Latin, German, Drawing, Shorthand, Type-writing. For prospectus address A. S. LECHE, 7 Prytania street.

Mention this paper.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location: one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.

PROF. B. F. HUBBLE, Sec.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the L., N. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 1889.
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—board, books, tuition and fees—of a complete English course for one term of twenty weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address

R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breeze, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

J. H. BRUNNER, Pres.

G. W. RUDDLESTON, Sec.

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending November 20, 1888.)

COTTON.

Low ordinary	7 1/4	@ — —
Ordinary	7 3/4	— —
Good ordinary	8 3/8	— —
Low middling	9 1/8	— —
Middling	9 5/8	— —
Good middling	10 3/8	— —
Middling fair	10 3/4	— —
Fair	10 5/8	— —
Galveston middling	9 11-16	— —
Mobile middling	9 1/2	— —
St. Louis middling	9 5/8	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	5	5 1-16
Fully fair	4 3/4	4 7/8
Good fair	4 1/2	4 5/8
Common	— —	— —
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4 1/4	5 1/2
Pr. yellow	5 7/8	5 15-16
Gray White	6	6 1/8
Choice white	6 1/4	6 3/8
Stan. Gran.	6 3/8	— —

MOLASSES.

OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	43	— —
Fair	25	26
Good Common	23	24
Syrup	22	30

RICE.

Head	5 1/4	6 1/4
Good	4 1/8	4 3/4
Fair	4 1/8	4 5/8
Good	4 1/8	4 5/8
Polish, per ton	14 00	15 00
No. 2	2 1/8	2 1/4
Rough	2 25	4 00

FLOUR.

Extra Fancy	5 45	5 50
Fancy	5 10	5 20
Choice	4 40	4 50
Minnesota patents	7 50	— —
Extra fancy	5 65	5 75
Winter wheat patents	6 35	6 50
Minnesota bakers	6 40	6 60

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	2 25	2 30
Cream meal	3 00	— —
Grits	2 85	3 00
Hominy	3 15	— —

GRAIN, ETC.

CORN:
White	50	51
Yellow	50	51
Mixed No. 2	50	— —
OATS:
Western	32 1/2	33
Choice	33 1/2	34
BRAN:
₩ cwt	82 1/2	85
HAY:
Prime	16 00	17 00
Choice	18 00	19 00

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	16 00	16 25
Prime Mess	— —	15 50
Rumps	— —	15 00
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	8	8 1/4
Sides, long clear	8 1/4	8 3/8
Sides, short rib	8 1/4	8 3/8
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	12	12 1/2
Shoulders	8 1/2	— —
Sides, long clear	9 1/4	— —
Sides, short rib	9 1/8	9 1/4
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	11 1/2	12 1/2

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	16 3/4	17
Fair	15 3/4	16
Common	13 1/4	13 1/2
TEAS:
Choice	40	50
Fair	24	35
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	32	— —
Western Dairy	18	19
Common	14	15
LARD:
Refined	— —	8 1/2
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11 3/4	— —
Coal, cases	16	17
Cotton seed, crude	— —	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70	75

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, per head	— —	8
Chicago, per 100	— —	— —
Louisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	— —	1 50
KROUT:
Western, ₩ bbl	3 50	3 75
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 40	— —

BALING STUFFS.

BAGGING:
Jute, 2 lb	12 3/4	13
Jute, 1 3/4 lb, per yd	12 1/2	— —
Lane Mills Cotton Bagging	— —	12 1/2
BALING TWINE:
₩ lb	10 1/2	11
TIES:
₩ bundle	1 00	1 02

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	4 75
Young Chickens	2 50	4 00
Chickens, South'n	3 00	3 25
Young	1 75	2 50
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	10 00
EGGS:
Western	16	17
Southern	18	19
WOOL:
Lake, per lb	20	21
Louisiana	18	19
Burry	10	12
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₩ lb	— —	5
Dry salted	6	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	11 00	— —
Meal	20 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	— —
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	2 1/4	— —
Sulphuric acid	2	— —

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The twelfth Annual Assembly of the Knights of Labor met in Indianapolis, Ind., on November 14.

The National Board of Trade, which met in Chicago, adjourned on November 16. Important resolutions affecting the country's commerce was adopted. Congress will be asked to aid competition for the South American trade.

The Fish Commission car is to be sent South to replenish the over-fished streams and lakes.

Congressman Perry Belmont, of New York, has been appointed United States Minister to Spain by the President.

San Francisco was shaken up by an earthquake on November 18. It is said the shock was felt throughout Central California.

The official returns from West Virginia are sufficiently ascertained to warrant the announcement of the election of the Democratic candidate for governor by a small, but sure majority.

Supervising Architect Freret is having plans prepared for the improvements to be made in the custom-house at New Orleans, the work to be done under the new appropriation for that building.

The designs for the public buildings in Monroe and Opelousas are in course of preparation, and an agent will be sent down in a few weeks to select the sites.

Thomas Barry, of Michigan, a member of the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor, was expelled some time since from the order by that Board for circulating villifying reports about the other members. Barry claimed that T. V. Powderly and his close advisers were extravagant and corrupt, and by their mis-management were fast destroying the Knights of Labor as an organization. His expulsion was confirmed by the Assembly of the Knights of Labor, in session at Indianapolis, Ind.

Eight new cases of yellow fever were reported, on November 19, from Jacksonville, Fla. Four deaths occurred on the same date. At Gainesville, Fla., five cases of yellow fever were reported.

The desire of the delegates to the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor to continue T. V. Powderly as their chief, has been expressed to him formally. The seven delegates who represent the Canadian assemblies called on him and asked him to accept the office once more. He gave them to understand that he would do so provided he could choose his own advisers on the General Executive Board. Everything indicated that he will be given his wishes.

FOREIGN.

The French government works for the manufacture of small arms at Chatelerault, in the department of Vienne, have been destroyed by fire. The loss is placed at 1,000,000 francs.

The Irish bishops have received another papal rescript. It orders them to actively execute the former rescript, which instructs them to denounce the plan of campaign and boycotting.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of King Christian's accession to the throne of Denmark was celebrated at Copenhagen, on November 15.

Further outrages have been committed upon American ship owners at Port-au-Prince, Hayti. Homeward-bound vessels are refused their clearance papers. The steamer "Haytien Republic" was seized as a pirate and not as a blockade runner. The Haytiens wanted to shoot the officers and crew, and it was only through the protests of the foreign consuls that the lives of the Americans were spared.

Lord Randolph Churchill, in a speech at Paddington, on November 17, expressed the hope that the post of Minister at Washington would soon be filled. He said there was no doubt that Lord Sackville had been primarily indiscreet and had made an inexcusable blunder. No fault could be found with the action of the United States government toward the Minister.

Emperor William is to open the Reichstag in person. His speech on that occasion is awaited with much interest, arising from the revival of the war alarm.

The new Russian loan is fast raising discontent among the German bourses. The report of an alliance between France, Russia and Spain, and rumors of Russian troops on the frontiers of Germany are phenomena which are connected with the Russian loan.

A special dispatch to the Times from Tai Tsing says that the Chinese government has learned that a secret treaty has been concluded between Russia and Corea, providing for a Russian protectorate of Corea.

The Rome correspondent of the Chronicle telegraphs that Dr. Windthorst, the Prussian clerical leader, is expected there shortly. The visit is regarded as a protest on the part of the Vatican and of the German Catholics against Emperor William's recent visit to the Quirinal.

The Viceroy of India has informed a durbar at Rathla that the British government would not avail itself of the offers of money from the Indian princes for the defense of the country, but would ask them to form strong native forces fit for service with the imperial troops.

Ex-Empress Frederick and her daughters started for England on November 18. They were escorted to the railway station by the Emperor. The parting between the Emperor and his mother was very touching. The party met the Prince of Wales at Flushing, and embarked on the royal yacht which started for England.

Ringing Noises

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

Episcopal Visitation, 1888-9.

Conference.	Date.	Place.	Bishop.
Arkansas	Nov. 28.	Fort Smith, Ark.	Key
E. Texas	Nov. 28.	Crockett, Tex.	Duncan
S. Carolina	Nov. 28.	Winnsboro, S. C.	Keener
Mississippi	Dec. 5.	Vicksburg, Miss.	Hargrove
White Riv.	Dec. 5.	Paragould, Ark.	Key
N. Georgia	Dec. 5.	Milledgeville, Ga.	Keener
N. Miss.	Dec. 12.	Starkville, Miss.	Keener
Alabama	Dec. 12.	Mobile, Ala.	Hargrove
S. Georgia	Dec. 12.	Eastman, Ga.	Duncan
Louisiana	Dec. 19.	New Orleans, La.	Hargrove
Florida	Jan. 9.	Bartow, Fla.	McTyeire
Baltimore	Mar. 13.	Alexandria, Va.	Wilson

FOR CHRISTMAS.

JOHNSON'S UNIVERSAL CYCLOPEDIA
[Revised]

Is a whole library of universal knowledge from the pens of the ablest scholars in America and Europe. It is accepted as high authority in our leading colleges. It is not for the few, like Appleton's, the Britannica or the International, but for all. It has just been thoroughly revised at a cost of over $60,000, and three years' labor by forty editors and over 2,000 renowned contributors. It is in eight convenient sized volumes. No father can give his child at school or his son or daughter just entering the arena of life anything that will be of more permanent benefit. It is an education supplementary to that of the schools. Address for particulars and terms.

A. J. JOHNSON & CO.,
11 Great Jones Street, New York.

The clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its finest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

The Advocate Free until 1889.

Send $2 now and receive the ADVOCATE free until 1889. Your subscription will not expire until January 1, 1890.

Popularity of the Knabe Pianoforte.

[From the Boston Journal.]

The Knabe pianofortes were introduced in Boston only a comparatively short time ago, although the merits of the instruments had long been recognized elsewhere, but the purity and brilliancy of tone, the strength and durability of the pianos quickly recommended them to the musical public. Mr. E. W. Tyler, the Boston agent, brought the Knabe pianos to Boston nine years ago, and their success has not been eclipsed by any other piano during that period. This popularity has not been secured by the "boom" process; the pianos have been their own advertisement. For beauty of form, resonance, flexibility of tone, evenness of scale, perfection of action and durability they can not be surpassed. Our best musicians indorse them, and the sale of uprights and grands has been gratifyingly large.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

For a free sample of a pleasant remedy for catarrh, bronchitis, colds, etc., used by smoking, send 2 cts postage to Dr. J. W. Blosser & Co., Greensboro, N. C.

Special Offer.

Anyone sending two dollars will receive the ADVOCATE free of all charges until January, 1890.

Prevent Attacks of Fever.

We ask but a glance at this, and it will pay any sufferer from liver complaint, enlarged spleen or ague cake, bilious affections of any kind, deranged secretions, prostration from dissipation, constipation, dropsy, urinary affections where liver, bowels, blood and stomach are involved. A guaranteed cure for all this class of diseases is offered in J. & G. Maguire's Cundurango. Doctors are astonished and invalids delighted.

Quarterly Conferences.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Shreveport	Nov. 24, 25
South Bossier	27
Valley circuit	29
North Bossier	Dec. 1, 2
Pleasant Hill, at Pleasant Hill	8, 9
Mansfield	15, 16

J. B. CASSITY, P. E.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Lind Grove, at Bartholomew	Nov. 24, 25
Richland, at Girard	Dec. 1, 2
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove	8, 9
Delhi and Floyd, at Floyd	15, 16

J. D. HARPER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Carrollton and Lower Coast Mission, at Carrollton	Nov. 25
Crape Street	Dec. 2
Algiers	9
Louisiana Avenue	16

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Bayou Boeuf, at Elm Bayou	Nov. 24, 25
Sugar Town	Dec. 1, 2
Spring Creek, at Spring Creek	6
Alexandria, at Pineville	8, 9
Evergreen, at Melville	15, 16

E. F. ALEXANDER, P. E.

HOMER DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Indian Village	Nov. 24, 25
Sparta and Saline	Dec. 1, 2
Ruston, at Ruston	8, 9
Arcadia, at Arcadia	15, 16

ROBERT HANDLE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Plaquemine Brulee	Nov. 24, 25
Abbeville	Dec. 1, 2
Sulphur Mine	8, 9
Lake Charles	15, 16

J. S. S. KEEKER, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Cockrum	Nov. 24, 25
Louisburg	25
Horn Lake	Dec. 1, 2

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GRENADA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Carrollton	Nov. 24, 25
Pittsboro	Dec. 1, 2
Water Valley	8, 9

J. P. EVANS, P. E.

CORINTH DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Jonesboro circuit	Nov. 24, 25
Ripley and New Albany	26
Blackland circuit	Dec. 1, 2
Gunntown circuit	8, 9

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Ebenezer	Nov. 24, 25
Durant and Lexington	Dec. 1, 2
Ethel circuit	8, 9

H. P. MITCHELL, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Meridian circuit	Nov. 25
Meridian station	26

H. D. NORSWORTHY, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Raleigh	Nov. 22
Brandon	24, 25

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Bayou Sara, at Concord	Nov. 24, 25
Jackson	25, 26

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Raymond circuit, at Clinton	Nov. 24, 25
West Jackson, at Forest Hill (11 a. m.)	26
Jackson station, at Jackson (7 p. m.)	26

H. A. LITTLE, P. E.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is unequaled for restoring gray hair to its natural color, promoting growth, and producing new hair on bald heads.

The St. Petersburg Messenger accuses Prince Bismarck of planning in 1883, under cover of aiding the Czar, for the annexation of Russian Poland to Prussia.

Something New

For every member of every family, and it costs but 25 cts., but 6 will cure Colds, Coughs, Chest-pains, Nervous, Muscular and Neuralgic pains, Stomach, Liver and Kidney pains, Dyspepsia, Malarial and other pains, Rheumatism, Gout and Inflammation in one to three hours.

So says Dr. Scott, who advertises his Electric Plaster in this issue. It combines Electro-magnetism with all the good qualities of any other Porous Plaster. Inquire for it at any drug store, or remit 25cts direct to G. A. Scott, 812 Broadway, New York.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 13 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. F. Hunnicutt, President.

CAN YOU BEAT EGGS?

—If you have not used the—

SURPRISE EGG BEATER,

You can't. Sample mailed on receipt of five 2c stamps. CRAGIN MFG. CO., Chicago, Ill.

Mention this paper.

Liverpool and London and Globe INSURANCE COMPANY.

Largest Fire Office in the World.

Losses paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,401.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference in any other office, the same as with local companies.

Directors in New Orleans—NEWTON BUCKNER, Chairman; RANDOLPH WOOLFE, JOHN W. LABOUISSE, A. HELVAILLE.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Res't Sec.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

CASH CAPITAL $400,000

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Desirable Fire Business.

W. R. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

KNABE PIANO FORTES

UNEQUALLED IN

Tone, Touch, Workmanship and Durability

WILLIAM KNABE & CO.,

BALTIMORE, 22 and 24 East Baltimore Street.
NEW YORK, 112 Fifth Av. WASHINGTON, 817 Market Space

Mention this paper.

TEACHERS, PROFESSORS and TUTORS supplied to Schools, Seminaries, Colleges and Families free of charge. We have a large normal student registration. Teachers, register early. Fee, small. Address, with stamp,

AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Pole Building, Nashville, Tenn.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

1889.
Harper's Magazine.

ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE is the most useful, entertaining, and beautiful periodical in the world. Among the attractions for 1889 will be a new novel—an American story, entitled, "Jupiter Lights"—by CONSTANCE F. WOOLSON; illustrations of Shakespeare's Comedies by E. A. ABBEY; a series of articles on Russia, illustrated, by T. DE THULSTRUP; papers on the Dominion of Canada and a characteristic serial by CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER; three "Norwegian Studies," by BJÖRNSTJERNE BJÖRNSON, illustrated; "Commodus," a historical play by the author of "Ben Hur," illustrated by J. R. WELLMAN, etc. The Editorial Departments are conducted by GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS, WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS, and CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

Per Year:

HARPER'S MAGAZINE	$4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY	4 00
HARPER'S BAZAR	4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE	2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, or Mexico.

The volumes of the MAGAZINE begin with the Numbers for June and December of each year. When no time is specified, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of HARPER'S MAGAZINE, for three years back, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of $3 00 per volume. Cloth Cases, for binding, 50 cents each—by mail, postpaid.

Index to HARPER'S MAGAZINE, Alphabetical, Analytical, and Classified, for Volumes I to 70, inclusive, from June, 1850, to June, 1885, one vol. 8vo, Cloth, $2 00.

Remittances should be made by Post-Office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROTHERS.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

Mention this paper.

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

299, 301, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

COLD WEATHER MUSIC BOOKS.

The chill November winds, the whirling, withered leaves that tap against the window-pane, harmonize well with the sweet music and the cheerful songs that are to make winter homes attractive. With your luck, bring in a goodly quantity of our bright,

NEW MUSIC BOOKS.

These new books are every day more in demand.

CLASSICAL PIANIST, PIANO CLASSICS, SONG CLASSICS, SONG CLASSICS FOR LOW VOICES, CLASSIC TENOR SONGS, CLASSIC BARITONE AND BASS SONGS. Each $1.

Praise in Song (40 cts.; $4.20 per doz.) is the best new Sacred Music Book for Home and Vestry singing.

Let the Children Sing (from Memorial Songs for Kindergarten and Primary Schools (30 cts., $3 per doz.); Jenk's Songs and Games for Little Ones (50 cts. or Children's School Songs (35 cts., $3.60 per doz.... All have very sweet child's songs.

Give Your Aid in getting up a rousing good evening Singing Class to use Song Harmony (60 cts., $6 per doz.). Full of most interesting music, Sacred and Secular. Song Manual, Book 3 (50 cts., $4.80 per doz.) is also a good collection, mostly secular.

Tell the Temperance People that no better Temperance Song Book has appeared than Bells of Victory (35 cts., $3.60 per doz.)

Xmas is Coming. Send for lists of Christmas Cantatas and Carols.

ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York.

Mention this paper.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 48. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1687.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. C. GRANT, Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION. - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.
REV. S. S. KENNEDY.
REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. JAMES A. GODBEY.
REV. W. L. C. HINNICUTT, D. D.
REV. T. L. MELLEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

THANKSGIVING HYMN,

BY WILL CARLETON.

We thank thee, O Father, for all that is bright—
The gleam of the day and the stars of the night;
The flowers of our youth and the fruits of our prime,
And blessings that march down the pathway of time.

We thank thee, O Father, for all that is dear—
The rob of the tempest, the flow of the tear;
For never to joy-drunk, and never in vain,
Thy mercy permitted a sorrow or pain.

We thank thee, O Father, for song and for feast—
The harvest that glowed, and the wealth that increased;
For never a blessing encompassed earth's child,
But thou in thy mercy locked downward and smiled.

We thank thee, O Father of all, for the power
Of aiding each other in life's darkest hour;
The generous heart, and the bountiful hand,
And all the soul-help that sad souls understand.

We thank thee, O Father, for days yet to be—
For hopes that our future will call us to thee;
That all our eternity form, through thy love,
One Thanksgiving Day in the mansions above."

From the City of Mexico.

MR. EDITOR: According to promise, I will write you a letter or two from this missionary field. It is no longer a land afar off; but, by the grace of steam, American enterprise and Protestant principle has been brought very near. The City of Mexico is now next-door neighbor to New Orleans, being distant therefrom only two days and twenty-two hours. I left your office on Monday forenoon, and reached this famed city of the Montezumas on Saturday morning, having tarried by the way one day at San Antonio, and another at Laredo, Texas. And with the completion of the Nacional Mexicano, it is a comparatively inexpensive trip. I purchased a round-trip ticket from San Antonio to the City of Mexico, good for two months, with stop-over privileges at any station, for fifty dollars. Unfortunately, however, there are other expenses, as the appetite for sleep and food is as inexorable in Mexico as America. But, as compared with even a decade ago, the cost is small and the journey hither quite delightful. And as all train conductors and brakemen are Americans, one unacquainted with the Spanish language is very little embarrassed by his ignorance. At the eating-stations, so called, you can take what is set before you, and ask no questions. The curiosity, however, to know the names of certain articles of Mexican diet is quite irresistible. But a taste thereof will entirely satisfy—if not gratify.

I spent a day en route very pleasantly at San Antonio, Texas, albeit the rain poured, and patriotic expectation was much excited over the presidential election returns. And this latter suggests the change wrought by a half-century of Anglo-Saxon civilization. In front of the Alamo, the historic and quaint old building in which Crockett and his men fought so desperately and died so bravely, election bulletins from New York to California were thrown upon canvas, and cheered or hissed by eager hundreds as they seemed favorable or adverse to their hopes and bets. The wonders of the telegraph were never dreamed of by Gen. Santa Anna and his brutal legions, who, fifty years before, made that very spot run red with American blood, and glare with the flames of burning flesh, as the few survivors of the Alamo were consumed on an altar of fire a few yards away. The Alamo is now the property of the State, and is carefully preserved with patriotic pride. The old San Fernando Church still stands, from whose tower Santa Anna waved his red flag, and demanded the surrender of the Alamo. Some interesting and unrecorded stories of that historic struggle were told me by Bro. Sutherland, one of whose blood-kin died within the Alamo, pierced by Mexican bullets, and another in the inhuman slaughter at Goliad. But now peace reigns within the Alamo, and on both sides of the Rio Grande brethren have resolved to learn war no more. And this bond of brotherhood will never be broken if our evangelical gospel of peace can become the dominant sentiment of both republics. Our brethren of the Mexican Border are working heroically to that end, and are cheered with gracious results, as Bro. Sutherland reported, just from their Conference at Del Rio.

I spent a day in Laredo, in order to visit the seminary established by our Woman's Board of Missions, and under the efficient management of Miss Holding. The border city was reached at ten o'clock, Wednesday night, and my arrival was greeted by a genuine Texas norther. All night the cold wind shrieked, and the tin roof of the hotel made hideous music for my sleepless ears. Thursday was spent in the charming seminary home, where, in addition to Miss Holding and her co-laborers, I had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Parks, of Galveston, whose enthusiasm for woman's work is known and read in all our Zion. I was not prepared to see such spacious buildings, and so admirably appointed. They are an honor to the Board and the executive genius of Miss Holding. A new building is just being completed, and will be ready for occupancy in a few days. There are about one hundred and fifty pupils in attendance. I visited each class-room, and was most gratified with the thorough, conscientious instruction given, and the admirable deportment of the scholars. That is a refined, elegant missionary home on the banks of the Rio Grande, and is wielding a divine influence beyond the power of arithmetical process to calculate. If these lines should be read by any officer of the Woman's Board, or liberal friend of their noble work, I would suggest that a comfortable, four-seated vehicle and a good horse would be a handsome compliment to those missionary ladies, and a valuable addition to the equipment of the school.

On Thursday night I boarded the Mexican National, crossed the Rio Grande, passed successfully the inspection of custom officers—a veritable army of them—and found myself within the realm of the ancient Aztecs. But, unlike the subjects of those old kings who traveled by foot, donkey or pony, I wheeled over rock-ballasted rails, in a new Pullman, at twenty-five or thirty miles an hour. So much again for our Protestant Christianity, which has so far liberalized and expanded the thought of this republic as to make four lines of railway converge at this ancient capital, cause its plazas, paseos and alameda to blaze at night with electric lights, and telegraph wires to bring each morning the news of the world. I had Bro. Norwood, now living at San Luis Potosi, for a traveling companion from Laredo, whose knowledge of the country and its language added much to the profit and pleasure of the trip.

We passed Monterey at night, much to my regret. I wanted to see the mountains round about, and the places memorable in the war history of some old Mississippi friends. That is one of our mission stations of the Border Conference, and is the present home of Bro. Sutherland.

Saltillo was reached in the early morning, and I had my first impressions of a Mexican city. The flat-roofed, adobe houses, and the towers of the great temple in the distance, lit up by the brilliant rays of a cloudless morning sun, contrasting with the crowds of men, women, children, and donkeys of every age, station and dress, formed a picture, at once ludicrous and enchanting. The fruit-vender was there with his sandaled feet and unearthly cry, and the city gentleman with his silver-buckled riding-suit and gayly caparisoned horse. The donkey is omnipresent, and, from the enormous burdens he carries, in Mexican estimation must be omnipotent.

A few miles south of Saltillo we pass through the famous battle field of Buena Vista, where the forces of Gen. Taylor met the army of Santa Anna, and where the Hon. Jefferson Davis, then a gallant young officer, received a painful wound. Some evidences of the sanguinary day yet remain. That decisive battle really determined the final result of the war.

From Toluca, where we breakfasted on Saturday morning, to this city the scenery is surpassingly beautiful. As the train climbs the mountain-sides, charming valleys, quaint little villages, and rugged sierras present ever-varying views of blended beauty and grandeur. At ten o'clock this city was reached, and I found a warm welcome at the hands of Bros. Carter and Watkins, both of whom were at the depot to meet me. But here my pen must stop, and reserve for other letters some impressions and observations of this wonderful center of romance and revolution.

Fraternally,

CHAS. B. GALLOWAY.

Anthropomorphism.

BY R. ABBEY, D. D.

This is a very large word and a very bad one—that is, it represents a great and dangerous error that, in my judgment, needs exposition. Mr. Watson says the anthropomorphites were a sect of ancient heretics. "They understood everything spoken in Scripture in a literal sense, and, particularly, that passage in Genesis in which it is said, 'God made man in his own image.' Hence they maintained that God had a human shape."

And that is all he says in his dictionary on so large and so important a subject, a mere historic notice. It seems that one Audius, in the fourth century, advocated this doctrine. He was expelled from the church, was elected Bishop, and the sect continued in form for many years; but the end was not yet. And I respectfully ask the question, if the principle, in or out of form, does or does not infest the church at this day.

Literal reading of the tropes and figures of Scripture has created untold harm and disturbance to our current theological teachings. A careful late writer says: "A tendency to anthropomorphism may, indeed, be regarded as always existing, and so requiring to be guarded against in the mind of every man; but the instances have been rare and isolated, although they have from time to time occurred, in which anthropomorphite views have been fully adopted and openly expressed." (Lib. U. Kno., vol. 1, p. 522.)

And it might well be added that the instances where they have been virtually adopted are far more numerous than where they have been openly expressed. The practical adoption of the anthropomorphic principle is far more general amongst Christian people than many would suppose. It is this, and this alone, that has produced the famous Woodrow disturbance in the Presbyterian Church, and is likely to divide it into two churches. And it is this, as an active principle in the churches, that gave rise to Darwinian evolution, that has produced so much infidelity and religious disturbance in the last forty years. Darwinism proper, in its incipiency, was not a denial of anything written in the Bible, but against anthropomorphic constructions of the first four chapters of Genesis, particularly the first two. In some way, and without any reason that I know of, those early chapters are read by many—maybe by most people—very differently from all other figurative language of the Bible.

It is more or less popular among Bible readers to read those chapters as a literal history of outward, local events that occurred at a certain time and place in the consecutive order in which they are stated. That is to say, the Garden of Eden was a plot of ground, an acre, ten or a hundred acres or more, and on a certain day of a certain month, four thousand years ago, God, being there present, set himself to the task of making a man. He took about one or two hundred pounds of some kind of dust or clay, and formed it into the shape of a man, gave it vitality, and Adam began to live and talk with his Maker. And the same day, or the next, or very near the time, he cut out one of Adam's ribs, with which he formed Eve.

This was a mere local, visible, outward phenomenon; like any other literal history, only—God being the actor—it was, of course, miraculous, and the only thing of the kind that ever happened.

Now, this is all wrong. Scripture authorizes no such understanding. The works of God are not phenomenal, not visible, not historic. This reading degrades the Almighty to the low and mean condition of creatureship. It makes him a mere skillful artisan, or mechanic, or surgeon. He did not make a man by moulding dust; nor breathe into a clay form to give life; nor walk in a garden; nor cut a hole in Adam's side and extract a rib; nor walk in the cool part of the day; nor sit in Abraham's tent door; nor do any other things that imply a human form, human organs or faculties or functions. These things are figuratively illustrative of the unseen. They are visible symbols of the invisible. They are the best things with which to give us—poor, short-sighted creatures—some faint knowledge of the unknowable. By faith—we know these things.

The harm that these literal readings have done and are doing is incalculable. Not many years ago I knew a young man, pretty well educated, skeptically inclined, who said to me he could not be a Christian because he could not believe there was a burning lake of brimstone, into which unbelievers were thrown, there to swim forever.

There are thousands of infidels now who, if you sound their difficulty to the bottom, it will be found to lie in the disbelief of a literal man-manufacturing in Eden. This, in one form or another, is the case with both the intelligent and unintelligent evolutionists. The intelligent ones, discarding the local manufacturing doctrine, set themselves to the construction of some other possible theory.

Among religious, or religiously inclined, persons this putting of the Almighty into the position of manhood degrades him, and familiarizes him with the common affairs of men. It lowers the standard of the great and awfully sublime majesty of the Creator.

The scenes depicted in these early lessons are not scenes to be described in language. Moses did not write these lessons; he only transcribed them from some unknown forms of thought existing away, away in the unknown eons of the past, long before mental conception was formulated into what we now call thinking. They begin in almost verbal destitution, where language itself, even the most elementary, must be nursed in the lap of mental conception to give it utterance. It then rises into the most grand and lofty pathos, the most sublime and pathetic feeling, the most expressive emotion, and the grandest poetry in all human language. No eloquence or description can equal its imagery of holy matrimony or the purity of its chastity. And then, these were the very genesis of the beginning lessons from the great God of the universe to this world of ours!

And yet we, Bible-men, many of us, so degrade and minify them in their daily use, that we teach our children to rattle off page after page as they would read a narrative of some trivial occurrences of last year!

The great error of this literal reading is that it undertakes to tell us how God made things, and so the reader thinks he knows all about it. The picture of the working is plain before him. Thus he humanizes and localizes the God of heaven, making us entirely too familiar with the Deity.

It is noteworthy that the most of current commentators pass very lightly over these early chapters of Genesis; but later writers of distinction are beginning to read these lessons as they do others, where high figurative expressions are intermingled with literal history. It is best to think of these readings.

Notice.

To the Preachers of the North Mississippi Conference—

DEAR BRETHREN: Will you allow me a word of advice in reference to your missionary money? Get up your collections in full if you can. Put your foreign and domestic missionary money in separate envelopes. Write the name of your district, station or circuit; the amount assessed and the amount paid, and your name on the back of the envelope. Do not bring silver; change it off for paper currency; get the largest bills you can, and save us much trouble. Hand it to the treasurer the first day of Conference, and much oblige. Yours,

J. W. LITER, Treas.

BROOKSVILLE, Mississippi.

North Mississippi Conference.

The class of the fourth year will please meet the committee at Starkville, on Monday, December 10, at one P. M., in the Methodist Episcopal Church, that we may close our examination before Conference opens on December 12.

K. M. HARRISON, Chair'n.

A CENTENNIAL OF WESLEY'S HYMNS.—The one hundredth anniversary of the death of Charles Wesley falls within the present year. The fact seems to have been overlooked until recently. He was born at Epworth, England, where his father was rector, on December 18, 1708, and died in London, March 29, 1788. He was one of the little company at Oxford who were called "Methodists," and has been properly entitled, "the poet of Methodism." His hymns are in the collections of all the churches. "Oh! for a thousand tongues to sing," was one of the earliest, being written probably in May or June, 1737. It has, therefore, inspired Christian hearts for one hundred and fifty years. Who can reckon the influence of his hymns during the past one hundred years? It is now proposed to hold one central meeting in each of the cities of the United States and Great Britain, on Sunday, December 9, to commemorate the benefits which the immortal verses of Charles Wesley have conferred on the church and the world. A pastor suggests that in rural churches on that day, at one service, selections from Wesley's hymns exclusively could be sung, with appropriate remarks relating to their inexpressible value.—Exchange.

Current Coins.

(Sunday-School Times.)

If a man is good for anything he this world, he will die leaving a large share of his planned and attempted work unfinished. Whether he dies early or late, it will make no difference at this point. The more he does, the more he will see that needs doing, and that he thinks he can have a part in. If he should live a century, it would be still the same. Let no man, therefore, worry over the fact that he may die before he has finished the things he has in hand to do. If he should ever come to the point where he has nothing more that he wants to finish before he dies, he would already have lived too long.

(Southern Churchman.)

We keep on praying, "Thy kingdom come," and then think of the degraded Africans and Australians, or the civilized Chinese and Japanese, and wonder how soon Christianity will influence them, and why more missionaries do not go out to them, and why Christians at home do not give more money to send out more missionaries and print more Bibles and establish more schools. It may be some wiser Christians as they pray think as well of home: that just in our neighborhood there are men and women careless and indifferent, who need "the salvation of God" to reach them.

But about "this kingdom coming." Did we ever reflect, when we are trying to live better lives, or to induce our children to live better lives, that both they and we may be more truthful and faithful, more kind and gentle and loving? Then we are answering and helping to answer our prayer, and hastening the coming of the kingdom. Suppose four hundred millions of Chinese enter the everlasting kingdom and we do not! "Thy kingdom comes" as we get better, and influence others to get better.

(Central Christian Advocate.)

We need preachers. Methodism grew from a handful to a host by preaching. The Wesleys and Whitefield were more famous as preachers than scholars or anything else. It was by preaching that they gained the popular attention; not by any of the devices of to-day used to entrap and beguile men into church attendance. And this faculty and call of God to preaching soon made its appearance among the laymen and instituted a new class of efficient workers. All evangelistic agencies have contributed to the spiritual revival of which Methodism was the best expression, but preaching was the weapon that the Holy Spirit used to pierce human hearts. And it is so to-day. The genuine preacher, called of God and endowed by the gift of the Holy Spirit, draws men to his ministry. Zeal without God can not be wasted when it is put in spiritual channels. Preaching includes in its proper definition a living voice condemning sin and pleading with men to become reconciled to Christ. We can not hope to produce a revival worth having by any other method.

(Sunday-School Times.)

A well-read man is a man who has read well. When a person reads aloud, we say that he reads well according as he brings out, in its fullness, the meaning of what he reads. So when we read to ourselves, we read well when we get out of the book what there is in it. Indeed, a truly well-read man will know more of a book, in some ways, than the author himself knew; for there is generally more in a book than the author consciously puts there—as there is sometimes less than he supposes he put there. It is one thing to read a book because we want to get through it; it is another thing to be through it because we wanted to read it. A well-reading man thinks less of getting through a book than of getting a book through him. And it is sometimes better to wholly read half a book than to half read a whole book. The one thing sure is, that unless the book is in some part, or to some worthy purpose, read well, the reader will not, at least so far as that book is concerned, be a well-read man.

(Christian Guardian.)

There is a striking similarity between the laws of bodily health and those of spiritual health. If the body is subject to a severe strain of labor without a sufficient supply of nourishing food, it will become lean and feeble. If it be plenteously supplied with rich food, without proper exercise, it will become heavy and dull. But if it be nourished by suitable food, and given the proper degree of exercise, the body is strengthened and its energy developed till it is capable of its best work. So with the soul's health. If there is spiritual or religious activity without spiritual food, the religious life becomes formal and without vital heart power. If the life is spent in study and devotion, without work, a self-conscious type of religion is produced; if not, a morbid spiritual selfishness. But if the soul is nurtured by the devout and prayerful study of God's Word, while all the powers are actively engaged in labors of faith and love, then the best type of Christian manhood is produced. The world needs well balanced, symmetrical Christians, with level heads as well as true hearts. Cranks in religion may do good, but they do not worthily represent religion to the world.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1888.

THE CROWN OF THE YEAR

(Thanksgiving Day.)

["Thou blessest the springing thereof. Thou crownest the year with thy goodness."—Marginal—"The year of thy goodness."—Psa. lxv. 10, 11.

BY MARTHA LOUISE PUTTS.

Lord, for this crest of thy goodness
We thank thee this hour;
Richer each day is thy bounty
In fruit and in flower!

For sunshine, for storm—as we thank thee,
In each that art done—
With hours and days rich in beauty,
"Thou crownest the year."

For night, with her heavenly glory
For cloud and for stars;
For worlds, in their grandeur rolling
And shining afar;

For dawn, stealing solemn, yet tender,
(Ever midnight's sheen gl ow—
Full type of thy dayspring's full splendor,
Of life from the dead.

Now, when the dark earth lieth sleeping,
Soft mantled in snow,
Her treasures for us she is keeping,
And some time, we know,

There cometh a time of bird's singing,
When flowers appear;
Then, Father, "Thou blessest the springtime,"
And "crownest the year."

For memory's record of mercies
For many a tear
That led us to thee, our sure refuge—
We thank thee this year.

We journeyed thy watch-care attended us,
Over moonlight and sea;
How safe were we in fold guided homeward
Still, Father, by thee!

For prayer fully answered, for promise
So richly fulfilled,
For dangers swept far from our pathway,
And hearts stilled.

For the long as our Father decided us,
Our gratitude be;
Will, blessing held back from our praying,
"Thou crownest the year."

For life, for the love by it's around us
(How true and how dear!),
We thank thee for love, richest treasure,
From crown of the year.

For more than our full hearts can number
(Yet still thou dost hear),
With blessing, this day of all others,
"Thou crownest the year!"

(Vincent and Holway's Lesson Commentary. Phillips & Hunt, New York.)

Sunday-School Lesson.—Dec. 9.

GIDEON'S ARMY.

Judges vii, 1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts.—Zech. iv. 6.

TIME.—Uncertain; from B. C. 1249 to 1200.

PLACE.—The hill of Moreh (Little Hermon).

1. Then—After God had assured Gideon of his presence and help by the double miracle recorded in the previous chapter. Jerubbaal—The name which the Abi-ezrites gave Gideon cleaved to him; but by this time it was transformed into a title of honor, since, instead of being cursed, he was more and more successful. It marked him still as the friend of Jehovah and the enemy of Baal. Who is Gideon—The son of Joash, of the distinguished family of the Abi-ezrites, at Ophrah, in the tribe of Manasseh. He was grown up and had sons, and had obtained the character of "a mighty man of valor." Both the names of Gideon are significant: "Gideon" means he who "cuts down," as destroying idolatry and routing God's enemies: "Jerubbaal" he who challenges Baal to plead, and to show himself, if he can, as a god. All the people ... with him—These were assembled from the neighboring tribes, Manasseh, Asher, Zebulun, and Naphtali. Pitched beside the well of Harod—Or, fountain of trembling. Probably the large fountain Ain Jalud, at the northern base of Mount Gilboa. It is a large pool, forty or fifty feet in diameter, and from it flows, down the valley eastward, a stream strong enough to turn a mill. By this same spring the Israelitish army encamped at a later day, before their disastrous battle with the Philistines, in which Saul was slain. So that the host of the Midianites—The Midianites were a nomadic nation, so called from Midian, son of Abraham and Keturah. They were remarkable not only for the vast number of their cattle, but also for their great wealth in gold and other metal ornaments, showing their connection with a gold country. At this time they were allies of the Amalekites, and of the Arabian tribes called, collectively, "The Children of the East." They seem to have extended their settlements to the east of Jordan, and to have belonged to the larger section of Arabs called "Ishmaelites." By the hill of Moreh—Hebrew, hill of the archer. Probably an eminence in the Gilboa range of mountains, and conjectured to be so called from the archers that there wounded Saul: I Samuel xxxi. 3. In the valley—The valley of Jezreel or Esdraelon.

2. The Lord said unto Gideon—Gideon was accustomed by this time to receive divine communications through the impressions of his soul, as did other holy men when they were inspired: and he had learned to distinguish these from impressions arising from other sources. The people ... are too many—Though the whole army of the Israelites consisted of only 32,000, while that of the Midianites amounted to, at least, 135,000, or four to one of the Israelites, yet the Lord deems this small number entirely too large for the purposes he had in view, and even when diminished to 10,000, orders a still further reduction. The reason of this command is given in what follows. The discharge of so large a number of volunteers by no means implies that they did not do right in willingly offering themselves to the expedition: the act of enlisting in the service was proper and commendable, but God saw that the spirit by which they were actuated was. In multitudes of them, defective, and, therefore, so ordered it that they should be put to the test, while at the same time he secured to his own great name the entire glory of the victory. Lest Israel vaunt themselves—Not only did the sacred literature of Israel throughout attribute all deliverances to Jehovah, but many of them were so clearly beyond the reach of human skill or foresight that no other explanation was possible.

3. Proclaim in the ears of the people—The appeal which Gideon is here directed to make to the army was prescribed in the law for every war in which the Israelites should be engaged, and its general object was to fortify the spirit of the army by removing the cowardly and the despondent. But in the case before us the intention of the Lord was to deprive his people of all ground for self-glorification. Depart early from Mount Gilead—As Gilead was beyond Jordan, the mention of Gilead involves a difficulty, one solution of which is, that by a copyist's blunder Gilead has been substituted for Gilboa, which could not have been far off. But the LXX. has Gilead, so that the error must have arisen very early; and, as Joshua xvii. 3, shows, some of Gilead's descendants dwell on the western side of Jordan. There might, therefore, have been a Mount Gilead in western Manasseh. There returned ... twenty and two thousand—The application of a rigid test is apt to make thinning work in the ranks of God's professed friends.

4. The people are yet too many—It is hardly possible to conceive a severer trial of faith than that to which Gideon's was now subjected. While he doubtless thought his men too few, God saw that they were too many, and ordered a still further reduction. Bring them down unto the water—The spring of Harod, and the stream that flowed from it. I will try them for thee—The word used for refining metals by separating the dross from the pure ore. Of whomsoever I say, etc. In the first instance the thirons were separated by public proclamation; in the present, the same effect was to be produced by a private signal, understood only by God and his servant Gideon. Multitudes had remained rather than to incur the imputation of cowardice, whom the Most High still saw to be cravens at heart.

5. Every one that lappeth ... with his tongue—This mode of drinking is often practiced in the East, and practice alone can give that peculiar tact which generally excites the wonder of travelers. The interchange of the hand between the water and the mouth is managed with amazing dexterity, and with nearly or quite as much rapidity as the tongue of the dog in the same act. The water is not sucked out of the hand, but by a peculiar jerk it is thrown into the mouth before the hand is brought close to it, so that the hand is approaching with a fresh supply almost before the preceding has been swallowed, which constitutes another resemblance to the action of the dog's tongue. It has been much disputed whether the moral qualities of those who drank were shown by their lapping and bowing down upon their knees respectively, or whether it was entirely an arbitrary division. But it can scarcely be doubted that those who threw themselves on the ground and drank freely were the more self-indulgent, while those who, remembering the near presence of the enemy, slaked their thirst with moderation, and, without being off their guard for an instant, were the true soldiers of the army of God.

6, 7. Number of them that lapped ... three hundred—A small fraction of the ten thousand tested, and an insignificant band as compared with the one hundred and thirty-five thousand Midianites with whom they were to join battle, but more than enough with God going forth with them. The Lord said unto Gideon—In proportion to the difficulty of the task intrusted to Gideon, God was pleased to support his faith by distinct promises. It is scarcely possible to conceive a severer trial than the command to attack the overwhelming forces of the enemy with such a handful of followers. But Gideon's faith in the divine assurance of victory was steadfast, and it is for this he is so highly commended. By I save you—You, the nation; the word being in the plural. Let all the other people go—"All the people," after taking out the three hundred men—that is to say, the nine thousand seven hundred that remained. Left with but three hundred men, Gideon was directed to make his attack, but he was also upheld by the promise of God, who, in confirmation of it, permitted him to steal down in the darkness to the camp of the enemy and listen to what he could hear. He and his servant accordingly went to the outer line of the invading host. As they stepped cautiously, perhaps, near a tent they heard one of those within relating a dream which he had just dreamed, and the one to whom this dream was told began to interpret it. The barley cake, a kind of bread used only by the poorest, represented the Israelites tilling the soil, and reduced by the rapacity of their foes to this kind of food. Its rolling from the height represented the descent of the Israelites from Gideon's encampment on the mountain. The utter overthrow of the tent, probably that in which the talkers lay, represented the utter defeat of the invaders. The incident had a twofold comfort for Gideon. It was an evident arrangement on the part of God to teach him from the mouth of an enemy, and it was also a proof that the Midianites and their allies were already affected by fear of the thirty-two thousand with which he had hung on the mountain near them.

8. The people took victuals—That is, the three hundred that lapped. They took the necessary quantity of victuals for the day's consumption, while the others were dismissed to their tents—that is, to go where they pleased. It is highly probable, however, that many of them remained within hearing, though at a safe distance, and followed up the blow after the assault had been made and the rout commenced by the select band. Those who share the conflict are often forward to share the victory. And their trumpets—So that each of the three hundred should have a trumpet and a pitcher. This explains how the three hundred came to have each a trumpet, and a pitcher, and a lamp. Gideon took them from the whole army of nine thousand seven hundred men before he dismissed them. His attack was made at midnight. The three hundred men were divided into three companies, and they seem to have stretched in a line nearly or quite around the enemy's camp, the men placed at considerable distance one from another, as the object was not to fight, but to terrify. The stratagem of Gideon, or rather of God, was simple. The torches were concealed in the large pitchers, or bread jars, until the men had taken their stations, so that their movement might not be detected. It was the duty of the leader of a band to blow the trumpet and give a war-cry. By him, in a night attack, stood a torch-bearer to light the way and guide the soldiers, so that they might always know where to find the leader; the torch at night was like the banner by day. Three hundred trumpets and torches represented three hundred companies of troops. The breaking of the jars, the outflashing of the lights, the deafening blare of trumpets on every side, aroused the enemy from sleep. The Israelites seemed, by the many lights and trumpets, to be present in overwhelming numbers. Each heathen, in the darkness, mistook his neighbor for a foe. They slew one another. The panic was universal. The invaders, encumbered with women and children and plunder of flocks and herds, as nomadic invaders are always encumbered, fled in confusion and scattered over the country, throughout which Gideon immediately sent runners to arouse the people. The fords of the Jordan were seized by the Israelites, and the destruction of the invaders was complete.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

God has in training chosen leaders for every emergency in his church; when the hour comes the man appears.

"Many who have real faith and grace are unfit for special services and unable to bear peculiar trials; from which, therefore, the Lord will exempt them, and to which he will appoint those to whom he has given superior hardiness, boldness, and firmness of spirit."—Scott.

Parsonage Societies—And How We Organized.

"Don't fail to go to the Christian Woman's Exchange," said a friend as I took the train, by way of Queen and Crescent railroad, for New Orleans, last summer.

The suggestion was a good one, I thought; and I was confirmed in that opinion when I met the lovely Christian women who preside over that institution, so indispensable to your great city.

"Ladies preferred."—I might say, "Single ladies preferred"! Think of the delightful feeling of "make-yourself-at-home-ativeness" that greets a stranger, the protection thrown around one by the presence of these Christian ladies, the sense of perfect security when you know—in a home of temperance like this—nothing can "molest or make you afraid"! The thought of such a place for women was surely an inspiration! You have hundreds of houses of entertainment for men only in your great city, but they are differently organized, and the articles of merchandise which they deal out are wonderfully unlike the skillful and beautiful display to be found at the Christian Woman's Exchange.

We had been shopping several days. Coming in one day, and seeing a number of packages on the table, the most natural thing in the world was to inspect our purchases—all women do this. There was one package too many. Looking for the name on the outside, I saw: "Miss M. B——;" a long name in three syllables. The name was surely a familiar one; but where had I ever heard it before? Now, I remembered: I had corresponded with that lady in regard to "church extension." I forgot all about the shopping, took the parcel in my hand, and ran down-stairs to find the owner. In a few minutes she came in. After a pleasant greeting, I said: "I sought this opportunity, Miss B——, to inquire into your method of organizing parsonage societies. Will you tell me by what means you succeeded?"

"Certainly, I will tell you with pleasure. In the first place, I have made it the rule of my life never to decline anything the church asks me to undertake. I had worked against seeming impossibilities in forming missionary societies and never failed, so I accepted the office of district secretary at once, and went to work heartily. I wrote to about fifteen preachers in my district, and"—

"How many replied?" I asked anxiously.

"Not one!"

"Well, what then?"

"I wrote next to the fifteen wives of those fifteen preachers."

"Ah, yes," said I; "I see how you managed. You had replies, then, from how many?"

"Not one!" said Miss B——, sadly.

"Well, is that all?"

"Oh, no!—I was not so easily discouraged. I obtained the name of one prominent lady in each of those fifteen congregations, and wrote urgent letters in behalf of the work of buildings preachers' homes."

"Oh, I see!—the third time was the charm," I said, greatly relieved. "And how many did you say responded?"

"Not one!" came the refrain; this time very sadly.

I was reminded of

"Quoth the Raven, 'Nevermore!'"

"Too bad," said I. "And what then?"

"Well," she said, "I continued writing until I used $5 in postage; then I reflected that it would have been better expended in a missionary society, and asked to be relieved of the duties of the office; and that is the way I organized."

"But," said Miss B——, with a sudden light in her eye, "you have not yet told me how you organized?"

"That is soon told," I said. "I wrote it once to fifteen preachers in our district"—

"And had no reply?"

"Yes, I had one letter, a postal card and a message."

"Well, what did you do?"

"I asked my own pastor to appoint a time to organize, knowing it would be necessary to 'preach this gospel first "at home;"' for fear of the old adage, you know. He said he thought there was a poor prospect; but agreed to make an effort 'after awhile'! I waited several weeks, and asked him when he thought we could organize. He said: 'After the visit of Bishop Galloway and Dr. Morton might be a better time.' I waited. After these brethren came and left, I asked my preacher when we could organize? He said he was going away to be absent several weeks, to 'wait until his return.' I waited! After he came back, I asked him when he thought we could organize. He said it was to late; it would be better to 'wait till fall'!"

"Did you wait?"

"No. I said: 'Now or never!' And seeing the matter was growing serious, he said: 'Well, then, next Sunday?' And I said: 'Yes; next Sunday.'"

"Did you organize?"

"Yes."

"How many members?"

"Seventy-five."

"Did you attempt to organize anywhere else?"

"I had letters from Mrs. Jones and Miss Helm, urging the necessity of the work, and saying the year's report would be extended to the fifteen of March. I determined to see what could be done away from home, and engaged the services of Sister W—— to visit the charge of Bro. L. (who had written 'the letter'), while I took the train in an opposite direction to see what could be done in Bro. R's congregation (the writer of the postal). My train was delayed several hours, so I did not reach my destination until twelve o'clock at night. I found a carriage waiting to take me some distance into the country. The rain had been pouring in torrents all day, and still continued to descend, the night was 'pitch-dark,' and, I confess, as I took that ride (a strong March wind soughing its melancholy accompaniment to the 'swish-swash' of the water on the road as the carriage wheeled along, my only escort as sable as the night itself) some dark misgivings as to my call to this work took possession of my fears—I won't say, of my mind—and rather suggested that this was carrying things a little too far. The next day I 'gave to the wind my fears,' for it was a bright day, though too March for church-goers generally. Bro. R. preached a practical sermon on the line of church work—a splendid introduction for a talk on parsonage societies; all the difficulties out of the way, there would be no trouble in organizing there. At the close, Bro. R. said: 'After the congregation is dismissed, Sister —— will organize a parsonage society.'"

"Well, what could you do?"

"Of course, out of respect to the 'stranger in their midst' a handful remained. I organized with five or six members, three of whom were not present. Next day, after being detained by a delayed train six hours away from my thirty pupils, and knowing that work had to be made, I came home. All the way I comforted myself for my poor success with the thought that Sister W—— would have a better report to make. As soon as I was released from school, I hastened to her with the eager inquiry. She said: 'Oh! I did not attempt to organize at all; Bro. L. said it would not be worth while!'"

All this time Miss B—— listened with a puzzled appearance, as if she were trying in vain to solve a problem. Presently she asked: "To what do you attribute our failure?"

"I have thought much about it," I said. "There are two reasons: the women of the church have so many societies already on their hands; they feel unequal to any more. I am a member of three missionary societies myself, and the Temperance Union. Besides, there is the Humane Society, Wesleyan Aid, and other constant demands for active work."

"And the other reason?" said Miss B——.

"The preachers themselves have not given this work their support. Without the help of the minister, nothing will ever be accomplished."

"Do you think this department of church extension will ever be established?"

"Certainly it will. You surely have not forgotten the difficulties encountered in organizing our missionary societies a few years ago."

"Do you think any plan more feasible than the one we have adopted?"

"I sometimes think it would be better to incorporate it with our missionary work in this way: The women you expect to aid you in the parsonage societies are the women who are already members of the missionary society. If, instead of forming separate societies, the request should be made that each member add a third to her yearly contributions, I believe the end would be accomplished in half the time. Almost any woman who gives $2 a year to foreign missions, would give $1 more to this department of home work."

"How do you account for the fact that the preachers themselves do not take hold of this department of our work?"

"They are not as indifferent as they seem; but they have already so much to do on hand, and they do not feel responsible. If, like Bishop Galloway, they could go out to the border-land and see for themselves, they would not rest at night for thinking of such men as Bro. Methvin and their uncomfortable homes. I doubt if a single minister in the whole Mississippi Conference has asked his congregation for a contribution towards their relief."

"Will there be no report of 'parsonage extension' from any district in the Mississippi Conference?"

"If there is a district where the preachers have had a word of encouragement, or given any aid to the women in this work, I suppose there will be some report."

"What became of your society of seventy-five members?"

"It died a natural death during the summer vacation."

Just here this exchange of experiences was interrupted by the announcement of, "Time for trains on Illinois Central and Mississippi Valley railroads!" and these two vanquished secretaries put on their bonnets, and went each her way, thinking many things of "how we did not organize parsonage societies."

Mr. Editor, you have a faculty in this direction. Can you suggest to every preacher in these five districts to preach one sermon on this department of woman's work, and take a collection between this and Conference? If they will bring as much as $75 from each district, I know of, at least, another donation of $50 to supplement that amount. The reputation of the Conference will be redeemed, and Bro. Methvin will have, at least, two comfortable rooms at his disposal this winter. Many sympathizers will be rejoiced, and none more so than this most unsuccessful

DISTRICT SECRETARY.

"Bishop Pierce on Small Districts."

On page 83, of the "Life and Times of George F. Pierce," by Rev. G. G. Smith, there appears this sentence after the statement that when he was presiding elder in 1837 he only had ten appointments in his district—"He was always an advocate for small districts and much service from the presiding elder, and was of the opinion that the waning popularity of the office was mainly due to the over-size of the districts and the scant services to each charge."

These are wise words, and in these days of over-size districts they ought to be prayerfully considered. Nearly all our districts are too large. In the North Mississippi Conference the rule is from sixteen to eighteen appointments, a few districts falling below that number. The presiding elder is compelled to give one week-day and sometimes two week-day quarterly meetings to each pastoral charge, and our people are not satisfied with such scant service.

Years ago the quarterly meeting service was a great occasion, and the people expected great results from the preaching of the Word and the other means of grace during the quarterly meeting; but in many places it amounts to no more than an ordinary service by the pastor, with the addition of the quarterly payments. I do not disparage the work of our presiding elders. They are abundant in labors, self-sacrificing and consecrated in their lives; but they have too much to do. No presiding elder ought to have more that twelve appointments. This would leave him four Sundays to spare. And I believe our pastoral charges would willingly pay more to the presiding elders if they could give them more service. I long to see the day when our districts are made smaller. There ought to be ten districts instead of eight in the North Mississippi Conference, and ten presiding elders would be as well or better supported than the eight are now, because the people would pay more for additional service.

Bishop Pierce held these views in after years, for when he held the North Georgia Conference, a short time before his death, he increased the number of districts from ten to thirteen. Give us back the old rule of Saturday and Sunday quarterly meetings, and it will do much toward regaining the popularity of the office.

T. W. LEWIS.

From the Work.

MERIDIAN CIRCUIT.

MR. EDITOR: Conference is close at hand, and we are busily engaged trying to get ready to meet the demands that are made upon us, and greet our brethren who have borne the true message of God in their different fields of labor. Some of our brethren since our last Conference have been called by God to their home above, where they shall rest from their labors, and their influence will still go on. Thank God for the memory of such soldiers of the cross!

I had the pleasure of being with Bro. Campbell in the bounds of Paulding circuit, at Rose Hill, where a flourishing school is being carried on, conducted by our young brother, Thomas Nace. During my short stay there, I assisted Bro. Campbell with a meeting, which I considered was a grand victory over the evil one. During one hour's services there were twenty-four conversions and nine accessions to the church. And to see the teacher and students and older ones praising God together, is something to rejoice over.

I expect to move into the parsonage on this circuit in a few days. We have used every effort to get everything completed by Conference. We have located the parsonage near Wamuta Factory, where the Enterprise and Hickory road crosses the Meridian road. We have forty-one acres of land and a nice house, consisting of four rooms. We have not got everything fixed up yet, but will have soon if we keep our health. I have been almost prostrated during the past week with toothache; but, having applied cold iron to it, times are better now.

I now take this opportunity to say to many of my friends who live out of the bounds of this circuit, that we feel thankful to them for their help on our parsonage. We are trying to pay as we go. I think during the year 1889 the parsonage on this work will be furnished with everything needed. I had presented to me a few days ago a nice sewing machine for the parsonage, by a young lady. I think every parsonage should be nicely furnished. We are having good meetings. Pray for us.

L. J. JONES, P. C.

AN UPRIGHT LIFE.—Nothing is more certain than that human conduct produces its effect upon human character and determines its future weal or woe. Virtue and uprightness give the pure heart and clear conscience, whose working is an ample reward for effort and sacrifice. Vice and wrong inevitably leave their marks on the soul and tend to misery. Retribution follows, as the night the day, upon human action. Goodness hath its reward; sin hath its punishment.

A Crusade for Missions.

BY A. T. PIERSON, D. D.

The time seems to me to have fully come for some new movement, which I can call by no other name, and for that crusade I solemnly appeal to my brethren in the pastorate to set themselves apart.

The evangelization of the world is a problem so grave and so great that it demands men, in a peculiar, if not an exclusive sense, devoted to it. The church needs to be aroused, quickened, stimulated, to new endeavor, prayer, consecration, giving, if we are to overtake the present generation with the gospel. To do this work of arousing the church information must be gathered, facts collated and marshaled in effective array, and then presented with readiness of memory and of utterance, with the unique power and force that come from a mind and heart on fire with intelligent zeal and holy enthusiasm. For this work who are naturally fitted as are the devoted pastors of the churches? They are the leaders of church life and church work; their contact with the people is constant, and their touch is sympathetic; they are in the very position to take up such work with every advantage and hope of success.

Of course, such a work demands a special training. There are certain lines of study and research, personal acquaintance with missionaries and mission fields, providential contact with the work at a hundred points of approach, and the habit of advocating missions, which are requisite for the fullest measure of preparation to carry on such a crusade; but no man has the chance of such university training in the school of missions so available to him as the pastor. He whose yearnings and leanings are in this direction will unconsciously develop power in the work.

Nothing is more imperatively needed at this precise emergency, the crisis of missions, than a generation of such pastoral crusaders. There is no need of abandoning the pulpit and parish to enter upon such a crusade. The churches need not even be neglected, left unshepherded, unsheltered, like a scattered flock, in order that a pastor may go about, like Peter the Hermit, on missionary tours. The pastor must care for the flock, of course. But there is a larger, broader work for Christ than any individual church presents, and every minister of Christ owes somewhat to the church at large. He ought to feel and recognize the call to ministerial service to the whole body of Christ, and seek training for that larger service.

I am persuaded that in most cases a man is more effective as a pleader for missions who is making such appeals to only one branch of a general work for Christ and his church. We need to remember that the pastoral office is the first and highest in the church. Its forms of activity are so manifold and multiform, that it cultivates every part of the man; every faculty finds employment. To do the work of preacher and pastor, instead of making a man narrow, broadens him. His very appeals for special causes, such as home missions, foreign missions, city evangelization, are rendered only more effective by his not becoming a mere specialist, absorbed in one particular subject or object. The tendency of doing only one thing is to be short-sighted, and see only one interest, and so unduly magnify that one object. A specialist in benevolence is apt to loose breadth of view, width of sympathy, and he can not make up for such lack by mere length of tongue. The two great qualities, "audibility and volubility," may be enough for some men, but they do not prove sufficient for holding and rousing the people.

I would not have pastors abandon their flocks and folds to enter the new crusade for missions. How often have we observed that a pastor who is a powerful advocate of some one or all of the benevolent agencies of the church degenerates as soon as he becomes a secretary of a Board or an agent. He gets formal, official, a mere functionary. And because he is expected to magnify his office, and exaggerate the relative importance of the cause he represents, he loses power with the people.

Hence, in order to be more useful in pleading for missions, it may be well for a man to keep out of all official relations with a Board or a society in all ordinary cases. It takes a really extraordinary man to keep out of the trammels of a perfunctory routine. For myself, I have sedulously avoided all such complications, preferring to be, first of all, a preacher and pastor, and, as such, whenever God gives opportunity, and as he gives ability, lift up my voice for every true, noble and effective form of church beneficence, with no fetters on my tongue or my independence. To do the best work in missions, it is best for me, and probably for most men, to remain pastors; and their words will have all the more spontaneity, enthusiasm and real power when they speak not as agents or secretaries, but as pastors.

* * * * * * *

Brethren of the ministry, much as we need missionaries on the foreign field, we need, even more, missionary pastors on the home field. We need men who shall make it a business to keep themselves thoroughly informed as to the progress of the Lord's work and the great missionary campaign. Such men inspire a whole church, lift it to a higher level, quicken intelligence and arouse zeal. They are the true and powerful pleaders for missions. Give us more of such men—men who can make a monthly concert an inspiring occasion, men who not only take an annual missionary collection or preach an annual missionary sermon, but whose every prayer and discourse and pastoral visit is fragrant with the spirit of missions. Then we shall have a true missionary revival, and the pulse of a sluggish church shall beat with new life, and a new missionary era shall dawn.—Missionary Review.

An Appalling Drink Bill.

Verily, Americans are a thirsty people. The national drink bill is simply enormous, and, per capita, far exceeds that of any other people on earth. We plume ourselves over the yearly increasing strength of the prohibition movement, and boast of the number of States that are passing prohibitory laws, but the bad fact remains that we are pre-eminent for bibulous capacity. Take this one fact alone as the startling evidence of what we mean: During 1887 the average consumption for every man over 21 years of age in the United States amounted, in round numbers, to 60 gallons of beer and 6 gallons of whisky, which cost to the consumer at retail $84, or a grand total paid by the manhood of the nation of ($1,000,000,000) one thousand million dollars for whisky and beer! Fancy it! We are paying enough for two drinks alone to create a thousand millionaires every year! This account does not include wine, brandy, rum, gin, vinegar bitters, American drinks, soda water, ice-cream, etc. There is no question about the correctness of the data given. Any schoolboy can work out the calculation, and it is worth the while of all school-boys (and of old boys, too, for the matter of that) to work it out. The Bureau of Statistics at Washington gives the following figures, which, of course, are official and reliable: Malt liquors consumed during 1887 in the United States (we drop the odd figures), 720,000,000 gallons; distilled spirits of home manufacture consumed during the same period, 72,000,000 gallons. It is a fair estimate of the prices realized over the bar to say that beer costs the consumer 80 cents per gallon and whisky $6 per gallon. It follows that the drinkers of the nation paid $1,008,000,000 for beer and home-made spirits (almost wholly whisky) during the fiscal year last past. Taking the total male adult population at about what it is, namely, 12,000,000, it results that the men of the nation are paying an average of $84 per head per annum for the whisky and beer they drink. It is a stupendous and appalling account. As a people, we put into our months drinks that largely steal our brains away, which cost us $3,000,000 during every twenty-four hours, Sunday and week-day; or three times the entire revenue (the obnoxious surplus and all) collected by the United States government. This money, if applied to railroad building, would, at the rate of $25,000 a mile, give us no less than thirteen trans-continental railroads every year. If devoted to purposes of travel, it would enable every man in the United States to enjoy a two-months' trip to Europe once in every three years. It would pay off all that remains of the nation's indebtedness in fifteen months. Within fifteen years the amount of our national drink bill would suffice to extinguish the obligations of every government on this globe of ours, and leave the nations of the earth free from debt. Our beer and whisky money, if saved and invested every half-year in government three per cents., would provide a fund more than sufficient to give every child hereafter born in the United States a fortune of $10,000 upon arriving at the age of 21 years. Then, again, our drinking capacity is on the increase all the time. In 1840 we consumed of malt liquors, per capita, one and thirty-six-hundredths gallons. This consumption has gone on enlarging in an ever-increasing ratio, until, in 1887, it reached within a fraction of 12 gallons per capita. In 1870 we were able to drink but three and one-fifth gallons per capita, so that our beer drinking capacity almost quadrupled within seventeen years; and the end is not yet. If the consequential or indirect damage account were charged upon our national drink bill, how vastly the sum total would be enlarged! The hours lost to productive labor through drink, the bushels of grain turned to an inferior purpose, the cost of jails, etc., who shall tell?—San Francisco News Letter.

Death Sentence of the Savior.

The following is said to be the sentence of death, word for word, pronounced against Jesus Christ:

Sentence pronounced by Pontius Pilate, lieutenant of the lower province of Galilee, that Jesus of Nazareth shall suffer death by the cross. In the seventeenth year of the reign of Emperor Tiberius, and on the 24th day of the month, in the most holy city of Jerusalem, during the pontificate of Annas and Caiaphas.

Pontius Pilate, lieutenant of the Province of Lower Galilee, sitting to judgment in the presidential seat of the Prætors, sentences Jesus of Nazareth to death on a cross between robbers, as the numerous and notorious testimonies of the people prove:

1. Jesus is a misleader.
2. He has excited the people to sedition.
3. He is an enemy to the laws.
4. He calls himself the Son of God.
5. He calls himself, falsely, the King of Israel.
6. He went to the temple followed by a multitude carrying palms in their hands.

Orders from the first centurion Quirillis Cornelius to bring him to the place of execution. Forbids all persons, rich or poor, to prevent the execution of Jesus.

The witnesses who have signed the execution of Jesus are:

1. Daniel Robani, Pharisee.
2. John Zorobabie.
3. Raphael Robani.
4. Capet.

Jesus to be taken out of Jerusalem through the gate of Tournes.

The sentence was engraved on plates of brass in the Hebrew language and a copy sent to each tribe. Le Droit gives the following explanation of the discovery and subsequent history of one of the plates: It was discovered in the year 1280 in the city of Aquilla, in the kingdom of Naples, by a search made for Roman antiquities, and remained there until it was found by the Commission of Arts in the French army in Italy. Up to the time of the campaign in Southern Italy it was preserved by the sacristy of the Carthusians, near Naples, where it was kept in a box of ebony. Since then the relic has been kept in the chapel of Caserta. The Carthusians obtained, by their petitions, permission that the plate might be kept by them, which was an acknowledgment of the sacrifices which they made for the French army. The French translation was made literally by members of the Commission of Arts. Denon had a fac-simile of the plate engraved, which was bought by Lord Howard on the sale of his cabinet for 2,890 francs. There seems to be no historical doubt as to the authenticity of this. The reasons of the sentence correspond exactly with those given in the gospel.—The Expositor.

Ancient Thanksgiving Days.

Thanksgiving Day was suggested, doubtless, by the Hebrew feast of the tabernacles, or "feast of ingathering at the end of the year." Its history in America begins as early as 1621. The occasional observance of such a day, formally recommended by the civil authorities, was not unusual in Europe at an earlier date. In Holland the first anniversary of the deliverance of the city of Leyden from the siege, October 3, 1575, was kept as a religious festival of thanksgiving and praise. In the English Church service, the fifth of November is so celebrated, in commemoration of the discovery of the gunpowder plot.

One of the most remarkable thanksgiving customs on record prevailed at Southampton and Easthampton, Long Island. Montauk Point, which consists of 9,000 acres, was owned by numerous proprietors in these towns, and used as a common pasturage for stock. The time of driving the herds home to winter was fixed at a meeting by the town council, "and it came," says the historian, "to be a rule from the period beyond which the memory of man runneth not, that the Thursday of the week following the return of the cattle from Montauk should be observed as a day of thanksgiving."

At an early period of New England history, certain periods of prosperity were often made the occasions of public thanksgivings or feasts, and often a day of fasting and prayer was turned into a day of thanksgiving by what seemed an immediate answer to their prayers. Perhaps, to recall to our minds that first Thanksgiving of the Pilgrim Fathers may put us to the blush. Often on this day have I heard such remarks as, "I have no thanks to give; I have nothing for which to be thankful," from lips that it would seem might have had a life's work in framing words of praise and gratitude, so blessed were they in the health of themselves and their dear ones, while for some fancied trouble this great good was quite overlooked.—Table Talk.

A Blessed State of Affairs.

It is a blessed state of affairs when good becomes contagious; when the endeavor to achieve one object accomplishes many. Favorable results sometimes get into occult sympathy with an established instance of their kind and follow with that persistency which sometimes characterizes extremes of good and bad luck, and accounts for the expression, "It never rains but it pours." For instance:

DANVILLE, Des Moines Co., Io., July 11, '88.

Compound Oxygen saved my life by the blessing of God.

MRS. S. A. SWAN.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 14, 1888.

If it had not been for Compound Oxygen I would have been under the sod. C. H. SPANGLER.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 21, 1888.

I fully believe that Compound Oxygen saved my son's life.

M. A. TURNER.

SUFFOLK, Va., July 10, 1888.

I have used your Compound Oxygen and have been greatly benefited thereby. L. S. WHALEY.

We publish a brochure regarding the effect of Compound Oxygen on invalids suffering from consumption, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, catarrh, hay-fever, headache, debility, rheumatism, neuralgia; all chronic and nervous disorders. It will be sent, free of charge, to anyone addressing DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.; or 331 Montgomery street, San Francisco, Cal.

DON'T SWEAR.—It is not an evidence of smartness or worldly wisdom. Any fool can swear, and a good many fools do it. Ah! if you could only gather up all the useless, uncalled-for, ineffective oaths that have dropped along the pathway of my life, I know it would remove stumbling-blocks from many inexperienced feet, and my heart would be lighter by a ton than it is to-day. But if you are going to be a fool just because other men have been, my son, what a hopeless fool you will be!

MISCELLANEOUS.

Catarrh

May affect any portion of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, and the most liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength and health. If you suffer from catarrh, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ringing Noises

Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." Mrs. G. B. Gann, 1029 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures Catarrh

"I was troubled with that annoying disease, nasal catarrh, and never found relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. L. Routt, Marksburg, Ky. N. B. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists, $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Mechanics, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., No. 4 So. Sixth St., St. Louis, Mo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Tutt's Pills

stimulate the torpid liver, strengthen the digestive organs, regulate the bowels, and are unequaled as an anti-bilious medicine. In

Malarial Districts

their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. This popular remedy rarely fails to effectually cure

Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness

and all disorders arising from a Torpid Liver and Bad Digestion.

A Proclamation!

Dr. I. Guy Lewis, Fulton, Ark., says: "A year ago I had bilious fever; Tutt's Pills were so highly recommended that I used them. Never did medicine have a happier effect. After a practice of a quarter of a century, I proclaim them the best medicine ever used. I always prescribe them in my practice."

ANTI-BILIOUS

Sold Everywhere.

Office, 44 Murray St. New York.

Tutt's Manual of Useful Receipts sent Free

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-two years of age.

Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. RUFUS FIGH.

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing (had years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mole by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure.

W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS. J. BUCKLEY,

471 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 17, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

HENRY V. MIELLY.

With Rice, Horn & Co., 77 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.

Microbes Cause All Diseases

WM. RADAMS'

Microbe Killer

Cures All Diseases.

This bold assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

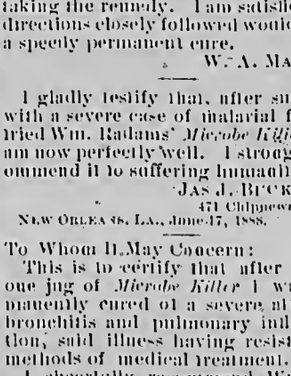
M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,

149 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

RICHARDSON & BOYNTON Co.'s

"PERFECT"

HOT-WATER HEATER.



"PERFECT" HOT-WATER HEATER.

(The Most Powerful Water Heater ever Constructed.)

Has 2½ times more Square Feet of Hot-Water Fire Surface; hence capable of Heating more Square Feet of Radiation than any Heater ever made.

J. H. AITKEN & CO., 110 Camp street, Sole Southern Agents.

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free

Mention the Advocate when you write.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS

(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
No. 1.....7:00 am	No. 2.....5:00 pm
No. 3.....6:35 pm	No. 1.....8:00 am
No. 7.....10:00 am	No. 8.....3:45 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:55 am	No. 1 Fast Ex.. 7:00 am
No. 1 Fast Ex.. 7:00 pm	No. 3 Cincin.. 3:40 pm
No. 5 Cincin.. 9:05 am	No. 5 Lim. Ex.. 5:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r, 11:00 pm	No. 2 Passen'r, 9:15 am
No. 3 Mix. and	No. 4 St. Louis
N. O. Lim.... 7:30 am	and Chic. Ex. 5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 California Express. 7:50 pm	No. 51 California Express. 8:35 am
B. Rouge, local. 10:00 am	B. Rouge, local. 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 4:25 pm	No. 18 Locals.. 7:20 pm
No. 17 Locals.... 8:55 am	No. 20 Califor.. 11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.

(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 1, Lim'd ..11:00 am	No. 2, Lim'd.....3:35 pm
No. 5, Fast Line. 8:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line.. 9:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.

(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line. 6:30 am | No. 6, Fast Line.. 9:00 pm

P. AND E. EAST LA.

(Addis Springs.)

Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:00 pm

Sunday Schedule.

Arrive.....7:25 pm | Leave.....7:30 am

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. C. SHEPARD,

49 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE all kinds.

House Furnishing Store, Cheap as the Cheapest.

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

$300 to $500 a month made by working for us. We guarantee energetic persons $300 a Year, with the opportunity of making 6 times that amount. Men who can furnish their own horses preferred. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Bellowny & Co., 112 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

ALL BOOKS at Wholesale to members of the Book Buyer's Bureau. Membership free. AGENTS WANTED to solicit members. Send 2c stamp for catalogue and information to R. H. Woodward & Co., Baltimore, Md.

$75 to $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing (a saving of from $3.00 to $4.00) by subscribing for

THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

—AND—

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR

—FOR—

$3.25 (THREE TWENTY-FIVE).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, COMBINING ARTISTIC, SCIENTIFIC, AND HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon order entitling the holder to the selection of any pattern illustrated in the fashion department in that number, and in any of the sizes manufactured, making patterns during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the best TWO Dollar Family Magazine issued. 1888 will be the Twenty third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so extensively as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8 x 11½ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York,

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Christian Advocate at $3.25 Per Year

Church & School Bells

SIZES AND PRICES.

Diam. Weight with Cost of Bell & Bell frame Hung'd

No. 6, 27 in...230 lbs...$25
No. 7, 30 in...340 lbs...30
No. 8, 34 in...470 lbs...40
No. 9, 38 in...625 lbs...50
No. 10, 42 in...790 lbs...65
No. 11, 46 in...990 lbs...80
No. 12, 50 in...1225 lbs...100

Remember & Co., Seneca Falls, N. Y., U.S.A.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

McShane Bell Foundry

Finest Grade of Bells.

H. McSHANE & CO., Baltimore, Md.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents baldness and hair falling. 50c. and $1 at druggists.

CANCER and Tumors CURED; no knife; book free. Drs. GRATIGNY & ROSS, No. 165 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:
REV. J. D. CARLTON, REV. H. CARRADINE, D.D.
REV. W. L. C. BUSSCUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1888.

Briefs.

In the olden times there was a man who thought that the best possessions of life were the gifts of God. We read of this singular man in Genesis xxviii, 10-22. In, perhaps, a still older time there was a man who thought that the best possession of life was God himself. We read of this most singular man in Job i, 21.

The statistics of the Virginia Conference are as follows:

Local preachers, 155; colored members, 62; white members, 71,425; infants baptized, 1,471; adults baptized, 2,634; Sunday-schools, 761; teachers, 8,452; scholars, 54,309; church edifices, 721—value, $1,515,277; parsonages, 111—value, $208,290; raised for Conference collection, $8,431 51. Contributed for missions: Foreign, $16,752; domestic, $9,886 49. Contributed for church extension, $3,418 56.

The statistics of the Memphis Conference are:

Number of local preachers, 220; white members, 44,958; colored members, 45; total increase, 2,613; infants baptized, 811; adults baptized, 2,652; number of Sunday-schools, 435; Sunday-school teachers, 3,155; Sunday-school scholars, 26,238; collected for superannuated preachers, etc., $3,265 89; collected for foreign missions, $9,200 92; domestic missions, $2,124 25; number of churches, 446; value of churches, $593,771; number of parsonages, 56; value of parsonages, $63,682 50. Educational statistics: Number of schools, 9; number of scholars, 883; value of school property, $75,500; raised for education, $5,313 75.

The statistics of the West Texas Conference, as given by the Texas Advocate, are as follows:

Number of local preachers, 103; members, 11,589; adults baptized, 586—infants, 591; number of churches, 97—value, $144,195; number of parsonages, 40—value, $27,585; value of other church property, $19,601 60; money expended on churches and parsonages, $10,167 35; paid presiding elders, $3,347 30; preachers in charge, $24,191 40; Bishops, $263 50; Conference claimants, $2,215 65; other objects, $2,111 79; number of Sunday-schools, 136; officers and teachers, 955; scholars, 6,499; money expended for Sunday-school literature, $2,267 13; paid for foreign missions, $2,253 70; domestic missions, $2,196 30; for church extension, $390 95; for education, $519 70; for Bible cause, $96 85.

Our readers have already been apprised of the fact that Mr. Daniel Hand has given $1,000,000 to the American Missionary Association for the education of young colored people in the South. They may now wish to know what that association is doing among us. Here are some of the figures: It has in the South 58 schools, with 9,896 pupils; 131 churches, with 8,056 members. It has 18 schools, with 580 pupils, among the Indians; also 5 churches, 13 missionaries, 397 members and 11,091 scholars among the Indians. It expended last year in its Southern work $226,000, and $48,967 in its Indian work.

Fares to the Louisiana Conference.

The Mississippi Valley road has expressed a willingness to furnish round-trip tickets to preachers and delegates for one and one-third fares, and the Southern Pacific (Morgan Route) at one and one-quarter fares. Other arrangements will be announced next week.

Thanksgiving.

This is the day set apart as a day of national thanksgiving by the Chief Magistrate of the nation and the governors of the different States. There is a special fitness in this call. It is a sublime spectacle to see a great nation on its knees before the Supreme Ruler, acknowledging his authority and giving thanks for his mercies and blessings. The least that any man's religion can do for him is to produce in his heart the grace of thanksgiving for past benefits. As a nation, we have much to be grateful for. President Cleveland, in his proclamation, has enumerated our blessings and mercies in his usual vigorous and clear style. He says: "With loving kindness God has constantly led us in the way of prosperity and greatness; he has not visited with swift punishment our shortcomings, but with gracious care he has warned us of our dependence upon his forbearance, and has taught us that obedience to his holy law is the price of the continuance of his precious gifts."

Then, more specifically, he enjoins upon the whole people to "render thanks to God for all his mercies, for the abundant harvests which have rewarded the toil of the husbandman during the year that has passed, and for the rich rewards that have followed the labors of our people in their shops, and in their marts of trade and traffic. Let us give thanks for peace and for social order and contentment within our borders, and for our advancement in all that adds to national greatness, and mindful of the afflictive dispensation with which a portion of our land has been visited; let us, while we humble ourselves before the power of God, acknowledge his mercy in setting bounds to the deadly march of pestilence, and let our hearts be chastened by sympathy with our fellow countrymen who have suffered and who mourn; and as we return thanks for all the blessings which we have received from the hands of our heavenly Father, let us not forget that he has enjoined upon us charity; and on this day of thanksgiving let us generally remember the poor and needy so that our tribute of praise and gratitude may be acceptable in the sight of the Lord."

Then, to-day, with glad, yet chastened hearts, let our voices ascend in praise to the "Father of lights," from whom "cometh down" "every good and every perfect gift." The Christian has a special reason for gratitude in the grand fact that thousands during the last year have been brought out of darkness into light, and that Zion has "lengthened her cords and strengthened her stakes" greatly, and that the spirit of missions has taken a firmer hold upon the conscience of the church, and that the outlook for the progress of the truth is brighter and more hopeful than ever. The Sun of Righteousness is climbing the sky, and to-day a thousand hill-tops glisten with his beams, and a thousand valleys shimmer under the beauty of his rays that a year ago were enveloped in the darkness of spiritual ignorance. The call is to the "kings of the earth and all people; princes and all judges of the earth; both young men and maidens; old men and children—let them praise the name of the Lord; for his name alone is excellent; his glory is above the earth and heaven! Praise ye the Lord!"

The Picayune deserves the thanks of every Christian man and woman in the country, for showing up the animus of the North American Review toward the Christian religion, in a recent article in its daily issue. Why do not our great secular papers come out more frequently on the side of religion? It is certainly the right side.

Self or the Lord.

Paul's famous fight, recorded in the seventh chapter of Romans, which has puzzled so many wise commentators as to when it took place, was a simple, yet severe fight as to whether self or the Lord should hold the seat of authority over him. Perhaps, this is the great battle of every Christian experience. Self has such a grip upon our natures that it is a matter of extreme difficulty to unhand it. It never lets go without a struggle so fierce that the nature is often almost slain. And the battle is never completely won except self be killed outright. We are sometimes led to fear that the very fierceness of this struggle deters many people who desire to lead Christian lives from consecrating themselves to God. They have learned, from the preaching of the minister and from the Bible, that God will have the whole heart and service or none at all; and, feeling the strong hold which selfishness has upon their spiritual natures, they fear to enter upon a battle which promises such a fierce conflict before self can be beaten down. We fear there are many such timorous souls in the church to-day. They are not satisfied with their Christian experience. "Their righteousness is" not "brought forth as the light." They have no clear, unmistakeable witness of the Spirit within. And they go halting along the way, fearful to enter the contest through which they must pass to the victory of a conquering faith.

In no department of Christian life and service is this "fearfulness" more plainly seen than in the giving of money to religious causes. The strongest grip of selfishness is around the pocket-book. It surrenders at every point before it surrenders here. This is "the last ditch," where it battles with a fury that is awful to behold. What struggles have been made here, what victories won, what defeats suffered only the records of the unseen world can disclose. A man's purse is the last thing that yields to the power of grace; but when that happens, the victory over self is complete, and it is final. But the church of to-day, though the giving is larger than ever before, has not yet reached that point of victory. The church, as a whole, is richer to-day than ever before by millions of dollars, but the old self still asserts its power; so that no man can say that the church is giving to the causes of God and humanity "as God hath prospered" her. That there are individual cases, where the battle has been fought out and the victory won, nobody of sane mind and ordinary intelligence can deny. The rod of God's grace has smitten the rock, and the streams of benevolence are flowing out in abundance. We have recently read of some beautiful examples of this. A late number of the Interior has this paragraph about some such:

Not long ago we called attention to some remarkable instances of unselfishness, liberal giving and downright sacrifices in the interest of gospel preaching in the Far West. Certain Presbyterian farmers out there give as much for the maintenance of church services as they give to keep themselves and their families sheltered, clothed and fed. Now, we hear of like liberality on the part of some devout Baptists in England; indeed, the figures for the latters' gifts are exceptionally remarkable. For instance, a governess who earns $500 a year gives half of that sum to missions and other church causes; a man who earns $6,000 a year lives on $600 and gives away the rest; one, with an assured income of $10,000 a year, spends one-tenth on himself and remits nine-tenths to the Lord; and another, whose annual income is $40,000 a year, keeps only $1,250 for his personal use and pleasure, and consecrates $38,750 to missionary and charitable uses! In these English cases the issue is clearly made between self and the Lord; the self-denying givers not having family responsibilities and obligations resting upon them, as have our hard-working Western farmers. But love to God and a passionate desire to advance his kingdom in this world are shown by all of them.

Now, that is what may be truly called "self-denial." As Dr. Gray well says, those people by their giving evince "love to God and a passionate desire to advance his kingdom." "If ye love me," says Jesus, "keep my commandments," and the last command was: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

Dr. Pierson, the editor of the Missionary Review, has, during the past summer made a mission tour through England and Scotland, and records his observations about self-denying men and women found on his tour in these words:

We have been much impressed with the consecrated men and women of Great Britain We have met few such in our own land, who lay wealth, position and influence, absolutely at the feet of Jesus. There are many noble merchants and princely givers here, who combine singular commercial talent and tact with liberality. But England and Scotland present not a few who have abandoned business, practically, that they may work for Christ. Campbell White, of Glasgow, declines election to Parliament, because he will not have his work among the poor of that great city interfered with by public engagements; the Earl of Aberdeen helps the tenants on his lands to become owners of their own houses and farms; the Provost of Aberdeen subordinates everything to his duties as a Christian and his work for Christ. Lords Radstock and Kinnaird and their families, Jas. E. Mathieson, Esq.; Hugh Matheson, Esq.; A. H. Monour, ex-Provost of Dundee; Alexander Balfour, of Arbroath; Mrs. Drummin Stewart, of Logie, Forres; Mrs. Mary Watson, the Countess of Cairns, Sir T. Fowell and Lady Buxton, Sir John and Lady Kennaway, Sir Arthur Blackwood, Robert Paton and Mr. Charrington, Miss Annie McPherson—these are a few of the hundreds of men and women in the British Isles who are giving time, money, influence, personal labor to all sorts of missionary enterprises, home and foreign, and to city evangelization. London is the greatest center of Christian work on this globe. God has many devoted servants in the United Kingdom, who sound no trumpet before them and whose very names we hesitate to print, so modest are they in their work for Christ.

Such people are the salt of the church. "Wealth, position and influence at the feet of Jesus;" there self is dead, and the Lord reigns supreme. Oh, if more of the Lord's people would come to this exalted position of honor, what a work we would see!

Oh, why will Christians sleep over their responsibilities and dream away their privileges, and wake up and hear the dreadful words: "Inasmuch as ye did it not to these, ye did it not to me. Depart, I never knew you." Reader, to prevent that being your case, get self out and Christ within and go earnestly to work for the salvation of your fellow-men.

A Great Work.

Very few people are aware of the great work the Christian women of our country are doing in the cause of missions. We propose to enlighten our readers somewhat on this subject, and we hope they will not impute to us the faculty of exaggeration. We have been looking over the authorized documents and present a few facts which we have gleaned. There are connected with the various churches in this country 22 Woman's Missionary Boards, in touch with many thousands of auxiliaries. As far as we can learn, the first of these Boards was organized in 1861; the last one in 1887. We could get no data as to the number of missionaries these Boards have sent out; but as the Congregationalists and Presbyterians together have now over five hundred in the field, we may safely say that, altogether, they must support considerably over one thousand. The finances of these societies are given with tolerable accuracy. We find that last year sixteen of these Boards collected for mission work the sum of $1,499,173. Since their organization nine of these societies have collected the modest little sum of $7,326,164. The largest amount raised last year was by the Presbyterian women—$335,649; the next largest, by the Congregational women, being $301,685; the next, the Protestant Episcopal women, who raised $272,671; then the Northern Methodist women, who raised $191,158. These Boards publish 20 periodicals, some monthlies and some weeklies, whose circulation reaches up into the hundred thousands. These Boards are prosecuting mission work in the following countries (we give simply the country without naming the particular place): India, China, Japan, Ceylon, Turkey, Persia, Spain, Mexico, Micronesia, Africa, Syria, Siam, Korea, Burmah, France, Sweden, Bulgaria, Italy, South America, Alaska, Germany, and among the Indians in the West.

Who can measure such a widespread influence as that? Just think what collectors the women make! One million and five hundred thousand dollars last year for missions by the women of the United States alone! The brethren who manage the regular Boards of the church had better push up a little or they will be put to shame in this matter.

The Entertainment of Conferences.

This subject is growing in difficulties; and the Virginia Conference, at its late session, has inaugurated a new plan, which we give below. We shall watch with interest to see how this new plan will work. As far as we can see, we are favorable to its adoption by our Conferences. It does not limit hospitality, but broadens it out over a whole Conference. Here it is as passed by the Virginia Conference by a vote of 109 for and 86 against it:

1. That the Joint-Board of Finance appoint a committee of two ministers and three laymen, to be called the Committee on Conference Session.

2. The duty of this committee shall be to select the place for the seat of the Conference, secure hotel and railroad rates, and receive and disburse all funds raised for Conference expenses.

3. Preachers shall give to each charge an opportunity to contribute to the fund for meeting the expenses of entertainment.

4. The sum of two thousand dollars shall be assessed for this purpose as other amounts are. The Committee on Sessions, after selecting the place, shall make such arrangement with a local committee as may be necessary, and if the amount collected for expenses is in excess of the amount disbursed, the Board of Finance shall appropriate such amount to meet the expense of the ensuing year.

A Question.

MR. EDITOR: What think you of a lady who chews gum in the presence of her gentlemen friends, and as she walks along the street and as she sits in the house of the Lord? I know one such as this, and it strikes me unpleasantly. SUBSCRIBER.

The editor does not claim to be "up" in such a matter as this, but a friend at his elbow says: "Simply disgusting!" We suppose that subscriber has, perhaps, met an over-grown school-girl somewhere.—EDITOR.

Reader, don't try to go to heaven by yourself. You will certainly fail. Take some one along with you, and the probabilities are you will both get there.

Notes.

Now is the time to prepare for the Christmas gift-making. Preparation ought always to be made when anything important is to be done. We have just this suggestion to make to all our readers. There are several weeks in which to look about us to find out special cases of need, where our benefactions will come as a God-send. Presents to home folks are not specially needed. Presents to friends in good circumstances are not now "in good form." The injunction to every Christian man and woman and boy and girl at Christmas time is, "Remember the poor." Let each one of us see to it that some poor heart is encouraged, some dark life made brighter, some scanty table filled by our gifts this Christmas. Such gift-making will follow us with its benedictions throughout the year to come.

The invitation of the Episcopal Church to the "sects" to "come over and join us" is thus disposed of by the Watchman (Baptist):

The desire for Christian union may be in itself holy and beautiful, but it is vain to seek it except on the ground of Scripture truth. And if the vast Christian denominations in our land should yield to the overtures of the Episcopal body, the result would not be any better Christian union, but a grand increase to the Episcopal Church, and a fearful sacrifice of conscience and Scripture. It would be a case in which a large, fat lamb lay down inside of a small and hungry lion.

The Southern Churchman has this note upon a practice which seems to be growing among preachers:

We learn from the papers that many preachers are making "Robert Elsmere" the theme of their Sunday sermons. Of course, much may be said in defense of such sermons. It may be argued that it is eminently proper to seize upon a subject which is prominent in the minds of the people, eminently proper to endeavor to counteract the effect of a dangerous book. We do not deny that here and there one may be found who can do this sort of thing judiciously and well; but it is at best a precarious experiment. The Bible is the best book to preach upon; and if it is faithfully preached, there is no other book can do any harm.

A writer in one of our exchanges, speaking of Mrs. Ward's "Robert Elsmere," says:

The book breathes a plea for a new compelling force in society. The force of the plea lies in the failure, not, as we believe, of Christianity, but, as we must acknowledge, of Christians. When hundreds of thousands of intelligent men in Berlin, in London, are untouched by the direct influence of Christianity, what wonder there is call for something else. Let us use better the force of the church and the indwelling Christ, that this plea may lose its force among us.

Every intelligent observer must acknowledge the force of that. The "failure of Christians" is a sad fact, made still more so when it is attributed directly to Christianity. And yet any other system would have gone to pieces long ago if the failure of its adherents had been attributed mainly to the system.

Dr. Cuyler recently gave utterance to these wise and mighty words:

That model Christian worker, Harlan Page, was on the lookout for opportunities; he made it a rule never to hold a conversation with anyone without saying something to profit their souls, and he never did it in a rude or impertinent way either. It was no wonder that he was able to identify over one hundred cases of conversion wrought by his faithful instrumentality. The Leyden jar of his godly zeal emitted a spark to everyone with whom he came in contact. I fear that we pastors and Sunday-school teachers are not always as alert as we ought to be in speaking the word in season to the parishioner or the scholar whom God puts within our reach, or in laying hold of them when they are susceptible of spiritual influence. The spectres that we ought most to dread are the ghosts of lost opportunities.

The time is coming, yea, now is, when the church must, absolutely must, put her best and strongest men in the important places. This must be done in mission fields as well as elsewhere. We have been too long in the habit of underrating the obstacles in the way of church progress. In regard to the application of this to missionary work, the Chautauquan has this note, which we think is just the right thing:

In considering the question of missionary service, Canon Taylor called attention to a much more discouraging fact, in our opinion, than the overwhelming numbers of the heathen. It is the tendency to take inferior material to fill missionary posts. Zealous, but half-educated men and women frequently are sent to posts where, mentally, they are utterly unfit to cope with races keen of intellect and subtle in perception, if heathenish in custom and false in religion. It is a mistake to underrate the heathen. The best endowed and most thoroughly trained men and women are needed to cope with the missionary problem.

Did you speak to your neighbor about subscribing for the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE? Now is as good time as you will ever have to put him in the way of securing a perpetual pleasure and profit to himself and family.

Personals.

Hon. Thomas Branch, an eminent layman of our church, who was several times a delegate to the General Conference, died recently in Richmond, Va.

The thanks of this office are hereby tendered to the Donaldsonville Chief for a copy of a pamphlet entitled, "Ascension Parish; Her Resources, Advantages and Attractions," by H. Thompson Brown.

Our young brother, F. S. Parker, has been appointed to El Paso, West Texas Conference.

Dr. Meredith, of New York, teaches a Bible class in Tomkins Avenue Church every Tuesday evening. The church has 1,500 sittings, and yet it is crowded, aisles and all, every time.

The Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at their recent session in Boston, pledged their individual subscriptions for $5,000 to pay off the debt on the "People's Church," in that city.

The Los Angeles Christian Advocate announces that Revs. Junes and Small will begin services in Los Angeles about the middle of January. Everything is getting ready for their reception.

Rev. H. M. Dubose, of East Texas Conference, has been transferred by Bishop Galloway to Los Angeles Conference, and stationed at Los Angeles.

A letter from his son gives us the intelligence that Rev. P. H. Dieffenwierth, one of our superannuates residing in Florida, is in a low state of health. We trust our good brother will soon rally and be again on his feet.

The Methodists of this city will hold their Union Thanksgiving Service in Felicity Street Church. The sermon will be preached by Bro. Carradine, of Carondelet Street Church.

Bishop Granbery has requested the presiding elders of the North Carolina Conference to meet him one day before the Conference assembles. It seems to us that that is a more along the right line, if it is new.

In a note elsewhere Bro. Hennoll gives the sad intelligence of the death of Rev. T. J. Taylor, of the North Mississippi Conference.

According to the Voice, the Prohibitionists gained votes in all the States except Massachusetts and Vermont. The whole gain over 1884 is about 130,000 votes.

That is a "center shot" from Dr. Young J. Allen, in the Nashville Advocate, where he says: "We are not doing our duty as a church on any line."

By a vote of 109 to 86, the Virginia Conference passed a resolution allowing the churches to contribute to the entertainment of the annual sessions of that body.

Bishop McTyeire, we are sorry to say, has for some weeks been below his usual standard of health and working capacity. The whole church will join in the wish and prayer that he may be soon and fully restored to his wonted health and vigor.—Nashville Advocate, November 24.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. J. W. Hennoll writes from Clarksdale, Miss., November 23, 1888: "Bro. T. J. Taylor, of the North Mississippi Conference, has gone home. He died at Tunica, in the Greenville district, at four P. M., on November 11. He died of what is called 'swamp fever.' I was with him when he was taken sick on the Sunday before he died, and left him on Monday, doing well and out of danger, as we all thought; but, imagine my astonishment, when I returned to the R. R. from Rosedale on the twenty-fifth and learned that Bro. Taylor had been stationed in the city of the blessed. When I left him he talked freely to me and said he was ready for whatever might be the result. He died in the thickest of the battle near the close of one of the most faithful year's work of his life, and Bro. Taylor was one of our most faithful workers. He leaves a large family to mourn their loss."

—Rev. J. A. Bowen writes from Greenville, Miss., November 18, 1888: "A blaze of glory is passing over Greenville. At least 200 have joined the churches in one week, and the feeling continues. The whole country is moved. I never saw such a week's work. Bless the Lord!"

—Rev. William Hoover writes from Summit, Miss., November 20, 1888: "In the last issue of the Advocate, in my report, it makes me say: 'At Summit a new church will be built and ready for the new preacher.' Please correct, and say: 'A new church, near Wesson, will be ready for the next preacher.'"

"BUSY DAYS WITH BUSY PEOPLE" will be described in THE YOUTH'S COMPANION as follows: "A Day with a Famous Doctor," by E. H. Bishop; "A Day in a Telephone Exchange," by G. P. Lathrop; "A Day with a Managing Editor," by Harold Frederic; "A Day with a Superintendent of a Great Railway," by Charles Harnard, and "A Day with the Lessees," by Sargent Robinson.

Bible Work in Grant Parish, La.

Mr. Editor: Believing that a few dots from a colporteur, descriptive of his field and his work, may interest your readers, I will pen a few lines.

I entered this parish during the first week of October at Nugent's Saw Mill, about twenty-five miles east of Colfax, on the line bordering on Rapides parish. Here I found quite a number of neat little cottages and an organization of Protestant Methodists. They gave me a warm reception, and I preached in their house several nights. During my stay here I shared the hospitality of Bro. J. M. Nugent and his excellent companion. Here I sold about one hundred Bibles and Testaments, and made a few donations to some unable to pay for their Bibles.

Leaving this band of warm-hearted brethren, I went in an eastern direction to Clear Creek, where I found the people all poor, but in varying circumstances. I held a meeting several nights at the M. P. Church, which is under the pastorate of Bro Hearn, a young married minister, whose heart and soul seem absorbed in his labors of love. I found in this community quite a demand for cheap Bibles. I sold at every house either a Bible or Testament. I found some destitution and inability to buy. To these I gave Bibles, and in every instance they manifested great appreciation of the donations. One poor widow, who told me that she had no Bible and no money to buy one, pressed the Bible I gave her to her bosom, while tears were falling from her eyes and said: "May God bless you, my dear brother, in your benevolent work. You have made me happy. Now I can read God's blessed Word every day."

From there I went into, and canvassed, Big Creek Settlement. I found much poverty and some Bible destitution. In connection with the sterility of the land and want of transportation facilities I found a great want of education. I came in contact with many families where the heads of families could neither read nor write. Sometimes the lady would purchase a Bible, and say, "Now I will read to my husband and children every night." I find but two schools so far in operation in the parish. The people being unable to sustain private schools, and the public system of schools is such as to render them almost worthless, that multiplied hundreds of children are growing up into manhood and womanhood without educational advantages.

It was with much pleasure that I visited the pleasant little village of Colfax. Here I met with a kind and warm-hearted people, who patronized me to the extent of their ability. Here I enjoyed the hospitalities of Bros. Goodwin and Richardson. Bro. Goodwin is a thorough-going Methodist, and editor of the Chronicle, and Judge Richardson also a good Methodist and successful lawyer.

I have been in contact with Bros. Wynn and Hoffpauir, who are doing a great work for the Lord in this part of the country. I have found some communities where some people are very indifferent even to religion. In one community, where Bro. Hoffpauir was preaching they stood on the outside of the windows and fired off their pistols while he was preaching; and in the same neighborhood during a meeting of the Baptists they not only fired off their pistols, but threw a whisky bottle among the ladies while sitting in church. It was in this community I was urging upon a man of a large family, who could neither read nor write the importance of educating his children, and he replied by saying that he did not believe in educating children, as it made rascals of them. Not only in this community I saw ladies sitting in time of church with a snuff bottle in hand and a swab in the mouth and making large puddles of spittle on the floor; but I find it the custom nearly everywhere in the country.

As space will not allow me to give a full account of my field, I will close by saying: Brethren and sisters, there is a vast Bible destitution in the land, and the great American Bible Society is sending out its colporteurs in the highways and hedges, who find their way alike to the palaces of the rich and the dreary abodes of want and poverty, scattering abroad the precious Word of Life by sales and donations. The Lord has blessed you and yours. Will you not take an interest in this grand and benevolent work, and do all you can to assist it?

E. M. Tabor.

N. C. V. L.

Now is a favorable time to enter the Nashville (Tennessee) College for Young Ladies. This is the leading Southern College for women. Three large buildings, passenger elevator and all needed conveniences; 20 officers, 301 pupils from 20 States; full course in Literature, Art, Music; a full business course. Address

Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D. D., President.

Special Offer.

Anyone sending two dollars will receive the Advocate free of all charges until January, 1890.

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

Infant Baptism. A sermon delivered in Tyler, Texas. By Rev. John Adams, D. D., of the East Texas Conference.

There are added to the sermon a few pages on the design and mode of baptism.

The Coming of the King. A Christmas song service for Sunday-school, choir and congregation. Prepared by Leonard Woolsey Bacon. Published by John D. Wattles, Philadelphia. There are two forms—one at five cents a copy; the other, twenty-five cents a copy.

Seeking for the Christ. A song and teaching service for the Christmas Tide. Published by John D. Wattles, Philadelphia. Five cents a copy.

PERIODICALS.

—The December Chautauquan is on our table full of the very best reading. History, biography, science, religion and other matters make up a choice number of this worthy monthly. And all for $1 50 a year. T. L. Flood, Meadville, Penn.

—Fashion and Fancy, published monthly, by Mrs. R. K. Walker and Miss Hartwell-Magrath, St. Louis, Mo. Price 83 a year.

—The Gospel in All Lands is a monthly missionary magazine of great worth and extensive information, and such as every preacher and officer in the church should have. It is published by the missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at 805 Broadway, New York. Beginning with next January, the price will be $1 50 a year.

—The Missionary Review of the World, for December, is an extraordinary number, and closes a volume of extraordinary interest and value. We are bewildered by the extent and richness of the Table of Contents. Nine articles in the Literature Section are papers of marvelous power. Then we have the latest reports of twenty leading missionary societies, and of twenty-two Woman's Missionary Boards, besides highly interesting correspondence from China, India, Japan and Syria. Published by Funk & Wagnalls, 18 and 20 Astor Place, New York. $2 per year; 25 cents for single numbers. In clubs of ten, $1 50.

—Our Sunday-school periodicals, for December, are on hand and display the usual ability of Dr. Cunningham and his co workers. We have heard a high authority say that our Sunday-school periodicals were the best printed, and we have no reason to dispute that judgment. Now is the time to order your Sunday-school literature for 1889.

Dandruff eradicated, the scalp made clean, and gray hair restored to its original youthful beauty and vigor by the use of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

Literary Notes.

The Harpers' two principal illustrated holiday books, "Old Songs," with illustrations by Abbey and Parsons, and "The Boyhood of Christ," by Lew Wallace, also elaborately illustrated, will be published shortly.

F. J. Stimson's novel, "First Harvests," which has been recognized while appearing in Scribner's Magazine as an uncommonly brilliant study of certain phases of American life and character, will be published in book form shortly by the Scribners.

By way of a satire on Mr. Donnelly's Shakespeare-Bacon theory, an article recently appeared in the Cornhill attributing Dickens' novels to Gladstone. But the joke was beyond the comprehension of our serious cousins over the water, and many letters were received asking what foundation existed for the statement.

The Baker and Taylor Company announce "Under French Skies," by Madame DeGasperin; "The Working Church," by Charles F. Thwing, D. D.; "Keystones of Faith; or, Why and What We Believe," by Wolcott Calkins, D. D.; and "Co-operation in Christian Work," and "Problems of American Civilization," two series of selected addresses delivered before the General Christian Conference held last year in Washington.

A gentleman, writing from Japan, says that although it is only eighteen years since the first newspaper was published in Japan, that now there are 575 daily and weekly newspapers. It publishes 35 law magazines, 31 scientific periodicals, 35 medical journals and an equal number of religious newspapers. Its people read eight different story papers, and 102 papers cater to the agricultural, commercial and industrial classes. It has its Punch, or Puck, and this is filled with cartoons and witticisms, taking off the public men of the empire. They are read by the natives of the country, and the work upon them is done entirely by native labor.

The next number of The Century is to contain Henry Ward Beecher's last manuscript—an uncompleted paper on his trip to England in 1863, which he was writing for The Century War Book the last week of his life. The article is supplemented by a brief paper by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D., who was an eye-witness and hearer of the famous speech which Mr. Beecher delivered in Liverpool, in 1863, in the presence of a howling mob.

The indefatigable Paul du Chaillu has created another marvel. "The Viking Age," which the Scribners will soon publish with 1,200 illustrations.

Messrs. Roberts Brothers are soon to bring out Rev. Edward Everett Hale's "Man Without a Country," in holiday garb. The Tribune says that this story remained unpublished for many weeks in the office of the Atlantic, and when at last it did appear it stirred an enthusiasm which will never let the name of Mr. Hale be forgotten.

William S. Walsh, editor of Lippincott's Magazine, has in press for early publication a collection of essays, which will be entitled "Paradoxes of a Philistine."

The worst feature about catarrh is its dangerous tendency to consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by purifying the blood.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Features for 1889.

Six Serial Stories—150 Short Stories

Profusely Illustrated by Eminent Artists.

Tales of Adventure; Illustrated Articles of Travel; Sketches of Famous Men; Historical and Scientific Articles; Bright Sayings; 1,000 Short Articles; Anecdotes; Sketches of Natural History; Poetry.

$5,000 in Prizes for Short Stories.

Three Prizes of $1,000 each, three of $750, and three of $250, are offered by the Publishers of The Companion for the best Short Stories. Send stamp for full particulars.

Four Holiday Numbers

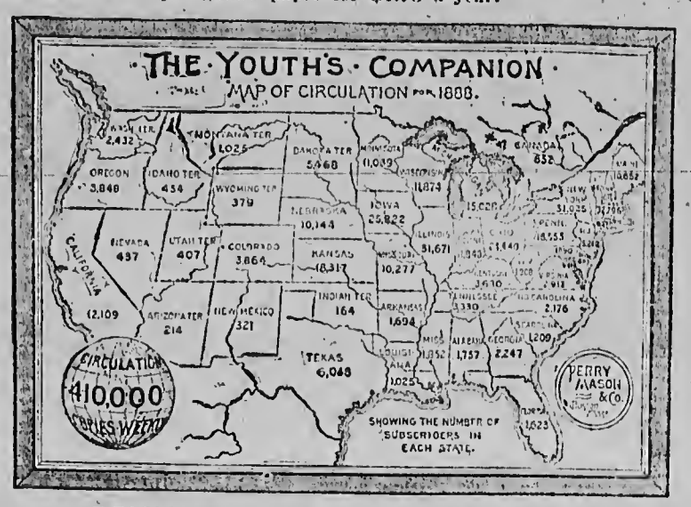
Are in preparation, and will be exceedingly attractive, filled with the special work of our favorite writers, and profusely illustrated.

Thanksgiving—Christmas—New Year's—Easter.

These Souvenir Numbers are sent to Each Subscriber.

The Illustrated Supplements

Were given with nearly every issue last year, and have become an important part of the paper. They will be continued this year. No other paper attempts to give such a large increase of matter and illustrations without increase of price. Really a $2.50 paper for $1.75 a year.



Two Millions of Readers Weekly.

Household Articles will be published frequently, giving useful information in various departments of home life—Cooking, Embroidery, and Decoration of the Home, without and within. The Editorial Page gives timely articles about current events at home and abroad. The Children's Page is always crowded with Stories, Anecdotes, Rhymes and Puzzles adapted to the Youngest Readers.

SPECIAL OFFER TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

FREE to Jan. 1.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS who send $1.75 now will receive the paper FREE from the time the subscription is received to Jan. 1st, 1889, and a full year's subscription from that date. This offer includes the FOUR HOLIDAY NUMBERS, the ILLUSTRATED SUPPLEMENTS, and the ANNUAL PREMIUM LIST with FIVE HUNDRED ILLUSTRATIONS.

Send money by Post-Office Money Order, Express Money Order, Check, or Registered Letter.

Specimen Copies and Colored Announcement free. Please mention this publication. Address

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 41 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts be thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

Publisher's Department.

Note from the Publisher.

To those who have received statements of their accounts, I wish to say that these statements are taken from the books in this office as they were turned over to me by Mr. Jamieson. If any of them are not correct, I will most cheerfully correct them to the entire satisfaction of those interested. Whatever arrangements were made with the former publisher will be carried out by me. Respectfully,

J. G. Grant, Publisher.

Special Offer.

All new subscriptions for the Advocate received between now and January 1, 1889, will receive the paper free until that date.

Subscribe now, and you will receive the paper 14 months for $2.

J. G. Grant, Publisher.

Next to your subscription the greatest favor you can extend the Advocate, in a business point, is to mention the paper in writing to advertisers.

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

MUCH WISDOM, BUT FEW WORDS!

Prices That Will Do All Good!

50 Pieces Cashmere, 10c—worth 15c. | Extra fine Henrietta, 35c—worth 50c.
Double-width Henrietta, 15c—worth 25c. | Combination Suits, from $1 25 up.

BIG BARGAINS IN LACE CURTAINS.

Handsome Line of CHENILLE CURTAINS and PORTIERES.

CARPET ROOMS Overflowing with Bargains.

Plain and Fancy Mattings, from 12½c up. | Handsome Body Brussels, 85c—worth $1.
Brussels Carpet (all wool), 55c—Made and Laid. | Beautiful Line of WINDOW SHADES.

J. A. Braselman & Co.,

586 and 588 - - MAGAZINE STREET - - 586 and 588

Artificial Limbs,

Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted

— BY —

A. M. DERMOTT,

200 - - - St Charles Street - - - - - - 200

Bet. Julia and St. Joseph.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the college. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849. Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,0

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Desirable Fire Business.

W. H. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

FAMILY BAROUCHES

R. P. Randall,

54 & 56 Baronne.

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M.; running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made In Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans and Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,
CHATTANOOGA,
CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.

	No. 2. Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans.....	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian.....	9:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis.....	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa.....	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham.....	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla.....	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City.....	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington.....	4:10 p. m.	3:43 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati.....	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.

	No. 1, Lim'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati.....	7:55 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington.....	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City.....	11:45 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga.....	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla.....	9:49 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham.....	11:45 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa.....	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis.....	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian.....	4:45 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans.....	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent,
34 St. Charles Street.

E. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1. Fast Mail. 9:00 a.m	No. 2. Fast Mail. 5:00 p.m
No. 3. Express. 6:25 p.m	No. 4. Express. 8:00 a.m
No. 5. Hat. Rouge acc'dation. 10:00 a.m	No. 6. Hat. Rouge acc'dation. 3:45 p.m

Double daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville, Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans at 8 a. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harriston for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. P. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Com'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Texas and California Express.	Leaves.	Arrives.
	.....	8:35 A. M.
Baton Rouge Local.....	3:50 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

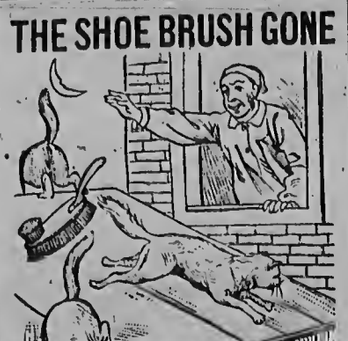
This train has also Pullman Sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Trav'g Passenger Agent.
E. W. MCCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE SHOE BRUSH GONE



I won't miss it, for I have long since adopted an easier and cleanlier way. A bottle of

Wolff's ACME Blacking

and a sponge to keep my shoes washed clean, save a deal of labor and shoe leather.

Sold by Shoe Stores, Grocers, Druggists, &c.

The best Harness Dressing in the world.

MOFFET & RANDOLPH, PHILADELPHIA.

Agents Wanted

ERIE Self-Wringing MOP

is the best selling article out. Made from malleable iron and steel wire.

Special knitted cloth fitted into every Mop before shipping

A Golden Opportunity for persons of either sex in search of profitable employment, as the SELF-WRINGER sells at sight.

Exclusive territory and liberal terms. Send 50 cents for sample and agent's outfit. Circulars and terms free.

EVANS BROS., Southern Agents,
13 Perdido St., New Orleans.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,
FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET,
BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES,
LAMPS AND LANTERNS.

Axle Grease,

Blacking, Blueing,
Cages and Cheese Safes, Corks and Clocks,
Coffee and Grain Mills, Cutlery and Saws,
Hammocks, Ice Cream Freezers,
Oyster Tongs, Paper and Bags,
Scales, Sieves,
Whips.

HARDWARE, STONEWARE,
BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES,
TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE.
ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,

Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET.

E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE,
MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER

in all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty, WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES, WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS. UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS, RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS.

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

G. WOLF,

—MANUFACTURER OF—

GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES

(Formerly of 130 Common Street)

54 ST. CHARLES STREET,

Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St., NEW ORLEANS.

Orders promptly attended to.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement, —1888.—

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator	$ 3 50	$ 2 75
American Agriculturist	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	2 50
" Times-Democrat	3 50	2 75
Harper's Magazine	6 00	4 75
" Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

J. G. GRANT, Pub'r.

Our Young People.

IF! IF!

If every boy and every girl,
Arising with the sun,
Should plan this day to do alone
The good deeds to be done—

Should scatter smiles and kindly words,
Strong, helpful hands should lend,
And to each other's wants and cries
Attentive ears should bend—

If every man, and woman, too,
Should join these workers small—
Oh, what a flood of happiness
Upon our earth would fall!

How many homes would sunny be,
Which now are filled with care!
And joyous, smiling faces, too,
Would greet us everywhere.

I do believe the very sun
Would shine more clear and bright,
And every little twinkling star
Would shed a softer light.

But we, instead, must watch to see,
If other folks are true,
And thus neglect so much that God
Intends for us to do.

—Golden Days.

MR. EDITOR: As it has been so long since I wrote, I will write and tell you something nice to print in your paper. A Woman's Missionary Society was organized here with thirty-one members. Officers: Mrs. M. C. Payton, president; Mrs. R. Heatherton, vice-president; Mrs. J. S. Jackson, recording secretary; Miss S. V. Thomasson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. Rowe, treasurer. They are to pay ten cents a month or a dollar a year. Bro. Godfrey is a splendid preacher. We do hope we will get him back here next year. Did you ever hear him preach, Mr. Editor? If not, you have missed a great deal. A missionary collection was to be taken up. Bro. Godfrey intended to get a good deal, and he did, too. He commenced to tell about a missionary collection, and some of the people began to get out their money and rattled it, and he told them that it was right to shake down the dimes and nickels and shake up the big dollars. Bro. Godfrey says he can't take up a collection, but I think he can, and, if you had been here, Mr. Editor, you would think so, too. Mrs. M. C. Landrum gave a missionary address, and it was very nice, too, and she delivered it well; but the good part of it was that she composed it herself. Our little juvenile society is still in existence, and we are working away as hard as we can. I will close with many good wishes to the ADVOCATE.

Your niece,

JENNIE FAULKNER.

WEST MELVILLE, Louisiana.

Ina's Thanksgiving Request.

"In everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God."

This verse Esther Browster repeated at her morning prayers, when each member of the family recited a Scripture text. Ina, the youngest, could not yet read: so she often repeated the sweet promise, "Ask, and ye shall receive," and also her own dear verse, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." Ina felt that she was one of Christ's little children, because she loved him.

Esther's verse struck Ina as very appropriate, because everybody was talking of the approaching Thanksgiving, and she said: "Please teach me your verse, Essie, for Thanksgiving morning."

"My verse! O yes. 'With thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.' That is all you need learn, darling; for mother wants you to know what it means."

"Ina knows what that means," insisted the little sister; and she soon learned to repeat it correctly.

The Brewsters were not merry in view of the coming Thanksgiving. They were in great sorrow, because the eldest son lay so sick that no one could tell whether he would live or die. Still the customary preparations were made, and Ina saw more than usual of them, because her mother, who was much in the sick-room, asked Jane, the cook, who was a pious, motherly woman, to let her enjoy herself in helping to get ready for Thanksgiving.

"'Pisn't Thanksgiving till Thanksgiving-Day, is it, Jane?" asked Ina.

"No; but it is getting-ready time now," answered Jane.

"Is God getting ready?"

"Yes, child; getting ready every good gift."

That night, when the mother heard the children's prayers, Ina added: "And please, God, get it ready for Thanksgiving."

"Get what ready?" asked the mother.

"God knows: it's our secret," said Ina.

"I'm afraid my little girl has made some mistake," said the mother.

"No, mother; I shall 'member to wait till—when—he—says, and he will have it all ready."

The busy mother could not stop longer to question her little one, who prayed every night: "Please, God, do get it ready for Thanksgiving."

The night before the festival was one of anguish and suspense. The doctor did not leave the house; and Ina overheard the words, "He may not live till morning," and knew they were spoken of her sick brother.

"Please, God, do be getting it ready, and make Ina wake up early," she pleaded that night.

In the dawn of Thanksgiving morning Ina awoke, and, kneeling by her bedside, prayed: "Please, God, now give Ina her request. Make Edward well enough to eat Thanksgiving."

Esther, who had heard her, was crying when Ina crept back into bed.

"Darling, don't say such things, don't!" she sobbed. "Edward is dying; he will never eat again."

"But he isn't dead, and he will eat, I am sure," insisted Ina, "because God has been getting ready, and now is the time he said; and he will do it."

A little later, as the doctor was leaving the house, Ina, in her night-dress, met him, and said: "Please, doctor, mayn't Edward eat some Thanksgiving?"

"Yes," he answered. "Run and tell Esther his fever has turned, and he is sleeping. If he wakes, as I hope, he is to have chicken jelly for his Thanksgiving breakfast, and beefsteak—the juice of it—for his dinner."

A happy family gathered at prayers that Thanksgiving morning; for the first-born son had waked to eat and live.

Ina repeated softly, "With thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God," and then whispered to her mother: "That was our secret; it was Ina's request: God was getting ready."

It was now the mother's turn to say her verse, and she repeated: "I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes."

"Ina thought it meant at Thanksgiving," said Esther to her mother.

"The dear Father did not mind her mistake," she replied. "She asked believing, and has received her request."

The next morning the mother's text was: "What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." And the father looked at his Ina, as he repeated: "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein."—Well-Spring.

Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Bronchitis, can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Prominent physicians use it and testify to its great value. Please read the following: "I used Scott's Emulsion for an obstinate Cough with Hemorrhage, Loss of Appetite, Emaciation, Sleeplessness, &c. All of these have now left, and I believe your Emulsion has saved a case of well-developed Consumption."—T. J. FINDLEY, M. D., Lone Star, Texas.

THE FULL ALPHABET.—The sentence, "Frowzy quacks jump, vex and blight," consisting of only twenty-eight letters, is the shortest grammatical alphabetic composition yet known. It contains no repeated consonants or proper names, and in point of brevity I do not think that it can be surpassed. "John quickly extemporized five tow bags" has long held possession of the field heretofore.

MANLY PURITY AND BEAUTY

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURE SKIN AND BLOOD DISEASES FROM PIMPLES TO SCROFULA.

NO PEN CAN DO JUSTICE TO THE ESteem in which the CUTICURA REMEDIES are held by the thousands upon thousands whose lives have been made happy by the cure of agonizing, humiliating, Rebber, scaly, and blotchy diseases of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood Purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 35c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, black-heads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Rheumatism, Kidney Pains and Weakness speedily cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster.

Household.

THE TRUE WIFE.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

Flowers spring to blossom where she walks
The careful ways of duty;
Our hard, stiff lines of life with her
Are flowing curves of beauty.

Our homes are cheerier for her sake,
Our door-yards brighter blooming,
And all about the social air
Is sweeter for her coming.

Unspoken homilies of peace
Her daily life is preaching;
The still refreshment of the dew
Is her unconscious teaching.

And never temperer hand than hers
Unknits the brow of ailing;
Her garments to the sick man's ear
Have music in their trailing.

Her presence lends its warmth and health
To all who come before it.
If woman lost us Eden, such
As she alone restore it.

And if the husband or the wife
In home's strong light discovers
Such slight defaults as failed to meet
The blinded eyes of lovers,

Why need we care to ask?—who dreams
Without their thorns of roses,
Or wonders that the truest steel
The readiest sparks discloses?

For still in mutual sufferance lies
The secret of true living;
Love scarce is love that never knows
The sweetness of forgiving.

Then and Now.

Children have toys and books, as many as they can read and break up; but the children who are now growing old had to make their own toys and find their own amusement, but they were not subjected to the perpetual horror of nervous mothers. When we old folks were little we could not spoil the old paintless wooden chairs and settles if we tried, and our mothers were not eternally protesting at us and scolding for fear we would spoil something, and groaning over the ruin we had wrought. We hacked our fingers and stubbed our toes, and got stone-bruises on our heels, and fell down and skinned our noses, but there was always enough of us left to make pretty respectable sort of men and women out of. Women in those days did not have time to keep their nerves screwed up to the snapping point. They did not have the leisure to give the doctors time to humbug them into hypochondria. Some of them would take their turn at hysterics, but they got through and then resumed the house work. And as for the doctors, no woman, or man either, would bring down upon herself the contents of those box-saddle-bags if she could help it. The doctors gave good, honest doses of blue-mass, calomel, jalap, Peruvian bark, and Virginia snake root. When the doctor was sent for it meant business, and he attended to it vigorously. But the children—how they stand it is more than we know. Poor little things—we pity them. They seem to get hardened to it, do not seem to mind being scolded or whined at every two minutes. Praise or blame meant much to the children of the past and passing generation; but the sensibilities which should be kept fresh and tender are now often so exposed and rasped that children grow up reckless of either—incapable of feeling either. Indurated sensibilities are bad, but they are nature's guards under such circumstances against insanity. Let us get back to more housework and out-of-door work for the ladies, and less fine clothes and less finical training and more mud pies, brook-wading, and rough-and-tumble freedom for the little folks.—Interior.

LISTEN TO THE CHILDREN.—My dear sir and my dear madame, when your little child comes to your side, her sweet eyes big with wonder, relating to you some trifling happening, don't be bored or uninterested. Do not send her away unanswered. Get down on your knees, as it were, and try to be sweet and innocent and eager and pure as she is. Try not to outgrow the song of birds, the laughter of children, the wonder of growing trees, the tears that we shed over dead babies and rainy days and tales that end sadly. Try not to outgrow the home games and the home news, and the great and little events of your neighborhood. Do not be a cynic where fondness and tenderness and trust and love are concerned. Do not laugh at gushing girls and lads who try to write poetry. Do not sneer at the tribulations of the gentle little president of the sewing society. These things are just as much life as going to Europe—as being elected to Congress or writing a great book.—Catharine Cole.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Rich and Poor,

Prince and Peasant, the Millionaire and Day Laborer, by their common use of this remedy, attest the world-wide reputation of Ayer's Pills. Leading physicians recommend these pills for Stomach and Liver Troubles, Costiveness, Biliousness, and Sick Headache; also, for Rheumatism, Jaundice, and Neuralgia. They are sugar-coated; contain no calomel; are prompt, but mild, in operation; and, therefore, the very best medicine for Family Use, as well as for Travelers and Tourists.

"I have derived great relief from Ayer's Pills. Five years ago I was taken so ill with that I was unable to do any work. I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time I am never without a box of these pills." Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis.

Rheumatism

"Ayer's Pills have been in use in my family upwards of twenty years and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afford greater relief than any other medicine I ever tried."—T. F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for a number of years, and have never found anything equal to them for giving me an appetite and imparting energy and strength to the system. I always keep them in the house."—R. D. Jackson, Wilmington, Del.

"Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me of severe

Headache,

from which I was long a sufferer.—Emma Keyes, Hubbardston, Mass.

"Whenever I am troubled with constipation, or suffer from loss of appetite, Ayer's Pills set me right again."—A. J. Kiser, Jr., Rock House, Va.

"Ayer's Pills are in general demand among our customers. Our sales of them exceed those of all other pills combined. We have never known them fail to give entire satisfaction."—Wright & Hannelly, San Diego, Texas.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas Selections —FOR 1888.— Containing new Carols by eminent writers in the field of work, and preceded by useful instructive Responsive Exercises (the music is used with or without the Carols). Price, $15 per hundred; $1.50 a dozen by mail postpaid; $1 a hundred by express not prepaid.

Services. "Good Will to Men," by J. F. Hall; "Noel," by P. F. Campbell and "Peace on Earth," by J. R. Hall. These consist of choice Responsive Readings (from which are interspersed Beautiful Carols written especially for use in connection with the Readings. Price of each of the three Services as same as for the "Christmas Selections."

Cantatas. "The New Santa Claus," by Butterworth and Murray. "Judge Santa Claus," by Burnham and Reed. "Santa Claus' Christmas," by Burnham and Reed. "Santa Claus' Mistake," by Burnham and Reed. "Santa Kris Kringle," by Butterworth and Reed. Price of the Cantatas, 30cts. each, by mail postpaid.

Catalogue of all kinds of Christmas Music will be sent free on application.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sleep, eat, fish, hunt, work, go to church, or stay at home, and in various sizes, styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.
111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

MASON & HAMLIN

The cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin organs have always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.

Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of the unequalled excellence of their organs, ORGANS at all of the $22 TO $1000. Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. One hundred styles, from $22 to $1000 or more. Illustrated catalogues free.

Mason & Hamlin do not hesitate to make the extraordinary claim for their pianos, that they are superior to all others. Purchasers recognize the PIANOS GRAND & UPRIGHT by other experience achieved by makers in the art of piano building, but still claim superiority. This they attribute solely to the remarkable improvement introduced by them in the year 1882, and now known as the "MASON & HAMLIN PIANO STRINGER," by the use of which is secured the greatest possible purity and refinement of tone, together with greatly increased capacity for standing in tune, and other important advantages.

A circular, containing testimonials from three hundred purchasers, musicians, and makers; sent, together with descriptive catalogue, to any applicant.

Pianos and organs sold for cash or easy payments; also rented.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO.
BOSTON. NEW YORK. CHICAGO.

PROMPT MEASURES

When children pick their nose, grind their teeth, are restless, unnatural in their appetite, they are quite likely troubled with Worms, prompt measures should be taken and D. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge be given them according to directions it has saved many a child from death and may preserve your sweet child from an early grave.

ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL

THIS NEW ELASTIC TRUSS Has a Pad different from others, is cup shape, with self-adjusting ball in center, and adapts itself to all positions of the body, while the ball in the cup presses back the intestines just as a person does with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Circulars free.

EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Chicago, Ill.

DRUNKENNESS OR LIQUOR HABIT

Positively Cured with Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It Never Fails. We Guarantee a complete cure in every instance. 48 page book Free. Address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

STEVENS—KENNARD.—In Port Gibson, Miss., August 16, 1888, by Rev. E. H. Mounger, Mr. J. C. Stevens, of St. Louis, Mo., and Miss Nannie M. Kennard, of Port Gibson.

STAMPLEY—HICKS.—In Port Gibson, Miss., September 5, 1888, by Rev. E. H. Mounger, Mr. Robert Stampley and Miss Minnie Hicks.

HOWELL—SMITH.—In Port Gibson, Miss., October 3, 1888, by Rev. E. H. Mounger, Mr. William Howell and Miss Mattie Smith.

CARLISLE—WATSON.—In Port Gibson, Miss., October 31, 1888, by Rev. E. H. Mounger, Mr. F. A. Carlisle and Miss Ethel Watson.

O'QUIN—HICKS.—At the residence of the bride's father, near Montgomery, La., November 7, 1888, by Rev. J. F. Wynn, Mr. J. T. O'Quin to Miss Clara Hicks.

BUCKELEW—KEMP.—At the residence of the bride, by Rev. J. F. Wynn, Dr. W. H. Buckelew to Miss Louisa Kemp, both of Grant parish, La.

McCLENDON—FISHER.—At the residence of the bride, near Damascus, Scott county, Miss., November 15, 1888, by Rev. Irvin Miller, Mr. W. S. McClendon to Mrs. M. L. Fisher.

COLEMAN—LOVE.—At the residence of the bride's father, two miles east of Canton, Miss., November 15, 1888, by Rev. W. H. Lewis, Mr. A. B. Coleman and Miss Annie B. Love.

WATSON—DAUGHTY.—At the residence of Mrs. Lizzie Carter, near Greensburg, La., November 15, 1888, by Rev. J. W. Ellison, Mr. W. Lexander Watson and Miss Mollie W. Daughty.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

BRINGHURST—It is said, "Death loves a shining mark;" we should the rather say, God wants his jewels. GEORGE AUGUSTUS BRINGHURST was born near Alexandria, La., August 16, 1870; and departed this life, October 5, 1888, aged eighteen years, one month and twenty-nine days. He was the son of Mr. R. W. Bringhurst and Mrs. L. T. Leckie Bringhurst. This dear young man was educated during his boyhood at home, under the especial care of a pious mother; and was thus shut in from the usual contaminating influences of public-school life. We can truly say of him, that he never either learned or practiced the gross sins that so often characterize the youth of our day. He was in his life and character of virgin purity. When sixteen years of age he was sent to the Texas Military State Institute. So very thoroughly had he been taught in the principles of high-toned morality, that he maintained his integrity of moral purity through the year he attended this school. He was taken quite ill about the close of the term, returned home, but never entirely regained his health. He was stricken down with swamp fever in September last; which dire disease proved too much for his physical constitution, the skill of his physicians, and the tenderest care of loving parents, brothers, sisters and friends. On the evening of October 4 he sent for me, and I hastened to his bedside. I found him within a few hours of his dissolution, but fully conscious of what was passing. I immediately spoke to him of his soul's condition, and he unhesitatingly responded in declarations of trust in Christ, readiness to die and fearlessness for the conflict. Thus has passed to the companionship of angels and God, a kind, obedient, loving son and brother. I hope parents, after reading this, will see more clearly the importance of pure home influence for their children, and be lead to more earnest consecration to this grandest of all calling, the training of children for Christ.

B. F. WHITE.

MALONE—MARY JANE MALONE was born in Jones county, Ga., February 13, 1832, and was married to J. A. Malone, December 12, 1856; moved to Louisiana, in 1858, and settled in Claiborne parish. After the war she moved near Pine Grove Church, where she joined the church in August, 1866. In 1878 she moved to Webster parish, where my acquaintance with her began. She died October 24, 1888. She was a quiet, Christian lady, not very demonstrative, but always ready to talk on religious subjects. She loved the house of God, but was deprived of attending church for the last two years with a slow lingering disease; but she was ripening for heaven. A few weeks before she died she told her eldest son that she would leave them, and that she was ready; gave directions about her burial, and for them to look after her youngest son and not let him go astray. Solomon describes her: "The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her; she looketh well to the ways of her household; her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her." She leaves a husband, three sons, one daughter and four grandchildren to mourn her loss. Farewell, Aunt Jane, may my last end be like yours!

A FRIEND.

BRIDGES—JAMES, son of S. Wilson and S. E. W. Bridges, of St. Helena parish, La., was born February 21, 1886, and died October 13, 1888. Another sweet little bud of promise, but as it began to enfold its beautiful and sweet life, in the home of loved ones, was nipped by the destroying form of death, so that "e'en in bloom-ing, it withered and died," and was transplanted in heaven under the loving eye and tender care of him who said: "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of heaven." May this truth console the stricken parents, and quicken their pace to meet their loved ones where partings will be no more!

J. W. ELLISON, Pastor.

DEGEAR—MRS. C. DEGEAR departed this life at her home, in Algiers, August 2, 1888, aged sixty-eight years. She was born in Cassel, Germany, July 8, 1820, and was born from above about the twenty-sixth year of her age. Her conversion, which she often related in class meeting, was after the old style and somewhat on the Pauline order, being accompanied with a supernatural manifestation of light coming from above. It made her supremely happy, and caused her to shout aloud with joy, and from that time her career, as a Christian was upward and onward. She never doubted her conversion, and lived in the joy of her first love for many years. About twenty years after, as nearly as the writer can gather the facts, she was baptized with the Holy Ghost and fire, and from that time her religious life took on a higher phase and showed itself in works more abundant, while she ever after rejoiced in the full assurance of faith and hope. Sister DeGear was constant and powerful in prayer. Often, when engaged in this duty she seemed a wrestling Jacob, pleading and claiming the promises of God, and, like him, prevailing. She believed in the reality of prayer as the great channel of God's blessing, and exemplified her faith by asking often and importunately for the supply of her needs. Her joy over the returning sinner was great, indeed. It was truly the joy of angels, and showed itself in her countenance and whole deportment. One of her chief traits as a Christian was her liberality to the poor of all classes and denominations; she clothed and fed them, and, especially, if any came in the name of Jesus, it was her chief joy to serve them. Many in that day will rise up and call her blessed, while the whole community in which she lived mourns the death of a benefactor. She loved her Bible; to her it was the book of books. She fed upon its precepts constantly, and to her it was a subject of daily delight. The evidences of this are abundantly seen in the well-marked pages of that which had been her constant companion for many years. Her end was peace. She expressed to ministers and others her perfect resignation to the will of God, and, indeed, seemed anxious to quit this mortal frame and be with her much-loved Lord. Death had no sting for her, and her face was radiant with the promise of the heavenly world. As one who was deeply obliged to her, the writer would place this weak tribute to her memory. Under her roof he was converted and brought to the knowledge of the truth, and by her motherly counsels he was trained up the nurture and admonition of the Lord. To her, indeed, he feels himself indebted more than feeble language can express.

JOHN F. SMITH.

SMITHSON—MRS. JULIA ANNA SMITHSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Landrum, was born at Thomastown, November 10, 1850; was married to C. T. Smithson, February 23, 1873; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with her husband, under the pastorate of the Rev. R. P. Mitchell, in Kosciusko, Miss., October 3, 1880; died at her home in Leake county, Miss., August 21, 1888, in her thirty-eighth year. At twenty-five minutes after the vigilant clock had struck 10 P. M. her spirit passed out without a struggle, as softly as the music quits the string, and left for immortality. She was the mother of four interesting children. On May 6, she gave her infant daughter, Bertha Ermin, to Christian, holy baptism. In July she had the pleasure of seeing her daughter, Lora, join the church. She knew it not, but her work on earth then was nearly done. Sister Smithson was a high type of Christian womanhood, beloved by a wide circle of friends, and esteemed by the whole community. She was the presiding genius of her happy household, over which she exerted a godly influence, and now her children "rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and praiseth her." She lived a devoted Christian, and, of course, died in the faith. Fond parents, affectionate husband and lovely children were strong ties to bind her to earth; but the silver cord is loosed, the golden bowl is broken, the spirit is gone to the city of God.

GEORGE W. BROWN.

FLINT—MRS. ROBERTA FLINT (nee Laney) was born in Louisburg, Penn., December 5, 1830; was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, when but a child; was married to Mr. James T. Flint, March 3, 1851; was the mother of three sweet little children; lived a very happy life and was translated to the kingdom triumphant, October 1, 1888, aged twenty-seven years, nine months and twenty-eight days. Thus has passed away from us a beautiful young wife and mother, to the companionship of the pure in heaven. Sister Flint was happy in all her relationships as wife, mother, sister and friend. She told her pastor when dying that she was not afraid to die; and used our Savior's prayer as he agonized in the garden: "Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; yet not my will, but thine be done." In her death was the divinity of our holy religion truly demonstrated. Her death occurred near the close of a revival service, which we were holding in Alexandria. Thus God set his seal of approval to the great truths that we had been preaching to the people. May her triumphant death be sanctified to the bringing of many of our citizens to Christ! Sister Flint leaves many dear to her by the ties of blood, and many friends to mourn her departure. May they wisely follow her, fulfilling the solemn promises made her when dying! We are one the more in heaven.

B. F. WHITE.

From the Centropolis, Kansas City, Mo., December 1st, 1887:

There is nothing so valuable to us as health, but we do not realize this until we are deprived of it. How many of our readers awake in the morning with dull pains in the back and head, and find it a hard task to perform daily duties? These are symptoms of Malaria, and we know from personal trial they may be completely eradicated by Shallenberger's Antidote for Malaria. It is a simple and effective remedy, and we advise our readers to try it.

Scientific.

Nest-Building Fishes.

Among the nest-building fishes which inhabit German waters, the most interesting is the tiny "stickleback," whose life-history has been carefully studied. The home of this little animal is sometimes found in ditches, hanging among branches and twigs of plants. The nest is about the size of the average hand, and in structure and material bears a marked resemblance to the round nest of the titmouse. It is a peculiar and remarkable fact that among the sticklebacks the hatching is done by the male and not by the female fish. The building of the nest, a task to which the male also attends, is an interesting event. For many days in succession the little animal, whose energy and perseverance are truly worthy of admiration, collects its material, which consists of loose stalks, plant-shreds, root-fibers and grass. These it assorts carefully, discarding all material that proves too light. It often drags along pieces exceeding its body in length, and sometimes with great exertion strips growing plants. All this material is worked up into a tangled mass, and layers of sand are scattered in between. The nest is rendered firm by a glue-like juice, which the little mason excretes after the completion of each layer, gliding slowly over the structure; this causes the separate parts of the nest to adhere closely together. The whole, when completed, has the appearance of a sand-hill, and is detected with much difficulty. While at work the fish rarely partakes of any food. It seems that during this blissful period of its existence it finds no pleasure in such every-day events; but with intense animosity it drives back any jealous rivals, larvæ, salamanders or waterbugs, which cross its path, sometimes with evil, sometimes with harmless intentions. After the troublesome hatching-time is over, the anxious papa still continues to care for his numerous offspring. By day and by night he watches over them, and drives away all creatures whose approach seems dangerous. This unremitting watchfulness ceases only when his young are able to raise their weapons of defense and have become somewhat acquainted with their surroundings. Any inquisitive little one venturing too far away is quickly sent home, and it actually happens that those who are very disobedient are imprisoned in the nest. The home life of these little animals really presents an abundance of interesting and touching traits.—Popular Science Monthly.

TORCH-BEARING FISHES.—It is wonderful to see how God in his providence adapts the creatures he has made to the circumstances and state in which they are placed. The fishes that live in the waters of deep and dark caves are found to be without eyes, as they have no need of light. And in the deep sea-soundings of the ocean, a mile or more below the surface, where the fishes are cut off altogether from the light of day, many of them are furnished with their own light. As they have no clear sunlight and no organized gas companies, each carries his lantern or torch with him. They have organs that give out a phosphorescent gleam, and so shed light on their path. Some of them carry little torches in the form of tentacles that rise from the tops of their heads, and others have regular symmetrical rows of luminous spots along their sides, so that they go flashing through the water as if in a torch-light procession. Sometimes when brought to the surface, these spots glimmer for a little while with the light, but it soon fades away. How marvelous are the works of God! In wisdom he hath made them all!

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a purely vegetable preparation, being free from injurious ingredients. It is peculiar in its curative power.

The years of God are full and satisfying; each soul shall have its turn; it is his good pleasure to give us the kingdom. There is so much room; there are such thronging possibilities; there is such endless hope!—A. D. T. Whitney.

Health, wealth and happiness follow in the wake of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25c.

To frostbites and bites of poisonous insects Salvation Oil gives immediate relief.

MISCELLANEOUS.

COLGATE & CO'S

SACHET POWDERS

For Perfuming

HOLIDAY GIFTS.

If you cannot obtain our Sachet Powders send 25 cts. in stamps to Colgate & Co. 55 John St., New York, who will mail you a package of one of the following odors sufficient to perfume several Holiday presents.

Cashmere Bouquet, Heliotrope, Caprice, Jockey Club, Violet and White Rose.

PIANOS ORGANS

GRAND Summer Sale

CASH PRICES—PAY WHEN COTTON IS SOLD.

GRAND OFFER, 1,000 Pianos and Organs

To be sold in August, September and October, at ROCK BOTTOM CASH PRICES, payable PIANOS only $25 Cash. ORGANS only $10 Cash. And balance Dec. 1, without interest or advance on lowest cash price. Buy now and pay when Cotton is sold. Great Bargains—Pianos $200, $225, $250. Organs $24, $35, $50, $80. 10 makers, 300 styles. All freight paid. 10 days' test trial. Reduced Prices. Write for Mid-Summer Sale Circular. LUDDEN & BATES, SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE SAVANNAH, GA. The Great P. & O. Depot of the South.

In all the world there is but one OPIUM cure for the Habit. The Dr. J. L. Stephens Remedy never fails, and no other treatment ever cures. We have cured more than 10,000 cases. No other treatment ever cured one case. NO PAY TILL CURED. Remember this, and write to the J. L. Stephens Co., Lebanon, Ohio.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

113 Common Street.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases. A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel. The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

PERFECT SAFETY

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

It has been used with most wonderful effect in

Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c.

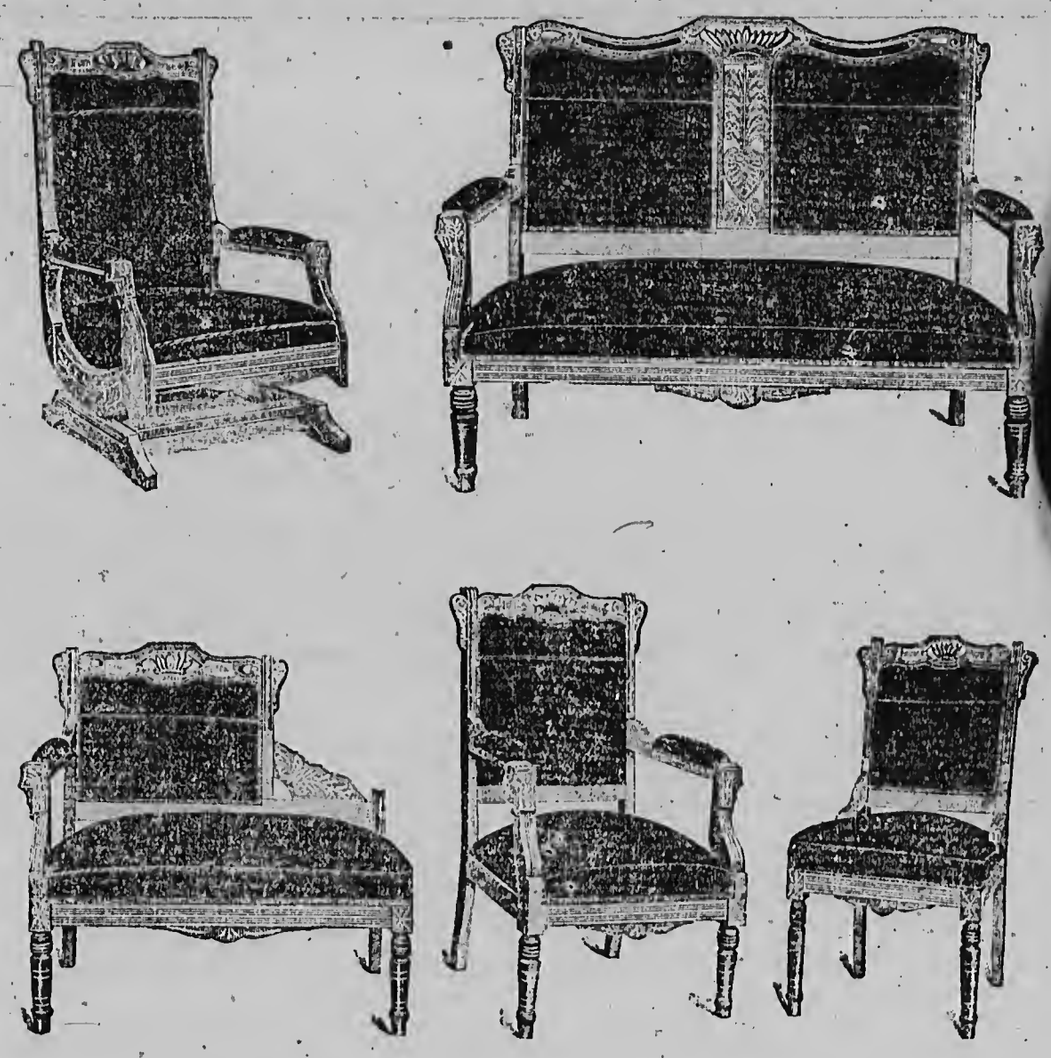
Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2-cent stamp to

MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA.

GRANT'S

FURNITURE HOUSE.



$35.00

Buys a beautiful Crimson Plush Parlor Suit, in five pieces, as shown in illustration. Solid Walnut Frame, Hand-carved and Rubbed Oil Polish. Same suit in Hair Cloth, $35.

$45.00

Buys the same suit in five pieces, covered in Silk Plush, all one color, in either of the following: Crimson, Old Gold, Olive, Peacock Blue or Maroon; or the same set made up in all the above colors.

$55.00

Buys the suit in ten pieces, including the five pieces here shown, one more Sofa and four Parlor Chairs covered in plush.

$65.00

Buys the same set—ten pieces—covered in Silk Plush—all one color, or five different colors.

Plush Rockers, Reception Chairs, Reed and Rattan Rockers, Fancy Tables in Walnut, Mahogany, Oak and Cherry.

$20.00

Buys a French Bed-Room Set.

$69.50

Buys a beautiful Victoria Bed-Room Set, in Imitation Walnut, Marble-top—twelve pieces—as follows: Bedstead, Dresser, Wash-stand, Armoir, four Cane-seat Chairs, one Cane-seat Rocker, one Towel Rack, one Spring, and one Centre Table.

$95.00

Buys a magnificent Black Walnut Bed-Room Set, Marble-Top, Satin Tester, brass rods—twelve pieces as above.

$19.00

Buys a Dining-Room Set, including Sideboard, Extension Table, and six Cane-seat Chairs.

$22.00

Buys a Kitchen Set, including a first-class Stove with Utensils, Kitchen Safe, Kitchen Table, four Kitchen Chairs.

Office and Library Furniture in large variety.

CARPETS—Ingrain, Brussels and Velvets.

Rugs, Portiers and Lace Curtains in all styles and at all prices.

☞Figures talk; and if you doubt, call and inspect the goods. Everything else proportionately cheap. Stock complete with the latest designs and fresh from the best factories. Call and examine, and I guarantee polite attention, reliable goods, fair dealing and bottom prices at the Cheapest FURNITURE HOUSE in NEW ORLEANS.

J. G. GRANT, 50 and 52 Baronne Street.

☞Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

EDUCATIONAL.

A ROAD TO SUCCESS.

One of the grand avenues to successful business life leads through

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

where every student buys and sells, receives and pays, corresponds, calculates, attends Business Lectures, forms and dissolves co-partnerships, keeps books and transacts business in the same manner as do Merchants, Manufacturers, Bankers, etc., in daily business.

This renowned and progressive Institution has for the past thirty-two years enjoyed the confidence and support of the discerning public for its faithful, high-grade, practical education.

Soule College has also Higher English, Academical, Mathematical, Shorthand and Type-writing Schools. For catalogues address,

GEO. SOULE, President,
183 St. Charles Street, New Orleans, La.

N. B.—Soule's New Science and Practice of Accounts (416 pp.) and Soule's Philosophic Work on Practical Mathematics (850 pp.) are replete with expert and practical accounting and with the highest work and the rarest gems of the sciences of which they treat. Price $5 each. For sale at the College office.

Mention this Paper.

Leche's Graded Institute.

DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL.

Seventh Session Opens Monday, September 10, 1888.

English, French, Latin, German, Drawing, Shorthand, Type-writing. For prospectus address A. S. LECHE, 7 Prytania street.

Mention this paper.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.
PROF. B. F. RIDDLE, Sec.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the V., S. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 1889.
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—board, books, tuition and fees—of a complete English course for one term of twenty weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address
R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

J. H. BRUNNER, Pres.
G. W. HUDDLESTON, Sec.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The New York Herald, on November 22, said: "The latest reports from the Congressional districts make the political complexion of the next House very uncertain. Assuming that the Democrats have elected three of the four congressmen from West Virginia, the figures stand—162 Democrats, 162 Republicans, and one Independent. The so-called Independent, who may decide which party shall organize the next house, is Mr. H. Dudley Coleman, of Louisiana, a native of New Orleans, and elected from the Second Louisiana District."

The chief of the Bureau of Statistics, in his fourth monthly statement for the current fiscal year, reports that the total values of the exports of merchandise from the United States, during the twelve months ended October 31, 1888, as compared with similar exports during the corresponding period of 1887, were: For 1888, $721,595,230; 1887, $678,122,850. The values of the imports were: For 1888, $707,157,198; 1887, $722,776,339.

Gen. J. M. Palmer asked for and received an honorable discharge from the Grand Army of the Republic. Gen. Palmer, who was a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket in the recent election, was the first department commander for the State of Illinois and was ex-officio commander-in-chief of the United States. It is said that he bases his withdrawal upon an alleged violation of the constitution and ritual, charging that the order has been perverted to political purposes.

A gang of seven counterfeiters were arrested in Western New York and Pennsylvania recently. Though the authorities refuse to talk about the capture, it is considered one of the most important cases on record.

The foreign bankers who have ordered gold for shipment to Europe state that owing to the demand of London for gold bars for shipment to Russia and South America, bankers on the other side are paying for gold a fraction over the nominal price. A firm in New York City has just ordered $512,000 in gold bars from the assay office for shipment to Europe.

A large fire occurred in the business portion of this city on November 23. Four buildings were burned; the loss estimated at $150,000.

T. V. Powderly has been re-elected General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor by the General Assembly of that order, in session at Indianapolis.

The chief of police of Galveston, Texas, says in a card that in consequence of the general opposition to the Sunday Law, and the impossibility to secure a conviction in court of the violators of it, he will cease his efforts in trying to enforce it.

A terrific snow-storm prevailed throughout New England and the Middle States on November 25, the wind blowing at the rate of eighty miles an hour. Many vessels were driven from their anchorage and lost, and serious damage was done in the seacoast towns and cities.

FOREIGN.

The German Reichstag reassembled on November 22. Emperor William opened the session in person. In his speech he said that the tours he had recently made had convinced him that the desire for imperial unity was deeply rooted in the people. With reference to foreign relations he said: "Our relations with all the foreign powers are peaceful. My efforts have been unceasing to strengthen this peace. The alliance with Austria and Italy has no other object. To bring without necessity the miseries, even of a victory, of war upon Germany would be incompatible with my Christian faith and my duties towards the German people."

At a meeting of merchants held in Havana, Cuba, on November 23, a committee was appointed for the purpose of making every effort to effect the repeal of the recent decree imposing a consumption tax on all edibles, drinkables and fuel. The whole Cuban press has protested against the measure and the clamor against it has been so great that the mayor has resigned his position.

It is said that M. De Lesseps, in the event of the Credit Foncier refusing to assist him in obtaining the Panama loan, threatens to publish an account of every step he has been forced to take in the course of the Panama crusade. The revelations will affect several members of the Chamber of Deputies.

The Chinese Times, received by the steamer Rio de Janeiro, states that the first railway in China was officially opened on November 9. Eighty-one miles have been completed from Tien-Tsin to Lutai and Tungshan, with five miles of sidings and branches.

Vienna papers originate the idea that a European congress should determine a basis for a universal league of peace. From the same source comes rumors that the chiefs of the German Empire so dread the results of war that they are ready to make sacrifices to secure the Fatherland against aggression. The suggestions appear to refer to the surrender of Alsace-Lorraine, which is an impossibility while Germany remains united. In the meantime, instead of preparing for a peace millennium, the governments are seeking to develop their sinews of war.

The meetings announced to be held throughout Ireland, on November 23, in memory of the "Manchester Martyrs," were proclaimed by the government. A few conflicts occurred between the people and the police. The most serious disturbance was at Kilkenny.

One Fact

is worth a column of rhetoric, said an American statesman. It is a fact, established by the testimony of thousands of people, that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, salt rheum, and other diseases or affections arising from impure state or low condition of the blood. It also overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to every part of the system. Try it.

How to Use Sachet Powders.

BY MRS. M. E. LAMBERT.

Just now at the approach of the holiday season there is a general desire or craze for sachet powders, those dainty yet luxurious perfumes which are easily and effectually used in all the novel creations for home decoration, and even in charming dress fancies.

Dozens of methods have been recently introduced, in which these delicate and refined odors may be utilized. Every lady has her pot-pourri jar in which she throws the petals of fragrant blossoms, and a choice variety of the delightful sachet powders added to the other sweet scents, convert the mass into a regular cashmere bouquet.

The sachet powders can be correctly placed in every thing made with lining, or in each article to which a tiny sachet-bag can be secured or fastened by a loop, bow, or knot of ribbon.

In satin covered, richly decorated down pillows the powders may be thickly scattered, in sofa sachet-bags with hand-painted designs, in hanging bags, in pin cushions, in lined table covers, window, piano and mantel lambrequins, in lamp mats, and also in decorated panels of satin, plush, or velvet, painted or embroidered.

Bosom sachet-bags are used in place of the bag of camphor to prevent the taking of infectious disease, and ladies now carry lovely bags in which their handkerchiefs and scent bottle may be placed, and later on all the fancy muffs of silk, satin, velvet, plush and lace, will be scented with the favorite perfume of the owner.

Quaint ornaments for the corners of chairs are laden with perfumes, and perfectly charming are the clusters of small bags in various colors, in bits of ribbon, plush or velvet, suspended by narrow ribbons from lace curtains or gas fixtures.

Then there are boxes made for holding gentlemen's collars and cuffs, satin lined and perfumed, and brush cases, glove cases, mouchoir cases, fancy slippers for the bed-room, night-dress cases, jewel cases, and beautiful cases for holding photographs or fancy pictures.

The new book covers for protecting the ontside of valuable books are perfumed, and so are baby baskets, work baskets, and other dainty baskets, or hanging fancies for holding scraps or odds and ends in bed-rooms or library.

The most lasting and delicate powders are Colgate & Co's Cashmere Bouquet, Caprice, Heliotrope, West End, White Rose, Violet and Ylang-Ylang.

If you can not obtain these Powders send to Colgate & Co., 55 John Street, New York, 25 cents in stamps, and they will mail you a package of Powder sufficient to perfume several holiday gifts.

"Why should a man whose blood is warm within his veins sit like his grandsire carved in alabaster?" He shouldn't. He should stir around and make something of himself. One of the best ways of doing this is to engage with B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va.

FOR CHRISTMAS.

JOHNSON'S UNIVERSAL CYCLOPEDIA

[Revised]

Is a whole library of universal knowledge from the pens of the ablest scholars in America and Europe. It is accepted as high authority in our leading colleges. It is not for the few, like Appleton's, the Britannica or the International, but for all. It has just been thoroughly revised at a cost of over $60,000, and three years' labor by forty editors and over 2,000 renowned contributors. It is in eight convenient sized volumes. No father can give his child at school or his son or daughter just entering the arena of life anything that will be of more permanent benefit. It is an education supplementary to that of the schools. Address for particulars and terms,

A. J. JOHNSON & CO.,
11 Great Jones Street, New York.

B. D. Wood & Sons.

Those who need coal will do well to send their orders to the above firm, as it is one of the largest and most reliable in the South. The senior member of the firm is a member of Rayne Memorial Church, in this city, and is one of the most progressive and public-spirited citizens. The firm was formerly B. D. Wood & Bro., but recently Mr. Wood decided on a change so as to admit his sons members of the firm. The new firm deserves the success it is having.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.

Elsewhere will be found the advertisement of the above firm, and we take pleasure in commending these gentlemen to the readers of the ADVOCATE. The firm has been doing business in New Orleans for eighteen years, and is known all over the South. The senior member of the firm is one of our oldest and best citizens and a Christian gentleman, and any business entrusted to his firm will receive prompt attention.

"The Mutual Life."

The Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, is represented in this city by Mr. T. H. Bowles as its General Southern Manager, a thorough business man and gentleman. Mr. Bowles is as reliable as the company he represents; and as to the reliability of the "Mutual Life," it is known of all men. Call and see Mr. Bowles in his elegant office in the Louisiana National Bank Building.

HOUSEHOLD ARTICLES

will be published frequently in THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, giving useful information in various departments of home life—Cooking, Embroidery, and Decoration of the Home, without and within. The Editorial Page gives timely articles about current events at home and abroad. The Children's Page is always crowded with Stories, Anecdotes, Rhymes and Puzzles adapted to the Youngest Readers.

For a free sample of a pleasant remedy for catarrh, bronchitis, colds, etc., used by smoking, send 2 cts postage to Dr. J. W. Blosser & Co., Greensboro, N. C.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

General Insurance Agents

—FOR—

FIRE, RIVER, MARINE, ACCIDENT and BONDING COMPANIES.

Representing the OLDEST and LARGEST Fire Companies both in England and America.

Prompt and Careful Attention Given to All Business Entrusted to Us.

62 BARONNE ST., N. O.

Mention this paper.

29 - - CHARTRES ST. - - 29

F. R. HARDON

Can supply everything in

Fashionable Millinery,

To the Entire Satisfaction of Patrons.

Orders Promptly Filled.

Remember the number.

29 - - CHARTRES ST. - - 29

Mention this paper.

Watches, Diamonds,

FINE JEWELRY,

Silver and Silver-Plated Ware.

SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

(Established 1817)

119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

Mention this paper.

COLD WAVE COMING.

Put on WEATHER STRIPS, fix your grates, cure your smoking chimneys, at small cost. Estimates given.

F. CODMAN FORD,
63 and 69 Baronne street.

COLD WEATHER MUSIC BOOKS.

The chill November winds, the whirling, withered leaves that tap against the window pane, harmonize well with the sweet music and the cheerful songs that are to make winter hours attractive. With your fuel, bring in a goodly quantity of our bright,

NEW MUSIC BOOKS.

These new books are every day more in favor: CLASSICAL PIANIST, PIANO CLASSICS, SONG CLASSICS, SONG CLASSICS FOR LOW VOICES, CLASSIC TENOR SONGS, CLASSIC BARITONE AND BASS SONGS. Each $1.

Praise in Song (40 cts., $4.20 per doz.) is the best new Sacred Music Book for Home and Choir singing.

Let the Children Sing from Menard's Songs for Kindergarten and Primary Schools (30 cts., $3 per doz.), or Emerson's Songs and Games for Little Ones ($2) or Children's School Songs (35 cts., $3.60 per doz.). All have very sweet child's songs.

Give Your Aid in getting up a rousing good evening Singing Class to use Song Harmony (60 cts., $6 per doz.). Full of most interesting music, Sacred and Secular. Song Manual, Book 3 (50 cts., $4.80 per doz.) is also a good collection, mostly secular.

Tell the Temperance People that no better Temperance Song Book has appeared than Bells of Victory (35 cts., $3.60 per doz.).

Xmas is Coming. Send for lists of Christmas Carol Books and Carols.

ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & Co., 867 Broadway, New York.

Mention this paper.

THREE WONDERFUL

SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect.

6,500,000 LADIES

Are Doing Sewing on

SINGER

Family Sewing Machines.

8,000,000

SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,
185 Canal St., New Orleans.
S. E. RENDLE - - - - - AGENT.
Mention this Paper.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

Men's Furnishing Goods.

Headquarters of the Celebrated

STAR SHIRT.

Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

HAVE YOU NASAL CATARRH?

Use Dr. James' three preparations of East India Hemp; they will prevent the Catarrh entering the Bronchial Tubes or lungs, thereby warding off Consumption, and keep the disease located until positively cured. Put yourself fully under the influence of these remedies, and as sure as the sun shines upon you, a complete cure will be made of that loathsome disease.

N. B.—This remedy speaks for itself. A single bottle will satisfy the most skeptical, and will break up a fresh cold in twenty-four hours.

Ask your druggist for Dr. James' Cannabis Indica, and if they fail you, send to us direct. $3.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $9.50. Pills and Ointment, $1.25 each.

Address CHADDOCK & CO.,
1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending November 27, 1888.)

COTTON.
Low ordinary	7 1/16 @	— —
Ordinary	7 5/8	— —
Good ordinary	8 1/4	— —
Low middling	9	— —
Middling	9 1/4	— —
Good middling	10	— —
Middling fair	10 3/4	— —
Fair	11 5/8	— —
Galveston middling	9 3/4	— —
Mobile middling	9 7-16	— —
St. Louis middling	9 1/2	— —
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4 3/4	4 13-16
Fully fair	4 3/4	4 13-16
Good fair	— —	3 11-16
Common	— —	4 3/16
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4 5/8	5 1/2
Pr. yellow	6	— —
Gray White	6	6 1/16
Choice white	6 1/4	6 3/8
Stan. Gran.	6 5/8	— —
MOLASSES.
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	33
Fair	25	26
Good Common	23	24
Syrup	22	30
RICE.
Head	5 1/4	6 3/4
Good	4 3/8	4 3/4
Fair	4 1/8	4 3/8
Good	4 1/8	4 3/8
Polish, per ton	14 00	15 00
No. 2	2 1/8	2 1/4
Rough	2 10	1 10
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 30	5 40
Fancy	5 10	5 20
Choice	4 40	4 50
Minnesota patents	6 40	6 60
Extra fancy	5 50	5 62 1/2
Winter wheat patents	6 07 1/2	6 12 1/2
Minnesota bakers	6 10	6 60
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	2 25	2 30
Cream meal	3 00	— —
Grits	2 85	2 90
Hominy	3 15	— —
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	15 75	16 00
Prime Mess	15 00	15 25
Rumps		14 50
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	8	8 1/4
Sides, long clear	8 1/4	8 3/8
Sides, short rib	8 1/4	8 3/8
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	12	12 1/2
Shoulders	8 1/2	— —
Sides, long clear	9 1/4	— —
Sides, short rib	9 1/8	9 1/4
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	11 1/2	12 1/2
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	17 1/4	17 1/2
Fair	16 3/4	16 1/2
Common	13 3/4	14
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Fair	24	35
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	37	— —
Western Dairy	19	22
Common	— —	16
LARD:
Refined	— —	8 3/8
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11 3/4	— —
Coal, cases	16	17
Cotton seed, crude	— —	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70	75
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western, per head	4 1/2	8
Chicago, per 100	— —	— —
Louisiana, ₩ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 50	1 60
KROUT:
Western, ₩ bbl	3 50	3 75
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 35	— —
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 50	4 75
Young Chickens	2 50	4 00
Chickens, South'n	3 00	3 25
Young	1 75	2 00
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	10 00
EGGS:
Western	18	19
Southern	20	21
WOOL:
Lake, per ₩	20	21
Louisiana	18	19
Burry	10	12
JOBBING HIDES:
Green salted, ₩ ₩	4	4 1/2
Dry salted	6	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	11 00	— —
Meal	21 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	— —
Muriatic acid, ₩ ₩	2 1/2	— —
Sulphuric acid	2	— —

The clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders. The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans, under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

From Rev. Dr. McAnally, editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate.

"I have tried A. & C. Mazdire's Cundurango on myself and others, and it is my opinion that it produces a healthy and safe action on the Liver, Kidneys and secretions generally, there is not a better medicine known, and for persons of libilious or nervous habits its action is most effective and salutary."

D. R. MCANALLY.

The Advocate Free until 1889.

Send $2 now and receive the ADVOCATE free until 1889. Your subscription will not expire until January 1, 1890.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Indorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

Let Every Sunday-school Be Supplied.

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES

FOR THIS YEAR.

"AN HOUR WITH JESUS,"

A NEW 16-PAGE SERVICE BY

WM. H. MORROW,

consisting of Responsive Readings, Recitations, beautiful Hymns and Songs, the Music for which is printed in full.

"The Coming of the Christ-child,"

—AND—

"THE GREAT CHRISTMAS GIFT,"

Both by Rev. J. A. LYONS.

Appropriate Scripture Selections, favorite Songs and Recitations.

Prices: $1.20 for 100; 1 doz. for 25 cents; sample set each for 10 cents.

Order immediately from Publishing House of the M. E. Church, South.

J. D. BARBEE, Agent.

KNABE

PIANO FORTES

UNEQUALLED IN

Tone, Touch, Workmanship and Durability

WILLIAM KNABE & CO.

BALTIMORE, 22 and 24 East Baltimore Street.
NEW YORK, 112 Fifth Ave. WASHINGTON, 817 Market Space.

Mention this paper.

HAVE YOU GOT PILES?

Itching Piles are known by moisture like perspiration causing intense itching when warm. This form as well as Blind, Bleeding and Protruding, yield at once to DR. BO-SAN-KO'S PILE REMEDY, which acts directly on the parts affected, absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. 50 cts. Druggists or mail; treatise free. Dr. Bosanko, Piqua, O.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE is the cheapest and best of all the books, excelling all others in the quality of literature, art, and fashion.

EIGHT original novelets will be given during 1889, besides numerous short stories, from the best and most popular writers of the day. The list of contributors is unequalled.

THERE will be, in 1889, 14 steel-plate engravings; large colored fashion-plates, and hundreds of other illustrations, including patterns, printed in colors, from which ladies can make dresses like those described.

EVERY number will contain a handsome dress pattern, worth the price of the number in itself, as it will enable a lady to cut out her own and children's dresses.

ENOWNED writers and practical subjects for female society in all its spheres; dress, with a series of articles on "Talks by a Trained Nurse" will be valuable features for 1889.

ICK-ROOM, toilette, cooking and receipts; articles on the parlor, furnishing, and household matters, also a mother's department will be found invaluable to every woman.

UR fashion department will present the newest and most stylish designs of the season for ladies and children, both for house and outdoor wear; also the latest fashions in bonnets and hats.

OW is the time to subscribe or to get up clubs. Terms, $2.00 per year, with liberal reductions to clubs and elegant premiums for getting up clubs. Sample copies to those desiring to get up clubs.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE,
306 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

MENTION THIS PAPER.

CHRISTMAS BOX FREE.

THE LADIES' WORLD is an elegant and cheap illustrated paper for the ladies and the family. Each monthly number contains

Boys and Girls," "Mother's Department," "Home Decoration," etc. Every lady is delighted with the paper. We desire to at once double its already large circulation, and in order to introduce it into many homes where it is not already known, we now make the extraordinary offer: Upon receipt of only Twenty-five cents (postage stamps, silver or postal note), our paper, the LADIES' WORLD, for Three Months, and to each new subscriber, Free and post paid, our new Christmas Box, containing all the following valuable articles: 1 Package of Fine Assorted Christmas Cards, beautiful goods, warranted to give satisfaction; 1 Package of Paper Patterns, like a quality, on parchment, with full directions how stamping, for embroidery, etc., to be placed in; 1 Dozen Drawer Handkerchiefs, hemstitched and scalloped; 1 Ladies' Special Pencil, nickel and oxidized; 1 Ladies' Special Pocket Book, enameled leather, with nickel clasp and fittings; 1 Complete Common-sense Cook Book, containing a large collection of cooking and other receipts; 1 Copy of the Good Doctor, a valuable book, telling how to cure all ailments by simple home remedies; 1 Fine Linen Handkerchief; 1 Ladies' Glove Buttoner; 1 Ladies' Companion Book; 1 Fine Button Hook and 1 Lady's Pencil. Remember, we send the Christmas Box, containing all of the above articles, free, and the publication of this paper three months, for only Twenty-five cents and five Christmas Boxes will be sent for $1. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Do not miss this chance. Reference: Any publisher in N. Y. as to reliability. Do not miss this chance. In order to get the benefit of this offer you must write at once. Address

S. H. MOORE & CO., 27 Park Place, New York.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 49. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1688.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION. . . $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. W. L. C. BENNETT, D. D.
REV. T. L. MELLEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. H. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER, M. D.

THE NINETEENTH PSALM.

BY REV. EDWARD A. COLLIER.

The heavens God's glory proclaim:
The skies show his handiwork bright.
The day unto day speaks his name,
And night tells his praise into night.
With speech and with language divine,
No voice breaks their silence profound,
Yet far through the earth goes their line,
Their words to the world's utmost bound.

In them God hath set for the sun
A tent, whence he cometh in grace,
Rejoicing his pathway to run,
As runneth the strong in a race.
From end unto end of the sky,
He maketh his circuit complete;
To none doth his radiance deny,
And nothing is hid from his heat.

How perfect the law of the Lord,
Restoring the soul when cast down;
The witnessing sure of his word,
With wisdom the simple doth crown.
His precepts, all holy and right,
Give gladness to hearts filled with sighs;
His statutes, as pure as the right,
Enlighten the dim, falling eyes.

All clean as the fear of the Lord,
Outshining, outlasting the sun;
The judgments, revealed in his word,
Are righteous and true, every one.
Such treasures, beyond all compare,
No gold well refined can restow;
And sweeter than honey they are,
Than drops that from honeycomb flow.

In keeping their precepts so kind,
My servant most blessed shall be;
The way of the perfect shall find,
And from all transgression be free.
The words that my lips breathe in speech,
The thoughts that abide in my heart,
Accept thou, O Lord, I beseech,
My Rock and Redeemer thou art.

—Bible Society Record.

Letter from the City of Mexico.

MR. EDITOR: In this republic all roads lead to Mexico. It is, and has been for four hundred years, the political, social, commercial and religious center of this famed and favored country. I doubt not it has witnessed more violent revolutions, political and ecclesiastical, and been the scene of more tragedies and triumphs, more conflicts and conquests, than any city in the old or new world. It has been the home alike of pomp and poverty, of prince and peon. The people are equally fond of splendor and content with squalor. War-horse and donkey have shared the right of way on causeway and pásco. And to-day the contrasts are as great, though titles have changed. The President in name is a prince in power. But the people seem to be happy, and the country is moving up to larger prosperity.

My first sight of this wonderful city produced strange sensations. Viewing it from a neighboring mountain, spread out over a beautiful green valley, with its hundreds of domes and towers piercing the sky, I could appreciate the exultation of Cortez, when, from the historic pass between the two snow-crowned summits of the sierras, he first saw the city of the Montezumas, and resolved upon its conquest. It is beautiful for situation, and the pride of all Mexico. Like the mountains round about Jerusalem, volcanic ranges completely gird and guard this ancient capital. Down whichever street the eye turns, the vista ends at the foot of a purple mountain. Conspicuous among these mighty peaks guarding, with eternal vigilance, the beautiful city, rise the majestic, glistening summits of Popocatepetl and Ixtaccihuatl. They are respectively 5,500 and 4,786 metres high. You can calculate the altitude in English feet. From the castle of Chapultepec I saw a sunset on those mountains, which transcended my most extravagant ideals of the sublime in nature. I have not the temerity to attempt a description until the rapture of nerves subsides and the vivid vision is somewhat toned.

The founding of this Aztec city has a tradition quite as interesting as has Rome. You have read it; but a repetition may serve to refresh memory. The story is that an Aztec priest, who had consulted the oracle, instructed his people not to found a city until they saw an eagle standing on a cactus with a serpent in his beak. That realization of the oracle's promise they found on a point of land in the lagoon where the great city now stands. And this is the origin also of the Mexican coat-of-arms. On artificial soil, and with traditional deliberation, the Aztecs erected their cabins, slowly driving back the waters into the lakes, until, at the time of the conquest, they had a city of nearly three hundred thousand souls. But when Montezuma and his desperate legions finally surrendered to the victorious Spaniard, the Indian capital was a heap of ruins and ashes.

When I alighted from the cars at the depot, and rode up the paved paseo, with the solid walls of the flat-roofed houses built out to the street, and each window protected by iron bars, the impression came over me that I had been suddenly let down into an oriental city of the olden time. These buildings are entered through a door, wide enough for a carriage-way, and open into a court, where staircases lead to the upper apartments. These courts are usually adorned with the beautiful flowers so luxuriant and fragrant in this country. From the observatory of the College of Mines, I had a magnificent view of the city. The streets are laid off with mathematical exactness at right angles and parallel, and the houses all have flat roofs, without a single chimney. If one could step across the streets, he could walk over the entire city on the tops of the buildings. There are no fire-places or grates in the rooms, and in the kitchens cooking is done on braseros, with charcoal for fuel. There is no chance, therefore, for poetry on warm hearth-stones within and curling clouds of smoke without. But of the city, its monuments, paseos and Alameda, and its various and curious buildings, I may have occasion to write at length.

After a delicious dinner in our mission house, at No. 3 Alevida Balderas, in company with Sister Carter and Bro. Watkins, I started out to see first the great cathedral, in many respects Mexico's most magnificent architectural monument. In front is the main plaza of the city, and the edifice stands on the very same spot where stood the famous Aztec temple. In the museum may be seen the "sacrificial stone," taken from that heathen sanctuary on which thousands of human beings died at the hands of bloody superstition. After entering the present shrine, and witnessing its gross idolatries, I had grave doubts as to whether the glory of this latter temple was much improvement on the former. The histories say this cathedral was begun in 1573, and was completed in 1657, eighty-four years after its corner-stone was laid, and cost $1,752,000. It is 432 feet long by 203 feet wide, and has two front towers 200 feet in height, which alone cost, $199,000. In the two towers there are forty-eight bells, several of them of immense size and weight, and each named for some saint. The interior of the building is said to belong to the Doric order. There are fifteen or twenty small chapels on the sides, each richly adorned with paintings and gildings, and dedicated to the worship of a particular deity. In the center, beneath the frescoed dome, and between the choir and the altar of the kings, stands the main altar. A list of the jewels and precious stones which once adorned the life-sized statues of the apostles, disciples and favorite saints standing above that altar, would amaze you with the magnificent prodigality and superstitious opulence of the Spanish king, from whom they were an acceptable present. For two hours or more we lingered, studying the paintings in the chapels and observing the idolatrous performances of the ragged and dirty devotees. I saw less than a half-dozen persons with clean faces and respectable dress on their knees before the several altars and images. There are no pews or seats in the building. The "faithful" kneel or sit on the floor as they elect. A number of fonts of holy water—made of onyx stone, and very beautiful—are located at convenient places for pious use. I noticed the prayer-sayings and bowings of the ignorant worshiper, and concluded that they were sad strangers to true devotion. Their eyes roam over the building with their prayers, and frequently stop to exchange remarks, with accompanying laughs. Bro. Watkins approached one old woman on her knees, with busy lips and fingers, saying prayers and counting beads, and asked her a question which led to quite a conversation. When we passed on her devotions were resumed. A few days thereafter another old lady, on her knees, stopped her prayers long enough to offer a gentleman a lottery ticket. It ought to be said, however, that the lottery was for the benefit of the church, and is conducted under immediate priestly supervision. Near each chapel is a locked box for the offerings of the faithful. Over one of those boxes I noticed a horrid painting, representing a woman in purgatory, with the red flames enwrapping her person, and with an inscription below reciting the fact that money there paid would secure masses for such poor souls. Other larger, and even more horridly realistic paintings of purgatory, were hung near the images of certain saints. My soul was stirred to the very depths at such superstition, and I wondered if all paganism could present a more deadly idolatry. O, for more consecrated workers to show these people the true light and lead them in the right way!

In connection with the old woman's proposal to sell a lottery ticket in the cathedral, while on her knees in prayer, I must relate another incident. An official notice (aviso) pasted on the front, inside door of San Hipolito, I saw, and which, translated by Bro. Carter, read as follows:

"LOTTERY FOR SOULS.

"'In the raffle for souls, held in this church, the thirty masses of St. Gregory were won by Agapito Solis; the mass with vigil and honor was won by Guadalupe Maury; and nine special masses were won by the following nine persons" (here were inserted the names).

And such means of raising revenue are common, and are run by order of archbishop, bishops, and other clergy. The sanctuary of the Holy Virgin of Guadalupe, the patroness of Mexico, is sustained principally by a lottery.

But I am reminded that this letter is too long to give an account of my first Sabbath in Mexico. I wanted to tell of the services in San Andres, from the morning Sunday-school to the evening doxology; but will have to reserve the account for another issue. Bro. Watkins, the pastor, has had quite a revival in the church, during which over seventy souls were converted, and fifty or more added to our membership.

Bro. Winton and family have arrived from California, and all the missionaries are well and full of hope.

I hold the Pueblo District Conference this week, and the Annual Conference at San Luis Potosi next week.

Fraternally,

CHAS. B. GALLOWAY.

NOVEMBER 17, 1888.

The Demand for Trained Ministers.

BY "GILDEROY."

The time has fully come when the North Mississippi Conference ought to do something creditable and noble in the way of providing educational facilities for poor, but worthy young men called of God to preach the gospel. We grow preachers enough to supply our own work, and some for export to the regions beyond. Such as we must need at home are most in demand in other parts. The fact is, the demand for educated and well-trained young men is now far greater than the supply, and the demand is increasing every day. It will not do to say the demand is wrong, for we have to take things as they are. No amount of, apparently, pious sentiment will change the facts in the case. The demand is general—I may say, universal—all over our widespread Methodism. The calls for fairly well-trained young men are long and loud from every nook and corner of our territory. If the demand is not met, hundreds and thousands of people will turn away from us, and, perhaps, from all the churches and from the religion of our Lord. Our Bishops are burdened with these calls. They are hard pressed to find suitable men for the work. This correspondent has had a score or more letters this year from presiding elders and leading laymen in the West and Northwest, asking for the names and addresses of young men whom he could recommend as having training enough to fill the pulpit without giving offense in the matter of fairly good grammar. Surely a preacher ought to have training enough to speak readily and tolerably correctly his mother-tongue. Few people are absolutely perfect in any language. Year after year worthy young men knock at the door of our Conference, who do not know how to spell correctly the simplest words, who can not write correctly a half-dozen simple English sentences. If these men preach at all, they have to preach in English. They ought to know enough about it to express their thoughts in it. Many, perhaps most, of these young men are not at all to blame for this state of things. They could not help it. It is their misfortune, and not their fault. They are the sons of poor, uneducated men and women who knew nothing of the value of education, or, knowing, did not have the means to send their children to school. The young men may have longed for improvement, but had no one to help, no one to guide them. The number of the sons of poor widows, called of God to preach the gospel, would surprise any man who had not given attention to it. It is an encouragement to widows themselves. O, how our covenant-keeping God honors the fidelity and prayers of pious widowed mothers all over our land! The church of God might be a father to these fatherless boys, and qualify them for the work of the Lord. Your correspondent writes out of a full heart. He has been over this ground. He knows every inch of the way; its steep places and its dark valleys. He knows the longing, the agony, the fears, the hopes, the deep sorrows of an ignorant, uneducated young man trying, with lameness and in the midst of apparently insurmountable difficulties, to fit himself for the great work of the ministry. He knows what it is to lament through weary years the mistake of having entered the work with no suitable preparation for it. He knows what it is to pick up some knowledge of his mother-tongue at odd times, of rainy days, at night by torch-light, with no one to help and no one to guide. O, the prayers I've sent up to God for the Holy Ghost to help me understand English grammar, arithmetic and algebra, to say nothing of his Holy Word! Your correspondent knows the deep and lasting gratitude of a boy's heart to have an old friend of his father give him a few months' schooling after he was licensed to preach. Charles Martin is in heaven now, but I owe him a debt of gratitude which my heavenly Father will pay him for me in the name of Christ.

Surely, surely, if our people knew or understood these things, they would provide a fund to help young men to get ready for this great work. What a treasure they might lay up in heaven in this way! Moth would not corrupt it, nor thieves break through and steal it. They might make multiplied friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; but, instead of making friends too many, are moulding weights to sink their own souls to the bottom of hell. O, that God may wake us up by his Spirit to see our needs and our opportunities!

NOVEMBER 20, 1888.

Mexican Border Conference.

This body convened, in fourth annual session, in Del Rio, Texas, October 31st to November 4, with Bishop W. W. Duncan as president, and R. W. MacDonell, S. G. Kilgrove and I. S. Rivera, secretaries. The attendance, clerical and lay, was good, considering the territory over which the work is scattered. Two missionaries were absent on account of sickness—Elias Robertson, the Conference treasurer; and P. C. Bryce; one, J. D. Scoggins, was too far away to be present, his mission, Mazatlan, on the Pacific Coast, being fifteen hundred miles from the seat of the Conference.

This was the second time we have had Bishop Duncan with us, he having presided at our last session in Monclova. We like him more than ever, and would gladly have him another year, if we could. The Bishop is in hearty sympathy with the work and the workers, and has left substantial tokens of the interest he feels in generous contributions to our mission and church extension enterprises.

The following is a summary of the business transacted:

Juan J. Mucado and Julian Castro were admitted on trial. Pedro Nuncio readmitted, and Manuel Flores located. Adolfo Cardenas admitted into full connection. D. F. Acosta elected and ordained elder. One, Nicolas Rodriguez, was expelled.

Members, 1,496—a net gain of 136; adults baptized, 195; infants baptized, 212; number of churches, 11—value, $21,850; parsonages, 5—value, $6,350; value of other church property, $5,675 85; money expended on churches and parsonages, $9,014 64; Sunday-schools, 77; officers and teachers, 129; scholars, 1,651; number of copies of "Evangelista Mexicano" taken, 576; value of books sold and given away, $1,020 15; collected for missions, $695 35; for church extension, $217 10; for Bishops, $50; for Conference claimants, $143 74; for education, $52 85; for Bible cause, $19 55; for support of ministry, $407 27; for other objects, $660 08; total amount raised for all purposes, $2,251 94.

Without including South western University, located at Georgetown, Texas, in which the Conference has an interest, there are in the bounds of the mission, 8 schools, with 20 teachers and 316 scholars. This includes the schools of the Woman's Board at Laredo and Saltillo, the Frontier Institute at Monterey, now called the "Anglo-Mexican College," a seminary for girls at Nogales, Ariz., and schools for boys and girls at Chihuahua, Durango, and Monclova. The seminary at Nogales is hardly a year old; yet it has 58 pupils in attendance, all of whom, with one exception, are pay-scholars. The Rosebuds will support the Anglo-Mexican College at Monterey, and this will be hereafter the training-school for native preachers for the Central and Border Conferences.

Our Conference Board of Missions supports two Mexican preachers—one at Medina, Texas, the other at LaCruz, N. M. The auxiliary Church Extension Board helps to build two churches this year—one at El Paso, Texas, the other at Allende, in the State of Coahuila.

As illustrative of the mission's growth, it may be mentioned that a new district was formed to embrace all mission stations in Sonora, Sinaloa, and Lower California, and in Arizona Territory. A new missionary was sent to Nogales, Ariz., and one is needed for Durango, Mexico, and another for Lower California.

From our ranks was sent out a missionary to the Indians. Pedro Nuncio, a Mexican convert and preacher, was sent to the Indian Mission Conference, in response to a call from Rev. J. J. Methvin. He will preach to the Comanches, most of whom speak Spanish.

The anniversary collection for missions and church extension netted over $670 in subscriptions and cash, which, I suppose, is more than some of the older Conferences will raise.

APPOINTMENTS FOR 1888-89.

MONTERREY DISTRICT.—J. H. Sutherland, P. E. Monterey, A. H. Sutherland; Saltillo, J. J. Mercado; San Francisco, Ignacio Escalante; Huajuco and Cadereyta, E. Rodriguez; Marin, to be supplied; Lampazas, A. San Miguel; Laredo, Luis Guzman.

SAN ANTONIO DISTRICT.—S. Tafolla, P. E. San Antonio, S. Tafolla, P. C. Bryce—Elias Robertson, supernumerary; Lodi, S. Romo; Corpus Christi and San Diego, M. Trevino; Medina and Bandera, J. P. Rodriguez; San Marcos, M. San Miguel; Concepcion, to be supplied.

TAMAULIPAS DISTRICT.—J. Leon, P. E. Miet, A. de Leon; Camargo, Eulalio Chavez; Rio Grande City, C. Quesenberry; Reynosa, to be supplied (by M. Pompa); Cerralvo, B. Soto; Guerrero, P. Grado; Rio San Juan, Julian Castro.

MONCLOVA DISTRICT.—C. J. Rodriguez, P. E. Monclova, D. F. Acosta; San Buenaventura, J. M. Guzman; Cuatro Cienegas, M. Pineda; Muzquiz, Josue Acosta; Zaragoza and Guerrero, Jose M. Chavez; Piedras Negras, to be supplied (by M. Gutierrez); Del Rio, to be supplied (by E. Villalobos).

DURANGO DISTRICT.—R. W. MacDonell, P. E. Durango, R. W. MacDonell, and one American missionary to be supplied; Nombre de Dios, H. C. Hernandez; San Juan del Rio, to be supplied (by Eustaquio Hernandez); Cuencame, to be supplied; Chihuahua, S. G. Kilgore; Santa Rosalia, Pedro Vasquez; El Paso and Fort Davis, M. Villareal; La Luz, A. Cardenas; Lincoln, to be supplied (by Pedro Garcia).

SONORA DISTRICT.—John F. Corbin, P. E. Sonora, John F. Corbin; Nogales, to be supplied (by one American missionary); Guaymas, P. Verduzco; Mazatlan and Sinaloa, J. D. Scoggins, I. S. Rivera; Lower California, to be supplied.

Pedro Nuncio, transferred to Indian Mission Conference.

R. W. MACDONELL.

DURANGO, NOV. 27, '88.

Fares to the Louisiana Conference.

The Mississippi Valley road has expressed a willingness to furnish round-trip tickets to preachers and delegates for one and one-third fares, and the Southern Pacific (Morgan Route) at one and one-quarter fares. The Texas Pacific will sell round-trip tickets at one and one-fourth fares, or five cents per mile; and the steamer "John H. Hanna" will charge for a trip from Monroe and return, twelve dollars.

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1888.

"GIVE HEED TO READING."

BY T. W. C.

The speech that's worth the utterer's while,
Full of benevolence at both ends and Did any one ever read upon the ground,
What's written there is of use for a hold
So we must look deep to tell what's on sight
Be the word [illegible] the that circle round.
The cookie is deep as human sense is some Stop ride to [illegible] as the stars [illegible] and bright
But where the one doth other there is one word
That's what [illegible]
And [illegible]
Spoke [illegible]
[illegible]
Those are the views of God thus, [illegible]
Our hearts are moved to [illegible] that are divine.

(Wheeler and Holway's Lesson Commentary. Phillips & Hunt, New York.

Sunday-School Lesson.—Dec. 16.

DEATH OF SAMSON.

Judges xvi. 21-31.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Great men are not always wise.—Job xxxii. 9.

TIME.—Extremely uncertain; B. C. 1101 (William Smith); B. C. 1075 (Usher and Calmet and others).

PLACE.—Gaza, the chief of the five cities of the Philistines, fifty miles southwest of Jerusalem, three miles from the Mediterranean, and forty miles from Ascalon, "one of the oldest cities in the world."—Schaff.

21. The Philistines—A wealthy and powerful commercial people on the southwestern border of Israel, on the shores of the Mediterranean. Their territory was assigned to Judah and Dan; but though conquered on the first invasion of Canaan, they regained it and held it to the time of David, who conquered it. The name "Philistine" means emigrant, from the emigration of this people into Canaan. The word "Palestine" is derived from the word "Philistine." Took him—It seems that, after Samson had been shaven, Delilah made trial of his strength by "putting him to pain," as it is said that "she began to afflict him." For the Philistines, till satisfied that his strength was actually departed, dared no more approach him, even when asleep, than they would have approached a sleeping lion. At length, however, his enemies ventured from their concealment, and seized on their prey. Put out his eyes—Hebrew, bored out his eyes. Thus effectually, as they thought, preventing any future mischief on his part, while they prolonged their own triumph and revenge. Brought him down to Gaza—Down, as water to the sea than the valley of Sorek. Bound him with fetters of brass—Literally, for the word is dual, with double brass; so called, perhaps, because both of his hands or feet were fettered. He did grind in the prison-house—Grinding a handmill was the hardest and lowest kind of slave labor, and both Greeks and Romans sentenced their slaves to this as a punishment. It is an employment, however, which usually devolves on women; and to assign it to such a man as Samson was doubtless with a view to reduce him to the lowest state of degradation and dishonor.

22. The hair of his head began to grow—Clearly the growth coincided with the turning of the fallen champion's heart to God; and it is very likely that as, with a blind man's keen sense of touch, his fingers day by day traced the gradual growth of the symbolic locks, the memories of his youth revived, the vows of his consecration were renewed, and thus God actually used the natural lengthening of the hair as a means for restoring his wandering sheep.

23. The lords of the Philistines—The chiefs of the five cities. Gathered . . . to offer a great sacrifice—The captivity of this dreaded hero was regarded by the Philistines as a great victory, which their princes resolved to celebrate with a great and joyous sacrificial festival in honor of their god Dagon, to whom they ascribed this victory. Dagon—Dagon was the national idol of the Philistines, so called from dag, a fish. The description of Dagon, in his temple at Ashdod, exactly agrees with the representations of a fish god on the Assyrian monuments. He was the representative or symbol of all those life-giving forces of nature which produce their effects through the medium of water. They said, Our god hath delivered—Though they knew that he was betrayed into their hands by Delilah, yet they foolishly attributed it to their god. The circumstance, however, affords a hint worth taking. If even a Philistine ascribes his victories to his idol gods, how much more are we bound to pay a similar tribute to our God, and give him the glory of every great and good work done by us, in us, or for us.

24. When the people saw him—In all his apparent misery and helplessness. Praised their god—All the people took part in this festival, and sang songs of praise to the god who had given the enemy, who had laid waste their fields and slain many of their countrymen, into their hands. This raised the matter from being a case between Samson and the Philistines to one between Jehovah and Dagon, and it thus became necessary that the divine honor should be vindicated.

25. When their hearts were merry—By songs and dances, eating and drinking. They were in high spirits over a victory for which they had not fought. That he may make us sport—Rather, "that he may play for us"—that is, dance and make music. The dancing was always accompanied with vocal and instrumental music. Set him between the pillars—To rest after his exertions.

26, 27. The lad that held him—Being blind, a boy was employed to lead him about by the hand, and place him where he was required to go. Suffer me that I may feel the pillars—Let go of my hands that I may feel the pillars, and do not interfere to prevent my leaning upon them. He feigned weariness with his dancing and singing, and asked to recover himself by leaning against the pillars. Where upon the house standeth—We may infer that this house at Gaza had a spacious court or hall, on which rested several rows of columns, supporting an equally spacious roof above. The roof was covered and the great hall filled with men and women, and under such a pressure it is in the highest degree probable that the sudden removal of two central pillars would precipitate the whole house into a heap of ruins. Upon the roof about three thousand—A roof one hundred and fifty feet square would afford a space of nearly a square yard for each one of these, and probably the roof of this building was still larger than this.

28. Samson called unto the Lord—This shows that he has fully recovered himself, now that he can pray again. The prayer he now offers is full of fervor and intensity, rising heavenward like smoke from the altar of incense. It is the deep and vast complaint which, after the awful experience of the last days, grief and hope have caused to gather in his soul. He uses all the names of God with which he is acquainted, and confesses him, in the darkness which surrounds him, more deeply and fervently than formerly when enjoying the light of the sun. Strengthen me, . . . this once—The ancient expositors raise the question whether Samson, by his last act, committed suicide. This prayer and its context answer in the negative. Samson no more committed suicide than does a brave general when, with certain death before him, he rushes into the thickest battle, confident that his fall will save his country from a hated foe. That I may be at once avenged—Meaning, with one final revenge. These words do not, it is true, breathe the spirit of the gospel, but they express a natural sentiment, proper to the age and knowledge and character of Samson. For my two eyes—Hebrew, "for one of my two eyes." Samson may have felt that the utmost vengeance could not requite him for the loss of both his eyes, and, with profoundest earnestness and emotion, he prayed that the present destruction might be great enough to measurably answer for the loss, at least, of one of his eyes.

29, 30. Took hold of the two middle pillars—Probably the pillars were slender and graceful, such as characterize Eastern architecture. Samson probably put an arm about each. It is possible, however, that they were large, and that Samson broke them by pushing. Let me die with the Philistines—That is, I am contented to die, so I can but therewith contribute any thing to the vindication of God's glory,—here trampled upon, and to the deliverance of God's people. The house fell—Thus Samson gained the greatest victory over his foes in the moment of his own death. The terror of the Philistines when living, he became a destroyer of the temple of their idol when he died. More than they which he slew in his life—All that he slew in his life, so far as we know, were the thirty men of Askalon, the thousand at Lehi, and the unnamed number of the great slaughter mentioned in Judges xv. 8. He probably slew more than these, but all together would not amount to five or six thousand: the number that perished by the fall of this temple. If three thousand were on the roof, there were doubtless as many more below.

31. His brethren and all the house of his father—The mention of "all the house of his father," in connection with "his brethren," must mean the whole tribe of Dan, adding his nearer relations. The Danites taking advantage of the consternation of the Philistines, and the death of their lords and chief men, went down in force to Gaza, and recovered the body of their great captain and judge, and buried him in his father's sepulcher. Zorah—In Dan; Samson's birthplace. Eshtaol—A town not far from Zorah, in Judah, but given to Dan. Judged Israel twenty years—The term simply implies a position of importance in Israel, and not of necessity what we now understand by judicial functions. His office of judge was probably confined to the southwestern part of Canaan, to Dan and the neighboring tribes.

Bad Associations.

The question arises, Is it right to associate with bad men, to keep company with the wicked, to seek our pleasure in the company of sinners and their associations rather than good men? and, also, What is the result of such associations? Listen to the opinion of parents in their oft-repeated advice to keep out of bad company. Listen to the opinion of Paul when he utters the warning: "Be not deceived: evil communications corrupt good manners." Good manners belong essentially to the Christian, and he can not preserve them in bad associations. Our environments have a great deal to do with us in shaping our character and in controlling us thereafter. Live among formal Christians, and you will partake of the atmosphere surrounding you and be greatly affected by it. Live among ungodly people, and the effort will be great in order not to degenerate into their habits. It is dangerous for any man to continue long in such society. The strong may endure for a time, but the weak will soon succumb. At first, you may come from bad associations with few signs of injury, but a constant repetition will put you beyond embarrassment, even in the society of the most refined. Such associations harden and destroy pride until a perfect indifference is produced; and then we can appear among the refined and cultivated and not feel the slightest uneasiness. The fact is, such a man comes to feel more natural thus than in good associations. For this reason Christ said: "Shun every appearance of evil." If you go out into the world in constant contact with bad men, or allow them to come into the church with all their corruptions and biased notions, and allow them to remain, you may expect to suffer loss. Evil associations will eat as a canker, as a gangrene, a mortification in the flesh, unless prevented by timely amputation. These associations may be dear—as dear as a right eye or a right arm; but we must pluck it out or cut it off. The deleterious influence of the bad is the universal law of every kingdom. In the vegetable kingdom any decayed or decaying matter will not only produce such an influence, but actually produce decay and death all around. I have noticed that a dead or decaying tree in the forest is soon surrounded by a cluster of the same sort. In such a case the remedy is plain—cut the tree down and stop the influence. Why remove a decayed vegetable from the pure and good? The reason is obvious. Why slaughter the unruly and fence-breaking ox? Because if allowed to run at large would soon ruin all the cattle in the community. The same holds good in the church and society. The influence of one impure man in the church or community can not be estimated. It is wrong and hurtful to allow bad men, with all their contaminating influences, to remain in the church. One says: "That looks hard, and it is uncharitable." He says: "I love the associations of good people, and why be thus ostracized from pure society?" The bad man is at fault, and ought to be good. If any man likes the society of good people, he should make himself worthy the association of such people. It is the prerogative, power and duty of every man to be good, and in refusing to be such is a sinner. How much can the church add to a bad man's happiness, and how much can he add to the church? In reality, bad men do not enjoy, supremely, the society of the pure. They are wretched in it; and if compelled to remain in it, would be eternally unhappy. If bad men like the associations of the good, why do they continue bad? A desire for good society is commendable. Every man should seek elevated and elevating associations, and should endeavor to make himself worthy the society of the pure and good. It is a wrong and mistaken notion when we suppose it will benefit men to remain in the church while they are guilty of crimes that would make an angel weep. Christ says: "Withdraw yourselves from every brother that walketh disorderly." How many have been ruined by bad associations none can tell, and the chapter of our own observations is too sad to relate. Did you ever know a good boy injured by bad associations? Did you ever know a community in confusion because of disturbing elements in it? Did you ever know a political organization corrupted and ruined by designing demagogues? Did you ever know a church in commotion in consequence of a few stubborn, rule-or-ruin men in it? Did you ever know a Sabbath-school damaged in consequence of bad men? Did you ever know the purposes of a good enterprise thwarted by designing men? If you have not, you have been famous for your purblindness. Bad associations must be avoided.

HESLEP.

BUENA VISTA, Mississippi.

Methodism.

The origin, past history, present status of the Methodist Church is proof of its catholicity. Its cardinal doctrine of free salvation by faith, full and complete atonement for the sins of the world, the witness of the Spirit; its scriptural articles of Christian belief; its primitive system of church government; its urgency of the practice of a holy life; its liberal and systematic benevolence; its world-wide missionary enterprise; its general activity in the dissemination of gospel truth; its catholicity and Christian charity; its songs; praying, preaching—make it the wonder of the world. Dr. Talmage says that "Methodism has purified, invigorated and revived every denomination of the Christian world." Another says that "it is the spoon which God stirs up all the other denominations." No one will deny this. Contrast the doctrine of our sister churches to-day with the doctrines taught fifty years ago by them. You will find that the spirit and doctrine of the Methodist Church has permeated all the other churches. We often hear it said of other ministers preaching—"He preaches like a Methodist." Methodist doctrines are preached in all Christian Churches. Other churches are taking up our class meetings, experience meetings. We should guard well our source of strength and stick close to the doctrine and usages that have brought it up to be the wonder of the world. It has fought the Waterloo of its modern victory. I am an old landmarker. I have studied the Methodist Church—its origin success, doctrine. I find it stamped with Heaven's own accredited seal and signature; like the Apostolic Church, was brought in by a wonderful pentecostal outpouring of the Holy Spirit; and it is a remarkable fact that the Methodist Church is the only church—except the Apostolic Church—that ever was thus acknowledged, endorsed of God by a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit. This fact alone is enough to prove its identity with the Apostolic Church, and that she is the church of the living God. Lutheran reformation embraces a revival of pure doctrine; multitudes embrace them; but no cleansing of the inside of the sanctuary, no wonderful outpouring of the Spirit; and so of all the other churches. They all came in by the slow process of indoctrination. None can point, like the Methodist, to this divine pentecostal proof. It is the true Apostolic Church restored to mankind, having all scriptural evidences of apostolicity. God has confirmed this Methodist Apostolic Church to the world. See the similitude of the Methodist Church to the Apostolic. Like the Apostolic Church, it had a small beginning; like it, it met with opposition; like it, it was the fulfillment of prophecy; like it, it came in with a mighty outpouring of the Holy Spirit; like it, it depended on instantaneous conversion; like it, multitudes were added daily; like it, it teaches Holy Ghost religion, direct witness of the Spirit, forgiveness of sins, baptism of the Holy Ghost, rejoicing in the love of God in the heart (we shout sometimes). The Apostolic Church was itinerant, simple, pure and holy; so is the Methodist Church. The Apostolic soon spread to all the world. The Methodist Church, organized about 150 years ago with a handful of men, without money, without influence, having nothing to recommend her to the favor of the people but this faith in God and singleness of purpose to save souls; yet they have aroused the world. Other churches had the advantage in age, numbers and patronage, but the Methodist rose above all, excels all, going from conquest to conquest. We never give up any ground; we take no steps backward. Our glorious doctrine has spread till, like the British dominion, the sun never goes down on our territory. In the United States alone we can show a membership of 5,000,000, a population of over 25,000,000, $69,000,000 of church property—building churches at the rate of five per day. Her motto is, "The world for Christ."

W. HOOVER.

Foreign Missions.

MR. EDITOR: The Southern Methodist Church is more fully aroused now, we believe, upon the subject of missions than ever before. This is as it should be, and is proof, prima facie, of her orthodoxy and vitality. The cause of missions is the cause of Christ, and all who oppose it, oppose the extension of the Redeemer's kingdom, and all who are indifferent to missions, are indifferent to the cause of our Master at home and abroad. How to educate the masses, and train all to contribute to this cause, is a problem yet awaiting solution.

About three years ago Bro. Atkins, of North Carolina, wrote a suggestive letter to the Advocate, at Nashville, recommending the publication of additional missionary literature as a means of solving the problem; and I notice Bro. Chapman, of Missouri, advocates a weekly missionary paper now; but we doubt the propriety of such an enterprise. In fact, we believe it would result in a useless expenditure of capital and labor. Preachers would subscribe for it and read it, and many of the most spiritual and intelligent of the laity; but thousands would scarcely, if at all, know of its existence. The reader may reply: Let the preachers circulate it, and see that their people are supplied with it. This is more easily said than done. There are two sides to this question. One can lead a horse to water, but forty can not make him drink if he has no desire to drink. Thousands of our members read but little of anything, and have less desire for missionary reading than any other character of religious literature. What proportion think you take the Missionary Reporter? How many have read the old pamphlets by Haygood, Kelley, and Anderson? We answer, Not one in ten, perhaps. Would a weekly paper reach them? We think not. But is there no remedy—no solution? Are the masses to go on down to judgment ignorant of and indifferent in regard to this great subject? We answer, Not necessarily. We suggest a cheap, practical, and, we believe, a sure remedy. The masses may not be induced to read, but they will listen to a sermon on any subject. Let every pastor preach on missions. Let him study well the history and progress of missions in the various fields, and instruct his people from the pulpit. It will do the preacher good. There is no other theme, we believe, better calculated to arouse the zeal of a true gospel minister than this, and, by preaching plainly and zealously upon this subject, thousands, who would otherwise remain in ignorance and indifference, will be reached, edified, and, ere long, trained to support the gospel abroad, and delight in the opportunity.

We have already the Missionary Review of the World, The Gospel in All Lands, our own literature, and books of voyages and travel are being published every year; so that there is nothing lacking in that line. We say, Preach, preach, preach missions.

H. ARMSTRONG.

FLOYD, Louisiana.

Tithes—Some Questions.

MR. EDITOR: I have just read Tom Stirling's article, on "Tithes," in the last ADVOCATE. He does not throw as much light on the subject as I have long wanted, so I come to you with a few questions, not to arouse a controversy, but because I conscientiously want to know my duty in this particular.

If a teacher, clerk, or any other salaried person, should receive $40 per month and his board (counting his board at $10 per month), ought he to pay one-tenth of $40 or of $50? When the farmer gives a tenth, is it not after his living has been taken out? Furthermore, please tell me what you mean by giving to the Lord? Are your assessment on pastor's salary, missionary dues, Sunday-school appropriations and other church collections to be included? If you have relatives or friends who look to you for help, and are destitute widows and orphans; or if you give tuition to poor children, would such be offerings unto the Lord? If you contribute to the building or furnishing of a church, might that be taken of the consecrated tenth?

Now, please answer these questions through the ADVOCATE, as I think others may be in the same dilemma that I am: and thus you will have the pleasure of enlightening them.

As I am the only Methodist in several miles of this place and seldom have an opportunity of attending church, you may imagine how much I appreciate the dear old ADVOCATE.

L. P.

From the Work.

MINTER CITY AND STRATHMORE, NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: As it is becoming quite a habit to write of the "rounding up" (whence came the phrase?), indulge me while I tell of some of the things the Lord has done here, and pardon me if I repeat what has already been said.

We (wife and I, for she has been the helpmeet, indeed, both as to the coming and as to the work) have become very strongly attached to this liberal people. They devise and do liberal things, and are growing "in this grace also;" and the hope is that the day is not distant when these will be among the strongest and most desirable charges in the Conference.

It will be four years in December since Bishop Keener first appointed me to these two churches. It was with a sad and heavy heart that I came, for I knew not that the Lord had so "much people here." There were seven members at one church and eight at the other. It was but a few days until a good salary was pledged, and but a short while until we were in a new parsonage. I preached to them of mornings, and spent the evenings (of Sunday) in going to other communities; so that the second year I had to employ an assistant, Rev. James Healy. The third year two of the newly organized churches were set off into a separate charge. This year I had to have an assistant again. He (Rev. D. M. Miller) has not been content with the smallness of the field assigned him, and has gone into "the regious beyond." In the two churches assigned him he has had 26 conversions and 26 additions. In the other place he has organized another church of eleven members, making a total of 37. In my part of the charge there has been six professions and eleven additions.

As to finances, the three previous years all assessments have been overpaid, but it begins to look as if there would be a small deficit this year; but, in justice to the smaller and weaker church—Strathmore—we must say she assumes half the assessments, amounting to nearly $700, all of which she had secured early in October, and has now more than paid it. But Minter City had to build a new church this year, and may have to make the Conference collections and the preacher bear part of the expense. Still we are hopeful such will not be the case, as her people are too liberal and generous to allow others to help her while she is able to help herself.

To summarize a little: Where, four years ago, we found fifteen members, there are now three pastoral charges, and the territory that then paid for all purposes $219, now pays an aggregate of about $3,000, besides church buildings, etc. Then we had no home for a preacher; now we have two good parsonages, partly furnished. Then we worshiped in union and school-houses; now we have four good churches, an interest in another, and money subscribed to build another. But I must close, and finish packing, for I must move and go—I know not whither.

J. L. FUTRELL.

THE LAST QUARTERLY MEETING.

MR. EDITOR: Our "last agony" is over, and this, one of the "occasions on which human nature becomes manifest and all nature becomes human," has been recorded for future reference. Most of the stewards were present, and all of them, save one, with the traditional "long faces" called for by this "solemn time." That one (he shall be nameless here, lest other circuits should be envious of our good fortune, and try to seduce him from us) was lightened both in heart and purse by paying up the unpaid balance, leaving his church free; but the honest joy which shone in his eyes was in no wise contagious. The other stewards are good men and true, and will do their diligence in matters pertaining to their office; so we have good hope that our circuit will soon be out of debt.

We part reluctantly with our beloved presiding elder, he having been with us the full time allowed by the wisdom of our church. But he is still ours, bound to us by stronger bands than those of steel; and, no doubt, when the Lord "writeth up the people," many of us shall say: "By the good hand of my God upon me, I owe my happy estate to the faithful teaching and godly example of Bro. Hunnicutt." May the Lord grant him many years of usefulness, and, though he may never minister to us again in holy things, in death we shall be "not divided."

L. P.

OAK GROVE, Mississippi.

WASHINGTON CHARGE, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: Our Conference year is nearly gone. How quickly the time flies when spent with a pleasant people! This is my first year in South Louisiana, and, in every respect, it has been pleasant, except a protracted spell of sickness in the months of September and October. All during the month of October not a sermon or a prayer-meeting talk was this pastor able to deliver. But God graciously kept the flock.

We have had about fifteen accessions to the church this year; and general progress, I believe, has been made, spiritually. Our collections are likely to be in full. Our presiding elder has been paid in full, and the assessment for the preacher in charge will come up in full, I think, unless all signs fail.

The Conference collections have not been forgotten. On the whole, we have about forty dollars to raise yet to complete the whole six collections ordered by the church; and in the three weeks from now until Conference this amount must come. I shall feel very happy, indeed, if I can be able to read a full report from this work—my first work "to myself," being two years a junior preacher. Pray for us.

HENRY S. JOHNS.

The History of a Hymn.

BY GEORGE NEWELL LOVEJOY.

A hymn which has been for many years—as it will continue to be to the end of the world—a rich solace to the Christian believer, in all lands, is the one beginning, "Just as I am without one plea." It was written by a young lady, Charlotte Elliot, the daughter of an English gentleman residing over half a century ago in the west end of London. A prominent clergyman of the day, the Rev. Cæsar Malan, of Geneva, was visiting at the home of the Elliots on one occasion and, one evening while conversing with the daughter of his friend, he inquired if she had ever made a profession of religion. The young lady in question became somewhat incensed at the clergyman's question, replying that religion was a subject which she had never cared to talk upon. The clergyman very pleasantly remarked that he would not pursue the theme further if it gave her any displeasure, adding, however, that he would ask God to lead her to him and make her an efficient worker in the cause of Christ. A day or two afterward the lady apologized to the clergyman for her manner and language on a former occasion, remarking that his question had given her mind a good deal of disquietude.

"In what way?" inquired Mr. Malan.

"Oh, I really think, on reflection, that I ought to know Christ and love him," was her reply.

"Yes, so do I," returned the clergyman. "And why don't you?"

"Why, sir, I really feel that I'm too unworthy to approach him. It seems to me I should be better in heart before I sought to know Christ."

"My dear young friend," rejoined the clergyman, "do not wait to be better. Come to Christ just as you are."

The conversation ended, and a day or two later Mr. Malan took his departure for home, little realizing the great change he had been the means of arousing in the heart of the young lady, or that any portion of his conversation with her would one day be repeated in a song which would be sung by the great Christian world. Yet so it proved. During the days which followed Charlotte Elliot gave much time to most solemn reflection and determined to become a Christian, not waiting for a more favorable opportunity in which to do so. And so, just as she was, she gave her whole heart to Christ, and became in time one of his most useful helpers in a cause very dear to her. It was soon after her conversion that Miss Elliot, who possessed strong literary gifts, became editor of a magazine known as the Yearly Remembrance. Upon taking charge of the publication she commenced to contribute anonymously to its pages several of her own poems, one of the number being the hymn now so familiar to the Christian world, "Just as I Am." It was read and copied into various newspapers and journals of the day, afterward finding its way into scrap books, then into religious gatherings, and, finally obtaining a prominent place in the hymnals of the church universal, it was sung by the lovers of Christ until it became a part of their lives. In this way it is sung to-day, giving peace and comfort to every heart longing after the Crucified One, bringing gladness to the soul thirsting for the waters of eternal life.

A few months after its first appearance a wealthy, philanthropic lady in England, being greatly impressed by the singular beauty and spiritual power of this song, caused it to be printed on delicate slips of paper and circulated in all the towns and cities throughout the kingdom. Up to this hour the author of the hymn had not been discovered. At the time in question Miss Elliot, being in poor health, was sojourning at a place in Devonshire, called Torquay, under the care of an eminent physician. The doctor, himself a very devout Christian gentleman, one day handed his patient one of these leaflets, remarking, as he did so, that he fancied she might enjoy it; certainly it had done him great good. It was in this singular manner that the authorship was discovered and made known at last to the Christian world. The name of Charlotte Elliot will never be forgotten, but will live in history as the author of a song which, like a star at midnight, gives cheer to the lonely wanderer.—Interior.

A Problem for the Victorious Party.

A great multitude of voters in the United States believe in the suppression of the liquor traffic. They regard the sale of liquor as a beverage as a sin against humanity and a foe to the State; and on various occasions, when the opportunity has been given to them, they have expressed their detestation of the traffic in such numbers as either to enact a prohibitory statute, a constitutional amendment, or local-option laws, or come exceedingly near to carrying such measures. Great would be the mistake of any party or person who should suppose that the votes cast by the party to which the term "Prohibition" is applied, measure the number of those who desire that the liquor traffic shall be outlawed and suppressed. Circumstances show that in both parties there are many such. Democratic counties in New Jersey have given large majorities against license; in the Southern States, where that party is in the majority, almost, if not quite, a majority of its members are in favor of prohibition. In the North, wherever the people have an opportunity to vote upon it, either prohibition prevails or is defeated by a comparatively small majority.

In the victorious party probably a larger number than in any other organization in the country favor the most stringent measures. All who hold these views ask of the dominant party the opportunity to vote on the subject. They claim, and most justly, that the right to vote upon a constitutional amendment should be given in this case as readily as in any other; and they know that one half or one quarter of the number of petitioners for this privilege, upon any subject which does not create political excitement or antagonize the prejudices or present interests of many, would secure it. This, then, is the first thing they ask: The opportunity to say at the polls whether the Constitution shall be changed so as to make liquor-selling illegal, and to take away from Legislatures, too prone to be governed by party considerations, the opportunity of currying favor with the liquor element by the adoption of measures in its interest, or of a negative character.

The next thing they desire is some form of local option, so that parts of States where the great majority of the people are opposed to the sale of liquor may protect themselves. As we have shown on various occasions, such laws are in harmony with democratic principles, and have many parallels and precedents. It is also possible to pass them where statutes of a universally prohibitory character applicable throughout the whole State can not be enacted.

A third thing they ask is that, in the absence of ability to give these, or pending their operation, the victorious party should pass such restrictive laws as they can carry. Where hostile governors can veto good laws, and the dominant party, though having a majority, can not pass laws over vetoes, they should still enact the best law, and throw upon those who choose to assume it the burden of obstructing them.

Finally, they have a right to demand the enforcement of existing laws.

It is not possible to ignore this question in State legislation. Differences of opinion exist among the opponents of the liquor traffic as to whether a national party is necessary or feasible; but no differences of opinion exist on the right and duty and the feasibility of the States legislating upon this subject. Considerations of duty and political wisdom unite to make this question the peer of any other. Education, Coast Defenses, Tariff Revision, Civil Service Reform, are important, and the people expect them to receive attention. But this question can not be neglected without such neglect being the cause of apathy or positive alienation. Political wisdom seeks to interest the greatest number of reliable constituents, and all law is the expression of the moral sense. A party can not cohere without moral force.

The Christian Advocate takes no part in political contests, and commends these views to the consideration of those who control in the councils of the party now in power in the Legislatures of all the Northern States, we believe, but one, upon the broad plain of patriotism and civic wisdom, and commends them to all members of the other great party who are not friendly to that abomination of desolation sanctioned by law in almost every city, town and hamlet, and to all good citizens.—Christian Advocate, New York.

Description of Jesus Christ.

The following beautiful description of the person of Jesus Christ was found in an ancient manuscript, sent by Publicus Lentulus, president of Judea, to the senate of Rome: "There lives at this time, in Judea, a man of singular character, whose name is Jesus Christ. The barbarians esteem him a prophet; but his followers adore him as the immediate offspring of the immortal God. He is endowed with such unparalleled virtue as to call back the dead from their graves, and to heal every kind of disease with a word or a touch. His person is tall and elegantly shaped, his aspect amiable, reverend. His hair flows in those beautiful shades, which no united colors can match, falling into graceful curls before his ears, agreeably crouching on his shoulders, and parting on the crown of his head like the head-dress of the sect of the Nazarines. His forehead is smooth and large: his cheeks without spot, save that of a lovely red; his nose and mouth are formed with exquisite symmetry; his beard is thick and suited to the hair of his head, reaching a little below his chin, and parting in the middle like a fork; his eyes are bright, clear and serene. He rebukes with majesty, counsels with mildness, and invites with the most tender and persuasive language—his whole address, whether in word or deed, being elegant, grave and characteristic of so exalted a being! No man has seen him laugh, but the whole world beholds him weep frequently; and so persuasive are his tears that the multitude can not withhold their tears from joining in sympathy with him. He is very temperate, modest and wise. In short, whatever his phenomenon may turn out in the end, he seems at present a man, for excellent beauty and perfections, every way surpassing the children of men."

Criminals—What to Do with Them.

In America crime is increasing. Crime is rapidly increasing. It is increasing at a more rapid rate than is our population. Nor is this increase of crime confined to our foreign-born population. The most startling growth of crime is in our native-born population. At the present time, in the United States, there are over eighty thousand inmates of prisons and reformatories. According to Dr. Fred Wines—and there is no more trustworthy authority in the country—crime has increased in the United States relatively to population, since the war, by not less than one-third. The percentage of foreign-born prisoners, he also says, as compared with that of natives, is very much less now than it was in 1850; now it is a little less than double; but then it was more than five times that of native prisoners, the increase of crime being much greater among the native than among the foreign population. There has, moreover, been a notable increase of crime in the various countries of Europe.

This is also to be considered. The amount of crime which the courts and prisons take note of is not all the crime there is. And underneath all this hideous floating scum of detected and proven crimes, there flows on forever the awful, deep, turbid, noxious, and pestilent stream of more or less hidden immoralities and vice; of which the open crimes are but the outbreaking symptoms. All this is anything but a "magnificent spectacle." Two questions arise: What is the meaning of it, and what can be done about it?

Beyond question, much is being done, and in many ways, both to prevent and to reclaim. But is all being done that ought to be done? An ample and really noble volume, lately published, by Dr. Dorchester, on "Religion in the United States," contains a surprisingly grand showing of "religious statistics." It is wonderful to turn its pages and glance over these grand figures as to the number of religious organizations all at their work, the number of churches, the number of ministers, the number of church members, the number of Sunday-schools, and the numbers in them, the theological seminaries, the Christian colleges and other schools, and so on and on with the shining inventory of the allied forces of Christianity in the land. But, alas! and notwithstanding all that, the carnival of crime still goes on, more reckless, shameless and cruel than ever.

What are all these "angels and ministers of grace," these churches and schools, these preachers and teachers by the myriad—what are they all doing? What are they forgetting, neglecting, refusing to do, that such an appalling prevalence of wickedness, vice and crime should still exist in this country, over against all the "magnificent spectacle" of our national privileges and blessings?

What to do with criminals? First of all, prevent them. In the words of Mr. Gladstone, make it as hard as possible for people to do wrong, as easy as possible for them to do right. There is not a little, both more and better, which our public schools might do. The same is true in respect to our Sunday-schools. It is still quite too easy for some millions of children and youth to avoid alike the church and the school, and a great deal too easy to graduate out of the Sunday-school and the home into the saloon, the slums and the jails.

"It is a startling fact," says a very thoughtful observer, "that the average criminal has hardly any clearer conception of his own position and relations to society than the average lunatic." We venture to start, without presuming to answer, this question: How clear a conception does the average Christian among us appear to have as to his position and responsibilities in relation to others around him? —Advance.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by expelling impurity from the blood, which is the cause of the complaint. Give it a trial.

A GLEAM OF LIGHT.—A beautiful incident within our knowledge impressed upon us more than ever the fact that the divine message shall not fall to the ground void, but is mighty beyond our comprehension through his power. A lady was summoned to the bedside of a friend, the mother of a family, and whose mental faculties had become deranged. "What could I say or do?" she said. "All was wild excitement; my heart wept over her, yet I had no power to calm her, or do her good. But I felt for her so deeply that I could not leave her without one whisper of comfort. I bent above her, and said softly, 'Underneath are the everlasting arms!' It seemed as though she glanced up at the words—hers was a Christian life—but she showed no sign of comprehension, and I left her, believing my whisper unheard." But, hours after, in that delirium there came a lucid interval, and, in that period of quiet, what were the words that the invalid spoke? "Underneath are the everlasting arms!" Amid all the strange fancies of the restless brain, that one text of heavenly calm had been victorious, and reached to heart and memory.—The Quiver.

For rheumatism and neuralgia use Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain.

It doesn't take gold. A quarter of a dollar will buy a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Keep your conduct abreast of your conscience, and very soon your conscience will be illumined by the radiance of God.—W. M. Taylor.

Catarrh

May affect any portion of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, and the most liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength and health. If you suffer from catarrh, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ringing Noises

Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. E. GILE, 1020 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures Catarrh

"I was troubled with that annoying disease, nasal catarrh, and never found relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. L. ROUTT, Marksburg, Ky. N. B. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only By C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

MISCELLANEOUS.

RICHARDSON & BOYNTON CO.'S

"PERFECT"

HOT-WATER HEATER

"PERFECT" HOT-WATER HEATER.

(The Most Powerful Water Heater ever Constructed.)

Has 2½ times more Square Feet of Hot-Water Fire Surface; hence capable of Heating more Square Feet of Radiation than any Heater ever made.

J. H. AITKEN & CO., 110 Camp street, Sole Southern Agents.

W. C. SHEPARD,

49 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds.
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store, Cheap as the Cheapest.

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

PIANOS ORGANS

LOWEST PRICES IN AMERICA.

Selected, Reliable Instruments at Lowest, Cash or Easy Installments. Cheap, Second-hand Instruments.

REDUCED PRICES. SPECIAL OFFERS.

PIANOS $200. ORGANS $65.

75 Oct. Uprights, 3 Stringed, Four Sets Reeds, Five Octaves, Height 6 Feet, Width 4 Feet, Length 2 Feet. Only

STOOL, COVER, INSTRUCTOR, ALL FREIGHT PAID.

Largest Stock South. 250 Styles and Prices. Pianos $10 Monthly. Organs $5 Monthly. Low Time Prices. Fair Contract. 8% Rich Co. Certificate of Cash Price. "SIX SPECIAL OFFERS." Send for Free Paper "Stamps and Flats," giving full information.

LUDDEN & BATES,
SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA.

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age.

Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. PETER FOUT.

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mole by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure.

W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS. J. BUCKLEY,
471 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 6, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

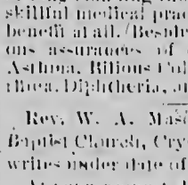
HENRY V. MELLY,
With Geo. Rose & Co., 77 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 27, 1888.



Microbe Cures All Diseases

WM. RADAMS'

Microbe Killer

Cures All Diseases.

This indispensable agent can be had from out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,
149 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
No. 1	No. 2 ..... 5:50 pm
No. 3	No. 4 ..... 8:00 am
No. 5 ..... 10:00 am	No. 6 ..... 3:15 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 1 Chic. Ex. 7:55 am	No. 11 Cin'ti Ex. 7:00 am
No. 13 St. Lou. 7:20 pm	No. 3, Chic. Ex. 6:40 pm
No. 5 Coast ..... 9:05 am	No. 2 Chic. Ex. 5:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r 11:00 pm	No. 2 Pas'ger 7:15 am
No. 3 Chic. and	No. 4 St. Louis .....
No. 9, Chicago ..... 7:30 am	No. 10 Chic. Ex. 5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 Califor-	No. 51 Califor- ..... nia Express. 7:40 pm	nia Express ..... 8:45 am
B. Rouge local 11:30 am	B. Rouge local ..... 4:00 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Califor. 3:55 pm	No. 18 Local ..... 7:20 pm
No. 17 Local ..... 8:25 am	No. 20 Califor. 11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.
(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 6, Chic'd ..... 11:30 am	No. 2, Chic'd ..... 1:05 pm
No. 5, East Line, 6:30 pm	No. 3, East Line, 2:40 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5, East Line, 8:20 am	No. 6, East Line, 4:00 pm

P. AND E. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive ..... 8:30 am	Leave ..... 4:00 pm

Sunday Schedule.

Arrive ..... 7:25 pm	Leave ..... 7:30 am

MISCELLANEOUS.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.

All the PATTERNS you wish to use during the year for nothing by saving of from $3.00 to $4.00 by subscribing for

THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

—AND—

Demorest's Illustrated Monthly Magazine

With Twelve Orders for Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR

—FOR—

$3.25 (THREE TWENTY-FIVE).

DEMOREST'S IS THE BEST Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING STORIES, POEMS, AND OTHER LITERARY ATTRACTIONS, CONTRIBUTED ARTISTIC, SCIENTIFIC, AND HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Chromo-pictures, Oil Pictures and fine Wood-cuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a coupon which entitles the holder to the selection of one pattern illustrated in the fashion department in that number, and in any of the six numbers issued, making patterns during the year of the value of over three dollars.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is deservedly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Contents, and the best TWO Dollar Family Magazine in the world. It will be the Twenty-third year of its publication. It is continually improved and so extensively as to place it at the head of Family Periodicals. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8 by 11½ inches, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York,

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Christian Advocate at $3.25 Per Year

Church & School Bells
SIZES AND PRICES.
Rumsey & Co., Seneca Falls, N. Y.

CUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati.

McShane Bell Foundry
Finest Grade of Bells
H. MCSHANE & CO.,
Baltimore, Md.

UNION BELL FOUNDRY CO
BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

For Gas BAILEY'S For Oil
REFLECTORS.
CHURCHES.
BAILEY REFLECTOR CO.
113 Wood St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Established 1855.

The GREAT CHURCH LIGHT
FRINK'S Patent Reflectors for Gas or Oil, give the most powerful, softest elemental & Best light known for churches, stores, Show Windows, Banks, Theatre Dressing, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Lit regular and economic. A Liberal discount to churches and the trade. Illustrated Circulars.
I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N. Y.

UNDERCORDS.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

DETECTIVES

SALESMEN

Wages $3 Per Day.
Centennial Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

OPIUM

In all the world there is but one remedy for the Opium habit. We have cured more than 5,000 cases. No other treatment ever created such cures. SOPAY ILL CURED. Remember this, and write to the J. L. Stephens Co., Lebanon, Ohio.

CANCER and Tumors CURED. No Knife. Book free. Drs. BRANSON & BOSS, No. 163 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:
REV. J. D. CAMPBON, REV. E. E. ARGAUINE, D.D.
REV. W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1888.

Greetings.

The ADVOCATE brings greetings to its co-laborers in the Mississippi Conference, assembled in annual convocation. Another year of toil for the Master's cause has passed away. It has left its mark upon all. Several of our honored co-workers have entered upon "the rest that remaineth to the people of God." Their works remain as an incentive to us to be more diligent in the future, knowing that the time draweth nigh when each of us shall be summoned to give the account of our stewardship. The year has been crowned with many signal victories, and large advances have been made in pushing the boundaries of the kingdom of our Lord into the "regions beyond." Many of the blood-bought have been brought under the reign of grace, and heaven thrilled with joy because so many prodigal children have returned in penitence to the Father's house. The gospel, in its purity and power, has been proclaimed with success throughout your borders; and therein is cause for great rejoicing. Churches have been built in many places that the Lord might "put his name there," and many parsonages have been opened for the comfort of the families of the Lord's servants. These things are all cause for devout gratitude to God "who hath helped us hitherto." The ADVOCATE congratulates you upon all the success that has been attained, sympathizes with you in all the sufferings you have endured, and rejoices with you in all the achievements that have brought additional honor to the Master's name. If we have contributed, even a mite, to these successes or said a word in mitigation of sorrow, we "thank God and take courage."

As a fellow-worker in the grandest, the noblest of all causes, the ADVOCATE greets the brethren of the Mississippi Conference in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, and expresses the wish that your present session may be pleasant and profitable to all, and that each may receive that appointment for the next year, in which he will do for the Master the best year's work of his life.

The Influence of Small Things.

Ever since our Savior compared the glorious kingdom of heaven to a grain of mustard, people have been watching the outcome of small things. Ever since he spake the benevolence of two mites into an immortal fame, people have been watching the outgrowth of little deeds! In fact, in nature all great things are made up of an innumerable number of exceedingly small things. Time is composed of very short moments. Life is made up of brief hours. Character is a composite of small, every-day influences. And so on through the whole round.

This should be an encouragement to every Christian worker. Not many of us are able to do great things. Not many of us are called to do great things. But the little things lie all about us, and always in easy reach. And these little things—little words of cheer spoken, little deeds of kindness done, day by day—grow into great matters of commanding influence and immeasurable power. We do one small act, and that influences one who is in touch with hundreds, and those hundreds influence thousands, and those thousands shake a nation! Who can begin to measure the influence of Leigh Richmond's little book, "The Dairyman's Daughter"?

The reproductive power of a good word or act is not sufficiently pondered by any of us. If we could come to a better understanding of the insinuating, growing, enlarging, expanding principle that, like a grain of mustard, lies wrapped up in every good word and work, no matter how small, we would certainly be the more eager, on every proper occasion, to do the one and to speak the other.

This influence of little deeds and words has never had a clearer illustration in modern times than in the life of one of England's great men. Dr. Pierson, in the Missionary Review, thus states the case:

> The religious impulse of the whole character and career of the late Earl of Shaftesbury is directly traceable to Maria Millis, his pious old nurse, who, before he was seven years old, taught him of Jesus, and at whose side he learned the prayer which he never failed to use till his dying day. Neglected by his own parents, the evangelist of Parliament owed to this evangelist of the nursery the first lessons he learned in the school of Christ. The watch she left to him he wore on his person as a reminder of the sacred touch by which she set in motion and regulated the delicate mechanism of his being, nor would he allow it to be displaced by the costliest chronometer. Were the secrets of all hearts revealed, we might find that behind many a life that has come with observation, that has been conspicuous for great usefulness in winning souls, there lay some obscure, unobserved, undemonstrative influence, like the secret, sacred touch of this poor, uneducated nurse! All we have to do is to abide in our calling, however humble, but abide with God.

The history of the church is full of such illustrations. Then, let us all take heart and courage and sow the mustard seed in all the soils in reach of us—

> "Beside all waters sow,
> The highway furrows stock;
> Drop it where thorns and thistles grow,
> Scatter it on the rock."

Good Words from Abroad.

Our good Bro. Kirkland, the accomplished editor of the Southern Christian Advocate, was pleased to say these kind words of us in the last issue of his paper:

> The NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE has a new publisher—Mr. J. G. Grant having bought out the interest of Mr. Hugh Jamieson, the former publisher. Mr. Grant is one of the leading members of Carondelet Street Church, and is recognized as one of the best business men in the city of New Orleans. We trust our esteemed contemporary will enter upon an era of unprecedented prosperity under the wise and energetic management of so thoroughgoing a business man. The preachers and people should remember, however, that it takes even more than business sagacity in the publisher and editorial ability in the sanctum to make the paper all that it should be. Unless publisher and editor have the sympathy and zealous co-operation of preachers and people, the paper, however excellent it may be, can not fulfill its mission. It must be circulated and read if it is to do the work that the church needs, and for which it was established. The preachers have a work to do, as well as the publisher and the editor. If all will work together, and with equal zeal and fidelity, the greatest success will attend their efforts, and the old NEW ORLEANS will continue to stand in the very first rank. A profitable application of these remarks may be made nearer home.
>
> We hope that our readers will "make the application" spoken of above. As for ourselves, we do sincerely believe that the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE has "entered upon an era of unprecedented prosperity." Since we came into this work, we have never had such clear hope of its success as we have at this moment. The subscription list is gradually growing, which is of itself an evidence that the preachers are working for it more than ever. We are constantly receiving letters expressing gratitude that the issues of the paper carry blessings everywhere. That is all we are seeking to do. If we can make a paper which the Spirit of God will use as the channel by which he communicates light and grace and growth to the sons and daughters of Zion, our highest aspirations will be realized. But to do this, as Bro. Kirkland says, we must have the "sympathy and zealous co-operation of preachers and people." While thankfully acknowledging that co-operation from many in the past, we are free to exhort the brethren not to intermit their efforts in the future, for we can not "stand alone." This paper can not get along at all without the hearty co-operation of the preachers and people in the three patronizing Conferences, no matter who is the editor or who is the publisher. Then we cherish the hope that every preacher and every lay reader of this ADVOCATE will feel, in a large measure, the responsibility of putting it "in the very first rank" and keeping it there.

The College Question—A Plan.

BY W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.

It has been strongly intimated, if not asserted, that money is waiting in the hands of men who are willing to give it for a Methodist college in Mississippi. If this be so, it seems to me the part of wisdom for the North Mississippi Conference to initiate a movement at once, that will develop whatever resources such an enterprise can command. I, myself, have no question of the ability of Methodism in Mississippi to have a well-appointed college for our young men. This ability will not be developed in favor of any other institution. State lines have their powerful influences in several ways. The concurrent forces of life take the direction of these influences in most movements. Where the State community affords a proper field of action, men of means will give to those enterprises which will benefit their State. This is right within proper limits. A college for the Christian education of the people's sons is one of the highest forms of popular benefit. Men who desire to do good on a large scale and permanent basis will seek such an enterprise—one in which, while they give to the church what she essentially needs for doing her proper work, will bring to the State the supreme aid she needs in securing the best citizens. Considerations of this kind control not a few noble-minded and liberal men of means amongst us. There are some such men who see the need of the college advocated by some of your correspondents, and by many who do not appear in your columns. To bring these men to the front is the thing to be done. They may be waiting to see what the Conference will do—whether it is ready to take firm, vigorous, aggressive, progressive action, and present a form that will invite the favor and trust of men who have money not to hazard in a perilous venture, but to put to work in a definite and trustworthy enterprise for Christian education. As a tentative and working proposition, I respectfully suggest the following:

Let the North Mississippi Conference move in favor of the college, appoint a Board, composed of clerical and lay members, to act for the Conference as directed; empower the Board to receive donations to an endowment, and also to grounds and building. Aim at not less than $150,000 endowment. As soon as fifty thousand dollars are secured on endowment, and twenty-five thousand in buildings, with suitable grounds, begin the scholastic work of the college, then move forward to completion. Locate the school as near the middle of the State as all requisites considered will show to be best. Let these be among the requisites: Healthfulness, accessibility, amount offered in buildings and ground suitable for the purpose. Nothing can be lost by decisive, judicious action; more than we imagine may be gained. A paramount need is upon us. We must meet it or be met by failure in our work. You say, in concluding a strong and valuable editorial in this ADVOCATE, of October 18, last: "And so we say in regard to our own church. Whatever we have done in the past—and we have done something in this country for God and humanity—our special need for the future, our only hope of success, is a trained ministry to lead the hosts of God." Bishops and doctors and elders and laymen—plain men as well as the learned—are calling for a "trained ministry." Scarcely less is the demand—if not expressed, yet potential—for a trained lay officiary. The school, the Methodist school, must have a large place in the training of both classes. Let it not be forgotten, too, that the training of a young man for the sacred ministry may well be begun in his boyhood, and before he has felt a recognized call to that work. The proposed college for the boys of our Methodist constituency in Mississippi will have its proper part, therefore, in training men for all places in the Church and for the State.

Let us be done with the notion that this enterprise, either in its purpose or results, is detrimental to any other. It will promote the creation of high schools, which we greatly need—must have. It will occupy and cultivate its own field, and is called for by its own necessity. What are other Methodist schools doing to meet this necessity? How many Mississippi boys are at Centenary College? how many at Greensboro, Ala.? how many at Vanderbilt? Seventy will cover the number at these three schools, all told. Last year, 1887-8, Vanderbilt University registered thirty students from Mississippi in all departments. Not one-third of these were in the academic schools. The college course in that noble institution is thorough and attractive, yet less than ten students from Mississippi are in that course; only one in the biblical department. The work of the college here will promote a thirst for the higher forms given in Vanderbilt. Let us work calmly, brotherly, and for the Master's blessed cause.

NOVEMBER 28, 1888.

"Christian Womanhood."

MR. EDITOR: I have been so constantly employed in educating husbands for, at least, a part of the multitude of young women who are being highly taught in this day, that I have scarcely found time to write even a few lines about the recently published book of Dr. W. C. Black, which bears the above title. He makes a spirited and vigorous defense of woman's claims to all the rights and privileges of our race. The style of the work is clear, concise and striking. At times it flows with entertaining ease; anon, it grows severe, and, on occasion, overwhelms an opponent with the sweep of a merciless logic. "Woman gaggers" find no quarters at his hands. He shows that woman has been ever oppressed and degraded in heathen lands, but that the Bible from the beginning recognized her rights, and that one of the chief results of Christianity is, to be the emancipation of woman from all the wrongs to which man's ignorance, selfishness and cruelty have subjected her. He believes that woman ought to have the freedom of the world, and that it is very ignoble in man to deny it to her. He would let her fill any place for which she is fit, and let her fit herself for any place she may desire. The book is a strong plea for granting woman a larger sphere. The argument of the author harmonizes with the evident trend of modern social movement, which, if restrained within proper bounds, can but work for the good of all. So let the knights that wear the beard look out for woman's rivalry on many a field where they have been accustomed to win exclusive honors.

W. L. C. H.

"Life-Work," by Rev. John Pipes.

When an old man sits down to write a book we naturally expect a good thing. "Days should speak and multitude of years should teach wisdom." Especially is this true when the writer is known through a long life to have been a patient, honest man, not thinking highly of himself, but soberly, as God hath given the measure of grace. Of such a one mature fruit and ripe counsel may be expected, and it pays to read after him. Bro. Pipes is a man of whom we may safely say, Nothing weak or unwise could come from him. A man of one work, whose entire ministerial service was spent in Louisiana, his experience touches upon many points of social and religious life. He does not depart in this book from the course he had pursued as a preacher. He reaches not after high things, but condescends to men of low estate. His toils in the hitherto uncultivated fields of mission work—not only among the plantations of the Mississippi river, but in the gloomy streets of a fever-stricken city, and in the unprepared places of the country, where no provision had yet been made for receiving the minister of the gospel, or even for hearing his message—give us a singular sense of the pioneer work of the preacher in those early days. Surrounded by wealth and ungodliness, he kept on trying to teach the lessons of the gospel to a wicked and gainsaying people, until he saw, in the course of his own life, most of this wealth and much of this ungodliness pass away.

He saw the effects of religious training or the want of it, of temperance or intemperance, of consecration or worldliness, and he has given the very best advice to every family for the conduct of its highest interests. The fact that his own life and that of his wife and four children have all been preserved through this long period of service and change in a malarial region is the best proof that God can take care of his servants and bring them to great honor at last.

Every Methodist in Louisiana and elsewhere will be rewarded by reading his excellent little book.

F. M. GRACE.

A correspondent from Lake Charles, La., to the Southwestern Methodist, in Kansas City, makes this statement in regard to Methodism in Louisiana:

> So far as I can judge from reports, there has been no deep, widespread revival work in our borders. At some special points revival meetings have been held, and some good work done. But as to a general work, we have not had it, and, least of all, where we would love to see it, and where, of all places, it is most needed—in the city of New Orleans. As compared to other points in our State, and to other cities in our connection, Methodism in New Orleans has been a failure.
>
> That is a sweeping statement; indeed, we think too sweeping to be true. As compared with other cities, perhaps, we have not advanced as fast: but, as compared with other points in Louisiana, Methodism in New Orleans shows as great an increase in numbers, as large an attendance upon public services, more class meetings, bigger prayer meetings, more missionary work done, more pastoral work done, and more money paid to church purposes according to membership and ability than any other point in Louisiana.

Notes.

The city press, for several weeks, has been agitating the subject of holding out attractive inducements for people to come to New Orleans to spend the winter. The project of a magnificent hotel as one of these inducements is beginning to take a definite shape. Several other matters have been mentioned. Several of the influential dailies have already given an inducement that is very likely to attract a very large class of people. When the papers publicly advise the community to become a band of law-breakers, they may reasonably look for a large influx of that element of society, and they may as reasonably expect the opposite class to go in a different direction.

An enterprising reporter took the census of twenty of the largest churches in Chicago on Sunday, November 18. The weather was unpleasant, and the number of attendants in the twenty churches were 2,563 men, 3,323 women and 885 children, making a total of 6,771, being an average of 338. The skeptic says that religion is "a good thing for women and children and fools." There were, then, besides the women and children an average of 128 fools in each of those twenty churches that Sunday in Chicago. We would like some reporter now to take the census of the prisons and saloons and base-ball parks and beer-gardens. Possibly the wise men may be found therein.

The editor of a newspaper is in a position where he often sees exemplified the old proverb—"There is no disputing about tastes." One day he receives a letter impugning his judgment and taste in publishing a certain article, and the next day he receives a letter from a correspondent, equally sensible, thanking him for that same article. He not only sees the proverb verified in this, but he sees the very opposite of the proverb verified also. So that, "there is no disputing about tastes," and "there is always a disputing about tastes." So true is this seeming contradiction that if you want to raise a cyclone of disputation just start a question of personal taste. Some churches have been torn to pieces in this way.

We call special attention to this note clipped from the New York Christian Advocate, of November 29:

> The custom of helping young people through college merely because they ask or are willing to accept aid can not be commended. In some cases very worthy persons may be unwisely assisted. A writer in one of our exchanges tells of a girl who, by risking her life to save a passenger train from wreck, awakened such a deep interest in the community that a fund was raised for her education. "She was sent to a well-known school, where for two years her teachers tried to exercise and develop her mental powers," but all in vain. She was well disposed, well behaved, and content, but utterly destitute of that love of learning and thirst for culture without which the highest advantages will prove of no avail. A correspondent sends us a letter from a young man, who says: "I am real hungry for an education, and have done all I could without means." Let those who desire to do good in this way seek out such hungry souls and give them aid.

How much that results from conversion may be gathered, in part, from this paragraph in the Congregationalist:

> To be "born again" is to enter into a new life, intellectually, as well as morally and spiritually. It is to have new conceptions of duty and truth and righteousness, of man and of God; to be in the light, instead of the darkness; to perceive the principles of moral order and divine love, where formerly all seemed to be but chance or unrelenting law. It is to have the whole nature brought into harmony, each several faculty with every other; to see clearly the obligations we owe to those about us; the part we may have in bringing the world unto God; to get inspiring glimpses of the life that is beyond; and of our relation, not simply to Christ, the head of the church, but to each member of that church. It is to climb out of the lowlands of selfishness, and the life that now is, up to the breezy heights whence we can get sight of our duties to our fellow-men, and where we can expand our lungs in the atmosphere of divine love. The vision of God is quite as enlarging in its effects on the mind as are the disclosures of science. The "new creature in Christ Jesus" is as much broader in his conceptions of power and greatness than the ordinary believer, as the savant is than the peasant who follows the plow.

Notice.

The class of the third year of the North Mississippi Conference will please meet the committee at the Methodist Church, in Starkville, at 9 A. M., December 11, 1888.

COMMITTEE.

Personals.

The German Mission Conference paid this year $1 52 per member for missions. Why can't everybody do that much in a year?

The late Thomas Branch, of Virginia, left by his will $15,000 to the Missionary Society; Bishop Wilson being made the trustee of the bequest.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city has moved into their new quarters at the Bible House, and on Thanksgiving Day gave a delightful reception to their friends. We wish them much success to issue from their new headquarters.

Rev. C. M. Verdel, on his way from the West Texas Conference to the North Georgia Conference, was arrested at Monroe, La., being taken for the train robber, Bunch. That was a high-handed measure to keep him in jail all night, when he could have proved who he was in ten minutes, if he had been allowed!

The Christian Woman's Exchange has moved into their new quarters opposite Lafayette Square. Having a large building, they are better prepared than ever to carry forward the good work in which they are so successfully engaged.

Rev. J. V. Penn, our pastor in Jackson, La., gave us several calls during the past week. He is busy getting ready for his going to the great West, whither he goes to take charge of our church in Santa Ana, Los Angeles Conference. Rumor has it, that among other preparations, not the least is, that he is preparing to take a "help-meet" with him. That is the proper thing "at this time."

We had a delightful visit last week from Prof. Sullivan, of Centenary College, son of Dr. W. T. J. Sullivan, of North Mississippi Conference. We are glad to learn from Prof. Sullivan that there are more students at Centenary now than matriculated during the whole of last year, and more are coming. The prospects of the college for a prosperous session are very good.

Bishop Galloway passed through our city, Thanksgiving Day, on his way home from Mexico. He reports the Mexican Conference as in a fine condition, and the work greatly prospering in the hands of the Lord's servants. Our readers will enjoy the Bishop's letters from Mexico, several more of which are to come.

Owing to the fact that Bishop Keener will hardly be able, from shortness of time allowed, to reach the North Mississippi Conference in time to open it, Bishop Galloway will open that Conference at Starkville, Miss., Wednesday, December 12.

Rev. J. Watson Bradford, son of Rev. D. P. Bradford, of the Mississippi Conference, has joined the East Texas Conference.

Rev. Winans W. Drake, a graduate of Centenary College, has been recommended for admission on trial in the Mississippi Conference by the Jackson Quarterly Conference.

A brother from North Mississippi sends words that cheer and encourage us greatly. We can respond now to his own exclamation, "How much good a few well-chosen words often accomplish!"

For the two past years the Memphis Conference has overpaid its assessment for the Conference claimants. Can any other Conference say that much?

Bro. Chambers, of Pearlington, gave us a pleasant call last week. He reports Pearlington as in good financial condition, the finances having risen from $900 last year to $1,500 this year; one church of seventeen members paying over $300.

We have received a sample of the Christmas medals manufactured by W. H. Warner and Bro., Philadelphia. They are of white metal, the designs are good and the cost is $6 per hundred.

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

THE COURT OF KING CHRISTMAS. By L. A. Higgins. Price twenty-five cents. 9 Murray St., New York.

THE GYPSIES' FESTIVAL. By N. Earle. Price twenty-five cents. 9 Murray St., New York.

Both are published by Harold Roorbach as entertainments for young people.

GOLDEN SHOWERS. By A. Hanslip. With poems selected by Christine Forrest. Thomas Whittaker, Bible House, New York. Price fifty cents.

The selections are from the best of the old-time poets, and the illustrations are as beautiful as art can devise. No better presents for Christmas or New Year's can be had than these two dainty and pure little books.

A SKETCH OF MRS. ELISABETH RIVES, SISTER OF PATRICK HENRY. By her grandson, Thomas L. Preston. Southern Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn. Price fifty cents.

This interesting sketch of this famous woman was first published in the Southern Review, and is well worth perusal, calling up scenes and facts that are of great interest to the student of our country's history.

THE BETTER LAND. By Mrs. Hemans. Illustrated by Alfred Woodrull. Thomas Whittaker, Bible House, New York. Price forty cents.

This is a beautifully illustrated edition of a popular old poem, published in the best style.

THE WORLD AND THE KINGDOM. By Hugh Miller Thompson, Bishop of Mississippi. Thomas Whittaker, Bible House, New York. Price seventy-five cents.

These are the "Bishop Paddock Lectures," for 1888, delivered before the General Theological Seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church, by Bishop Thompson, of the diocese of Mississippi. They are five in number, and are given in Bishop Thompson's best style. There are some fresh, vigorous, robust thoughts in the selectures, conveyed in clear and forcible language. In dealing with the pretensions of some scientific folks, the Bishop can not keep down his satire upon the emptiness of those pretentions; at the same time he is dealing blows which shatter them to pieces. The movement of the thought is along the line of man's continual development during his earthly career, which is to be continued in the ages to come. "It doth not yet appear what we shall be." We have read these lectures with profit and great pleasure.

PERIODICALS.

—The Forum has, Count Tolstoi's Religion, by Archdeacon Farrar; The Price of Life, by E. Atkinson; A Possible Revolution in Medicine, by Dr. Austin Flint; A New System of Naval Warfare, by Park Benjamin; A Simpler Southern Question, by George W. Cable; The South as a Field for Fiction, by Judge Tourgee; Prison Labor Competition, by Z. R. Brockway; The Reign of Law in Spelling, by Prof. March, and several other papers. Forum Publishing Company, New York. Price $5.

—Scribner's Magazine completes its second year and fourth volume with a Christmas number containing nineteen interesting articles in prose and verse—twelve of them fully illustrated by well-known artists and engravers. The number is rich in beautiful decorations and pictures. The literature deals with unusually attractive phases of life and art especially fitted for the Christmas season. The fiction includes stories of adventure and sentiment; the general articles treat of stained-glass windows, the Adirondacks in winter, and Botticelli; there are several elaborately illustrated poems; and Lester Wallack's reminiscences are concluded. Robert Louis Stevenson; H. C. Bunner, Will H. Low, Rebecca Harding Davis, and Hamilton Wright Mabie are among the contributors.

—Popular Science Monthly has a full table. The reader who would keep abreast of the scientific investigation and thought of the day is almost compelled to be a subscriber to this periodical. It ranges over the whole scientific sphere. Natural science, psychology, genealogy, arithmetic, astronomy, natural history—all find elucidation and illustration in the present number. D. Appleton and Company, New York. Price $5.

—Christian Thought, for December, is full of good things. The leading article is entitled, The Philological Philosophy, by Prof. John J. Tigert, D. D., of Vanderbilt University. The Ethics of the Gospel, by the Rev. Francis A. Henry, is a most excellent paper, and is calculated to provoke much discussion. Among the other articles noticed is the Concept of Law, by the Rev. J. Q. Adam; the Relation of the Brain to the Mind, by William Tucker, D. D. Views and Reviews is, as usual, full of helpful and scholarly articles. Charles F. Deems, D. D., LL.D., is doing a grand work in editing this scholarly periodical. Everyone should subscribe for this magazine; the price is $2 a year; to clergymen, $1 50; single copies, 40 cents; back sample copies, twenty-five cents. Wilbur B. Ketcham, publisher, 71 Bible House, N. Y.

—Yule Tide is the Christmas Annual of Cassell's Family Magazine, and is beautifully illustrated. Price fifty cents. Cassell & Co., New York.

—The Sixth Annual Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Louisiana. This report gives an encouraging account of the women's temperance work in Louisiana. The addresses made and the reports read, furnish good temperance literature which we wish all our readers could have.

Literary Notes.

Archdeacon Farrar has consented to write a second article for the Forum, on Tolstoi, reviewing his interpretations of the gospel. Cardinal Manning has written for the same work an article on the teaching of religion in public schools, which will appear in time to compare with current discussions on the subject in the United States.

The Scribners are to publish, some time during the coming spring, a book of poems by R. H. Stoddard. The volume is to be entitled "A Book of Verse; Early and Late." It will include early poems not embraced in the collection of Mr. Stoddard's poems published by the Scribners eight years ago and such poems as have appeared in The Independent and other periodicals during recent years.

The latest volume in "The Lives of the Presidents," by William O. Stoddard, is Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce and James Buchanan. The volume is condensed and popular in its character, but carefully prepared and well manufactured by Frederick A. Stokes & Brother. The same publishers bring out a Life of the latest of the Presidents, also from the pen of Mr. William O. Stoddard—Grover Cleveland.

Tennyson, it is said, has had long time in readiness for press a volume of poems, but has deferred the publication, waiting for the enactment by Congress of an international copyright law.

Ginn & Co. are issuing a convenient edition of "Tom Brown at Rugby" in their neat series of "Classics for Children."

G. P. Putnam's Sons announce that they have arranged for the agency in the United States of the publications of Messrs. Williams & Norgate, London, including the issues of the Theological Translation Fund Library, the Hibbert Lectures, and works by Baur, Kwabl, Keim, Kuenen, Strauss, and others.

The thirty-six volumes of "English Men of Letters" will hereafter be sold by Harper & Brothers in sets of twelve volumes, three flys to a volume.

The first step in avoiding mistakes is to find out how we fall into them. Valuable aid in this direction will be furnished in Prof. Joseph Jastrow's paper on "The Psychology of Deception," which opens the December "Popular Science Monthly." As illustrations of his subject the author cites the tricks practiced by conjurers, and the delusions which from time to time gain a hold on the public mind.

Roberts Brothers published, on the first of December, the first volume of "Sunday-School Stories, for 1889." The two volumes of this series consist of fifty-two stories, intended to be read by children in Sunday-schools, or by their teachers to them. They are based on the Golden Texts of the International Lessons. The intention is not to enter upon the strictly theological or religious lesson of the day, which should be under the direction of the teacher, and, as is supposed, is directed by the teacher; but it is proposed in the story to give an application of the lesson in the events of daily life such as will be valuable to each of the pupils in the Sunday-schools.

Estes and Lauriat have published a magnificent edition de luxe of Notre-Dame De Paris, by Victor Hugo, illustrated with 160 original drawings and 16 full-page water color sketches, by Rossi Bieler and DeMyrbach. The edition is limited to 500 copies.

Dr. Joseph Parker, of London, is expected to reply to "Robert Elsmere" in a series of communications to Dr. Joseph Cook's monthly, Our Day, beginning with the January number.

The friends of the great work of foreign missions, and especially the admirers of that eminent missionary, Adoniram Judson, will be interested in the announcement of a commemorative Centennial Poem, by Prof. Wm. C. Richards, which Messrs. Lee & Shepard, Boston, have in press, and will publish at once. It is very appropriately entitled, "The Apostle of Burma," and will embody his life and labors in the attractive poetical.

The announcement is made that the Methodist Book Concern, in New York, will soon issue "Studies in Theology," in three volumes, by Bishop Foster, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Worthington Company announce Ida Waugh's great artistic effort in a juvenile book, "Rouny Burns," with forty-eight large quarto illustrations, every page in colors. The text is by Miss Amy Blanchard. 1 vol., quarto. $2.

"Here are pictures and stories whatever your mood,
To help you all smile, and make you all good."

This book by Miss Ida Waugh, author of "Wee Babies," and other popular books for children, will greatly excel in interest any book hitherto made by her. However beautiful her other books may have been, this will be found to be of more general interest than any of her previous works.

The Scribners have in press an abridged edition, in one volume, of Professor Mommsen's great work, "The History of the Roman Republic." The book is admirably adapted for general reading, and will prove especially serviceable to colleges and schools.

We have no hesitation in recommending Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer as a sure cure for dandruff, and to restore the natural color of the hair.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

Burlington Route Daily Excursions to the Pacific Coast, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

Railroad ticket agents of the Eastern, Middle and Western States will sell, on any date, via the Burlington Route from Chicago, Peoria or St. Louis, round-trip tickets at low rates to San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, or Victoria; also to Denver, Cheyenne, Colorado Springs, or Pueblo. For a special folder giving full particulars of these excursions, call on your local ticket agent, or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Ag't, C., B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill.

Publisher's Department.

Special Offer.

All new subscriptions for the ADVOCATE received between now and January 1, 1889, will receive the paper free until that date.

Subscribe now, and you will receive the paper 11 months for $2.

J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

Speaking of the significance of flowers, a remembrance blossoms has a double meaning.

Next to your subscription the greatest favor you can confer for ADVOCATE is a postal, to us or the paper in writing to advertisers.

A woman seldom preserves her temper when she answers [illegible].

Conference Don'ts.

Don't fail to settle your Advocate account.

Don't give unnecessary trouble to your host, or the committee of arrangements.

Don't put off handing in your reports to the secretary until the last of the week.

Don't neglect the opening devotional exercises.

Don't hang around the front door while the brethren within are engaged in song and prayer.

Don't stand about the church door with a cigar in your mouth, or go puffing up the streets like a steam engine.

Don't be too sure that you will be made a presiding elder, or that you will be sent to one of the best stations.

Don't make excuses and explanations when you read your reports, and thus call special attention to your delinquencies.

Don't be disappointed if you are not invited to preach at this session of the Conference; and don't shirk the duty and responsibility should the committee appoint you.

Don't fail to have a decent "plan" of your charge made out, so as to hand it to your successor, should you be sent to another charge.

Don't forget that a Methodist preacher is always the Christian gentleman, and so deport yourself in the family where you may abide.

Don't let this Conference occasion pass without a deeper personal consecration and a fresh baptism of the Holy Spirit.

Don't speak too often or too long on the Conference floor; for a man is not heard because of his much speaking.

Don't bring any jealousies, animosities, or hard feelings of any kind to Conference with you, and don't carry any away. We be brethren.

Don't neglect the aged brethren. You are growing old yourself.

Don't ignore the young preachers. You were once a "kid" yourself—and such a "kid."

Don't criticise the sermons you hear too unmercifully. Rather see how much good you can get out of each one.

Don't count too much on the petition for your return sent up by Bethlehem. Shiloh may have sent one, but of very different tenor.

Don't expect the Bishop to send you to a city charge merely because you have bought a new silk hat.

Don't sour on the Bishop and presiding elders should you not receive the appointment you desire.

Don't forget that this may be your last meeting with the brethren. Let your conduct towards every one of them be such that they will ever cherish your memory.

Don't allow the business or social enjoyments of the occasion to interfere with your private devotions. Mr. Wesley used to rise at 4 o'clock that he might have time for meditation, study and prayer.

Don't fail to write a pleasant note of thanks to your host as soon as you return to your home. That much is us. little as we can do by the way of acknowledgment of the hospitalities received.

Don't forget to send a big list of new subscribers to the Advocate soon after you reach your field of labor for the next year. —Southern Christian Advocate.

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

TYPE-INK
PAPER - PRESSES
At Southern Printers' Warehouse,
101-103 GRAVIER ST., NEW ORLEANS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

COLGATE & CO'S
PERFUMERY
FOR THE
HOLIDAYS.

Among our unrivalled assortment of Perfumes, Toilet Articles and Superfine Soaps, will be found suitable gifts for Ladies, Gentlemen and Children.

MUCH WISDOM, BUT FEW WORDS!
Prices That Will Do All Good!

50 Pieces Cashmere, 10c—worth 15c.
Double-width Henrietta, 15c—worth 25c.
Extra-fine Henrietta, 35c—worth 50c.
Combination Suits, from $1 35 up.

BIG BARGAINS IN LACE CURTAINS.
Handsome Line of CHENILLE CURTAINS and PORTIERES.
CARPET ROOMS Overflowing with Bargains.
Plain and Fancy Mattings, from 12½c up.
Brussels Carpet (all wool), 55c—Made and Laid.
Handsome Body Brussels, 85c—worth $1.
Beautiful Line of WINDOW SHADES.

J. A. Braselman & Co.,
586 and 588 - - MAGAZINE STREET - - - 586 and 588

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y
11 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

MANUFACTURERS OF HIGH GRADE
BONE FERTILIZERS,
PURE
GROUND BONE,
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINITE,
Etc.
Mention this paper.

Artificial Limbs,
Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted
BY
A. McDERMOTT,
200 - - - ST CHARLES STREET - - - - - 200
Bet. Julia and St. Joseph.

1889.
Harper's Weekly.
ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S WEEKLY has a well-established place as the leading illustrated newspaper in America. The fairness of its editorial comments on current politics has earned for it the respect and confidence of all impartial readers, and the variety and excellence of its literary contents, which include serial and short stories by the best and most popular writers, fit it for the perusal of people of the widest tastes and pursuits. Supplements are frequently provided, and no expense is spared to bring the highest order of artistic ability to bear upon the illustration of the changeful phases of home and foreign history. A new work of fiction from the pen of WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS, and one by Capt. CHARLES KING, will be among the leading features of the WEEKLY for 1889.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.
Per Year:
HARPER'S WEEKLY $4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE 4 00
HARPER'S BAZAR 4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE 2 00
Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, or Mexico.

The Volumes of the WEEKLY begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of HARPER'S WEEKLY, for three years back, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by mail, postage paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume), for $7 per volume.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will by sent by mail, post-post, on receipt of $1 each.

Remittances should be made by Post-Office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROTHERS.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.
Mention this paper.

A WEATHER STRIP
is easily applied to Doors and Windows. Sure preventive against COLD, WINDS, DUST and rattling of Sash. Send for price list and illustrated Catalogue of Building Specialties, to
F. CODMAN FORD,
67 to 69 Baronne St., New Orleans, La.
Do the ADVOCATE a service, and mention it when you reply to advertisements.

The Singer's Christmas.
It is high time to commence practicing Christmas Music, and to plan Festivals. DITSON & CO. publish a large number of Christmas Carols, Anthems, Songs, Quartets, etc. Please send for lists.

Beautiful Cantatas for Girls and Boys.
GOOD TIDINGS, or Sailor Boy's Christmas. By Rosabel. 25 cts. $2.40 a doz.
BABE OF BETHLEHEM. Children's Voices and Quartet. Benj. Cutler. 20 cts. $1.80 per doz.
JINGLE BELLS. Peculiar and very pretty. Leo R. Lewis. 10 cts. $8 per doz.
CHRISTMAS GIFT. A Santa Claus Story. Rosabel. 25 cts. $2.40 per doz.
CAUGHT NAPPING. A nice musical Drama. Leo R. Lewis. 30 cts. $3 per doz.
KING WINTER. A true cold weather Cantata. L. O. Emerson. 30 cts. $3 per doz.
MESSENGER OF CHRISTMAS. T. M. Towne. 30 cts. $3 per doz.
CHRISTMAS SONGS AND CAROLS. For Young Children. Kate Douglas Wiggin. 12c. $1.08 per doz.

Bright and Interesting Christmas Services.
Joyful Chimes, (8 cts., 72 cts. doz.) Rosabel.
Birthday of Our Lord, (8c., 72c. doz.) Rosabel.
Song of the Christ, (12 c., $1.08 doz.) Sawyer.

Cantatas for Choirs, Societies, etc.
Christmas Eve, (35 cts., $3.12 doz.) Gade.
Christmas, (80 cts., $7.20 doz.) Butterson.
Christus, (40 cts., $3.50 doz.) Mendelssohn.
ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.
Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York.
Mention this paper.

29 - - CHARTRES ST. - - 29
F. R. HARDON
Can supply everything in
Fashionable Millinery,
To the Entire Satisfaction of Patrons.
Orders Promptly Filled.
Remember the number.
29 - - - CHARTRES ST. - - - 29
Mention this paper.

Watches, Diamonds,
FINE JEWELRY,
Silver and Silver-Plated Ware.
SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.
Send for Catalogue.
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
(Established 1817)
119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.
Mention this paper.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION. SPECIAL OFFER TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.
A $2.50 PAPER FOR ONLY $1.75
To any New Subscriber who will send us this Slip, with name and P. O. address and $1.75 in Money Order, Express Money Order, Registered Letter, or Check, for a year's subscription to the Companion, we will send the paper
FREE TO JAN. 1, 1889,
and for a full year from that date. This offer includes the ILLUSTRATED SUPPLEMENTS, the PREMIUM LIST and FOUR HOLIDAY NUMBERS,
Sent to Each Subscriber at Thanksgiving—Christmas—New Year's—Easter.
Illustrated WEEKLY Supplements
The volume for 1889 will be superior to any previous year. It will contain SIX Serial Stories, 150 Short Stories, profusely Illustrated; Household Articles, Tales of Adventure, Illustrated Sketches of Travel, 1,000 Anecdotes, Historical and Scientific Articles, Humor, Poetry.
Specimen Copies and Colored Announcement free. Please mention this publication. Address
THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 41 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet-sed Illinois Cen. Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leave New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans AND Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,

CHATTANOOGA,

CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.

	No. 2, Ltd'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans.....	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian.....	9:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis.....	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa.....	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham.....	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla.....	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga.....	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City.....	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington.....	4:00 p. m.	3:43 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati.....	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.

	No. 1, Ltd'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati.....	7:55 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington.....	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City.....	11:45 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga.....	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla.....	9:42 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham.....	11:45 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa.....	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis.....	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian.....	4:45 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans.....	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent, 34 St. Charles Street.

R. H. BARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1, Fast Mail, 9:00 a.m.	No. 2, Fast Mail, 3:00 p.m.
No. 3, Express, 6:25 p.m.	No. 4, Express, 8:00 a.m.
No. 5, Bat. Rouge acc'dation, 10:00 a.m.	No. 6, Bat. Rouge acc'dation, 5:45 p.m.

Double daily through trains; New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville, Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans 3:35 p. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Danbston for Natchez and N. O. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and Y. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines Overton. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. P. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Cont'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Texas and California Ex- press	Leaves.	Arrives.
Daily	8:55 A. M.	7:00 P. M.
Eaton Rouge Local	3:20 P. M.	10:20 A. M.

The 8:55 a. m. Daily has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pacific Railway Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

This train has also Pullman sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Tr'v'g Passenger Agent.
E. W. McCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. Agt.
Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Boy—Mother, since I have been using Wolff's Acme Blacking my shoes wear longer than ever before, and I never get my feet wet, but I do not think they look as smooth as when I first used it.

Mother—Indeed, my son, I am sorry you are so careless. You forget that even a good thing is only good when properly used. You have not even looked at the directions, for they are yet around the neck of the bottle. Now you must read them, and they will get you out of your trouble. Your father and I keep our shoes in elegant order by its use. I use it about once a month and papa about once a week.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

Is wonderful; preserving and Waterproofing any leather; giving it a deep, rich black lustre which lasts a week. Don't use oftener. Do not confound ACME Blacking with any other. Sold by Shoe Stores, Grocers, Druggists, &c. Try it on your Harness.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, PHILADELPHIA.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

Men's Furnishing Goods,

Headquarters of the Celebrated

STAR SHIRT.

Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

X WALL PAPER X

174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free Mention the Advocate when you write.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT, FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET. BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES, LAMPS AND LANTERNS.

Axle Grease,

Blacking, Cages and Cheese Safes, Coffee and Grain Mills, Hammocks, Oyster Tongs, Scales, Whips, Bluing, Corks and Clocks, Pottery and Sawt. Ice Cream Freezers. Paper and Rags, Sieves,

HARDWARE, STONEWARE, BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES, TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE. ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,

Nos. 40, 42 and 44 CHOUPITOULAS STREET.

E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE
MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER

In all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty. WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES. WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS, RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

G. WOLF,

—MANUFACTURER OF—

GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES

(Formerly of 139 Common Street)

54 ST. CHARLES STREET,

Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Orders promptly attended to.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement,

—1888.—

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator....	$ 3 50	$ 2 75
American Agriculturist.	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	2 50
" Times-Democrat.	3 50	2 75
Harper's Magazine.....	6 00	4 75
" " Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People.	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine...	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

J. C. GRANT, Pub'r.

Our Young People.

A LITTLE GIRL'S REFLECTIONS.

BY MARY C. CROWLEY.

I'm sweeter, so my mamma said,
Than any sugar-plum,
Than dollies made of sugar bread—
Took often bakes me some;
I'm worth a bag of yellow gold,
Of diamonds, or of pearls;
I am, or so I have been told,
The prettiest of girls;
I am fairer than the bright'st star
To my own mother dear,
Than all the lovely roses are
That Blossom through the year;
No Paris doll—I s'pose it's so—
Was ever nice as me;
And yet—I don't exactly know
How quite all this can be,
For sugar-plums are made of sweet,
And 'lasses cakes are too;
And bags of gold I never meet,
Nor diamonds—now, do you?
And shining stars are made of light;
But who can ever tell
Of what the roses red and white
Are made? I'm very well,
But dolly must more beautiful
And better be—she must—
For she is made of cotton wool,
But I am made of dust.

—Little Men and Women.

MR. EDITOR: I am a little girl nine years old. My papa takes the good old ADVOCATE, and I love to read the letters in the children's corner. Of course the rest is too hard for me now. I belong to the church and am a member of Bethel Sunday-school. Our Sunday-school raised in four months, through the barrel system, $21 80 for the missionary cause. Do you not think that good work for little fol'ks? My share in the work was $2 35. There was a prize offered by Bro. Howell for the largest amount. I failed to get it, but feel no regret, so the heathen children get the money. Now, I love editors, and am going to send you a kiss; so, for the sake of my love and kiss, please publish this for little MARY M'KEE.

CASEYVILLE, Mississippi.

We accept little Mary's kiss and publish her letter gladly.—ED.

MR. EDITOR: I have been thinking for some time of writing to your paper, but have put it off from time to time. I am a little boy seven years old. I have three sisters and one brother. My home is in Patterson, La.; but I am up here on a visit to my aunt. Auntie takes your paper. I don't like to read, but I enjoy the little letters. I go to school to auntie. I study the third reader, spelling and arithmetic and writing. Your son is our pastor in Patterson. I like him so much. He was to preach a sermon to the children to-day and open the doors of the church. We hope to hear that my sister joined. It has been raining all day. I hope to see my letter published, as I would like to surprise my papa and mamma and my friends in Patterson. Your little friend,

FRANK A. HILL.

DUNCANSBY, Mississippi.

The Little Home Builder.

Little Alice sat with her hat on, thoughtfully looking through her Bible. Her father had noticed her come in a few minutes before. Looking up from the paper he was reading, he said: "Where has my little girl been? and why does she not take off her hat?"

"I have been to the Home-builders' Society: and am looking up my texts," she answered, without raising her head.

"You have been to the Home-builders' Society?" repeated her father, with a puzzled look.

"Yes, papa, the society that builds homes for preachers." She looked at him with earnest eyes. "You know, papa, sometimes our preachers are sent to places where they have to live in houses that leak, and that let the snow and wind in; and they can't get any better houses. Their little children get sick, but they have to stay there, because they are sent, and if they went away the people would not have anyone to preach to them. Don't you think we ought to give them better houses, papa?"

"Yes, certainly, daughter: we ought not to allow a good man to live in such a house as you have described."

"But some of them do, papa."

"Yes, I expect they do live in very indifferent houses sometimes."

"We are going to build them better ones," said Alice, enthusiastically.

"That is rather a large undertaking for a society of little girls."

"O, we can't do it all, but we are going to help. And there are ever so many other Home-builders and grown people's societies that are going to help."

"Well, go ahead. It is a good work and every little helps."

He took up his paper again to read; but Alice was started now, and must tell it all.

"And, papa," she said.

He lowered his paper and looked over at her. "Well?" he said encouragingly, for she had stopped.

"And papa, our society has Bible-readers, and they give us texts to read to somebody. They made me a Bible-reader. May I read my text to you, papa?"

He smiled. "Yes, you can practice on me. I am afraid I am a little rusty in the Bible," he added with a twinge of conscience, for, though a member of the church, his business and cares had made him neglect his Bible instead of looking to it for comfort.

Alice sat down by him very quietly, and began to read: "'Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us.'"

"Alice!" called her mother from the other room. She laid her open Bible on her papa's knee and ran to see what her mother wanted. "You have your hat on," said her mother; "I want you to run right quickly to the store and bring me some thread."

Alice ran off to do the errand. When she returned her father was gone, and her Bible lay on the table. She was disappointed. She did not know that after she left her papa had looked over her Bible and read all the texts that were marked. He found so much comfort in them that he made up his mind he would go to his Bible oftener and read how much God loved him. That night he began again to have family prayers. This made Alice's mother very happy. They were both happier Christians that night than they had been for a long time.

As Alice went to the store for her mother she passed the house of an old Scotchwoman who lived by herself. She was sitting at the open window, and smiled and nodded to Alice as she came up. Alice stopped a moment to ask after her health.

"I am hale and hearty," she said, cheerily, "but eh, dearee, my poor old eyes are getting so dim I can not read the good Lord's Word as I once did."

Alice told her her society had made her a Bible-reader, and that if she would like it she would come often to read to her.

The old lady thanked her, and seemed so pleased that Alice went on very happy. She kept her promise. She went often to read to the old lady who, when she had finished reading, told her pretty stories of the old country, and when she was a little girl, a long time ago. They became great friends. The old lady went with Alice to her society the next time it met, and told the children they were doing a good work, and she hoped the Lord would bless them for remembering a poor old body like herself. She said that if there were many societies like theirs, and many little girls like Alice, a great deal of good would be done.

LUCINDA B. HELM.

Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Bronchitis, can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Prominent physicians use it and testify to its great value. Please read the following: "I used Scott's Emulsion for an obstinate Cough with Hemorrhage, Loss of Appetite, Emaciation, Sleeplessness, &c. All of these have now left, and I believe your Emulsion has saved a case of well-developed Consumption."—T. J. FINDLEY, M. D., Lone Star, Texas.

For every trial God sends, he gives sufficient grace for its endurance: but he promises no grace to bear anticipations with, and we little know how very large a portion of our mental suffering arises from anticipations of trial.

BEAUTY of Skin & Scalp RESTORED by the CUTICURA Remedies.

NOTHING IS KNOWN TO THE SCIENCE AT all comparable to the CUTICURA Remedies in their marvelous properties of cleansing, purifying and beautifying the skin, and in curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; RESOLVENT, $1; SOAP, 25c. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Dull Aches, Pains, and Weaknesses instantly relieved by the CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c.

Household.

A Boy's Paradise.

The father mentioned in the following incident belongs to the class of people who believe that "boys can be poked away anywhere," and in planning his new house no provision was made for the room which his young sons were to occupy. Fortunately, the lads had a grandmother who knew that an attractive room, all his own, has a wonderful power to keep a boy indoors in the evening, and the way in which she converted the father to her belief is thus described:

"David," she said to her son, "who is that large chamber for with the bay window and two mantel-pieces?"

"For company, mother," was the reply.

"What company? I didn't know you expected any," said the shrewd old lady.

"Oh, for anyone who happens along! By-and-by Emma will leave school, and have company, you know. James' wife and Cousin Hepsy come down twice a year to shop, and always stop here a night or two."

"But your own boys come here to sleep three hundred and sixty-five nights in the year, and have a thousand times the claim on you that any 'company' have."

"Yes?"

"What arrangements have you made for them?"

And the father repeated the remark he had made to his easy wife so often, that "boys didn't care, and that they could cuddle down and sleep anywhere."

"But these boys must not sleep anywhere after the new house is done. Unless you divide that long spare chamber into two moderate-sized ones, and give one to them, I shall settle them in the room you have planned for me, and make my home with Catharine. She has plenty of room, and is always urging me to come to her. I will not crowd your sons out of a room."

David Lane loved his mother, so the result was that the long "spare chamber" was finished so as to meet the wants of the boys. Two happier boys never lived than these two when the time came for furnishing and ornamenting that room! Grandma took the matter into her own hands, and said they should have everything to their mind, as long as they kept within bounds.

"Now, what do you want in your room?" she asked when the house was nearly done.

"In the first place, we don't want a carpet, because somebody would be always telling us not to kick holes in it. We don't want black walnut furniture, nor a big looking-glass, nor china vases, nor anything grand that scratches or tears, or breaks," Morton said.

"Well, say what you do want then," said their grandmother.

"Well, grandma, we want an oiled floor and two of your great braided mats; and an open fireplace, with your brass andirons from the garret; and a big hearth, where we can pop corn and roast nuts; and we want bright wall-paper, with pictures of the country; and two little iron bedsteads, with blue spreads; four chairs, painted blue; a glass case for our stuffed birds; shelves for our books, and lots of hooks to hang our bows and arrows, violin, French horn, boxing-gloves, hats and Indian clubs on. These, with the old sitting-room lounge, and the old easy-chairs, will make us the most comfortable boys in the world."

Before the month closed, the "Boy's Paradise" was complete, and a score of wise fathers and mothers, with several scores of less wise boys and girls, had been invited to see it. No one now complains of the Lane boys for hooting from the top of stone walls, or howling about the streets by night; and their mother says their music and their company do not disturb her half as much as the anxiety as to where they were by night used to do.—Selected.

For every person has two educations: one which he receives from others, and one, more important, which he gives himself.—Gibbon.

DOUGH & CHANDLER, of Cambria Mills, Michigan, write Dr. Shallenberger:

"We are selling five different kinds of Ague Pills, but yours are in the lead. After trying all other remedies, our customers invariably fall back on Shallenberger's Pills. They never fail to effect a cure, and, living in the midst of a Fever and Ague country, we speak from experience.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Best of All

Cough medicines, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is in greater demand than ever. No preparation for Throat and Lung Troubles is so prompt in its effects, so agreeable to the taste, and so widely known, as this. It is the family medicine in thousands of households.

"I have suffered for years from a bronchial trouble that, whenever I take cold or am exposed to inclement weather, shows itself by a very annoying tickling sensation in the throat and by difficulty in breathing. I have tried a great many remedies, but none does so well as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral which always gives prompt relief in returns of my old complaint."—Ernest A. Hepler, Inspector of Public Roads, Parish Terre Bonne, La.

"I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy

For Home Use.

I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults."—Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

"Twenty years ago I was troubled with a disease of the lungs. Doctors afforded me no relief and considered my case hopeless. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, before I had finished one bottle, found relief. I continued to take this medicine until a cure was effected. I believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—Samuel Griggs, Waukegan, Ill.

"Six years ago I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a rough, night sweats, bleeding of the lungs, pains in chest and sides, and was so prostrated as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine, and, after using only three bottles, am as well and sound as ever."—Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas Selections —FOR 1888.— Containing new Carols by well-known composers, Responsive Exercises, Recitations, Dialogues, Motion Songs, etc., with or without the carols. Price, $5 per dozen by mail, postpaid; $4 per dozen not prepaid.

Services. "Good Will to Men," Hall; "Noel," Emerson; and "Peace on Earth," Hall. These consist of choice Responsive Readings, set which are interspersed Beautiful Carols, especially for use in connection with the Readings. Price of each of the first seven as for the "Christmas Selections."

Cantatas. "The New Santa Claus," Ormsby and Danks. "Flags," by Burnham and Root. "Miss Mistake's Christmas," by Burnham and Root. "Kriss Kringle," by Butterfield. All Excellent. The Cantatas, 30c. each by mail, postpaid.

Catalogue of all kinds of Christmas Music to be sent free on application.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

And 19 East 16th St., New York City

The BUYERS' GUIDE is issued March and Sept., each year. It is an encyclopedia of useful information for all who purchase the luxuries or the necessities of life. We can clothe you and furnish you with all the necessary and unnecessary appliances to ride, walk, dance, sport, fish, hunt, work, go to church or stay at home, and in various styles and quantities. Just figure out what is required to do all these things COMFORTABLY, and you can make a fair estimate of the value of the BUYERS' GUIDE, which will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents to pay postage.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

111-114 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

— 3 NEW VOLS. —

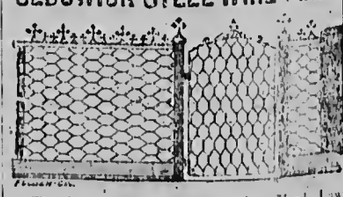
Giants & Goblins, $1.
Wings & Stings, 75c.
Paws & Claws, $1.

Mailed Postpaid Free.

AGENTS WANTED TO SELL

The BRIGHTEST, JOLLIEST JUVENILE BOOKS. Full of the oddest [illegible] characters with laugh-provoking [illegible] by the Prince of Juvenile Artists. A GREAT HIT! Over 10,000 sold. Critics say of it: "A [illegible]" B. Fisk. "Don't send me another, for I [illegible]" R. H. Conwell, D. D. "[illegible]" —Phila. Press. "[illegible]" —Hon. S. S. Cox. "[illegible]" —Hon. Howard Crosby. [illegible] HUBBARD BROS., Philadelphia, Chicago, or [illegible]

SEDGWICK STEEL WIRE FENCE



The best Farm, Garden, Poultry Yard, Lawn, School, Lot, Park and Cemetery Fences and Gates. Perfect Automatic Gate. Cheapest and Neatest Iron Fences. Iron and wire Summer Houses, Lawn Furniture, and other wire work. Send 2c. stamp for circular and Price. Ask dealers in hardware, or address

SEDGWICK BROS., RICHMOND, IND.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHALENE CURED never fails to cure. Send us your address and we will mail a Trial Bottle FREE. Don't delay. Write to-day. DR. TAFT BROS., Rochester, N. Y.

The Great Secret of the Canary Breeders of the Harz Mountains for making Birds sing. MANY imitations but no other genuine. Package 10 cts. by mail, postpaid, will preserve them in health, &c., by mail, postpaid. Book on Canary Birds and their Diseases free. Bird Food Co., box N, Jersey City, N. J.

"Best cure for colds, cough, consumption I ever used in the old Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam." Cutler Bros. & Co., Boston. For 40 a large bottle at your grocer's.

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

TAYLOR—MONTAGUE.—At the residence of the bride's brother, William Montague, Esq., Rankin county, Miss., November 20, 1888, by Rev. W. B. King, Mr. William W. Taylor to Miss Mary A. Montague.

BAILES—HOYLE.—At Doyline, La., November 21, 1888, by their pastor, Rev. R. M. Tucker, Mr. F. M. Bailes to Miss Jessie Doyle.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, five cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

PERRY—EMMA PERRY, wife of David Perry, and daughter of Rev. R. M. and Margaret Casseis, was born November 5, 1868; married to David Perry, July 18, 1887; died May 24, 1888. She was converted and joined the church when about nine years of age, and lived a true Christian until her death.

The death of this excellent young woman spread sorrow and sadness over the entire community. How sad to see one pass from the activities of life to the cold embraces of the tomb, and especially one on whom so many lively hopes were centering! Emma was the joy of the family circle. She was one of whom it may be truly said, "None knew her but to love her, none named her but to praise." She was an example, in practice, of our holy religion, exhibiting "heaven in her walk, grace in her steps, and all her gestures dignity and love." Her associates only knew her as a sweet-spirited companion, amiable in her association, calm in disposition, cheerful in spirit, graceful in her manners, and a living epistle of truth and virtue. She was a dear lover of Sunday-school. She faithfully studied her Sabbath-school lessons, storing her mind with the wisdom that cometh from above. She loved her Bible and made its light her guiding star to the future. Prayer to her was a delightful daily exercise. Her heart was regularly offered to the Savior as a morning and evening sacrifice. The writer often called on her to pray for seekers of religion at the altar, and while she would raise her sweet voice and heart to God, for salvation to come down, many were saved from sin and made to shout the praises of God aloud. But Emma is one to join in with angels in singing and praising of God around the great white throne. We will hear her voice no more on earth. It is sad for one so young to be stricken by the ruthless hand of death; but God's ways are just and right, and we should bow in humble submission to his will. We are comforted by the blessed thought that she was ready and willing to go, and now stands a white-robed angel by the side of the loved ones who have gone before.

N. J. ROBERTS.

GIBSON—The subject of this sketch—BRO. DAVID J. GIBSON—died at his home in Crystal Springs, Miss., September 3, 1888, in the thirty-fourth year of his age. He was a descendant of that family of Gibsons whose names are historic in Mississippi Methodism. His grandfather, David Gibson, was a brother of Rev. Randall Gibson, who, as a local preacher, served the church well in the early history of Claiborne county. His father was also named David. His mother was Miss Jane M. Ferguson. She was twice married, being the Widow Cochran when she was married to Mr. Gibson.

David J. Gibson was born in Warren county, Miss., near old Asbury Church, November 7, 1855. While yet a child his parents moved to Hinds county, and later to the town of Crystal Springs. Bro. Gibson was a child of affliction, he being the victim of a disease which was a source of the greatest anxiety to himself and family from his youth, and which finally ended his life. He joined the church while a boy, and continued a faithful member to his death. A more submissive spirit I have never known. In all the severity of his affliction he was never heard to complain or charge God foolishly. His affliction was such as to preclude the privilege of his attending upon the services of the sanctuary; and how keenly did he seem to feel the deprivation! His soul longed, yea, even fainted, for the courts of the Lord; his very heart seemed to cry out for the privilege of meeting with God's people and of hearing God's Word, yet he feared to enter the sanctuary. How often when speaking of his troubles and deprivations has he declared his willing submission to the will of our heavenly Father. "What he does is right, and I am in his hands," was an oft-repeated sentence. Ere this, no doubt, he fully understands, that which to him in this life was ever an unsolved question. He sees no longer through the glass darkly, but face to face.

T. B. HOLLOMAN.

HATHORN—Sister LULA A. HATHORN (nee Gage) was born in Louisville, Miss., June 29, 1865; was received into the Methodist Church, South, by Bro. A. J. Foster, in 1881; was married to T. L. Hathorn, September 6, 1884; and died at her home, in Louisville, Miss., October 9, 1888.

Sister Hathorn was a devoted, loving child; grew into womanhood with many Christian virtues. So kind and gentle were her manners that she was loved as only a true sister and friend could be loved. She was an affectionate wife and mother, and oh! how sad her one so young to be taken so suddenly from her parents, brothers, sisters, little babe and precious husband. We think of her not as in the grave, but in heaven, and we trust that by and by we shall all meet again where there is no sickness, death or parting. God bless and save all the loved ones left behind!

HER PASTOR.

HOLIFIELD—Sister A. J. HOLIFIELD, wife of Bro. H. Holifield, and daughter of Rev. Hiram and Sallie Innes, was born December 1, 1836, and died, after a long and severe spell of flux and fever, August 1, 1888, being at the time of her death fifty-one years, eight months and four days old. Sister Holifield's first husband's name was McClendon (I do not know his given name), from which marriage she leaves five devoted children to mourn their loss. After the death of her first husband she was married to Bro. H. Holifield, by which marriage she leaves a devoted husband and one sweet little daughter to mourn their loss. She joined the Baptist Church in her girlhood days, of which church she was a faithful member at the day of her death.

I think I never met a better woman than Sister Holifield. She was a devoted wife, a loving, tender mother and a faithful, consecrated Christian woman. As her last husband is one of the leading members in one of my churches, it was my privilege to visit them often and know her well; and to know her was to appreciate and love her. It was at her home the weary itinerant ever found a hearty welcome and kind hands to administer to his wants, and, doubtless, many will rise up in the blessed beyond with this itinerant to call her blessed. May God sustain by his grace her devoted husband and six children in their sad bereavement, and help them to so live that they may meet her in heaven!

A. D. MILLER.

BAILY—MRS. MARY VIRGINIA BAILY died at her residence, in Canton, Miss., on the night of November 13, 1888. Her disease was a lingering and painful one that parified her spirit as by fire. Her birthplace was Norfolk, Va., whence her father, Mr. Puckett, moved to Manchester, Va., when the subject of this sketch was one year old. Her home was in Virginia until near womanhood. On the death of her father she came with her mother to Vicksburg, Miss., where Dr. Puckett, the oldest son of the family, had located. There she remained till about 1842, when she came to Canton, Miss., where the rest of her life was spent. Mrs. Baily was married three times, her last husband being Thomas S. Baily, of Canton, whom she survived a number of years. She joined the Methodist Church about thirty years ago, and remained a worthy member of that communion till she was translated to the church in heaven.

Mrs. Baily had an ardent and zealous temperament that made her very sincere and earnest in all she undertook. This was specially manifested in her Christian character during the latter years of her life. She met death without fear or regret. Calm and self-possessed, she bade her family and friends adieu, and asked them to meet her in heaven. She was in her sixty-ninth year, having been born June 1, 1820.

W. B. LEWIS.

COFER—JESSE HENRY COFER was born in Bedford county, Va., on February 19, 1829.

In early life Bro. Cofer was converted, and soon after his conversion joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and lived a consistent Christian life till he passed from the church below to his home in heaven. On February 20, 1851, was united in marriage to Miss Edmonia Stagg. This union was a happy one. They walked together, keeping the commandments of God. In 1862 Bro. Cofer entered the Confederate Army; was soon made captain of a company; was captured at Port Hudson and carried to Johnson's Island, and remained there till the close of the war. Bro. Cofer has lived in Rankin county, Miss., since the year 1858, and was a member of our church in Brandon. Our brother suffered for many months before his death, but no word of complaint was ever heard from him. The will of God was his will. On October 3, 1888, the weary wheels of life ceased to move, and the good man was at rest.

F. M. FEATHERSTUN.

WOOD—MRS. F. LUVENIA WOOD, daughter of John A. Cochran, and wife of George E. Wood, was born in Green county, Miss., October 1, 1851, and died near Cross Roads, Jackson county, Miss., October 29, 1888. Sister Wood professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, about eight years ago. She claimed to be a child of God, and lived in accordance with the profession. "In this the children of God are manifest." She was sick ten months. During this siege of suffering her faith failed not, but rather brightened. She bore it in patience. Shortly before she died she called to her bed-side husband and friends, urged them to be faithful and to meet her in heaven; then passed away at the close of the day as quietly as the fall of an autumn leaf, but to bloom again in the regions of eternal splendor. She leaves a fond husband, a tender child, father, mother and several brothers and sisters to mourn her loss.

T. S. WEST.

O'QUIN—Little EDITH PEARL, the infant daughter of Thomas J. and Mary E. O'Quin, died of pneumonia, October 15, 1888, in Red Lick, Jefferson county, Miss., after an illness of several days. She was about a year old and was the pride of the family. It was only for a few days and nights she suffered under the grasp of this disease, during which time all the cares and anxieties of an affectionate mother and faithful father were awakened, and prayers was made in every way to restore their babe to health again; but all was in vain, the struggle came at last, and little Pearl fell asleep in Jesus.

Christ has said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." So why should ye weep, dear father and mother? for though side by side little Pearl and Bessie lay in the cold and silent grave, yet, clasped in one mother's arms, they wait to welcome you into the mansion of peace and rest.

E. H. O.

WHITE—CLAUDIE A. WHITE was born April 26, 1887; died September 15, 1888. Great was little Claudie's suffering, but she never fretted, but bore it with more patience than any grown person. Her illness lasted ten days and nights; then God took her home.

LAURA P. OAKES.

HENDON—MARY E. HENDON (nee Tramel) was born January 15, 1869; was married to Albert Hendon in December, 1879, with whom she lived happily until her death, October 6, 1888. Being raised by Christian parents, she was converted to God at an early age, and from that time was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Her neighbors speak of her as a good woman. She was an affectionate daughter, a tender mother, a cheerful, dutiful, loving wife. While her body sleeps beneath the new-made mound of clay, no doubt her spirit rests with God. She leaves three precious little ones, too young to realize what they have lost. These are committed to the care of her parents, by whom she herself was taught to love and serve God.

To her deeply distressed husband, with all the bereaved, we commend the consolations of God's Word—the doctrine of the resurrection, immortality and eternal glory.

W. C. HARRIS, P. C.

GARLINGTON—REV. SAMUEL S. GARLINGTON, son of Dr. James and Sarah Garlington, was born May 30, 1820, in Franklin county, Miss.; died October 29, 1888.

Bro. Garlington was licensed to exhort in 1862, and licensed to preach in 1871. His last sickness was very protracted. He was in a declining condition when the writer first saw him, in February last. He bore his sufferings patiently, but for a long time was not willing to die; but in his last hours became perfectly reconciled to his Master's commands. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his departure. His children are all grown, and it is to be hoped that they will follow in the steps of their father. I am told Bro. Garlington had held prayer in his family for years. He did not allow anything to interfere with his family worship.

W. H. HULL.

TROTTER—Mrs. MATTIE DAVIS SIDNEY TROTTER, wife of William J. Trotter, of St. Helena parish, was born March 7, 1849, and died, in view of "the rest that remains for the people of God," and for which she sighed, November 1, 1888. Sister Trotter joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Pine Grove, La., having been converted at the Greensburg Camp Ground in 1859, in which she lived the life of a Christian as best she could, proving to her husband to be a faithful wife and companion, and a kind mother, and a friendly neighbor to all with whom she lived. May the Father of us all comfort the sorrowing ones, and give them grace by which they may meet where the "weary are at rest," and where all tears shall be wiped away!

J. W. ELLISON, Pastor.

RHODES—GUSSIE IRENE, infant daughter of Augustus and Augusta M. Rhodes, of Gibsland, La., fell sweetly asleep in Jesus, November 9, 1888, age 1 one year, four months and nineteen days.

This precious little jewel, whose face shone so brightly in the home circle, has been removed to her home in the mansions above. May God give the parents grace to bow submissively! Thy will, O Lord, be done!

GRANDFATHER.

HATHORN—CARRIE V. HATHORN, only child of T. L. and Lula A. Hathorn, was born July 31, 1888, and died November 7, 1888. Little Carrie was only with us a few weeks, but she had her mission to fill and her work to do. She has gone to her mother, who preceded her a few weeks to the goodly land. May the father in his extreme loneliness find comfort in the promise, "My grace is sufficient!"

J. A. L.

BLACK—Resolutions adopted by the Sabbath-school of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Meridian, Miss., October 11, 1888:

Whereas, The voice of Divine Providence, in infinite wisdom, has summoned the sweet spirit of our dear associate and pupil, CORA BLACK, and she has gone forever from our band of Christian children to her home beyond; And, whereas, We realize with sadness that her bright presence is forever gone from earth; And, whereas, She will be sadly missed from her accustomed place in Sabbath-school; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we accept this affliction in humble submission to the will of him who doeth all things well, and who guides us so sweetly through the dark shadows along our pathway.

Resolved, That we are thankful for her having lived among us, her noble example, her influence that is still with us.

Resolved, That we are comforted with the fond assurance that she had an abiding faith in her Savior and was ever a willing worker in his vineyard.

Resolved, That we offer our tenderest sympathy to the sorrowing parents and sisters and brothers who have borne their affliction with such Christian fortitude.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and Meridian News.

IDA LEWIS, for Com.

By Our Proxies.

At various times we have called attention to the results of administering Compound Oxygen to invalids, and we believe that we have proven its value conclusively. Now we will have a few words from the invalids themselves:

GRANT MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY, Athens, Tenn.

I fully endorse the Compound Oxygen Treatment.

J. F. SPENCE, President.

COLEMAN FEMALE COLLEGE, Columbia, S. C., Mar. 14, '88.

I am satisfied that the Compound Oxygen is an excellent remedy.

DR. O. ANDREW, President.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE, Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 2, '88.

I regard your treatment by inhalation as a wonderful discovery of science.

REV. A. A. JOHNSON, President.

We publish a brochure regarding the effect of Compound Oxygen on invalids suffering from consumption, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, catarrh, hay-fever, headache, debility, rheumatism, neuralgia; all chronic and nervous disorders. It will be sent, free of charge, to anyone addressing DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.; or 331 Montgomery street, San Francisco, Cal.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THREE WONDERFUL

SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect.

6,500,000 LADIES

Are Using Sewing on

SINGER

Family Sewing Machines.

8,000,000

SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,

185 Canal St., New Orleans.

A. E. RUNDLE - - - - - AGENT.

Mention this Paper.

$75 to $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va.

$300 to $500 a month made by working for us. We guarantee energetic persons $3500 a Year, with the opportunity of making 6 times that amount. Men who can furnish their own horses preferred. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Holloway & Co., 112 N. 6th St., St. Louis.

ALL BOOKS at Wholesale to members of the Book Buyer's Bureau. Membership free. AGENTS WANTED to sell to members. Send 2c stamp for catalogue and information to R. H. Woodward & Co., Baltimore, Md.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 CAMP STREET 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT MCHEHLE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

113 Common Street.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases.
A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel.
The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with

PERFECT SAFETY

to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

It has been used with most wonderful effect in

Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c

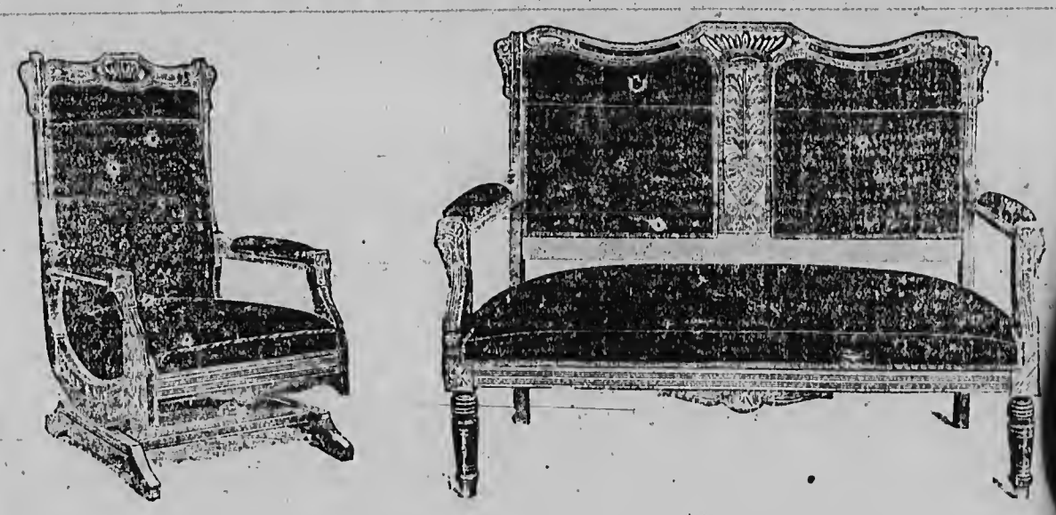
Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c, and 50c, packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2 cent stamp to

MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA

GRANT'S

FURNITURE HOUSE.



$35.00

Buys a beautiful Crimson Plush Parlor Suit, in five pieces, as shown in illustration. Solid Walnut Frame, Hand-carved and Rubbed Oil Polish. Same suit in Hair Cloth, $35.

$45.00

Buys the same suit in five pieces, covered in Silk Plush, all one color, in either of the following: Crimson, Old Gold, Olive, Peacock Blue or Maroon; or the same set made up in all the above colors.

$55.00

Buys the suit in ten pieces, including the five pieces here shown, one more Sofa and four Parlor Chairs covered in plush.

$65.00

Buys the same set—ten pieces—covered in Silk Plush—all one color, or five different colors.

Plush Rockers, Reception Chairs, Reed and Rattan Rockers, Fancy Tables in Walnut, Mahogany, Oak and Cherry.

$20.00

Buys a French Bed-Room Set.

$69.50

Buys a beautiful Victoria Bed-Room Set, in imitation Walnut, Marble-top—twelve pieces—as follows: Bedstead, Dresser, Wash-stand, Armoir, four Cane-seat Chairs, one Cane-seat Rocker, one Towel Rack, one Spring, and one Centre Table.

$95.00

Buys a magnificent Black Walnut Bed-Room Set, Marble-Top, Satin Tapter, brass rods—twelve pieces as above.

$19.00

Buys a Dining-Room Set, including Sideboard, Extension Table, and six Cane-seat Chairs.

$22.00

Buys a Kitchen Set, including a first-class Stove with Utensils, Kitchen Safe, Kitchen Table, four Kitchen Chairs.

Office and Library Furniture in large variety.

CARPETS—Ingrain, Brussels and Velvets.

Rugs, Portiere and Lace Curtains in all styles and at all prices.

Figures talk; and if you doubt, call and inspect the goods. Everything else proportionately cheap. Stock complete with the latest designs and fresh from the best factories. Call and examine, and I guarantee polite attention, reliable goods, fair dealing and bottom prices at the Cheapest FURNITURE HOUSE in NEW ORLEANS.

J. G. GRANT, 50 and 52 Baronne Street.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., New York.

EDUCATIONAL.

A ROAD TO SUCCESS.

One of the grand avenues to successful business life leads through

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

where every student buys and sells, receives and pays correspondence, calculates, attends Business Lectures, forms and dissolves co-partnerships, keeps books and transacts business in the same manner as do Merchants, Manufacturers, Bankers, etc., in daily business.

This renowned and progressive Institution has for the past thirty-two years enjoyed the confidence and support of the discerning public for its faithful, high-grade, practical education.

Soule College has also Higher English, Academical, Mathematical, Shorthand and Type-writing Schools. For catalogues address,

GEO. SOULE, President;
Cor. St. Charles Street, New Orleans, La.

N. B.—Soule's New Science and Practice of Accounts 416 pp.) and Soule's Philosophic Work on Practical Mathematics (880 pp.) are replete with expert and practical accounting and with the highest work and the rarest gems of the sciences of which they treat. Price $5 each. For sale at the College office.

Mention this Paper.

Leche's Graded Institute.

DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL.

Seventh Session Opens Monday, September 10, 1888.

English, French, Latin, German, Drawing, Shorthand, Type-writing. For prospectus address A. S. LECHE, 7 Prytania street.

Mention this paper.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive, instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.
PROF. D. F. HITHLE, Sec.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the V., S. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Full Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 1889.
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—board, books, tuition and fees—of a complete English course for one term of twenty weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address
R. A. SMITH, Principal.
Arcadia, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

J. H. BRUNNER, Pres.
G. W. RUDDLESTON, Sec.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

It is stated that Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland will go abroad after they leave the White House. The programme, as at present arranged, calls for the departure of the ex-President and his wife early in June. France is to be the first country visited, and then Great Britain will be explored. Probably Norway and Sweden, Italy and Spain will be included in the tour.

The Treasury disbursements have been unusually large during the month of November, the pension payments alone amounting to $22,000,000.

Government officers have just closed a successful raid in Randolph county, Ala., called "the moonshiners' paradise." They captured and destroyed three distilleries.

The movement for a withdrawal of the Democratic members of the G. A. R., on the ground that that organization is used to further the political ends of the Republican party, seems to meet with little sympathy outside of Indiana, where it began.

The settlers who had lately gone to Oklahoma held a convention, December 1, and after a thorough discussion of their interests as affected by the pending Congressional legislation, unanimously resolved to throw up their claims and abandon the Territory and improvements until they had full legal warranty to occupy and enjoy the same.

At Hopkinsville, Ky., on the second instant, 122 colored converts to the Baptist faith were baptized in a mill pond. The time occupied was only one hour and ten minutes.

The revised list of Representatives elected to the Fifty-first Congress, excluding West Virginia and Tennessee, where there is still doubt about the certificates, shows that the Republicans gained one each in North Carolina, Nebraska, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Ohio and New Hampshire; two each in Missouri, Connecticut, Iowa and Massachusetts; three in Minnesota, and three in Michigan. Total, 21. The Democrats gained four in Virginia, four in Indiana, one in Illinois, and one in New Jersey. Total, 10. The net gain of the Republicans was eleven.

The Fiftieth Congress reassembled on December 3, and the annual message of the President of the United States was read.

FOREIGN.

Gen. Boulanger, in a speech at a banquet, said that the situation now was just as disgraceful as it was in 1851. They must, however, go back to 1789 to find a parallel. The same necessities existed at home, and there was the same need of organizing for national defense. He repeated his former arguments in favor of a revision of the constitution, etc.

A dispatch to the London Times from Zanzibar says: "Three Arab caravans with slaves and ivory, driven by hunger, are reported to have fought their way into Bagamoyo through the opposing coast tribes. It is said the Germans then armed them with breech-loaders and sent them back to fight the tribes again. The latter have dug rifle pits along the coast to protect themselves from German shell fire.

Lord Salisbury, in a speech at Edinburgh, on November 30, referring to the treatment of Irish political prisoners, held that such treatment ought to deter others from following their example, and that so long as such offenders were dangerous to the community, they must be treated like other offenders.

There is an ill feeling between the Berlin and Vienna papers, due to certain occurrences during Emperor William's visit to Vienna, public criticism of which is impossible.

Emperor William's prolonged absence from public life has given rise to rumors that he is suffering from an aureal tumor which has assumed an aggravated form. Some official reports state that his illness is simply a severe cold, contracted through exposure during the recent hunt at Hetzlingen. No medical advice has been sought beyond that of the household physicians.

In the House of Commons, on the first instant, the speaker ordered Mr. Cunningham E. Graham, advanced Liberal member, to withdraw from the House, because he had accused Mr. Smith, the government leader, of conniving at a dishonorable trick, and had refused to retract the accusation.

The newspapers have disclosed an intense Austro-Hungary jealousy of German supremacy. The Vossische Zeitung having remarked that Austria and Hungary must be true to the alliance, or she would cease to exist, the Pesther Lloyd responded that the Austrian Empire was not a German dependency, and might renounce the alliance, becoming the centre of a Franco-Austro-Russian coalition against Germany. The controversy is deplored in official circles, but it delights the French press and enchants the Russian press into dreaming of a rupture of the alliance.

The government has introduced in the Chamber of Deputies, Italy, a bill asking supplementary credits of 109,000,000 lire on account of the army, and 37,000,000 lire on account of the navy.

The strike of coal miners in various districts of Belgium has ended.

It is announced that Lord Randolph Churchill will not speak in public again for some time.

Gen. Diaz was inaugurated President of Mexico on December 1, amid tremendous enthusiasm.

Ringing Noises

in the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is especially successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

Send $2 now and receive the ADVOCATE free until 1889. Your subscription will not expire until January 1, 1890.

Episcopal Visitation, 1888-9.

Conference.	Date.	Place.	Bishop.
N. Miss.	Dec. 12.	Starkville, Miss.	Keener
Alabama	Dec. 12.	Mobile, Ala.	Hargrove
S. Georgia	Dec. 12.	Eastman, Ga.	Duncan
Louisiana	Dec. 19.	New Orleans, La.	Hargrove
Florida	Jan. 9.	Bartow, Fla.	McTyeire
Baltimore	Mar. 13.	Alexandria, Va.	Wilson

FOR CHRISTMAS.

JOHNSON'S UNIVERSAL CYCLOPEDIA
[Revised]

is a whole library of universal knowledge from the pens of the ablest scholars in America and Europe. It is accepted as high authority in our leading colleges. It is not for the few, like Appleton's, the Britannica or the International, but for all. It has just been thoroughly revised at a cost of over $60,000, and three years' labor by forty editors and over 2,000 renowned contributors. It is in eight convenient sized volumes. No father can give his child at school or his son or daughter just entering the arena of life anything that will be of more permanent benefit. It is an education supplementary to that of the schools. Address for particulars and terms.

A. J. JOHNSON & CO.,
11 Great Jones Street, New York.

A NEW GATEWAY.

By the completion of a new bridge across the Missouri River at Rulo, Nebraska, the Burlington Route has established, for the entire distance over its own track, a new, direct, through line from St. Louis to Kansas City, St. Joseph, Atchison and Denver. Over this line is run "The Burlington's Denver Express"—a solid train with through sleeping cars and coaches from St. Louis to St Joseph and Denver, and a through sleeping car from St. Louis to Kansas City. The connections made by this train at the Missouri River, at Denver and at junction points en route are such that one can directly reach by it all points in Nebraska, Colorado and all sections of the West and Southwest, as well as all Pacific coast points. This is in addition to "The Burlington's Number One" well-known solid vestibule train between Chicago and Denver and Cheyenne, with which direct connection is made by C., B. & Q. R. R. trains from Peoria, and by which one can make the run between Chicago and Denver without being more than one night on the road. For tickets via the Burlington Route and for special excursion folder, call on any ticket agent of connecting lines, or address P. S. Eustis, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent, C., B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill.

The Advocate Free until 1889.

Send $2 now and receive the ADVOCATE free until 1889. Your subscription will not expire until January 1, 1890.

GOLD MEDAL

Awarded the J. C. Ayer Company at the International Exhibition in Spain.

The J. C. Ayer Company have received notice from Spain that their medicinal preparations have gained the gold medal at the Barcelona International Exhibition. The jury of award consisted of eminent physicians and pharmacists. This exhibition, the first of an international character ever held in Spain, was opened in April last with impressive ceremonies, in which the queen-regent took part. Nearly all the high functionaries of the kingdom were present. It has been continued through the summer with great success.—Lowell Morning Mail, Oct. 17, 1888.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

General Insurance Agents, for Fire, River, Marine, Accident and Bonding Companies, is one of the largest firms in this city. The firm guarantees the lowest rates in the best companies. If you want insurance, write this firm and mention the ADVOCATE. Say you saw their advertisement in the ADVOCATE, and if special attention can be given more than is usually given, you will receive it.

Announcement.

With pleasure we announce the Sewing Machine Establishment of J. C. Geitz, whose advertisement appears in another column, as one of the oldest, cheapest, and most reliable of its kind in St. Louis, and our readers would do well to apply there for bargains in Sewing Machines.

N. C. Y. L.

Now is a favorable time to enter the NASHVILLE (TENNESSEE) COLLEGE FOR YOUNG LADIES. This is the leading Southern College for women. Three large buildings, passenger elevator and all needed conveniences; 20 offices, 304 pupils from 20 States; full course in Literature, Art, Music; a full business course. Address

REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D.,
President.

TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE

in THE YOUTH'S COMPANION will include, among other articles, "The Bicycle in India and Afghanistan," by Thomas Stevens; "Hunting the Sea Otter," by H. W. Elliott; "Fight Pinches in the Arctic," by Lieut. Schwatka; "The Geologist in the Wilderness," by Prof. Winchell; "Our Floating Camp," by Walter E. Sturgis, and "Digging Out Old Anacelles," by F. H. Fisbing.

Special Offer.

Anyone sending two dollars will receive the ADVOCATE free of all charges until January, 1890.

Why should I start at the plow of my Lord, that maketh deep furrows on my soul? I know he is no idle husbandman, he purposeth a crop. Oh, that this stony, withered, barren ground, were made fertile to bear a crop for him by whom it is so painfully dressed, and that this fallow ground were broken up!

"It's the biggest thing I ever struck." What? Why, the business advertised in another column by B. F. Johnson & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va. If you are open to any engagement, write them. They can show you a good thing.

THE 50,000!

Read, Lay Hold and Work.

Must Be a New Subscriber.

A New Subscriber Is One in Whose Family the Paper Is Not Taken

In order to increase the subscription list of the Christian Advocate to 50,000 we make the following offer, good until April, 1889:

For $2 in cash we will send the Christian Advocate for one year, and any one of the books in the following list:

"Life at McFerrin." By Dr. O. P. Fitzgerald. 12mo. 448 pp. Price $1.

"Can It Be False?" By a Layman. 12mo. 300 pp. Price $1.

"Twenty Thousand Miles." By Dr. R. A. Young. 12mo. 320 pp. Price $1.

"Life of David Livingstone." By Annie M. Barnes. 12mo. 420 pp. Price $1.

And for six new subscribers we will send one set of Dr. Summers' "Systematic Theology," in two royal octavo volumes of 1,123 pp.

For three new subscribers McTyeire's "History of Methodism," (cloth), $2.

Here is an opportunity to increase the circulation and the usefulness of your church paper, and to put good books into the homes of the people. The inducements offered are rare, and it is hoped that the responses will be many. Address

J. D. BARBEE, Agent,
Publishing House of the M. E. Church, South, Nashville, Tenn.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

General Insurance Agents

—FOR—

FIRE, RIVER, MARINE, ACCIDENT and BONDING COMPANIES.

Representing the OLDEST and LARGEST Fire Companies both in England and America.

Prompt and Careful Attention Given to All Business Entrusted to Us.

62 BARONNE ST., N. O.

Mention this paper.

A. Brousseau's Son,

23 and 25 CHARTRES ST.,

CHINA MATTING,
CARPETS,
INGRAINS,
LACE CURTAINS,
WINDOW SHADES,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS.

We herewith present you the valuable notice that we sell the so highly celebrated Eldredge and Diamond Machines extremely cheap at retail in unoccupied territory. Sent on trial if desired. Special inducements and protection to good dealers. Liberal discount to ministers. Singer Machines cheap. Circulars and information free. J. C. GEITZ, Gen. West. Agt., 1317 and 1319 North Market st., St. Louis, Mo.

Do the ADVOCATE a favor, and mention it when you write.

TEACHERS, PROFESSORS and TUTORS supplied to Schools, Seminaries, Colleges and Families, free of charge. We have a large normal student registration. Teachers, register early. Fee small. Address with stamp.

AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Cole Building, Nashville, Tenn.

$65 A MONTH—AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Workers, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., No. 4 So. SIXTH St., St. Louis, Mo.

GIRLS' TRICYCLES,
R. P. Randall,
54 & 56 Baronne.

FIRE INSURANCE.

Liverpool and London and Globe INSURANCE COMPANY.

Largest Fire Office in the World.

Losses paid by Chicago Fire, 1871—$3,250,000.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,728.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

Directors in New Orleans—NEWTON BUCKNER, Chairman; ROBERT WOOSTER, JOHN W. LABOUISSE, A. DEVARGNE.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Res't Sec.
HENRY V. CRUSO, Resident Secretary.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1848.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1886.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,000

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Desirable Fire Business.

W. H. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH HOSMER, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our AGENTS there, from Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending December 4, 1888.)

COTTON.
Low ordinary	7 1-16	@	—
Ordinary	7 9-16		—
Good ordinary	8 3-16		—
Low middling	8 15-16		—
Middling	9 7-16		—
Good middling	10		—
Middling fair	10 3/4		—
Fair	11 5/8		—
Galveston middling	9 9-16		—
Mobile middling	9 3/8		—
St. Louis middling	9 1/2		—
SUGAR.
OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4 7/8		—
Fully fair	4 13-16		4 7/8
Good fair	—		3 11-16
Common	—		4 3/8
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4 7/8		5 3/4
Pr. yellow	6		—
Gray White	6		6 1/8
Choice white	5 1/8		—
Stan. Gran.	6 3/8		—
MOLASSES.
OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	—		43
Fair	25		26
Good Common	23		24
Syrup	25		33
RICE.
Head	5 1/4		6 1/4
Good	5		5 1/8
Fair	4 5/8		4 7/8
Good	3 3/4		4
Polish, per ton	14 00		15 00
No. 2	3 1/8		2 1/4
Rough	2 50		4 10
FLOUR.
Extra Fancy	5 20		5 25
Fancy	4 85		4 90
Choice	4 25		4 40
Minnesota patents	—		7 25
Extra fancy	5 50		5 62 1/2
Winter wheat patents	6 07 1/2		6 12 1/2
Minnesota bakers	6 40		6 60
CORN PRODUCTS.
Corn meal	2 25		2 30
Cream meal	3 00		—
Grits	2 85		2 90
Hominy	3 15		—
PROVISIONS.
PORK:
Mess (Standard)	15 25		15 50
Prime Mess	15 00		15 25
Rumps	—		14 50
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	7 3/4		7 7/8
Sides, long clear	8		8 1/8
Sides, short rib	8		8 1/8
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	11		12 1/2
Shoulders	8 1/4		—
Sides, long clear	9 1/4		—
Sides, short rib	9 1/8		9 1/4
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	11 1/2		12
GROCERIES.
COFFEE:
Prime	18 1/2		18 3/4
Fair	17 1/2		17 3/4
Common	15		15 1/2
TEAS:
Choice	40		80
Fair	24		35
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	21		—
Western Dairy	20		22
Common	—		18
LARD:
Refined	—		8 3/8
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11 3/4		—
Coal, cases	16		17
Cotton seed, crude	—		40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70		75
VEGETABLES.
CABBAGES:
Western per head	4		6
Chicago, per 100	—		—
Louisiana, ₩ crate	—		—
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	—		—
Western	1 50		1 60
KROUT:
Western, ₩ bbl	3 50		—
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	—		—
Western	1 35		—
SUNDRIES.
POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00		4 25
Young Chickens	2 00		3 50
Chickens, South'n	3 00		3 25
Young	1 75		2 00
Turkeys, Southern	9 00		10 00
EGGS:
Western	19		20
Southern	—		21
WOOL:
Lake, per lb	20		21
Louisiana	18		19
Burry	10		12
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₩ lb	4		4 1/2
Dry salted	6		—
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₩ ton	11 00		—
Meal	21 00		—
Pure ground bone	30 00		—
Muriatic acid, ₩ lb	2 1/2		—
Sulphuric acid	2		—

The clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its truest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders. The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Yellow Fever Can Be Prevented!

Steamer Joe KINNEY, St. Louis, November 18, 1878.—On our last trip from St. Louis to Vicksburg we used Mason & Hamlin organs as a preventive of yellow fever, and our boat crew, plantation hands of the barges, and the passengers were entirely free from the disease, although it was all around us. We gladly give the credit to the Cabinet Organs.

BILLY BISSELL,
Clerk Str. Joe. Kinney.
LYLE S. LEE,
Master Str. Alex Kendall.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT
PURE
DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the strongest, purest and most healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.,
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

LOUISIANA

STEAM

SASH, BLIND AND DOOR

FACTORY,

299, 301, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, moral and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

KNABE

PIANO FORTES

UNEQUALLED IN

Tone, Touch, Workmanship and Durability

WILLIAM KNABE & CO.,

BALTIMORE, 22 and 24 East Baltimore STREET.
NEW YORK, 112 Fifth Ave. WASHINGTON, 817 Market Space.

Mention this paper.

YUCCA

Young Men who are becoming prematurely bald, and who have used an article called YUCCA, and who have been disappointed, need not despair. Even without the use of YUCCA, if you can probably buy it of the nearest druggist; if not, send us $1 and we will send you a trial bottle. Always address Yucca Co., Burlington, Vt.

HAIR

IN THE SELECTION OF

A CHOICE GIFT

For Pastor, Parent, Teacher, Child, or Friend, both elegance and usefulness will be found combined in a copy of Webster's Unabridged.

Besides many other valuable features, it contains

A Dictionary of 118,000 Words, 3000 Engravings,
A Gazetteer of the World
locating and describing 25,000 Places,
A Biographical Dictionary of nearly 10,000 Noted Persons,
A Dictionary of Fiction found only in Webster,
All in One Book.

3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Illustrations than any other American Dictionary.

Sold by all Booksellers. Pamphlet free.

G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pubrs, Springfield, Mass.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 50. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1689.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. JAMES A. EDDREV.
REV. W. L. C. DUNNICETT, D. D.
REV. T. L. MELLEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. B. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WEIR, M. D.

For the Christian Advocate.

WOMAN'S WITNESS.

BY C. B. D.

Before the first faint flushings of the dawn,
Came Mary Magdalene to the tomb
To dress with spices sweet her Savior dead,
Her Master crucified. But, lo! the stone
Is rolled away! Bewildered, in her grief,
She hastes to John and Peter—favored two—
And tells them, "They have tak'n away the Lord,
And laid his sacred form we know not where."
Then, follow'ing these disciples loved, she came
With trembling steps to that dear spot again;
Sore weeping, looked into the sepulcher,
And saw two angels at the head and foot
Where erst the Savior lay, who asked her why
She wept. "Because my Lord is tak'n away,
And I," she said, "know not where he is laid."
Then, turning back, saw Jesus standing near,
And knew him not through all her blinding tears.
"Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou?"
He asked, and she, low pleading, said, "O, sir,
If thou have borne him hence tell me the place!"
Then said the Savior, "Mary!" and she turned
And knew him in the dear familiar name,
And cried aloud, with startled joy, "Rabboni!"
She heard his first command, then quickly sped,
Her sandals dripping with the radiant dew
Of resurrection morn, her garments sweet
With fragrant burial nard, and told the twelve
The gracious words of their ascended Lord.

Thus Mary's lips were first of all to tell
The joyful tidings of a risen Christ.
And all along these nineteen hundred years
Redeemed woman sings the glad refrain,
"The Lord is risen indeed! a Savior lives!"
Look now upon our bright Christian homes aglow
With resurrection light—lift up your eyes
And see the Marys speed with winged feet
To join the Johns and Peters on those shores
Where in the Christless night their sisters grope.
And, voiceless, shackled, bow to senseless stone
Where'er their radiant hostess is mark the way;
Let heathen Marys raise their eyes to see
The beamings of the Sun of Righteousness
With healing in his wings—then joyful run
To flash his rays on other darkened homes.
Till all the ransomed earth flame forth in light
Of "high, eternal noon." See Buddha die,
See China's wall fall flat, and India's caste
Break down! The Islands of the sea do clap
Their hands rejoicing! Soon the glowing East
Shall high uplift in welcome glad her gates,
And he, "The King of Glory shall come in!"
God speed the day! God help us here at home,
The Johns and Marys of this Christian land,
To send the workers with our gifts and prayers
And haste the coming of the Son of man!

Jacob Early.

A young Methodist preacher was my companion many years ago, under circumstances which will be seen from this history of his short life. Of German parentage, he was born in Pennsylvania, attended a college of that State, and in some way was brought under religious influences. When he became a graduate from college he was also a convert to Christianity, according to the Methodist exposition of the third chapter of St. John.

His father was rich and gave this son the opportunity of acquiring an advanced education in one of the noted universities of Europe. He returned to the United States an accomplished scholar, speaking both German and French. He disclaimed being a finished scholar; he had really learned only enough to know how to learn more. In college he had studied the four parts of mathematics—addition, multiplication, division and subtraction; in the university he had studied the four parts of grammar—orthography, etymology, syntax and prosody, and now in the school of Christ he was studying the four parts of Christianity—"wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption." (I. Cor. i, 30). His father and friends were thinking constantly as to the future of this promising young man. It seemed evident that he could attain eminence in some profession or pursuit, though not necessary, as a support was assured to him from his father's wealth. While they were thinking of him he was thinking of himself; thoughts pressed into his mind, and, when resolved into words, they were always the same, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel."

He decided to be a life-long preacher. Close application to study and the mental struggle to preach or not to preach caused symptoms of failing health, and physicians advised his removal to a warmer climate.

Bay St. Louis and Biloxi were then, as now, considered healthy to residents and restorative to visitors. Saline air to breathe in and salt water to bathe in, were the real or supposed causes of such results. The region was within the Mississippi Conference, and the young preacher decided to join that Conference; perhaps, the Bishops may have been consulted. He could be sent to a mission on the gulf front and find hearers of sermons in German or French. His father would supply his wants. With proper credentials as a preacher and letters of introduction, he came to the most prominent Methodist community in Mississippi. (See "History of Methodism in Mississippi," by Rev. John G. Jones, page 316). Here he was received into a Methodist family to await the meeting of the Annual Conference. For a few months he was the room-mate of this writer. Jacob Early was no ordinary man. No doubt, a natural orator, he was also a cultivated elocutionist. He commenced preaching in Warren county, and in the rented room in which courts were held in Vicksburg before there was a court-house or church in that town. His preaching was approved, and he became popular. Good people were cheered, the wavering encouraged and nude Strong; even the bad liked his sermons. A man having a troubling conscience within or an itching place without feels the better for having both scratched. The disagreeable sensation may be intensified, but it will often bring desired relief.

He was called upon to make Masonic and other addresses and one Fourth of July oration. The attendance was greater, because it was announced that Preacher Early was to be the speaker. When speaking he often quoted from Shakespeare, C. Wesley, and other poets, and from the Bible; at times, words in some language not understood. I suggested then he omit those which could do no good, and his hearers might consider it intended to parade his knowledge. His excuse was: "When thoughts flow rapidly, it was well for a speaker to remember and express the words of anyone which he could not equal." His quotations in German or French were of this class, appropriate and forcible, and gave support to the speaker as he continued his sermon or speech. I suppose orators understand all this. I asked Dr. C. K. Marshall about it, but may not give his answer.

My little brother asked his father why some of the men cried when Mr. Early was preaching. His father could not well explain, and the question, like, "What is truth?" remains to be answered: "To be in accord with the past—

"Dissolve my heart in tenderness,
And melt mine eyes to tears"— is to many a religious enjoyment.

I do not recollect what the preacher said to cause tears, but have thought since and think now, why we have less weeping under preaching than when I was a young man. Perhaps, the times require strong preaching against vice. The present meteor-like revivalist may have improved upon Jeremiah of old and some whom I have heard. It is written, "God shall wipe away all tears" (Rev. vii, 17); but how shall he do this if we have no tears to wipe away?

At the last Quarterly Conference of Warren circuit he was examined and gladly recommended for admittance to the Mississippi Conference. A preacher named Ashly Hewit had something to do with it, I think. At once he returned home to bid mother and all farewell. He considered this his last time to do as he pleased. Soon his days would all be under contract to others. He was in excellent health and was a happy man, though among strangers at present and probably would be in the future. His Conference wondered how he could act thus, giving up, as he did, affluence and ease among those whom he knew so well. Moses-like, he chose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasure of sin for a season. "I have meat to eat that ye know not of," he, doubtless, thought. There were no railroads then; so he returned by steamer and stage. We heard from Guyandotte, on the Ohio, where he took the stage. We next heard of his being unwell from exposure. Then came a letter, with black edges, announcing his death. He had met the test, "I give thee all, I can no more," and God took him to himself.

The workmen die, but the work goes on. He did not lay the foundation of Methodism on the gulf coast, but others came after awhile, and in 1888 we have there West, Jones, Drake, Thompson, and last, but by no means least, Dr. Abbey; and if the dead can look down, Jacob Early would see churches on that coast, in the center the camp ground, and religious services causing him to exclaim, "What hath God wrought!"

E. G. C.

South Bossier.

MR. EDITOR: I like Bro. Grant's proposition to include in next year's subscription to the ADVOCATE the remainder of this year—all for $2. I have, since that offer, secured five new names. God bless the "dear old ADVOCATE!" Our fourth Quarterly Conference is over. All finances, less ministerial support, in full, and we hope by Conference to have fair reports on that line.

Our good Bro. Pipes has been with us: he was out with Bro. Cassity, our presiding elder, and did his share of preaching, and was selling his book, "Life Work." Bro. Cassity made a speech for the book in the quarterly meeting at Dayline, but when we reached Houghton, Bro. Cassity being absent, I had Bro. Pipes to make his own book speech. He made a good talk and sold several copies of his book. The best recommendation I heard for his book came from Dr. Heard, at Houghton. He said to his wife, on reading six or eight pages, "Willie, I have already gotten four dollars' good out of this book." That's pretty good, isn't it, Bro. Pipes?

To-day I preached my last sermon for the Dayline congregation. Capt. Doyle, our faithful steward at this place, is hard at work getting up quarterage balance. I have some fine stewards in this charge. Just think of a steward saying, "Before my preacher shall starve, I will pay the assessment and do the starving." Can you beat that? My dear Doctor Lawrence loves his pastor. Well, my steward at Benton had married a wife and could not come to quarterly meetings. But I'll never go back on the Doctor, for he is doing what he can for the good cause at Benton.

The Campbellites broke in on us at Bossier Point and dipped four of our members—no, two of them had been dipped. One of some had come from the Baptist Church and knocked at our door for admittance, saying that he had quit his church because it took too much money to pay the preacher. We let him in, but he soon found that the Methodist preachers had to be paid also, and he is now exploring the Campbellite Church. How would it do to let our Campbellite brethren have all that class of membership? Some men are continually crying, "Too much machinery takes too much money to run it." Then why have large plantations? Why have railroads, etc. Why not "tote" your corn to mill, walk to New Orleans, haul your goods on an ox-cart? "Takes too much money." Yes, it does take money to run the Methodist Church but when she runs, she makes things happen. It has more and greater machinery than any other church—takes more men, women, children and dollars to keep it going; but its equal in glorious results is not found in any church.

The ox-wagon passes your door unnoticed; but here comes the thundering train, and everybody looks. Yes, the Methodist train is coming; her passengers aboard, the engineer, the fireman and the conductor—every man at his place. Let her come. Yes, brethren, we are exploring the world for Christ. Let us wake up.

Our prayer meeting at Haughton is now on a boom. I praise God that Bro. Sanders came over and preached sanctification to my people. It is what many of our prayer meetings need.

Well, Conference is near at hand. I am closing up my fourth year in this charge, and will go to another field of labor another year. May our blessed Lord send to this dear people a good pastor next year!

Yours in Christ,

R. M. BLOCKER.

HAUGHTON, LA., Dec. 3, 1888.

Dots from Jackson, Miss.

The labors, with us, of our beloved pastor, Rev. C. G. Andrews, D. D., ended on last Sunday night. For the past four years, eventful in many respects, this man of God has devoted his best energies to his sacred calling. At all times, and under all circumstances, he has faithfully and zealously discharged his whole duty as a preacher and pastor. Under his charge this church has grown and flourished, and has about the largest membership in the Conference. The beautiful new house of worship, commenced by, and during the pastorate of, Bishop Galloway, has been completed, furnished, and paid for, together with all other claims against the church, and we are now out of debt; a happy and contented people, with enmity towards none, and love for all. But we do regret to part with our pastor, because we love him; because we are proud of him, and for the good he has done us. Wherever his lot may be cast, we invoke the richest of Heaven's blessings upon him and his household, and bespeak a kindly greeting and hearty welcome by his new charge. "So mote it be."

On Monday night, of this week, the stewards "closed up the books of the old year," and are now ready to greet our new pastor, let him be who he may, with open hands and loving hearts. We are very proud of what we have done financially (as well as what has been done spiritually), as the following figures will show. We have raised, as our report to Conference shows:

Pastor's salary, $1,200; presiding elder's salary, $175; foreign missions, $170; domestic missions, $10; Conference claimants, $85; Bishops' fund, $25; education, $25; in Sabbath-school, church extension, $50; Sunday-school supplies, $35 70; poor, $40 90; Wesleyan Society, $121 85; self-denial, $12 10; Children's Day, $18 05; Louisiana storm sufferers, $22 40; incidentals, $165 45; church and parsonage, $896 91; Bible cause, $70; district parsonage, $18 50—total, $3,175 89.

We have a flourishing Sabbath-school, with good officers, first-rate teachers, and a better average attendance than any other Sabbath school in the city. Some of the oldest and best members of the church are teachers, and their places are never vacant, unless providentially hindered. We are proud of our school, of our officers and our teachers, and believe that it has done and is still doing great good.

The Bishop's residence, directly in front of the church, is nearing completion, and, when finished, will be an ornament to and one of the most beautiful in the city. We now have the finest church in Jackson; we have the district parsonage, the Bishop's residence, and next May or June will have Sam Jones for a week or two; yet, for all that, we are not putting on airs; and, if you will come up, Doctor, we will treat you just as nicely as though you were as highly favored as we are.

AITCH, AITCH, AITCH.

DECEMBER 5, 1888.

Ethical Christianity.

Professor Davison's Fernley Lecture on "The Christian Conscience" has just been published; and will be reviewed in our columns by a competent authority. We will only say here that it is one of the most interesting, valuable, and timely volumes it has ever been our good fortune to read. Every minister of religion and every intelligent Christian should purchase and ponder it without delay. Professor Davison has raised the question which goes to the root of all our urgent theological and social difficulties. We hasten to accentuate the great truth which this volume proclaims. Well does the lecturer declare that "the age is ethical or nothing; it is not disposed to listen to disquisitions on doctrine, but it understands righteousness, love, mercy, good works. The lead in the practical days of the closing nineteenth and opening twentieth centuries will lie with those who will wisely, truly, strongly hold and lead the conscience of the generation." This paragraph ought to be printed in letters of gold. It ought to be engraved on the portals of every theological college. It is most fortunate that Professor Davison himself has the opportunity of indoctrinating hundreds of young ministers with these healthful and inspiring ideas. He accuses the Christian Church of not condemning as strongly and fearlessly as she ought to condemn war, intemperance, impurity, the love of money, and sectarianism. He states truly that the Christian Church "does not lead the way, give the tone, strike the keynote" of modern social progress. He points out that "the words 'art' and 'civilization' represent regions as yet but imperfectly moralized." In other words, the ethical teaching of Jesus Christ, as we are never tired of repeating, has not yet been applied to business, pleasure and politics.

Professor Davison does not hesitate to go further and to point out the special ethical shortcomings of evangelical Christians. He quotes the following utterances of Dr. Dale; "One great defect of what we call the evangelical revival consists in its failure to afford to those whom it has restored to God a lofty ideal of practical righteousness and a healthy, vigorous moral training. The result is lamentable. Many evangelical Christians have the poorest, meanest, narrowest conceptions of moral duty, and are almost destitute of moral strength. If this defect is to be remedied, we evangelicals must think more about Christian ethics." Professor Davison points out, with keen discernment, that "the danger of eager, unguarded evangelicalism lies in the direction of moral watchfulness. Congregations accustomed to listen to warm-hearted addresses concerning the love of God to sinners, the freedom of his grace shown to the vilest and worst, his tender welcoming of the penitent prodigal, have been known to become somewhat restive under sermons which spoke clearly and strongly of duty; and if these were often repeated, have begun to complain that the minister did not preach 'the gospel.' The consequence has been that the glorious words, 'gospel' and 'evangelical,' have become narrowed to many minds, and, to some extent, in general acceptation; being identified with a type of doctrine which, if it does not omit a part of the truth, often fails to preserve due proportion in the presentation of the whole." John Wesley described this easily-besetting danger of evangelicalism in yet stronger language. He himself never failed to preach ethical Christianity in the plainest and most practical manner. Professor Davison quite properly maintains that our high doctrine of holiness renders it peculiarly important that the Methodist pulpit should never fail to enforce every precept of practical morality. "Those," he impressively declares, "who believe that a man, even in this life, may be entirely cleansed from sin are bound, beyond all others, to understand what sin means, and what cleansing means, lest they delude themselves, disgrace their religion, dishonor their God, and make divine truth 'procuress to the lords of hell.'"

The Fernley Lecture will be of inestimable value if it succeeds in persuading our ministers and local preachers to turn the main current of their preaching from a metaphysical into an ethical direction. What we want just now is not theoretical but applied Christianity. Men are so disgusted with the endless squabbles of theologians that they have rushed to the other extreme, and are, for the present, intolerant of the formulæ of the theological schools. This mood has been created by the excessively speculative and juglistic theology of the past, and we must patiently endure it. Many excellent Christians forget that neither the reformers of the sixteenth century nor the Bishops of the fourth century were inspired and infallible. The devout alarmists who imagine that everything is going wrong have been unconsciously misled by applying Puritan or mediæval tests to an age which must be judged in a totally different way. The theology both of the Latin Fathers and of our Protestant ancestors was necessarily limited by the intellectual and moral possibilities of the time. They did not exhaust the revelation of the Inspired Book. Much less did they comprehend the full significance of the living Word of God. The Great Master grows upon us. Certain aspects of his unique character are better understood to-day than they ever were before. We are only now beginning to understand "the spiritual gospel" of St. John. The direct relation of the Divine Word to every human being, the essential and eternal fatherhood of God, the brotherliness of Jesus Christ, the kingdom of God, which is to be fully established on earth—these are truths which are becoming increasingly luminous and lovely, and influential.

The very difficulties which men feel with respect to certain tenets of the Christian faith are created by the fact that the European conscience has become keener and kinder. All the essential doctrines will at no distant day be again accepted by the European mind. In the meantime, our true policy is to be ethical rather than controversial, to preach practical Christianity, and to wait until practical Christianity has had time once more to justify the intellectual expression of the truth. We must return to the first century, and in the first century, as Dr. Storrs and Professor Davison point out, the powerful appeal of Christianity was to the conscience. "It was by setting the sovereign conscience in every man on its own side, in the face of whatever fought against it, that Christianity won its early triumphs." In those golden days men preached a living Savior, a Divine person who had risen from the dead. We, too, must preach, not plans of salvation, not abstract creeds, but the ever-living and ever-present Son of God.—London Methodist Times.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1888.

OUR BENEDICTION.

"God bless you, dear!" We said it when she came To dwell with us, a little, fragile flower;
And day by day we watched her, fearing lest
The new-imprisoned spirit might take wing.

"God bless you, dear!" We said it when she slept
And warm she woke, or smiled or wailed, or sighed;
And when we planned her future, then we proved Natural good or ignorance decided.

"God bless you, dear!" We said it when she walked,
And when she knelt to say her childish prayers;
And when we tucked her in her bed at night,
And when we kissed her in the morning fair.

"God bless you, dear!" We said it when she went Happy and proud, in school, to take her place;
And when she ran to tell her comrades' plays,
And when we kissed her dimpled flower-like face.

"God bless you, dear!" We said it when she stood,
With school-days all behind, in girlish grace,
To read the valedictory, and take
Among the graduates an honored place.

"God bless you, dear!" We said it when she knelt
To take the yoke of Christ, with heart so meek,
So free from guile it seemed to us that she
To find his kingdom had not far to seek.

"God bless you, dear!" We said it when she stood,
With coronet of blossoms on her sunny hair,
Upon the threshold of her womanhood—
And God set with us still our loving prayer.

"God bless you, dear!" We said it yet again,
When she, rarely wise, was lost in dreamless rest;
And then, we could not understand, we felt
That now she was most truly blest.

—Good Housekeeping.

Vincent and Holway's Lesson Commentary. Phillips & Hunt, New York.

Sunday-School Lesson.—Dec. 23.

RUTH'S CHOICE.

Ruth 1, 15-22.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.—Ruth 1, 16.

TIME.—Extremely uncertain, variously estimated at from B. C. 1322 to B. C. 1180.

PLACES.—The land of Moab, east of the Dead Sea; and Bethlehem in Judea.

16. And Ruth said—In reply to Naomi's repeated entreaty that she would follow her retreating sister-in-law, and return to her people and god. The principal deity of the Moabites was Chemosh. Entreat me not to leave thee—Nothing in all the range of literature can surpass the beauty and tenderness of Ruth's reply to Naomi, contained in this and the following verse. Whither thou goest, I will go—The example and instructions of Naomi seem to have given Ruth the most favorable opinion of the religion and character of the Israelites, so that she desired to have her lot with them at any rate; and for the sake of this she was willing to renounce all her connections and prospects in the land of Moab, and to embrace hardship and penury in a strange country. Thy people . . . my people, . . . thy God my God—I renounce those idols which my sister hath returned to, and I will worship no other God but thine, who is, indeed, the only true God. Now this is a pattern of a resolute convert to God and religion. We must take the Lord for our God. "This God is my God for ever and ever: I have avouched him for mine." We must take his people for our people in all conditions: though poor and despised, yet, if they be his, they must be ours. We must be willing to fare as they fare; submit to the same yoke, and draw in it faithfully; take up the same cross, and carry it cheerfully; go where God would have us to go, lodge where he would have us to lodge, die where he will have us to die.

17. I.N. Where thou diest, will I die—She was determined to cleave to Naomi, however destitute and afflicted, until death separated them. For her sincerity in this profession she called the Lord to witness, and to multiply her troubles if she did not fulfill this solemn engagement. Thus she renounced idolatry, and became a worshiper and servant of the living God, and "counted all but loss" for the sake of his favor and salvation; and her subsequent conduct proved that her faith was genuine and her profession sincere. There will I be buried—Not desiring so much as to have her dead body carried back to the country of Moab, in token of any remaining kindness for it; but, Naomi and she having joined souls, she desires they may mingle dust, in hopes of rising together, and being together forever in the other world. The Lord do so to me, etc.—Here is the first occurrence of that common formula of an oath by which the person swearing called down upon himself a stroke of divine judgment in case he kept not his word nor carried out his resolution. Ruth is a prophecy, than which none could be more beautiful and engaging, of the entrance of the heathen world into the kingdom of God. She comes forth out of Moab, an idolatrous people, full of wantonness and sin, and is herself so tender and pure. In a land where dissolute sensuality formed one of the elements of idol worship, a woman appears as wife and daughter, chaste as the rose of spring, and unsurpassed in these relations by any other character in Holy Writ. Without living in Israel, she is first elevated, then won, by the life of Israel, as displayed in a foreign land. She left speaking unto her—Naomi must dissuade in order that Ruth might freely, under no pressure but that of her own love, accept Israel's God and people. Duly after this is done, and she holds firmly to her decision, does Naomi consent and cease to dissuade her.

19. They came to Bethlehem—The early home of Naomi, which she had left ten years before. Here, too, she had a small estate. Bethlehem, although originally of little consequence, is honored as the birthplace of the most illustrious personage of all history, and as the residence of Naomi, Ruth, and Boaz; King David was born here. The journey must have occupied several days. They knew not what awaited them. The future seemed full of darkness and sorrow, and they then little dreamed of the honors that were to crown their memory in the history of the chosen people. The glimpses of ancient life in the future town of David and of Christ are full of interest. Then, as now, its single street ran along the double crest of the white chalk ridge, twenty-five hundred feet above the sea; its slopes, terraced into hanging gardens, with rows of olives and vines; a pleasant valley lying underneath on three sides, musical with the sound of brooks, though its eastern end is almost touched by the terrible wilderness of Judah. This sunny breadth, when Ruth's story opens, is yellow with ripe barley, and rich with tall green wheat that will be golden ere long. All the city was moved about them—Naomi's return was an uncommon occurrence. The city, and especially the women, were thrown into peaceable uproar. Everybody ran, told the news, and wondered. For more than ten years had passed since she had left Bethlehem. Her husband, we know, belonged to a prominent family in this city. All this renders it natural that the news that Naomi had returned, poor and sorrowful, spread like wildfire, and created what to her was an unpleasant sensation. They said—They in the Hebrew is feminine. The women of Bethlehem said, Is this Naomi?—She was so much broken and altered with her afflictions, that they could scarcely believe their own eyes, or think that this was the same person whom they had formerly seen, so fresh and fair and gay.

20. Call me not Naomi, call me Mara—The meaning of Naomi is pleasant, sweet, to which she opposes what she calls a more appropriate name for her in her present circumstances. Call me Mara, that is bitter. I am no longer the old Naomi, for what of happiness I possessed I have lost. I have no more any thing that is pleasant about me; my life, like a salty, bitter spring, is without flavor or relish. Ten years have turned Naomi (beautiful) into Mara (bitter). What assurance is there of these earthly things whereof one hour may strip us? What man can say of the years to come, This will I be? The Almighty—The name Almighty is almost peculiar to the Pentateuch, and to the Book of Job, in which last it is found thirty times. It occurs twice in the Psalms, and four times in the prophets. Hath dealt very bitterly with me—She humbly considered her afflictions as coming from the Lord's hand upon her and her family for sin.

21. I went out full—That is, rich, not in money and property, but in the possession of a husband and two sons; a rich mother, but now deprived of all that makes a mother's heart rich, bereft of both husband and sons. The Lord hath brought me home again empty—She says, "I went away, and Jehovah has brought me home again. I went because it was my will to go, not God's: now God's judgment has sent me back." Man goes, but God brings home. The Lord hath testified—The phrase here used is a very common one, as applied to a man who gives witness concerning another in a court of justice. Such a one could, doubtless, be looked upon as an enemy. Naomi, in the bitterness of her spirit, complains that the Lord himself was turned against her, and was bringing her sins up for judgment. The Almighty hath afflicted me—The Jewish writers generally think that they did wrong in leaving their own country to go and live among idolaters. Observing that the law of the Old Covenant contained promises of unfailing subsistence to those who trusted in God, it is held that it had been the more faithful part for them to have remained, trusting to the Lord for their sustentation. They found death in the land of their choice, which the Jewish writers believe to have befallen them as a judgment.

22. Ruth the Moabitess—This was the description by which Ruth was commonly designated by the people of Bethlehem, as appears from chapter ii, 6, where the identical phrase, the Moabitess who returned with Naomi from the country of Moab, recurs. The constant recollection on the part of the simple villagers that Ruth was a foreigner, the admiration which her fidelity to her husband's relations had conciliated, and the interest in the sorrows of Naomi, which never died among the primitive people of Bethlehem, are vividly depicted in this phrase, which we have, as it were, yet warm from the lips of Ruth's contemporaries. Barley harvest—Usually in the middle of April. The fact of its being barley harvest suggested to Ruth that she might contribute something to their mutual subsistence by going forth to glean. This right of gleaning was one of the legal provisions for the poor of Israel; and, as the landholders were not subject to money taxes for the support of the poor, this claim was liberally construed by them. The part of the field to which Ruth was providentially directed belonged to Boaz, a near kinsman of Naomi's late husband. The old Jewish marriage customs required the nearest relation of a dead husband to become his goel, or redeemer, buying back his inheritance if estranged, and marrying his widow if childless: to raise up a son to him, "that his name should not cease in Israel." Naomi bethinks herself that Boaz, "the active," one of the rich men of the village, is a goel of Ruth's dead husband, and lays her kindly plans accordingly. Ruth must go to his fields and glean, for harvest is begun, and the barley is being cut. He will see her there, and, perhaps, she may find favor in his eyes. Nor is she wrong, for Boaz presently notices her, and falls in love with her at first sight. Then the relationship is disclosed, with its claim on him to marry her, which he will only be too happy to honor if he can do so legally. But there is another goel nearer than he, who must first be asked. Should that kinsman decline, he himself will be a husband to Ruth, and Naomi shall have back her inheritance. The end, as might have been expected, is that Boaz and Ruth become man and wife. Ruth bore to Boaz a son, named Obed, the father of Jesse, the father of David.

Methodist Mutual Insurance.

MR. EDITOR: Our present method of insuring and neglecting to insure much of our church, parsonage and school property is certainly a great mistake, if not a sin of both commission and omission.

A "surplus fund," or capital stock, will not be necessary to resolve the entire Southern Methodist Church into a thoroughly organized mutual Methodist insurance company; that will enable us to hold our property in perfect assurance, with an amount of money but little exceeding ten per cent. of the premiums we now pay to vast companies who are amassing fortunes from our very life-blood. The church of which I am pastor is now insured for three years in the very best companies of the world. For every five thousand dollars we had to pay in advance a premium of one hundred dollars. Although these companies are the very best, yet if we were to burn to-night, the possible technicalities so common in such insurance might very much delay our rebuilding.

The plan suggested by the head of this article will, doubtless, keep us perfectly insured for an amount probably not exceeding ten dollars on the hundred, of the sum we are now paying. We could begin to rebuild as soon as the fire subsided, knowing that our church at large would not stand on technicalities when the general interest of the church demanded our immediate restoration.

The plan could be worked in connection with our parent Board of Church Extension at Louisville. It might possibly be best to have a distinct and separate office at Nashville, St. Louis or Kansas City, where one expert layman could do the work for our entire church in every land. His office rent, stationery and salary would be all the capital stock or expense necessary to inaugurate the work. We will need no treasurer, and there will be no danger of a debt or a "surplus fund."

Let the General Conference project the work and fix its fulcrum and the college of Bishops appoint the secretary. This one officer can then catalogue every district in every Annual Conference and at once communicate with every Board of Trustees through the presiding elders and pastors in charge. Then let every Board of Trustees wishing to insure their church estimate its value and, with the endorsement of the pastor and presiding elder, send the said valuation to the secretary with $1 for matriculation. This small initiation fee will provide all the expense of launching the entire work.

The secretary can then number and catalogue every church sending its dollar enrollment, whose valuation is duly endorsed by pastor and presiding elder, according to Conference district, circuit or station. The catalogue to set forth not only the name of the church but its number, valuation, location, Conference district, presiding elder, pastor, and name of the secretary of the Board of Trustees. The secretary of the Board of Trustees of every church insured should be furnished with a catalogue of all the property included in the association.

When a church is burned let the general secretary begin at the head of the list and make an assessment at the rate of one dollar per thousand dollars, on a sufficient number of churches to rebuild the one burned. When the second church is burned let the assessment in the catalogue begin where the first assessment left off, and thus on to the end of the list. Suppose a church in Georgia is burned and our church here at Independence, Mo., should be in that part of the catalogue to be taxed. Our valuation is $20,000, the secretary would call on us for $20, or one per cent. on our valuation. If it fell to our lot twice a year to be thus taxed we would only be paying ten per cent. on the sum of money advanced for our present insurance.

When the trustees of the church burned in Georgia telegraphed their loss to the general secretary, he would start a postal card by the next mail to us directed thus:

To Dr. C. Jackson,
Secretary Board Trustees,
First M. E. Church, South,
Independence, Mo.

On the opposite side of this postal would be about this language:

METHODIST MUTUAL INSURANCE ASS'N.
Office: No. 25 Broad Street.
NASHVILLE, TENN., June 15, 1890.

Dear Brother: You are hereby notified that property No. 45, of the North Georgia Conference, was damaged by fire last night to the amount of $2,000. To raise said amount all members of the St. Louis Conference and No. 1 to No. 75, of the Southwest Missouri Conference, have been assessed $1 on each $1,000 of the valuation of property. Please remit your $20 by return mail to JOHN SMITH, Sec.

The secretary of our Board of Trustees would turn at once to No. 45 of the catalogue, and at a glance get the status of the church destroyed in Georgia, and then forward the $20 by the next mail. The following Sunday the pastor would raise the amount in the penny collection, and in so doing tie the hearts of the two churches into an indissoluble bond of sympathy.

With such a plan the old Grecian myth can be realized, making every church a possible Phœnix, to rise out of its own ashes as soon as the fires are extinguished.

Hoping you will give this suggestion a second and serious thought, I am, Very truly,

W. B. PALMORE.

INDEPENDENCE, Missouri.

Preachers and Tobacco.

The Louisiana Conference will soon convene in New Orleans. When the Mississippi Conference was about to assemble in Vicksburg, Dr. Marshall said that little "city set upon a hill" would open her doors as wide as the horizon to receive the members with hearty welcome; and, no doubt, the good people of the Crescent City will be equally as liberal in their hospitality. But, no doubt, there are some anxious parents in that city, as there are everywhere else, who are striving hard to save their boys from the hurtful and, in many instances, ruinous habit of using tobacco; and, no doubt, some of the preachers will go down there chewing or smoking the poisonous weed, and, if such a member of that religious body chances to be assigned to such a family, no doubt, regrets will be felt that such a deleterious influence should have found its way into the private retreat of that home, where ministers of the gospel have been held up before the children as exemplars.

Now, such a criticism upon such a body may appear strange to some at first blush. But, unfortunately, it is merited by too many, and is as just and true as any preaching they have ever done. Now, will any brother idly pronounce the subject too trivial for serious consideration, or throw it aside with culpable indifference? The common sinner thus treats good preaching. Or will any devotee of the weed say it is puritanical or futile to meddle with the world-wide use of it, and resent it with a bitter spirit? The devotees of alcohol do even the same. The forerunner of Christ and even the Savior himself were berated as having a devil, because of their rigid abstinence and true doctrine. Can it be that, after attention has been respectfully called to it, any member of the Louisiana Conference, or any other religious body, will fail to prayerfully consider this matter, which is of far more serious importance than the masses attach to it? Even some intelligent, and otherwise good, men are shamefully at fault about tobacco, which is in reality a huge evil in the land. But how true is it that "the children of this world are wiser in their generation than the children of light"!—for the armies and navies of the world reject tobacco worms when selecting men to "endure hardness as good soldiers." And will a Christian, and a minister of the gospel commissioned from high Heaven to go forth and teach the people (but at the same is commanded to "be as wise as serpents and as harmless as doves"), indulge in a practice that degrades and obstructs a common soldier! "God forbid." There is one extenuation, however, for those who have done it heretofore—but none for those who will persist in the bad habit—and that is, they got into it when they were boys, like other foolish boys do. But when they have thought of and prayed over the matter, as they certainly ought to do, it is to be hoped that "when they have become men (in Christ Jesus) they will put away childish things."

If any preacher or anybody else honestly doubts that tobacco debilitates the nervous system, enfeebles the heart's action, befogs the intellectual faculties and obtunds the moral sensibilities, let him lose no time in informing himself better by studying good treatises on the effects of nicotine, its active principle, upon the animal organism. Let no one stultify himself by bringing forward some tobacco users who lived long in spite of the pernicious habit, and seemed to retain the active use of their faculties, apparently unimpaired by it; for the very same specious pleading might be as legitimately resorted to in an attempt at defense of drinking alcoholic liquors. But who will try to defend that bad practice? Both are poisons; but nicotine is the more virulent of the two, by far. As surely as alcohol destroys hundreds of thousands of human beings, and wastes millions of money annually, so surely does tobacco do its deplorable work of waste, disease and death! It tortures its victims with painful neuralgias, distressing dyspepsias, gloomy hypochondias, dreadful hallucinations, perverted judgments, unfortunate blunders, drivelling imbecility and premature death! To deny these painfully obvious and well-established facts, or to even call them into question, would subject anyone to the charge of gross ignorance, or something worse even. But if any good brother would like to be cured forthwith of any honest doubt as to the impropriety of using tobacco, without having to go through a thorough study of the modus operandi of its poisoning effects, let him read the following item of statistics (and there are plenty more to be gathered):

The census before the last reports 17,816 persons engaged in 5,204 establishments, making cigars, snuff, chewing and smoking tobacco; the value of the products being $72,762,011—an increase of nearly 70 per cent. over the previous decade in tobacco and snuff, and 268 per cent. increase in the production of cigars!

But to this statement must be added the hundreds of thousands of people engaged in the fields of millions of acres of land, occupied in growing and harvesting the poisonous weeds in the United States even. And yet, again, to the enormity of this folly in this country must still be added the immensity of it in all the outside world, besides. And then try and see if you can conceive the idea of the countless millions of money and of men, women and children wasted in producing and manufacturing the mountain heaps of poisonous weeds! The aggregate of the figures and the enormity of the folly are enough to stagger the human mind and overwhelm the heart.

Wonderfully strange are the world-wide agreements,
To furnish poisonous weeds for human beings
To chew and spit in private and public places,
Or smoke and puff into other people's faces!

When Adam, made in the image and likeness of the Creator, took the forbidden fruit, and lost his God-like attributes, little did he think that his depraved descendants would ever degenerate into tobacco worms!

Now, brethren, if you and everybody else would refrain from indulging in the useless and hurtful and wasteful stuff, all these vast amounts of misspent capital and misdirected labor might be directed into so much better channels of mercy and goodness. How many almshouses, charity hospitals, free schools, Christian churches and world-wide missions might be built up or put into successful operation all over the habitable globe with the means thus saved! Will you not, brethren, deny yourselves of the needless indulgence in the wasteful use of the hurtful poison? God never intended tobacco to be chewed or smoked in the human mouth. If he had, it would not invariably make the novice deathly sick any more than the mother's milk does the infant.

Now, let every preacher who is unfortunately addicted to the habit of chewing or smoking tobacco deny himself the "needless self-indulgence," at least, while he is the guest of some nice family during the approaching Conference, and thus spare the feelings of the parents, and, while saving their boys from the bad habit, save also some money and apply it to better uses: and he, too, will feel better satisfied with himself. Having begun the good work, let him "never turn back." But if any preacher will, in spite of every consideration, human and divine, persist in the unjustifiable practice of wasting money for tobacco to chew or smoke, and thus injure his health and impair his usefulness, and, at the same time, mislead others by his bad example, then let the people, whom he may advise to "do as he tells them, not as he does," withhold from his salary the same amount of money and appropriate it to the better use of worn-out preachers and the widows and orphans of those deceased.

Come, brethren of the pulpit, accept with good grace a little well-meant and wholesome admonition from the pews, now and then, as may be needed for your benefit and the good of others. When you tell us, in love, of our faults, we appreciate your motives and profit by your preaching.

"Together let us sweetly live,
Together let us die;
And each a starry crown receive,
And reign above the sky."

D. W. FOSTER.

PLEASANCE, Louisiana.

A Large Straw.

"A straw tells which way the wind blows." This is a tolerably correct proverb. Bearing this in mind, read the following from the New York Evangelist and have your eyes opened on one phase of the question that is coming more and more to the front in these United States:

We must certainly commend, and we should, at least, equal, the unflagging zeal and the entire self-consecration with which the missionaries of the Roman Catholic Church pursue their work in foreign lands. Those are the laudable features of that work; there are others not so worthy of imitation. So long as, according to the teachings of that church, regeneration is the result of baptism and not of intelligent faith in Christ, there appears to be no very pressing moral necessity for the education of the young heathen, or of the old ones either. We can imagine no other reason for the fact that the Roman Catholic Church, while claiming 2,750,000 converts or adherents among the heathen, reports only 4,504 schools and 110,742 scholars, about twenty-one scholars to a school; while according to their last general statistics, Protestant foreign missions have 11,880 schools and 645,886 scholars, an average of about fifty-eight scholars to each school. It will be noticed as a singular fact that the number of scholars in Protestant foreign missionary schools is about six times the number of those in Roman Catholic schools of the same kind! Such facts would seem to justify the saying that the Romish Church holds that ignorance is the mother of devotion.

Congregations should remember, though some of them do not, that the time spent by a pastor in his study is spent for them, and should be kept free from unnecessary interruption. Important business in the line of intellectual agriculture is going on in that room, and if it is not properly attended to, there will soon be a spiritual famine and a vacant pulpit in that congregation. If he understands his business, the pastor knows that there is just as great a necessity for a careful and prayerful culture of the intellectual soil as there is for the natural, if either is to produce anything but weeds; and if the people also understand their business, they will not undertake to dictate to the pastor the processes by which he must conduct his work and the exact time he must give to it. Sensible congregations, people who believe that a careful attention to deep plowing in the way of study, is as necessary as a careful gathering into barns by them, if they are to grow in grace, will give their pastor ample opportunities to do his part of the work. If he does not do it; if he produces showy weeds instead of the finest of the wheat; or if he brings from his treasury only old things, and those as old as his first sermon; he will soon find an organized rebellion against that kind of spiritual diet.—Ex.

A London journal recently offered a prize of £2 2s. for a reasonable solution of "What becomes of the pins?" The following reply captured the prize: "A surface ten miles square contains 310,000,000 square yards. Assume this as the area of London. To include the area of floor surface in houses, it may safely be trebled—say 1,000,000,000 square yards. If every five square yards contained one stray pin, who would be aware of it? Here, then, we have in London alone a receptacle for 200,000,000 of stray pins unperceived by anybody. The answer, therefore, is that thousands of millions of lost pins can be, and are, scattered about the land unnoticed. Half of these being out of doors are gradually destroyed by rust; the other half pass out of doors by degrees."

Made Attractive.

Among the various reasons why a strong attachment should be cherished for the sanctuary, as a place of worship, none are more weighty than the assurance of the divine presence therein. It is God's "habitation," and "the place where his honor dwelleth." The visible tokens of Jehovah's presence in the tabernacle and temple of old, have given place to more glorious spiritual manifestations now made in those places which his people consecrate to him for his worship. There, were the ark of the covenant, containing the sacred memorials of his love, and the Shechinah, or cloud of glory, overshadowing the mercy-seat. Here, God is in Christ who has promised to be in the assembly of his disciples; and here, is the agency and influence of the Holy Spirit, which is the Shechinah of the gospel church.

The true worshiper, therefore, may exclaim with a devout lover of the Jewish tabernacle, "One thing have I desired of the Lord, that I will seek after, that I may dwell in the house of the Lord, all the days of my life to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his temple." Such was the language of David, whose great desire was to frequent the sanctuary, as God's chosen residence on earth. The local object of this strong attachment which he thus expresses was the tabernacle, which was not in his estimation what God's particular dwelling-place among men should be. Thus we hear him saying to Nathan, "See now, I dwell in a house of cedar, but the ark of God dwelleth within curtains." Accordingly, it was in his heart to build for the Lord a more appropriate "habitation," even a house of unrivaled excellence and splendor and God approved of his pious intention.

The house which David made extensive preparations for building, was distinguished for the perfection of its architectural proportions, and the costliness of its materials; and, as all the arrangements for this superior structure, from the beginning, were under the divine direction and approval, it is, therefore, a just inference, that generously devised and beautifully constructed houses of worship are acceptable to God. It was not David's pride, but his piety, which made him unwilling to dwell in a house of cedar, while the ark of God dwelt within curtains; and like David, God's people now, should not be content to live, themselves, in better houses than those which they dedicate unto the Lord. A holy prophet gave thanks that the temple had been beautified.

Doubtless, there is more importance belonging to the matter of beautifying the house of the Lord, than many suppose. The favorable influence of an attractive place of worship deserves much consideration. Undeniably, the appearance of things greatly affects the mind; and, beyond a question, many persons have been drawn to, or driven from a place in which God is worshiped by its inviting or forbidding aspect. Not wisely can the dictates of "Christian sensibility and taste" be disregarded, or violence be done to a just "appreciation of natural and spiritual beauty." The cost of indifference to the true relation of things in the external and spiritual world, may be greater than one would deliberately incur. To care little or nothing for the appearance of the sanctuary, is strangely inconsistent with the true sentiments of religion. Proper Christian feeling will not readily tolerate an unattractive or repulsive place for the worship of God.

The spirit of an enlightened piety loudly protests against the policy of at first poorly constructing and furnishing such a place, and then leaving it to desolation and decay. It is anything but religion which exclaims, "To what purpose is this waste!" when commodious, beautiful and attractive houses of worship are erected. Covetousness may thus exclaim, but piety will esteem the offering as becoming him to whom it is made; and he who approved of the bestowment of the costly box of perfume, in token of Mary's love for him, will also approve of the sacrifices of those who endeavor to provide a place worthy of the residence of the Most High, when he condescends to dwell in earthly temples.—Watchman.

"True as steel" and as unerring as the mariner's compass is Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

As a pain-destroyer no liniment in the market equals Salvation Oil. Price only 25 cents.

Sins of Industry.

Several years ago the late Rev. Dr. Thomas H. Skinner, of New York City, one of the best thinkers of his time, was sitting in the library of his friend, the late accomplished Prof. Charles B. Haddock, of Dartmouth College. Both were engaged in thoughtful study. Suddenly, Dr. S., looking up, broke out with this remark, "Dr. Haddock, I wish you to write out, preach and publish six sermons on the theme which I will give you." "I should be happy to oblige you, Dr. S., in doing anything in my power. What is your theme?" "My theme is 'The Sins of Industry.'" "Expressing my surprise at the novel suggestion," I asked explanation," said Prof. H. "The doctor went on to say, we hear preaching enough in regard to the sins of idleness, but whoever preached on the sins of industry? These are the sins of our times and of our people. Because of them we have no Sabbath. Steamboats, cars and other ways of travel are thronged on that day. A large number of our men and animals are kept from rest and are prematurely old, making haste to become rich; there are no peaceful family firesides in the evening; work and weariness destroy all family peace and joy. The rich are overburdened with care; the poor laborer is always tired and has no time for reading or culture; children grow up without fathers. Men and women live too fast and die worn out too soon. Ambitions to excel early lead to an overstrain of both physical and mental powers and early decay. The matter should be talked up."

My observation during all these years since has strengthened my conviction as to their wisdom.

While the remarks of Herbert Spencer, made in his farewell speech at the dinner given in his honor in New York, contained no new idea, they are entitled to great weight as the result of due observation of a wise man during a temporary stay among us. He noticed, no doubt, the great hurry, the nervous activity, the abstracted intensity of our hard workers, the prematurely gray hairs, spectacled eyes, and dull ears of our professional and business men, the sharp-faced, weary, haggard women, the pale-faced, restless school-children, the broken-down, easily excited of every class, complaining of pains, consulting the doctor, seeking rest they can not find. The subject is too grave for indifference or neglect if we care, not only for ourselves and our children, but for the perpetuity of the Anglo-American race and the continuance of the noble and free institutions which it has planted here, and which can exist only under its leadership. All other races who have sought the protection and benefits of these institutions must feel the force of this remark.

The above anecdote told me by my old college professor, again came vividly to my mind when I read the remarks of Mr. Spencer, and I felt moved to make this little contribution to a subject in social science so important to our most healthy national life.—Jonathan Tenny, in Christian Union.

Romish Ideas of Liberty.

When a Roman Catholic priest professes a regard for liberty, and insists that human freedom is safer under the guardianship of "the Church" than under any other safeguard, it will be well to learn what he means by liberty. Everything depends on definitions. For an example take the following which we find in the Christian Leader, credited to the Catholic World of July, 1876:

"It is clear that religious liberty must consist in the unrestrained freedom and independence of the Church to teach and govern all men and nation, princes and people, rulers and ruled, in all things enjoined in the teleological law of man's existence, and, therefore, in the recognition and maintenance of that very supreme authority which the Popes have always claimed, and against which the Reformation protested."

According to this statement, religious liberty is not the right of each individual citizen, but the sole privilege of the Pope and the priesthood. The only liberty of the rest of us is the liberty to be absolutely governed by the Roman hierarchy. It is true that religious liberty is their due, giving them full right to "teach and govern" all whom they can persuade to yield to them. But the American doctrine is that religious liberty is the indefeasible right of every man.

The same paper quotes from Cardinal Manning, as speaking for the Pope in these remarkable words:

"I acknowledge no civil power; I am the subject of no prince; and I claim more than this. I claim to be the supreme judge of the consciences of men, of the peasant that tills the fields, and of the prince that sits on the throne, of the household that lives in the shade of privacy, and the legislator that makes laws for kingdoms. I am the sole, last, supreme judge of what is right and wrong."

He also says:

"Moreover we declare, affirm, define and pronounce it to be necessary to salvation for every human creature to be subject to the Roman pontiff."

If the last statement is believed, all that precedes becomes a matter of course. The subjection yielded to the Pope can have no limits. Then, too, the language quoted from a Lenten letter of Bishop Gilmore, in March, 1873, becomes equally evident and inevitable:

"Nationalities must be subordinate to religion, and we must learn that we are Catholics first and citizens next. God is above man, and the Church above the State."

These statements are made with authority and no random words. They express, without doubt, the essential spirit of the priesthood and of the people whom they control. We must not permit ourselves to be infected with the like spirit, and interfere with their just liberties. But it is the part of common prudence to be on the watch against encroachments on our ancient heritage of freedom.—Watchman.

Where to Find Heaven.

There was a Methodist preacher who preached one day on heaven. The next morning he was going down town, and he met one of his old wealthy members. This fellow met the preacher, and he said:

"Pastor, you preached a good sermon about heaven. You told me all about heaven, but you never told me where heaven is."

"Ah!" said the pastor, "I am glad of the opportunity this morning. I have just come from the hill-top yonder. In that cottage there is a member of your church. She is sick in bed with fever; her two little children are sick in the other bed, and she has not got a bit of coal, or a stick of wood, or flour, or sugar, or any bread. If you will go down town and buy $50 worth of things, nice provisions, and send them up to her, and then go up there and say, 'My sister, I have brought these nice provisions in the name of our Lord and Savior.' You ask for a Bible, and you read the twenty-third Psalm, and you then get down on your knees and pray—if you don't see heaven before you get all through, I'll pay the bill."

The next morning he said, "Pastor, I saw heaven, and I spent fifteen minutes in heaven as certainly as you are listening."—Presbyterian.

A Critical Moment.

I was talking a few weeks ago with a clergyman at the West, who said he returned to his father's house in Boston, and his brother, a son in the family, came in intoxicated; and he said, when the intoxicated son had retired, "Mother, how do you stand this?"

"Oh!" said she, "I have stood this a good while; but it does not worry me now. I found it was worrying me to death, and I put the whole case in God's hands, and said: 'O God, I can not endure this any longer; take care of my son, reform him, bless him, save him,' and there I left the whole thing with God, and I shall never worry again."

"The next day," said the clergyman, who was talking to me in regard to it, "I met my brother, and said, 'John, you are in an awful position.' 'How so?' said he. 'Why, mother has told me that she has left you with God; she doesn't pray for you any more.' 'Is that so? Well, I can never contend with the Lord; I shall never drink again.'"

He never did drink again. He went to the far West; and at a banquet in St. Louis, given to him, a lawyer just come to the city, there were many guests, and there was much wine poured, and they insisted that this reformed lawyer should take his glass of wine; and they insisted until it became a great embarrassment, as they said to him, "Ah, you don't seem to have any regard for us, and you have no sympathy with our hilarities."

Then the man lifted the glass, and said: "Gentlemen, there was in Boston some years ago a man who, though he had a beautiful wife and two children, fell away from his integrity and went down into the ditch of drunkenness. He was reformed by the grace of God and the prayers of his mother, and he stands before you to-night. I am that man. If I drink this glass I shall go back to my old habits and perish. I am not strong enough to endure it. Shall I drink it? If you say so, I will."

A man sitting next to him lifted a knife, and, with one stroke, broke off the bottom of the glass; and all the men at the table shouted, "Don't drink! don't drink!"

Oh, that man was a hero. He had been going through a battle year after year; that was a great crisis. What a struggle! There are a great many men in peril; and when you are hard in your criticism about men's inconsistency you do not know what a battle they have to fight—a battle compared with which Austerlitz and Gettysburg and Waterloo were child's play.—Friends' Review.

I always find that there is more hazard in sailing upon smooth water. When the winds blow and the seas rage, even the sleepers will rise and call upon God.—John Wesley.

A Convincing Succession.

Time is valuable to us and we conclude that for your purposes, it is precious to you; so, apart from tedious prelude which might distract your attention from some important subject matter, we briefly call attention to the following convincing combination of evidence in regard to Compound Oxygen.

Under date of Dec. 1, 1887, Mr. N. G. Osteen, Proprietor of Watchman and Southron, S. C., writes: "I have used the Compound Oxygen home treatment from DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, as a revitalizer, and have experienced marked benefit from it."

On March 18, 1888, Mr. Osteen, among other things, writes, "Your medicine is getting up a reputation in this vicinity from the good it has done Mr. Chas. E. Witherspoon."

Referring to our files we find the following hearty testimony from the gentleman named by Mr. Osteen in the above extract.

SUMTER, S. C., March 24, 1888.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,

For eight months I have been a sufferer from diarrhœa and dysentery. I commenced the use of the Compound Oxygen and experienced the happiest results.

I honestly believe that had I not used it just then, I certainly would have died. Under God, I owe my life to your treatment. I unhesitatingly recommend it to all who may be suffering in like manner with myself.

Very gratefully,

C. L. WITHERSPOON.

We publish a brochure regarding the effect of Compound Oxygen on invalids suffering from consumption, asthma, bronchitis, dyspepsia, catarrh, hay-fever, headache, debility, rheumatism, neuralgia; all chronic and nervous disorders. It will be sent, free of charge, to anyone addressing DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.; or 31 Montgomery street, San Francisco, Cal.

The theology best suited to the age is that put forth by living men of the age; drinking of the living Word for themselves.—Dr. McCosh.

Catarrh

May affect any portion of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, and the most liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength and health. If you suffer from catarrh, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ringing Noises

Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." Mrs. G. B. Ginn, 1029 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures Catarrh

"I was troubled with that annoying disease, nasal catarrh, and never found relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. L. ROUTT, Marksburg, Ky. N. B. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

BOYS' BICYCLES,
R. P. Randall,
54 & 56 Baronne.

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Widows, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., No. 4 So. Sixth St., St. Louis, Mo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. C. SHEPARD,
49 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL
China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL
Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.
PLATED WARE, all Kinds.
WOOD WARE, all kinds.
TIN WARE, all kinds.
GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store,
Cheap as the Cheapest.

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Refrigerators and Curtain Stretchers.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,
General Insurance Agents
—FOR—
FIRE, RIVER, MARINE,
ACCIDENT and BONDING
COMPANIES.

Representing the OLDEST and LARGEST Fire Companies both in England and America.

Prompt and Careful Attention Given to All Business Entrusted to Us.

62 BARONNE ST., N. O.
Mention this paper.

TYPE-INK
PAPER - PRESSES
At Southern Printers' Warehouse,
101-103 GRAVIER ST., NEW ORLEANS.

PIANOS ORGANS
LOWEST PRICES IN AMERICA.
Standard, Reliable Instruments at Lowest prices known. No competition with Cheap, Inferior Instruments.
REDUCED PRICES. SPECIAL OFFERS.
PIANOS $200. 7¼ Oct. Upright, 3 Stringed, Rich Rosewood Case.
ORGANS $65. Four Sets Reeds, Eleven Stops, Combs, Elm Case.
STOOL, COVER, INSTRUCTOR ALL FREIGHT PAID.
Largest Stock South. 200 Styles and Prices. Pianos $10 Monthly. Organs $5 Monthly. Low Time Prices—Fair Contract No Risk No Forfeiture of Cash Paid. SIX SPECIAL OFFERS. Send for Free Paper "Sharps and Flats," giving full information.
LUDDEN & BATES,
SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA.

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age.

Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk. RUFUS FOGG.

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.,
SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a mole by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure.

W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS. J. BUCKLEY.
471 Chippewa Street.
NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 17, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

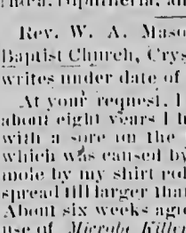
HENRY V. MILLY.
With Rice, Horn & Co., 77 Camp Street.
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.



Microbes Cause All Diseases

WM. RADAMS'
Microbe Killer
Cures All Diseases.

This indisputable assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

M. DALLAS, Southern Agent,
149 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS
(Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive.	Leave.
No. 1..... 9:10 am	No. 2..... 5:00 pm
No. 3..... 3:25 pm	No. 1..... 9:00 am
No. 5..... 8:10 pm	No. 6..... 3:45 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:55 am	No. 1 F'st Ex. 7:10 pm
No. 5 F'st Ex. 7:20 pm	No. 6 Coast... 3:40 pm
No. 5 Coast.... 9:05 am	No. 2 Lim. Ex. 5:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL

No. 1 Passen'r. 11:00 pm	No. 2 Passen'r. 9:15 am
No. 3 Chic. and St. Louis Lim. 7:30 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 5:30 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 Californ. nia Express. 7:00 pm	No. 51 Californ. nia Express. 9:45 am
H. Rouge Local. 10:00 am	H. Rouge Local 5:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO.—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Californ. 3:25 pm	No. 18 Locals... 7:20 pm
No. 17 Locals... 6:55 am	No. 20 Californ. 12:00 mid

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.
(New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 4. Lim'd. 11:10 am	No. 2. Lim'd.... 8:35 pm
No. 6. First Line. 6:30 am	No. 8. Fast Line. 9:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO.
(Via Meridian.)

No. 5. Fast Line. 8:30 am	No. 8. Fast Line. 9:00 pm

P. AND E. EAST LA.
(Abita Springs.)
Daily Except Sundays.
Arrive.....8:30 am | Leave.....4:00 pm
Sunday Schedule.
Arrive.....7:25 pm | Leave.....7:30 am

MISCELLANEOUS.

29 - - CHARTRES ST. - - 29

F. R. HARDON
Can supply everything in
Fashionable Millinery,
To the Entire Satisfaction of Patrons
Orders Promptly Filled.
Remember the number.
29 - - - CHARTRES ST. - - - 29
Mention this paper.

Watches, Diamonds,
FINE JEWELRY,
Silver and Silver-Plated Ware,
SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.
Send for Catalogue.
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
(Established 1847)
119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.
Mention this paper.

A. Brousseau's Son,
23 and 25 CHARTRES ST.,
CHINA MATTINGS,
CARPETS,
INGRAINS,
LACE CURTAINS,
WINDOW SHADES,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS.

H. D. McCOWN,
DEALER IN FINE CLOTHING
—AND—
Men's Furnishing Goods
Headquarters of the Celebrated
STAR SHIRT.
Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys'
CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.
Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts.

We herewith present you the valuable notice that we are the sole highly celebrated Elbredge and Diamond Machines exclusively in this part of said territory. Send on trial if desired. Special inducements and protection to good dealers. Liberal discount to ministers. Singer Machines cheap. Circulars and information free. J. C. GEILY, Gen. Wes'n Agt., 1317 and 1319 North Market St., St. Louis, Mo.

In the ADVOCATE a favor, and mention it when you write.

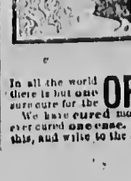
Church & School Bells
SIZES AND PRICES
Diam., Wt with Cast of Yoke, Bell from Hunt's
No. 3, 25 in., 250 lbs., $26
No. 6, 27 in., 400 lbs., 30
No. 7, 30 in., 500 lbs., 35
No. 8, 34 in., 750 lbs., 75
No. 9, 38 in., 925 lbs., 130
Kenosey & Co., Seneca Falls, N. Y., U.S.A.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Bells of Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Farms, etc. Fully Warranted. Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

McShane Bell Foundry
Finest Grade of Bells,
Chimes and Peals for Churches, &c.
Send for Price and Catalogue. Address
H. McSHANE & CO.,
Mention this paper. Baltimore, Md.

PALE SICKLY LOOKING CHILDREN
subject to SPASMS are most likely troubled with WORMS. The best remedy for this is the celebrated B. A. FAHNESTOCK'S VERMIFUGE. Been 60 years before the public and never fails. Observe particularly that the initials are B. A. thus avoiding imitations

DRUNKENNESS OR THE LIQUOR HABIT
Positively cured with Dr. Haines' Golden Specific. It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an confirmed inebriate. It Never Fails. We guarantee a complete cure in every instance. 48-page pamphlet Free. Address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.



PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents baldness and hair falling. 50c. and $1 at Druggists.

In all the world there is but one sure cure for the OPIUM Habit. The Dr. J. L. Stephens Remedy never fails, and no other treatment ever cures. We have cured more than 10,000 cases. No other treatment ever cured one case. NO PAY TILL CURED. Remember this, and write to the J. L. Stephens Co., Lebanon, Ohio.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:
REV. J. D. CAMERON, REV. B. CRADDOCK, D.D.
REV. W. A. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1888.

Greetings.

In the name of the Lord, who hath blest us together in the great work of preaching the gospel to sinners and in edifying saints, the ADVOCATE brings greetings to the brethren of the North Mississippi Conference. Another year brings us together in the annual assembly. It has been a year of labor and of faith—full of hopes and despondencies—bright with cheer, and dark with sadness. Many great blessings have come—many trials have been endured. In many places the work of the Lord has prospered in our hands; in other places we have scarcely seen a return for the toil put forth. Many sheaves have been garnered into the church—some, alas! we fear have been "bound in bundles to burn." But, after all, we have come together again to exchange greetings, to tell of wondrous victories gained by the sword of the Lord, to encourage one another's hearts in God, to do the business of the session, and then to go forth with new vigor and a mightier faith for the work of 1889.

The ADVOCATE, from its watch-tower in the South, has looked with eager interest upon the progress of the battle you have been waging in North Mississippi. It has rejoiced in your triumphs. It has been saddened when you failed. It has endeavored every week to send you the needed reinforcements. Its prayers and supplications and intercessions have ascended continually to the throne of grace in your behalf. And now it congratulates you upon the splendid achievements of this year's labor in the Master's cause. It rejoices with you in the fact that the missionary spirit is growing in the churches; that the collections have increased so uniformly throughout your bounds; that the important subject of Christian education has taken such a strong hold upon the consciences of so many of your people; that so many precious souls have been brought to the "knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus," and that the church everywhere stands on higher ground with her eye sweeping a broader horizon. For these things we rejoice together and thank God. In these things we see brighter prophecies for the future, and so take courage. The ADVOCATE prays that the Divine Presence may supervise all the business of the session: that brotherly love may fill every heart; that the "wisdom from above" may enlighten every mind; that the Holy Ghost may bless every sermon with his attending power; that the Savior of men may commission every preacher anew, and send all forth again with souls flaming with zeal and tongues tipped with holy fire. The ADVOCATE expresses gratitude for all the good words spoken and all the good works done in its behalf, and asks an interest in the sympathy and prayers of North Mississippi Methodism, and the hearty co-operation of all in its work of sending to our people a pure literature.

"Peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy palaces."

A brother gives us the information that the first Woman's Missionary Society ever organized was organized in Natchez, Miss., in 1834, and collected that year $300 to educate a young Choctaw woman. So Mississippi was first in a work which promises to influence for good all the future of the church.

Something to Think About.

A paragraph in the last Missionary Reporter caught our eyes and caused much pondering. Dr. John said: A preacher wrote, "Where can I find information as to our mission fields and the work we are doing?" That preacher is an illustration of the fact we have tried again and again to emphasize in these columns, viz: that both preachers and people need information on the whole subject of missions. Sometimes we imagine when we know a thing everybody else must know it, too. There never was a greater mistake than this, when applied to the subject of missions. Our people generally know very little about it. What they need first is enlightenment. Exhortations to give to missions, however fervent or eloquent, will not bring much money from people who know little and care less about the subject. Let the church be informed on this subject, and the money will flow into the treasury by thousands of dollars. Business men have found out that generous advertising of their business is as good an investment of their money as that which goes to keep the stock in trade. Politicians have found out that a liberal disbursement of funds in the spread of a literature which discusses and upholds and recommends their policy and principles, returns a hundredfold value in the advancement of their cause. Can't the church learn this lesson? Shall the "children of this world" always be "wiser than the children of light?" If we sow missionary intelligence with a bountiful hand, we will reap missionary money in plenty. If we jog on as we have been doing, we will reap 22 cents a member as we have been doing. What we need now is a weekly missionary paper twice the size of the Reporter, for one dollar a year. Such a paper, under the management of a wide-awake editor and an assistant who "knows what Israel ought to do," will do more for the missionary cause, in every aspect of it, than is being done now by all the preachers in the church. This is emphatically the day of newspaper power, and the church has bravely adopted the plan that brings this power into play, and is using it with daily increasing force. The very papers she is wielding with so much execution in her warfare with sin have developed the necessity for this special weekly on this special line of Christian work. In the matter of church work we can do very little with a people who know but little of the value and importance of that work. Our people are willing to be informed; in some places they are calling for information. Will the church heed the cry of her children?

Prayer.

"Prayer is the soul's sincere desire, Uttered or unexpressed."

So sings the poet, Montgomery, and a truer or more beautiful definition of prayer has not been given. The truth and beauty and force of this definition lie in the word "sincere." This word means, "being what it appears to be." The appearance corresponds exactly with the reality. The thing and the appearance of the thing are the same. A sincere desire, then, is a real desire. It is a desire that is really and truly a desire. It is not an imitation. It is not a copy. It is the thing itself. It is opposed to the feigned and the artificial. It is the true and the real. Hence we can see how appropriate is the poet's definition of prayer. It is nothing but the unfeigned, unaffected, inartificial, hearty, honest wish of the soul. When this wish is fostered and cherished and kept in the soul, it is a silent prayer. When it is uttered, by means of language, it becomes a vocal prayer. In both cases, however, it is true prayer. The silent, unuttered wish does not look so much like true prayer as the expressed desire, because we have been so accustomed to regard prayer as an utterance of our wishes. It is evident that the wish must be the foundation of the utterance. Hence the silent, sincere desire is the beginning of the uttered, sincere prayer. Vocal prayer, then, is simply making known the sincere desire of the soul by means of language. It flows naturally and necessarily from the earnest, sincere wish of the heart. The honest, deep wish of the soul naturally seeks an outlet, and must necessarily find one. That outlet is language. The sincere desire naturally searches for its own fulfillment. It feels after an object to satisfy its longings. As that object can not be found within the soul, the desire comes out on the wings of language, seeking outside of the soul for that object.

This, then, is the second phase of true prayer. It is desire on the wing, exploring and searching after its own fulfillment. A sincere desire is evidence of a void, an emptiness, a realized blank in the soul. True prayer is this sincere desire seeking for the object that alone can fill that void. When this object is found the void is filled. The desire is accomplished and ceases to exist; or, rather, it is transformed into humble gratitude because the object of its search has been found. In seeking for a realization of its wishes, the soul of man naturally and instinctively turns to the Fountain whence all good flows. The desire of the heart utters itself in appropriate language to him who alone can fulfill it. In fitting words the attention of the Lord is sought to be drawn to the sincere desire of the heart. The fulfillment of that desire is left to his love and wisdom. The earnest wish of the soul is laid down at Jehovah's feet, and, feeling that "the Lord of all the earth will do right," the soul waits in calm patience for the answer. This is the philosophy of true prayer!

Mississippi Annual Conference.

The seventy-fifth session of the Mississippi Annual Conference convened in Vicksburg, Miss., December 5, 1888. Bishop Hargrove opened the Conference by reading a part of the tenth chapter of the Gospel by St. Luke, singing 872nd hymn, and prayer. Secretary Andrews called the roll, and a large number of preachers and laymen answered to their names. Dr. Andrews was elected secretary of the Conference for the twenty-fourth time. The usual committees were appointed by the Conference upon the nomination of the presiding elders, after which the business of the Conference proceeded with the dispatch that always characterizes the brethren of Mississippi. The names of the superannuates were called, and their characters all passed. The presiding elders, one by one, gave reports from the several districts. From these reports we gathered that much progress had been made in every direction. Many new churches have been erected and parsonages built in various circuits and stations. The increase of membership in the bounds of the Conference has been gratifying. The line has advanced all along the borders. The preachers have been faithful to God, loyal to the church, and earnest in their work.

The following brethren were admitted on trial: Winans W. Drake, James G. Galloway, Waldo W. Moore, Thomas B. Reagan, William G. Forsythe, Hicks M. Ellis, Edward T. Denson, Lewis W. Wood, W. Monroe Sullivan.

The following remain on trial: R. W. Tneker, Francis M. Keene, James M. Cowan, William P. Jones, Paul M. Jones, B. H. Rawls, W. P. Meador, James G. Cammack, John D. Crymes, Joseph N. Ware, N. J. Roberts, M. J. Marble.

The following local preachers were elected to deacon's orders: Wiley Brown, John G. Freeman, James E. Jagers, Reuben Burton, John H. Foreman, Waldo W. Moore, Claiborne C. Gibson, Francis M. Keene.

Discontinued at his own request: Matthew J. Miller.

The following were received into full membership in the Conference: B. M. Drake, R. A. Breland, G. H. Galloway, W. H. Huntley, W. L. Linfield, G. D. Anders.

The following traveling preachers were elected deacons: B. M. Drake, R. A. Breland, G. H. Galloway, W. H. Huntley, W. L. Linfield, G. D. Anders, Joseph N. Ware.

The missionary anniversary was held Thursday night in the Methodist Church. The audience filled the large church to overflowing. The reports of the secretary and treasurer of the Conference Board of Missions revealed the fact that advance had been made in the collections for foreign missions; but the amount received for the domestic work had not been sufficient to meet the appropriation for that work. This is to be regretted. There is more need now for money for home work than ever before. The waste places of our Zion at home are many and large. Here, indeed, the "fields are white unto the harvest," and invite the church to enter and reap. Other denominations are entering into these fields; and if our church does not bestir herself to enter the "open doors" around her, she will lose the heritage which is hers by natural right. We think that from this time on our preachers should put more emphasis on the collection for domestic missions than they have hitherto done.

Bishop Galloway, having recently returned from Mexico, had a fine theme for a missionary address in the needs of that priest-ridden country. He presented the case with his usual eloquence and power, depicting in vivid colors the idolatries of Rome, and the sins of priests and people. It was a horrible showing, and demonstrated the fatal end of the teachings of the papal hierarchy. Mexico, in its religious condition, presents today the result of three hundred years of the uninterrupted work of the Church of Rome. It is as if God had laid down at our very doors a great sample of the outcome of the tendencies and teachings and rulings of Roman Catholicism, and is now pointing us to it as a warning not to permit it to get a hold upon the institutions of our own land. The Bishop presented the case so clearly that but few of the audience could help seeing that ruin in every direction follows in the path of Romanism. After the address followed the usual anniversary collection. This was not as large as on some former occasions. We believe the preachers, who have always been the largest givers on these occasions, are now giving with their own congregations in order, by example, to stimulate their people to larger benevolences; and so the collections at the annual missionary meetings at Conferences are falling below what they used to be, but the regular collections in circuits and stations are growing larger every year.

The hospitality of Vicksburg has long been proverbial, and this time the Methodists of that city and their friends of other denominations threw wide their doors and spread their bountiful tables and "made-up" their luxurious beds for their guests; and the guests reveled in this profusion of hospitality to their heart's content. Our home was at Dr. Marshall's, where we enjoyed the elegant simplicity so characteristic of that Christian home. On Friday night we had the pleasure to preach in the Methodist Church to an immense audience of interested hearers.

These three days at the Mississippi Conference afforded us a great deal of pure pleasure. The kindly reception which the brethren gave to the publisher and editor, and their manifest enthusiasm for the success of the ADVOCATE, went down into our hearts, and both came away with the determination to put the best work of our brains and money in the great work of spreading a pure literature through the bounds of our Conferences.

Leaving so early in the session, we did not get all the items we would like to publish this week; but, through the special courtesy of Bro. J. W. Chambers, the statistical secretary, we give the following statistics: Local preachers, 170; members, 33,432—a net gain of 2,220; adults baptized, 1,228; infants baptized, 1,435; Sunday-schools, 399; officers and teachers, 1,955; scholars, 15,295; collected for Conference claimants, $3,101; church extension, $1,352; foreign missions, $6,162; domestic missions, over $1,600; number of churches, 394½.

The next Conference will be held at Crystal Springs.

APPOINTMENTS.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

Claiborne McDonald, P. E.
Woodville sta., B. F. Jones.
Percy Creek, T. W. Brown.
Centreville, G. D. Anders.
North Wilkinson, W. M. Sullivan.
Amite, W. H. Moore, and one to be supplied (by J. R. Whittington).
Wilson, C. D. Cecil.
Bayou Sara, D. P. Bradford.
Jackson, La., W. L. C. Hunnicutt, W. L. Linfield.
Pitkin sta., James Healy.
Clinton, La., F. M. Featherstun.
Betoville, to be supplied (by J. G. Freeman.)
East Feliciana, N. J. Roberts.
East Baton Rouge, R. W. Tucker.
Livingston, E. T. Denson.
New River, to be supplied (by E. F. Singletery).
Springfield, W. W. Drake.
Amite City, F. M. Keene.
St. Helena, P. Howard.
President Centenary College, W. L. C. Hunnicutt.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Duncan A. Little, P. E.
Jackson sta., W. C. Black.
West Jackson, W. W. Hopper.
Spring Ridge, H. L. Scarborough.
Madison, D. G. W. Ellis.
Canton, T. B. Holloman.
Sharon, C. A. Powell.
Camden, I. B. Robertson.
Benton, H. P. Lewis.
Yazoo City, R. S. Woodward.
Yazoo, T. B. Reagan.
Silver Creek, W. G. Forsythe.
Mount Olivett, J. J. Lovett.
Flora, W. H. Huntley.
Raymond, L. S. Jones.
Edwards, I. W. Cooper.
Missionary to Japan, James W. Lambuth.

BRANDON DISTRICT.

P. A. Johnston, P. E.
Brandon sta., I. L. Peebles.
Marvin, to be supplied (by J. F. Robinson).
Forest and Morton, W. W. Morse.
Shiloh, A. D. Miller.
Westville, P. M. Jones.
Trenton, B. H. Rawles.
Fannin, J. N. Tucker.
Hillsboro, J. W. Tinnin.
Walnut Grove, W. W. Cammack—J. A. Vance, supernumerary.
Carthage, J. M. Morse.
Philadelphia, to be supplied (by J. C. Long).
Neshoba, J. G. Cammack.
Newton, J. S. Parker.
Lake, H. R. Caldwell.
Montrose, A. C. Flowers.
Strong River, R. J. Sibley.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Robert D. Norsworthy, P. E.
Meridian sta., C. G. Andrews.
West End, John D. Crymes.
Meridian cir., L. J. Jones.
Marion, L. P. Meador.
Enterprise and Heidelberg, J. W. Chambers.
Waynesboro and State line, E. F. Edgar.
Sandersville, Joseph N. Ware.
Vossburg, D. C. Langford.
Paulding, R. F. Witt.
Shubuta, J. P. Drake.
Winchester, R. A. Breland.
Clark, N. M. Clarke.
Union, to be supplied (by J. B. Baldwin).
Brownsville, W. B. Hines.
Lauderdale, B. F. Guice.
Springhill, B. M. Drake.
DeKalb, W. G. Backus.
Leaksville, W. P. Meador.
East Mississippi Female College, R. M. Saunders, president.
Fairview Institute, W. W. Moore, principal.
Financial agent East Mississippi Female College, R. D. Norsworthy.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

John A. Ellis, P. E.
Vicksburg sta., R. J. Jones.
South Vicksburg and Bovina, N. B. Harmon.
Warren, R. Bradley.
South Warren, W. P. Jones.
Sunflower, to be supplied (by J. P. Henry).
Anguila, J. W. Harmon.
Rolling Fork and Carey, W. D. Dominiek.
Mayersville, V. D. Skipper.
Rocky Springs, W. W. Hurst.
Port Gibson, E. H. Mounger.
Martin, J. W. Brown.
Burtonton, J. H. Woodward.
Utica, F. M. Williams.
Fayette, J. A. B. Jones.
Natchez, Jefferson street, W. E. Ballard.
Natchez, Wesley Chapel, B. F. Lewis.
Washington, Robert Selby.
Roxie, N. B. Young.
Meadville, H. Bradford.
President Port Gibson Female College, E. H. Mounger.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

W. B. Lewis, P. E.
Brookhaven, A. F. Watkins.
Wesson and Beauregard, T. L. Mellen.
Hazlehurst, J. T. Nicholson.
Crystal Springs, H. R. Singleton.
Gallman, M. L. Burton.
Providence, J. G. Sibley.
Bowerton, J. W. Ellison.
Scotland, H. D. Howell.
Summit, G. Bancroft.
Adams, R. S. Gale.
McComb City, B. S. Rayner—J. W. Sandell, supernumerary.
Holmesville, H. M. Ellis.
Franklinton, J. H. Evans.
New Hope, to be supplied (by William Hoover).
Topisaw, J. M. Cowan.
Principal Franklinton High School, J. M. Pugh.
President Kavanaugh College, H. W. Featherstun.
District superintendent American Bible Society, J. W. McLaurin.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Thomas S. West, P. E.
Moss Point, Lyman Carley.
Ocean Springs, J. J. Galloway.
Pearlington, T. W. Adams.
Covington, L. W. Wood.
Tally Sheek, to be supplied (by G. R. Ellis).
Augusta, to be supplied (by A. P. Cox).
Columbia, G. H. Galloway.
Mt. Carmel, R. B. Downer.
Bethel, J. H. Holland.
Hattiesburg, W. W. Simmons.
Poplarville, J. D. Hayes.
Whittington, C. C. Campbell.
Vancleave, to be supplied (by M. L. White).
Americus, to be supplied.
Bay St. Louis, V. V. Boone—R. Abbey, supernumerary.
Scranton, Benjamin Jones.
East Pearl, M. J. Marble.
Professor of Vanderbilt University, William R. Sims.

Transfers.—J. M. Weems, to Central Mexican Mission Conference; A. D. McVoy, to Louisiana Conference.

Fares to the Louisiana Conference.

The Mississippi Valley road has expressed a willingness to furnish round-trip tickets to preachers and delegates for one and one-third fares, and the Southern Pacific (Morgan Route) at one and one-quarter fares. The Texas Pacific will sell round-trip tickets at one and one-fourth fares, or five cents per mile; and the steamer "John H. Hanna" will charge for a trip from Monroe and return, twelve dollars.

CHAS. F. EVANS, P. E.

What the Bible brings to you will depend in a large measure on what you bring to it. You may have a crumb, or a loaf, or a granary full to bursting, just as you choose.—Dr. Behrends.

Most men call fretting a minor fault—a foible and not a vice. But there is no vice, except it be drunkenness, which can so utterly destroy the peace and happiness of a home.—Helen Hunt.

Mississippi Conference Personals.

This Conference has as fine a body of young men in it as it has ever been our good fortune to see. What a hopeful sight are so many strong, young men, vigorous in intellect and in purity, consecrating themselves so faithfully to the glorious work of the ministry! We confidently expect to see many of them reach the highest places in the church.

Rev. G. W. Bachman, the active and efficient colporteur of the North Mississippi Conference, was on hand with a good supply of church literature. Bro. Bachman is doing great servire to the church on this line of work, and proposes to visit the Louisiana Conference at its coming session. The brethren here will give him a warm welcome.

Rev. S. J. Cotton withdrew from the Conference and the church, and has united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in West Virginia.

The Conference has missed the presence of their old patriarch, John G. Jones, who went in and out before his brethren for scores of years. His labors are all ended. He meets no more in Annual Conference, but awaits on the eternal shore to welcome his brethren, as "one by one they cross the river."

Bishop Hargrove inaugurated a new plan by requesting the preachers to report only the increase or decrease on the various lines of church work. This plan ought to save a great deal of time. The reading of bill statistics before the Conference seems to be needless, in view of the fact that they are always published in the Minutes. This plan shows at once what the preacher has done and what he has failed to do. But the plan did not work very well. Preachers will talk when they get a chance.

The Brookhaven district paid $27 in excess of its assessment upon the widows and orphans' fund. Well done for Bro. Weems and his faithful preachers!

The statistical secretary told the editor that the salaries of presiding elders and preachers during the past year are in advance of what they were at the last Conference. That's a good omen. Get the people to take the ADVOCATE, and we guarantee the salaries will be yet larger next year.

We had the special pleasure of meeting Mrs. S. B. Kells, the accomplished editress of the Mississippi White Ribbon. She is devoting her talents and energies to the temperance cause, and the Louisiana temperance women will find her paper a valuable aid to them in their work.

We met a young friend during Conference, who asked a question that we have never heard since we came into the office. It was this: "How much will you charge me to publish my piece?" We looked at him in amazement; but seeing that he was, perhaps, less than five years old, we agreed to publish his "piece" for nothing. Wouldn't the editors and publishers have a good time if every contributor had the same ideas that that son of a preacher has about publishing articles?

Bishop Galloway informs us that at the request of Bishop Keener he will hold the session of the North Mississippi Conference.

Postal Card Reports.

—Rev. J. C. Lowe, writing from Concordia, Miss., December 1, says: "We are winding up the Conference year with, I think, some degree of success. The crops are 'short,' and some of the planters say they will lose money on their year's planting. One told me the other day that he would lose two thousand dollars; another, that he 'would be a hundred bales short;' and these are among our best planters and best members. This state of things makes our success in finances doubtful; especially when we must add to this the extensive, severe and fatal sickness that has pervaded this section of country. 'Swamp fever' and 'hematuria'—the two diseases that generally prove fatal here—have prevailed extensively for two months. The only case that has recovered from 'swamp fever' is my oldest child, and during her illness her life was poised as in the 'balance' for about a week, in which time wife and I wrestled with the Lord, day and night, pleading for her life, and God was good to us and heard us, and she is now growing strong and well. My wife suffered from a serious illness in May, and has not fully recovered from its effects yet. My own health is good; have gained flesh and strength through all the year, although I had been an invalid for about four years and a half. But this country has always agreed with me. I see from the last copy of the ADVOCATE that Bro. W. J. Taylor has died of the terrible disease, 'swamp fever.' How I do sympathize with his stricken family! The survey of a new railroad is now being made, running near the river, beginning near Greenville, and passes within two or three hundred yards of our church. It will probably be built within the next year.'"

—Rev. H. J. Boltz, writing from Fort Jessup, La., December 15, 1888, says: "I send you these few lines to inform you that I ask the prayers of the brethren in my affliction. My wife has been afflicted for several months, and last night, a little after seven o'clock, I lost my sweet little babe, Theresa May. She was two years and eight months old. Remember me in your prayers. I have lost all my children but one, making in all three. Pray that I may have grace to sustain me in these hours of trouble."

(May grace be given to our brother in abundance!—ED.)

—Rev. J. L. Wright sends this note from Athens, La., December 6, 1888: "My health better at this time than for years past. Have had a hard year. Received less than four hundred dollars; have had fair success on my work by way of conversions and nearly forty accessions; but, financially, not so successful. Short crops, etc., given as the reason."

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

THE LIFE OF DAVID LIVINGSTONE. By Annie Maria Barnes. Sunday-school Department of the Southern Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn. Price $1.

We are glad to see such a book as this prepared for our Sunday-school libraries. It is in the biographies of individual workers in the Lord's cause that we get the best points in church history, and there is nothing better than to familiarize the minds of our young people with the lives of the workers. Livingstone was a rare explorer and a devoted missionary for Christ, and his work in Africa is the beginning of the grandest mission work that will be accomplished on our planet. The "Life" before us is of thrilling interest from beginning to end, and we commend it cheerfully and heartily.

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF GEORGE FOSTER PIERCE. Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with His Sketch of Lovick Pierce, D. D., His Father. By George G. Smith, of the North Georgia Conference, with an introduction by Atticus G. Haygood, D. D. Hancock Publishing Company, Sparta, Ga. Sold by subscription or sent by mail. Prices, muslin, $2; half-morocco, $3; full morocco, $4.

Bishop Pierce was one of the most symmetrical men the church of modern times has produced, whether we consider him physically or mentally or spiritually. As an orator, he had no superior and few equals; as a Bishop, he stood in the first rank as an administrator of the affairs of the church; as a writer, he charmed every reader by his facile pen; as a friend, "none knew him but to love;" "as a Christian—humble, devout and full of the Holy Ghost and faith"—he was a pattern to all. The full-length portrait of him is skillfully drawn in this biography. Dr. Smith, as far as it was practicable, has left the Bishop to tell, in his own inimitable way, the story of his successful life. When Dr. Smith does speak in this volume, it is always in a manner to enhance the glory of his subject. Not the least interesting part of this book is the Bishop's sketch of his father, that remarkable man and great preacher, Dr. Lovick Pierce. As Bishop Pierce belonged to the whole church, and not merely to Georgia Methodism, Dr. Smith has done the whole church invaluable service in the production of this book, and we are sure the whole church will appreciate the service and read this volume with avidity.

PERIODICALS.

—The Book Buyer. The Christmas number is on our table, and a rare and beautiful number it is, consisting of choice reading matter, superb pictures and complete catalogues of new books. Charles Scribners' Sons, New York. Price $1 per year.

—Our Little Ones and the Nursery, for December, will be a special delight to all our little folks. It is running over with good things for Christmas week. Russell Publishing Company, Boston. Price $1 50 a year.

Colportage and Sunday-School Work in the North Mississippi Conference.

FINAL REPORT FOR 1888.

I have just completed the last tour for this Conference year, during which I visited and sold books as follows: Sidon circuit, $51; Black Hawk, $36 35; Aconn, $62 75; Bethany Church, Ebenezer circuit, $13 60.

The following is a summary of the year's labors: Miles traveled, 3,475; pastoral charges visited, 43; churches visited, 62; sermons preached, 89; Sunday-schools visited and addressed, 34; children's services held, 21; Sunday-school literature ordered, $40; books sold, $1,962 50; subscriptions taken for church papers, new, 85—renewals, 104; collected for church papers, $318.

Thank God for the degree of success that has attended these efforts to "spread Scriptural holiness," and may he guide in the furtherance of the good work!

G. W. BACHMAN,
Colp. and S. S. Agent.

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., Dec. 3, 1888.

Louisiana Conference Notices.

All preachers and delegates to the Louisiana Conference will please report at 112 Camp street, where they will be met and assigned to their homes.

The members of the various Conference classes for examination will meet their respective committees in Carondelet Street Church at 9 A. M., Tuesday morning.

"Christian Womanhood."

Dr. W. C. Black, in his book with the above title, has made every Christian woman his debtor. His erudite researches in this ever-widening field has brought out a succession of facts that can not be gainsaid. "Facts, facts, Gradgrind, facts." Yes, every chapter is replete with facts. From the dedication (which is a beautiful tribute of affection to his mother, wife and daughters) to the last section of the "outlook" these facts held me spellbound. The fact that it was written and sent forth with a prayer that it might be blessed of God, and "be an instrument for the spread of truth and righteousness," marks the preface with an omen of success.

In the first paragraph of the "introduction" our author enunciates one of the most indisputable facts of this age. Not through egotistical emotions do I, a woman, say this, but because through this fact I see the very pinnacle of success which the author has evidently in view, and this "superior moral and religious status" of women will leave its indelible impress on the age in whatsoever sphere she moves; yet I fully agree with the author that this ponderous influence "ought to be utilized," so that all the hands of Christian womanhood, as well as the mothers, may be employed in rocking the world.

With a feeling akin to horror the graphic picture of pagan womanhood was read; but one can not forget it nor be thankful enough for the blessed emancipation that Christianity inaugurated.

To give this book the full measure of commendation it deserves would be to write another book, yet I would not, could not, "condemn it with faint praise."

The fine and forcible points and facts relating to women preaching and prophesying show how thoroughly and exhaustively the author has familiarized himself with this subject that "will not down," though some over-zealous Johns forbid its rising.

As long as the world has need of preachers and prophets, so long will the Lord pour his spirit out on the daughters as well as the sons; and when Barak will not go up against the enemies of the Lord without a Deborah will go with him, then Deborah will preach. So believes the author and so believes this writer, and to every woman who reads this she would say, If you want to be edified, read "Christian Womanhood."

MRS. L. CRARY SADLER.

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers is in one preparation, and never fails to color the beard a beautiful brown or black of a natural shade.

The Advocate Free until 1889.

Send $2 now and receive the ADVOCATE free until 1889. Your subscription will not expire until January 1, 1890.

N. C. V. L.

Second term of Nashville (Tennessee) College for Young Ladies opens January 19, 1889. Now is the time to secure good rooms and reasonable rates. Three buildings; 20 officers; 301 pupils. All first-class facilities. Address

REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D.,
President.

General Lord Wolseley.

This distinguished soldier has prepared for THE YOUTH'S COMPANION several chapters of his personal experiences in the field, entitled, "In the Trenches before Sebastopol," "The Wreck of a Transport," "Success in Life from a Soldier's Point of View," and "The Relief of Lucknow." They are intensely interesting.

Publisher's Department.

Special Offer.

All new subscriptions for the ADVOCATE received between now and January 1, 1889, will receive the paper free until that date.

Subscribe now, and you will receive the paper 11 months for $2.

J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

An old man, who had been badly hurt in a railway collision, being advised to sue the company for damages, said, "Wa'al, no, not for damages—I've had enough of them; but I'll jest sue 'em for repairs."

Next to your subscription the greatest favor you can extend the ADVOCATE, in a business point, is to mention the paper in writing to advertisers.

A growing industry.—Farming.

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

FOR CHRISTMAS.

JOHNSON'S UNIVERSAL CYCLOPEDIA
[Revised]

Is a whole library of universal knowledge from the pens of the ablest scholars in America and Europe. It is accepted as high authority in our leading colleges. It is not for the few, like Appleton's, the Britannica or the International, but for all. It has just been thoroughly revised at a cost of over $60,000, and three years' labor by forty editors and over 2,000 renowned contributors. It is in eight convenient sized volumes. No father can give his child at school or his son or daughter just entering the arena of life anything that will be of more permanent benefit. It is an education supplementary to that of the schools. Address for particulars and terms,

A. J. JOHNSON & CO.,
11 Great Jones Street, New York.

The clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders.

The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance in these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Kennesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

DARWIN'S THEORY.

Darwin's theory of the "survival of the fittest" is simply that the weakly die, while the robust and hardy thrive and live. How true this is of seed growth, and how necessary to sow only that which is suited by nature to live and develop

H. M. Ferry & Co., the great Seed Growers and Seed Dealers of Detroit, Michigan, supply only the best and purest, raising their own seeds by the most improved methods and with the greatest care, bringing to their business the invaluable aid of more than thirty years' experience. Their Seed Annual for 1889 is a real help to the gardener, and should be in the hands of all who desire to purchase pure and true seeds. Send your name to the firm's address at Detroit, Michigan, and they will forward you a copy.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A WEATHER STRIP

is easily applied to Doors and Windows. Sure preventive against COLD, WINDS, DUST and rattling of Sash. Send for price list and illustrated Catalogue of Building Specialties, to

F. CODMAN FORD,
65 to 69 Baronne St., New Orleans, La.

Do the ADVOCATE a service, and mention it when you reply to advertisements.

The Walking Girl! She walks and runs as naturally as a child. The LATEST French Toy Wonder is interesting alike to young and old. The most wonderful piece of toy mechanism ever invented. Children will amuse themselves with it for hours. It is of metal and can not get out of order. Indestructible. It is a great attraction when operated in store windows. 50c postpaid. Postal note.

Rheem & Co., 225 Dearborn St., Chicago.

ALL BOOKS at Wholesale to members of the Book Buyer's Bureau. Membership free. AGENTS WANTED to solicit members. Send 2c stamp for catalogue and information to R. H. Woodward & Co., Baltimore, Md.

MISCELLANEOUS.

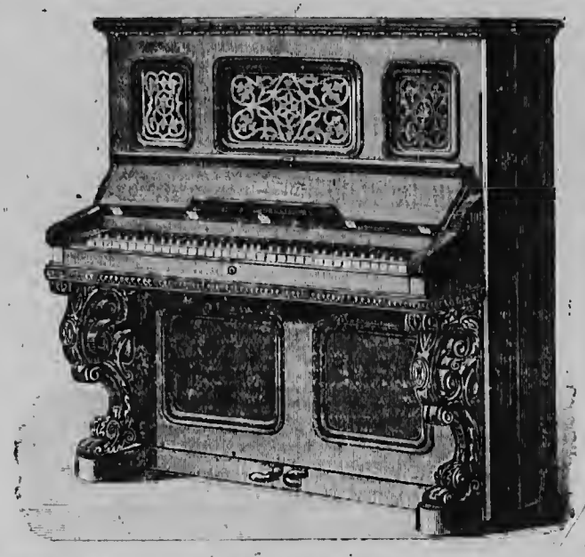
COLGATE & CO'S
PERFUMERY
FOR THE
HOLIDAYS.

Among our unrivalled assortment of Perfumes, Toilet Articles and Superfine Soaps, will be found suitable gifts for Ladies, Gentlemen and Children.

PIANOS! ORGANS! MUSIC!

GREATEST BARGAINS
—AT—
PHILIP WERLEIN'S,
135 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

Sweeping Reductions!



The World-Renowned WEBER, MATHUSHEK, and other Celebrated Pianos.

MASON & HAMLIN, ESTEY, FARRAND & VOTEY, and other Noted Organs.

Sold on Easiest Monthly Payments, from $3 upwards.

Some of the many testimonials regarding the Celebrated Mathushek Piano:

Mr. P. Werlein:
I certify that the Mathushek piano that I bought of you, and which I have been using for some time, is an instrument combining all the desirable qualities for execution, and, above all, for the voice. It keeps perfectly in tune.
J. HOLTHAUSEN.

Mr. Werlein:
The Mathushek upright piano obtained from you some three ago gives perfect satisfaction. I shall take pleasure in recommending the Mathushek to all my friends needing a first-class piano.
DANIEL d. LANE.
558 Burgundy street.

New Orleans.

Philip Werlein, Esq.:
Dear Sir—I have never heard any complaint about the Mathushek piano. It gives full satisfaction.
I. SCHRENK.

New Orleans, June 2, 1888.

Mr. Ph. Werlein:
This is to certify that I bought my Mathushek piano in February, 1879, and that my daughter has used it daily ever since, practicing not less than four hours daily. The piano has given us entire satisfaction.
NEMOURS BIENVENU.
347 Esplanade street.

New Orleans, June 2, 1888.

Mr. Ph. Werlein:
I hereby certify that I have given music lessons to Miss Bienvenu on her Mathushek piano for nine years.
H. ROLLING.

Mr. Philip Werlein:
My Dear Sir—The Mathushek piano that I purchased of you continues to give entire satisfaction. Its tones are exceedingly sweet and do not give way under the changes of season and climate, but preserve the same roundness and fullness as at first. Yours very truly,
G. M. PALMER.

Mr. Philip Werlein:
Dear Sir—It affords me great pleasure to state that the Mathushek piano purchased of you has given unqualified satisfaction. I can say that for sweetness of tone and for keeping in tune the Mathushek piano takes the lead. My advice to all would be to secure a Mathushek piano.
T. R. McGAHI.
527 Chartres street.

New Orleans, July 14, 1888.

Mr. Philip Werlein,
Dear Sir:
The Mathushek piano which you sold me in 1873 is, to-day, in my judgment, superior to many of the new pianos of recent manufacture which are offered for sale. I knew nothing of the instrument when I purchased it save its tone and general appearance pleased me.
After fifteen years' constant use I can bear testimony to its purity and volume of tone, quick and clear response to the touch, and excellence and durability of its make.
Fraternally Yours,
MORRIS C. COLE,
Pastor First Baptist Church.

These are only some of the testimonials and from these can be seen how the great Mathushek pianos have become the pianos of the day.

Be Sure to Call on
PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

Artificial Limbs,
Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted
—BY—
A. McDERMOTT,
200 - - - ST CHARLES STREET - - - - - 206
Bet. Julia and St. Joseph.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION. SPECIAL OFFER TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

A $2.50 PAPER FOR ONLY $1.75

To any New Subscriber who will send us this Slip, with name and P. O. address and $1.75 in Money Order, Express Money Order, Registered Letter, or Check, for a year's subscription to the Companion, we will send the paper

FREE TO JAN. 1, 1889,

and for a full year from that date. This offer includes the ILLUSTRATED SUPPLEMENTS, the PREMIUM LIST and

FOUR HOLIDAY NUMBERS,

Sent to Each Subscriber at Thanksgiving—Christmas—New Year's—Easter.

Illustrated WEEKLY Supplements

The volume for 1889 will be superior to any previous year. It will contain Six Serial Stories, 150 Short Stories, profusely illustrated, Household Articles, Tales of Adventure, Illustrated Sketches of Travel, 1,000 Anecdotes, Historical and Scientific Articles, Humor, Poetry.

☞ Specimen Copies and Colored Announcement free. Please mention this publication. Address

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, 41 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans and Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,

CHATTANOOGA,

CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.

	No. 2, Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian	9:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington	4:10 p. m.	3:48 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.

	No. 1. Lim'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati	7:55 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City	11:45 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla	9:49 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham	11:45 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian	4:45 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent,
34 St. Charles Street.

R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1, Fast Mail, 9:00 a.m	No. 2, Fast Mail, 5:00 p.m
No. 3, Express, 9:25 p.m	No. 4, Express, 8:00 a.m
No. 5, Bat. Rouge acc'dation, 10:00 a.m	No. 6, Bat. Rouge acc'dation, 3:45 p.m

Double daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville, Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans at 8 a. m., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harriston for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. F. and P. A.
R. F. REYNOLDS, Con'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

	Leaves.	Arrives.
Texas and California Express	8:35 A. M.	7:00 P. M.
Baton Rouge Local	3:30 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver, Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

This train has also Pullman Sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Trav'g Passenger Agent.
E. W. McCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Sponge is Mightier than the Brush.

THROW AWAY THE SHOE BRUSH and use a Sponge and water, which will keep your SHOES BRIGHT and CLEAN if you use

Wolff's ACME Blacking

The women know a good thing and will have it, and the men ought to.

It preserves the leather and gives a brilliant polish. Water and snow slip off it as surely as off a duck's back. Men's shoes require dressing ONCE A WEEK—women's once a month, that's all. Worth trying, isn't it? It is also the best dressing for harness, on which it lasts THREE MONTHS.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH, Philadelphia

A MAN OF A THOUSAND.

When death was hourly expected, all other remedies having failed, and Hon. H. JAMES was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The doctor now gives this recipe free, together with certificates of cures from physicians, ministers, and other eminent persons, only asking that each remit two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This herb also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break up a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address CRADDOCK & CO., 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

X WALL PAPER X

174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free. Mention the Advocate when you write.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT, FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET, BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES, LAMPS AND LANTERNS.

Axle Grease,

Blacking, Cages and Cheese Safes, Coffee and Grain Mills, Hammocks, Oyster Tongs, Scales, Whips.

Bluing, Corks and Clocks, Cutlery and Saws, Ice Cream Freezers, Paper and Bags, Sieves,

HARDWARE, STONEWARE, BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES, TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE, ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,

Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET.

E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE, MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER

in all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty. WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES, WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS. UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS, RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS.

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

G. WOLF,

—MANUFACTURER OF—

GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES

(Formerly of 130 Common Street)

54 ST. CHARLES STREET,

Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St., NEW ORLEANS.

Orders promptly attended to.

ROCK BOTTOM!

Our Clubbing Arrangement,

—1888.—

We offer the following club rates to take effect after January 11, 1888. Cash in full must accompany all orders.

The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and the following publications will be sent one year, postpaid, at prices in outside column:

	Publisher's price.	Our price.
Southern Cultivator	$3 50	$2 75
American Agriculturist	3 50	2 75
Daily Picayune—12 mos.	14 00	13 00
" " 6 "	7 00	6 50
Weekly "	3 50	2 50
" Times-Democrat	3 50	2 75
Harper's Magazine	6 00	4 75
" Weekly	6 00	4 75
" Bazar	6 00	4 75
" Young People	4 00	3 25
Demorest's Magazine	4 00	3 25

No subscription will be received on the above arrangement otherwise than that subscription to club paper shall expire at the same time with the ADVOCATE. Orders without cash will not receive attention, and no discount will be allowed for postage. Price is net.

J. G. GRANT, Pub'r.

Our Young People.

WHERE IS SHE?

Frisky as a lambkin,
Busy as a bee—
That's the kind of little girl
People like to see.

Modest as a violet,
As a rosebud, sweet—
That's the kind of little girl
People like to meet.

Bright as a diamond,
Pure as any pearl—
Ev'ry one rejoices in
Such a little girl.

Happy as a robin,
Gentle as a dove—
That's the kind of little girl
Every one will love.

Fly away and seek her,
Little song of mine,
For I choose that very girl
As my Valentine.

—Wide Awake.

MR. EDITOR: My father has been reading to me the letters the children write to your paper. I enjoyed them so much, and concluded I would write one for the ADVOCATE. I am a little boy five years old. My little sister, Louise, is three years old. My mother is not at home now. Sister and I pray for her every night. Rev. T. W. Lewis is our pastor. The last Sunday he was with us he attended Sunday-school in the morning, preached at 11 o'clock, and held Church Conference; preached in the afternoon at a country church, seven miles from town. Returning to town, he broke his buggy and, in consequence, missed his supper; but got back in time to make a splendid speech for the Woman's Missionary Society. He also baptized six children during the day. Now, Mr. Editor, don't you think that a right busy day? Well, Bro. Lewis is an industrious and successful itinerant preacher. Come to our Annual Conference at Starkville and hear his report read, and you will say so, too. At the missionary meeting that night the ladies and their friends brought their offerings to redeem their pledge made at the last meeting of the Conference Society, and special thank-offerings. The offerings were $55 40, one pocket book and one live pig. We have a missionary society in our Sunday-school, or, rather, our Sunday-school is a missionary society. We will raise in the Sunday-school, at least, $40 this year. Carrollton will have a railroad next year, and then, Mr. Editor, you must come to see us. I hope you will publish my letter. Hoping that I will see you at Starkville, the second week in December, I am,

Your little friend,
DAVID L. BINGHAM.

CARROLLTON, Mississippi.

Dorothy's Key.

"I want that book. Give me that book, Jack," exclaimed Dorothy.

"Well, so do I want it, too," responded her brother. "You've got to wait till I've finished with it."

Dorothy's face wrinkled up as if she was about to cry, but just then she saw her aunt coming down stairs in her out-door costume and a new thought diverted her mind.

"Oh, I'm going down street, too, Aunt Gracie. You've got to take me, too, so you have. Now you just wait till I get ready."

"No, I can't" answered Aunt Grace, opening the street door and passing out.

Dorothy threw herself down on the stairs in a perfect passion of tears.

"Oh, dear! everybody is ugly and cross to me," she fretted. "They never will do as I want them to, and I think it's mean."

Nobody noticed her tears, so after a little while she dried her eyes and went down into the kitchen to see what she could find to amuse her there.

Cook was making a pie for dessert and rolling out the crust in delicate layers.

"Oh, I want to make me a little pie," exclaimed Dorothy. "Bridget, give me a little piece of dough to roll out with my little rolling pin."

"I can't just now," answered Bridget. "The oven's hot and I must make haste. Wait till I'm done and I'll save ye a bit."

"No, I won't wait. I've got to have it right away this minute," fretted Dorothy. "Give it to me now, Bridget, I want it."

"Well, you shan't have it at all if ye can't have a little patience," answered Bridget, and as Dorothy began to snatch at the dough in an effort to break off a piece for herself she picked her up in her strong hands and carried her out into the hall, where she put her down, returning into the kitchen quickly and locking the door behind her.

"Let me in—let me in," screamed Dorothy pounding at the door, but Bridget began to sing and would not pay any attention to the little girl.

"Dorothy! Come up stairs," called her mother. "I have something nice to tell you."

Dorothy ran eagerly up stairs to hear what her mother had to tell her, and when she heard what it was she was so glad that all the frowns on her face vanished as suddenly as if a fairy flat-iron had been smoothed over it, and she began to clap her hands and jump up and down in delight.

Dorothy was an only daughter, and she had always longed for a little sister, so she was very happy when she heard that her little cousin May was coming the next morning to pass a month with her.

May had not been there many days before Dorothy noticed that it was very seldom her little cousin was refused anything, and she wondered why even Bridget was always willing to stop, no matter how busy she might be, to give May anything she asked for.

"May, what makes people so good to you?" she asked abruptly one day. "When I want anything everybody is always too busy to give it to me, yet they will do anything for you."

"I suppose it's because I've got a little key," May answered.

"A little key?" Dorothy asked in surprise.

"Yes," answered May, smiling at her little cousin's bewildered face. "Mamma told me a little key to use whenever I want a favor, and it almost always makes people do it for me."

"How funny!" exclaimed Dorothy. "Won't you lend me your little key, May?"

"Always say 'please,' and that is the key to win favors," May answered.

"Is that all it is?" said Dorothy rather scornfully, but she tried it, nevertheless, and she found it was just as May had said.

A little girl who said "please" politely when she wanted a favor was far more apt to be gratified than a child who cried fretfully, "I want them. Give me this."—Selected.

Catarrh originates in scrofulous taint. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and thus permanently cures catarrh.

A minister had preached a simple sermon upon the text, "And they brought him to Jesus." As he was going home his little daughter, walking beside him, said, "I liked that sermon so much!" "Well," inquired her father, "whom are you going to bring to Jesus?" A thoughtful expression came over her face as she replied, "I think, papa, that I will just bring myself to him." Her father thought that would do admirably for a beginning.

Consumption, Scrofula, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Bronchitis, can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Prominent physicians use it and testify to its great value. Please read the following: "I used Scott's Emulsion for an obstinate Cough with Hemorrhage, Loss of Appetite, Emaciation, Sleeplessness, &c. All of these have now left, and I believe your Emulsion has saved a case of well-developed Consumption."—T. J. FINDLEY, M. D., Lone Star, Texas.

A party of friends were one evening assembled around the table at a meal, and after some time the children, who were present, were observed to sit looking at their food, while the others ate. "Why don't you eat, my dears?" asked a lady. "Because papa has not asked the blessing," replied the little voices. The blessing was promptly asked.

INFANTILE Skin & Scalp DISEASES cured by CUTICURA Remedies.

FOR CLEANSING, PURIFYING AND BEAUTIFYING the skin of children and infants and curing torturing, disfiguring, itching, scaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, the CUTICURA REMEDIES are infallible.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 35c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Baby's Skin and Scalp preserved and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP.

KIDNEY PAINS, Backache and Weakness cured by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, an instantaneous pain-subduing plaster. 25c.

Household.

EVENING BRINGS ALL HOME.

The morning sun shines bright and fair,
The fresh, sweet breezes blow;
By various paths—some here, some there—
To work the children go.
Some drop their nets in waters blue,
Some turn the rich brown soil;
They walk the woodland sunbows through,
By forge-fires others toil;
Through morning fair and noontide glows,
Through day's declining hours,
This one with weary foot-ten does,
That, lingers midst the flowers,
But when the sun behind the hills
Has dropped his golden crown,
And dusky gloom the valley fills,
Each lays his burdens down.
By various paths—from near, from far—
The weary laborers come;
Behind are left all cares that are—
All faces turn toward home.
The Father's house, with welcome sweet,
Swings open wide its gates,
And wearied brain or wearied feet
A peaceful rest awaits.
How sweet to think, whate'er the day,
However we go or come,
Or slow or fast hours slip away,
The night-fall brings all home!
The twilight fades, the shadows fall,
The sky grows far and deep,
And one by one earth's children all
Have left them down to sleep.
In slumber sweet, in dreamless rest,
The night wears slow away;
The heads the soft, low pillows press
Care not for coming day.
They only know they feel soft sleep,
O'er tired eyelids come—
O'er eyes that no more ache or weep,
And night has brought all home.

—Good Housekeeping.

A Happy Home.

Many a child goes astray simply because home lacks sunshine. A child needs smiles as much as flowers need sunshine. If home is the place where faces are sour and words harsh, and fault-finding is ever going on, they will spend as many hours as possible elsewhere. Let every father and mother, then, try to be happy. Let them look happy. Let them talk to their children, especially the little ones, in such a way as to make them happy. Keep the children's sympathies, for by so doing, half the danger of their going astray is averted.

No one is so sensitive over a slight as a child; and if her sorrows are made light of at home, she will be more than likely to turn to others to find sympathy, and will often find it in society she would otherwise shun. No sympathy is so dear as a mother's; and a child who has always been encouraged to tell all her troubles to her mother, knows that she will find a patient and loving hearer and comselor, and will not be apt in her youth—the time when she most needs counsel and advice—to do anything that she can not tell her mother all about. The grown-up woman, with a family of her own, counts as one of her sweetest blessings, the tender affection of her own mother.

Mothers are apt, as the family increases, to unintentionally omit many of the little sympathies and tokens of love which had hitherto been lavished on the older children, but are now transferred to the new arrival. Or, perhaps, as the cares of the family grow heavier, the mother has so many calls upon her time, that she can not stop for the fondling that was once her pleasure. But surely there is time every day for some word of love or sympathy; and this one little word spoken in the morning, oftimes cheers and helps the recipient all through the day! The idea, too, that the children, as they grow older, are more away from home, do not care for these attentions, is wholly at fault, for no true child ever grows too old for love and sympathy.—Selected.

THE WRONG AND RIGHT WAY.—How parents provoke their children—by unreasonable commands, by perpetual restriction, by capricious jerks at the bridle, alternating with as capricious dropping the reins altogether; by not governing their own tempers; by shrill or stern tones where quiet, soft ones would do; by frequent checks and rebukes and sparing praise. And what is sure to follow such mistreatment by father or mother? Bursts of temper, for which the child is punished and the parent is guilty, and then spiritless, listlessness and apathy. "I can not please him whatever I do," leads us to a rankling sense of injustice, and then to recklessness—"it is useless to try any more." And when a man or child loses heart there will be no more obedience. Many a parent, especially many a father, drives his child into evil by keeping him at a distance. He should make his boy a companion and a playmate, teach him to think of his father as his confidant, try to keep his child nearer to himself than anybody else, and then his authority will be absolute, his opinion an oracle, and his lightest wish a law.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Teacher

Who advised her pupils to strengthen their minds by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, appreciated the truth that bodily health is essential to mental vigor. For persons of delicate and feeble constitution, whether young or old, this medicine is remarkably beneficial. Be sure you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring and fall I take a number of bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and am greatly benefited."—Mrs. James H. Eastman, Stoneham, Mass.

"I have taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla with great benefit to my general health."—Miss Thirza L. Crerar, Palmyra, Md.

"My daughter, twelve years of age, has suffered for the past year from General Debility.

A few weeks since, we began to give her Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Her health has greatly improved."—Mrs. Harriet H. Battles, South Chelmsford, Mass.

"About a year ago I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for debility and neuralgia resulting from malarial exposure in the army. I was in a very bad condition, but six bottles of the Sarsaparilla, with occasional doses of Ayer's Pills, have greatly improved my health. I am now able to work, and feel that I cannot say too much for your excellent remedies."—F. A. Pinkham, South Molunous, Me.

"My daughter, sixteen years old, is using Ayer's Sarsaparilla with good effect."—Rev. S. J. Graham, United Brethren Church, Buckhannon, W. Va.

"I suffered from

Nervous Prostration,

with lame back and headache, and have been much benefited by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I am now 80 years of age, and am satisfied that my present health and prolonged life are due to the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—Lucy Mollitt, Killingly, Conn.

Mrs. Ann H. Farnsworth, a lady 73 years old, So. Woodstock, Vt., writes: "After several weeks' suffering from nervous prostration, I procured a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken half of it my usual health returned."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas Selections —FOR 1888.— Containing new Carols by eminent authors in the field of song, and which will prove the most attractive Responsive Exercise that may be used with or without the Carols. Price, 5cts.; each $4 a dozen by mail postpaid; $1 a hundred by express, not prepaid.

Services. "Good Will to Men." By J. P. Hall; "Noel," by P. Phillips; and "Peace on Earth," by J. H. Hall; these consist of choice Responsive Readings for the Christmas Season, with appropriate Music interspersed. Beautifully illustrated, especially for use in connection with Christmas Trees. Price of each of the above Services, 5cts.; $4 a dozen; $30 a hundred. Specimen copy of either of the Services sent to any address on receipt of 10cts. Services for the Christmas Season Complete, containing all of the above Services, 15cts.; $1 a dozen; $10 a hundred.

Cantatas. "The New Santa Claus," by Perkins and Worth; "Santa Claus," by Burnham and Root; "Santa Claus' Mistake," by Burnham and Root; "Santa Claus' Kriss Kringle," by Butterworth and Root. Price of the Cantatas, 30cts. each, by mail postpaid.

Catalogue of all kinds of Christmas Music will be sent free on application.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, O.

And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

MASON & HAMLIN

The cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin organs have always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.

Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of the unequalled excellence of their organs, ORGANS at all of the $22 TO $900. great World's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. One hundred styles, from $22 to $900 or more. Illustrated catalogue free.

Mason & Hamlin do not hesitate to make the extraordinary claim for their pianos, that they are superior to all others. They recognize the PIANOS acme of excellence achieved GRAND & UPRIGHT by other reputable makers in the art of piano building, but still claim superiority. This they attribute solely to the remarkable improvement introduced by them in the year 1882, and now known as the "Mason & Hamlin PIANO STRINGER," by the use of which is secured the greatest possible purity and refinement of tone, together with great increased capacity for standing in tune, and other important advantages.

A circular, containing testimonials from three hundred purchasers, musicians, and others, sent together with descriptive catalogue, to any applicant.

Pianos and organs sold for cash or easy payments; also rented.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO.
BOSTON. NEW YORK. CHICAGO.

DROPSY

TREATED FREE.

POSITIVELY CURED

With VEGETABLE REMEDIES.

Having cured many thousand cases, Cures patients pronounced hopeless by the best physicians. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in 10 days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. Send for free book, testimonials of miraculous cures, 10 days treatment furnished by mail. If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage. FREE

Dr. H. H. Green & Sons, Atlanta, Ga.

HOW MANY LINKS IN THE CHAIN?

$155 IN CASH GIVEN AWAY!

Mail your answer with 25c. silver, and you will receive free for six months the brightest and best 16-page newspaper in U. S. For correct guess will also receive first $ in cash; 2d, $; 3d, $; 4th, $; 5th, $; next 5 $1 each. Premiums will be distributed March 1, 1889, and reports of winning numbers sent to every subscriber. Farm Journal is a splendid newspaper and is worth a dollar, which should be in every home. Address Farm Journal, Philadelphia.

ON 30 DAYS' TRIAL.

THIS NEW ELASTIC TRUSS has a Pad different from all others, being elastic, with self-adjusting Ball in center, which adapts itself to all positions of the body, and the ball in the cup presses back the intestines just as a person does with the finger. Will hold and cure the Hernia in the hardest case. Is not to be procured elsewhere. Is easy, durable and cheap. Circulars free. ECCLESTON TRUSS CO., Chicago, Ill.

HAVE YOU GOT PILES

Itching Piles are known by moisture like perspiration causing intense itching when warm. This form as well as Blind, Bleeding and Protruding, yield at once to DR. BO-SAN-KO'S PILE REMEDY, which acts directly on the parts affected absorbs tumors, allays itching and effects a permanent cure. 50 cts. Druggists or mail; treatise free. Dr. Bosanko, Piqua, O.

CANCER and Tumors CURED, no knife. Book free. Drs. BRATHAY & BRATHAY, No. 103 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

Christian Advocate.

Marriages.

VIDLER—LYNCH.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. William Lynch, near Fort Jessup, La., November 28, 1888, by Rev. H. J. Boltz, Mr. W. E. Vidler to Miss Margaret Lynch, all of Sabine parish, La.

TYLER—VIDLER.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. James F. Vidler, near Fort Jessup, La., November 29, 1888, by Rev. H. J. Boltz, Mr. T. A. Tyler to Miss Addie Vidler, all of Sabine parish, La.

ADAMS—WALLER.—At the home of Mr. Louis Waller, November 29, 1888, by Rev. E. H. Price, Mr. W. L. Adams to Miss Bettie F. Waller, all of Lowndes county, Ala.

SPRUILL—PACE.—At the residence of R. H. Pace, Esq., near Conehatta, Newton county, Miss., December 2, 1888, by Rev. Irvin Miller, Mr. R. A. Spruill, of Oklahoma, Miss., to Miss Eva Pace.

ABNEY—STRAIN.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Zach. Strain, on November 8, 1888, by Rev. G. R. Ellis, Mr. Robert Abney to Miss Ella Strain, all of Covington, La.

GIVENS—O'ROURKE.—In the Methodist Church, at Slidell, La., October 19, 1888, by Rev. G. R. Ellis, Mr. James M. Givens to Miss Georgie M. O'Rourke.

FURHMAN—GOODEY.—At the residence of the groom's father, near Madisonville, La., July 19, 1888, by Rev. G. R. Ellis, Mr. August Furhman to Miss Alice Goodby.

FAUNTLEROY—REVERE.—In the Methodist Church, at St. Tammany Camp Ground, September 20, 1888, by Rev. G. R. Ellis, Mr. Hezeciah Fauntleroy to Miss Dorcas Revere.

Obituaries.

Obituaries of less than thirty-five lines of six words each, will be published free of charge. For all over thirty-five lines, ten cents for each additional line will be charged, and the money must invariably accompany the manuscript. When parties desire extra copies of the ADVOCATE containing the obituaries of their friends, they must send with the order the sum of five cents for each extra copy ordered.

POLE—JOHN GEORGE POLE was born March 1, 1838, and died, November 13, 1888, at his residence, in Greensburg, St. Helena parish, La. In 1883 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in which he remained as a helper to the close of his life. He was a good and useful citizen, a man of commendable public spirit. Society and many of the poor have sustained a great and painful loss. He was wise enough to see that the public good was a personal good. As he was a warm advocate and liberal supporter of education, the institution of learning in Greensburg has sustained a grievous loss. As a church member he was decidedly a helper. At some points he was commendably faithful. As long as he remained a member, he recognized his obligation to support the church. He recognized himself as a party to the action of the steward in the assessments made, and accepted any apportionment of it made to him and paid it. In this he was loyal to his church, and nobly maintained both an individual and a church honesty, which should be the ambition of every member. As a husband, he manifested a tender love and thoughtful care for his companion, so that to her there was none like him; as a son, he was dutiful, thoughtful and kind; as a father, he completely won the affections of all his children, and, as a neighbor, he held the respect and esteem of all. May God comfort and save the bereaved family!

J. W. ELLISON.

MOSBEY—Mrs. A. B. MOSBEY (nee Stevens), wife of M. H. Mosbey, and daughter of J. H. and S. C. Stevens, was born November 26, 1845; professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in her sixteenth year, in whose communion she lived a consistent member till the messenger of death called for her, which sad event occurred, October 31, 1888, leaving a husband and six children to mourn their loss—a loss which is irreparable in this world, for "what is home without a mother?"

Sister Mosbey was a devoted wife, an affectionate mother, a generous and kind neighbor, a good woman. Her life was in harmony with the grand principles which underlie a true Christian character. She possessed an amiable disposition, affable in her manners, chaste and prudent in conversation, and upright in deportment. With her religion was a living, vital principle enthroned in the heart, sending forth from its sacred sanctuary rays to cheer the home of which she was the center of attraction. Sister Mosby is gone; but our loss is her eternal gain. So we mourn not as those who have no hope, but we shall see her again in our Father's kingdom. May God bless the grief-stricken husband and sorrowing children, and reunite them with the loved one gone before, waiting and watching for them.

A. L. VAUGHN, Pastor.

ROWLAND—Mrs. ELIZABETH A. ROWLAND was born in Patrick county, Va., March 22, 1821; married December 22, 1841; joined the church in 1842, and died October 4, 1888.

Sister Rowland lived a consistent member of the church for forty years. I visited her twice during the last illness, and each time, while at prayer, she became very happy. The first rejoicing was over her past life, as she had been led by Christ; the last, her future prospects as they were about to be unfolded in another world. Death had no sting; she simply fell asleep in Christ. I fully believe that the Scripture, "If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death," was verified in her case. The Lord grant that all whom she made promise to meet her in heaven, may see her again in glory!

H. T. GAINES, P. C.

HUMPHRIES—SAMUEL GODFREY HUMPHRIES, infant son of T. J. and E. G. Humphries, was born in Caldwell parish, La., October 6, 1888, and departed this life on November 10, 1888. He was a sufferer during his short stay with his parents, but he has gone where there is no suffering to join the number of the blessed. May that Savior who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me," afford grace, faith and comfort unto the bereaved parents!

C. R. GODFREY.

SCHROEDER—Mrs. MARTHA SCHROEDER was born of English parents on the Island, St. Thomas, in the West Indies, August 10, 1827, and died in this city, September 30, 1888. She came with her parents to New Orleans in early girlhood, and was converted and joined the Methodist Church before she reached her majority. Subsequently she became one of the charter members of the Moreau Street Church, organized about the year 1840 under the pastorate of Rev. W. H. Watkins, and lived a devoted and godly member of this charge until the date of her death. During this whole period of nearly half a century her career was singularly consistent; the only apparent changes being those which marked a steady increase in the gains and graces of the religious profession. What these were her life at its close abundantly manifested. Surely she was a ripened sheaf and required but to be garnered in from "the fields of sin." She lived to see all her family, including husband and nine living children, gathered into the Christian fold—four of the latter having preceded her to the better inheritance; one of the number being Rev. Samuel H. Schroeder, for years a most exemplary and successful laborer in the Methodist Itinerant ranks of this State.

Among the graces which were prominent in the character of this ascended saint was patience, which she possessed in a marked degree, and neither poverty, family afflictions or bodily suffering ever caused her to utter a murmur against the decrees of Heaven. She could accept every change as an indication of Providence, and construe every blow of her Father's chastening hand as a pledge of his love. Of her charitableness, whether manifested by tempers or gifts, the writer has no fear that he can employ language of eulogy too strong. Did she ever fail to relieve poverty or suffering when it was in her power to do so, or to weep for the erring who had brought forth the fruits of penitence? Or did she ever, at least, in the later years of her life fail to speak of man or woman except in the language of commendation? Though a life-long Methodist, her charities of this nature were by no means confined within the boundaries of her own church, but embraced all men and all conditions of life, and by none was her Christian character more commended than by many of those who were separated from her by those boundaries which so often and so strangely mark the beginnings of prejudice and even sometimes of inveterate hatreds. She was a most devoted and affectionate mother, wife, friend; but it will not seem a strained utterance to those immediately interested, if we declare that her death will scarcely prove a greater loss to her immediate family than to the religious community in which she lived. Though her death was sudden, she was apparently so ripe for death, of which her talk was full of calm presentiment to the close, that it could not have been a shock to her; and to others it seemed to possess less of the properties of death than of translation. She died, as she had lived, in charity with all men, and she will not be a stranger either to the joys of companionships of heaven.

J. M. B.

FLOWERS—CHARLES D. FLOWERS was born in Montgomery county, Miss., February 22, 1868, and died at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., October 12, 1888.

When he was but twelve years of age he chose the profession of medicine, and from this time worked and studied to that end. He was taking the second course of lectures in the medical department at Vanderbilt. His purpose and determination would have won for him the first honors of his profession. He aspired to nothing less.

In his fourteenth year he was soundly converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and lived a consistent Christian life to the end. Few young men prepare so early and so well for usefulness as he. The hearts of his numerous friends are filled with sorrow, that one who gave promise of so much usefulness should be called away so early. How unexpected was the stroke of sorrow to the once happy, but now deeply shadowed home! He had gone away three weeks before, the pride of the family, with a bright future. How hard to receive him back a lifeless corpse!

Our blind unbelief would ask, "Is it best for such a character to be cut off so young when the world needed him most?" But he is not dead. He has only gone across the river, that his redeemed and blood-washed spirit may unfold its immortal powers where there are no defeated aims or broken purposes.

His father reached his bedside a few hours before his death, and was assured that all was well with his soul. His remains were brought home, and the funeral service at Friendship was attended by a large concourse of people. He sleeps in the family graveyard, to await the resurrection morn. God bless the sorrowing family, and bring them together again where parting is no more!

W. S. LAGHONE.

MARSHALL.—Near Shell Mound, Miss., November 9, 1888, Bro. MARCUS HAZLEWOOD MARSHALL. He was born May 17, 1866; joined the church about five years ago, and lived a consistent member all his Christian life. He was the son of J. A. Marshall, of Greenwood, Miss., and grandson of B. F. Marshall, of Carroll county.

Woodie, as he was familiarly known, lost his mother when he was only nine years old; but he never forgot her training. He was obedient to his father, kind and obliging to his friends, and always on the right side wherever you would find him. His companions say he never used a word that could not, with propriety, be used before ladies. He was one of the best and purest young men we ever had in the country. He was true to God and devoted to the church. For several years he was so isolated by his work, as manager of a large saw-mill, that he could not attend church regularly, but was always upright in his life. He leaves four brothers and an afflicted father, who is very much grieved over the loss of his son. May God grant that all may meet in heaven!

T. W. LEWIS.

REBER—The subject of this tribute—GEORGE REBER—was born in Alsace, Germany, in 1856, and departed this life October 27, 1888. He moved to this country with his parents when but a babe, was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, forty years, and has been a citizen of Covington, La., nearly or quite that length of time. In 1886 he was united in marriage to Miss L. A. Dykes, who, with two daughters and one son, is left to mourn his death.

When a grand man dies it is customary to pay him due honor through the columns of the different journals; but how many thousand instances are there in which men attain to the highest pinnacle of greatness, lie down and die, and hardly a passing note made of their death, and the tracks of those who attend their solemn obsequies are scarcely effaced before they are forgotten. According to my way of thinking, our deceased brother has attained to that height, where not in the eyes of the world, but in the eyes of the Lord he was grand, for he could say, with Paul: "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day." To be able to say this is grander than to be a monarch.

Bro. Reber was a quiet, unobtrusive and harmless man in all the different walks of life, and made no display of his religion; but down in the recesses of his heart there was a pearl that far exceeds the diamonds of a thousand worlds, and in it his last moments shone with radiant beauty. A good man has gone to join the blood-besprinkled band. May God, in his infinite mercies, comfort the bereaved ones!

G. R. ELLIS.

BEAVERS—Sister ANNA REBECCA BEAVERS, daughter of L. L. and Susan Taylor, was born in Madison county, Miss., August 31, 1810. She removed to Cleveland, Miss., in 1869, where she remained most of the time till the day of her death, which occurred October 9, 1888. She was converted and joined the Methodist Church, September 5, 1872, under the ministry of Bro. Murff.

She lived a beautiful Christian life; her faith in God was unwavering amid all its conflicts and, as a consequence, she enjoyed a serenity of soul possessed by few others. She not only enjoyed her religion, but was abundant in labors in the church. Many are they who can testify to her zeal in the church and Sunday-school. It was her delight to instruct the young in the Book of Life. She was, therefore, honored and loved by all who knew her. The body was laid to rest in the old family burying-ground, and her pure spirit, caught up by the angels, was carried to the regions of the blest, where the redeemed and saved enjoy the everlasting presence of God. May the Lord comfort and sustain the sorrowing left behind!

HER PASTOR.

KENDALL.—Mrs. ELIZABETH E. KENDALL was born October 25, 1809, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at the age of fifteen years, and remained a consistent member until her death, which occurred, November 21, 1888, at the residence of her son-in-law, in Webster parish, La. She was afflicted for thirty years; for ten or fifteen years she has been waiting the Master's call, even desiring to depart and be with Christ. Her long affliction terminated in paralysis. She was confined to her bed only a few days by her last sickness. When her tongue could no longer express her thoughts, by signs she expressed her readiness and willingness to depart and be with Christ.

After an acquaintance with such a life—one so long and full of Christian graces—well may we say, "Let me live the life of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

H. O. WHITE.

BROWN—The following preambles and resolutions were adopted at the fourth Quarterly Conference, East Feliciana circuit, Woodville district, Mississippi Conference, in reference to the death of Bro. R. S. BROWN, with the request that they be published in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE:

Whereas, It has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from our midst our late brother and member of this Quarterly Conference, R. S. Brown; And, whereas, The intimate relations long held by our deceased brother with the members of this Conference render it proper and meet that we place upon record our appreciation of his services as a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and of this Conference, and his worth as a man; therefore, be it Resolved, That, while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn for our brother who has been called from his labors to rest.

Resolved, That in the death of Bro. Brown the church loses a member who was always active and zealous in his efforts to advance the cause of Christ, ever ready to succor the needy and distressed; prompt to promote the interest of the church, devoted to its welfare and prosperity; one who was wise in counsel and fearless in action; one who was honest and upright in all his dealings, and a man whose virtues endeared him, not only to his brethren, but to all of his fellow-citizens.

Resolved, That we tender our deepest sympathy to the widow in this, her saddest hour of affliction; to the son and daughter in this, their sad bereavement, and to the friends and relations who mourn his loss; and pray God, in his infinite wisdom and mercy, to bless, console and comfort the stricken ones.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Conference and a copy be furnished the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE for publication; also a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

J. D. LIPSCOMB, for Com.

A medicine prepared for the general public should contain nothing hurtful in any dose. Such a medicine is Shallenberger's Antidote for Malaria; it destroys Malaria as water puts out fire, and is just as harmless. Sold by Druggists.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THREE WONDERFUL

SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect.

6,500,000 LADIES

Are Doing Sewing on

SINGER

Family Sewing Machines.

8,000,000

SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.

Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.

Send for Price-list and Catalogues.

THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,
185 Canal St., New Orleans.
S. E. RUNDLE - - - - - AGENT.

Mention this Paper.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849. Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,000

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Desirable Fire Business.

W. R. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH HOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Southern Insurance Company

OF NEW ORLEANS.

54 - - CAMP STREET - - 54

Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.

FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.

This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its assured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.

ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

John T. Moore, Jr., J. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, P. O. Ernst, Ted. Woodward.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,

113 Common Street.

COAL AND COKE

We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases.
A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel.
The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.

MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR

The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with

PERFECT SAFETY

to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.

It has been used with most wonderful effect in

Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c.

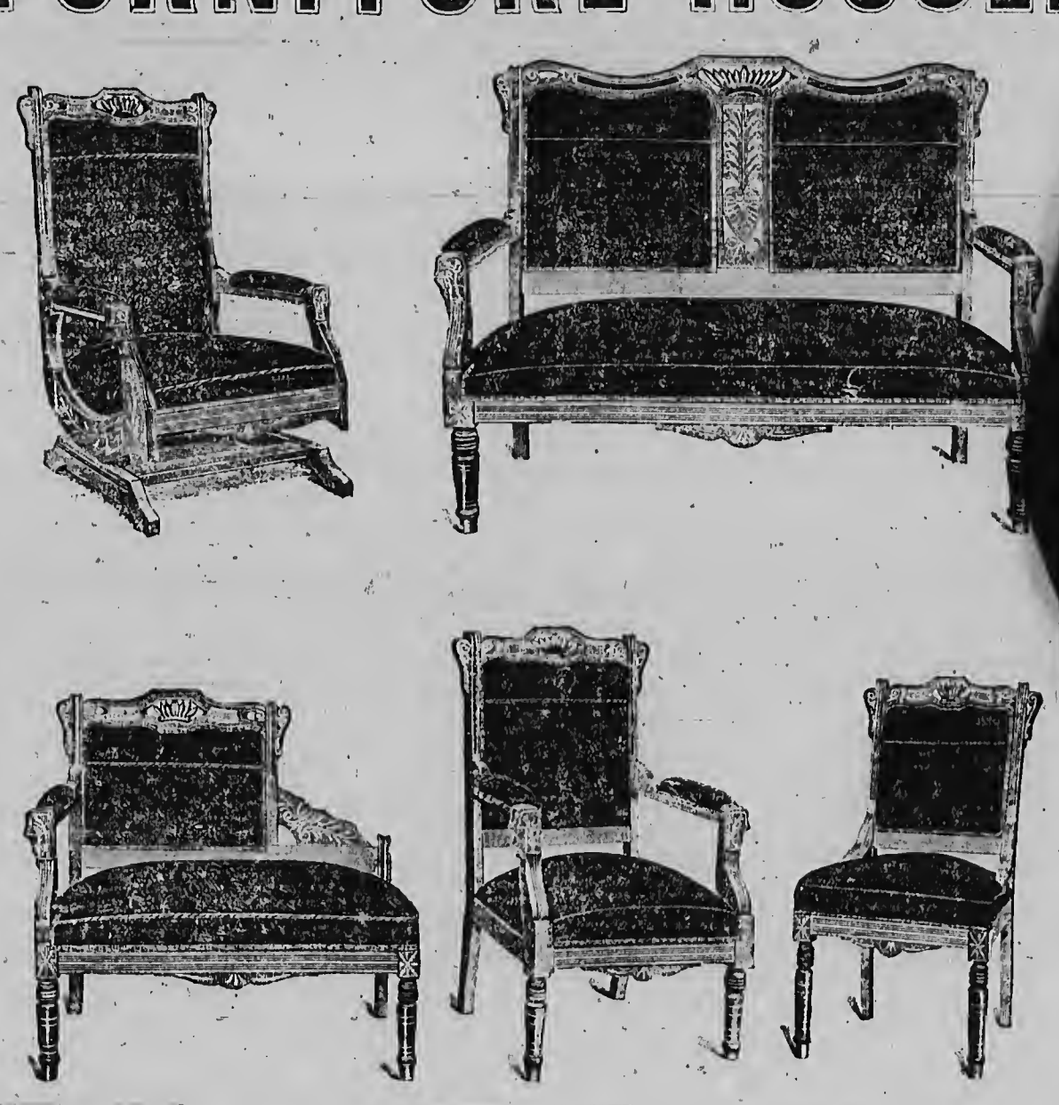
Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.

For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2 cent stamp to

MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA.

GRANT'S

FURNITURE HOUSE.



$35.00

Buys a beautiful Crimson Plush Parlor Suit, in five pieces, as shown in illustration. Solid Walnut Frame, Hand-carved and Rubbed Oil Polish. Same suit in Hair Cloth, $35.

$45.00.

Buys the same suit in five pieces, covered in Silk Plush, all one color, in either of the following: Crimson, Old Gold, Olive, Peacock Blue or Maroon; or the same set made up in all the above colors.

$55.00

Buys the suit in ten pieces, including the five pieces here shown, one more Sofa and four Parlor Chairs covered in plush.

$65.00

Buys the same set—ten pieces—covered in Silk Plush—all one color, or five different colors.

Plush Rockers, Reception Chairs, Reed and Rattan Rockers, Fancy Tables in Walnut, Mahogany, Oak and Cherry.

$20.00

Buys a French Bed-Room Set.

$69.50

Buys a beautiful Victoria Bed-Room Set, in imitation Walnut, Marble-top—twelve pieces—as follows: Bedstead, Dresser, Washstand, Armoir, four Cane-seat Chairs, one Cane-seat Rocker, one Towel Rack, one Spring, and one Centre Table.

$95.00

Buys a magnificent Black Walnut Bed-Room Set, Marble-Top, Satin Tester, brass rods—twelve pieces as above.

$19.00

Buys a Dining-Room Set, including Sideboard, Extension Table, and six Cane-seat Chairs.

$22.00

Buys a Kitchen Set, including a first-class Stove with Utensils, Kitchen Safe, Kitchen Table, four Kitchen Chairs.

Office and Library Furniture in large variety.

CARPETS—Ingrain, Brussels and Velvets.

Rugs, Portiere and Lace Curtains in all styles and at all prices.

☞Figures talk; and if you doubt, call and inspect the goods. Everything else proportionately cheap. Stock complete with the latest designs and fresh from the best factories. Call and examine, and I guarantee polite attention, reliable goods, fair dealing and bottom prices at the Cheapest FURNITURE HOUSE in NEW ORLEANS.

J. G. GRANT, 50 and 52 Baronne Street.

☞Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

20 Questions
OF Topics of the Day.

1.

Should Dekota remain a Territory?

See "Dakota," by P. F. McCLURE, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for February, 1888.

2.

What is the meaning of the discussion about "the spirit of unrest" in the religious world?

See "The Clergy and the Times," by Archdeacon MACKAY-SMITH, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for January, 1889.

3.

What is the matter with Ireland?

Read, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for January, 1889, "Manufacturing Industry in Ireland," by Mr. Commissioner MACCARTHY, Dublin.

4.

Upon whom has the mantle of George Eliot fallen?

See CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON'S serial story, "Jupiter Lights," in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1889.

5.

What are the prospects of Russia in case of a European war?

Read a paper on the Russian Army, by a Russian General, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1889.

6.

What has Ruskin done for modern life and thought?

See articles by ANNE THACKERAY RITCHIE and Dr. THEODORE WATTS-DUNTON, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1889.

7.

What does amateur photography amount to?

See, "Modern Amateur Photography," by F. C. BEACH, Ph.D., in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for January, 1889.

8.

Who talk the best English?

Read "Colloquial English," by Professor A. S. HILL, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for January, 1889.

9.

Where are the most graceful and sympathetic essays on our modern life to be found?

See the "Editor's Easy Chair," by GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

10.

What is the real condition of the Russian people?

See "a Russian Village: an Artist's Sketch," by VASSILI VERESTCHAGIN, with illustrations by the author, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1889.

11.

What are the characteristics of life at a great imperial court?

Read in HARPER'S MAGAZINE, for 1888, two papers on "Social and Court Life in Russia," by Vicomte EUGENE MELCHIOR DE VOGUE, one of the "Forty Immortals."

12.

Why do art collectors frequent the Hotel Drouot?

See "Hotel Drouot," by THEODORE CHILD, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for February, 1889.

13.

Does Canada want to be annexed?

See article on the Dominion of Canada, by CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for March, 1889.

14.

Has Sir Walter Scott lost his charm for this generation?

To be answered by the reception which the public gives to "Abbotsford," a description (never before published) by Sir WALTER SCOTT, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1889.

15.

Why did England undertake the Sikkim expedition just ended?

See "Nepaul, the Land of the Goorkhas," by HENRY BALLANTINE, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for February, 1889.

16.

What are the present tendencies of literature?

Read the "Editor's Study," by WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

17.

Is the "Nebular Hypothesis" tenable?

See "The Origin of Celestial Species," by Professor NORMAN LOCKYER, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1889.

18.

What degree of development has been reached in Norway?

See three papers entitled, "Norway and its People," by BJORNSTJERNE BJORNSON, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1889.

19.

Have the riches of Shakespeare been exhausted by artists and critics?

See EDWIN A. ABBEY'S Illustrations of Shakespeare's Comedies, and accompanying text by ANDREW LANG, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1889.

20.

What are always topics of the day?

The wit and humor of the "Editor's Drawer," conducted by CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, in HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

If you wish to be informed on every subject of interest, subscribe at once for

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

A year's subscription makes an acceptable Christmas present. $4 00 a year.

Published by HARPER & BROTHERS, N. Y.

Booksellers and Postmasters usually receive Subscriptions. Subscriptions sent direct to the Publishers should be accompanied by Post-office Money Order or Draft. When no time is specified, subscriptions will begin with the current number.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

EDUCATIONAL.

Elfinwood Select School.

The undersigned proposes to open, January 1st, 1889, a Select School for young ladies at his residence, near Gayden, on the L., N. O. and T. R'y, in the parish of East Feliciana, limited to twelve pupils. Every advantage will be afforded that can be found in the first girls' Colleges in the land. All persons desiring their daughters thoroughly educated will do well to make early application to me at Gayden, La.

Terms moderate.

Edwin H. Fay, A. M.

When writing, mention this paper.

A ROAD TO SUCCESS.

One of the grand avenues to successful business life leads through

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

where every student buys and sells, receives and pays, corresponds, calculates, attends business Lectures, forms and dissolves co-partnerships, keeps books and transacts business in the same manner as do Merchants, Manufacturers, Bankers, etc., in daily business.

This renowned and progressive Institution has for the past thirty-two years enjoyed the confidence and support of the discerning public for its faithful, high-grade, practical education.

Soule College has also Higher English, Academical, Mathematical, Shorthand and Type-writing Schools. For catalogues address,

BEN. SOULE, President,
133 St. Charles Street, New Orleans, La.

N. B.—Soule's New Science and Practice of Accounts (416 pp.) and Soule's Philosophic Work on Practical Mathematics (880 pp.) are replete with expert and practical accounting and with the highest work and the rarest genius of the sciences of which they treat. Price $5 each. For sale at the College office.

Mention this Paper.

Leche's Graded Institute.

DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL.

Seventh Session Opens Monday, September 10, 1888.

English, French, Latin, German, Drawing, Shorthand, Type-writing. For prospectus address A. S. LECHE, 7 Prytania street.

Mention this paper.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.
PROF. D. F. RUDDLE, Sec.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful; the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The stage from Mendocino to Ingrams, seventy-five miles north of San Francisco, was robbed on December 5. The express box and two mail-bags were seized by the highwaymen. The loss is supposed to be heavy.

The votes of all the States except Colorado are now on record, and it appears that Cleveland had a popular plurality over Harrison of nearly 100,000 votes. In 1884 his plurality was only 23,000.

By the will of Rebecca E. Robertson, which was offered for probate, in New York City, on December 7, the residue of her estate, after various minor bequests, is given to establish a home for enabling poor families to have a brief summer outing free of expense. The bequest amounts to $500,000.

A mob, in attempting to force an entrance into the jail at Birmingham, at 12:05 o'clock, December 9, in order to take out and lynch a murderer, was fired upon by the guards. Not less than twenty-five persons were shot, seven of them fatally.

A dispatch from Anaconda, M. T., says that the large smelter of the Anaconda Company there has been closed down for an indefinitely long time. In consequence of this action, 4,000 men are thrown out of employment.

The Sub-Committee of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, to whom had been entrusted the task of framing a rivers and harbors bill, reported the result of their labors to the full committee, December 8. The Mississippi river, from Cairo to the head of the passes, gets an even million dollars, exclusive of the items for the rectification of the Atchafalaya and for the harbors of Columbus, Hickman, Greenville, Vicksburg and New Orleans.

Full and specific instructions in regard to the management of the Hayti trouble have been given to Rear Admiral Luce, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, and their execution is all that remains to be done. He is to report at Port-au-Prince and release the "Hayti Republic," and if the authorities refuse to surrender her he is to seize the vessel by force of arms and take her to some neutral port where she can be restored to her owners.

Mr. Plumb, one of the Kansas Senators, is known to be dissatisfied with the sugar schedule in the Senate tariff bill and will ask a modification of it in the interest of his sorghum-growing constituents. It is likely he will favor a bounty.

FOREIGN.

An attempt was made on December 5 to blow up the registry office in the rue St. Denis, Paris, with a dynamite bomb. Several arrests have been made.

The Pope has sent to the Austrian Emperor as a jubilee gift a beautiful mosaic image of the Virgin. It was made at the Vatican and is valued at $6,000.

The first detachment of British troops arrived at Suakim, December 5. As soon as the troops assembled, the Arabs opened a hot artillery fire from the trenches; but this was quickly silenced by a reply from the forts.

At a banquet in London, Mr. Phelps, the American Minister, said that the great and everlasting ties that bound England and America depended on the great heart of the two peoples. Treaties were of small consequence, and diplomacy had seen its best days. It was upon the sentiment of the people that the harmony of the two countries most depended.

The Latin League, which aims to detach Italy from the triple alliance, is now openly favored by Spanish politicians, both Monarchist and Republican. Senor Castellar goes to Rome to invite moderate Republicans to join a coalition with Premier Crispi, accept the existing monarchy and avoid hostility to the church until a league of France, Spain, Italy and Belgium succeeds in overthrowing the Austro-Germanic alliance.

The Reichstag adjourns on December 15, and will re-assemble about the middle of January. The critical situation in East Africa, where the Arabs are effectually wiping out the German colonies, will force a more ample explanation of Germany's policy than the Chancellor intended.

Ex-Empress Frederick has bought a site at Sterlitz for 100,000 marks, on which to build a hospital for orphan girls.

A dispatch to the London Standard says the ex-King of Naples and the ex-Duke of Tuscany have signified to the Vatican that they favored Catholics in their political votes. The Pope approved their views and appointed a commission, presided over by Cardinal Monaca, to inquire into the question. It has been decided that the moment is opportune for the development of the movement with the view of creating a great Catholic party.

During a meeting held in Amsterdam, Holland, on December 9, to consider a project for the erection of a statue of the Pope, 600 Socialists gained admission to the meeting hall and prevented a priest from speaking. A fight ensued between the Catholics and Socialists. All the furniture in the hall was smashed. The police were compelled to fire and several of the rioters were wounded.

Two men have been arrested at Naples for throwing a dynamite bomb at the German consulate in that city. The bomb did not explode. The men are members of the Republican Society.

A new Cabinet is announced in Spain. Senor Segasta is Premier. The new Cabinet is of a similar complexion to the former Cabinet, except that it is considered more pliable. It is thought that it will be short lived.

One Fact

Is worth a column of rhetoric, said an American statesman. It is a fact, established by the testimony of thousands of people, that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, salt rheum, and other diseases or affections arising from impure state or low condition of the blood. It also overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to every part of the system. Try it.

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending December 11, 1888.)

COTTON.

Low ordinary	7 11/16	@ — —
Ordinary	7 15/16	— —
Good ordinary	8 1/4	— —
Low middling	9	— —
Middling	9 1/2	— —
Good middling	10 1/16	— —
Middling fair	10 7/16	— —
Fair	11 3/4	— —
Galveston middling	9 11-16	— —
Mobile middling	9 3/8	— —
St. Louis middling	9 1/2	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4 13-16	4 7/8
Fully fair	4 13-16	— —
Good fair	— —	3 11-16
Common	3 1/4	4 1/8
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4 1/2	4 5/8
Pr. yellow	6	— —
Gray White	6	6 1/16
Choice white	6 1/8	— —
Stan. Gran.	6 5/8	— —

MOLASSES.

OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	33
Fair	25	26
Good Common	23	24
Syrup	28	32

RICE.

Head	5 1/4	6 1/4
Good	5	5 1/8
Fair	4 5/8	4 7/8
Good	3 3/4	4
No. 2	2 1/8	2 1/4
Polish, per ton	14 00	15 00
Rough, ₱ bbl.	2 50	4 10

FLOUR.

Extra Fancy	5 15	5 25
Fancy	4 65	4 75
Choice	4 25	4 40
Minnesota patents	7 00	7 25
Extra fancy	5 50	5 62 1/2
Winter wheat patents	6 07 1/2	6 12 1/2
Minnesota bakers	6 40	6 60

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	2 15	2 25
Cream meal	3 00	— —
Grits	2 85	2 90
Hominy	3 15	— —

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	14 75	— —
Prime Mess	14 50	— —
Rumps	— —	14 00
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	7 3/4	— —
Sides, long clear	8	8 1/8
Sides, short rib	8	8 1/8
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	11	12 1/2
Shoulders	8	— —
Sides, long clear	9 1/4	— —
Sides, short rib	9 1/8	9 1/4
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	11 1/2	12

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	18 3/4	19 1/4
Fair	17 3/4	18 1/4
Common	15	15 3/4
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Fair	24	35
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	23	— —
Western Dairy	20	22
Common	— —	18
LARD:
Refined	— —	8 1/4
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11 3/4	— —
Coal, cases	16	17
Cotton seed, crude	— —	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70	75

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, per head	1	6
Chicago, per 100	— —	— —
Louisiana, ₱ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 50	1 60
KROUT:
Western, ₱ bbl	3 50	— —
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 60	— —

GRAIN, ETC.

CORN:
White	49	51
Yellow	48	— —
Mixed No. 2	48	— —
OATS:
Western	— —	33
Choice	— —	34
BRAN:
₱ ton	85	— —
HAY:
Prime	16 00	17 00
Choice	18 00	19 00

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	4 00	— —
Young Chickens	3 50	4 00
Chickens, South'n	3 00	3 25
Young	1 75	2 00
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	10 00
EGGS:
Western	22	23
Southern	— —	23
WOOL:
Lake, per ₱	— —	22 1/2
Louisiana	21 1/2	— —
Burry	12	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ₱ ₱	3	4
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ₱ ton	11 00	— —
Meal	21 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	— —
Muriatic acid, ₱ ₱	2 1/2	— —
Sulphuric acid	2	— —

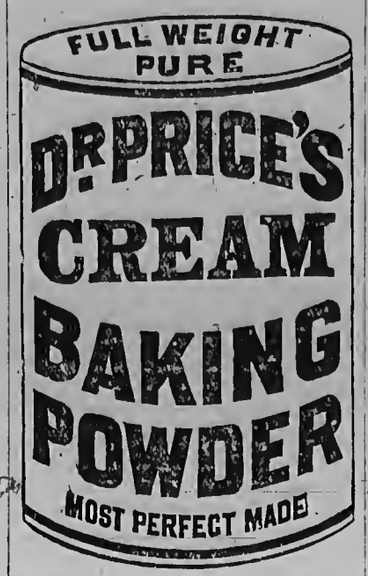
From Rt. Rev. Bishop Ryan, of Philadelphia.

I can testify to the efficacy of J. & C. Maguire's Cundurango, it having been my favorite medicine for several years past. I believe it to be the best Anti-Bilious Cathartic and Corrector of Liver, Blood and Kidney derangements that can be taken, and its general use in families would no doubt avert attacks of sickness.

P. J. RYAN.

The carpets about the house may be made to last much longer and keep much fresher if occasionally, on general sweeping day, the floor be well sprinkled with cornmeal and salt before commencing to ply that woman's weapon, the broom.

MISCELLANEOUS.



Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

1889.

Harper's Bazar.

ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S BAZAR will continue to maintain its reputation as an unequalled family journal. Its art illustrations are of the highest order, its literature is of the choicest kind, and its Fashion and Household departments of the most practical and economical character. Its pattern-sheet supplements and fashion-plate alone will save its readers ten times the cost of subscription, and its articles on decorative art, social etiquette, housekeeping, cookery, etc., make it indispensable to every household. Its bright short stories, and timely essays, are among the best published; and not a line is admitted to its columns that could offend the most fastidious taste. Among the attractions of the new volume will be serial stories by Mrs. FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT, Mrs. ALEXANDER, WILLIAM BLACK, and THOMAS HARDY, and a series of papers on nursery management by Mrs. CHRISTINE TERHUNE HERRICK.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

Per Year:

HARPER'S BAZAR	$4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE	4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY	4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE	2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, or Mexico.

The Volumes of the BAZAR begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of HARPER'S BAZAR for three years back, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by mail, postage paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume), for $7 per volume.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $1 each.

Remittances should be made by Post-Office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROTHERS.

Address HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

Mention this paper.

The Singer's Christmas.

It is high time to commence practicing Christmas Music, and to plan festivals. DITSON & CO. publish a large number of Christmas Carols, Anthems, Songs, Quartets, etc. Please send for lists.

Beautiful Cantatas for Girls and Boys.

GOOD TIDINGS, or Santa for Boy's Christmas. By Rosabel. 25 cts., $2 40 a doz.

HARE OF BETHLEHEM. Children's Voices and Quartets. Rene Coller. 20 cts., $1 80 per doz.

JINGLE BELLS. Peculiar and very pretty. Leo R. Lewis. 30 cts., $3 per doz.

CHRISTMAS GIFT. A Santa Claus story. Rosabel. 25 cts., $2 40 per doz.

CALIGHT NATIVITY. A new musical Drama. Leo R. Lewis. 50 cts., $5 per doz.

KING WINTER. A fine cold weather Cantata. L. O. Emerson. 30 cts., $3 per doz.

MESSENGER OF CHRISTMAS. F. M. Towne. 25 cts., $2 per doz.

CHRISTMAS SONGS AND CAROLS. For Young Children. Kate Douglas Wiggin. 12c., $1 20 per doz.

Bright and Interesting Christmas Services.

Joyful Chimes. (5 cts., 72 cts. doz.) Rosabel.

Birthday of Our Lord. (5c., 72c. doz.) Rosabel.

Song of the Christ. (12 cts., $1 40 doz.) Sawyer.

Cantatas for Choirs, Societies, etc.

Christmas Eve. (35 cts., $3 72 doz.) Gade.

Christmas. 80 cts., $7 20 doz.) Butterson.

Christus. (10 cts., $2 50 doz.) Mendelssohn.

ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York.

Mention this paper.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MARVELOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY.

Four Books Learned in One Reading.

A Year's Work Done in Ten Days.

Mind wandering cured.
Speaking without Notes.
Wholly unlike artificial Systems.
Great inducements to correspondence-classes.

Prospectus, with opinions of Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, the world-famed Specialist in Mind Diseases; Daniel Greenleaf Thompson, the great Psychologist; J. M. Buckley, D. D., Editor of the Christian Advocate; Richard Proctor, the Scientist; Hons. Judge Gibson, Judah P. Benjamin, and others.

From the Chaplain of Exeter College, and Houghton Syriac Prizeman, Oxford.

Coll. Exon., Oxon., Sept. 5th, 1888.

Dear Sir:—In April, 1885, I suddenly received notice that my ordination examination would be held in a fortnight. I had only ten (10) days in which to prepare for the Exam. I should recommend a year's preparation in the case of any one so utterly unprepared as I was; but your System had so strengthened my natural memory that I was able to remember and give the gist of any book after reading it once. I, therefore, read Lightfoot, Proctor, Harold Browne, Mosheim, &c., &c., once and was successful in every one of the nine papers. The present Bishop of Edinburg knows the facts.

Faithfully yours,

[Rev.] JAMES MIDDLETON MACCONACHIE, M.A.

To Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

☞This System is thoroughly taught by correspondence. Send for prospectus.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the L., N. and T. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 1889.
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—board, books, tuition and fees—of a complete English course for one term of twenty weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address
R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

A. H. BRUNNER, Pres.
G. W. OTHIELESTON, Sec.

KNABE

PIANO FORTES

UNEQUALLED IN

Tone, Touch, Workmanship and Durability

WILLIAM KNABE & CO.,

BALTIMORE, 22 and 24 East Baltimore Street.
NEW YORK, 112 Fifth Ave. WASHINGTON, 817 Market Space.

Mention this paper.

☞OVER 6,000,000 people believe that it pays best to buy Seeds of the largest and most reliable house, and they use

Ferry's Seeds

D. M. FERRY & CO are acknowledged to be the Largest Seedsmen in the world.

D. M. FERRY & Co's Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced

SEED ANNUAL

For 1889

Will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last year's customers without ordering it. Invaluable. Every person using Garden, Field or Flower Seeds should send for it. Address

Earliest Cauliflower in existence.

D. M. FERRY & CO., Detroit, Mich.

OVERSEERS WANTED December weather; you can work indoor or to travel. A reliable person in each County to look up advertisements and show cards of Electric Goods on trees, fences and cottages, in conspicuous places in town and country, in all parts of the United States and Canada. Steady employment. Wages, $2.50 per day; expenses advanced; no talking required. Local work also if part of time. No attention paid to postal cards. Enclose stamp for reply, with full address, WITH STAMP, J. C. EMORY & CO., 6th & Vine Sts., Cincinnati, O.

MUCH WISDOM, BUT FEW WORDS!

Prices That Will Do All Good!

56c Fleece Cashmere, 10c—worth 15c.
Double-width Henrietta, 15c—worth 25c.
Extra-fine Henrietta, 35c—worth 50c.
Foundation Suits, from $1 95 up.

BIG BARGAINS IN LACE CURTAINS.

Handsome Line of CHENILLE CURTAINS and PORTIERES.

CARPET ROOMS Overflowing with Bargains.

Plain and Fancy Mattings, from 12½c up.
Brussels Carpet (all wool), 55c—Made and Laid.
Handsome Body Brussels, 85c—worth $1.
Beautiful Line of WINDOW SHADES.

J. A. Braselman & Co.,

586 and 588 - - MAGAZINE STREET - - 586 and 588

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO

STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y

MANUFACTURERS OF

High Grade BONE FERTILIZERS,

PURE GROUND BONE,

ACID PHOSPHATE,

KAINITE,

Etc.

14 UNION STREET,

New Orleans, La.

Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

STERNS PURE GROUND BONE
STERNS SOLUTION OF SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME
STANDARD AMM'D SOLUBLE GUANO
SULPHURIC ACID MANF'D BY STERNS F.C.M.CO
STERNS AMM'D SUPER PHOSPH

Mention this paper.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 35.—NO. 51. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1888. WHOLE NO. 1688.

PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

Christian Advocate.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.
J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased preachers, $1.

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. CHAS. W. CARTER, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, D. D.
REV. T. L. MELLEN.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WEIR, M. D.

ST. JOHN, THE AGED.

BY FRANCIS EASTWOOD.

I'm growing very old. This weary head
That has so often leaned on Jesus' breast,
In days long past that seem almost a dream,
Is bent and hoary with its weight of years.
These limbs that followed him, my Master, oft
From Galilee to Judah; yea, that stood
Beneath the cross and trembled with his groans,
No longer bear me even through the streets
To preach unto my children. E'en my lips
Refuse to form the words my heart sends forth.
My ears are dull; they scarcely hear the sobs
Of my dear children gathered 'round my couch;
My eyes so dim they can not see their tears.
God lays his hand upon me—yea, his hand,
And not his rod—the gentle hand that I
Felt, those three years, so often pressed in mine,
In friendship such as passed a woman's love.

I'm old, so old! I can not recollect
The faces of my friends, and I forget
The words and deeds that make up daily life:
But that dear face, and every word he spoke,
Grow more distinct as others fade away.
So that I live with him and holy dead
More than with living.

Seventy years ago
I was a fisher by the sacred sea.
It was at sunset. How the tranquil tide
Kissed dreamily the pebbles! How the light
Crept up the distant hills, and in its wake
Soft purple shadows wrapped the dewy fields!
And then he came and called me. Then I gazed
For the first time on that sweet face. Those eyes
From out of which, as from a window, shone
Divinity, looked on my inmost soul,
And lighted it forever. Then his words
Broke on the silence of my heart and made
The whole world musical. Incarnate love
Took hold of me and claimed me for its own;
I followed in the twilight, holding fast
His mantle.

Oh! what holy walks we had,
Through harvest fields, and desolate, dreary waste;
And oftentimes he leaned upon my arm,
Wearied and way-worn. I was young and strong,
And so upbore him. Lord! now I am weak,
And old, and feeble. Let me rest on thee!
So, put thine arm around me. Closer still!
How strong thou art! The twilight draws apace;
Come, let us leave these noisy streets and take
The path to Bethany, for Mary's smile
Awaits us at the gate, and Martha's hands
Have long prepared the cheerful evening meal.
Come, James, the Master waits, and Peter, see,
Has gone some steps before.

What say you, friends?
That this is Ephesus, and Christ has gone
Back to his kingdom? Aye, 'tis so, 'tis so.
I know it all; and yet, just now, I seemed
Once more to stand upon my native hills
And touch my Master! Oh! how oft I've seen
The touching of his garments bring back strength
To palsied limbs! I feel it has to mine.
Up! bear me once more to my church—once more
There let me tell them of a Savior's love;
For by the sweetness of my Master's voice
Just now I think he must be very near—
Coming, I trust, to break the veil which thus
Has worn so thin that I can see beyond,
And watch his footsteps.

So, raise up my head.
How dark it is! I can not seem to see
The faces of my flock. Is that the sea
That murmurs so, or is it weeping? Hush!
My little children! God so loved the world
He gave his Son. So love ye one another.
Love God and man, Amen. Now bear me back.
My legacy unto an angry world is this.
I feel my work is finished. Are the streets so full?
What call they folk my name? "The Holy John?"
Say, unto me rather Jesus Christ's beloved,
And lover of my children.

Lay me down
Once more upon my couch, and open wide
The eastern window. See! there comes a light
Like that which broke upon my soul at eve,
When in the dreary Isle of Patmos, Jesus came
And touched me on the slumber. See! it grows
As when we mounted toward the pearly gates.
I know the way! I trod it once before!
And hark! it is the song the ransomed sang
Of glory to the Lamb! How loud it sounds!
And that unwritten one! Methinks my soul
Can join it now. But who are these who crowd
The shining way? Joy! joy! 'tis the eleven!
With Peter first; how eagerly he looks!
How bright the smiles are beaming on James' face!
I am the last. Once more we are complete
To gather round the Paschal feast. My place
Is next my Master. O my Lord! my Lord!
How bright thou art, and yet the very same
I loved in Galilee! 'Tis worth the hundred years
To feel this bliss! So, lift me up, dear Lord, Unto thy bosom, there shall I abide.

—American Tract Society.

Religious Worship Under Restrictions in Brazil.

BY ERNEST HOWARD.

The Protestant form of religion is represented by branches of the Church of England, established in most of the coast cities, and by a considerable number of mission churches and schools under the auspices of the Presbyterian, Baptist and Methodist denominations of the United States.

The Fifth Article of the Constitution of Brazil reads as follows: "The Roman Catholic Church shall continue to be the religion of the State; and others shall, however, be tolerated with their special worship in private houses designated for the purpose, without the exterior form of a temple."

The utmost latitude has always been allowed in the interpretation of this law. The courts long ago construed the "exterior form of a temple" simply to prohibit the use of steeples and bells. Even this restriction has not been rigidly enforced: for the beautiful Methodist Church of Rio de Janeiro has a number of miniature spires, while the Piracicaba Church, of the same mission, is adorned with a truncated tower, very like a steeple. There has always been danger, however, that a reactionary government, such as is to be feared under the Princess Isabella, heir to the throne, might make serious trouble for the infant churches. In fact, a local authority last year attempted to order the Lutherans of a village in the province of Rio Grande do Sul, to remove the tower from their church building, threatening the members with criminal process, if worship were held in it in its present form. He was promptly overruled by his superiors. But the occurrence led to a general petition from the Protestants of the empire for the revocation of the obnoxious article already referred to.

On the fifth of October, 1887, Senator Martins, of Rio Grande, introduced a bill in Parliament revoking Article V. of the Constitution, and the corresponding portions of the criminal code, and declaring that there should henceforth be full liberty to all religions to celebrate public worship according to their own forms, so long as there were no violations of public morality. It was generally supposed that the bill, while introduced in deference to the Senator's large German constituency, would never be called up. The recent outbreak in Rio Feio, of which we elsewhere give a full report, seems to have been influential, however, in breaking its slumbers. At all events, the measure has already passed two readings, and is in a fair way to become a law. A somewhat extended account of the discussion may be of interest. We cite the leading points from the official journal. Senator Candido de Oliveira believed that there might be some opposition to the project, in favor of which he had already voted.

The clause of the Constitution which forbids the exterior form of a temple for the houses in which are celebrated religious services other than Catholic, was a relic of antiquity which could not resist the progress of civilization and liberal ideas. Since, however, the government has a large majority in the lower house, it had seemed best to the orator that the noble Minister of the empire should be present at the discussion to declare the opinion of the Cabinet. He, therefore, interrogates the noble Minister if, in the schemes of reform of the government could be included the project under discussion, and if, in view of an affirmative vote in the Senate, the ministry would agree to carry through the House a measure so necessary for the country. Sr. Costa Pereira, a Minister of the empire, who had been escorted with the usual formalities at the opening of the discussion to a seat at the right of the President, explained in a few words the opinion of the government on the subject.

Brazilians generally feel the need of wider religious liberty. He did not see, therefore, any harm in adopting the measure. On the contrary, besides following the example of nations more advanced, it had the additional advantage of assisting immigration, which is to-day our greatest necessity. No one should say that we are making an innovation. Tolerance in this particular is universal in Brazil. In the province of Rio Grande do Sul, Santa Catharina and Sao Paulo, where the non-Catholics are most numerous, already exist Protestant temples, with many adornments, notwithstanding the constitutional restrictions. Loss of influence would not follow such an act for the State religion, since Catholicism has inherent force sufficient for its maintenance and propagation.

The Baron of Cotegipe, ex-Prime Minister, observed that, as the noble Minister had well said, liberty to profess any religion, other than that of the State, is a fact at present existing among us. Even before the adoption of the Constitution in 1819, services of non-Catholics were permitted in houses without the appearance of a temple. Custom has eliminated the constitutional restrictions. There are examples of houses devoted to non-Catholic services, which have the exterior form of a temple. It is sufficient to recall the fact which occurred in Santa Maria, province of Rio Grande do Sul. He would vote in favor of the project in silence, had he not some doubts as to its form, which might lead to the inference in Europe that there is no religious liberty in Brazil, and that a law was necessary to make free the celebration of worship other than Catholic. He thought that simply revoking the various clauses would suffice, suppressing the positive declaration of the project. If, however, it be clear in its present form, and if these observations of the orator would suffice in case they reach those countries, so that no one could have a false idea as to the liberty of worship in Brazil, he will not hesitate to give his vote to the bill just as drawn up. Senator Silveira Martins observed that the noble Senator only objected to the form of the bill, from the fear that it would appear in Europe that Brazil had been subject to religious intolerance. Tolerance is embedded in the Constitution, with the restriction of being prohibited in houses of worship with the exterior form of a temple, and that this prohibition should not be null. Section No. 276 of the criminal code has established the penalties for its infringement, so that the police have the right to prosecute offenders and order torn down houses not in accordance with Article V. of the Constitution. There is not, therefore, liberty of worship. The laws only tolerate the celebration of worship non-Catholic; so religious tolerance is a humiliation to the citizen. What the law contemplates and establishes as a natural right is, that each citizen may freely and fully profess the religion which he desires, so long as he does not break the laws of the nation. So he believes that the law is complete, and drawn up in shape, which does not leave the slightest doubt. He adds that it has to-day the seal of the utmost expediency. It is necessary and urgent to save the country from ruin. There is instant need (1) of liberty of all kinds, (2) of immigration on the largest scale. Clearly, without religious liberty it is impossible to obtain the latter object. He insists, therefore, on the adoption of the project. The Baron de Cotegipe had not confounded tolerance of worship with liberty of conscience, as the noble Senator imagined. We have complete liberty of conscience. The project only treats of publicity of worship. He agrees that this should be granted. His opinion was that, repeal the Article, and the code would then permit freedom of worship without any extraordinary restrictions. But the question is one of form. So he does not insist on his previous remark, which he might further unfold. Senor Alfonso Celso agrees with the noble Senator from Bahia, that it would be inexpedient to draw up the law in such a way as to give occasion to doubt that religious liberty had already existed in Brazil. There is, however, an alternative more to be avoided, and that is, to give the project, which has for its only purpose to secure the publicity of all religious services, such a form as not to exclude all difficulties or sources of embarrassment which hinder such publicity. The illustrious Baron de Cotegipe preferred the simple repeal of Section No. 276 of the code to the form in which the honorable Senator from Rio Grande do Sul had expressed his thought. The orator shows his excellency that this does not suffice to secure full publicity of worship: Repeal Section No. 276, still there remains Article No. 5 of the Constitution of the empire, which forbids the practice of religions, not that of the State, in edifices with the exterior form of a temple. Therefore, if the law were conceived in the terms desired by the noble Senator from Bahia, the project would not be realized. The noble Senator knows that no edifice can be constructed in towns or villages unless its plan be approved by the common council. There will be no lack of councils which will not permit the construction of any temple, evangelical, Protestant, etc., with architectural form of a church, basing their action on Article V. of the Constitution. (Expressions of approval.) It was this fact that had led to the present shape of the project.

The orator would be very glad if Europe would always have a high opinion of our country. He also desires that we may always so act in all things that public sentiment everywhere may be favorable to us. He declares, however, that when it becomes necessary to settle any question we should not keep thinking what they are going to think about us in Europe, or any other foreign land. (Hear! hear!). No one to govern his own household tries to know his neighbor's opinion. He adopts the plan which seems to him just and reasonable. (Applause). He considers the bill very well drawn up. A Senator asked what objection there is to omitting the positive declaration, simply repealing both article and section. Senator Silveira Martins replies that he did not write this bill on his knee. He wished to make a law which would guarantee every citizen the right to profess publicly the religion he preferred. We have tolerance. We do not have liberty of worship legally nor really, for here in the very capital of the empire there are cases of houses without external forms of temple, being stoned because used for worship by non-Catholics. Although not making a question of form, he thought the present shape the best to reach the desired end—i. e., the affirming of the right and perfect liberty of everyone in Brazil to profess, without the slightest restriction, the religion of his choice.—Put to votes, the law passed with division, and unamended.

Since the commencement of this letter, an evening paper of Rio de Janeiro conveys the news of the passage of the bill on third reading in the Senate without further discussion. It now goes to the House, and, without a doubt, freedom of worship in Brazil will be an assured fact at an early date.—Times-Democrat.

Knowledge unused for the good of others is more vain than unused gold.—Ruskin.

Letter from China.

The China Mission Conference met in Shanghai, October 11, and adjourned October 16. Bishop Wilson was present, and presided at every session. He had spent some two months in Japan, and reached China, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and the two new missionaries, Bros. Hendry and Hill, two days before the time appointed for the Conference session. His stay with us has been a blessing to us all. His wise counsel and earnest talks in the Conference and mission meetings are worth all the expense of time and money necessary for his visit. Such soul-stirring sermons as he preaches are seldom heard in this part of the world. The Board of Missions can well afford the expense of an episcopal visit to this mission occasionally, if not yearly, when such good results follow, as in the present case. No resident Bishop could do us anything like the good that one fresh from home can do. Mrs. Wilson's visit has also been productive of much good to all of us, and especially to the ladies.

The members of the Conference were all present except three of the (Chinese) lay delegates. The proceedings were conducted in English, and interpreted, where necessary, for the benefit of the Chinese members. The regular order of business of an Annual Conference was followed, and the Conference adjourned from time to time for the purpose of holding mission meetings, to make estimates for the expenses of the work for the year 1889-90.

The ladies' meetings were held in the afternoon of each day, and by special invitation from them, the members of the Conference attended their meetings as far as practicable.

One preacher, Li Tz Ni, was received on trial. Two others applied for admission on trial; but, as there was some irregularity in their applications, they could not be received, and they will have to hold over till the next session of the Conference. Three men were received into full connection—W. B. Burke, J. L. Hendry and C. J. Soon. W. B. Burke was ordained deacon, and he and J. L. Hendry were ordained elders. M. B. Hill was received by transfer from the Little Rock Conference. Our Conference now numbers ten members in full connection. May we never have our number depleted again in such a manner as when the Lambuths and Dukes were transferred to Japan, and Royall and Gimgledorff returned to America. I trust the difficulty in this mission that caused those men to leave has been effectually settled at our recent meeting, and will never arise to trouble us again and cause the loss of our men.

Reports from the work show progress in every department. Though our progress is apparently slow, yet there is no doubt that it is sure, and we have reason to thank God and take courage. There are now 284 members belonging to our church in China, an increase of 59 for the past year. We have 36 schools, altogether, under our care now, including those belonging to the Woman's Board, with a total of 860 pupils in them. Two churches, one in Shanghai and the other in Suchow, supported their native pastors the past year, and paid all the running expenses of the churches. Besides this, the native and foreign members contributed some $715 for Conference missions, and $170 for foreign missions, and $30 for the Bishops' fund. The amount contributed for Conference missions was appropriated by our Conference Board of Missions to opening up a new station in the city of Chang Shuh, and to the support of an Anglo-Chinese school in Sung Kiang. Of the whole amount thus contributed, the 260 native members gave some $270.

APPOINTMENTS.

SHANGHAI DISTRICT.—C. F. Reid, P. E. Shanghai station, C. F. Reid—two to be supplied (by Sz Tz-kin and Tsen Tz-vong); College station, Y. J. Allen; Tsih Pan circuit, to be supplied (by Doug Moh-sang); Sung Kiang circuit, W. B. Burke—two to be supplied (by Dzeng Yong-king and Dzeng Sun-tseng); Nansiang circuit, M. B. Hill—two to be supplied (by Dzeng Dzing-san and Seng Yuon-peh); Anglo-Chinese College, Y. J. Allen, president—W. B. Bonnell, professor.

SUCHOW DISTRICT.—D. L. Anderson, P. E. Suchow station, A. P. Parker; Suchow circuit; J. L. Hendry, C. F. Lochr; Kwen-shan circuit, C. J. Soon; Loh Jeh circuit, to be supplied (by Tsa Vong-tsang); Jaug Yoh circuit, Li Tz Ni; Dong Li circuit and Hospital Chapel, C. K. Marshall; Bullington Institute, A. P. Parker, principal.

A. P. PARKER.

SUCHOW, Oct. 24, 1888.

East Texas Conference.

MR. EDITOR: The forty-fourth session of this Conference met in the town of Crockett, November 28. The investigation relative to the work of the past year showed no very great improvements on any special line, but an advancement in all departments that called forth thanks-giving to our heavenly Father. A goodly number of things worked propitiously to the annual gathering. The good people of Crockett know how to provide for a Conference, and, knowing how, they provide. The preachers were in good spirits. Most of them seemed to have been well fed, though their reports marked, for the most part, small salaries. This was generally due to, or attributed to, the too much and too little rains. Bishop Duncan thinks that the wet and dry districts of Texas are indefinite expansion. Notwithstanding the shortage referred to, about [illegible] thousand dollars, in cash and subscription, was raised during the Conference. Preachers know how to [illegible] It is not unusual for them to give when they feel it. The harmony of the session was beautiful. Preachers and laymen did not forget where they were, and for what purpose. There was a careful inquiry into all the interests of the church without any debate waxing warm. The appointments show many changes, more than usual, but very general satisfaction. On the part of the preachers, I have not heard an expression of dissatisfaction, and at this writing most of them are in their new fields of labor.

During the year one of our number was removed by death. Five transfers were received, and five transferred to other Conferences. Of those who went from us, known to your readers, was Bro. W. W. Hopper. God greatly blessed his labors in Texas. Prayers follow him to his new field, or rather his old one. He goes to Mississippi, whence he came three years ago. Bro. J. W. Tinnin has also returned to the Mississippi Conference. Four were admitted on trial. One of these, Watson Bradford, is a son of Rev. D. P. Bradford, of the Mississippi Conference.

The Conference love-feast will live in the minds of those who attended. There was present the old man who had lived and preached Christ for many years, and now awaits the Master's call; but there was also present the "converted Jew," living and preaching Christ, while his mother's door is closed against him. The mother writes: "You can never return while you are a Methodist preacher." The son replies: "Then I must stay away." Who will say that the cross of Christ is no longer offensive?

Brethren representing connectional interests came, did their work, and left. Dr. Morton pushed church extension; Bro. Dunlap talked and sang, and asked for $1.50. Got it, and more. Brevel A. Lyon—that prince of Sunday-school workers, looked up the Publishing House interest.

Yielding to an expressed wish of the Conference, Bishop Duncan preached a thanksgiving sermon. It was judged to be "curious, suggestive, sensible." It provoked thought and suggested many topics for conversation. The Bishop is a willing worker, and while in Texas he is permitted to put in all his time. His second visit to this Conference has made him the better understood and the more loved. A hearty welcome awaits him whenever he may return to this great State, which so much needs episcopal supervision. Fraternally,

CHAS. F. SMITH.

SAN AUGUSTINE, Texas.

Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1888.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

A MERRY CHIME FROM THE POET'S TOWER.

Chime out, O joyful bells
All worldly discords drown!
Wield every heart, O Cross,
To make a Christmas crown;
Give praise, rest, O earth!
Mercy, peace, goodwill be kept
That he who comes this day
May never more depart.

—Youth's Companion

List, happy hearts, the holy theme
Draw forth the first glad strain from sight,
O Earth, for the last word light
The light that shone when Hope was born.

—Tennyson.

Ye bells the Day Christ was born,
Be this, as ever, our carol still—
Be peace on earth, be peace on earth,
Be peace of gentle will.

Thackeray.

With gentle deeds and kindly thoughts,
And loving words without,
Welcome the merry Christmas in,
And hear a brother's call.

—L. Lawrence.

Sound over all waters, reach out from all lands,
The chorus of voices, the clasping of hands;
Sing hymns that were sung by the stars of the morn,
Sing songs of the angels when Jesus was born!

—Whittier.

Who laugh'd mankind on this first Christmas day
What 'twas to be a man; to give, not take;
To serve, not rule; to nourish, not devour;
To help, not crush; if need, to die, not live?

—Charles Kingsley.

This happy day, whose risen sun
Shall set not through eternity;
This holy day when Christ, the Lord,
Took on him our humanity.

—Phœbe Cary.

The happy Christmas comes once more,
The heavenly Guest is at the door;
The blessed words the shepherds thrill,
The joyous tidings—Peace, good-will
The bellmen of all Christendom
Now roll along
The unbroken song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men.

—Longfellow.

But the star that shines in Bethlehem
Shines still, and shall not cease;
And we listen still to the tidings
Of glory and of peace.

—Adelaide A. Procter.

The poor will many a care forget;
The doctor thinks not of his debts;
But as they each enjoy their cheer,
Wish it was Christmas all the year.

—Thomas Miller.

It is his birthday—His, the only One
Who ever made life's meaning wholly plain;
Dawn is here on our night

—Lucy Larcom.

Christ is born! Tell both his fame!
Christ from heaven! his love proclaim!
Christ on earth! exalt his name!
Sing to the Lord, O world, with exultation,
Break forth in filial thanksgiving, every nation,
For he hath triumphed gloriously!

—S. Cosmos.

At Christmas be merry and thankful withal,
And feast thy poor neighbors, the great with the small.

—Thomas Tusser.

This day
Shall change all griefs and quarrels into love.

—Shakespeare.

(Vincent and Holway's Lesson Commentary, Phillips & Hunt, New York.)

Sunday-School Lesson.—Dec. 30.

TEMPERANCE LESSON.

Numbers vi, 1-4.

TIME.—B. C. 1490.

PLACE.—The valley of Er Rahah, at the foot of Mount Sinai.

1, 2. When either man or woman shall separate themselves—The verb which is here used denotes the doing something wonderful or extraordinary, and the spiritual lesson seems to be that Christ's servants are expected and required to do something more than others. To vow a vow of a Nazarite—Nazarite, should in strictness be written Naziute. The accepted spelling has, no doubt, prevailed among Christians from its being supposed that this vow is referred to Matthew ii. 23. Man or woman might voluntarily determine to be such. Only the vow of a woman, that was dependent on her father or on her husband, was conditioned on the acquiescence of the masculine head. The word "Nazarite" signifies one who is separated. The Lord himself set apart Samson and John the Baptist before their birth to be Nazarites all their days: Samuel was devoted by his mother to be a perpetual Nazarite, when he was "asked of the Lord;" and the family of the Rechabites were a sort of Nazarites from one generation to another, by the injunction of Jonadab their progenitor. But in general the Nazarites became such by a voluntary vow, which any person might make, of peculiar separation from the world and devotedness to the exercises of religion, for a limited time, and under certain regulations. Among the distinguished favors which God conferred on Israel, it is stated that he raised up of their young men for Nazarites;" whence we may infer that their prayers, examples and instructions were considered as a public blessing. The Jews say that this vow could not be made for less than thirty days; but St. Paul seems to have taken it for no more than seven days. Dr. Lightfoot supposes that the leper, being the most defiled and loathsome of creatures, was an emblem of the wretched, miserable state of man by the fall: and that the Nazarite was the emblem of man in his state of innocence. Wine and grapes are here particularly forbidden to the Nazarite because, as the doctor thinks, being an emblem of man in his paradisaical state, he was forbidden that tree and its fruits by eating of which Adam fell: for the doctor, as well as the Jewish rabbins, believed the tree of knowledge to have been none other than the vine. To separate themselves unto the Lord—The words with which the law is introduced show not only that the vow of the Nazarite was a matter of free choice, but that it was a mode of practicing godliness and piety already customary among the people. The origin of this custom is involved in obscurity. There is no certain clue to indicate that it was derived from Egypt, for the so-called hair-offering vows are met with among several ancient tribes, and have no special relation to the Nazarite, while vows of abstinence were common to all the religions of antiquity. The mere abstinence from the use of wine did not of itself alone make a Nazarite. This is proved by the family of the Rechabites, who formed a sort of hereditary abstinence society in the midst of Israel, according to a command of their patriarch Jonadab. The same thing occurred now and then in the Orient, and finally in Mohammedanism became a law of world-wide influence. On the completion of his Nazariteship the Nazarite might again drink wine; a proof that the abstinence was sanctioned only for a special object.

3. Shall separate himself from wine and strong drink—The law of the Nazarite in this respect, as in regard to defilement from the dead, was more strict than that which was enjoined upon the priests, thus typifying the entire surrender of the heart and life to God, and freedom from the distraction of earthly ties. The ideal of this separation, however, was not that of a life of monastic seclusion, but of action, and of uninterrupted devotion to the divine service. The priests were forbidden to drink wine or strong drink when they entered the tabernacle to perform service there, but were not prohibited the use of wine at other times. "Strong drink" is supposed to have been made of barley and dates or honey. Shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink—Not even the sour varieties of wine and strong drink. This is exactly the same prohibition that was given in the case of John the Baptist. (Luke i. 15.) Wine and sikera he shall not drink. Any inebriating liquor, says St. Jerome, is called sikera, whether made of corn, apples, honey, dates, or other fruit. One of the four prohibited drinks among the Mohammedans in India is called sakar, which signifies inebriating drink in general, but especially date wine or arrack. From the original word probably we have borrowed our term cider, or sider, which, among us, exclusively signifies the fermented juice of apples. Neither ... drink any liquor of grapes—Unfermented juice; but Cook says, "a drink made of grape skins macerated in water." Says Scott: "Drinking wine, or strong drink of any sort, is an emblem, both in its nature and effects, of the intoxicating pleasures of sin and sense; and from this, in every form, and from all approaches to it, the Nazarites were commanded most scrupulously to abstain. There is nothing in Scripture which bears the most remote affinity to the religious orders of the Church of Rome, except these Nazarites; but mark the difference, or rather the opposition. The religious in that church are forbidden to marry, but no such restriction was laid upon the Nazarites. They are commanded to abstain from meats, but the Nazarites might eat any food allowed to other Israelites. They are not generally prohibited wine, even on fasting days, but the Nazarites might not drink it at any time. Their vow is perpetual to the end of their lives, but the Nazarite's vow was only for a limited time, at his own discretion, and in certain cases not unless allowed by husbands or parents. A similar contrast may often be discerned between the rules of men's invention for fasting and for extraordinary sanctity and the precepts of Scripture. Nor eat moist grapes, or dried—Which was forbidden him for greater caution to keep him at the further distance from wine. The design of this prohibition can hardly have been merely that by abstaining from intoxicating drink the Nazarite might preserve perfect clearness and temperance of mind, like the priests when engaged in their duties, and so conduct himself as one sanctified to the Lord; but it goes much further, and embraces entire abstinence from all the delicate carats by which holiness could be impaired. Vinegar, fresh and dried grapes, and food prepared from grapes and raisins, for example, raisin-cakes, are not intoxicating; but grape-cakes, as being the dainties sought after by epicures and debauchees, are cited in Hosea iii. 1, as a symbol of the sensual attractions of idolatry, a luxurious kind of food, that was not in harmony with the solemnity of the worship of Jehovah. The Nazarite was to avoid everything that proceeded from the vine, because its fruit was regarded as the sum and substance of all sensual enjoyments.

4. All the days of his separation—The Nazarite vow was taken at first for a particular time, at the close of which the separation terminated with release from the vow. This is the only form in which it is taken into consideration, or rules are laid down for it in the law before us. In after times, however, we find life-long Nazarites among the Israelites; for example, Samson, Samuel, and John the Baptist, who were vowed or dedicated to the Lord by their parents even before they were born. Eat nothing ... made of the vine-tree, from the kernels even to the husk—The word which is rendered kernels is supposed by some to denote sour grapes, and by others the kernels of berries. The word zag denotes the shell or husk. A sour drink was made from the stones of unripe grapes, and cakes were also made of the husks. These latter appear from Hosea iii. 1, to have been regarded as a delicacy. These regulations forbid the Nazarite using wine or any other product into which the vine or its fruit enters. The Flamen Dialis among the Romans was forbidden to touch a vine, or even to walk under one.

A Few Words about Sunday-Schools.

As we think, talk and write upon the subject of Sunday-schools, it is important that we should notice something concerning the origin of Sunday-schools. The modern Sunday-school is not of man's discovery or invention; much less is it of his creation. It is a growth from the Sunday-school soul-culture hidden in the heart of man from the beginning, and hinted at in primeval sacrifices. God said concerning Abraham: "I know him that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the Lord to do justice and judgment, that the Lord may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him." The duty of teaching in the principles of religion stands as a distinct and unequivocal clause in the original constitution of the church of God. When Moses gave his valedictory address to the children of Israel while acting under the divine sanction, rehearsed the law of Sinai, and, speaking with equal authority, said: "Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord: and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy might. And these words which I command thee this day shall be in thine heart, and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children." The Jewish synagogues (said to have numbered, in Jerusalem alone, over four hundred and fifty) furnished the model after which the services of the primitive Christian Church were, for the most part, fashioned. These were admirably adapted for securing the people systematic instruction in the Scriptures. Passages referring to public exercises in the synagogues indicate that they were held on the Sabbath day. In its principal features the Sunday-school services of our day closely resemble that of the ancient synagogues. Mosheims says "that there can be no doubt but that the children of Christians were carefully trained up from infancy." As to the manner in which these schools were organized and conducted, we are not able to say. While they may have differed from the catechumenical schools, they were like our schools. Their aim was to impart a knowledge of the letter and meaning of the Holy Scriptures, and to develop a life of faith in the people. According to statistics, we find that in the year 1527 Sunday-schools were established by Luther at Wittenberg in Prussia; in the year 1560 by John Knox in Scotland, and toward the close of the sixteenth century in Lombardy, Italy, by Barromeo, Archbishop of Milan. In the celebrated Cathedral of Milan there is now a large school taught by the priest, said to have been kept up with slight intermissions, since his day. In the eighteenth century Sunday-schools were established in various parts of England. The first of which we have knowledge of in the United States was one at Roxbury, Mass., in 1674, and one at Plymouth, Mass., in 1680. It is well known that John Wesley organized a successful school at Savannah, Ga., as early as 1736, and one, established at Ephrata, Lancaster county, Penn., in 1747; and these schools continued uninterrupted for more than thirty years until the building in which it was held was taken for a hospital during the Revolutionary War. One great epoch in Sunday-school history begins with the founding of the Gloucester School by Robert Raikes in the year 1780. In four years from the organization of Raikes' school more than two hundred and fifty thousand children in England were enjoying the blessings of Sunday-school instruction. In 1780 Sunday-schools were practically unknown. In 1880 there were in the bounds of Protestant Christendom not less than one and a half million of teachers and twelve and a half million of pupils in our Sunday-schools: a total of fourteen million.

Reviewing the whole subject, we are led by a careful examination of facts and related evidence to the following conclusion that the Sunday-school has accomplished a wonderful work under the guidance and direction of Almighty God. In the second place, we notice something concerning the design and object of the Sunday-school. It is to bring souls to Christ, and then build them up in Christ. The principle of saving souls should be held in constant remembrance as the only true criterion in estimating the value of Sunday-schools anywhere and everywhere. The chief instrument in the accomplishment of this work is the written Word of God. We are willing to be taught from the pulpit; why should we not be willing to be taught from the pew? Sunday-school is the place to start children right, and to successfully point them to the "Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." The Sunday-school is not a place of sport and laughter: it is a place of moral and religious training. The Sunday-school is something of very great necessity. It keeps children from doing many things on the Sabbath-day that they might do if it were not for the Sunday-school.

The last and all-important question is: Who shall compose a Sunday-school? We answer: All people—grown people as well as children. When Moses gave his address to the children of Israel, he included old and young. There is not anything that is as beneficial, beautiful and lovely as to spend the beautiful Sabbaths that God has given us in the sanctuary of the Most High, benefiting our neighbors, and being benefited by our neighbors.

Dear brethren and friends, let us wake up to this great line of church work. May God bless the dear parents and children in this gospel land of ours!

H. J. BOLTZ.

ADVENT SONG.

BY G. G. W. G.

O gates, from out your portals wide
There comes a wondrous melody;
It floats on high in ether clear,
And brings the joy of heaven more near;
Before the throne adoring hosts
Bend low in ecstacy of love;
"Glory to God on high!" their song,
And answering echoes the spires prolong.
Earth wrapt in night's dark sable lay
Awaiting now the coming day,
And, trembling on the east, so drear,
Earth sees the glorious Star appear.
The shepherds wake from out their sleep,
Bewildered with the minstrelsy—
Descending angels chant to them
Of "Peace on earth, good-will to men."
O golden gates, unfold! unfold!
Rural forth, O song, with love untold!
Thou Star, shine on in glory bright,
Eternal messenger of light.
Earth unto heaven gives back the praise,
That ransomed nature now may raise!
Redeemed through Christ from sin and shame,
Exalt and magnify his name.

—Watchman.

Christmas Customs.

The 25th of December is the day on which the sun is near the most southern point in its apparent annual journey, and for so long as we have historical record, it has been celebrated by ceremonies and rejoicings. The Hindoos on this day decorate their homes with garlands of flowers and papers of gold and tinsel; and the custom of making presents to relatives and friends is universally observed. The Egyptians recognized it by their festival in honor of the birth of their god Horus. In China it is a general holiday, the shops are shut, and the courts closed. No journey would, under any circumstances, be commenced on this day. The Persians kept it as the birthday of Mithras, the mediator, a spirit of the sun, with ceremonies of uncommon splendor. The old Romans held high festival in honor of Bacchus, rejoicing with him that the sun was about to return and revivify the vineyards. They designated the day the birthday of the invincible sun.

There is no record that the birthday of Jesus the Christ was observed till the second century. At the suggestion of Pope Telesphorus some of the Eastern Churches recognized the 6th of January as the day, while those of the West added it to other celebrations in the last week of December. In the fourth century Pope Julius made an order assembling the chief theologians of the time, for the purpose of examining all evidence bearing upon the date of the birth of Jesus, that they should, if possible, fix the day, in order that its observance might be universal. After due deliberation, they decided that it was on December 25. This decision was, at the time, believed by many of the fathers in the church to be erroneous, and they went so far as to assert that the examiners had been biased in their decision by the desire to please the public, to whom this day had already come to be a noted one. Popular feeling, however, sustained the council in their decision, which was finally universally accepted and commemorated, although it is now generally believed to be wrong.

On the publication of the decision the Roman Church decreed and instituted special prayers to priests, to be said on that day, which are known as Christ masses. But we find another derivation for the name. The old Saxons had a word Maessa, by which they designated all days freed from labor, whether holidays or fast days. The holidays kept in remembrance of the birth of Christ were Christ maessa. The spread of the Christian religion carried with it the observance of Christmas as a religious festival with which became connected other observances varying with the customs and habits of different nations.

With the Germans, Christmas is esteemed the "Children's Festival," and with them originated the world-famous myth of "Saint Nicholas," alias "Santa Claus," alias "Kris Kringle," the patron of Yule-tide, and the friend of all proper boys and prettily behaved girls. Happily the reforms in the observance of the day, which began in Germany, reached and were copied in other portions of Europe. Christmas is also now "Children's Day" in England and France. In toys and confections for the period the children are distinctly remembered in Italy; and in America the Christmas tree, the "stockings hung by the chimney with care," and the harmless merry games and innocent glee of childhood supplant much of the boisterous carousal which once tended to render the day rollicking and riotous. It was formerly the custom, and is still the practice in some of the small villages in North Germany, to commission the personage of "Knecht Rupert," corresponding with our "Santa Claus," to distribute all the presents made by parents and friends to children. Disguised by a mask, wearing an enormous flaxen beard, clad in a long white robe and shod in tall buckskins, "Knecht Rupert" went from house to house, was received by the parents with great ceremony, called for the children, and, after the strictest investigation into their deserving, dispensed gifts accordingly. "Santa Claus," we all know, reports himself differently.—Western Christian Advocate.

Christmas Music in England.

In this country the observance of Xmas tide is almost entirely ignored; but in Europe many old-time honored customs are still preserved with affectionate interest. In England, especially, is this the case. Carol singing is still popular, and in many districts the members of the church choir are accustomed to a house-to-house visitation on Xmas Eve, for the purpose of regaling the inhabitants of the parish with their minstrelsy. The carols themselves are for the most part quaint old ditties having reference to the event commemorated at this season. In different parts of the country different traditional carols are in vogue, and in some instances those of a secular and jovial character are heard. After the performance it is customary to exchange seasonable salutations, and a loving cup is not infrequently introduced and partaken of in token of "peace and good-will."

The "waits" also constitute another relic of olden times. They are in the habit of commencing operations at least a fortnight before Xmas Day, and make night more or less hideous by their indifferent performance of altogether inappropriate compositions on various instruments, wind and string. Like the bard singers these can trace their origin to the Norman era, when the minstrels were wont to indulge in similar perambulations.

It is also customary to celebrate the Nativity by indoor festivities, in which music is an important feature. This is more particularly the case in the old collegiate cities of Oxford and Cambridge.

At Magdalen College, Oxford, on Xmas Eve, large numbers from the college assemble in the Hall at ten P. M. The chapel choir, aided by amateurs, take part in the performance of the first part of Handel's "Messiah." All then participate in the feast of good things with which the tables are spread. When the hour of midnight sounds, Pergolesi's "Gloria in Excelsis" is given; then the singing of carols is commenced and continues until the "wee sma' hours," when all who care to do so are permitted to ascend the far-famed tower and aid in ringing a merry peal to usher in the joyous season.

At Queens College, Oxford, when all are assembled in the Hall for dinner on Xmas Eve, a boar's head gaily decorated with ribbons and flowers, is carried in by four stalwart cooks, during which ceremony the "Boar's Head Carol" is sung. This ancient custom owes its origin to the following legend:

Some centuries since the master (or principal) of the college was piously reading his breviary (for they were Roman Catholic times), while walking around the park attached to Magdalen College, when he was attacked by a wild boar. With admirable presence of mind he hurled his book at the open jaws of his adversary, and with such adroitness that it stuck in the brute's throat and choked him. Such is the legend, but it may be accepted cum grano salis, although the ancient tradition is religiously preserved at Oxford.

The repertoire of English church music especially adapted for use at Xmas services is well-nigh inexhaustible, and much of it has become exceedingly popular here. Hopkins, Smart, Sullivan, Barnby, Garrett, Stainer, are perhaps the most popular amongst contemporary composers, but their predecessors have also contributed works that will ever retain their hold on the musical public.

Extracts from "The Messiah," Bach's Xmas Oratorio, are also still in vogue. For organ voluntaries Guilmant's Christmas Offertoires, and other similar works by modern organ composers, afford a large field for selection. The musical associations that cling to the remembrances of the Xmas of childhood are specially characteristic of English life, and may be regarded as valuable adjuncts to the promotion of truly religious feeling.—Musical Herald.

An Answer from Lake Charles.

MR. EDITOR: The Lake Charles correspondent of the Southwestern Methodist was as far from any intentional reflection on the New Orleans Methodist pastorate as he was from charging an angel with sin. In such a correspondence space for full statement is not found. As brief as the paragraph was, there were two distinct trains of thought: the present, as compared with other parts of the State where revivals had prevailed; the past, covering the history of Methodism in New Orleans, "as compared with other cities," etc. There was, in spirit, no reflection on anyone, much less the present intelligent, zealous, hard-working ministry, from the presiding elder to the weakest appointment. The question of pastoral work, class meetings, assessments met, size of congregations, etc., never entered the mind of the writer. No general or special revival had been reported. In other parts of the State such had been. It is known to the writer that New Orleans Methodism can boast of specially godly men and women, lovers of the class meeting, of the prayer meeting, and whose money is likewise consecrated to God. If the paragraph had been the text of the letter, many reasons could have been given for Methodism's failure in New Orleans, as compared to other New Orleans denominations and other cities in our connection. The general statement of the matter is one of common observation among preachers and laymen in and out of the city.

Do me the justice, please, to publish this note. I disclaim any and all intention of reflecting on any brother in the ministry, or any laymen of New Orleans Methodism. I think much has been accomplished, in the last two or three years, in the right direction. And taking this work as the basis, the hope was that a widespread revival would come with this year. In the Methodist sense of the word, it did not come. And this was the genesis of the offending paragraph.

SOUTHWESTERN LOUISIANA.

(Lake Charles Correspondent S. W. Methodist.)

Our correspondent stated that, as compared "with other points in Louisiana, Methodism in New Orleans had been a failure." We admitted that Methodism might not have advanced here as much as in some other cities, but denied the statement that, "as compared with other points in Louisiana," it had made a failure this year. A good deal depends upon the meaning of the word "failure." We think advance in number of members and in contributions to the cause of God does not indicate failure. The preachers reported last Monday morning 270 members added this year to the English Churches in our city. There are three German Churches not counted. This is an advance of 16 per cent. on last year's statistics. Now, if there has been a like advance in "other points in Louisiana," the whole increase will amount to 2,600. No man who has studied our rate of increase can believe for a moment that such an increase will be reported. So that the probabilities are, that instead of "New Orleans Methodism being a failure, as compared with other points in Louisiana," it will come out ahead of most of them.—EDITOR.

Christmas.

The intensity of modern life and the deepening of consciousness through intelligence breeds sadness. We think too much and work too hard to have time for enjoyment, and if we suddenly discover that we have need of it, we take it in inordinate quantities, rather than in simple and natural ways; we go out and buy pleasure at so much the hour instead of somehow contriving to live a mirthful life. Close observers of modern society, like Walter Besant, have discovered that a main lack in the lives of the poor is that of cheer, and he urges that philanthropic plans should embrace measures for daily brightening the lives of the people by some simple experience of a pleasurable sort. It would be a somber fact if the number of those who live through a day without a laugh or even a smile could be ascertained—strange miscarriage of Nature, since man is the only being within her dominion who is capable of that action. Christmas has rendered the world this good service, that now for many centuries it has called men to sympathetic cheerfulness. It comes, indeed, but once a year, but for some days the cloud on the brow of humanity lifts a little and the wail dies out of its voice. At times it has been too obstreperous in its mirth and called for puritanic check, but for the most it has been true to its origin and stirred the human heart to sympathetic gladness and hope. We shall soon hear the growls of the pessimistic critic over the wastefulness of Christmas gifts and the irrationality of Christmas mirth. Heed him not: he does not know that the key-note of the universe is joy, and that Christmas laughter is only a stray echo of an eternal hymn, and nearly the only one that has reached us, and that it is well worthy of being caught if we would ever hear the whole. Therefore, fathers, give gifts to your children, even if you have to lessen the daily portion, remembering the wisdom of Mahomet, who said that if "he had two loaves of bread, he would sell one and by hyacinths, for they would feed his soul." And, ye children, stir up your fathers to mirth; Christmas comes but once a year, and the years left to them may not be many.—The Century.

Sharps and Flats.

The church "sharp" is usually a person of nervous, excitable temperament, with a perpetual itching to suggest something new, and to criticise everything that did not originate with himself. The church, in his estimation, consists of a "man and his environment;" and he is the "man" —the rest merely "environment." He believes he has a "patent" on all church action, and is in perpetual fear of its "infringement;" and when any movement is started without his advice first had and obtained, his grammar seems to narrow down to the objective mood and perfect tense. Nor does he ever seem to doubt his competency to dictate in everything. He can instruct his pastor how to preach, though he is almost as ignorant of the Bible as a Hottentot; how to baptize, how to conduct the prayer meetings, how to perform pastoral work, though what he does not know of any of these things would make, if published, no inconsiderable library. He can instruct the choir how to sing, though he does not know a musical note from a pig track in the sand. But the "sharps" are not all male, and the female variety is certainly not better—perhaps, worse—than the male. With all the self-conceit and self-sufficiency of her masculine relation, she has the peculiar feminine quickness to apprehend a trespass on her prerogatives, and readiness of tongue to herald her grievances. She is also more inventive. She never seems to look at anything in connection with church work but with a view of seeing how she can suggest a change, an improvement. And she always sees it. That plans are working admirably, and that her proposed change is an untried experiment, does not deter her. The proposed change must be made, and at once, or she "sulks," afflicting her righteous soul with the consciousness of injured merit and unappreciated talent. Alas! for the church afflicted, as many of them are, with both male and female "sharps." Whoever else may succeed, its numbers are sure to reach heaven only "through much tribulation."

The church "flat" is a different being, if that can be called a being, which has only existence, without life or activity. Seeming to have drifted into the church for want of energy to keep out, the "flat" never ceases to drift. Apparently as incapable of life or intelligent purpose as a dead log whirled along on the spring tide, his only motion is that imparted by the currents and counter-currents that float him on. As he never expects to take any part in doing anything, he has, at least, the grace, or he is too indolent, to oppose anything. Hence, he is never found in the objective mood. The "flat" is always in the promising mood, and in the future, imperfect tense. He was never known to fail to promise to aid in anything his church undertakes, nor ever found to have kept his promise. He never denies an obligation, and never meets it. If you ask him to come to Sunday-school, he is sure he ought to come, and will—next Sunday—but never comes. If you ask him to attend prayer meeting, he is quite sure it is his duty, and he is hurting himself by its neglect—he will be on hand next time—but he is not, then, or afterwards. If you ask him to give to the cause of Christ, no one seems to enjoy the opportunity of subscribing more than he—but he feels that the full measure of his duty is met when he has subscribed—he never thinks of paying. Thus he floats on, a religious drone, a spiritual nonentity. But he is excessively good humored. If he has no other merit, he has this, at least he is not a "sharp," and, grateful for this fact, the church tolerates him. Like the "natural" in the social circle, presently no one expects more from him than a good-humored grin over an incurable incapacity, of which he seems so totally unconscious.

Blessed of the Lord the church with neither "sharps" nor "flats!"—Christian Index.

Spiritual Habits.

If it is true that every man is a creature of habit, it is also true that habits are the creation of every man. Each comes to do things without thought or choice, which at first required thought, prolonged and careful attention. Habit becomes more than second nature: it becomes first nature. Habit is a habitation. Man comes into the world with habits as mere possibilities. Man goes out of the world with habits binding him as chains. An animal comes into the world with instincts as perfect the first day of their use as the last. Man creeps many weeks before he is able to perform the simple yet complex act of walking. Habit is also a labor-saving machine. Acts that at first required attention and thought, become automatic. Rousseau said that the only habit that a child should be permitted to acquire, is that it habituate itself to nothing in particular. But we may say that the chief habit which a child, which anyone, should acquire, is that he should habituate himself to the good, both in general and particular. One should become so habituated to goodness, that he can hardly help being good.

For the Christian there are certain habits which he should acquire early. Among them is the habit of attendance upon the public service, and doing the work of the church. The importance of this work and this attendance is evident. To debate whether one should attend a meeting of prayer, or to pause before the duty of Christian service, to balance the arguments and objections as to becoming a more devoted church member, is somewhat like the sun's debating whether it will rise, or the ocean tides discussing whether they will ebb and flow. This is a question settled, a verdict rendered, a case closed. These are to belong to the Christian as habits and to become as natural to him as to put on a glove. The opponents of Dr. Thomas Arnold charged him with getting up each morning with the idea that every conviction and opinion was open to question.

Another spiritual habit which a Christian should form is that of generosity. No habit more thoroughly characterizes men than that of looking upon their gifts in either a generous or a niggardly fashion. Man can look at money and life through a microscope, and a nickel becomes larger than a dollar; or with a telescope, and only the largets objects can be seen at all. The Christian should accustom himself to the largest things and not allow himself to fall into that mood which is characterized by that stinging, aspish word, "stingy." He should begin early to tithe the dimes, and it will be easy to tithe the dollars, and easy and more than easy to tithe and more than tithe the tens of thousands.

A third habit which is important for the Christian to form is that of reading the Bible and of praying. Of course, we all acknowledge the importance of devotion. We all acknowledge that the Bible is God's book. We all acknowledge the power of prayer. But we can receive the full benefit of devotion only as we form the habit of devotion. And that habit is formed only by him who reads the Bible with constant regularity. Only as one follows step by step that life beginning at Bethlehem and ending at Calvary, can he know that life. That day is a day of retreat, in which the Christian does not read his Bible. To debate whether one has time to read it is to determine whether one has time to live. To debate whether the one is always attractive is like debating whether one is always attractive to himself. To debate whether one ought to read it because he does not understand all its sayings, is to debate whether one will eat his breakfast because he does not know the name of the mills that ground the flour for its bread. To debate whether it is better not to read it except when the mood is on one, is to debate whether it is better to be a creature of blind impulse, than a man of sense and Christian reason.

The habit of prayer is hardly less important than the habit of reading the Bible. Professor Phelps, in that classic, the Still Hour, writes of the absence of God in prayer, of continuance in prayer, of the aid of the Holy Ghost in prayer, and of the reality of Christ in prayer, but he fails to make specific mention of the habit of prayer. Yet the whole book must and does bear testimony to the duty and privilege of this habit of prayer. For, what is the "still hour" but the season which each soul should set apart for itself, still for the meditation on divine love, still for the lifting of the soul to him who bent the heavens and came down, still for prayer to him who keeps as calm amid the praisings and cursings of men. It is through constant and earnest communion with God in prayer that one comes into the nearest fellowship with God himself.

The first years are the years for the formation of habits, and the first years of the Christian life are the years for the formation of Christian habits. It is, therefore, of peculiar importance that the young Christian should make every wise endeavor for the formation of right habits, as to attendance upon the services of the church, as to the work of the church, as to generosity in giving and as to his personal devotions.—Advance.

Stooping to Save Souls.

A woman died in Philadelphia on the second of January who has in herself done more to solve the problem of how to heal the breach between the so-called "higher" and "lower" classes than all the wise plans and resolutions adopted by ecclesiastical bodies. She was herself a woman of elegant refinement, wealthy, beautiful in feature and character, lovely in disposition, generous and charitable. But instead of identifying herself and all her family with one of the wealthy and aristocratic churches, she deliberately joined a church mostly and almost exclusively composed of the working people. She became a teacher in the Sunday-school, and practically the pastor of the entire parish, which her large class constituted. She visited each member of the class systematically, and they were not social calls either, but spiritual visits, dealing directly with souls. When they were sick she went to them on foot, and in humble attire; she carried them little dainties, she read her Bible at their bedside, she knelt and prayed with them, she inquired of their spiritual condition, and directed them to Jesus. No pastoral care became needful where that woman went. She declined invitations to social parties that she might be free to devote her time to the Lord's work. She might be bearing a sorrow that would have crushed another woman, but no one would ever suspect it behind that cheerful face. She was one among the people with whom she was identified. There was no sign of conscious superiority. Into the prayer meetings and missionary circles and Dorcas gatherings she went, just as though she had no high blood, no social rank, no ample purse. Everybody loved her. The poorest work-woman would drop everything and go at her call or beck, as though they were serving a queen. Her last act was to rise from her dying bed, as her disease suddenly developed fatal symptoms, and write out checks to cover various benevolent expenditures, and among others a contribution to the church of which she was a member, and which just then was making heroic efforts to cancel a large mortgage debt. She wrote her checks with a clear, firm hand, and went back to bed to die.

When the news of her decease came like a thunder-clap from a clear sky, a hush fell on the entire people as though the ground were trembling with an earthquake. They could scarcely speak to one another. The prayer meeting ended in sobs and tears. We talk of missions. There is no trouble in reaching souls, but it takes a soul to do it. When we are in dead earnest—when all else is practically trampled under foot in our intense desire and determination to bring souls near to God—when self-indulgence gives way, and even self-love, before the burning, consuming flame of devotion to Christ and those for whom he died, we shall sweep earth as with a conflagration!

One, Paul, in thirty-three years, made a journey on foot over the greater part of the known world west of the Golden Horn, and bore the gospel into the regions beyond. Give us a score of such men and women as this, and we can close up the slums in our great cities, build a chapel in every forsaken quarter, put a missionary in every remote hamlet, and girdle the globe with a zone of missionary labor. We are scarcely sincere when we talk of insuperable obstacles in the way of evangelizing the cities or the world.—Missionary Review.

News from the Levant.

From the far east comes the cheering intelligence of the beneficial effects of that wonderful revitalizing agent, the Compound Oxygen, manufactured by DRS. STARKEY & PALEN, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.; or 331 Montgomery St., San Francisco, Cal.

"Will you be so kind as to send to my address two bottles of the Compound Oxygen. I think that I am benefited by the Compound Oxygen." Mrs. Farnsworth, of Ceseren, Ancient Cappadocena and Mrs. Biggs, of Antioch, near Aleppo, are also sure that they have been benefited. Please send as soon as possible. "A. G. BLISS.

"Levant Agency, Bible House, Constantinople, February 8, 1887."

For further information direct as above for their interesting brochure, which will be sent free by mail.

It is impossible to mentally or socially enslave a Bible-reading people. The principles of the Bible are the ground-work of human freedom.—Horace Greeley.

Peculiar

Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Hood's Sarsaparilla

Peculiar in its strength and economy, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad

Peculiar

no other preparation ever attained so rapidly nor held so steadfastly the confidence of all classes of people. Peculiar in the brain-work which it represents, Hood's Sarsaparilla combines all the knowledge which modern research and medical science has developed, with many years practical experience in preparing medicines. Be sure to get only

To Itself

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

29 - - CHARTRES ST. - - 29

F. R. HARDON

Can supply everything in

Fashionable Millinery,

To the Entire Satisfaction of Patrons.

Orders Promptly Filled.

Remember the number,

29 - - - CHARTRES ST. - - - 29

Mention this paper.

H. D. McCOWN,

DEALER IN

FINE CLOTHING

—AND—

Men's Furnishing Goods.

Headquarters of the Celebrated

STAR SHIRT.

Boys' Clothing a Specialty. Men's and Boys' Hats.

CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER.

Cor. St. Charles and Common Sts., N. O.

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. C. SHEPARD,

49 CAMP STREET.

BEAUTIFUL

China Dinner and Tea Sets.

—AT—

Semi-China Dinner and Tea Sets.

BEAUTIFUL CHAMBER SETS.

PLATED WARE, all kinds.

WOOD WARE, all kinds.

TIN WARE, all kinds.

GLASS WARE, all kinds.

House Furnishing Store, Cheap as the Cheapest.

ALL THE NOVELTIES OF THE DAY.

Wringers and Curtain Stretchers.

Marshall J. Smith & Co.,

General Insurance Agents

—FOR—

FIRE, RIVER, MARINE, ACCIDENT and BONDING COMPANIES.

Representing the OLDEST and LARGEST Fire Companies both in England and America.

Prompt and Careful Attention Given to All Business Entrusted to Us.

64 BARONNE ST., N. O.

Mention this paper.

Watches, Diamonds, FINE JEWELRY, Silver and Silver-Plated Ware. SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

Send for Catalogue.

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

(Established 1817)

119 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

Mention this paper.

A. Brousseau's Son,

23 and 25 CHARTRES ST.,

CHINA MATTING, CARPETS, INGRAINS, LACE CURTAINS, WINDOW SHADES, UPHOLSTERY GOODS.

From a Prominent Minister.

I am fifty-five years of age.

Half of my life I have been a sufferer from a disordered liver, and the last three years a victim of that dread disease, consumption; was reduced to eighty-seven pounds, a mere skeleton, helpless, pronounced beyond recovery by my physicians, and given up to die by friends. In order to gratify my loving wife, I began taking Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, which is a cure for consumption, and to-day I am healthy, and able to indulge myself in preaching the gospel from the sacred desk.

RUFUS FIGH.

Cor. Pine and Crockett Sts.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, July 12, 1888.

Dr. R. M. Davis, County Line, Miss., reports having cured a cancer of long standing that years of the most skillful medical practice had failed to benefit at all. Besides, we have numerous assurances of cures effected in Asthma, Bilious Colic, Catarrh, Diarrhœa, Diphtheria, and Malarial Fever.

Rev. W. A. Mason, pastor of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., writes under date of July 2nd:

At your request, I will say that for about eight years I have been suffering with a sore on the back of my neck which was caused by the rubbing of a node by my shirt collar. It gradually spread till larger than a quarter-dollar. About six weeks ago, I commenced the use of Microbe Killer. From the very beginning I felt an improvement, and it has gone on steadily till now; though I have been very irregular in taking the remedy. I am satisfied that directions closely followed would effect a speedy permanent cure.

W. A. MASON.

I gladly testify that, after suffering with a severe case of malarial fever, I tried Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer, and am now perfectly well. I strongly recommend it to suffering humanity.

JAS. J. BUCKLEY,

471 Chippewa Street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 15, 1888.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that after taking one jug of Microbe Killer I was permanently cured of a severe attack of bronchitis and pulmonary inflammation, said illness having resisted all methods of medical treatment.

I cheerfully recommend Wm. Radams' Microbe Killer as being more than is claimed for it.

HENRY V. MILLEY,

With Rice, Bohn & Co., 75 Camp Street.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27, 1888.

Microbes Cause All Diseases

WM. RADAMS'

Microbe Killer

Cures All Diseases.

This indisputable assertion is borne out by our many testimonials.

Call or write for testimonials of cures made

M. DALLAS, 149 Camp St., Southern Agent, New Orleans, La.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES.

LOUISVILLE NEW ORLEANS & TEXAS (Mississippi Valley Railroad.)

Arrive	Leave
No. 1 ..... 3:00 am	No. 2 ..... 5:00 pm
No. ..... 5:25 pm	No. 4 ..... 8:00 am
No. 5 ..... 10:00 pm	No. 6 ..... 5:15 pm

LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE.

No. 3 Lim. Ex. 7:25 am	No. 1 F'st Ex. 7:00 am
No. 1 F'st Ex. 7:20 pm	No. 6 Coast. 3:10 pm
No. 5 Coast. 9:05 am	No. 7 Lim. Ex. 5:30 pm

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

No. 1 Passen'r, 11:00 pm	No. 2 Passen'r, 9:15 am
No. 3 Chic'and N. O. Lim. 7:30 am	No. 4 St. Louis and Chic. Ex. 5:40 pm

TEXAS AND PACIFIC.

No. 52 Californ'a Express, 7:00 pm	No. 51 Californ'a Express, 8:35 am
B. Rouge, local, 10:00 am	B. Rouge, local, 3:50 pm

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CO—MORGAN LINE.

No. 19 Californ. 3:25 pm	No. 18 Local, 7:20 pm
No. 17 Local, 7:30 am	No. 20 Californ. 11:00 am

QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE. (New Orleans and Northeastern Railroad.)

No. 1, Lim'd, 11:00 am	No. 2, Lim'd, 3:35 pm
No. 5, Fast Line, 6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line, 9:00 pm

MOBILE AND OHIO. (Via Meridian.)

No. 5, Fast Line, 6:30 am	No. 6, Fast Line, 9:00 pm

N. P. AND F. EAST LA. (Abita Springs.)

Daily Except Sundays.

Arrive ..... 8:30 am	Leave ..... 4:00 pm

Sunday Schedule.

Arrive ..... 7:25 pm	Leave ..... 7:30 am

MISCELLANEOUS.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

ESTABLISHED 1845.

is the oldest and most popular scientific and mechanical paper published and has the largest circulation of any paper of its class in the world. Fully illustrated. Best class of Wood Engravings. Published weekly. Send for specimen copy. Price $3 a year, four months trial $1. MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, N.Y.

ARCHITECTS & BUILDERS

Edition of Scientific American.

A great success. Each issue contains colored lithographic plates of country and city residences or public buildings. Numerous engravings and full plans and specifications for the use of owners contemplating building. Price $2.50 a year, 25 cts. a copy. MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS.

PATENTS may be secured by application to MUNN & CO., who have had over fifteen years' experience and have made over fifteen hundred applications for American and Foreign patents. Send for Handbook. Correspondence strictly confidential.

TRADE MARKS.

In case your mark is not registered in the Patent Office, apply to MUNN & CO., and procure immediate protection. Send for Handbook.

COPYRIGHTS for books, charts, maps, etc., quickly procured. Address MUNN & CO., Patent Solicitors, GENERAL OFFICE 361 BROADWAY, N. Y.

PIANOS ORGANS

LOWEST PRICES IN AMERICA.

Sample of 6 fine Instruments at Lowest Prices ever known. No competition with Cheap, Low-grade goods. REDUCED PRICES. SPECIAL OFFERS.

PIANOS $200. ORGANS $65.

15 to 64 Parlor, 3 Stringed, Four Sets Reeds, Five Octaves, Full Bass, Knee Swell, Fine Case, Stool, Cover, Instructor ALL FREIGHT PAID. Largest Stock Sattle. 200 Styles and Prices. Pianos $10 Monthly. Organs—$5 Monthly. Low Time Prices. Fair Contract—No Rent. No Forfeiture of Cash Paid. SIX SPECIAL OFFERS. Send for Free Paper "Sharps and Flats," giving full information.

LUDDEN & BATES, SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA.

TYPE-INK PAPER - PRESSES

At Southern Printers' Warehouse

101-103 GRAVIER ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Church & School Bells

SIZES AND PRICES

Drain, Wrought Iron Yoke with Cast Iron Bell frame Hung

No. 1, 25 in., 230 lbs.
No. 2, 27 in., 300 lbs.
No. 7, 30 in., 400 lbs.
No. 8, 34 in., 550 lbs.
No. 9, 38 in., 925 lbs.

Ramsey & Co., Seneca Falls, N. Y., U.S.A.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

McShane Bell Foundry

Finest Grade of Bells

Send for Price and Catalogue to

H. McSHANE & CO.,

Mention this paper. Baltimore, Md.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO

MAKERS OF BLYMYER BELLS TO THE

BLYMYER MANUFACTURING CO

CATALOGUE WITH 1000 TESTIMONIALS.

CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM

BAILEY'S REFLECTORS.

For Gas. For Oil.

A wonderful invention for lighting CHURCHES, Halls, Stores, Depots, Dwellings, etc. Suitable designs. Estimates furnished free. BAILEY REFLECTOR CO. 113 Wood St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

CORNS.

The only sure Cure for Corns. 50 cents per bottle. Ensures comfort to the feet. For at Druggists. HISCOX & Co., N.Y.

PARKER'S GINGER TONIC

The great remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Kidney Complaints, Debility, Nervousness, Headache, Backache, Nervous Prostration, Female Complaints, Lung Troubles, Chills and Fever, Malaria, Blood Poisons, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sores, Ulcers, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Pain in the Back, Kidneys, Hips, Loins or Bowels, and all weakness in young, old, and middle-aged. 50c. and $1.00, at Druggists.

OVERSEERS WANTED Everywhere, to engage in the manufacture and sale of a new and useful article of Electric Goods on their farms or in their towns and cities. Steady employment. WAGES, $2.50 per day to persons advanced; no talking required. Local agents and canvassers also wanted. No attention paid to postal cards. Address with stamp J. C. FLORY & CO., 6th & Vine Sts., Cincinnati, O.

In all the world there is but one sure cure for the OPIUM Habit. The Dr. Keeley Remedy never fails, and no other treatment ever cures. We have cured more than 10,000 cases. No pay till cured. Write for circulars and testimonials. Remember this, and write to the J. L. Stephens Co., Lebanon, Ohio.

Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCES OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

C. W. CARTER, D. D., Editor.

CORRESPONDING EDITORS:
REV. J. D. CAMERON, REV. B. CARRADINE, D.D.
REV. W. L. C. RENNICUTT, D. D.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1888.

The ADVOCATE will not be published next week. The editor and publisher and clerks and printers and readers and contributors will all have holiday in commemoration of the anniversary of the coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

"Oh, may we all receive
The new-born Prince of Peace,
And meekly in his spirit live,
And in his love increase!"

Greetings.

The ADVOCATE welcomes the Louisiana Conference with open heart and extended hand. It welcomes the brethren to our homes and hearthstones as co-laborers in the greatest of all great causes. Our people here receive you with the cordiality which ever distinguishes Christian hospitality, as those who have proved themselves, by their works, "the messengers of the churches and the glory of Christ." The ADVOCATE congratulates the brethren on the successful work of the year: that the lines have advanced; that the outposts have been moved further out; that the year's campaign has resulted in an enlargement of the domain of the church; that hundreds of blood-bought souls have been introduced into the kingdom of Christ; that many desert-places have echoed with the gospel call; that the spirit of beneficence is growing in the hearts of our people; that the missionary fervor is becoming more intense than ever before; that the Divine Spirit has authenticated your ministry by his gracious power in applying and making effective your preaching; that the heavenly Father has afforded his protection and grace, so that we meet again in annual session to recount his mercies and his help, and encourage one another in the Lord. The ADVOCATE welcomes you heartily because of your successful work in its behalf—your little sixteen thousand giving nearly as many subscribers as Mississippi's great thirty-three thousand. We thank you for this bright evidence of your appreciation of the ADVOCATE's work, and trust that it will spur us to a renewed consecration for the future. In other lines of work you may not have succeeded as our brethren who labor in other sections and with other surroundings, but you have done much for which the ADVOCATE joins you in praise to him who "alone giveth the increase." Our difficulties are so peculiar that very few people, not workers in Louisiana, have any appreciation of their power; but these difficulties you have battled with another year and have come up to report how the battle has gone. We are sure the reports will be mutually encouraging, and trust that this annual convocation will strengthen everyone for the conflicts of the coming year. May your session be one of peace and harmony! May the Son of Peace reign in every heart! May the "wisdom from above" characterize all your work in Conference and committees! May the Great Head of the church preside over your deliberations! May the Divine Spirit so supervise the arrangement of the works and the appointments of the preachers that each one may be allotted to that place where he will be most successful in working for Christ!

To the preachers and laymen and visitors, one and all, the ADVOCATE extends its heartiest welcome!

Immanuel.

It is a very curious circumstance that the precise form of the incarnation of God should have been given so explicitly to such a wicked king as Ahaz. No prophet ever made the subject plainer than did Isaiah when, in one word, he placed this great matter before the mind of the wicked king of Judah: "Behold, a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name, Immanuel." This is the plain statement of a fact predicted to occur at least seven hundred years in the future. So specific is the prediction, and so unerringly did it point out the fact, that when the fulfillment came, the distinct memory of the prediction was vividly revived. The evangelist gives a detailed statement of the birth of Jesus of Nazareth, and then says: "Now all this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, Behold, a virgin shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name, Immanuel, which being interpreted, is, God with us."

No clearer revelation of the incarnation was ever given by any prophet. The whole subject—all its grandeur and humiliation, all its simplicity and mystery—is wrapped up in those few words of the prophet to the impious Ahaz. Redemption, with all that it means in the mind of God, and with all that it confers upon humanity, and with every fact and doctrine and precept flowing from it, is clearly stated in these prophetic words. The tremendous stoop of Godhead, the awful elevation of manhood, and the inscrutable mystery of the union of the two in the one person of Immanuel, are put forth so distinctly in these words that there can be no mistake. The greatest mystery of the universe, the sublimest fact of human history, the epoch from which every transaction of earth, whether past or future, is dated, are all found in the prophet's words. Did Ahaz understand it? Hardly. Did the prophet perceive the full meaning of his own utterance? We are not prepared to say that he did. Can we, with all our light, take in and comprehend the great subject? With all our learning we are just on the edges of it. "Great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh." Ah, how we peer with curious eyes upon the great fact! How we think, and think, and think, and desire, and hope, and pray to see its full meaning! It allures our thought, fascinates our hope, inspires our prayers, and yet continually eludes our understanding. We derive all our spiritual life from it, we are strengthened for all our daily conflicts by it, our very being is wrapped up in it; and yet our minds are too small to admit its greatness! This is well. If we could understand this great mystery, we would pass it by as we do other things that are easy to be understood.

Let us thank God that he has given us one subject that is capable of affording food for our deepest thought through all the coming future. "God with us" here is the inspiration of our lives and work. "God with us" hereafter is the inspiration of our peace and joy forever. Then, let us be glad and rejoice in IMMANUEL.

Grace Reigns.

The religion of Jesus proposes to control the whole being and the whole life. Religion is simply a consecration to God. The effect of this consecration is, that the whole nature is brought under the dominion of grace. The man who is wholly religious is the man in whom grace not only exists and manifests itself, but in whom "grace reigns." Man is necessarily under government. The constitution of his being places him under law. Whether as a sinner or as a Christian, this is evidently true. In the one case he is under the government of Satan and the law of sin. In the other, he is under the government of God and the law of grace. The object of religion is to deliver man from the rule of the devil, and to abrogate the law of sin under which he groans. Now, if religion is not competent to this work, it is defective and does not answer the purpose for which it was given. Religion must overthrow the dominion of Satan and abolish the law of sin, or it can do man no good. In place of these it must set up the government of God and promulgate the law of grace, or it is merely a negative thing. The province of religion, then, is to rule the whole man; and if it does not rule the whole man, it is defective somewhere. The whole man has felt the effects of sin. The mind and soul and body have all felt the dire results of transgression. Religion is the cure for these effects, and to exert its proper healing and counteracting influences it must go wherever the disease has gone. It must run through all the emotions of the soul. It must course along all the faculties of the mind. It must lay its healing hand upon every member of the body. If it does not do this, its full work is not done. The man is not what he ought to be. Grace does not reign without a rival. The piety of the man who has this sort of religion is defective—it is one-sided. The light which he "lets shine" is a reflection, not a radiation. The side opposite the light is in "gross darkness." But where "grace reigns," where "the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus" is obeyed, the "true light shines" in every direction. In such a person there is no darkness at all. In such an one religion operates according to God's law and the human constitution; and the consequence is, such an one is brought into harmony with God and with God's universe. "Grace reigns," and the life is but a faint expression of the power of grace, and does more to show forth the beauty of piety than a score of people whose religion is one-sided. "Grace reigns," and the actions and feelings and thoughts are brought under her peaceful sway, and the man is happy simply because his life is in accord with the will of the Lord. One great difficulty with people trying to be religious lies in the fact that, instead of permitting grace to reign supreme in and over their lives, they are continually seeking to control and govern it. Human nature has ever been impatient of control. It delights to rule everything within its reach. It tries to rule religion, and when it does, of course, grace does not reign. People often bend their religion to suit their desires and hopes, when those desires and hopes should be subordinated to the scepter of grace. The man who leads this sort of a life must have a great many "ups and downs," and not a few "ins and outs." The current of his being must be a troubled current. There is not that placid flow, that noiseless lapse which characterizes the current of the life where "grace reigns." Nothing this side of heaven can equal the quiet enjoyment, the peaceful happiness of a life in which "grace reigns." Nothing can equal the beauty of a life in perfect harmony with the teachings of religion and subordinated entirely to her control. Such beauty as is found where "grace reigns" excels all other beauty. Like the orange of a Southern clime, a life where "grace reigns" is all the time flowering and shedding its sweet perfumes and dropping its golden fruits. "The beauty of holiness" can be excelled by no beauty of earth. The glories of an early morn fade before the glories of a young life consecrated to God!

"The clouds that float around the setting sun, Like crimson drapery over a monarch's throne," are dull in comparison with the beautiful radiance that sheds itself over the evening of a life spent in devotion to God and humanity. There is no harmony so enchanting as that which grace establishes between the aspirations of the soul and the will of God. There is no philosophy so sound as that which demonstrates that the mind is working in its proper sphere when its highest hopes and most restless activities are seeking to accomplish the will of the Lord.

My brother, let "grace reign through righteousness unto eternal life by Jesus Christ our Lord." Then the deepest desire of the soul will be fulfilled and the highest aspiration of the nature realized. Then the great calm which Jesus only can produce will fill every chamber of the being, and the light of the Lord's love will shine away the darkness, and life will become "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

North Mississippi Conference.

The nineteenth session of the North Mississippi Conference was opened in Starkville, Miss., Wednesday, December 12, by Bishop Galloway reading the fifth chapter of I. Peter, and singing hymn 272, and prayer. The roll-call revealed a large number present to answer to their names. John Barcroft was elected secretary, and Thomas Cameron, J. S. Oakley and T. Y. Ramsey, Jr., were elected assistant secretaries.

A fine-looking body of men, preachers and laymen, constitute this Conference. Many of them have long "borne the heat and burden of the day," and are still going in and out upon the highways of our Zion, preaching the glorious gospel of the blessed God. Many young men of great promise are coming to the front to take the places of those who are gradually passing away. Thus while one generation arises and does its work and passes out, the Lord raises up another generation to take up the work and carry it on. Thus while "the church buries her workmen, God carries on his work."

Rev. J. W. Boswell, assistant editor of the Nashville Advocate; Rev. W. C. Dunlap, Commissioner of Education; and Mr. J. G. Grant, publisher of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, were introduced and made each an address in behalf of the cause he represented. The editor also received a hearty welcome from the brethren, which went down into all the nooks and corners of his heart, and at once he felt as one at home.

Rev. W. C. Dunlap gave the brethren the "Centennial Hymn," and the responsive chorus by the Conference was "as the sound of many waters." The result was $400 in cash and subscriptions. Rev. T. L. Mellen, a committeeman from Mississippi Conference, on the project of establishing a Mississippi college for males, made a short address, inviting the co-operation of the North Mississippi Conference in that work. The presiding elders' reports showed in many places an advance in piety and in finance. Some new churches and several parsonages have been built. Sunday-schools are flourishing at many points. Revival meetings have been held generally throughout the Conference, and many souls have been brought into the church. The progress all along the line has been gratifying.

The following were admitted on trial: R. C. Morehead, H. P. Gibbs, T. B. Hargrove, H. T. Cunningham, R. B. Gladney, W. H. Sanders, J. C. Park, H. P. Crow, H. M. Young.

Here are nine young men of promise who have been admitted on trial into the itinerancy, and thus have consecrated their lives to the ministry.

The following were continued on trial: J. T. Howell, J. W. Treadwell and W. W. Moss.

The following traveling preachers were elected deacons: J. E. Buck, F. P. Spencer, G. S. Inge, C. R. A. Brantley, J. A. Whitehurst, J. A. Randolph.

Admitted into full connection: F. P. Spencer, J. E. Buck, W. W. Woolard, B. B. Sullivan, D. M. Geddie, George S. Inge, C. R. A. Brantley, J. A. Whitehurst, B. P. Fullilove, J. A. Randolph.

Deacons of one year: H. T. Gaines, A. B. Dearing, E. H. Rook, W. D. Bass, W. M. Young, G. H. Jacobs, J. W. Malone, J. R. D. King, F. A. Whitson, W. T. Barnett, J. M. Massey, J. H. Brown.

Traveling preachers elected elders: A. P. Leech, O. L. Savage, J. H. Shumaker, W. C. Harris.

Local preachers elected deacons: R. C. Morehead, E. J. Boyett, H. T. Cunningham, W. H. Sanders, T. M. Weaver, C. A. Porter, H. M. Young, L. A. McKeown, H. C. Edmondson.

Starkville is a thriving town on the Aberdeen branch of the Illinois Central railroad. It spreads out over the little hills until it looks like a city. It is a place of considerable business, there having passed through it last year 13,000 bales of cotton. The prospect this season is that 15,000 bales will be handled by her merchants. There are several neat churches beside our own, and also a flourishing male school, and also a female school, with the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Mississippi within two miles of the place. We had the pleasure of a visit to this college. Our host, Capt. H. C. Powers, gave us an outing behind a span of splendid trotters, during which we took in the college and its grounds. Everything seemed to be in good order. We visited the laboratory, the library, the museum, the recitation-halls, and the cattle-sheds. The United States government has an "experimental station" in connection with the college; and the college itself works a good deal on the "experimental plan," especially on the farm and with the cattle. There are nearly 300 students in attendance.

The hospitality of Starkville was tested by the presence of about two hundred preachers and their wives and lay delegates, and stood the test spendidly. Bro. Cameron is a capital man to supervise the entertainment of a Methodist Conference, and his members and those of other denominations "held up his hands" in a way to make a perfect success. The weather was as good as could be desired, and the business, under the guiding hand of Bishop Galloway, went along, step by step, and stage by stage, from beginning to close.

Having to leave on Friday evening, we were deprived of the pleasure of being present at the missionary meeting on Friday night. The preaching during the session was good to the use of edifying, and the large church was filled to overflowing at each service. Our visit to the brethren of the North Mississippi Conference was very pleasant, and served to strengthen the ties which were formed two years ago at West Point, Miss. We were rejoiced to see a new interest growing in behalf of the ADVOCATE, and trust that the brethren will keep in mind all through the year the munificent proposition of the publisher to increase its circulation. We tender our thanks to the efficient secretaries for kindness rendered. By special courtesy of the statistical secretary, T. Y. Ramsey, Jr., we are able to give our readers the statistics.

Local preachers, 173; members, 37,085; adults baptized, 1,792; infants baptized, 673; Sunday-schools, 352; officers and teachers, 1,930; scholars, 16,092; churches, 466—value, $443,205; parsonages, 79—value, $85,148; foreign missions, $8,-700; domestic missions, $2,-258 50; Conference fund, $2,780.

APPOINTMENTS.*

SARDIS DISTRICT.

S. M. Thames, P. E.
Sardis and Davis Chapel, John Ritchey.
Como and Fredonia, E. H. Cacey.
Senatobia, R. G. Porter.
Arkabutla, to be supplied (by W. H. Rekob).
Hernando and Coldwater, K. A. Joaes.
Horn Lake, R. P. Goar.
Lewisburg, A. P. Sage.
Cockrum, W. J. O'Bryant.
Mount Vernon, A. P. Leech.
Batesville, Thomas Cameron.
Pleasant Grove, T. B Hargrove.
Panola, J. W. Bates.
Chulahoma, R. M. Davis.
Courtland, H. L Vaughn.
Lake Misslou, to be supplied (by T. P. Miller).

GRENADA DISTRICT.

J. F. Evans, P. E.
Grenada sta., J. E. Thomas.
Grenada cir., H. C Morehead.
Water Valley, J. M. Wyatt.
Abbeville, H. B. Scruggs.
Charleston, T. J. Freeman.
Oxford sta., F. A. S Adams.
Toccopola, James Porter.
Banner, C. C. Gresham.
Pittsboro, J. M. Mooney.
Atlanta, A. K. Foster.
Water Valley cir., J. H. Brown
Minter City and Strathmorr, J. W. Malone.
Sunny Side and McNatt, W. S. Shipman.
Carrollton cir., D. M Cogdell.
Chapel Hill, B. P. Fullilove.
Tillatok, H. C. Morehead.
Bethel and Longview, to be supplied (by J. S. Bowling).
Grenada College Institute, T. J. Newell, president.

WINONA DISTRICT.

J. J. Wheat, P. E.
Winona sta., F. W. Dye.
Winona cir., D. C Foust.
Valden, W. S Lagrone.
Carrollton and Greenwood, T. W. Lewis.
West circuit R. A. Ellis.
Black Hawk, R. A. Burroughs.
Lexington, J. C. Loar.
Newport, J. H. Smith.
Kosciusko and Durant, H. R. Tucker.
Sallis, W. W. Williams.
Weir, W. A. Dollar.
Ethel, A. W. Langley.
Poplar Creek, R. C. Calloway.
Kosciusko cir., J. E. Burk.
Belzona, W. H. Sanders.
Colp circuit and Sunday-school agent, G. W. Bachman.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

W. T. J. Sullivan, P. E.
Columbus sta., J. S. Oakley.
Columbus cir., B. F. Phillips.
Crawford, T. B. Malone.
Brooksville, J. W. Luter.
Macon, S. D. Long.
Hebron, J. L. Futrell.
Moshulaville, E. H. Rook.
Louisville, F. P. Spencer.
Sunqualak, B. S. Rayner.
Plattsburg, R. A. Whitmeyer.
Starkville sta., J. W. Price.
Starkville cir., J. A. Treadwell.
West Point sta., J. D. Cameron.
Tibbee, W. C. Harris.
Tampico, C. R. A. Brantley.
La Grange, to be supplied (by J. C. Woodruff).
Chesler, W. C. Lester.
Sturges, J. R. D. King.

ABERDEEN DISTRICT.

Amos Kendall, P. E.
Aberdeen station, E. L. Spraggins.
Okalona station, T. C. Wier.
Okalona circuit, F. A. Whitson.
Verona and Tupelo, Eugene Johnson.
Prairie circuit, B. B. Sullivan.
Buena Vista, G. W. Gordon.
Houston, J. R. Robinson.
Sparta, W. D. Bass.
Pontotoc, W. A. Wollard.
Richmond, M. H. Hounoll.
Bigby Fork, to be supplied, (by L. P. Sargent.
Saltillo, W. T. Shell.
Tremont, B. R. East.
Fulton, J. A. Whitehurst.
Athens, to be supplied (by T. M. Weaver)
Ebenezer, T. J. Cunningham.
Shannon, J. M. Barnes.

CORINTH DISTRICT.

J. B. Stone, P. E.
Corinth station, J. H. Mitchell.
Corinth circuit, W. M. Young.
Iuka station, J. W. Bell.
Iuka circuit, J. E. Crow.
Kossuth, T. L. Foster.
Blackland, A. B. Dearing.
Jonesboro, H. M. Young.
Ripley and New Albany, D. W. Babb.
Ripley circuit, O. N. Koon.
Booneville and Rienzi, K. M. Harrison.
Guntown, Joseph Johnson.
New Albany circuit, G. H. Jacobs.
Marietta, W. A Clark.
Pleasant Ridge, M. E. Tumlin.

HOLLY SPRINGS DISTRICT.

J. W. Honnoll, P. E.
Holly Springs station, G. S. Inge.
Waterford circuit, W. L. Adams.
Mount Pleasant, J. A. Leech.
Byhalia, J. T. Moody.
Pine Mountain, J. W. Poston.
Olive Branch, G. H. Hodge.
Early Grove, J. J. Brooks.
Ashland, W. W. Moss.
Hickory Flat, D. M. Geddie.
Myrtle, to be supplied (by W. A. Manly.)

GREENVILLE DISTRICT.

R. M. Standefer, P. E.
Greenville, J. A. Bowen.
South Greenville and Lake Lee, J. A. Randolph.
Arcola and Hullendale, J. S. Shumaker.
Indianola, R. H Gladney.
Fasuala, O. L. Savage.
Cleveland, W. T. Barnett.
Duncan, J. D. Newsom.
Clarksdale, J. D. Harris.
Dublin, Brooklyn H. Gibb.
Jonestown, N. G. Augustus.
Belan, to be supplied (by S. M. Miller.)
Austin and Tunica, C. N. Terry.
Friar's Point, C. H. Owen.
Australia, T. Y. Ramsey, Jr.
Concordia, J. W. Dorman.
Huntington, to be supplied (by H. C. Edmonson.)

*We were under necessity of taking these appointments from the daily paper. We fear there are mistakes in regard to names and places, but we have done the best we could.—EDITOR.

North Mississippi Notes.

One brother reported a church of seventy-two members, sixty of whom will pray in public when called upon. That indicates a healthy spiritual tone!

One brother reported his receipts as $201 on salary, $14 as marriage fees, and one small ham, and paid for house rent $96. His family numbers three!

The church was dedicated a few days before Conference. It is a handsome structure, finished in natural woods and furnished with simple, yet substantial furniture, and capable of holding five or six hundred people. It is a credit to the Methodists of Starkville.

The brother raised a general smile, which finally broke into a loud laugh, when he reported 500 infants baptized during the year. When corrected, it dwindled down to five.

An ancient custom of the Methodists seems to be still observed in the church at Starkville. We refer to the men and women sitting apart.

One brother reported that the only Indian in his county had been converted during the year, and joined his church. "There is neither Greek nor Jew, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free, but all are one in Christ Jesus."

The Greenville district has developed five new charges during the year, and next year the brethren expect to have enough territory under cultivation to make two good districts. Verily the Lord's possessions are broadening in the Mississippi Valley!

One brother reported that he had received into his church this year one hundred and thirty-five adult males. That is magnificent work for one preacher to do in one station.

Dr Garland, chancellor of Vanderbilt University, in his address before the Conference, made the point that the great and pressing need of the church is a multiplication of training high-schools. The address was pertinent in its eminently practical suggestions and was received with approbation.

Dr. Garland made a fine point when he said he did not believe we did right when we taught our children that they could be as good Christians in any other church as they could be in the Methodist, and the brethren all said, Amen!

That was a magnificent tribute to Bishop Pierce which Chancellor Garland uttered when he said: "If I should say that he was the most eloquent of men, the shades of Cicero and Demosthenes would nod assent."

Bro. Thomas Cameron knows how to entertain the representatives of the ADVOCATE in his town. The publisher had his home at the hospitable mansion of Mrs. Judge Rogers, where he enjoyed the Christian courtesies of that estimable lady; and the editor, with Rev. T. L. Mellen, of the Mississippi Conference, was domiciled in the pleasant home of Capt. H. C. Powers, where by kindly attentions he was made to feel completely at his ease.

One thing we heard, which we were sorry to hear. Some of the brethren have been advising the younger preachers not to study theology or read Reviews, etc. We do not hesitate to say, this is bad advice, and we hope that every young preacher will throw it to the winds, and give all the time to study that he can consistently with other obligations.

Personals.

We are indebted to Dr. Leftwich for a copy of the Minutes of the last session of the Tennessee Conference, held at Fayetteville, Tenn.

Rev. H. C. Dubose, of Japan, has sent us his "Catechism of the Three Religions of China," not one word of which we can understand.

Rev. R. D. Norsworthy, presiding elder of the Meridian district, Mississippi Conference, has been appointed by Bishop Hargrove, financial agent of East Mississippi Female College, located at Meridian, and under the presidency of Rev. R. M. Saunders. The success of the college is so great, that enlargement is found necessary, and Bro. Norsworthy has been appointed agent to collect funds for this purpose. We are glad to know of the prosperity of our schools, and hope our people will cheerfully assist the agent in his laudable undertaking. Money invested in Christian schools will pay interest through all the future.

A good text for Christmas you will find in the eighth chapter and ninth and tenth verses of the book of Jeremiah. Look it up and see, and then follow the directions it gives, especially that part about the "portion."

Be sure to read the article in this number, entitled "Stooping to Save Souls." A brother said "it is worth a five-mile walk to read."

The latest news we have from Bishop McTyeire is that he was slowly improving and his appetite gradually returning.

Books and Periodicals.

BOOKS.

THE ONLY WAY OUT. By Leander S. Keyser, A. D. F. Randolph, New York. Price $1.

The purpose of the story is to show that evangelical religion is wholly consistent with culture and intelligence, and that a religious experience is not a mere delusion of the ignorant. Throughout the skepticism is treated with entire fairness, and is allowed to state his objections as strongly and vigorously as is consistent with the rules of friendly controversy. Yet, notwithstanding the theological tone of the story, it is not devoid of the romantic element, which is introduced, partly because there are few persons who are not attracted by a story, and partly to prove that religion and love are not at cross purposes, but that the former elevates and ennobles the latter.

PERIODICALS.

—The Sidereal Messenger, for December, Northfield, Minn. Price $2.

—The Converted Catholic Monthly. James O'Connor, 60 Bible House, New York. Price $1 a year.

—The American Agriculturist has greatly enlarged and expanded its household features, and the December issue is a beautiful Christmas number. There are several articles with fine and delicate illustrations, describing a variety of attractive holiday gifts which can be made at home. "Christmas Gifts from Small Purses," will be much appreciated by the young folks who have more taste and patience than money, and who want to remember all of their friends at Christmas-time. Even the smallest girls will find some pretty things, which they can make with very little aid, in the article upon "Little Girls' Christmas Work," and the boys, too, will be grateful for the useful suggestion of "Something for a Boy to Make." 751 Broadway, New York. Price $1 50.

—The Musical Herald, for December, will please all its readers, and its Christmas songs will delight all the lovers of sacred music. Musical Herald Company, Boston, Mass. Price ten cents a number.

Blake's Tables for each State for each Month of 1889 of Weather Predictions according to Mathematical Calculations based on Astronomical Laws, by C. C. Blake, Topeka, Kansas. Price seventy-five cents.

Vincent Lundberg, of Stockholm, Physician-in-Chief to the King of Sweden, recommends Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer for the scalp and hair.

Literary Notes

"The Popular Science Monthly," for last July, contained an article on House-Drainage, which excited much interest and criticism. This vital subject will be further treated from various points of view in the January "Monthly," in an illustrated article, by Dr. John S. Billings, U. S. A., who is an acknowledged authority on sanitary science.

Most people have heard of the disturbing influence exerted on the compass-needle by the various masses of iron on shipboard, but few have any idea how the trouble is remedied. The whole subject will be explained in a copiously illustrated article, entitled, "The Gubling Needle on an Iron Ship," by Lieutenant-Commander T. A. Lyons, in the January "Popular Science Monthly."

Owing to the vast amount of labor involved in the manufacture of Paul Du Chaillu's great work, "The Viking Age," the publication of the book has been postponed by the Scribners. The magnitude of the work may be learned from the single fact that there are to be over 1,200 illustrations.

The fascinating "Diaries and Letters of Gouverneur Morris" will be published by the Scribners in a few days. The work has been given a handsome setting of type and binding.

Over 15,000 copies have been sold of those two capital books for the young, "The American Boy's Handy Book" and "The American Girl's Handy Book," by Dan Beard and his two clever sisters.

Dr. Henry M. Field's new book of travels, "Gibraltar," will be out with the Scribner's in a few days.

The first volume of the limited edition of the "Cyclopædia of Music and Musicians" is nearly ready for delivery with the Scribners in this country. In England the work will be published by Bernard Quaritch.

"Ben Hur" is the most popular book at the Boston Public Library, says the Boston Herald, with "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and Stevens' "Around the World on a Bicycle" following in order of popularity.

Ex-Secretary Hugh McCulloch's volume of reminiscences is proving very successful, and it is believed it will have as large a sale as any book of its kind ever published.

Wilbur B. Ketchum will publish this month the following excellent works: "Lectures and Sermons by Martyrs," edited by the Rev. James Kerr, a book of 674 pages. "Our Rest Day." Its origin, history and claims, with special reference to present day needs, by Thomas Hamilton, D. D. This is the prize essay, for which $500 was offered by the Sabbath Alliance of Scotland. "Modern Missions and Culture." Their mutual relations, by Dr. Gustav Warneck, translated from the German by Thos. Smith, D. D. "The Pastor's Diary and Clerical Record," by L. H. Jordan, one of the most complete pastor's hand-books ever published. The edition is a decided improvement upon former editions, being printed from new plates, on very thin paper, and will be found a most convenient size for the pocket. It can be used for any year, and no expense has been spared to make this edition every way worthy of unqualified usefulness.

Do you suffer with catarrh? You can be cured if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. Sold by all druggists.

Notice.

To the Preachers and Members of Hon District, Mississippi Conference—

We are out, and sailing for another Conference year. I have made advancement all along the line the past year. We can and must do better this year. Our watchwords shall be, Every assessment in full, and a thousand souls for Christ in this district. I hope there will be present every member of the Quarterly Conference at the first meeting of every charge in the district. I especially request every district steward to be present at the meeting in Forest, Miss., January 8.

Your servant in Christ,

P. A. JOHNON.

"The Lord Is My Lig"

MR. EDITOR: Please allow me, through the ADVOCATE, to refer "L. P."—who asks some questions, in the issue of December 6, about "tithes"—to "Lapan," 439 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill. He sends out, gratis, excellent literature on this important subject, and is thereby doing great work for the Lord. God bless him abundantly!

S.

Mississippi Conference Minutes.

The Mississippi Conference Minutes are promised to come out in a few weeks. It is desired to insert a full directory of all the members. Will each minister, therefore, please send me at once his postoffice address

C. G. ANDREWS, Sec.

JACKSON, MISS., Dec. 17, 1888.

A NEW GATEWAY.

By the completion of a new bridge across the Missouri River at Rulo, Neoraska, the Burlington Route has established, for the entire distance over its own track, a new, direct, through line from St. Louis to Kansas City, St. Joseph, Atchison and Denver. Over this line is run "The Burlington's Denver Express"—a solid train with through sleeping cars and coaches from St. Louis to St Joseph and Denver, and a through sleeping car from St. Louis to Kansas City. The connections made by this train at the Missouri River, at Denver and at junction points en route are such that one can directly reach by it all points in Nebraska, Colorado and all sections of the West and Southwest, as well as all Pacific coast points. This is in addition to "The Burlington's Number One" well-known solid vestibule train between Chicago and Denver and Cheyenne, with which direct connection is made by C., B. & Q. R. R. train from Peoria, and by which one can make the run between Chicago and Denver without being more than one night on the road. For tickets via the Burlington Route and for special excursion folder, call on any ticket agent of connecting lines, or address P. S. Eustis, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent, C., B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill.

The clergy of America take kindly to Life Insurance, and have been its firmest champions. They fight for it and thoroughly believe in it. There are many splendid financiers in the Church; that they are intelligent and thoughtful for their future goes without saying. All denominations seek the protection of Life Insurance, and are careful to select the company offering the greatest security and the most advantageous terms to policy-holders. The Episcopal Diocese of New York has an Insurance Fund for all of its members, and The Mutual Life, which is the largest and strongest company in the world, with over $122,000,000 assets, has been officially selected by that body to issue all the insurance to these worthy people.

A Southern Department of this Company has been opened in New Orleans under the management of Mr. T. H. Bowles, with offices in Louisiana National Bank Building.

Publisher's Department.

No fraudulent advertisements will knowingly be allowed in the ADVOCATE. If one ever appears, it will be by accident.

In ordering from those whose advertisements appear in our columns please state that you have seen the same in the ADVOCATE.

J. G. GRANT, Publisher.

Next to your subscription the greatest favor you can extend the ADVOCATE, in a business point, is to mention the paper in writing to advertisers.

A young lady is so enthusiastic about lawn tennis that her father says she is "the maiden all for lawn."

CHANGES.—We have quite a number of orders to change the address of subscribers; some without signatures, and others who do not give the former address. Under these circumstances, change can not be made.

"That's a very soft corn of yours," said the chiropodist. "Yes, but it's hard enough to bear," responded the patient.

Business Notices.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. 25c. a bottle.

RELIGIOUS BOOK DEPOSITORY,

94 Camp Street, N. O., La.

CHOICE CHRISTMAS CARDS.

These cards are catalogued in sets for the convenience of those who wish to present a card of same size and style, but all with different designs:

No.			Cts.
1—20	assorted, size	2½ by 1¾ inches	20
2—12	" "	3 by 2½ inches	15
3—16	" "	3½ by 2½ inches	25
4—6	" "	3¾ by 2½ inches	10
5—20	" "	2½ by 1¾ inches	20
6—12	" "	4¾ by 3½ inches	50
7—8	" "	4¾ by 3½ inches	50
8—6	" "	4¾ by 3½ inches	40
9—7	" "	4½ by 3½ inches	25
10—4	" "	4½ by 3 inches	30
11—4	" "	4¾ by 2¾ inches	5
12—4	" "	4¾ by 2¾ inches	15
13—4	" "	4¾ by 3¾ inches	25
14—4	" "	4¾ by 3¾ inches	15
15—4	" "	4½ by 3½ inches	20
15—7	" "	4½ by 4¼ inches	50
16—4	" "	4½ by 3 inches	20
17—4	" "	6¾ by 4 inches	20
18—4	" "	4¾ by 3¼ inches	15
19—4	" "	4 by 3 inches	15
20—4	" "	4 by 4 inches	25
21—4	" "	4⅝ by 4½ inches	15
22—4	" "	5¼ by 3½ inches	30
24—7	" "	5⅜ by 4½ inches	55
24—7	" "	5⅜ by 4 inches	35
25—7	" "	5¾ by 4½ inches	35
26—6	" "	6½ by 4¾ inches	30
27—4	" "	7½ by 5½ inches	$1 00
28—3	" "	6 by 4 inches	25
29—3	" "	6½ by 4¾ inches	45
30—3	" "	5⅜ by 4¼ inches	45
31—3	" "	6 by 4½ inches	50
32—4	" "	4½ by 4½ inches	30

MIZPAH SERIES OF CHRISTMAS CARDS.

Price per package of six assorted cards:

Peace Be With You. Designed by Fred Fitch. Verses by Helen Marion Burnside. 20

Christmas Echoes. Designed by T. R. Kennedy. Verses by J. H. Ellis. 20

Angel Voices. Designed by Charles Noakes. Verses by D. Monsell. 25

Heartsease for Christmas. Designed by Angelina von Reichert. Verses by Helen M. Burnside. 25

Christmas Joy. Designed by E. Leistner. Verses by Helen M. Burnside. 40

Joy in the Lord. Designed by W. J. Webb. Verses by D. Monsell. 40

The Lord of the Harvest. Designed by W. T. Webb. Verses on back by Helen M. Burnside. 40

Christmas Light Bearers. Designed by E. Leistner. Verses by Cecilia Havergal. 45

Christ's Lambs. Designed by W. J. Webb. Verses by Helen M. Burnside. 50

Echoes from the Holy Land. Designed by R. F. McIntyre. Verses by Helen M. Burnside. 50

Angel Guards. Designed by Rev. St. John Ly Wilde M. A. Verses selected by Caron Duckworth. 60

The World's Light. Designed by W. J. Webb. Verses by Helen M. Burnside. 75

Heavenly Voices. Designed by Fanny Bowers. Verses by Frances Ridley Havergal. 85

Angel Whispers. Designed by W. J. Webb. Verses by Helen M. Burnside. $1 00

The Lord of Light. Designed by R. F. McIntyre. Verses by Cecilia Havergal. 1 00

Bread from Heaven. Designed by W. J. Webb. Verses by Helen M. Burnside. 1 00

Echoes from the Promised Land. Designed by W. J. Webb. Verses on back by Edith Pearce. 1 25

Golden Worlds. Designed by W. J. Webb. Verses by Helen M. Burnside. 1 25

BOOKLETS.

Suitable for Any Age, at Low Prices.

10 Cents Each:

IN THE MASTER'S GARDEN SERIES.

(Scripture Texts for one Month, Illustrated in Colors.)

Heartsease, Rose of Sharon, Lilies of the Valley, Blades of Grass.

BEAUTY OF THE KING SERIES.

(Scripture Texts for one Month, Illustrated Flowers.)

His Covenant, His Loving Kindness, His Testimonials.

CHILDREN OF THE KING.

(Scripture Texts for one Month, Illustrated in Colors.)

Pure in Heart, Meek in Spirit, Whiter than Snow.

ROYAL TEXT SERIES.

(Square. A Text for Every Day in the Month.)

Royal Promises, Royal Gifts, Royal Words of Grace, Royal Words of Welcome.

At 15 Cents Each:

SMALL TEXT BOOKS.

Daily Food, Dew Drops, Honey Drops.

WALKING WITH GOD SERIES.

(16 pages, color and monotint.)

In Ways of Pleasantness, In Paths of Peace, In Green Pastures, By Still Waters.

HEAVENLY WISDOM SERIES.

(Oblong, 32 pages, all monotint.)

Heavenly Wisdom, Evening Bells, Bright Days, Faith and Hope, Peace in Jesus.

SMALL CHRISTMAS BOOKLETS.

(Bound in ragged-edged Vellum, tied with ribbon, each in an envelope.)

Little Servants, The Fringed Gentian, Jerusalem the Golden, Evening Hymn, Rock of Ages, Words of Trust, Who Shall be Greatest, Trusting in God, Prayer and Promise, My Faith.

POETIC GEMS.

Lead, Kindly Light; I Remember, I Remember; Gray's Elegy, The Village Blacksmith.

20 Cents Each:

SMALL TEXT BOOKS.

(Printed in Two Colors.)

Noon-Day Musings, Our Daily Food, Our Daily Bread, Our Daily Unity, Our Daily Guide, Our Daily Light, Our Daily Portion.

25 Cents Each:

FORGET-ME-NOT BOOKS.

(Cloth. Printed in Three to Five Colors)

Golden Texts, Joyful Words, Bible Forget-Me-Nots, Havergal Forget-Me-Nots, Daisies from the Psalms, Bible Lilies, Living Waters, Rosebuds and Promises, The Pilgrim's Rest, Flowers of Grace.

Beautiful Small Booklets, 25 Cents.

Silver Thoughts, Rock of Ages, Just as I Am, Golden Words of Holy Men; Jesus, Lover of My Soul; Yuletide, Peace and Rest, Softly Now the Light of Day, Words of Comfort and Hope, Nearer, My God, to Thee.

30 Cents Each:

A Posy of Violets of Sweet Children of the Year, Asked and Answered, His Abiding Presence.

50 Cents Each:

BEAUTIFUL COLOR BOOKS.

When to Trust Jesus, Trusting, Resting, Onward, a Scripture Text Book.

75 Cents Each:

FAVORITE HYMNS.

(Finely Illustrated, forming beautiful presents, thin volumes.)

Just as I Am; Nearer, My God, to Thee; Jerusalem, the Golden; Jesus, Lover of My Soul; Rock of Ages, The Lord's Prayer, The Ten Commandments.

FINE ART BOOKS.

(Printed in monotint and color.)

Talking With Jesus, The Better Land, In the Service of the King, Coming of the King, Evening, The Unknown Way, Annie and Willie's Prayer, The Haven, By the Right Way, Life's Pathway, Fullness of Joy, Hells Across the Snow, Pilgrims of the Night; O, Little Town of Jerusalem; Sweet By and By, Hark! the Herald Angels Sing.

$1.00.

Songs of Christmas, by Frances R. Havergal; bound in alligator. Garment of Praise, by Helen P. Strong; covers in colors and gold.

CHARLES FOSTER'S PUBLICATIONS.

Story of the Bible	$1 00
Bible Pictures	1 00
Story of the Gospel	50
First Steps in Gospel Paths	50

Bibles and Testaments in great variety. Send for catalogue.

Children's pure reading books at reduced prices.

E. S. UPTON,

94 Camp Street, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Mention this paper.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PIANOS! ORGANS! MUSIC!

GREATEST BARGAINS AT

PHILIP WERLEIN'S,

135 CANAL ST., New Orleans, La.

Sweeping Reductions!

The World-Renowned WEBER, MATHUSHEK, and other Celebrated Pianos.

MASON & HAMLIN, ESTEY, FARRAND & VOTEY, and other Noted Organs.

Sold on Easiest Monthly Payments, from $3 upwards.

Some of the many testimonials regarding the Celebrated Mathushek Pianos:

Mr. P. Werlein:

I certify that the Mathushek piano that I bought of you, and which I have been using for some time, is an instrument combining all the desirable qualities for execution, and, above all, for the voice. It keeps perfectly in tune.

J. BOUDOUSQUIE.

Mr. Werlein:

The Mathushek upright piano obtained from you some time ago gives perfect satisfaction. I shall take pleasure in recommending the Mathushek to all my friends needing a first-class piano.

DANIEL J. LANE.
556 Burgundy street.

New Orleans.

Philip Werlein, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I have never heard any complaint about the Mathushek piano. It gives full satisfaction.

J. SCHRENK.

New Orleans, June 2, 1888.

Mr. Ph. Werlein:

This is to certify that I bought my Mathushek piano in February, 1879, and that my daughter has used it daily ever since, practicing not less than four hours daily. The piano has given us entire satisfaction.

NEMOURS BIENVENU.
337 Esplanade street.

New Orleans, June 2, 1888.

Mr. Ph. Werlein:

I hereby certify that I have given music lessons to Miss Bienvenu on her Mathushek piano for nine years.

H. ROLLING.

Mr. Philip Werlein:

My Dear Sir—The Mathushek piano that I purchased of you continues to give entire satisfaction. Its tones are exceedingly sweet and do not give way under the changes of season and climate, but preserve the same roundness and fullness as at first. Yours very truly,

H. M. PALMER.

Mr. Philip Werlein:

Dear Sir—It affords me great pleasure to state that the Mathushek piano purchased of you has given unqualified satisfaction. I can say that for sweetness of tone and for keeping in tune the Mathushek piano takes the lead. My advice to all would be to secure a Mathushek piano.

T. RAMAGGAN,
527 Chartres street.

New Orleans, July 11, 1888.

Mr. Philip Werlein,

Dear Sir:

The Mathushek piano which you sold me in 1873 is to-day, in my judgment, superior to many of the new pianos of recent manufacture which are offered for sale. I knew nothing of the instrument when I purchased it save its tone and general appearance pleased me.

After fifteen years' constant use I can bear testimony to its purity and volume of tone, quick and clear response to the touch, and excellence and durability of its make.

Fraternally Yours,
MORRIS C. COLE,
Pastor First Baptist Church.

These are only some of the testimonials, and from these can be seen how the great Mathushek pianos have become the pianos of the day.

Be Sure to Call on

PHILIP WERLEIN,

135 CANAL STREET.

MUCH WISDOM, BUT FEW WORDS!

Prices That Will Do All Good!

50 Pieces Cashmere, 10c—worth 15c.
Double-width Henrietta, 15c—worth 25c.
Extra-fine Henrietta, 35c—worth 50c.
Combination Suits, from $1 95 up.

BIG BARGAINS IN LACE CURTAINS.

Handsome Line of CHENILLE CURTAINS and PORTIERES.

CARPET ROOMS Overflowing with Bargains.

Plain and Fancy Mattings, from 12½c up.
Brussels Carpet (all wool), 55c—Made and Laid.
Handsome Body Brussels, 85c—worth $1.
Beautiful Line of WINDOW SHADES.

J. A. Braselman & Co.,

586 and 588 - - MAGAZINE STREET - - 586 and 588

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO

STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y

14 UNION STREET,

New Orleans, La.

Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

MANUFACTURERS OF

HIGH GRADE BONE FERTILIZERS,

PURE GROUND BONE, ACID PHOSPHATE, KAINIT, Etc.

Mention this paper.

SEEDS ROSES PLANTS

PLANTS AND TREES

GRAPE VINES, FRUIT and ORNAMENTAL TREES

CHOICEST OLD. RAREST NEW.

Among the latter we introduce the CRAWFORD STRAWBERRY. It combines more good qualities than any other.

YOU WANT IT! If you want PURE TESTED SEED or anything for ORCHARD, GARDEN, LAWN or PARK, send for our containing about 140 pages with hundreds of illustrations. IT'S A BEAUTY! ORDER DIRECT. Get the best at honest prices, and save all commissions. Thirty-fifth year; 23 greenhouses, 700 acres.

VALUABLE FREE CATALOGUE

THE STORRS & HARRISON CO., Painesville, Lake Co., O.

RAILROADS.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

"GREAT JACKSON ROUTE."

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS

And Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes

To St. Louis Without Change.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

A Double Daily Train Service to St. Louis, with Through Sleepers to Memphis, Without Change.

The Shortest and Best Line

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO VICKSBURG.

Through Pullman Palace Sleeping and Chair Cars leaving New Orleans every evening at 6 P. M., running through to Jackson, Miss.

The Shortest and Most Direct Route to MEMPHIS.

THE ONLY LINE

—RUNNING—

Pullman Sleeping Cars

THROUGH WITHOUT CHANGE

To SPRINGFIELD, MO., FORT SCOTT and

KANSAS CITY,

Where Close Connections Are Made in Union Depot for OMAHA, DENVER, and All Points WEST.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS

FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York.

TICKET OFFICE: Cor. Canal and Carondelet Sts.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Queen and Crescent Route.

New Orleans and Northeastern RAILROAD.

Shortest and Quickest Line to

BIRMINGHAM,

CHATTANOOGA,

CINCINNATI,

AND ALL POINTS

EAST and NORTH.

NORTH-BOUND.

	No. 2, Lim'd.	No. 6, Ft. Line
Lve. New Orleans	3:35 p. m.	9:00 p. m.
Arr. Meridian	9:50 p. m.	4:00 a. m.
Arr. St. Louis	.....	7:20 a. m.
Arr. Tuscaloosa	1:02 a. m.	9:10 a. m.
Arr. Birmingham	2:50 a. m.	11:25 a. m.
Arr. Attalla	4:47 a. m.	1:55 p. m.
Arr. Chattanooga	7:35 a. m.	6:20 p. m.
Arr. Junction City	2:35 p. m.	2:23 a. m.
Arr. Lexington	4:10 p. m.	3:43 a. m.
Arr. Cincinnati	6:40 p. m.	6:40 a. m.

SOUTH-BOUND.

	No. 1, Lim'd.	No. 5, Ft. Line
Lve. Cincinnati	7:55 a. m.	8:00 p. m.
Lve. Lexington	10:25 a. m.	11:05 p. m.
Lve. Junction City	11:35 a. m.	12:30 a. m.
Lve. Chattanooga	7:00 p. m.	8:50 a. m.
Lve. Attalla	9:49 p. m.	1:10 p. m.
Lve. Birmingham	11:45 p. m.	3:45 p. m.
Lve. Tuscaloosa	1:30 a. m.	6:00 p. m.
Lve. St. Louis	.....	9:00 p. m.
Lve. Meridian	4:45 a. m.	11:25 p. m.
Arr. New Orleans	11:00 a. m.	6:30 a. m.

J. M. KNIGHT, Ticket Agent,
34 St. Charles Street.
R. H. GARRATT, Div. Pass. Agt.

LOUISVILLE, NEW ORLEANS AND TEXAS RAILWAY.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.

Arrives.	Leaves.
No. 1, Fast Mail, 9:00 a.m	No. 2, Fast Mail, 5:00 p.m
No. 3, Express, 6:25 p.m	No. 4, Express, 8:00 a.m
No. 5, Bat. Rouge accidation, 10:00 a.m	No. 6, Bat. Rouge accidation, 3:45 p.m

Double daily through trains, New Orleans to Memphis and Vicksburg.

Nos. 1 and 2 carry through Pullman Buffet Cars between New Orleans, Louisville Memphis and Vicksburg; passengers can remain in Vicksburg sleeper until morning. Train leaving New Orleans a. m. 10., makes daylight run through to Memphis, passing through the Sugar and Rice Plantations and the El Dorado of the South, the "Yazoo Delta."

Close connection at Harriston for Natchez and N. J. and C. points; at Vicksburg with V., S. and P. and V. and M. R. R.; at Memphis with Gulf Route for Kansas City and the West and Newport News and Mississippi Valley Route for points East, also with other lines diverging. Short line to Hot Springs.

All trains stop at Kenner.

JOHN BRADLEY, General Agent.
E. W. HOW, G. P. and P. A.
E. F. REYNOLDS, Con'l Agent.

—THE—

Texas and Pacific Railway,

THE SHORT

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ROUTE,

The Direct Line from New Orleans to

NORTHERN, EASTERN, WESTERN,

—AND—

CENTRAL TEXAS,

and all Points in Old and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

	Arrives.	Leaves.
Texas and California Ex.	.....	8:35 A. M.
Express	7:00 P. M.	.....
Baton Rouge Local	3:50 P. M.	10:00 A. M.

The 8:35 a. m. train has Pullman Palace Sleeper and Buffet car through to Denver Colo., via Fort Worth and Texas Pan Handle Route, and makes the quickest time from New Orleans to Denver and all Colorado points.

This train has also Pullman Sleeper and Buffet to Fort Worth, where passengers take through sleeper for San Francisco and all points in California, Old and New Mexico.

This is the quickest and best route to Hot Springs.

H. C. ARCHER, Tray'g Passenger Agent.
R. W. McCULLOUGH, Gen. Pass. and Tkt. Agt., Dallas, Texas.
JOHN A. GRANT, Gen. Man'r, Dallas, Tex.
A. S. GRAHAM, Ticket Agent, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BE WISE!

BOOTS AND SHOES DRESSED WITH

Wolff's ACME Blacking

NEVER GET HARD AND STIFF,

Always look neat. Equally good for Men's, Women's or Child's Shoes. No blacking brush required, and the polishing is done in three minutes without labor.

WATERPROOF and warranted to preserve leather, and keeps it soft and durable.

Sold by Shoe Stores, Grocers, Druggists, &c.

Try it on your Harness.

WOLFF & RANDOLPH. PHILADELPHIA.

The Singer's Christmas.

It is high time to commence practising Christmas Music, and to plan festivals. DITSON & CO. publish a large number of Christmas Carols, Anthems, Songs, Quartets, etc. Please send for lists.

Beautiful Cantatas for Girls and Boys.

GOOD TIDINGS, or Sailor Boy's Christmas. By Rosabel. 25 cts. $2.40 a doz.
BABE OF BETHLEHEM. Children's Voices and Quartet. Benj. Cutler. 20 cts. $1.80 per doz.
JINGLE BELLS. Peculiar and very pretty. Lew R. Lewis. 30 cts. $3 per doz.
CHRISTMAS GIFT. A Santa Claus Story Rosabel. 25 cts. $2.40 per doz.
CATCHIT NAPPING. A nice musical Drama. Lew R. Lewis. 30 cts. $3 per doz.
KING WINTER. A true cold weather Cantata. L. O. Emerson. 30 cts. $3 per doz.
MESSENGER OF CHRISTMAS. T. M. Towne. 30 cts. $3 per doz.
CHRISTMAS SONGS AND CAROLS. For Young Children. Kate Douglas Wiggin. 12c. $1.08 per doz

Bright and Interesting Christmas Services.

Joyful Chimes, (8 cts., 72 cts. doz.) Rosabel.
Birthday of Our Lord, (8c., 72c. doz.) Rosabel.
Song of the Christ, (12 c., $1.08 doz.) Sawyer.

Cantatas for Choirs, Societies, etc.

Christmas Eve, (35 cts., $3.12 doz.) Gade.
Christmas, (80 cts., $7.20 doz.) Gilbertson.
Christus, (10 cts., $4.50 doz.) Mendelssohn.

ANY BOOK MAILED FOR RETAIL PRICE.

Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, New York

Mention this paper.

We herewith present you the valuable notice that we sell the so highly celebrated Eldredge and Diamond Machines extremely cheap at retail in unoccupied territory. Sent on trial if desired. Special inducements and protection to good dealers. Liberal discount to ministers. Singer Machines cheap. Circulars and information free. J. C. GEITZ, Gen. West. Agt., 1317 and 1319 North Market st., St. Louis, Mo.

Do the ADVOCATE a favor, and mention it when you write.

BROWNE & JENKINS,

DESIGNERS AND DECORATORS IN

WALL PAPER

174 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Write for prices. Samples sent to country free Mention the Advocate when you write.

AMMUNITION, POWDER, SHOT,
FISHING TACKLE, BASEBALL GOODS, CROQUET.
BASKETS, DEMIJOHNS, BOTTLES,
LAMPS AND LANTERNS.

Axle Grease,

Blacking, Ruling,
Pages and Cheese Safes, Corks and Clocks,
Coffee and Grain Mills, Cutlery and Saws
Hammocks, Ice Cream Freezers.
Oyster Tongs, Paper and Bags,
Scales, Sieves,
Whips.

HARDWARE, STONEWARE.
BROOMS, WOODENWARE, BRUSHES,
TABLE GLASSWARE, STATIONERY, TINWARE
ROPES, TWINES, WICK.

A miscellaneous and well-assorted stock of fresh goods.

J. C. MORRIS,

Nos. 40, 42 and 44 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET

E. F. DYER, E. P. MACKIE, T. G. MACKIE
MANAGERS.

WALL PAPER

in all grades. FINE DECORATIONS a specialty. WINDOW SHADES AND CORNICES, WIRE SCREENS AND WEATHER STRIPS. UPHOLSTERER'S GOODS.

Framing Neatly Done.

PICTURE AND ROOM MOULDINGS. RUGS, MATS AND MATTINGS

EDWARD HEATH,

Telephone 614. No. 116 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

FIRE INSURANCE.

Liverpool and London and Globe INSURANCE COMPANY.

Largest Fire Office in the World.

Losses paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,691.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with best companies.

Directors in New Orleans—NEWTON BUTENER Chairman; RUDOLPH WOLFE, JOHN W. LA BOUISSE, A. DELVAILLE.

CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Res't Sec.
HENRY V. CHERNY, Resident Secretary.

Crescent Insurance Co.

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1848. Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

CASH CAPITAL.....$400,000

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849.

Annual and Term Policies issued on Dwellings Fire Business.

W. R. LYMAN, President.
JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-Pres.
CHAS. E. RICE, Secretary.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Our Young People.

BABY'S STOCKING.

Hang up the baby's stocking;
Be sure you don't forget;
The dear little dimpled darling!
She ne'er saw Christmas yet;
But I've told her all about it,
And she opened her big blue eyes,
And I'm sure she understood it—
She looked so happy and wise.

Dear! what a tiny stocking!
It doesn't take much to hold
Such little pink toes as baby's
Away from the frost and cold.
But then for baby's Christmas
It will never do at all;
Why, Santa wouldn't be looking
For anything half so small.

I know what will do for the baby—
I've thought of the very best plan:
I'll borrow a stocking of grandma,
The longest that ever I can;
And you'll hang it by mine, dear mother,
Right here in the corner—so,
And write a letter to Santa,
And fasten it on to the toe.

Write, "This is the baby's stocking
That hangs in the corner here;
You never have seen her, Santa,
For she only came this year;
But she just the blessedest baby,
And now, before you go,
Just cram her stocking with goodies
From the top clean down to the toe."

A Rich Christmas Day.

BY BEATRICE DEZENDORF.

"I wonder if we shall always have such Christmas Eves as this," said little Lula, as she crossed her feet and hands, drawing her pretty face into such solemn lines that an observer would have doubted whether that little girl could really be Lulu Ramsey or not.

"No, no, little sister; when I am a man and get into business I will earn our money all back again. So cheer up, Lu, and let us be contented with what we have, and cease to mourn for what we have not," was the encouraging reply of Lulu's big brother, Harry, as he braced himself up and tried to put on a brave face.

This conversation took place in a neat little sitting-room. The furniture was on a cheap plan, but neatness and refinement pervaded the place, notwithstanding, Mr. Ramsey, a wealthy banker, had speculated, and consequently lost a large fortune but a few short weeks before. The family mansion, on Fifth Avenue in New York, had to be exchanged for a small but neat cottage in a less fashionable portion of the city. Instead of a rich banker's office, Mr. Ramsey filled the place of a shipping clerk, which situation he thought himself lucky in obtaining.

It was true that the Ramseys had a comfortable home and all the necessaries of life, but what were these to their former elegance? What was this house to their Fifth Avenue mansion? Mrs. Ramsey, whose fair hands had never in her life been employed in cooking, was compelled to prepare the meals for her husband and children. How inefficient she found herself! Although she could shine in the parlor and in the accomplishments, yet what a poor housekeeper she found herself!

It was Christmas Eve, and the poorest Christmas they had ever witnessed. Lulu and Harry were holding the above conversation, while Mr. Ramsey sat with half-distracted face resting on one hand. The only other occupant of the room was an older sister, Annie, who was engaged in painting a picture.

"I can help to bear the burden," she had said when the blow came, as she remembered how she excelled in painting.

The room was bright, but unlike other years, no brilliantly lighted rooms filled with friends and relatives were there. The friends would scarcely know them now. No Christmas tree loaded down with costly presents delighted the children's eyes, yet Mr. Ramsey had contrived to buy presents for them, such as they were; but the things were so commonplace, compared with what they had formerly had, that they brought but little pleasure.

The next day was Christmas, and Mr. Ramsey, determined to spend it in the best possible way, went with his three children to their own church on Fifth Avenue. They had scarcely gone a dozen steps before a little girl came running up to them. "Please, sir," she said, "won't you give me just a few pennies to buy something for mamma? She is so sick and hungry."

The little upturned face was pinched with the cold, but withal it bore marks of childish beauty. A pair of little red toes peeked out from a pair of time-worn shoes. In former days Mr. Ramsey would have passed her by, but misfortune had in some wayftened his heart, and he stopl and said: "I have noth'g to give, child."

"Yes you have, papa; we are t so poor as that yet. Supse we had lost you as well as ney, and it was me instead of a little girl. Suppose it was mamma instead of hers whay dying of cold and hunger. And little Lulu, with tearled eyes, was clinging to her her's hand.

Hooked in the pleading face af lchild for a mument and exched, "God forbid!" Turg to the little girl who hudked for alms, he said, "I will and see your mother."

Tchild guided them into a stre where even Mr. Ramsey had ever been before. They wered up a pair of rickety stairs grea in contrast with their own Pushing open an old half-hing door, the little girl said, "Mma, here is a gentleman comto see you."

T sight which met their eyes ansed an exclamation of horr to escape from the children A room devoid of bare furnure, a pallet of straw for a bed and a corpse-like woman righon the verge af death they behd. Something was provide for her to eat, and Annie, in a manly way, tried to make the ying woman comfortable; bnt as! it was too late: Death had rendy claimed its own.

M Ramsey saw that the body was hneed in the hands of the righ anthorities, and then he took the orphan child home. Onla short time since he had scarely thought himself able to prole for his three children, and now he felt rich enough to take an orphan to share his hom

Hry was the one who went hom ahead of the others and told mother. "Mamma, I thoht we were so rich that I coul have danced for joy," he saidn conclusion.

"Tell, my dear boy, I think ther are others more able to care for this poar child," she said

"Yes, dear mother; but those who are rich sneer at such things. We did once." And Lary looked very wise.

That night, as they sat together, Lula said: "I do not hink we are so poor after all."

"Why, my children, I never felt so rich in my life," answered her father. "We have health and strength and a good home, with all the necessaries of life. Who can ask God for more? Your father has been a mean, selfish man all his life; but God, in his good wisdom, has chosen a means of setting him on the right track. If we had not met with misfortune, I should have lived on, growing more and more selfish, and my children would have grown up proud and unmindful of others."

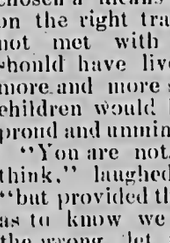
"You are not so bad as you think," laughed Mrs. Ramsey; "but provided that we are so rich as to know we have been in the wrong, let us not lose our wealth."

"Never," was the solemn reply.

The little orphan still stays in her new home, and God still gives them the means of living, and even more; for Mr. Ramsey has somewhat repaired his lost fortune.

Lulu says she could never part with sister Jennie, as she calls her, and Harry will have no other girl.

They will never forget that poor Christmas when they became so rich in knowledge as to make it end in a rich Christmas; but Annie says that a new member of the family was an additional fortune, and Harry looks as if he thinks so, too.—Sunday-School Visitor.



How to Cure Skin & Scalp DISEASES with the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

THE MOST DISTRESSING FORMS OF SKIN and scalp diseases, with loss of hair, from infancy to old age, are speedily, economically and permanently cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, when all other remedies and methods fail.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, prepared from it, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, cure every form of skin and blood disease, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases."

Pimples, blackheads, chapped and oily skin prevented by CUTICURA SOAP.

Relief in one minute, for all pains and weaknesses, by CUTICURA ANTI-PAIN PLASTER, the only pain-killing plaster. 25c

$65 A MONTH AND BOARD for 3 Agents—Bright Young Men, Ladies, Teachers, Students, or Mechanics, in each county, for a new, Popular Book. Above salary or highest commissions. Exclusive territory. 30 days' credit. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., No. 4 So. Sixth St., St. Louis, Mo.

Household.

CHRISTMAS MEMORIES.

The shops are closed, the bells ring out,
The holly gleams through every pane;
Each house-wife plies a busy task—
'Tis happy Christmas Day again.

The little children hear the tale
Of Jesus in his manger-bed;
The pretty Christmas hymn is sung,
The holy Christmas chapter read.

And, O, what praises should we sing,
If our home circle be complete;
For many a home is hushed to-day,
Because there is an empty seat.

Yet there is sweetness in the tear
That falls beneath the holly bough,
When we can say of those we mourn,
"They spend a better Christmas now."

Christmas Gift-Giving.

The whole Christian world is at present absorbed in getting ready for Christmas. The merchant is loading his counters with novelties in every grade of quality, finish, style, and cost; the publisher is putting on the market the hooks at which his editor, artist and printer have been working for months; the farmer is counting his turkeys, apples and celery; churches are planning their festivals; homes their renniums; the poor are studying how to stretch their little to a great deal; the rich how to pour from their abundance greater blessings. Christmas travail is on the world; its object to make, if may be, one happy day throughout all Christendom. To bring about this universal happy day, one means is adopted—gift-giving. To give to others is the Christmas law. To give wisely, bountifully, gladly, where the gift is needed, as much as the purse will allow, and with the single object of making others happy, is the only recognized interpretation of this law. This Christmas gift-giving does not mean a traffic in presents, it permits no system of obligation by which "for so much received I hereby return so much" is written between the lines of the note of presentation. It does mean careful, loving study of how with the means at one's command he can add the largest amount of happiness to the world on Christmas Day. This interpretation of Christmas giving may demand that the interchange of family presents shall be abandoned that a special comfort may be placed in a needy household. It may mean no home Christmas tree, that some separated family may be united, or that more tables may be graced with Christmas cheer. It may mean much sacrifice of things that the most perfect of pleasures, that which springs from knowing that we have made others glad, is ours. For doing for others is the very heart of Christmas joy.

How widely the world is accepting this sense of gift-making, look to the growing custom in Sabbath-schools of the children, preparing gifts for the poor instead of receiving them for themselves. The gladdest child's festival we have ever seen was a "give-away" Christmas where every child of the church, rich or poor, brought some gift, if nothing but an apple or potato, to swell the offering. When all was gathered in and pulpit and altar were piled with hundreds of fowls, with whole porkers decorated with ribbons and bearing in their mouths the conventional red apple, with pyramids of canned fruits and vegetables, of sacks of flour, and of baskets packed with dinners complete from the stuffed turkey to the salt and pepper, the outburst of applause was the most spontaneous and infectious we have ever witnessed. The royal nature of Christmas-giving was felt by every spectator and partaker, as no number of elegant, personal gifts could have impressed it.

If one will examine the reports of the Association of Working Girls' Societies, he will find that last year, almost without exception, they united in doing for those poorer than themselves. Hard-pressed as many of the members were, by uniting they were able to prepare Christmas-trees for wretched neighborhoods, to send well-filled stockings into poverty stricken homes, and to place dinners on many tables otherwise empty. And so the new interpretation of Christmas gift-making is going around the world. It may bring fewer articles of bric-a-brac to our cabinets, fewer pictures to our walls, and fewer jewels to the ease, but it will put a new meaning into the life of many a lonely soul, it will hasten the realization of the beautiful idea of one universally happy day, and best of all it will show that happiness is born of good-will, of self-forgetting, of natural, tender, loving care for others.—Chautauquan.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Favorite

Medicine for Throat and Lung Difficulties has long been, and still is, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It cures Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, and Asthma; soothes, circulation of the Larynx and Fauces; strengthens the Vocal Organs; allays soreness of the Lungs; prevents Consumption, and, even in advanced stages of that disease, relieves Coughing and induces Sleep. There is no other preparation for diseases of the throat and lungs to be compared with this remedy.

"My wife had a distressing cough, with pains in the side and breast. We tried various medicines, but none did her any good until I got a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has cured her. A neighbor, Mrs. Glenn, had the measles, and the cough was relieved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have no hesitation in recommending this to every one afflicted."—Robert Horton, Foreman Headlight, Morrilton, Ark.

Cough Medicine

"I have been afflicted with asthma for forty years. Last spring I was taken with a violent cough, which threatened to terminate my days. Every one pronounced me in consumption. I determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Its effects were magical. I was immediately relieved and continued to improve until entirely recovered."—Joel Bullard, Guilford, Conn.

"Six months ago I had a severe hemorrhage of the lungs, brought on by an incessant cough which deprived me of sleep and rest. I tried various remedies, but obtained no relief until I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A few bottles of this medicine cured me."—Mrs. E. Coburn, 10 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

"For children afflicted with colds, coughs, sore throat, or croup, I do not know of any remedy which will give more speedy relief than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have found it, also, invaluable in cases of Whooping Cough."—Ann Lovejoy, 1257 Washington street, Boston, Mass.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

NEW MUSIC BOOKS

Royal Piano Folio A Collection of the most prominent foreign composers. 224 pages. Paper, 75 cents, Cloth $1.00, by mail, postpaid.

Royal Vocal Folio A collection of 224 pages. Paper, 75 cents, Cloth $1.00, by mail, postpaid.

Snow White By Clara Barnham and Edith Rhoades. A new and fascinating Juvenile Operetta. Price, 25 cents by mail, postpaid.

Y. P. S. C. E. Send for a copy of our song to the Young People's Society of the celebrated "Endeavor." Price, 15 cents by mail, postpaid.

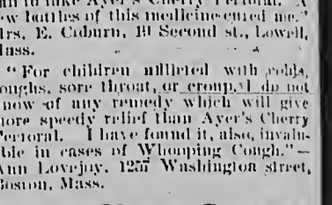
MUSICAL CALENDAR Containing interesting information in music and musicians, and a condensed dictionary of musical terms. For 1889. Price, 15 cents by mail.

The JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, And 19 East 16th St., New York City.

The WITTIEST, PRETTIEST JUVENILE

QUEER PEOPLE Palmer Cox

GIANT & GOBLINS $1.00 WINGS & STINGS 70c. PAWS & CLAWS $1.00



By Mail.

A Specimen of the Fun and the Many Odd of this oddest of pranks, charming stories and laugh-provoking illustrations by the Prince of Juvenile artists. Selling immensely. Critics say of it: "It's a little jewel." "Most delightful." "Just the book for a boy." "Cox—R. H. Conwell, D. D., pastor Grace M. E. Church, Philadelphia." "Unique, original, and clever." "Has NO SUCH SALE. Cox's Stories and Uncle Reuben."—Headlight and Herald. AGENTS WANTED. HUBBARD BROS., Publishers, Chicago, Ill., or Kansas City, Mo.

YUCCA

Young Ladies are you troubled with dandruff or your hair falling out? You can stop both by using Yucca. It possesses the quality of destroying germs and does not contain any poisonous drugs. YUCCA has just been introduced to the trade, and you can probably buy it at the nearest Druggists. If not, send us $1 and we will send you a trial bottle. Always address Yucca Co., Burlington, Vt.

FOR THE HAIR

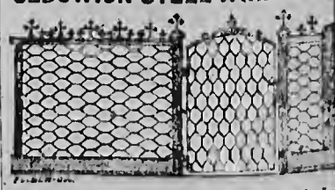
SEDGWICK STEEL WIRE FENCE



The best Farm, Garden, Poultry Yard, Lawn, School Lot, Park and Cemetery Fences and Gates. Perfect Automatic Gate. Cheapest and Neatest Iron Fences. Iron and wire Summer Houses, Lawn Furniture, and other wire work. Best Wire Stretcher and Fixer. Ask dealers in hardware, or address

SEDGWICK BROS., RICHMOND, IND.

SALESMEN Wanted. We wish a few more salesmen in this and adjoining counties. Experience not necessary. Permanent employment. Address, with 2-cent stamp, Wages $3 Per Day. Personal references required. Money advanced for wages. Centennial Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.

DETECTIVE Wanted in every County. Shrewd men to be Detectives in our Secret Service. Experience not necessary. Particulars free. Grannan Detective Bureau Co., St. Louis, Mo.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURE never fails to give instant relief. Any one who wants to be CURED can send us their address and we will mail trial bottle FREE. Du. TAFT BROS., Rochester, N. Y.

CATARRH "Best cure for colds, cough, consumption is the old Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam." Look out for Fac Simile of Signature of Curtis & Clark, No. 845 and 847 W. Baltimore St., Baltimore, Md. Sold by all druggists. Hale Bros. & Co., Boston. For $1 a large bottle of my new

Christian Advocate.

BEAUTIFUL THINGS FOR CHRISTMAS.

BY EMMA B. DUNHAM.

Beautiful things for Christmas
Everywhere we see.
Daintiest of the dainty,
Gifts for you and me.
Beautiful things for Christmas,
Prettiest ever seen,
Starry crowns and crosses,
Wreaths of evergreen.

Beautiful thoughts for Christmas,
Birthday of our Lord;
Tenderest thoughts and purest,
Drawing us to God.
Beautiful thoughts for Christmas,
Breathed in carols sweet;
Songs the angels chanted,
We on earth repeat.

Beautiful deeds for Christmas,
Generous, prompt and free;
Help unto the needy,
Acts of charity.
Beautiful deeds for Christmas,
Each a jewel bright,
Adding to the luster
Of the Christmas night.

"Mr. Gladly."

BY "UNCLE BOSTON."

"Mr. Gladly" is a most delightful gentleman to meet; you do not often have that pleasure, that is, as often as you could desire.

It was on this wise that I recently met him. I had been invited to present the missionary work of our American Baptist Publication Society, before one of our Baptist churches. I told the simple story of God's blessing upon the work of one of our society's Sunday-school missionaries, as illustrating the wider work of the society. At the close of the address, the pastor said there might be some in the congregation who would esteem it a privilege to contribute of their means to aid in such work: cards were circulated; the offerings and pledges were gathered. One card signed by a gentleman in the congregation, read "50 Gladly." It would do your heart good to get personally acquainted with "Mr. Gladly:" he gladly receives any information concerning all the missionary enterprises of our denomination and always gladly contributes liberally to help them along. "Mr. Gladly" is asked to secure a class of young men for the Bible-studying service of the church, of which he is a member: he gladly consents, and enters at once upon the work. There is something so delightsome in the invitation to join his class, that in a short time a large number of those "too old to go to Sunday-school" (?) and not old enough (?) to enjoy studying the Bible (?) have enrolled themselves in "Mr. Gladly's" Sunday-school class. Although carrying the weighty responsibilities of a large business, he gladly gives up one evening each week, to receiving his class at his delightful home; these evenings with his class are far from being simply for entertainment; he never loses sight of the end for which his class has been gathered—their conversion and training in the Master's service.

"Mr. Gladly" has solved the problem of many a convention: "How to secure and hold young men in our Sunday-schools." He gladly receives them into his confidence and constantly seeks their salvation. From the entrance of every member in his class, he is impressed that "Mr. Gladly's" one business is the salvation of that member's soul: there is such an intense earnestness, and withal such a gladsomeness in "Mr. Gladly's" manner, that one after another is brought "into the kingdom." He meets honest doubters with simple evidence, but finds his strongest argument in a consistent daily Christian life; this has won in many instances.

"Mr. Gladly" is elected a delegate to the association or State convention; he does not begin to look around for an excuse, but gladly consents to go, and goes; he has noticed how business men who are members of secret societies always arrange their business, so that the conclave, encampment or other convocation may be attended, and "Mr. Gladly" considers his church obligations far more binding than those of any man-made organization.

"Mr. Gladly" has another very commendable custom: he knows that his pastor should attend the anniversaries of our denomination; he also knows the numerous calls on the preacher's pocketbook; a little while before the meetings he gladly sends the pastor his check to cover all the expenses of the trip and a little extra for sight-seeing that will help to put freshness into his sermons.

"Mr. Gladly" is sometimes called away from home on business which takes him to smaller towns and villages; when absent in this way, he gladly makes it convenient to call on the Baptist pastor in the place, with whom he spends a pleasant evening in a most helpful talk over "the things of the kingdom." Many a pastor in these smaller places has occasion to remember most gratefully such visits in hours of discouragement, and also the bank check that cheered the weary pastor as he opened his mail a few days after.

"Mr. Gladly" does not live in Hoard Up Alley in the city of Covetousness, neither is he related to Mr. Grumble or Mr. Closefist, but is a blood relation of those Christians who say to their less-favored brethren: "I will very gladly spend and be spent for you."—Standard.

The Sunday Newspaper.

It whistles on the sidewalk, it rings the door bell, it walks into the breakfast room and monopolizes the attention of, at least, one member of the family while he sips his coffee and reads, sips and reads until the silent breakfast is over. With the cigar it shares an absorbed devotion of the reader; the church bells peal out their sweet chimes or ring the near approach of the hour for public worship all unheard. The mother and daughters are ready. "Is father coming?" "I fear not; he is too absorbed in his paper: but I will see." "Charles, are you ready? The bells are tolling." "Ah, now, wifey dear, how can you ask me: you know how hard I work during the week, and this is a day of rest, it is such a comfort to sit here, and this paper is so full; besides there is good religious reading in it: if you will leave me, pretty soon I will turn to that." They leave, and he reads his volume until church services are over and the dinner hour arrives. But one paper is not enough. Where there are grown sons each must have his favorite, and these, when faithfully conned, are scattered through the library or parlor for the daughters or younger children just to glance over in the afternoon of the sacred day.

To destroy church-going habits, to secularize a whole family circle, to monopolize the hours of God's holy day which should be given to the study of the Scriptures and reading of books in unison with its teachings, there is no more powerful agent than the Sunday newspaper; and yet men and women who profess to love Christ, and who have promised to bring up their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, willingly admit into their homes on the Sabbath these Sunday papers. These, through their encouragement, are frittering away not only their own religious faith, but are sowing the seeds of unbelief in the minds of their children, and absorbing time that should be used in building them up in the knowledge and duties of the Christian religion. In such homes the Bible is out of sight and the church paper has its place in the corner of the mother's room, while these voluminous Sunday publications are such household necessities.

As years go on, in homes where these influences are not resisted, when the boys and girls grow to be men and women, the fathers and mothers are often distressed at their worldliness and folly. They recall the good instructions they have given their children, the wholesome example they have tried to set before them, and say, "Did we not sow good seed, whence, then, these tares?" Yes, an enemy hath doth this, made your children unbelieving and godless, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God. When you sat at home to pore over the pages of the Sunday newspaper, you thoughtlessly planted and encouraged opinions and principles, the fruit of which you are now sadly reaping. "For whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."—Christian Intelligencer.

WEST BRANCH, South Carolina, Sept. 6, 1886.
DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, Rochester, Pa.—
Dear Sir: The two boxes of Pills you sent me did everything you said they would. My son was the victim of Malarin, deep-set by living in Florida two years, and the Antidote has done more than five hundred dollars' worth of other medicines could have done for him. I have had one of my neighbors try the medicine, and it cured him immediately. I now recommend it to every one suffering from Malarin.
Respectfully yours,
W. W. MONROE.

The Church for To-Day.

The problem which confronts the church is this: Given a gospel adequate to all, and a command to preach it to the whole world, required the best way to apply this gospel and obey the command. This is a question of importance to the whole race. Let us notice some characteristics of the church for to-day. First, it must be the special exponent of revealed religion and deliver God's message to man. All truth is the thought of God, and, in a sense, all truth is religious truth. Religion is natural or revealed. Natural religion is that knowledge of God and of our duty which is derived from nature and reason—from the world without and within. Revealed religion is that knowledge of God and of our duty which comes to us from positive divine revelation. The Christian Church finds its special mission in declaring and enforcing revealed truth. There are other agencies of truth besides the church, and other preachers besides the preachers, but there are questions of life which none can answer and which all are asking. On these questions God speaks to men through the preacher. His themes are God, human sin, salvation, duty, responsibility, death, immortality. It is not the business of the church to provide entertainment and amusement; the preacher is not a jester to tickle the ears of the people. The church is not a scientific or philosophical club to investigate and speculate. Its message to the world is what God has said and done, and not what men think or hope.

The church must be an aggressive missionary body, whose purpose is to bring all men into allegiance to Christ. The church exists not merely for the salvation and perfection of its own members, but for the world and for Christ. The presence and power of the risen Lord is promised only as the church goes forth to carry the gospel to every creature. The last words which the risen Lord addressed to his disciples were the great commission: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." The church is likely to forget this commission, but that church will die, and ought to die, which forgets or ignores its great mission in the world. Other societies exist for themselves and their friends; the church lives for all men. To carry this gospel to men everywhere and to thus compel them to come to the gospel feast is the true work and spirit of a Christian Church.

The church for to-day must, in its services, have the threefold purpose of instruction, comfort and worship. The Bible is our text-book, Christianity is a system of truth. It has its facts, its doctrines and its duties. This work of religious instruction is a work whose importance can not be over-estimated. Let us thank God that the church has, in these late years, come to realize the importance of this work. The gospel is a message of peace, trust and consolation. But, in addition to the instruction and comfort which the services of the church should furnish, there should be the element of worship. Perhaps this idea needs emphasis in our church services. We have come to think of church attendance with reference to its effect upon ourselves rather than as something owed and offered to God. Men need to be reminded that the Sabbath is God's day, and that he calls us to the house of God to meet and worship him. If we come to the Lord's house to hear God's truth, to find comfort and consolation in his love and care, to render to him that worship which he requires of us, the place will be attractive to us, and the service acceptable to God.—E. A. Woods, D. D.

A Wonderful Food and Medicine, Known and used by Physicians all over the world. Scott's Emulsion not only gives flesh and strength by virtue of its own nutritious properties, but creates an appetite for food and thus builds up the wasted body. "I have been using Scott's Emulsion for several years, and am pleased with its action. My patients say it is pleasant and palatable, and all grow stronger and gain flesh from the use of it. "I use it in all cases of Wasting Diseases, and it is specially useful for children when nutrient medication is needed as in Marasmus."—T. W. PIERCE, M. D., Knoxville, Ala.

Whatever you may be sure of, be sure at least of this, that you are dreadfully like other people. Human nature has a much greater genius for sameness than for originality.—Lowell.

Get the best and the cheapest. Salvation Oil relieves in the twinkling of an eye. 25 c.

A million Americans use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Other nations in proportion. 25 cts.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THREE WONDERFUL
SEWING MACHINES.

The New Singer Automatic (Single Thread). "It runs with a breath."

The New Singer Vibrator. More modern, lighter running and simpler than any other.

The New Singer Oscillator. Scientifically and mechanically perfect

6,500,000 LADIES
Are Doing Sewing on
SINGER
Family Sewing Machines.
8,000,000
SINGER SEWING MACHINES HAVE BEEN SOLD.

Every successful machine ever built contains one of these three principles. Each kind is sold on easy payments, equipped with the latest improvements and attachments for all kinds of family sewing.

Agency for Hall's Bazar Dress and Skirt Forms and the Improved Standard Patterns.
Needles for all Sewing Machines and parts for the Singer.
Send for Price-list and Catalogues.
THE SINGER MANUFACTURING CO.,
185 Canal St., New Orleans.
S. E. RUNDLE - - - - - AGENT.
Mention this Paper.

A WEATHER STRIP
Is easily Applied to Doors and Windows. Sure preventive against COLD, WINDS, DUST and rattling of Sash. Send for price list and Illustrated Catalogue of Building Specialties, to
F. CODMAN FORD,
61 to 69 Baronne St., New Orleans, La.

Do the ADVOCATE a service, and mention it when you reply to advertisements.

TEACHERS, PROFESSORS and TUTORS supplied to Schools, Seminaries, Colleges and Families free of charge. We have a large normal student registration. Teachers, register early. Fee, small. Address, with stamp.
AMERICAN BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Cole Building, Nashville, Tenn.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Southern Insurance Company
OF NEW ORLEANS.
54 CAMP STREET 54
Paid up Capital, $300,000. Assets, $439,684.14.
FIRE, RIVER AND MARINE INSURANCE.
This company by its conservative, yet liberal, business methods, and the immediate availability of its assets, affords complete security to its insured. Losses promptly adjusted and paid.
ERNEST MILTENBERGER, President. H. GALLY, Vice-President. SCOTT McGEHEE, Secretary.
FINANCE COMMITTEE.
John T. Monroe, Jr., A. H. Menge, M. Schwabacher, F. G. Ernst, T. J. Woodward.

B. D. WOOD & SONS,
113 Common Street.
COAL AND COKE
We are prepared to furnish Families, Planters, Foundries, Steamships, Steamboats and all consumers of Coal or Coke at Lowest Market Rates.

A PURELY VEGETABLE COMPOUND
Our Safe Family Doctor. A Safe and Reliable Remedy in all Cases.
A Complete Family Medicine. Perfect Substitute for Calomel.
The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Bilious Diseases.
MALARIA ERADICATOR AND LIVER REGULATOR
The most effective preparation known for removing bile from the system, and restoring the normal action of the liver and the kidneys. It has a rapid alterative and sedative effect upon the system. It renovates it and restores it to a healthy vigor. It increases the appetite and aids in the digestion and assimilation of the food. It can be given with
PERFECT SAFETY
to children or adults of any age in all cases where there is a derangement of the system.
It has been used with most wonderful effect in
Colds, Bilious Colic, Cholera, Bilious Fever, Malaria Fevers, Diarrhœa, General Debility, Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Headache, &c.
Manufactured only by the Medicine Co., Lake Charles, La. Sold in 25c. and 50c. packages by all leading druggists. This medicine costs less than one cent per average dose. It should be kept in every family.
For a FREE TRIAL PACKAGE send a 2-cent stamp to MEDICINE CO., LAKE CHARLES, LA.

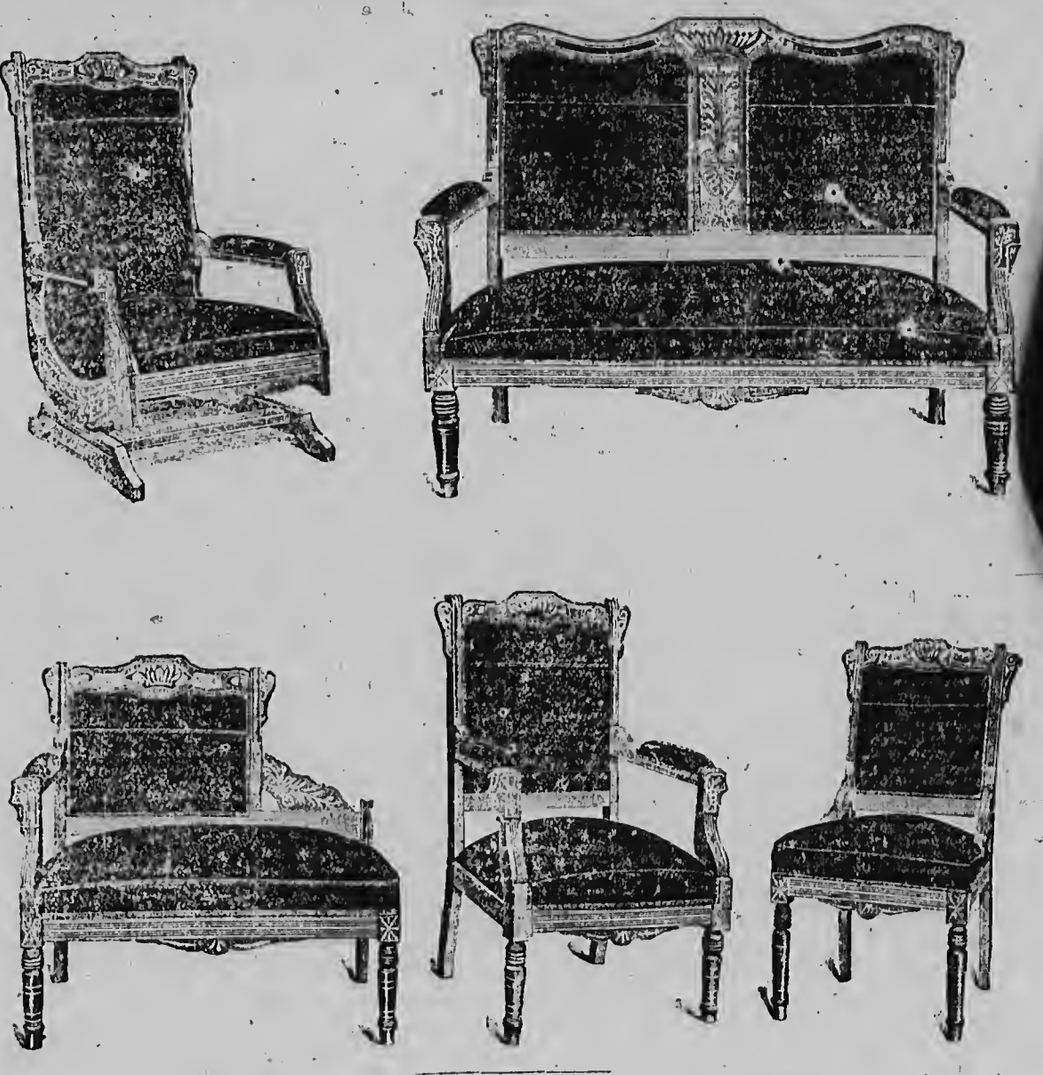
GRANT'S
FURNITURE HOUSE.



$35.00
Buys a beautiful Crimson Plush Parlor Suit, in five pieces, as shown in illustration. Solid Walnut Frame, Hand-carved and Rubbed Oil Polish. Same suit in Hair Cloth, $55.

$45.00
Buys the same suit in five pieces, covered in Silk Plush, all one color, in either of the following: Crimson, Old Gold, Olive, Peacock Blue or Maroon; or the same set made up in all the above colors.

$55.00
Buys the suit in ten pieces, including the five pieces here shown, one more Sofa and four Parlor Chairs covered in plush.

$65.00
Buys the same set—ten pieces—covered in Silk Plush—all one color, or five different colors.

Plush Rockers, Reception Chairs, Reed and Rattan Rockers, Fancy Tables in Walnut, Mahogany, Oak and Cherry.

$20.00
Buys a French Bed-Room Set.

$69.50
Buys a beautiful Victoria Bed-Room Set, in imitation Walnut, Marble-top—twelve pieces—as follows: Bedstead, Dresser, Washstand, Armoir, four Cane-seat Chairs, one Cane-seat Rocker, one Towel Rack, one Spring, and one Centre Table.

$95.00
Buys a magnificent Black Walnut Bed-Room Set, Marble-Top, Satin Tester, brass rods—twelve pieces as above.

$19.00
Buys a Dining-Room Set, including Sideboard, Extension Table, and six Cane-seat Chairs.

$22.00
Buys a Kitchen Set, including a first-class Stove with Utensils, Kitchen Safe, Kitchen Table, four Kitchen Chairs.

Office and Library Furniture in large variety.
CARPETS—Ingrain, Brussels and Velvets.
Rugs, Portiere and Lace Curtains in all styles and at all prices.

☞Figures talk; and if you doubt, call and inspect the goods. Everything else proportionately cheap. Stock complete with the latest designs and fresh from the best factories. Call and examine, and I guarantee polite attention, reliable goods, fair dealing and bottom prices at the Cheapest FURNITURE HOUSE in NEW ORLEANS.

J. G. GRANT, 50 and 52 Baronne Street.
☞Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

EDUCATIONAL.

Elfinwood Select School.

The undersigned proposes to open, January 1st, 1889, a Select school for young ladies at his residence, near Gaydra, on the L., N. O. and T. R'y, in the parish of East Feliciana, limited to twelve pupils. Every advantage will be afforded that can be found in the first girls' Colleges in the land. All persons desiring their daughters thoroughly educated will do well to make early application to me at Gaydra, La.

Terms moderate.

Edwin H. Fay, A. M.

When writing, mention this paper.

A ROAD TO SUCCESS.

One of the grand avenues to successful business life leads through

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

where every student buys and sells, receives and pays, corresponds, calculates, attends Business Lectures, forms and dissolves co-partnerships, keeps books and transacts business in the same manner as do Merchants, Manufacturers, Bankers, etc., in daily business.

This renowned and progressive Institution has for the past thirty-two years enjoyed the confidence and support of the discerning public for its faithful, high-grade, practical education.

Soule College has also Higher English, Academical, Mathematical, Shorthand and Type-writing Schools. For catalogues address,

GEN. SOULE, President,
183 St. Charles Street, New Orleans, La.

N. B.—Soule's New Science and Practice of Accounts (416 pp.) and Soule's Philosophic Work on Practical Mathematics (880 pp.) are replete with expert and practical accounting and with the highest work and the rarest gems of the sciences of which they treat. Price $5 each. For sale at the College office.

Mention this Paper.

Leche's Graded Institute.

DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL.

Seventh Session Opens Monday, September 10, 1888.

English, French, Latin, German, Drawing, Shorthand, Type-writing. For prospectus address A. S. LECHE, 7 Prytania street.

Mention this paper.

Mansfield Female College,

MANSFIELD, LA.

One of the most celebrated Institutions of the South. The Thirty-Fourth Session will begin September 19, 1888, with a full corps of able and experienced faculty. Curriculum comprehensive. Instruction thorough. Advantages in Music unsurpassed, as in the best conservatories. Departments of Fine Arts and Industrial Arts under specialists.

Beautiful location; one of the healthiest of the South. The best climate in which to educate and the safest place for girls. Main building of brick, massive and commodious, with a large and well-shaded campus. Rooms large, well furnished, ventilated and warmed. Ample provision for table of the best the market affords. All necessary comfort secured. Expenses very low and the school very economical.

For particulars address

A. D. M'VOY, A. M., Pres.
PROF. D. F. HUDDLE, Sec.

Centenary College

JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college is expected to enter upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley Jackson, La., or to W. L. C. Hunnicutt, President.

Weekly Market Review.

(For Week Ending December 18, 1888.)

COTTON.

Low ordinary	7 1-16	@— —
Ordinary	7 9-16	— —
Good ordinary	8 3-16	— —
Low middling	9 7-16	— —
Middling	9 7-16	— —
Good middling	10 1-16	— —
Middling fair	10 13-16	— —
Fair	11 11-16	— —
Galveston middling	9 9-16	— —
Mobile middling	9⅜	— —
St. Louis middling	9½	— —

SUGAR.

OPEN KETTLE:
Prime	4 13-16	— —
Fully fair	4 11-16	4¾
Good fair	— —	— —
Common	3¼	4⅜
CENTRIFUGAL:
Seconds	4⅝	5⅛
Pr. yellow	6	— —
Gray White	6⅛	6¼
Choice white	6½	6 9-16
Stan. Gran.	7¼	— —

MOLASSES.

OPEN KETTLE:
Fancy	— —	42
Fair	23	25
Good Common	22	24
Syrup	28	32

RICE.

Head	5¼	5⅜
Good	4⅞	5
Fair	4⅝	4⅞
Good	3¾	4
No. 2	2⅝	2¼
Polish, per ton	14 00	15 00
Rough, ℔ bbl	2 50	4 10

FLOUR.

Extra Fancy	5 15	5 25
Fancy	4 65	4 75
Choice	4 25	4 40
Minnesota patents	7 00	7 25
Extra fancy	5 50	5 62½
Winter wheat patents	5 87½	6 12½
Minnesota bakers	5 40	6 60

CORN PRODUCTS.

Corn meal	2 15	2 25
Cream meal	2 50	2 60
Grits	2 85	2 90
Hominy	3 00	— —

PROVISIONS.

PORK:
Mess (Standard)	14 75	— —
Prime Mess	14 50	— —
Rumps	— —	14 00
DRY SALT MEAT:
Shoulders	7	7⅛
Sides, long clear	7¾	7⅞
Sides, short rib	7¾	8
BACON:
Fancy breakfast	11	12½
Shoulders	8	— —
Sides, long clear	9	— —
Sides, short rib	9⅛	9¼
HAMS:
Sugar-cured	11½	12

GROCERIES.

COFFEE:
Prime	18¼	18½
Fair	17¼	17½
Common	14¾	15
TEAS:
Choice	40	80
Fair	24	35
BUTTER:
Western Creamery	36	— —
Western Dairy	19	21
Common	— —	18
LARD:
Refined	8⅛	8¼
OILS:
Coal, bbls	11¾	— —
Coal, cases	16	17
Cotton seed, crude	— —	40
Lard, Extra No. 1	70	75

VEGETABLES.

CABBAGES:
Western, per head	4	5
Chicago, per 100	— —	— —
Louisiana, ℔ crate	— —	— —
POTATOES:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 40	— —
KROUT:
Western, ℔ bbl	3 50	— —
ONIONS:
New Louisiana	— —	— —
Western	1 50	1 60

SUNDRIES.

POULTRY:
Old Hens, Western	3 25	3 50
Young Chickens	1 75	2 50
Chickens, South'n	3 00	3 25
Young	1 75	2 00
Turkeys, Southern	9 00	10 00
EGGS:
Western	18	20
Southern	— —	23
WOOL:
Lake, per ℔	— —	22½
Louisiana	21½	— —
Burry	12	15
COUNTRY HIDES:
Green salted, ℔ ℔	3	4
Dry salted	5	— —
FERTILIZERS:
Cotton seed, ℔ ton	11 00	— —
Meal	21 00	— —
Pure ground bone	30 00	— —
Muriatic acid, ℔ ℔	2½	— —
Sulphuric acid	2	— —

Prevent Attacks of Fever.

We ask but a glance at this, and it will pay any sufferer from liver complaint, enlarged spleen or ague cake, bilious affections of any kind, deranged secretions, prostration from dissipation, constipation, dropsy, or any affections where liver, bowels, blood and stomach are involved. A guaranteed cure for all this class of diseases is offered in A. C. Maguire's Cundurango. Doctors are astonished and invalids delighted.

Burlington Route Daily Excursions to the Pacific Coast, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

Railroad ticket agents of the Eastern, Middle and Western States will sell, on any date, via the Burlington Route from Chicago, Peoria or St. Louis, round-trip tickets at low rates to San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, or Victoria; also to Denver, Cheyenne, Colorado Springs, or Pueblo. For a special folder giving full particulars of these excursions, call on your local ticket agent, or address P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Ag't, C., B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill.

J. A. Brasselman & Co

We call special attention to the advertisement of the above firm, which is one of the most reliable in this city.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

It is believed that the President will veto the direct tax bill. If not, Louisiana will be credited with $385,886. She was one of the few States wherein the whole amount imposed was collected. Mississippi collected $113,324 and owes $299,750.

The Southern Interstate Immigration Convention, which was held in Montgomery, Ala., adjourned on December 13. A permanent Bureau of Immigration will be established in each Southern State. New Orleans and Savannah were selected as ports of entry for immigrants.

The New York Board of Apportionment has been urged to set apart $250,000 for a soldiers' monument in that city. For such a purpose the entire Board must agree, and Mayor Hewitt declined to vote for the project because he "did not believe in compulsory patriotism."

President-elect Harrison has been invited to attend the centennial celebration of Washington's first inauguration in Philadelphia, on April 29-30 next, and also to refer to the observance of the event in his inaugural message. President Cleveland and Cabinet have also been invited.

At 2:30 o'clock P. M., December 14, as the steamboat "Hornet" was about to make a landing at Big Bend landing, on the Atchafalaya, one mile and a half from the mouth, she was caught by a strong wind, which thanked her in against the bank and caused her to hit some hidden obstruction. She was run beside the bank and sunk. All the passengers were saved.

The north-bound train on the Illinois Central road was robbed, near Duck Hill, Miss., on the the fifteenth, at 10:15 P. M. The express messenger was robbed of $3,000 by two men. A passenger who assisted the conductor in resisting the highwaymen was fired upon and killed.

Over 200 deaths from diptheria have occurred in the vicinity of Albuquerque, N. M., in the past few weeks, and the breaking out of small-pox has caused much additional alarm.

A constable's posse was fired upon by a band of negroes in ambush, at Wahalak, Miss., on December 16. Five white men were killed and six wounded.

FOREIGN.

The French have broken up a band of Chinese pirates at Tonquin. A number of captured pirates were shot and a portion of the town was destroyed by fire.

It is officially stated that the Pope does not intend to leave Rome, nor has he thought of taking such a step.

A letter has been received at Suakim from Osman Digna, containing the announcement that Emin Pasha and a white traveler (presumably Stanley) had fallen into the hands of the Mahdi. Proofs of the capture have been sent. It is rumored that Osman Digna in his letter expressed a willingness to surrender Emin Pasha and his whole company provided Egypt would agree to abandon Suakim. If this proposal is not accepted, it is believed that both captives will be killed. The British Cabinet is now discussing the situation.

In the Chamber of Deputies, on December 14, M. Peytral, Minister of Finance, submitted a bill authorizing the postponement for three months of the Panama Canal Company's liabilities, including interest and the redemption of bonds. The proposed delay would give time to consider fresh arrangements for relieving the company's embarrassments.

In the House of Commons, on December 14, Mr. Smith, the government leader, replying to Mr. Wilfred Lawson, said that so far as was known to the government the letter written by Osman Digna announces the surrender of Emin Pasha and a white traveler. The government had no means of knowing whether those allegations were well founded.

Emperor William continues to work hard. He receives Gens. Von Waldersee and Von Wittich daily. It is reported that the latter is engaged in explaining in minute detail the possibility of Germany sustaining a war against France and Russia simultaneously.

Mr. Gladstone, in a speech on December 15, said it was folly to hope to govern Ireland in a manner opposed to the constitutionally declared and overwhelming sense of the country. The present time afforded a golden opportunity to alter the present system, when moderation and wisdom were being shown by the people of Ireland and their representatives in Parliament.

The Panama Canal Bill Committee has rejected the counter-scheme mentioned by M. Peytral for the constitution of a new company. The committee will report to the Chamber of Deputies that in their opinion the Chamber has no right to legislate upon such matters. When M. De Lesseps heard of the rejection of the Panama Canal Bill, his face blanched and his hands became icy cold. He soon recovered his usual calmness, however, and spoke sadly of the wrecks and of the fearful disasters to himself and to the nation.

Terrible storms have been raging for three days in the department of Pyrenees Orientals, France, flooding villages and causing wrecks and loss of life.

A meeting of Panama Canal shareholders will be held in Paris at the end of the week. The rejection of the Panama Canal Bill by the Chamber of Deputies has given rise to a threatening agitation in the provinces.

"We Paint with Pride"

To the "Good name at home," won by Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is prepared, there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold than of all other medicines, and it has given the best of satisfaction since its introduction ten years ago. This could not be if the medicine did not possess merit. If you suffer from impure blood, try Hood's Sarsaparilla and realize its peculiar curative power.

The Le Conte Pear.

An extensive fruit-grower and nursery-man, residing near Thomasville, Ga., in a communication to Col. W. R. Stuart, of Ocean Springs, Miss., gives the following interesting account of the Le Conte pear, which will doubtless prove valuable to the readers of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE who propose to plant an orchard. This, with the Kelffer, another variety of the same extraction and possessing like characteristics, are of doubtless the beginning of a new race of pears. Southern origin which will go far toward solving the problem of successful fruit-growing in the Gulf States. Col. Stuart informs us that he has been appointed sole agent for the sale of these valuable trees in the States of Louisiana and Mississippi:

ORIGIN OF THE LE CONTE PEAR.

The two Le Conte pear trees first brought to Georgia were introduced by Major John Le Conte, from whom it takes its name. It was in the year 1856, and these two trees stand to-day vigorous and healthy, and are abundant bearers. It is not known from where these trees sprang, but it is conceded they are a hybrid between the sand pear and some other variety (perhaps the Bartlett). It is certain they can not be traced beyond the two original trees, and it is from them that have sprung the valuable orchards around Thomasville, Ga. The Le Conte is practically blight proof. It is a rapid grower and an abundant bearer, and grows at ten years old to the height of thirty feet, with spread of branches about the same, and with a trunk the diameter of which is about fifteen inches. A tree of this age and size on good ground usually bears from ten to twenty-five bushels. The fruit ripens in July and August, the season being about six weeks in which to market it. The fruit is large and handsome and is a good shipper, and has brought very satisfactory prices in the market up to date. The writer affirms that 300 Le Contes produced fruit this season that netted $1,800. The writer himself shipped and sold, from less than two acres of sandy ground, this year, over $700 worth of pears net, after paying the transportation companies $2 80 freight. Think of this, farmers—300 trees netting more money than an ordinary large cotton and corn farm! Think of it, railroad men—two acres of fruit paying you more money for transportation than 100 acres planted in cotton! Farmers should diversify their crops if they would succeed. The all-cotton and corn and all-sugar and rice system has kept them poor. Fruit can be grown about our homes and on our farms with very little expense if the proper kind of trees are set. I am aware that thousands of dollars have been spent for worthless nursery stock and our people have met with little success, but it is because they buy trees not suited to our climate. If they will plant the Le Conte and Kelffer pear and plant the Japan varieties of fruit trees and give them proper attention, the South can grow fruit enough to supply the world."

East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R.,

Well known as the Great Keunesaw Route, is now making twelve hours quicker time to Washington via New York and eastern points, with Pullman Buffet Sleepers from New Orleans to Washington without change. The mountain resorts of East Tennessee are reached in twenty-four hours, and Virginia resorts in thirty hours. For tickets, sleeping accommodation, circulars, schedule, etc., call at Kennesaw ticket office, 22 Carondelet street.

Messrs. A. Brousseau's Sons,

This is one of the largest, as well as one of the oldest and most reliable carpet houses in the South. Orders from the country receive the most careful attention. Send a diagram of your room or rooms, giving length and width. State the kind of carpet, or about the price you wish to pay per yard, and you will get the exact cost of what you want. See advertisement in another column.

A Christmas Gift

selected from the large and handsome stock of Messrs. A. B. Griswold & Co., 119 Canal street, New Orleans, will be sure to delight and please. Established in 1817, the house has steadily built up a trade that extends all over the South. Send for their illustrated catalogue, and make your selection.

Millinery.

The ladies of New Orleans appreciate the style and excellence of millinery to be found at Mrs. Hardon's, 29 Chartres street; and our friends outside of the city will find their orders carefully and promptly attended to by sending them direct to this estimable lady.

N. C. Y. L.

Second term of Nashville (Tennessee) College for Young Ladies opens January 19, 1889. Now is the time to secure good rooms and reasonable rates. Three buildings; 20 officers; 304 pupils. All first-class facilities. Address

REV. GEO. W. F. PRICE, D. D.,
President.

RUSSELL, N. Y., April 20, 1888.

Bird Food Co., 400 N. 3rd St., Phila., Pa.—

DEAR SIRS: Enclosed please find 20 cents. Send me two boxes of your Bird Manna. I have used two boxes, and want two more. Am using all my influence to get my friends to use it. I find it satisfactory in every respect.

REV. MRS. L. M. SMITH.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Winchester, at Big Rock	Dec. 29, 30
Waynesboro and State Line, at W	30, 31
Clarke, at Liberty	Jan. 5, 6
Shubuta, at DeSoto	6, 7
Enterprise, at Enterprise	9
Sandersville, at Sandersville	12, 13
Vossburg, at Vossburg (Mon.)	14
Paulding, at Rose Hill	19, 20
Meridian circuit, at Sageville	26, 27
Meridian—West End	27, 28
Meridian station (7 P. M.)	30
Marion, at Marion (Fri.)	Feb. 1
Lauderdale, at Lauderdale	2, 3
Illinsville, at Old Scooba (Sat.)	9
DeKalb, at DeKalb	10, 11
Spring Hill, at Spring Hill	16, 17
Lenoxville	23, 24
Union, at Hopewell	Mar. 2, 3

District stewards will please meet me in Methodist Church, Meridian, nine A. M., Wednesday, January 30, 1889. Pastors requested to be present.

H. D. NORSWORTHY, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Jackson station	Dec. 29, 30
West Jackson	29, 30
Madison, at Madison	Jan. 5, 6
Canton, at Canton	12, 13
Sharon, at Mt. Pleasant	19, 20
Camden, at Cole Chapel	26, 27
Yazoo City, at Yazoo City	Feb. 2, 3
Benton, at Bowman's	9, 10
Yazoo circuit	16, 17
Silver Creek, at Silver City	23, 24
Mt. Olivet, at Satartia	Mar. 2, 3
Flora, at Bentonia	9, 10
Raymond, at Bolton	16, 17
Edwards, at Edwards	23, 24
Spring Ridge, at Oak Hill	30, 31

The district stewards will meet in the Sunday-school room of the Methodist Church at Jackson on Wednesday, January 9, 1889, at ten o'clock A. M.

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Port Gibson	Dec. 22, 23
Utica	29, 30
Fayette	Jan. 5, 6
Mayersville	12, 13
Rocky Springs, at Willow Springs	19, 20

JOHN A. ELLIS, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Pannin, at Pelahatchie	Dec. 29, 30
Brandon, at Brandon	Jan. 5, 6
Newton, at Hickory	12 13
Lake, at Lake	19, 20
Forest and Morton, at Zion Grove	26, 27
Neshoba, at Hester's Chapel	Feb. 2, 3
Philadelphia, at Pine Grove	4
Carthage, at Carthage	9, 10
Walnut Grove, at Walnut Grove	16, 17
Hillsboro, at Hillsboro	17, 18
Trenton, at Trenton	23, 24
Wyatville, at Gibson's Chapel	Mar. 2, 3
Strong River, at Goshen	4
Marvin, at Marvin	9, 10
Shiloh, at Clear Creek	16, 17
Mt. Rose, at Raleigh	23, 24

District stewards will meet in Forest, January 8, 1889.

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Covington, at Covington	Dec. 20
Tallsherk, at Hickory Grove	23, 23
Pearlington, at Pearlington	29, 30
Bay St. Louis, at Bay St. Louis	Jan. 1
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs	2
Scranton, at Scranton	4
Moss Point, at Moss Point	5, 6
Americus, at Caswell Springs	8
Vancleave, at Shiloh	10
Whittington, at Coleville	12, 13
Augusta, at Enon	15
Bethel, at Hebron	19, 20
Mt. Carmel, at Santee	23
Columbia, at Columbia	26, 27
Hattiesburg, at Estabuchia	Feb. 2, 3

T. S. WEST, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Brookhaven	Dec. 22, 23
Crystal Springs	29, 30
Summit, at Bogue Chitto	Jan. 5, 6
Hazlehurst	12, 13
McComb City, at Magnolia	19, 20
Gallman, at Bethesda	26, 27
Bowerton, at Brandywine	Feb. 2, 3
Providence, at Lahala Chapel	9, 10
Scotland, at Sweetwater	16, 17
Franklinton, at Magee's Chapel	23, 24
New Hope, at Adams	Mar. 2, 3
Holmesville, at Sarthis	9, 10
Adams, at Adams	16, 17
Topisaw, at Tilton	23, 24

The district stewards and the district trustees will meet in the Methodist Church in Brookhaven, Miss., January 11, at ten A. M.

W. B. LEWIS, P. E.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, published by Munn & Co., New York, during more than forty years, is, beyond all question, the leading paper relating to science, mechanics and inventions, published on this continent. Each weekly issue presents the latest scientific topics in an interesting and reliable manner, accompanied with engravings prepared expressly to demonstrate the subjects. The SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is invaluable to every person desiring to keep pace with the inventions and discoveries of the day.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Pecan and Pear Trees

FOR SALE.

Paper-Shell Pecans

—AND—

LeConte, Keiffer and Bartlett Pear Trees

FOR SALE.

W. R. STUART,
Ocean Springs, Miss.

Mention the ADVOCATE when you write.

MARVELOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY.

Four Books Learned in One Reading.

A Year's Work Done in Ten Days.

Mind wandering cured.
Speaking without Notes.
Wholly unlike artificial Systems.
Great inducements to correspondence classes.

Prospectus, with opinions of Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, the world-famed Specialist in Mind Diseases; Daniel Greenleaf Thompson, the great Psychologist; J. M. Buckley, D. D., Editor of the Christian Advocate; Richard Proctor, the Scientist; Hons. Judge Gibson, Judah P. Benjamin, and others.

From the Chaplain of Exeter College, and Houghton Syriac Prizeman, Oxford.

Coll. Exon. Oxon., Sept., 1888.

Dear Sir:—In April, 1885, I suddenly received notice that my ordination examination would be held in a fortnight. I had only ten (10) days in which to prepare for the Exam. I should recommend a year's preparation in the case of any one so much unprepared as I was; but your System had so strengthened my natural memory that I was able to remember and give the gist of any book after reading it once, i. e., therefore, read Lightfoot, Proctor, Hacold, Browne, Stoshetor, &c., &c., once and was successful in every one of the nine papers. The present Bishop of Edinburg knows the facts.

Faithfully yours,

[Rev.] JAMES MIDDLETON MACDONALD, [M. A.]

To Prof. A. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

☞ This System is thoroughly taught by correspondence. Send for prospectus.

CHRISTMAS on WHEELS,

R. P. RANDALL,
54 & 56 Baronne.

KNABE PIANO FORTES

UNEQUALLED IN

Tone, Touch, Workmanship and Durability

WILLIAM KNABE & CO.,
BALTIMORE, 22 and 24 East Baltimore STREET.
NEW YORK, 112 Fifth Av. WASHINGTON, 817 Market Space

Mention this paper.

ALL BOOKS at Wholesale to members of the Book Buyer's Bureau. Membership free. AGENTS WANTED to solicit members. Send 2c stamp for catalogue and information to R. H. Woodward & Co., Baltimore, Md.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FULL WEIGHT PURE

Dr. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE

its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the heads of the Great Universities as the Strongest, Purest and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime or Alum. Sold only in Cans.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO.
NEW YORK. CHICAGO. ST. LOUIS.

LOUISIANA STEAM SASH, BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY,

299, 301, 303, 305, 307 Gravier Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERTS & CO., Proprietors.

Sash, Blinds, Doors, Mouldings, Flooring and Ceiling, Newels, Balusters, etc., always on hand, or made to order.

Orders promptly attended to.

Plantation Cabins a Specialty.

BRANCH OFFICE: No. 52 CARONDELET ST.

G. WOLF,

—MANUFACTURER OF—

GENTS' BOOTS and SHOES

(Formerly of 159 Common Street)

54 ST. CHARLES STREET,

Bet. Commercial Alley and Gravier St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Orders promptly attended to.

E. A. SEMINARY,

On the V., S. and P. Railroad, Midway from Monroe to Shreveport, La., at

ARCADIA, LA.

A school for girls and boys. Course of study ample and practical. Discipline not excelled. Training thorough. Full and able corps of teachers. Board and tuition reasonable. Religious and moral surroundings excellent.

Fall Term begins September 3.
Spring Term begins January 21, 1889.
Commencement, June 6, 1889.

$75 pays entire expenses—board, books, tuition and fees—of a complete English course for one term of twenty weeks.

Catalogues give full explanation.

Address
R. A. SMITH, Principal,
Arcadia, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE.

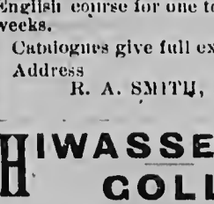
FOUNDED 1849.

In an East Tennessee community of farmers. Beautiful scenery, fresh breezes, pure water, wholesome diet, vigorous health, cultured society, moral surroundings, economic habits. One of the best places in the world for young men and boys. Fourteen States represented here last year. Experienced teachers. Instruction thorough. Rates reasonable. Send for catalogue. Our postoffice is Hiwassee College, Tenn., seven miles from Sweetwater Station, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R. Mails twice a day.

J. H. BRUNNER, Pres.
G. W. RIDDLESTON, Sec.

☞ OVER 6,000,000 people believe that it pays best to buy Seeds of the largest and most reliable house, and they use

Ferry's Seeds



Earliest Cauliflower in existence.

D. M. FERRY & CO. are acknowledged to be the Largest Seedsmen in the world. D. M. FERRY & CO.'s Illustrated, Descriptive and Priced SEED ANNUAL For 1889 Will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to last year's customers without ordering it. Every person using Garden, Field or Flower seeds should send for it. Address

D. M. FERRY & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Artificial Limbs,

Trusses and Surgical Appliances Made to Order and Adjusted

—BY—

A. McDERMOTT,

200 - - - ST. CHARLES STREET - - - 206

Bet. Julia and St. Joseph

The Great Church LIGHT.

FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Safest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl Street, N. Y.